A REMARKABLE CURE

OF A TERRIBLE CASE OF PILES OF FORTY YEARS STANDING EFFECTED BY DR. LIGHTHILL OF NO. 144 CRESCENT AVENUE, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

OVER TWO SCORE DEAD

Many Victims of the Flood at Pueblo.

Feared That Some of the Bodies Will Never Be Recovered—Awful Scenes of Destruction—Waters Again Rising—The Flood Reaches Denver—People Driven From Their Homes.

PUEBLO, Col., June 1.—The cloudburst which sent a vast torrent of water down the valley and into this city caused many deaths and rendered widespread destruction. The work of rescue had just begun when a recurrence of the flood caused a suspension of the work, and it is feared that many bodies which were washed away and under debris will never be recovered.

The list of the dead and missing compiled this morning number over two score.

A company of California Coxeyites, numbering 60, who came from the west yesterday and were camped on the river bank, report that five of their comrades are missing.

Grave fears are expressed for 12 families of squatters on an island down the river. There is no means of reaching these people at present.

The catastrophe, similar to the Johnstown horror and remarkable from having occurred on the same day of the year, has utterly prostrated the citizens and paralyzed business. The property loss will be about $600,000.

At midnight both the Arkansas and Fountain rivers were rising rapidly and rain is still falling in torrents, and many fear a repetition of Wednesday night's horror.

The city was again in darkness last night and the situation was one of terror.

When day broke yesterday the scene which greeted the frightened residents was appalling. On every hand was destruction and ruin. The carcasses of horses, cows, sheep, dogs and other animals were floating around in the whirling water and the current in many places could not be stemmed on account of drifting debris.

Cellars and the first floor of business houses were covered with from 18 inches to three feet of slimy mud and this has about completed the ruin of many stocks which might have escaped with only the soaking of the flood.

Street cars were found all over town and in places where tracks had never been laid. Trees were uprooted and fences swept away by the torrent which bore on its crest houses, barns and everything that would float.

About 300 houses were torn from their foundations and many floated out of town.

A visit to the women and children who were rendered homeless, and who are now quartered in the various halls of the city, finds them as comfortable as could be expected under the trying circumstances.

The Opera House has been thrown into an immense nursery and some 175 babies and their mothers are located in the large hall.

The armory of the second regiment has been turned over to the citizens relief committee, who have put in all the cots and beds that could be gathered. This huge dormitory is occupied by over 300 girls and women.

The top floor of the city hall has been turned over to fifty families who are cooking the provisions provided by the citizens for all the sufferers.

The town hall at Bessemer, where the smelters are situated, contains about 150 families who are cared for by the neighbors. Every house in town that is not in danger has been thrown open to shelter the homeless and the women are cooking for them.

Late last evening, when the city had begun to recover from Wednesday night's catastrophe, the rain again began coming down in sheets, the precipitation being heavier than that which preceded the cloudbursts. Reports came in from Florence and Canon City to the effect that the rain storm there was terrific. The water in the Arkansas began to rise at once and in one hour the gauge recorded a rise of one foot.

Seventy-five feet of the east approach to the Fourth street viaduct caved in shortly after midnight. The west bank of the Arkansas at this point is being rapidly eaten away by the angry waters.

FLOOD AT DENVER.

People Warned By Whistles of Approaching Danger.

DENVER, June 1.—At midnight the whistle at the Denver Paper mills, south of the city, began to blow to warn the residents on the Platte river bottoms to seek higher ground. The river has been steadily rising at the rate of from four to six inches an hour and is now outside its banks and the water is backed up to the Rio Grande railroad shops at Burnham. The thousand Coxeyites in River Front Park have been warned out. At Jerome park the residents sought refuge in a school house in the flooded districts, but it is thought that all will be rescued.

Relay Bicycle Race.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The great tri-state (New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey) relay bicycle race of 150 miles, between New York and Philadelphia, will be run to-morrow. It will be under the management of the Atalanta Bicycle club, of New ark, and is to be a trial of endurance without the injurious strain of a race absolutely against time. The arrangements for the race are all perfected, although this state has not yet named her team.

Result of Coal Famine.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1.—Owing to the scarcity of coal the Illinois Central will discontinue two passenger trains on the Springfield & Gilman division and every freight train except one. The Wabash shops, employing nearly 1,000 men, closed and every freight train not absolutely necessary will be abandoned. Within one week it is thought every industry in Springfield will be at a standstill for lack of coal.

Found Cuddled Up in Leaves.

NORTHPORT, N. Y., June 1.—The young child of D. M. Nichols, of Commacks, who has been lost since Monday last, was found about two miles from its home cuddled up in leaves and unconscious by Stockton Van Brunt. Mr. Van Brunt carried the child home where it regained consciousness and asked for something to eat. It will recover.

MEANS A GREAT DEAL

The Hawaiian Resolution Adopted By the Senate.

So Says a Member of the Foreign Relations Committee—A Warning to Other Countries That They Must Keep Their Hands Off the Little Government or Get Into Trouble.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—"The resolution passed by the senate yesterday regarding the policy of the United States towards the Hawaiian islands, which clearly declares that it belongs wholly to the people of those islands to establish and maintain their own form of government and domestic policy, that the United States ought not to interfere therewith, and that any intervention in the political affairs of the islands by any other government would be regarded as an act unfriendly to the United States, means a great deal," said a member of the foreign relations committee this morning.

"It is an admonition that this government has cast about that little government the moral protection of its flag, and that any effort on the part of other powers to interfere will be an act we will not stand. No nation, however powerful, can fail to interpret the meaning of the resolution we this morning passed by a unanimous vote."

Some weeks ago, when Mr. Turpie introduced his resolution, in which he declared that it was inexpedient at this time for the United States to consider the subject of annexation, it was referred to the foreign relations committee, and there at once sprung up a spirited discussion over it. Mr. Dolph was opposed to that particular part of the resolution, and Senator Davis, who was absent, failed to have an opportunity to discuss it with his colleagues.

The resolution was, however, reported in this objectionable form, as some members of the committee considered it. When this was done, Mr. Davis notified the members of the committee that he would antagonize it, and the idea of modifying his resolution was suggested to Mr. Turpie, with the assurance that unless it was so modified it could never pass. Thus it happened yesterday that Mr. Turpie drew up a modified form of his resolution in which he omitted all reference to annexation, and circulated it among the members of the committee. It received their approval, and when reported received the unanimous vote of the senate.

This action will support the existing government in Hawaii and disabuse the minds of those who have been led to believe that the United States intends to restore the queen to her throne. It will certainly be encouraging to the provisional government, which has just held its election for a constitutional convention.

The subject of annexation, whenever that subject shall be brought again to the attention of the American people, can be handled without the embarrassment of any previous action on the part of the senate either one way or the other.

"GEN." KELLY'S TROUBLES.

A Warrant Charging Him With Assault With Intent to Kill.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—A warrant has been issued in this city charging Charles T. Kelly, the aeronaut, and admiral general of the industrial army with assault with intent to kill Patrick Hardimann, one of his followers.

Hardimann claims that Kelly beat him with an iron rod while floating down the Mississippi last Tuesday.

Tom Coyne, one of the glee club singers, who was "marooned" by Kelly on an island in the river a few miles below Quincy, and his boat destroyed, has applied for a warrant against Kelly for the loss of his boat.

To add to the doughty general's rapidly accumulating troubles, Col. Speed, who was expelled at Quincy, Ill., has caught up with it again and has succeeded in inducing companies A, B, C, H, N and D, of California to secede from the army and they are now encamped 450 yards below Kelly.

Damage to the Columbia.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Officials at the navy department were treated to a sensation about the new crack cruiser Columbia when the Selfridge inspection board finally handed in its voluminous report of the condition and performance of that vessel on the recent official trial trip. The secret has been well guarded by the few who had any knowledge of the fact, but the action of Acting Secretary McAdoo, in ordering the vessel into the dry dock at League island, shows that the authorities are going to lose no time in investigating the extent to which the vessel's hull has been damaged. It is understood that upon the result of the examination ordered by Mr. McAdoo, a naval court martial will be ordered to fix the responsibility for no less an offence than that of running the magnificent racer aground and smashing a great dent in her side below the water line, destroying her fine lines and probably straining many of her ribs.

Turpin's Army Annihilator.

PARIS, June 1.—Le Temps publishes an interview with M. Turpin concerning his invention of an electric automatic mitrailleuse, which he was alleged to have sold to Germany. Turpin says that the invention was sold to a Belgian company. He thinks the weapon will be so destructive that wars will cease for lack of soldiers. Liquified gas is utilized in the machine, the projectiles being hurled with tremendous force to great distances, and from any height, the apparatus being such as to afford buoyancy.

Colonel Ainsworth Wins.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The second indictment against Col. Ainsworth, chief of the pension record division of the war department, for manslaughter in connection with improperly conducted repairs to the old Ford's theatre building, which resulted in its collapse and the death of twenty-two of the clerks, was quashed by Judge McComas on demurrer. This practically ends the prosecution of the case and secures Col. Ainsworth's release from his bonds.

Strange Disappearance.

ROME, N. Y., June 1.—A singular and unaccountable disappearance on Tuesday night of a woman aged 70 years from a farm in Westmoreland, five miles south of this city, is engaging the attention of the whole surrounding country, and 50 men are out searching the woods, fields, streams and buildings, so far without any clew. Miss Mary W. Armour lived with her unmarried brother Nicholas and maiden sister Catherine. They conducted a farm.

COXEY TIRED OF JAIL LIFE

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative Hudson (pop., Kan.), who has Coxey's petition for habeas corpus in charge, sent it to the jail for signature. He says he wishes to present it to one of the justices of the supreme court of the United States for approval.

Carl Browne has prepared a petition in his own behalf to the supreme court of the United States for the issue of a rule directed against himself that he appear before that court and show cause why he should be released from jail. The petition was accompanied by a letter to Justice Field.

The petition probably has no precedent, either in the manner of its presentation nor in the form of proceeding sought to be instituted. It is full of incomprehensible jargon, without making any pretense of complying with the ordinary forms of law.

It closes with the prayer: "That your honorable court will, without delay, have the said Carl Browne before your court, to show cause why he should be released on the foregoing grounds, as the inferior court arrogated to itself the jurisdiction of the highest court of a state and the appellate and supervisory jurisdiction of your honor's directly and according to precedent and your rules of court applies to the subject-matter, the person and the case."

It is signed "Carl Brown, for himself."

Coxey is growing very tired of jail life, and is said to be quite willing to quit if he can only get his liberty before the expiration of his 20 days' sentence, which has still nine days to run. This is indicated by his transferring his army to "Gen." Frye and sending all his best horses home to Massillon.

The Galvin contingent, added to the Coxey brigade, is proving a far more turbulent crowd of aggressive tramps and beggars. It is understood that on complaint of citizens the sheriff of the Maryland county where all the Coxeyites are now encamped, is contemplating a raid on them, and will have the active assistance of the governor of Maryland and of a company of state militia, if necessary, in carrying out his plans of ridding Maryland of the nuisance.

MRS. BRIGGS GOES TO EUROPE.

Another Chapter to Providence's Upper Society Scandal.

PROVIDENCE, June 1.—A sensation has been caused in upper society circles by the sudden departure for Europe of Mrs. Ella Briggs, wife of the wealthy jewelry manufacturer, George S. Briggs.

Mrs. Briggs was, not long ago, the respondent in a sensational divorce case, when the chief accusation was that she was too fond of her teacher of the French language, Prof. George Lair.

When it became evident that the scandal must be made public Prof. Lair abruptly left for Europe. Not long after his departure, and almost simultaneously with the filing of the divorce petition on behalf of Manufacturer Briggs in the supreme court here the report of Prof. Lair's death came from France.

The death of the professor has never been credited by either Manufacturer Briggs or any of his attorneys.

Lawyer Bassett, acting for Manufacturer Briggs, has ascertained that Mrs. Briggs went to Europe Wednesday last. He has been notified that Mrs. Briggs will forego the orders of the supreme court ordering her son into her custody on certain hours of two days each week.

Ever since the court refused the divorce Manufacturer Briggs has paid his wife $100 a month alimony, and she has lived in a swell east side boarding house. She comes of a Detroit family of some prominence, and her sister is the wife of C. D. Anderson, of Michigan, a reputed millionaire.

Too Stylishly Dressed.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 1.—The Putnam phalanx have declined the tendered escort of the first company Governor's Horse Guard on the occasion of the visit of the Worcester Continentals and Amoskeag Veterans, June 18. Objection was made by the first company Governor's Foot Guard, whose escort has been accepted, because of the Horse Guards' more modern uniform than that of the other organization, and the fact that no cavalry is desired in the parade.

New Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations of postmasters: Massachusetts, T. A. Hills, Leominster; New Jersey, Wm. Pollard, Dover; Pennsylvania, D. K. Hill, Leechburg; William Wallace, New Brighton; J. J. Pauley, Waynesburg.

Antietam Meeting Postponed.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 1.—Adj.-Gen. Greenland, a member of the Antietam Battlefield commission, has notified each member of the commission that the meeting called for June 5 has been postponed until a time to be selected by the Antietam board of the United States.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Senate Reaches the Sugar Schedule—State Bank Tax Repeal in House.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—After the adoption of the Hawaiian resolution by the senate the tariff bill was taken up, and, within an hour, the four paragraphs in the lumber schedule were disposed of. The first of the four, fixing duties on lumber, planed or finished, was by a vote of 35 to 24, struck out of the bill, so that such lumber may be put upon the free list when that stage of the bill is reached. The duty on shavecane, or reeds, was increased from 7 per cent. (as in the house bill) to 10 per cent., and the other duties in the schedule were left as in the house bill.

The sugar schedule (E) having been reached, a three-hour speech on the whole question of the tariff was made by Mr. Sherman (rep., Ohio).

Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) addressed the senate at great length on the subject of punishing for contempt of the senate the newspaper correspondents who had refused to answer certain questions of the committee investigating the connection of the sugar trust with the sugar schedule. No conclusion was reached when, at 6:05, the senate adjourned.

House of Representatives.

There were three more speeches upon the bill for the repeal of the state bank tax law delivered in the house after Mr. Black (dem., Ga.) had concluded his argument in favor of the repeal of the law, which he began on Tuesday. The speakers were Messrs. Walker, McLaurin and Wheeler. At the present rate of progress, judging from the length of the list of speakers who have already asked to be heard, the debate upon this measure is likely to last for a week or ten days yet.

A bill was passed before the discussion was entered upon authorizing the secretary of war to acquire by condemnation or other proceedings the ground necessary to complete the Gettysburg battlefield reservation.

STRONG PLEA FOR SILVER.

EDINBURGH, June 1.—"If silver continues to fall there is no reason why wheat should not cheapen indefinitely," said Henry Chaplin in an address before a convention of Scottish Chambers of Husbandry. Mr. Chaplin was president of the board of agriculture in Lord Salisbury's last ministry.

"We propose as a remedy," he continued, "an international agreement to revert to the system which prevailed prior to 1873.

"The fall of wheat from 1873 to 1893 was 40 per cent. The British commissioners studied the price of wheat in America in 1879, and believed it could never be exported cheaper than 40 shillings per quarter. But superior Indian wheat was sold last week in Hull for 19s. 3d. per quarter.

"Most farmers believe that the fall in prices is due to foreign competition and that the remedy is protection. But half the countries of the continent and the United States, while imposing the heaviest duties upon imported produce, complain of agricultural depression. American farmers are becoming bankrupt even faster than British farmers.

"Others contend that overproduction is responsible for the fall in prices, but statistics show that the production of wheat has decreased, and the prices have fallen.

"The real cause was the demonetization of silver in 1873 and the subsequent divergence of the relative values of metals which enabled silver-using countries like India to export wheat at the present low price."

Second Siamese Minister.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Marquis Maha Yotha, the new Siamese minister, who is also accredited to London, will be formally presented to the president to-day. He is the second envoy from the land of the white elephant who has visited Washington officially, his sole predecessor having been Prince Krom Vararidhi, the brother of the king, who was received by President Arthur May 6, 1884. The minister will remain here several months before going to London.

War on Tramps.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 1.—The tramp nuisance has become so annoying to farmers that an application was made to County Judge Beattie for relief. Upon instructions from the judge the sheriff, assisted by a number of deputies, made a raid on the tramps at Florida, capturing twenty-nine, fourteen of whom were lodged in jail. The raids will be continued until the farmers obtain relief from theft and trespass.

Mrs. Granger Granted a Divorce.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Judge Dugro has granted a decree of absolute divorce to Clara Louise Granger from Gideon Granger. She is a daughter of Police Commissioner McClave. Granger is the missing witness wanted by the Lexow committee, which is investigating the police department.

The Canadian Flag Incident.

TORONTO, Ont., May 31.—In the regimental orders issued Lieut.-Col. Hamilton of the Queen's Own rifles refers to the St. Thomas flag incident in these terms "He (the commanding officer) desires to congratulate the regiment upon the exemplary conduct of all ranks at St. Thomas on the queen's birthday, and while regretting that an unfortunate incident which has led to so much controversy has cast a cloud upon the name of the Queen's Own, he feels assured that if it can be proved that any men wearing the rifle green were guilty of the foolish act ascribed by some to members of the regiment, that none will desire but that the most condign punishment shall be visited on one and all who may have disgraced their uniform."

French Communists.

PARIS, June 1.—The communist committee held a meeting and resolved to visit the Pere la Chaise cemetery in a body every Sunday until they are allowed by the authorities to conduct an appropriate demonstration in memory of their dead comrades.

CARLISLE DENIES IT

Never Interceded in Behalf of the Sugar Trust.

The Secretary Appears Before the Senate Committee—Says He Gave Only Facts and Data Regarding the Sugar Schedule That Was Asked For—His Suggestions Not Adopted.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The senate sugar trust bribery committee has completed the examination of all the members of the finance committee, the last heard being Senators McPherson, Harris and Mills. Each of these gentlemen denied categorically the statements made in the letter of Mr. Edwards, to the effect that the secretary of the treasury had appeared before the committee and stated that the sugar trust had made large contributions to the campaign committee and must be taken care of in the arrangement of the duty on sugar, and also that he prepared a schedule giving high rates to this article and demanded that it be adopted.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Carlisle himself appeared and made a similar statement.

Mr. Carlisle told the committee that he had drawn a proposed schedule for the committee while he was at one of the meetings of the democratic members, but that it was not adopted. But in doing this, he said, he acted in an advisory capacity and gave the committee facts and data such as they asked for, and which, as the secretary of the treasury, they would naturally expect to receive from him.

To-day the committee will have before it Congressman De Witt Warner, of New York. It has also issued a summons for Mr. Gaston, the Pennsylvania wire manufacturer, who is said to have overheard the conversation alleged to have taken place in a room at the Arlington between sugar trust magnates and certain senators regarding the duty that should be put upon sugar.

The vice president sent by special messenger to the district attorney his certification of the report of the committee, in regard to the refusal of the witnesses Shriver and Edwards. It reads as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31, 1894.

I, Adlai E. Stevenson, vice-president of the United States and president of the senate, in pursuance of the statute in such cases made and provided, hereby certify to the United States district attorney for the District of Columbia, that Elisha J. Edwards and John S. Shriver, each having been summoned as a witness by the authority of the senate to give testimony upon the matters under inquiry by and under that certain resolution of the senate, adopted May 17, A. D., 1894, appointing a special committee to investigate certain matters stated in said resolution, and having appeared before the committee appointed by said resolution, did severally refuse to answer sundry questions pertinent to the question under inquiry, as manifestly appears by the report of said committee, and by its proceedings, a copy of which is hereto attached.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the senate to be affixed, this 31st day of May, A. D., 1894. (Signed) A. E. STEVENSON,

Thomas Cuming is one of Plainfield's most promising bicycle riders, and he no doubt will make an enviable record before the season closes. He was graduated from the Newark Business College last week with honors.

Daniel Clawson took his place at the stamp window in the post-office, under Postmaster Hetfield, this morning. George Godown is the assistant postmaster, and John Whitenack is promoted to the Money Order Department.

A telegram was received this morning by Mrs. James Southard of this city telling her of the death of Allie Leech, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leech of 85 Broad street, Newark, which occurred yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Leech was formerly Miss Ella Vail of Watchung avenue.

IT FILLS THE BILL

—a dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Sick Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly and permanently cured.

Glen Easton, Marshall Co., W. Va.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—Two years ago I was pale and emaciated, food fermented in my stomach. A physician pronounced my case "Catarrh of the Stomach," but he could not help me. I lived a month without solid food and when I tried to eat I would vomit. At this time I began taking Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and in two weeks I was decidedly better. I am now in good health, and never felt better in my life. I have a better color, eat more, and have no distress after eating—having gained thirteen pounds since I began taking them.

MISS ANGUISH.

Yours truly, MARY ANGUISH.

The Plan of Selling Medicines Through Dealers, ON TRIAL, IS PECULIAR TO PIERCE

—A Westfield butcher's wagon was wrecked on North avenue, Fanwood, at 8:30 this morning when the team ran away.

—The old shed next to Hedden's stables on East Fourth street, for many years used as a blacksmith shop by Michael Quinn, is being torn down.

ANOTHER RAILROAD VICTIM.

Train-hand McNair Dies in Muhlenberg Hospital.

James McNair, aged 27, a relief hand on the Central Railroad, residing in Centreville, Bayonne City, was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital from Bound Brook at 4:30 this morning. He had been run over about midnight and had lain on the track for several hours before he was discovered.

His right leg was cut off just below the knee. He was weak from loss of blood and no operation was performed. The man was conscious until 10 this morning. He died at 10:40.

HAD MUSIC THIS TIME.

Second Edition of a Somerset Street Party Better Than the First.

Miss May McLoughlin of Somerset street entertained a merry party of young people at her home last evening. A surprise party had been arranged for Wednesday evening, and although the guests were there and spent a pleasant evening the musicians failed to appear. The young people gathered again last night, and danced to A. G. Carpenter's music until 2 this morning. Supper was served at midnight.

The guests included: Miss Jessie Coddington, the Misses Edith and Margaret Miles, Miss Josie Fritz, the Misses Smalley, Miss Addie Lewis, Miss Chandler, Miss May Irving and Miss Ada Woolston; George Chandler, William Morrison, William Kitchen, Harry Coddington, George DeMeza, Howard Woolston, Carl Pfender, Sidney Titsworth, Arthur W. Vail, John DeMeza and Frank Dodge.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

DISPOSITION OF GARBAGE.

An Important Matter That Receives Little Attention—English Methods.

The question of the disposition of the garbage of cities and towns is a subject that interests all. While the accumulation of refuse in the smaller towns has not so great a bearing on public health as in the larger towns and cities, neatness and cleanliness are always desirable, and many diseases are directly traced to carelessness in this matter. Typhoid fever is considered by scientists as a filth disease. Ignorance and stupidity are often responsible for outbreaks of disease in localities that with trifling care in the disposition of sink drains and garbage would never have occurred. Kitchen refuse thrown in a heap in the back yard, there to fester and rot, is always a dangerous neighbor. What cannot be burned should be disposed of in a manner that will preclude the possibility of its becoming a menace to public health.

In the district of Ealing, adjacent to London, which has a population of 25,000, the refuse is burned in a patent "destructor" which has four cells. It has a chimney 143 feet in height. The fuel used is a fine coke, and the quantity consumed costs 37 cents per day. The cost of the destructor was $10,000. The quantity of refuse burned is 6,120 tons per year. The heat from the destructor is utilized by a boiler supplying steam for an engine which drives the lime mixing machines and clay mixer for the sewage portion of the works.

In the Battersea division of London, with a population of 150,000, the local authorities have erected a patent destructor with a chimney 150 feet in height. It cost $57,000 and consumes 28,000 tons of refuse a year, and there are no complaints about offensive odor.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

TO OWNERS OF DOGS.

BOROUGH OF NORTH PLAINFIELD,

The attention of all concerned is called to the following extract from an act passed by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey.

"That any person who shall own, keep or harbor any dogs, bitch or bitches shall have the same registered and numbered with the Clerk of the Borough in which the owner or person harboring the same shall reside, and shall place upon the neck of each dog or bitch kept or harbored a collar, having engraved thereon upon a metal surface, the name of the owner of said dog or bitch and the registered number thereof; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or bitch found straying off the owner's premises without such collar upon its neck.

The person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered."

The registry book is kept at the office of the Borough Clerk, J. K. Arnold, 92 Somerset street, and prompt compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid statute is urged.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Quart bottles 25c. To be diluted for use according to directions on label.

KEEP THE STREETS CLEAN.

Good Drainage and Good Health Inseparable Conditions.

The wide awake, prosperous, busy town differs as much in appearance as it does in manner from the sleepy, careless community that lets things take care of themselves. What a contrast the well paved and well kept streets of the former present to the untidy and neglected aspect of the latter! The capitalist, the artisan, the homeseeker, can but be impressed with the evidences of thrift and energy that are inseparable from cleanliness and order. As a consequence the one rapidly advances in wealth and population, while the other stands still if it does not—which is probable—execute a backward movement.

The first duty of a town is to provide for the health of the residents—that is, so far as it is possible to do so by preventive measures. Cleanliness is next to godliness, and pure water and a scientific sewerage system are indispensable aids to the physical and moral welfare of the community. In far too many localities is the question of drainage left to take care of itself, and it remains a perpetual menace to the public health, sooner or later to break forth with dire results.

A system of drainage should embrace not only the removal of storm water which falls upon the streets, but also the water from sinks, closets, factories and other sources. All such should have direct connection with sewers having an outlet in the nearest water course. The street gutters should be kept free from rubbish and have such a perfect grade that no water will find lodgment along the streets on either side. Money judiciously spent in this work under the supervision of a competent engineer is a safe and sure investment that will be returned with compound interest. In our own town there is much room for improvement in this direction, and each business man and householder owes it to himself and his neighbor to help along this necessary work.

In the matter of streets, too, we are far from perfect. With a little more care in the details of construction and more systematic and thorough methods of keeping them free from sticks, stones and other accumulations of rubbish our thoroughfares would be a credit and a pride instead of, in some cases, an eyesore and cause for mortification. As in the larger cities, ordinances fixing penalties for dumping ashes and other household refuse to the streets should be enforced, as well as forbidding the loading of wagons with dirt, coal, wood, etc., in such a manner that a part of the contents will be distributed along the route of their passage. A proper supervision of these matters, with a liberal distribution of the printed ordinances, will go far toward realizing the desired neatness.

The Duty of a Citizen.

The first duty of a citizen is to be a practical American politician. The people were responsible for the conditions. Let the politician be defined honestly, let the knaves be denounced, and the politicians who sought for good government be rewarded. There is too much decrying of politicians and laying accusations against the bosses. The power was in the people's hands.—J. Sloat Fassett.

CYCLING COMMENT.

John J. Kenney punctured his tire in Hilton Wednesday. He reached Rahway before it collapsed and came home from there by train.

A resident of West Front street missed his bicycle from the sidewalk Wednesday night and reported it to the police; but he afterwards found that that another occupant of the bluilding had cared for it.

Col. King of Hotel Albion is making his famous hostelry popular among wheelmen. He will give a wheelmen's dinner from 11 to 1 tomorrow noon, at 75 cents—a splendid dinner, such as the Albion is famed for. He has plenty of room for housing cyclists over night. Already 30 racers are stopping there. It's a convenient headquarters, being near the track.

The Pope Mfg. Co. have arranged to run a special limited train of Wagner Vestibule cars from Boston to Denver and return, on the occasion of the league meet which will be held in that city Aug. 13 to 18. The party will be limited to 100 persons, and is rapidly filling up. The excursion will be accompanied by Col. Pope and other officers of the company, and is sure to be pronounced a success.

For biliousness and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills.

STRAWBERRIES IN VINCENT.

Methodists and Their Friends Enjoy a Festival.

Vincent Chapel was adorned last night with beautiful decorations and well-laden tables. Under the transforming hand of the decorating committee the chapel had assumed a new aspect.

It was the occasion of a strawberry festival, given by the Ladies Aid Society of the church.

At each table tempting wares were displayed, and good business was done.

A dainty supper was served by the refreshment committee.

Following are the committees whose efficient work made the affair a success:

Decorating—Dr. Barnes, and Messrs. McNaughton, Clark, Cornwell, Teale.

Candy—Mrs. O. Jenkins, Mrs. Homan, Mrs. Joy, Mrs. Packer, Mrs. Fenno, Miss Mulford.

Lemonade—Mrs. Clark, Miss Minnie French.

Music—Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Davis.

Refreshments—Mrs. McNaughton, Mrs. Geo. Burgess, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Rugg, Mrs. Humble, Miss Jackson, Miss Thorn, Mrs. Pike, Miss Smalley.

Waitresses—Miss Cory, Miss Edith Mills, Miss Myrtle Gaskell, Miss Eva Jenkins, Miss Fillman, Miss Jenkins, Miss Cory, Miss Ida Angleman.

Cinderella Booth — Miss Chandler, and Messrs. Cornwell and Clark.

Flowers—Miss Pangborn, Mrs. Lyman, Miss Cornwell, Miss Marguerite Barnes, Miss Douglas, Miss Hattie French, Miss Teale.

Jack Horner Pie—Miss Brown, Miss Morrison, Miss Jeffers, Mrs. Leland, Mrs. Colles T. Pond.

Cake—Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Mrs. Chas. Horne, Mrs. H. A. McGee, Mrs. G. Rogers, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Edwin Loomis, Mrs. Wier, Mrs. Peck.

Pop Corn—Miss Mulford.

PLAINFIELD HELPING INDIA WOMEN.

Progress and Prospects of the Pundita Ramabai Circle.

The annual meeting of the Ramabai Circle was held in the Congregational Church yesterday afternoon. The attendance was much larger than usual, showing that the interest which Plainfield women have in the work has not lessened.

The secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ryder, reported that the Circle had contributed $61 46 to the Association. Nearly 60 members are now enrolled, several having been added during the year. Rev. C. L. Goodrich read from the pamphlet of the Association the annual report of the chairman of the executive committee, Mrs. J. W. Andrews. It reviewed the efforts of Ramabai to ameliorate the condition of highcaste women in India and explained the methods in use in her school. Miss Tweedy and Mrs. S. R. Struthers read interesting items concerning the cause.

Miss Jackson's Recital.

The recital of Miss Addie Parker Jackson in the Casino last night was a very delightful and successful event. Although the weather was bad, the audience room was well filled. The stage was beautifully decorated, set to represent a drawing room with fine flowers, palms, etc.

Each number on the programme was artistically rendered, and enthusiastically applauded by the appreciative audience. Many lovely flowers were handed to Miss Jackson.

At the conclusion of the programme, an impromptu reception was held, and Miss Jackson was warmly congratulated by her many friends.

Plainfield may well be proud of this talented young woman, who was a graduate from the Plainfield High School in 1892, and from the Emerson College of Oratory at Boston with the Class of '94.

The vocal and instrumental solos of Miss Meeker and Miss French were thoroughly enjoyed and heartily encored. The accompaniments by Miss Dewey were charmingly rendered and were an enjoyable feature of the evening.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

An earnest invitation is extended to all to attend the meeting in the First Baptist Church this evening.

The annual convention of the State societies will be held in the First Baptist Church, this city, in October.

The society of the First Baptist Church gave a very interesting entertainment and social Tuesday evening. The following programme was rendered:

Vocal Solo—Brave Sentinel.....Wm. Holmes
Recitation.....Miss Coddington
Vocal Solo. Miss Kathryn Krymer of Brooklyn
Vocal Solo.....William Holmes
Vocal Solo.....Miss F. May Grant

At the conclusion, ice-cream, cake and lemonade and cake were served.

Closing exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church were held yesterday afternoon. The society will not meet again during the Summer months. In addition to a good programme, refreshments were served. Mrs. R. A. Meeker, Superintendent, is to be congratulated on the growth and work of the society.

To Suit Every Woman.

A blessing to Plainfield women was the coming of Madame Knight to Plainfield. Her millinery parlors at 112 West Front street furnish the latest styles and handsomest goods, and now she suits every purse by the great reduction in prices she has instituted. You can get a "love of a bonnet for $1, elegant enough to be admired by all; or you can pay as much more as you like. Anyhow, stop and see the styles.

Lyceum Bowling.

Class A of the individual bowling tournament bowled on the C Y.M.L. alleys Tuesday evening. Capt Lynch made the highest average of the trials, 178. The scores:

				Totals.
Butscher	150	176	171	497
Whalen	140	146	131	417
Carty	128	122	128	378

Kiely, P.	149	132	147	448

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Westfield Leader says: "The Plainfield Press did another of its many enterprising things in publishing a pneu souvenir supplement last Wednesday".

A party of cyclists interfered with a quarrel between two little girls on Plainfield avenue near Third street Wednesday afternoon. The daughter of Shoemaker Vetral struck the daughter of Mrs. Michael Burke in the face with a stone.

UNIQUE SOCIAL SETTLEMENT.

Dr. Richards at the Fore in a Peculiar Work for Developing Results Beyond the Province of the Church.

The Whittier House is the name of a social settlement recently formed in Jersey City. The college settlement idea has already marked an era in religious work, and has been introduced successfully into some of the American cities as well, notably New York, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis. This work in Jersey City, while Christian, is undenominational, and seeks to do a work the churches can not well accomplish. It has already a free kindergarten, a sewing school, a mothers club, with a series of afternoon teas, the beginning of a loan fund, various university extension classes, and a system of district visitation. It appeals especially to the suburbs, for there has come a marked decadence in the large portion of Jersey City in which this settlement is located, and no help is received in New Jersey from the city across the river. Meanwhile the suburbs are rapidly building up, and at the expense of the larger places; a double duty, therefore, rests upon the suburban people, dwelling as they do in homes of comfort. This fact is recognized by many, and a response is already being made. A house has been rented on Grand street, Jersey City, well adapted to the needs, and one man in a suburban town has guaranteed the rent for one year, to cost $1,000. The women of Orange will furnish one sleeping room, those of Elizabeth the reception room; the Montclair people furnish the parlor, one sleeping room and the kitchen; and other towns are acting. The headworker is Miss Cornelia F. Bradford, and several house-workers have already applied for admission. It is hoped that one hundred people can be secured who will guarantee $30 each per year for this work. One man has guaranteed ten of these $30 subscriptions. Five dollars constitutes the fee for active membership, and it is hoped many may be secured in Plainfield, where a number of people are already interested. Rev. Dr. Amory H. Bradford of Montclair is president of the organization; Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards of Plainfield is vice-president, and Prof. Horace Walt of Jersey City is secretary. The chairman of the finance committee is Rev. Dr. Tomlinson of Elizabeth. The treasurer is W. Jay Hunt of Phelps, Dodge & Co., 11 Cliff street, New York. Information can be had from any of these officers.

Costumes of Various Nations.

The Young Ladies Mission Band of the Presbyterian churches held a reception for the benefit of foreign missions in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Church yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 to 10. The attendance was large and the receipts were very satisfactory. Candy, tea, and Mexican chocolate, were on sale. The young women at the different booths wore costumes representing Japan, Persia, Mexico, Syria and India, and the parlors were prettily decorated.

Go See for Yourself.

That elegant new corner store of Van-Emburgh & Son in the Babcock Building has one fault—it's not big enough to display all the stock they bought for the great opening tomorrow.

They have to make room, so a special sale will be held at which you can get everything you want at wonderfully low prices.

Stop in, admire, and buy or not as you choose.

To Transmit Electricity.

The Bimetallic Electric Transmission Company of New York and Plainfield, filed articles of incorporation this week. The principal stockholder is William H. Eckert of New York city, who controls 990 out of the 1,000 shares.

Both Legs Injured.

Trolley Traffic.

Both armatures on Yellow jacket Car 144 were burned out this morning, and the car will be laid up for a while. Today and tomorrow the cars will run under 15 minutes headway. Car No. 1 will run regularly, commencing Sunday.

Barnett Talks on Training.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 1.—R. A. Barnett, winner of the great Irvington-Milburn bicycle road race, who also lowered the course record by four minutes despite wind and dust, said to a reporter of the United Press: "I believe that there is such a thing as a man overtraining for a race like the Irvington-Milburn. Before, when I started in the same event, I had trained hard and thoroughly for a long time and considered myself in perfect shape. I finished thirty-fifth. This year I did not think that I was more than two-thirds trained, but I came in first, got the time prize and brought the record down several pegs. My stomach be an to cramp and trouble me somewhat at about eighteen miles, but otherwise I finished as good as new and, comparatively speaking, as fresh as when I started. There is more harm done by overtraining than by undertraining."

Will Quit the Turf.

LONDON, May 31.—It is reported that the Duke of Portland and Lord Rosebery have decided to withdraw entirely from the turf and sell their racing horses. It is understood that this action will be taken very shortly.

Staten Island Election Frauds.

ARREST PUBLIC ATTENTION.

"Whatever your occupation or calling may be, if it needs support from the public, advertise it thoroughly and efficiently in some shape or other that will arrest public attention. I freely confess that what success I have had in life may be attributed more to the public press than to nearly all other causes combined. There may possibly be occupations that do not require advertising, but I cannot well conceive what they are. Men in business will sometimes tell you that they have tried advertising and it did not pay. This is only when advertising is done sparingly and grudgingly.

"Homeopathic doses of advertising will not pay. Perhaps it is like a portion of physic—making the patient sick, but effecting nothing. Administer liberally, and the cure will be permanent. Some say they cannot afford to advertise. They mistake. They cannot afford not to advertise. In this country, where everybody reads the newspapers, it will be seen that these are the cheapest and best media through which persons can speak to the public where they are to find their customers. Put on the appearance of business, and generally the reality will follow.

"The farmer plants his seed, and while he is sleeping his corn and potatoes are growing. So with advertising. While you are sleeping or eating or conversing with one of your customers your advertisement is being read by hundreds and thousasnd of persons who never saw you or heard of your business and never would had it not been for your advertisement appearing in the newspapers."—Holyoke (Mass.) Free Press.

Stable Nuisance In Cities.

The Ladies' Health Protective association is one of the most useful societies in the city of New York. For eight years it has concentrated its efforts to do away with the nuisances of stables in thickly settled quarters of the city. Some of these have been abated locally, compelling them to seek other quarters. It has also been striving to have the baling of manure made compulsory. They have had the matter thoroughly worked up by experts and are prepared to show that the pressing and baling of manure reduces it to one-third its loose bulk, in which state it can be removed without filling the air with poisonous effluvia, and with a great economy of handling, so that it will be really a saving for the stables to adopt the plan. They can also prove to the farmer who buys the manure that it is not injured, but instead improved for fertilizing uses by the compression. The society's memorial to the legislature is indorsed by the highest scientific and medical authorities.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R R Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

GRIEVED AND HORRIFIED

Gen. Hewston Talks of His Predicament.

Treated Courteously While in Prison But Could Not Sleep—His Solicitor Says the Outlook for Him is Hopeful Witnesses Who Will Testify in the Prisoner's Behalf.

LONDON, June 1.—In an interview with Gen. Hewston, who killed the street musician Wednesday night, he said to the United Press reporter:

"That was the first time I have been locked up and I did not find it a pleasant experience. Although the fatal result of the trouble was a pure accident, it is sad to feel that one has caused the death of a fellow creature. As to the circumstances of the row in Gray's Inn road, my solicitor has instructed me to preserve a strict silence.

"While in custody I received the most courteous treatment from all sides. I was not subjected to the indignity of a cell, but had a room with the privilege of free communication with my friends. I had plenty of pillows and rugs, but of course my grief and consternation upon hearing of Burton's death prevented my sleeping. Mr. Lathrop and Major G. W. Smiley, whom I have known well in San Francisco, got the consul general to join Mr. Lathrop in giving bail for me."

After Gen. Hewston left the room Mr. Lathrop said:

"A cablegram has been sent to the general's wife, who is now in the neighborhood of San Francisco. If necessary she will come to London. Tell the general's friends in America that the outlook is hopeful for him. The defense did not adduce any evidence at the hearing, because it was thought better to reserve the material. However, they have impartial witnesses prepared to swear that the general was lifting his umbrella to ward off a blow when the point struck Burton in the eye. The medical evidence in the case supports their accounts for the hospital physicians found that the course of the wound was upward.

"Consul General Collins had met the general but twice before to-day, but he was promptly on hand and even went beyond all his consular obligations in giving personal surety for the general's appearance for trial. The inquest will be held on Saturday. If the verdict be death by misadventure, the general's position will be less serious; if not, he will be committed for trial, I fear."

JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

Opening Day of the Y. M. C. A. International Conference in London.

LONDON, June 1.—The thirteenth international conference of the Young Men's Christian association of all lands will assemble in Exeter hall to-day. These conferences are held triennially. The first was in Paris, in 1855, and the last in Amsterdam, in 1891. Intervening conferences were held in Geneva, London, Elberfield, Hamburg, Berlin and Stockholm. The basis of representation is one delegate for each group of five associations.

Entertainment has been provided for all the delegates, of whom about 2,000 are expected. There are about 200 delegates from America, nearly as many from Germany, 100 from Sweden and Norway, 50 from Holland, and about as many from France. Nearly every civilized country in the world will be represented in the conference.

Most of the American delegates will entertain themselves at hotels. By special permission of the council of the city of London a large pavilion has been erected near Waterloo bridge on the Thames embankment. It seats 21,000 people, and in it all the delegates will be served each day with lunch and tea. It is handsomely decorated with the flags of all nations.

This conference is called the Jubilee celebration because it commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the first Young Men's Christian association by George Williams on June 6, 1844.

For Introducing Copper Coin.

PARIS, June 1.—Raoul Tremblier has been sentenced to serve a month in prison and to pay a fine of 5,350 francs for introducing copper money of the Argentine Republic into France. This money was held to be equivalent to contraband goods. Tremblier arrived at Dunkirk from Buenos Ayres on May 28, and was arrested at once, as he was charged with having murdered a man shortly before sailing from the Argentine Republic. Some 5,000 francs worth of Argentine copper money was found in his baggage.

Sugar Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Vice-President Stevenson said that he would send to the district attorney his certificate with reference to the refusal of correspondents Edwards and Shriver to answer questions asked by the sugar trust investigating committee, with a request that the government enter criminal proceedings against these gentlemen before a grand jury.

Jersey Railroad War Settled.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—The contest between the West Jersey and the South Jersey railroads over the right of the latter company to lay its tracks across the rails of the older line, has been adjusted amicably and to the apparent satisfaction of all concerned. An agreement has been reached whereby the new road will go over the West Jersey tracks at both Woodbine and Cape May Court House.

Miss Wells Lectures in London.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

SUGAR BOUNTY REPEAL.

Two More Long Speeches on the Tariff Delivered in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The consideration of the tariff bill in the senate was confined yesterday to two long speeches on the question of repealing the bounty on sugar. The first of them was by Mr. Manderson (rep., Neb.) and the second by Mr. Peffer (pop., Kas.). Mr. Manderson spoke for three hours and a half—the core of his argument being that there was a moral obligation on congress to maintain the bounty system established under the McKinley act; and that its maintenance until 1905 (when it is to cease) will ensure the home production of all the sugar consumed in the United States; and thus keep here the $315,000,000 a year which, otherwise, would be paid for sugar to foreign countries.

He gave notice of an amendment to continue in full force and effect, until July 1, 1905, the provision of law for the payment of bounty to sugar growers in the United States.

Mr. Peffer spoke for over three hours in opposition to the duty on sugar and in favor of the continuance of the bounty—arguing that the sugar duty was a direct tax on the poor man; and that the poor man ought not to be taxed on what he eats or what he wears, or on any of the necessaries of life.

After he closed his speech he got into an amusing controversy with Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.) over some of the theories which he had brought forward.

Mr. Hill's resolution for open sessions of the investigating committee on the connection of the sugar trust with the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, and Mr. Dolph's resolution to postpone action on the sugar schedule until after the committee shall have reported, were not taken up, but are to be taken up to-day, when Mr. Hill is expected to address the senate upon them.

CAESAREAN OPERATION.

The Child of a Murdered Woman Born After Her Death.

CLEVELAND, O., June 2.—A surgical operation, with few successful precedents, was performed in Cleveland, Thursday night, as a result of which the unborn child of a murdered woman will probably live. Several days ago Mrs. Janicki, a Polish woman, was assaulted by alleged religious enemies, there being a religous warfare prevailing among the Polish Catholics in this city. Mrs. Janicki died at a hospital and the physicians performed the famous Caesarean operation as soon as the heart ceased to beat, removing an eight-months-old babe. The child was placed in an incubator and will be kept there until it completes infantile development, when it will be given to a wet nurse.

AGAINST AN INCOME TAX.

Big Meeting of New York's Leading Business Men Last Night.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The leading business men of New York turned out in great numbers last night at Carnegie Music hall to protest against the income tax. The platform in the immense hall was thronged with representative citizens, and, if the enthusiasm displayed is any criterion of the popularity of the income tax the latter is a doomed measure.

Letters of regret from Senator Murphy, Congressmen Quigg, Marvin, Covert and others, were read.

Hundreds of telegrams denouncing the income tax were received from representative business men in all parts of the United States.

Resolutions earnestly appealing to the members of the United States senate, when voting upon the income provision, to exercise the broadest sense of justice in behalf of the entire country and to be governed by their own conscientious judgement rather than by any party caucus or conference for the purpose of obtaining or alluring compromises and imaginary or temporary advantages, and calling upon all the business associations and organizations of the several cities of the union to organize without delay, by mass meetings similar to their own, to voice the protest of the great commercial interests affected so injuriously by the proposed income tax law, were adopted.

Immigration to New York.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Immigration to this port for the first five months of the present year was only 76,384 steerage passengers, whereas for the same period last year 174,719 arrived. In May, 1893, 73,006 steerage passengers arrived, but this year the number was but 22,883.

ON LABOR'S WHEEL.

Paine's Celery Compound Now Better Than a Vacation Later.

"I simply can't stop," says the tired business man and the worn-out mother.

"But nervous prostration stares you in the face."

"I dare not think of being sick. My children and babies and husband depend on me every hour in the day," reply those women on the verge of breaking down. "A month's absence would ruin my business," says the hard-worked business man.

When the nerves and organs of the body are soundly nourished and the waste products quickly got rid of a tremendous amount of hard work can be done without injury. It is when the nervous tissues are used up faster than they are repaired that brain, nerves and vital organs suffer, cry out with neuralgia, rheumatism, heart trouble, nervous dyspepsia and finally break down. Paine's celery compound is doing a world of good for such nervous people, whose brain and body are overtaxed but who may yet be saved from nervous prostration and diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach by this great strength giver and blood and nerve invigorator.

The first bottle of Paine's celery compound begins at once to clear the impure blood, to supply material for growth to wornout nerves and to the millions of tiny cells of nervous substance through the brain and spinal column; this marvelous blood and nerve remedy lays the foundation to health deeply and permanently; thin, pale, careworn persons grow steadily heavier and stronger and their faces lose the signs of sickness and despondency.

To counteract the effects of protracted bodily and mental strain, Paine's celery compound was first prepared by the eminent Dartmouth professor, Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D. Physicians of the highest standing use and prescribe it to give strength to weak mothers and to supply abundant nutrition to the rapidly growing nerves and tissues of children.

Now, highly vitalized blood, pure and rich in elements of growth is sent in the entire substance of the liver, kidneys and stomach and rouses them to brisker action, removes biliousness, jaundice and indigestion and thoroughly purifies the system harmful matters that cause disease; the nerves are rapidly built up and work again without confusion, thus bringing all the important organs into harmony and health. Paine's celery compound offers years of happy, hearty, health ly existence to thousands of men and women whom poverty of blood and nerves is the sole cause of despondency and despair of ever being strong and well again.

With new blood and refreshed nerves a confident feeling of returning health come also. Paine,s celery compound makes people well.

Nathan W. Kennedy, editor of the well-known Putnam, Conn., Standard, and president of the Connecticut editorial association, says:

"On this, my 33d birthday, it becomes a pleasure to speak of the merits of Paine's celery compound, for on several preceding anniversaries the pangs of dyspepsia have prevented what would otherwise have been a most felicitous occasion; today, everything is cheerful and bright, and this excellent medicine receives its just share of praise.

"After trying various 'panaceas' I took Paine's celery compound, and in due time discovered that I was being greatly benefitted. Sleep grew refreshing, my nervous system more normal, my appetite sharper and general make-up better prepared for the cares of business and the enjoyment of life.

"Not alone have I found the compound effective in the treatment of cases of dyspepsia but also for nervousness, thereby making it unequalled in the treatment of nervous dyspepsia.

"Several aged persons to my personal knowledge have been materially benefitted by Paine's celery compound. It creates appetite and strength and soothes the weary, overworked body and mind into natural, refreshing sleep."

BLED BY THE POLICE

Sensational Testimony at the Lexow Hearing.

A Deplorable State of Affairs Shown to Exist in New York—Dive Keepers Swear They Paid Bribe Money—Election Polling Station in the Basement of a Disreputable House.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Lexow senate committee, investigating the police department, has succeeded in bringing out some exceedingly damaging evidence against police officers, and after the adjournment of yesterday's session, which was the most sensational so far held, Lawyer Goff expressed his gratification as to the evidence he had produced.

"It is the first time," said he, "in the history of the city that evidence has been produced showing that the city took bribes."

It is stated that Mr. Goff will have some more sensational witnesses when the committee resumes its sittings on Monday morning.

The testimony given by Charles Prien, former keeper of a disreputable house, proved to be the prosecution's second surprise, and it was sensational throughout. The witness declared that during the six years he had kept the house he paid out more than $6,000 for police protection.

He said that at first he was assessed $25 a month, then as the precinct captains were changed he paid $50 a month, besides $500 at various times for "initiation."

The money, he said, was given to ward men, who made regular demands upon him. Other keepers of resorts were similarly assessed, he declared.

One of these, Emma Jones, proved to be a good witness for the prosecution. She keeps a house at 32 Bayard street. Her husband is the Tammany captain of the district. The basement of 32 Bayard street was the polling station of the district last election day. Chairman Lexow drew from the witness the information that the house was running "quietly," as she styled it, for two years, up to Feb. 7 last.

Mrs. Sanford, another Bayard street woman, gave damaging testimony to the police, very reluctantly however. An account book was shown to her which she admitted belonged to her. She said it was stolen from her house by a Parkhurst detective. There were several entries of large sums she had paid out for which she could give no explanation. She admitted, however, to having contributed considerable amounts to agents of "city officials," but said she never gave a cent to a police captain.

She said she first paid $200 to "an official who came either from headquarters or the station house." After that she paid $50 a month. All together she had paid $500.

Mrs. Sandford, in reply to a question from the chairman, admitted that she had paid the $500 nominally to a political organization, but really for the purpose of not having her business interfered with.

Granger at Mount Vernon.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 2.—Gideon Granger, the divorced son-in-law of Police Commissioner McClave, of New York, has arrived in this city and is now quietly sequestered in the house of a friend. Granger has about made up his mind to resume the stand before the Lexow Investigation committee and tell all he knows. If one half of what he states is true, he will create a sensation when he does appear. His counsel say he will, so far as is now known, appear at the Monday's session of the committee.

Bloodhounds After the Taylors.

OTTUMWA, Ia., June 2.—A special train arrived at Cantril, 19 miles from this city, with bloodhounds and horses to track the Taylor brothers, who murdered the Meeks family near Linneus, Mo., and added to their crime the murder of a sheriff and his posse. They have been detected by a farmer living near Cantril, who had given the murderers food Wednesday. The main portion of the posse started up the Fox river after the murderers. When a farmer came here and reported seeing the Taylors six miles from the city the pursuit was renewed with increased vigor. Hundreds of farmers in Van Buren county are engaged in the hunt, some being prompted by the offer of a large reward.

Importing a Prince.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—It is reported here that the engagement is settled between Prince Peniatowski and Miss Beth Sperry of Stockton, Cal., sister of Mrs. Wm. H. Crocker of San Francisco. The story as told here, is that Mrs. Crocker is eager to have a prince in the family, and that it was her influence which caused the breaking of the prince's engagement to Miss Maude Bourke. Miss Sperry is a handsome brunette, and her fortune, which will come from her father, will be $1,000,000.

Money for Irish Members.

LONDON, June 2.—At a meeting of the McCarthyite section of the Irish party, it was announced that the appeal for funds issued a week ago by Justin McCarthy had met with gratifying success. Fifteen hundred pounds had already been received and a large contribution from the Irish federation in America. This it was stated would enable the continuous attendance of the McCarthites in parliament.

The Pullman Strike.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Matters are said to be approaching a crisis in the Pullman strike. The much talked of order to railroad men which will stop the handling of Pullman cars, from present indications, is to be issued by the American Railway union at St. Louis. The order, it is said, will be extended, when required.

Zella's Husband Sick of Her.

MUSCATINE, Ia., June 2.—W. A. Nicolaus, husband of Zella Nicolaus, has filed a petition in the district court here, asking a divorce from his wife on the grounds of desertion and adultery. The case will come up for hearing in the June term.

Chicago Officers in Clover.

LONDON, June 2.—The prince of Wales has made a special request that the officers of the United States cruiser Chicago be presented to him on the occasion of the state levee on June 4.

Frost in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 2.—There was a light frost in this vicinity. There is no record of such an occurence in any previous year as late as the first of June.

RELIEF FOR MINERS.

Money and Flour Sent to the Strikers to Help Them Keep Up the Fight.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., June 2.—The miners' relief committee gave out to the miners in need nearly 1,000 sacks of flour. The strikers were encouraged to hold out longer by receiving money from the hard coal region and the promise of more after pay day, the 10th of the month.

They have a soliciting committee at work in the anthracite region. The leaders are watching with interest the proceedings in the Punxsutawney district, where the operators are building barracks. There is no sign of a break in this region among the miners, nor an attempt at resumption by the operators.

A Dead Miser's Fortune.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 2.—William W. Cornell, a wealthy resident of this city, died a few days since. He was very miserly in his habits, and very secretive concerning his affairs. The extent of his wealth was unknown. A tin box has just been found in his house containing securities to the amount of $1,080,000. He has also real estate to a large amount in Troy, where he formerly resided. He left no will, and neither wife nor child. The estate will go to nephews and nieces, Charles Cornell, of Rondout, Horace Harrington, of Troy, Henry E. Adams, of Newburg, and Mrs. Sarah E. Kelly, of this place.

Brooklyn's Jail Filthy.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 2.—The grand jury has made a number of presentments criticising Sheriff Buttling and the other men in charge of Raymond street jail. The jury charge that the cells are alive with vermin, that, though paid three times as much as necessary for board, the sheriff feeds the prisoners on putrid meat, poor bean soup and fake coffee; and that the male and female prisoners of the jail are not at all times kept properly separated. The presentment declares that the treatment of the prisoners in the Raymond street jail is inhuman and dangerous to their health.

Iron Hall Officers Indicted.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The grand jury has found a true bill of indictment against Freeman D. Somerby, Charles H. Baker, Joseph Glading and James H. Eckerly, supreme justice, supreme cashier, chairman of the committee on laws and supervision, and a member of the committees on finance and accounts, respectively, of the supreme sitting of the Order of Iron Hall. They are charged with conspiring and cheating and defrauding the order of funds, and converting $200,000 to the mutual Banking, Surety, Trust and Safe Deposit company, and with obstructing the administration of public justice.

Tailor Dowe's Coat Outrivalled.

LONDON, June 2.—Hiram Maxim's bullet-proof cuirass was tested at the Erith gun works. Shots from army rifles were first fired at a steel target half an inch thick, the bullets piercing it through. Shots from similar cartridges were then fired at the cuirass with the effect of making only a slight indentation. The cuirass is composed of a thin plate of steel encased in felt and is only half the thickness of Herr Dowe's cuirass.

Ohio Firm to Build the Bridge.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., June 2.—The freeholders of Monmouth county gave the contract for a new bridge over the Shrewsbury, at Red Bank, to the Wrought Iron Bridge company of Canton, O. The bridge and approaches will cover 1,170 feet, and will be six feet higher than the present one.

Postmasters Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The senate has confirmed the following postmaster nominations:

New Jersey—Harry B. Paul, Camden.

Boston's Mortuary Record.

BOSTON, June 2.—The annual report of the Boston health department, just issued, shows the total number of deaths during the year to have been 11,710, an increase of 474 over the proceeding year, the rate per 1,000 inhabitants being 14.02.

Against the Whiskey Tax.

CINCINNATI, O., June 2.—A large number of wholesale liquor dealers have resolved to call a meeting of the entire trade of the city, to be held next Monday. It was unanimously resolved to inaugurate a vigorous fight against any change in the present internal revenue laws, and especially against the increase of tax on whiskey.

Malone Feels the Law.

PERRY, O. T., June 2.—James E. Malone of Wisconsin, who was appointed register of the land office here at the opening of the Cherokee strip, and who resigned in January, is being tried in the district court here on an indictment found last December for bribery in office.

New Copper Mines.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., June 2.—A nugget weighing 400 pounds of solid copper was found in the bed of Rainey river, thirty miles south of here, and outcroppings of rich copper are found in the rocks near by. The Indians always said there were copper, iron and coal in that region.

CRUISER COLUMBIA.

Damage During Her Trial Trip Worse Than First Reported.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—According to official letters received at the navy department the damage to the Columbia resulting from striking an obstruction on her trial trip appears to be much more serious than at first reported, and not at all trivial in character, as the repairs will certainly cost the government from $8,000 to $10,000, to say nothing of losing several weeks' use of the ship. It seems that no less than 12 of her sheathing plates are badly wrenched, and that the cement must be renewed in order that the inner hull and distorted frame may be straightened. Admiral Selfridge says the Columbia drew 25 feet 3 inches forward and 25 feet 6 inches aft. The charts show that the normal depth of water in Feedy's island channel, where the accident is supposed to have occurred, is but 21 feet, and that at the highest tide it is only 27 feet—which is considered a very narrow margin on which to run a magnificent war vessel at a 16-knot speed, especially as this depth of channel is less than 100 yards wide and has several turns in it. The semi-official explanation offered, that the Columbia may have struck some logs or other rubbish brought down by the recent heavy rains, causes amusement among naval officers, who never before heard of logs floating 25 feet under the surface. They declare that the ship could not have been so seriously injured by merely scraping bottom, but that the damage must have been done by something as solid as rock. An official investigation into the cause of the injury is certain to follow. There is considerable comment upon the efforts made to suppress the facts and to belittle them after their disclosure.

EDWARDS AND SHRIVER.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In regard to the certification to him by the vice-president of the two newspaper correspondents, Shriver and Edwards, for presentation to the grand jury, District Attorney Birney says: "All that will be necessary will be to lay the facts before the grand jury and have them testified to by the clerk or a member of the committee, and it will then remain for the jury to decide whether or not to return an indictment. If indicted the defendants will be tried in one of the criminal courts before Judge McComas or Judge Cole. The jury being in session now, I shall probably be able to get the case before them by the first of next week. I have been notified that there will be no jury trials during the present term after June 30, but we shall doubtless be able to bring the cases to trial before that date." Mr. Birney said he did not expect an indictment to be made out in less than ten days, as it will take nearly that length of time to prepare the document. The statute under which the correspondents will be presented provides a penalty of a fine of not more than one thousand dollars nor less than one hundred dollars and imprisonment in a common jail for not less than one month nor more than twelve months."

Vim and Vinegar.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.—There has been a fight in the Woman Suffragist camp for quite a while, and Helen M. Gougar and Susan B. Antony are in it up to their ears. The former has written a caustic letter to the Republic, a weekly published at Argentine, Kan., in which she says of Miss Anthony: "She has never succeeded in the adoption of a single suffrage law. She has met crushing defeat in every amendment to the state constitution which she championed. Her present unwise leadership in Kansas will lead to sore defeat unless the people of that state take matters into their own hands. Either cause Miss Anthony and Mrs. Johns to remove the boycott on moral issues or let not a dollar or an effort go to make sure defeat more humiliating than otherwise because manipulated by them under the whip of political and moral cowardice of the republican party." In spite of this attack the suffragist leaders are carrying on the campaign with vim.

Arrangements To Arrest Waite.

DENVER, June 2.—From official sources it is learned that arrangements were made by the United States army authorities to arrest Gov. Waite for sedition if he sent the militia to Cripple Creek to prevent the deputy sheriffs from discharging their duty. This was done under instructions from Washington. Owing to the apathy and non-action of the governor and his evident sympathy with the strikers, an effort is being made to have the president interfere under section 5,299 of the revised statutes of the United States, and order out the regulars. The secret service has sent men to Cripple Creek to arrest persons stopping mail coaches. Their presence there is unknown to the men.

Unhappy If Not Guilty.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 2.—The death is announced at Eastport, Me., of Mrs. Jennie Cameron, who was tried a few months ago on the charge of murdering her husband at Bridgetown, N. S. They had lived unhappily together. A few days before his death she purchased 10 grains of morphine. Cameron died with all the symptoms of morphine poisoning. The day after her arrest Mrs. Cameron made an attempt at suicide. The grand jury found no bill, and she was set at liberty after being several months in jail. At the time of her arrest Mrs. Cameron was said to have been worth $30,000 in her own name, but nearly the whole of this went in legal expenses.

De Felice Riots in Sicily.

ROME, June 2.—The university of Palermo has been closed on account of the rioting students. In Milan, Bologna, and several smaller cities demonstrations in favor of Deputy de Felice have been started. Premier Crispi declined to respond in the chamber to the questions of the socialists as to De Felice's sentence. The socialists protested hotly against his policy of silence. Deputy de Felice and his fellow convicts have been taken to Piombino, where they will serve their terms.

Confession of a Fiend.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 1.—Harry Johnson, under sentence of death for the murder of his little daughter, has made a full confession of his crime. In a statement over his signature he says that in July last he took his 4-year-old daughter to the Lehigh river and threw her in to get rid of her, because she had become a burden to him. Johnson and his wife lived separate. She sent the girl to him at the stable where he worked. He tired of keeping her and drowned her. Johnson said he took her about the waist and threw her into the river at a secluded spot after dark.

Big Jersey Publishing Company.

NEWARK, N. J., June 2.—A certificate of incorporation of the Times-Standard Publishing company, has been filed with the Essex county clerk. The capital is placed at $300,000, all paid up. The object of the company is to purchase and consolidate the properties of the Newark Times and Sunday Standard, to do newspaper, book and job printing and to buy and control newspaper properties in Essex, Hudson, Union and Passaic counties. The incorporators are Thomas C. Barr and others.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—By unanimous consent, senate bills were passed by the house extending to other nations than Great Britain with which the United States may make treaties relating to the care and protection of the fur seal, the provisions of the act to enforce the regulations of the Paris tribunal of arbitration on that subject, and to facilitate the entry and unloading of steamships at United States ports.

New Ocean Record.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The American line steamer Paris broke the record on the trip just ended from Southampton to Sandy Hook, making the run of 3,119 miles in six days, 11 hours and 33 minutes, and made an average of 20.100 knots per hour. The southerly course, which all express steamers at present take on account of the number of icebergs reported, is nearly 150 miles longer than the regular summer route.

—Several cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria were reported this morning. One case is in Orchard place, one in West Third street, one in Liberty street, and one in Spooner avenue.

—Phil Sheridan and Ned McLaren, the Plainfield lead-pipe thieves, got a five-months sentence apiece in Elizabeth this morning; and Junkman Frank Haulenbeck, who bought the pipe they stole, was fined $100.

—Jacob Hipp, successor to Frank Linke at the Manhattan Hotel and Bowling Alleys, 179 Somerset street, will throw his place open to the public Monday evening, June 4, and invites all to call and have a splendid time.

—Mr. Dunham informs The Press that his new atlas of the city will be ready for delivery to subscribers within the next two weeks, as work has already been commenced on the mounting and binding. The map is a very satisfactory piece of work in every particular.

—It will be as good as going to a fair to visit Edsall's new store tonight, as about everybody in town who is out shopping is expected to be there some time during the evening. A large number of special bargains will be displayed in all of the departments, and Mr. Edsall says he will guarantee to save money for every purchaser.

Damages for Corn-Sheller's Wounds.

The case of Edward Thomas against Charles E. Sage came up in Justice Crosley's Court this morning, and was adjourned for two weeks. The plaintiff sues for damages to the fingers of his left hand caused by a corn-sheller. Thomas, who is a boy fifteen years old, was employed by Sage to work about his farm. Sage set him to work on the corn-sheller without warning him of the dangerous character of the machine, and his fingers were caught in the machinery and severely injured. W. S. Angleman is Thomas's lawyer, and Hance & Powers represent Sage.

An Attractive Programme.

The entertainment under the auspices of Holy Cross Brotherhood at the parish building next Thursday evening will be one of much and varied interest. There will be two farces, one played by Howard and Tiffany Spencer, the other by William Holmes, George Taggart and Will Spencer, besides a delightful array of tableaux which the grace and beauty of the borough will combine to make charming and artistic. The musical numbers will be under the direction of Harry Western. Tickets are on sale at Barker's pharmacy.

Away Up, But Convenient.

The janitor of a flat is an expert in bringing up a family. He lives on the top floor and brings them up in an elevator. It isn't necessary, however, to take an elevator to get up to the highest grade of silverware and jewelers' novelties. Just a step from the Park avenue thoroughfare will introduce you to Collier's "up-to-date" array of everything in this line—103 Park avenue.

Three Bears in Vincent Chapel.

The strawberry festival given under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. Church closed last evening. The attendance had increased since the previous evening and quite a good business was done.

Upstairs the story of the "Three Bears" illustrated by three revolving scenes, was given, the description being read by young women behind the curtain.

No Bifurcated Post-Offices.

The department at Washington has notified the petitioners for a post-office at Willow Grove that they must select another name for the place, as two-word names are not allowable.

Coaching Club Parade.

There will be a meeting of the committee of the Coaching Club at the Union County club-house tonight, to perfect arrangements for a parade June 16.

To Stir Jersey Patriots.

Hon. A. A. Tenney of Brooklyn will be the Fourth of July orator at the Washington Camp-Ground celebration near Bound Brook.

Medical Journals Suggest Its Use.

The many who live better than others and enjoy life more are the ones who more rapidly adapt the best products to their physical needs. It is from this large class you can learn of the great good to be derived from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It is presented in a most acceptable form, pleasant to the taste and perfect in action. It has given satisfaction to millions, it is approved and prescribed by practicing physicians and is used in all hospitals and sanitariums. In dyspepsia, neuralgia, kidney, liver and urinary troubles and the illnesses women suffer from, it is a positive cure. For constipation, nervousness or loss of sleep, it is unequalled. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is so generally prescribed now that all dealers in medicine sell it.

THE WHEELMEN'S MEET

The opening of the Crescent Wheelmen's new track this afternoon is attended by a large crowd of wheelmen and spectators. The weather is showery and windy, preventing fast work.

The shower was probably not so severe as in the city, and the track, which was previously in the best of condition, was only slightly slippered.

RACE NO. 1, CLASS A, 1 MILE NOVICE.

1st Prize, Gold Watch.....value $50.00
2d " Silver Watch..... " 20.00
3d " Bicycle Saddle..... " 5.00
(First two men of each heat enter final.)

First heat—Sangstad, the Swedish skater, had great expectations. He gained a lead by coasting down the bank on the second lap, but gave out on the third, and finished last.

Second heat—Line held the lead all the way. After they parted, W. A. J. Flack gave him a hard race on the stretch, and finished close behind.

Third heat—All loafed on the first lap, but on the second MacFarland went on and finished first in spite of Hendricks spurt. The slow time caused an order of a time limit of 2:55 for the novices.

The novices who finished, came in this order:

FIRST HEAT.
22 B. Jacobus, Montclair.
13 A. Thomas, Newark.
6 Charles Liebold, New York.
7 W. H. Chamberlain, Westfield.
15 H. S. Jelleme, Passaic.
12 Olaf Sangstad, Plainfield.

SECOND HEAT.
40 Philip Young, Montclair.
33 John T. Beam, New York.
27 Isaac Townley, Westfield.
43 William E. Ruge, Brooklyn.
20 C. Enderlin, Newark.

THIRD HEAT.
30 I. N. Line, Plainfield.
71 W. A. J. Flack, Brooklyn.
58 Luther Rice, Newark.
72 E. Johnson, Rahway.
65 A. Valent, New York.
49 R. H. Ran, New York.

FOURTH HEAT.
100 D. H. MacFarland, Elizabeth.
104 F. A. Hendricks, Brooklyn.
84 Charles L. Flack, East Orange.
93 J. E. Roberts, Elizabeth.

FIFTH HEAT.
127 F. G. Hedge, Brooklyn.
114 H. F. Loehrs, Elizabeth.
107 C. K. Andresen, Brooklyn.
126 Hans Hansen, Perth Amboy.
117 William J. Dodd, Plainfield.
109 S. J. Burke, Newark.
108 E. M. Carbonell, New York.
112 W. Appley, Elizabeth.
106 Oscar Hedstrom, Brooklyn.

FINAL OF NOVICE.

Won by Jacobus, Line second, Hedge third. Time 2:37.

1st Prize, Spalding high grade Bicycle.....value $125.00
2d " Gold Watch..... " 50.00
3d " Cyclometer..... " 5.00

Silvie did n't start. Pretty race at start. Taxis in the middle of group. As he entered the stretch he slipped on 21 lb. Sterling, went over on right side of head, turning a somersault off wheel.

Taylor caught him and fell, bruising his left side and leg slightly. Taxis was picked up and attended by Drs. Lowrie and Fritz. The front of his wheel was smashed. He was unconscious. His head is badly cut.

Murphy protested Wells.
Titus finished fairly ahead of Murphy.
Finished in this order:
18 Fred J. Titus, New York.
118 C. M. Murphy, Syracuse, N. Y.
19 W. H. Wells, Springfield, Mass.
Time—1:45.

(Local.)

1st Prize, Gold Watch.....value $50.00
2d " Scarf Pin..... " 15.00
3d " Bicycle Lamp..... " 5.00

Willis led at start, Cuming close behind. Rest bunching closely. At beginning second lap, Willis still had the lead, and Brown was pressing closely. On last lap Barnett shot ahead but could not keep the lead, and both Brown and Willis passed him.

Finished in this order:
39 Charles Brown, Elizabeth.
1 James Willis, Westfield.
32 A. H. Barnett, Westfield.
103 L. E. Coyt, Elizabeth.
21 T. A. Cuming, Plainfield.
28 D. S. Lewis, Plainfiel
Time—2:30 3-5

The races are still on as this issue goes to press

NO IMPROVEMENT YET

The Unfavorable Condition of Trade Continues.

Tariff Delay and the Great Coal Strike Probably the Principal Causes—More Mills and Factories Closing Their Doors for Want of Fuel—A Few Favorable Features.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The decidedly unfavorable condition of general trade continues without material improvement, according to Bradstreet's. Continued delay of tariff legislation prolongs the stifling effect on wholesale business. The great coal strike continues without sign of early improvement, no concession having been made by either side. More mills, factories and furnaces have closed their doors for want of fuel. The pig iron industry of the central western states is practically at a standstill for want of soft coal or coke. At Pittsburg and vicinity the scarcity of fuel has greatly stagnated business. There are no new labor strikes of importance to record, but almost all of those previously reported are in existence. The volume of general trade is still further reduced by the intervention of a holiday and by cold and wet weather.

The favorable features come from Duluth, Omaha, Augusta, Ga., and Jacksonville. Augusta, Ga., reports a gain in the volume of business as compared with the last three weeks, and that cotton manufacturers have orders ahead and are running on full time, while needed rains throughout the Florida vegetable districts have stimulated demand, so that Jacksonville trade is brisk. At Louisville sales at fair prices are noted only with reference to leaf tobacco.

At Chicago the volume of business in dry goods, clothing and shoes has fallen off, and sales of almost all staples to districts affected by the coal strike are lighter. Bankers report very little calls for loans even from the grain trade and deposits increasing. Similar influences have checked the business of St. Louis jobbers, where the volume has not met expectations.

Concessions in prices for wool for future delivery fail to secure purchases from New England manufacturers. Shipments of shoes from Boston have increased and are about equal to those of a year ago, and cotton goods mills, where not affected by the strikes, are running on full time, but at cut prices. Philadelphia textile manufacturers are operating from 50 to 75 per cent. of their plants, but on orders only.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Katie Newhall left for California today.

Mrs. S. F. Kimball is in Sea Girt for the Summer.

Miss Lizzie Wilcox, the efficient cashier in Edsall's store, is confined to the house by illness.

L. B. Bromfield of East Sixth street has taken a cottage at Ocean Grove from July to Oct. 1.

H. C. Loughlin came from Philadelphia last night for a short visit with Matthew Kinney of West Front street.

Miss Smith of Trinity Church took her Sunday-school class on a delightful picnic to Wetumpka Falls this morning.

Jacob R. VanWinkle of 127 Park avenue is able to be out again after a four-weeks illness of grip and throat trouble.

Mrs. E. M. Ransom, of Astoria, L. I., returned to her home today after a pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radford.

The marriage of Mrs. Moore of Elmwood place to Samuel Terry, Sr., will take place at the bride's home Saturday evening, June 9, at 8.

E. P. Doane, representing F. W. Dodge & Co's Construction Information Service, is in town today securing data of Plainfield's big public improvements, of which the firm had read in The Daily Press.

The marriage is announced of Miss Lizzie Sheppard to Elmer S. Garretson, both of this city, to take place Thursday afternoon, June 14, at 5, at the home of the bride's parents, 136 Central avenue.

Charles Wann, formerly of the borough, and F. C. Stover, come from New York last evening and attended the Borough Council meeting in the interests of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Dr. F. C. Ard now rides a Victor flyer, purchased of W. H. Rogers.

The C. Y. M. L. run to Rahway tomorrow afternoon will start from the Lyceum at 2.

The P. H. S. A. A. are very busy preparing for their field day next Saturday, at the Crescent Wheelmen's track, and have received a large number of entries. Entries will close Monday noon, and entry blanks may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Vincent Rockwell rode on the new track on a League Chainless bicycle borrowed from Charles C. Lister. He turned around in front of a colored rider. The front wheel of the chainless was badly bent. The rider of the other had to be pulled out of the tangle.

Sentence Suspended.

Royal Day of Scotch Plains, indicted on a charge of indecent assault, came before the Court in Elizabeth this morning. S. S. Swackhamer defended him, and succeeded in getting the Court to accept a plea of simple assault. Then Mr. Swackhamer pleaded for him, and sentence was suspended.

Fatal Disease Among Horses.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 2.—A distemper appears to have broken out among draught horses in this city. The animals are seized with trembling and almost immediately fall down. On being raised to their feet one hind leg is found to be practically paralyzed. They die within a few hours. One horse attacked was bought a few days ago and came from the west.

Believe He is a Bigamist.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 2.—The authorities of Middletown are looking up the record of Joseph P. Straken, who is now in Decorah, Iowa. He went to Middletown in 1876 from Philadelphia, where he was married. While in Middletown he married Caroline Sebell, his Philadelphia wife, it is said, being still alive.

To Force Corbett to Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Peter Jackson announces he will start for England in about two weeks with the intention of forcing Champion Corbett into making a match.

War in Bulgaria Inevitable.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—The Novoe Vremia, in an inspired article, says civil war in Bulgaria is appearing inevitable.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Quart bottles 25c. To be diluted for use according to directions on label.

BOROUGH LEGISLATION.

NORTH PLAINFIELD TRANSACTS ITS MONTHLY BUSINESS BUDGET.

Councilman Edwards's Resignation Accepted, and E. E. Winckler Elected in His Place—$2,400 for Fire Protection—Cycling Regulated.

The Borough Council met last night, accepted Councilman Edwards's resignation, elected Elmer E. Winckler in his place, ordered the expenditure of $2,400 for fire apparatus and passed an ordinance regulating the riding of bicycles. Councilmen Peck and Edwards were absent. Clerk Arnold read the minutes and after a slight correction they were approved.

Carting licenses were reported received to the amount of $142.50 and liquor licenses $926 75. Matters referred were the election in Warren Engine Company of Joseph Newman, Henry Brokaw and Thomas Melcher, Chief Marshal Pangborn's bond, signed by William C. Winckler and George Kirch, and a petition for the macadamizing of Mountain avenue between Somerset street and Westervelt avenue. A number of bills were referred to the Auditing Committee. The report of the Auditing Committee on the state of the treasury was made verbally and action postponed till later in the evening.

Councilman Lounsbury reported for the Committee on Fire, Water and Lights The matter of buying better apparatus for the fire department had been investigated and the committee thought immediate action was necessary. The alarm system had been improved by the purchase of a whistle but was still inadequate, as had been shown by the Jenning's fire on Rockview avenue. The horses employed were liable to be away at work and this now unavoidable delay made desirable a quick system of alarm.

The committee had decided that the Gamewell system, the one used in the city, was the best for the purpose and that the company had made a favorable proposition. Another need was a hose-wagon. The cart now in use did not hold enough hose, nor did it keep hose in good condition. A wagon would carry men and light apparatus with a large supply of hose. The committee asked for an appropriation of $3,000. The report was received.

Councilman Neal of the Laws, Ordinances and Elections Committee, said that the committee thought it best not to publish a complete book of borough ordinances, but to print a synopsis of each instead. A bicycle ordinance was presented.

For the Street Committee Councilman Valiant verbally reported that work on Mercer avenue had been completed, that gutters had been formed on several streets and that Grove street had been scraped.

The ordinance presented by the committee was then adopted on first reading and ordered published. Wheelmen are to give warning by bell or whistle before reaching a crossing on which anyone is walking and are to carry a lantern at night between an hour after sunset and an hour before sunrise.

The Ordinance Committee was instructed to prepare a synopsis of the borough laws for approval and publication. George Kirch was granted permission to put up an awning of wood and iron in front of his place on Somerset street, at the corner of Grandview avenue. An appropriation of $200 was made to be used by the street commissioner in completing the work on Grove street north of the Greenbrook road.

The resignation of Councilman Edwards was accepted and the thanks of the people of the borough extended to him for his public services. Elmer E. Winckler was nominated by Councilman Lounsbury to fill the vacancy and he was elected.

The fire department appropriation having been brought up, Councilman Valiant favored laying the matter over until the people had discussed it. Councilman Lounsbury said that one-fifth of one per cent of all the public money was annually allowed for fire department purposes, and that the expenditure he asked would not make the yearly cost exceed this. He knew the move would meet with some opposition. After much discussion the committee was authorized to expend not more than $2,400 for a fire-alarm system in accordance with a proposition made by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company. This provides for 12 boxes, signaling apparatus in the engine-house, an alarm in the Chief's house and gong-blowing apparatus in the electric light station. Payments will be made in three equal annual instalments, beginning December, 1894. The system will probably be ready next September. The committee was also authorized to buy a hose wagon for $500 or less.

Jacob Bergen was appointed dog catcher, beginning June 15, to be paid 75 cents for each unlicensed dog he killed and buried.

Councilman Valiant again brought up the question of the correctness of the balance reported by ex-Borough Clerk Vetterlein. Councilman Neal said he was sorry to be informed that the clerk's work had not been completed, and he thought that Clerk Arnold should be instructed to examine the books and report at the next meeting what the correct balance was when the last annual report was made in February.

Clerk Arnold said the books were in very bad condition. He had made up a balance sheet and found that expenditures in various ways had not been charged as follows:

Somerset street road account	$ 339.01
General road account	530.37
Borough account	1,497.24
Total	$2,366.62

These amounts were incorrectly reported to be in the treasury. The balance when the report was made should have been $2,527.91. In not balancing his books Clerk Vetterlein had not kept record of the notes and it appeared as if the collector owed the borough nearly $15,000 on this account. The present balance was $724.44.

On motion of Councilman Neal Clerk Arnold was authorized to balance the books of his predecessor and to report monthly.

The election of members in Warren Engine Company was confirmed and Patrick Kellegher was granted an exempt fireman's certificate. Mayor Needham was authorized to appoint a committee of three to confer with the city authorities on the sewerage question. Bills were ordered paid. The Council then adjourned.

SUNSHINE MAKERS.

They Help the Fresh-Air Fund.

The Sunshine Makers, an organization of four girls, President Anna Cahoone, Clara Woodward, Nina Sampson and Gussie Long, held a fair in the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the Tribune Fresh Air Fund. The girls of the club and their assistants were busy with their customers from 3 till 8.

The main room was very prettily decorated with flags and flowers, and the arrangement of the tables gave evidence of careful preparation on the part of the young workers in a worthy cause. The tables were managed as follows:

Fancy table—Nina Sampson and Gussie Long.

Lemonade table—Clyde Burnet.

Flower table—Agnes Langhorne and Mary Collier.

Cake table—Marguerite Burnet and Florence Cahoone.

Ice-cream table—Waitresses—Fanny Cahoone, Bessie Phillips and Edna Long.

The club was organized in April. During the Summer the members will send flowers to New York and to Muhlenberg Hospital. A sale will be held of the fancy articles remaining unsold at the close of the fair last evening.

OBITUARY.

Lambert DeCamp.

The death of Lambert DeCamp of Dog Tavern occurred Thursday at his home, after an illness lasting about nine weeks.

Mr. DeCamp was well-known in this vicinity, having lived here several years ago on East Second street, when he did a trucking business.

Nine years ago he purchased the Central Hotel at Dog Tavern, of which he was the popular host till his death.

He leaves a wife and four daughters, Mrs. E. Walters of New York, Mrs John Dunn, Somerville, Miss Emma DeCamp and Miss Martha DeCamp, and four sons, Lambert DeCamp, Jr., Ira, William and Russell. Two daughters and all of the sons are living home.

His funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from his late residence, and interment will be in the North Plainfield Cemetery.

James Jackson.

The death of James Jackson, aged 71, occurred at 9:30 last evening, at his late residence, 409 East Sixth street. He had been ill one week, of kidney trouble. He had lived six years at his home in Plainfield, and was a progressive citizen. He was an incorporator of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, and for some time a director of the company. His end was calm and peaceful. He leaves a wife, one daughter and three sons. For many years he lived in Brooklyn, and the interment will be in Cypress Hills Cemetery. The funeral will be at his late residence Monday evening at 8.

HIGH SCHOOL CHRONICLES.

The Kappa Delta Phi welcomed a number of visitors yesterday. They debated politics, and decided that to be successful in politics partisanship beat independence.

Mr. Holck lectured edifyingly on the 16-year locust yesterday.

Something Refreshing.

The work done at the Plainfield Manual Training School, of which John Dalziel is Principal, and which occupies the handsomely-equipped rooms over the Friends Meeting-house, 309 East Front street, is of a very satisfactory character.

Some of the pupils have developed a high degree of talent in the various departments. Percy S. Browne, the first scholar who entered the school, gives evidence of steady perseverance in the advancement made in drawing and wood turning. David S. Pond, the second to enter the school, has made marked progress in both the scholastic and manual training departments. Bryant G. Harman has shown a quality of artistic ability both in the handling of tools and in art work generally, which promises well for the future.

Others, to the number of eighteen scholars, can attest the value of the instruction they have received. Their work is on exhibition at the school room. It is intended to add a telegraphic outfit to teach the operation and adjustment of telegraphic instruments. Charles E. Buell will have charge of the electrical classes.

Local Thespians.

The Deacon Comedy Company of this city satisfactorily presented "Trise; or, Beyond the Rockies", in Voorhees's Hall, Bound Brook, this week. The parts were well taken by each member, as was testified by the plaudits they received. The leading characters were by J. H. Angerbauer as Nat Weber, and Miss M. Campbell as "Trise". Miss Campbell received a handsome floral tribute. A. Allen made a good judge, and in the third act kept the audience in a roar of laughter.

The same company presented another five-act comedy, "The Deacon", which was well received. In the first act Harry Dreier does some clever playing on the banjo, winning hearty encores. The company will play Westfield next.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

A very pretty May party was given by Miss Evelyn Schierenbeck the afternoon of Decoration Day, to a number of her little friends and schoolmates. The children assembled on the lawn in front of her father's residence, Terrill road, Fanwood, where a tastefully arranged Maypole was erected. They selected their ribbons, and then danced the May dance. After the dance they made Jean, the three-year-old baby of the house, queen for the day. Games were then introduced, and the children had a merry time. At 5 refreshments were served. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. The children were hungry, from so much gaiety, and did full justice to the variety of good things provided for them. After the singing of national songs, they said good-night and went home happy.

John Warta denies that Thomas O'Neill ran away or got a hard threshing, and says his whereabout is known. Of late, he adds, Thomas got in the habit of going out nights and coming home none the best for it. He was told a number of times to stop this bad habit, with no effect on his part. Partly for this, and other reasons, he was told to change his quarters.

The battle between the Benedicks and Bachelors of Scotch Plains for supremacy was a great thing. The former led from the start, and won easily. The features of the game were Hand's pitching and Day's batting. The score:

WEST END NOTES.

The Grant Avenue Rambling Society spent Decoration Day at Washington Rock.

The West End Junior Bicycle Club took a ride to Newark by way of Scotch Plains, Springfield and Millburn. Those in the ride were J. Young, captain, S. Hoffman, flag bearer, H. Brunbaugh, C. Hartfelder, J. Cose, E. Highan, G. Gose, B. Martin, F. Tallamy, D. Gray, F. Firstbrook and T. Muir.

James Perry is recovering from the injury to his foot, at the Muhlenberg Hospital.

H. H. Hoffman is having his house painted.

WEST ENDER.

MUSCLE MAKERS.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association, which will hold its field day June 9, on the Crescent Wheelmen's new track, is an important factor among the High School boys. Its membership includes almost all the members of the High School and several from the Grammar classes; on its honorary list are all of those who though not at present attending the High School, did so at one time and were then members of the association. Fred W. Goddard is president, and Albert Woltmann secretary. The base-ball nine is managed by C. L. Riley. So far this year it has played but one game. C. B. Morse has charge of the foot-ball eleven. The Bicycling Division is captained by Albert Woltmann; E. I. Serrell is first lieutenant, and H. C. Wells second lieutenant. Several runs have been taken which were fairly well attended. Three other field days have been held, and each was more successful than its predecessor, and it is now confidently expected that the coming field day will far outshine those of the past. By opening some of the events to other schools, the association hopes to encourage a friendly rivalry among the schools, and thus give a more important place to school athletics.

The Westfield School Fife and Drum Corps has been invited to attend the Plainfield High School field day next week.

Lower Prices, Bigger Sales.

Although New York wholesale business houses have had an exceptionally hard season, it has been a great advantage to wide-awake retailers who have had the ready cash to pick up the many inducements that importers have offered. Mr. White has been in a position to take advantage of all the great bargains that have been offered, and although he says he is selling goods 25 per cent. lower than last year his sales during May were 20 per cent. more than last May, and that shows that Plainfield people are patronizing home trade more than ever.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. In the Congregational Church tomorrow the pastor will speak on Church Unity, bringing up the progressive resolutions passed at a recent meeting of the New Jersey Association of Congregational Churches.

But little business was transacted at the meeting of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. Church last evening, the president being away. Two new members were proposed. It was decided to hold a social in June, but to have none in July or August.

There will be a novel and highly instructive entertainment in Bethel Chapel, Thursday evening, June 2. Adam Chambers's famous panorama of John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress will be presented in 22 magnificent oil paintings on canvas, accompanied by a graphic, forcible and eloquent descriptive lecture.

A teachers meeting was held in the First Baptist Church last evening, after the Christian Endeavor meeting. The excursion was set down for July 25 to Asbury Park. It was decided to observe Children's Day, June 10, with appropriate exercises. New hymn books were ordered, and it was voted to obtain new mottoes for the Sunday-school rooms, as those now in use have not been changed since the school was started.

SPEAK UP, DOMINIE.

Here's a Near Neighbor of Yours Anxious to Hear Your Say.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am not gunning for the editor of the Westfield Standard. But, if he is amusing, why should I not be amused? Local centennials—(especially centennials with an appropriation)—are apt to develop history theretofore unsuspected. But what surprises us is that Editor Pearsall should have invented so maladroit and unpopular an affair as a Treason to grace his favorite town. Ordinary mortals would have been satisfied with a redan stormed at the point of the bayonet, or even a good sea fight a la Clark Russell. However, there is no accounting for what Emerson calls "tendency"; and a "treason" is no more ultimate than a proposition (made by Editor Pearsall last week) that the government run the coal mines. (Query: Why not the bakeries? Bread being as much a staff of life as coal), which Editor Pearsall announces in last week's Standard?

But, if I am to write space for your columns against my will, why can we not hear from that other learned archæologist of Westfield, Rev. Mr. Cadwell, who recognizes in a dismantled and disabled old parapet gun on a carriage as large as a church, a light field piece of the 18th century, which the Hessians dragged over from Staten Island when they raided Union County for Spring chickens? If they did drag it over it was at least a glimmer of common sense that they left it!

WESTFIELD

Who's the Gent!

"For the benefit of a well-known gentlemen who is in need" (so the circulars state) a grand soiree is to be given in Central Hall Tuesday evening, June 14. HER COMMON REPLY:

"I DON'T FEEL VERY WELL."

You Hear These Words Every Day Spoken By Women You Know.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

It's in their mind all the time.
It weighs upon them, it crushes them.

They are utterly miserable.

Don't you know the reason?

Don't you know that the cause of nearly all your trouble was discovered by a woman twenty years ago? Don't you know that from that day to this, thousands have been cured of the same life-killing tortures that now afflict you?

The words "Women's Complaints" represent misery untold, and have shortened thousands of beautiful lives.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound comes to you with physical salvation; nothing like it ever came into the dives of women. It relieves at once, and cures all the miseries that result from displacement and derangement of the womb.

Hear what this woman who once suffered and is now well says. Can proof be greater?

"All I have to say is, any woman who continues to suffer with any of those trying diseases peculiar to our sex is largely responsible for her own suffering, for if she will only apply to Mrs. Pinkham, relief will follow at once. This I know absolutely from my own personal experience. Her Vegetable Compound is a miracle. I have seen it cure womb troubles when all the wisest doctors failed.

"My sisters, don't hesitate. Write at once; relief is waiting for you."—MRS. JENNIE STREET, San Francisco, Cal.

AGAINST AMERICANS

Threatening Attitude of Korean Rebels.

A Message From the King's Palace at Seoul Urgently Requesting That a United States Warship Be Despatched to Korea at Once—The Government Forces Weak.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Korean legation in Washington received a cablegram yesterday from the king's palace at Seoul, stating that the rebels had gained possession of Chunlato, the southern and chief of the eight provinces of the kingdom, that the lives of all foreigners were in danger and that the presence of a United States warship at Chemulo, without delay, to protect Americans was urgently requested.

The officials of the legation immediately presented the facts to Secretary Gresham and impressed him with the importance of prompt action. They explained that there were between 300 and 400 Americans in the four principal cities of Korea and that the revolution was really directed against them.

The people are divided into two political parties, the east and the west, the latter representing the progressive element in favor of Western civilization as typified by the Americans. This party supports the king, who is a warm admirer of the United States, and who has frequently given proof of his friendship as in the present instance.

The opposition adhere to eastern notions, and this party has been rapidly strengthening in the inaccessible portions of the country until, according to the telegram just received, they have succeeded in seizing an important province not over a hundred miles from Seoul, the capital, and within a few days' march of the three free ports where the foreigners reside.

Unless they are checked by some stronger power than the government seems able to exert it is considered probable that many, if not all, the American residents will be murdered.

The present outbreak is attributed to the fact that no American naval vessels have shown the flag in Korean waters since the visit of the Alert, and that the natives have conceived the notion that the foreigners are unsupported.

Secretary Gresham laid the matter before the president, but up to a late hour no action had been taken, the president deeming it advisable to await a report from Minister Sill on the subject.

Acting Secretary of the Navy McAdoo was called into the consultation and stated that there was one ship available for use in the emergency: the Baltimore, now at Nagasaki, Japan. She could reach Chemulpo within 48 hours after orders were issued to her.

It is understood that orders directing the Baltimore to proceed to that port have already been prepared in cipher and will be cabled as soon as the president authorizes such action.

Refuse to Meet Miner's Officers.

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—The efforts made by the national officers of the United Mine Workers' to secure through Gov. Pattison a meeting of the Pennsylvania operators with the national executive board of the miners seems to have failed. Gov. Pattison sent the following telegram to secretary H. McBryde expressing the result of his negotiations:

"Berwind & Scott, representing the operators of central Pennsylvania, refuse to meet the national executive board of the miners, but will meet a committee of miners of their own district.

Destruction By Flood.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 2.—Devastation and ruin are the only words to express the awful calamity in the Frazer river valley country. One hundred miles of country have been devastated, and the end is not yet. Small mountain streams have changed as if by magic to roaring torrents, bringing down thousands of tons of snow to add to the destroying elements already included in the juggernaut-like journey of debris. Thousands of sheep and swine have been drowned, houses washed away and enormous damage done. It is feared that many lives have been lost.

Tore Out His Whiskers.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., June 2.—The agent who brought Virginia negroes to Frick's Standard works had a rough experience last evening. The wives of the strikers caught him and tore out most of his beard. He finally escaped and came up town only to run into a crowd of strikers, who gathered about him and treated him worse. Law abiding people slipped him off to the station where he was kept under cover until train time.

Idle on Account Coke Famine.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 2.—Notices have been posted in the various parts of the Cambria Iron company's mechanical departments, stating that one half of the employes would be suspended indefinitely at once. Several hundred men will be made idle. The cause of the cutting down of the force in the mechanical department is that no coke can be obtained.

May Call Out Anthracite Miners.

PITTSBURG, June 2.—It is learned here that the executive board of the United Mine workers are now considering the advisability of calling out the 124,000 anthracite coal miners in Pennsylvania. The officers of this district are expecting word at any moment to go into the anthracite region for this purpose.

Roumanian Colony for California.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—S. J. Kline, a Roumanian, is concluding negotiations for the purchase of 200,000 acres of land belonging to the Mitchell estate in Merced county, and if the deal is carried through 14,000 Roumanians will settle in California as colonists.

Signed By Gov. Greenhalge.

BOSTON, June 2.—Gov. Greenhalge has signed the bill creating a state fire marshall, also the bill creating a commission to investigate and provide a form of government for a "Greater Boston," the metropolitan district.

Gov. Flower at Watertown.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 2.—Governor Flower has arrived here. His Watertown home is now open for the summer. He expects to spend much of his time here.

REMOVAL.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

Formerly of Trenton, the well-known expert in Chronic Diseases, can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

WAITE BACK OF THEM

Colorado's Governor Still Aiding Miners.

Strike Leader Calderwood a Guest of the Chief Executive, and Thus Shielded From Arrest—An Order That No National Guards are to Be Called Out.

DENVER, Col., June 4.—Detectives are assisting Sheriff Bowers in a search for John Calderwood, president of the Victor Miners' union, who came up from Colorado Springs with Governor Waite at an early hour yesterday morning. When the party arrived Calderwood was taken into a carriage with the governor and conveyed to some secluded place, which no one but the governor and party knows.

Sheriff Bowers arrived about daylight with a warrant for Calderwood's arrest upon the charge of inciting riot. He had not been arrested in Colorado Springs, because then he was the governor's guest.

Detectives shadowed Governor Waite all day in the hope that they might find their man, but at night Sheriff Bowers had to return without the head official of the miners, now in a belligerent attitude.

About the governor's office the populists there declared that the arrest of Calderwood would only add fuel to the hatred of the miners and would make the contest all the more bloody.

Calderwood came under a flag of truce, they declared, and should not be subjected to arrest. But the civil authorities look upon the man, not as a beligerent, but as an accomplice in a conspiracy that has already resulted in highway robbery, arson, destruction of property and in murder.

Gov. Waite says that he has taken no official action and it is not believed that he will declare martial law point, a point which is declared to be illegal.

Strong pressure has steadily been brought to bear upon him to get him to agree to back up Sheriff Bowers with the militia, a move he is loath to make.

When Governor Waite reached Palmer he sent the following telegram to Adjutant-General Tarsney, thinking that Sheriff Bowers had made the above request for troops:

"PALMER LAKE, June 3.—To Gen. Tarsney, or office in command at armory: No national guards must be called out by Hogle or Kincaid. DAVID H. WAITE.
"Governor and Commander-in-Chief."

Breckinridge Has Found Rest.

MIDWAY, Ky., June 4.—Col. Breckinridge spoke here for two hours to an audience composed almost entirely of men. After he had concluded his address fully 300 members of the Owens club, 50 of them women, filed into the room and Evan Settle took the stand. This was a complete surprise to the Breckinridge people. Some of the women stood near the door so, as one of them expressed it, "if Breckinridge was put on the stand again they could get out." The town is wild with excitement, and cheering for both candidates is about evenly divided. Breckinridge's speech was a repetition in the main of his Lexington speech of several weeks since. "I am not a saint," he said impressively, "nor an angel. Simply a man and in the storm around me during the past months in the darkness of which there seemed no light, I heard that tender voice which said: 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden;' I heard the invitation and I went, and before God, Our Father, I have found rest."

Big Dent in the Columbia.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The dent in the bottom of the Columbia is ninety feet long, four feet wide and varies in depth up to more than one foot. It extends all along the midship compartments on the starboard side of the keel, and the outer plates have been fractured by the buckling strain in at least two places, making slight leaks which will necessitate new plates or patches. This information comes from a preliminary examination from the interior which has just been made under great difficulties, as the damaged portion of the ship is beneath the boilers, and the cement filling renders it impossible to calculate the full extent of the damage. In this superficial investigation at least fifty-six rivets were found torn apart by the tremendous wrench the ship sustained.

Dole and American Politics.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—Honolulu advices state that President Dole, replying to Walter G. Smith, who had sent him a communication from Secretary Humphrey of the national republican league of the United States, suggesting a delegation to speak for Hawaii and the policy of annexation before the league convention soon to be held at Denver, says it would be unwise for the provisional government or political organizations which support it to become identified with my political party of the United States when all of them contain friends and advocates of the annexation policy. Our request for political union with the United States, says the president, is to the whole American people and it is not for us to encourage any tendency that may exist to make a party matter of it.

Crab Poachers Riddled With Bullets.

CRISFIELD, Md., June 4.—One of the state police vessels poured a fusilade of shot into a fleet of twenty-five crabbing vessels in Holland strait, and that the crews of the poachers escaped injury is regarded as almost a miracle. Several hundred shots were fired. The sails and deckhouses of the crabbers were riddled with bullets, and three of them, the Frank Law, Raymond James and Jackson Bradshaw, were so badly crippled that they were unable to escape. They were towed into Fishing bay, where they were held as hostages by the Dorchester county authorities until the captains pay the fine assessed for "scraping the bottom."

The First Mackerel Brought In.

PROVINCETON, Mass., June 3.—The fishing schooner Stowell Sherman has arrived with 370 barrels of mackerel, from Cape Canso, the first this season. She reports schooners Alice Chase, with 350 barrels mackerel, and Charles R. Washington, with 200 barrels. They saw plenty of fish on the passage home.

Another Negro Lynched.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 4.—Hardy Gill, colored, was taken from the jail in Lancaster shortly after midnight by a party of twenty-five men and carried away about three miles and lynched. Two or three days ago he assaulted and inflicted, it is feared, mortal wounds on the wife of Mr. James A. Clark.

BIGAMIST AT FIFTY-NINE.

Four Times Married and But Twice a Widower.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Two women, who gave their names as Carrie and Catharine Boehmer, of 159th street and Courtlandt avenue, appeared in the Morrisania court as compainants against Philip Boehmer, aged 59, whom they charge with bigamy. According to the stories of the women, Boehmer has been twice a widower, and has three children living, one of whom is now in charge of wife No. 3.

After the death of his second wife, who was buried in Potter's field ten years ago, Boehmer remained single until September, 1892, when he married wife No. 3, Carrie, at her home, 828 Courtlandt avenue. Three months after the wedding they parted, the wife going to her present address and Boehmer resuming the occupation of a ragpicker which he followed for a few months prior to his marriage.

In the summer of the next year Boehmer met a widow, Mrs. Catherine Brandt, who had saved a little money, and on October 26 he was married to her by Alderman Oakley. They moved to 655 Cortlandt avenue, and Boehmer lived on his wife's money.

The two women were unaware of the man's faithlessness until two weeks ago, when wife No. 4 was apprised of the fact by her granddaughter, who had learned it from wife No. 3.

The two women met, and after telling their stories, decided to take action against the aged deceiver. Just at this time Boehmer's last demand for money from his wife took the last few dollars of her little store and starvation stared them in the face. They laid their complaints before Justice Burke and a warrant was issued for Boehmer's arrest.

In court both women rehearsed their stories and showed their marriage certificates. Boehmer admitted being the husband of wife No. 4, but said he was duped into marrying No. 3 and was drunk at the time. He said he did not know he was married to her until he had lived with her two months and that he did not think the marriage legal. He claimed that wife No. 3 abused him, and because he could not work, left him.

Justice Burke held Boehmer in $5,000 bail for trial, in default of which he was locked up.

VETERANS AND CIVIL SERVICE.

Interest in the New Law Passed in New York State.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A great deal of interest is being taken in the new law passed at the recent session of the legislature exempting veteran soldiers and sailors of the late civil war from civil service examination for certain positions. The act states that persons who served in the army or navy during the civil war and have been honorably discharged shall be preferred for appointment to positions in the civil service of the state over all other persons graded lower than others so examined, provided their qualifications and fitness shall have been ascertained, and the person thus preferred shall not be disqualified from holding any position in said civil service on account of his age, nor by reason of any disability, provided such disability does not render him incompetent to perform the duties of the position applied for.

"But," continues the statute, "the civil service rules and laws of this state shall not apply to such persons residents of this state, who served in the army or navy of the United States, in the late war, and have been honorably discharged therefrom, for any position or employment, the compensation of which does not exceed $4 a day, in the public departments and upon all public works of the state of New York, and of the several cities, counties, towns and villages thereof."

The important question has been raised as to whether the latter clause was relative to and includes salaries by the month or year amounting to less "compensation" than $4 a day or not.

Against Railroad Associations.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The inter-state commerce commission, in an opinion by Commissioner Clements, has decided the cases of the Cincinnati freight bureau against the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway company and others, and the Chicago freight bureau against the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railway company and others, in favor of the complainants. The commission decides that the division of territory between the eastern and western lines provided for in the Southern Railway and Steamship association agreement is without warrant in law and appears to be made for the benefit of the carriers without regard to the interest of shippers in the territory so divided, to whom it is in effect a denial of the privilege of shipping their goods or produce to market by the line or route they may prefer.

Two Hundred Men Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—Particulars have reached this city from a reliable source, giving details about the railway disaster at Santa Ana, San Salvador, in which 200 persons are said to have been killed. On May 3, President Ezeta went to the assistance of the city of Santa Ana, which was threatened by rebels. Fifteen hundred men were placed on a special train, which started for that town. The insurgents, learning of the approach of the government troops, removed the rails from the track on a steep grade several leagues from Santa Ana. The train rushed along at a high rate of speed, and eight cars were telescoped. Fully 200 men were killed and 122 wounded. President Ezeta had a narrow escape.

Thrilling Whether True or Not.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The story is published here that Markman Chapman, who disappeared from his home, 447 West Van Buren street, thereby disappointing his prospective bride, Mrs. Mary G. Burkett, had returned. He tells a thrilling tale which the police do not believe. Chapman says that when he went down town to get a $2,000 check cashed he was seized, bound, gagged, chloroformed and maltreated by Phillistines on Sangamon street. When he came to he was lying on the Desplaines river bank, near Lyons, and his $2,000 check and $147,000 in stock certificates which he had in his hat were all gone. He walked back to town. The couple say they will now get married.

The Wilson Massacre.

CAPE TOWN, June 4.—Despatches from Buluwayo say that the two British troopers, Daniells and Wilson, charged with misappropriating the sum of £1,000 which the late King Lobengula sent to the British authorities as a peace-offering, and as a notification that he was willing to submit, have been sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. The two troopers are also held to be morally responsible for the massacre of the Wilson party, as they suppressed the late king's message of submission in order to conceal their appropriation of the peace-offering.

TEMPERANCE CONGRESS.

Neal Dow Greeted By Ten Thousand People on Staten Island.

PROHIBITION PARK, STATEN ISLAND, N. Y., June 4.—Gen. Neal Dow, the father of prohibition, was greeted by 10,000 enthusiastic admirers at the International Temperance congress, which opened here yesterday. He occupied an arm-chair at the right of the presiding officer during the morning, afternoon and evening sessions, and showed by his quick appreciation of the points of the speakers that his mind is undimmed by the ninety years that have passed.

Prominent speakers and prohibition workers from many states and from abroad were present.

At the morning session William T. Wardwell, of New York, presided. The Rev. D. S. Gregory, D. D., led the devotional service. Col. Alexander S. Bacon, president of the Sunday Observance society, of Brooklyn, delivered the address of welcome.

Addresses congratulating Neal Dow on happily passing the ninetieth milestone were made by Aaron M. Powell, editor of the National Temperance Advocate; Professor Samuel Dickie, chairman of the national prohibition party; Susan E. Fessenden and Mrs. Ellen J. Phinney, of the W. C. T. U.; Hon. Samuel D. Hastings, of Wisconsin, and C. A. Everett, of St. John, N. B.

Neal Dow made a brief response telling how thoroughly he appreciated the kind words of his friends, and the encouragement they gave him in the work of his life.

Gen. Wager Swayne presided at the afternoon session. The Rev. Father Niles, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who came to take the place of Dr. McGlynn, who is ill, was the first speaker. He was followed by Joseph Cook, of Boston, Mass., and of international renown as a lecturer on temperance.

GETS BACK AT FLOWER.

Buffalo's Deposed Sheriff Issues Out a Statement.

BUFFALO, June 4.—Sheriff Beck, has given out an interview in which he criticizes the action of Gov. Flower in removing him, alleging that from the governor's own statement of the time he took to consider the case that he could not have read the evidence taken before the commissioner. The report of the commissioner on the briefs submitted by the counsel, he declares that the governor was actuated more by a desire to win popular applause by the removal of an official of his own party than by any desire to do right or enforce the law.

If the governor was judged by his own rule he would have been removed in disgrace, says Mr. Beck, for almost every official act of his has been condemned or influenced by improper motives and a violation of official obligation by the men who demanded his removal.

Mr. Beck declares that the governor's ruling was that a difference of judgment as to what should be done under unusual circumstances constituted ground for removal since the governor acquitted him of any willful misconduct.

Church Choir on Strike.

ORANGE, N. J., June 4.—The boys and men in the vested choir of Christ Episcopal church, of East Orange, struck yesterday and refused to sing. The cause was the discharge of the choirmaster, William I. Lyon, by the vestry of the church, and the appointment of George J. Brewer, a personal friend of the rector, the Rev. William M. Davis. The services were delayed about ten minutes. The church was crowded in anticipation of trouble. There was no disturbance and all passed off as well as the green hands could do. The vestry of the church assert that Mr. Lyon will not be reinstated, and the boys and men of choir are determined that he shall.

CONGRESSMEN'S SALARIES.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The question of docking members' salaries for the time absent from the house, except on account of sickness of themselves or families, is not yet settled and will not be until the courts have passed upon it.

Those representatives that believe that the law of 1856 in which the provision for withholding salaries is found, has been repealed, have decided to take the matter into court, if counsel, to whom they have referred the point for examination shall advise that it is within the probabilities that a decision favorable to their contention will be rendered.

That opinion is expected this week, and if it is favorable, a case will be made up at once.

Some member, who has been absent with the leave of the house for other reasons than illness, will be made the petitioner for a writ of mandamus to compel the speaker and sergeant-at-arms to certify and pay him the full amount of his salary for the month in which the absence occurred. It will probably be submitted to the court on an agreed statement of facts, so that there will be nothing to do but to argue the law point involved.

MUTUAL EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Plan in New York to Assist Deserving Persons to Secure Work.

NEW YORK, June 4.—One of the practical fruits of the hard times in this city last winter is the corporation of the Mutual Employment society, which secures work for deserving applicants without expense to their employers. The society recently opened an office at 25 Clinton place and has already a thousand men registered, whose references are being thoroughly investigated.

Positions have been secured for 40 or 50 men, several of them going out of town.

The co-operation of employers of labor, clergymen and charitable workers throughout the country is invited by the society, which includes in its directorate clergymen of several Protestant denominations, as well as Roman Catholics and Hebrews.

Among its officers are bank presidents, lawyers and clergymen.

Cycling League's Long Run.

HICKSVILLE, L. I., June 4.—The century run of the Westchester cycling league took place yesterday. The run was from Yonkers to Hicksville, a distance of 100 miles. It was not a road race, but simply a pleasure trip. The start was made at 5 a. m. and the course was through Amityville to Hicksville, a distance of sixty-one miles, where the cyclists arrived at 12:20 p. m. The wheelmen reported the route poor to Brooklyn, and the Long Island route excellent. The wheelmen left Hicksville at 2.10 p. m for Yonkers and arrived there at 7:40 p. m. The Westchester Cycling League will have a semi-annually century run, of which this is to be the inlaitory.

The Alliance All Right.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The navy department is in receipt of a cable message announcing the safe arrival of the United States war vessel Alliance at Barbadoes. This news was very gratifying to the department, as the Alliance was considerably overdue, and more anxiety was really felt on her account than in regard to the other two vessels which are still to be heard from, the Lancaster and the Marion. It is confidently expected that a few days, or perhaps a few hours may bring news of them also.

Trouble Expected Over Union Jack.

TORONTO, Ont., June 4.—Deputy Provincial High Chief Ranger Quinn of the Catholic Order of Foresters and a companion have started for the St. Paul, convention, taking a Union Jack which they will insist upon displaying at the convention. A row is expected. Quinn raised a rumpus over the same flag at Chicago last year.

White and Danforth Matched.

CHICAGO, June 3.—A twenty-round match for a purpose of $300 and the gate reception has been arranged between Tommy White and Tommy Danforth, the well-known featherweights. The men will fight at catch weights one week from next Thursday.

Gold in the United States.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—In view of the continued gold export movement, the location of gold in the United States becomes a matter of interest. The official treasury estimate of the gold stock in the United States on June 1 places it at $665,000,000.

Big Fire at Laconia, N. H.

LACONIA, N. H., June 4.—Fire that broke out at 3 a. m. at the Laconia Car works destroyed over $100,000 worth of property. The car company's loss includes three large buildings in the passenger car department; their entire malleable iron foundry plant with patterns, etc.; also two small dwellings houses. Considerable damage was done to a large tenement building and other shops and several passenger coaches and electric steeet cars in the process of construction and nearly completed, were burned.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 3.—Manager Talcott, of the New York baseball team, who made an offer to Fred Van Zant, the left-handed captain of the Critini Field club, of Hackensack, will not secure Van Zant's services. The members of the Field club started a subscription for their captain, and he decided to refuse Talcott's offer.

Negro Democrats to Meet.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A call is issued for a meeting of the Negro National Democratic league at Indianapolis beginning Tuesday, Aug. 2. The call is signed by C. H. J. Taylor, president, the recently confirmed recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia; and H. C. C. Atwood the rejected consul to Calais, chairman of the executive committee.

PRESBYTERIAN STRIFE

The Liberal Element Organize to Fight.

Circulars Containing Their Declaration Sent Out—It Aims at Amendments to the Book of Discipline; Also a Better Church Faith in the Form of Short Creed.

"Warfare of the most aggressive and sensational sort will be begun this week by the leaders of the liberal element in the Presbyterian church.

"Wednesday or Thursday evening every minister, elder and member of the Presbyterian church in New York and vicinity who is supposed to be in sympathy with the sentiments for which Dr. Charles A. Briggs and Prof. Henry Preserved Smith were suspended by the governing bodies of the church will receive a copy of a secret circular asking them to join 'the Presbyterian league of New York and vicinity.' This new league is headed by an executive committee of fifteen well known Presbyterian clergymen and laymen.

"Ever since the election of delegates from this city to the general assembly which concluded its labors at Saratoga last week finding Prof. Smith guilty of heresy the 'liberals' have been secretly at work organizing the new league.

"They claim to have discovered during the election that the conservatives, who turned both Dr. Briggs and Prof. Smith out of the church, had a secret organization. By means of this secret organization, the 'liberals' assert, the genuine sentiments of the great body of Presbyterians was overcome and a conservative majority was secured in the Saratoga general assembly.

"As a result the 'liberals' decided on active measures. Secret meetings of sympathizers were held, and, after a great deal of discussion and considerable labor, a constitution and declaration were prepared and adopted and the executive committee was appointed.

"The first copies of the circular containing the declaration and constitution were printed within the last few days. It says in part:

"The league aims to bring about, sooner or later, the reversal of burdensome and unjust ecclesiastical action recently taken by courts of the Presbyterian church.

"It aims at the adoption by the church of needed amendments to the Book of Discipline, according to the mode constitutionally provided for amendments and also to secure as soon as practicable, a better declaration of the faith of the church than it now possesses, if possible, in the form of a short and simple creed, expressed, as far as may be, in scriptural language."

On Fire and Sinking at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—A story of fire at sea on an over-laden sailing vessel, with loss of life and the rescue of passenger's and crew, was reported by Captain Seigle, of the north Atlantic Trident line steamship Donau, just arrived at this port from Hamburg. On April 16, the Donau while on the outward passage from Philadelphia, sighted a sailing vessel with smoke issuing from the main hatch and her distress flags in flames. The burning vessel proved to be the French schooner Jacmel, with eight passengers and a crew of 26 men, all told. A boat was lowered and put to the Jacmel which was discovered to be not only on fire, but leaking badly, her pumps being insufficient to keep her free. Despite the water in the hold the fire was gaining and the crew was helpless to stay it. The fire had been discovered three nights before and the men were exhausted through their efforts to save the craft. One man, Wilband Patenburg, the second mate, had succumbed to asphyxiation.

Atalanta Starts on Her Long Trip.

SANDY HOOK, June 4.—The steam yacht Atalanta, the finest looking yacht afloat in her new coat of white paint, passed the Hook at 3 p. m. on her long trip across the big pond to witnesses the races in which our representative, the Vigilant, will try and beat all opponents. The Stars and Stripes were floating from the tall mast alongside the marine observatory and when the Atalanta cleared the point of the Hook the signol code flag standing for the letters Q S D, indicating the single word "success" were hoisted. This was responded to from the natty craft and a second signal B R D, meaning "good-bye" was hoisted. The Atalanta also answered this and sped on her course.

Admitted a Murder After Acquittal.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A special from Atlanta, Ga., says: William Turner has been acquitted of the charge of murdering Floyd Speer. In a former trial the jury had disagreed. It was alleged that Turner killed Speer because Speer got a position in a factory which Turner desired for himself. As Turner was walking from the court room, after acquittal, he said to bystanders: "I did kill Floyd Speer, but not because he got the position in the factory. He kept hankerin' after my girl Eliza Body and I just done him. Lize was the one what got me the gun I shot him with."

Liberty Primer for Vermont Teachers.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Dr. W. Seward Webb, past president-general of the American Revolution, has authorized the Columbian liberty bell commitee to present, in his name, a copy of the Liberty Primer to every teacher in the state of Vermont. Dr. Webb is a graudson of Gen. Webb, of American revolution, and Shelburn, his beautiful home in Vermont, is a part of the land given his grandfather for services in the revolution army.

Suicide from Opium.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Walton M. Busbee, a North Carolina lawyer and more recently a clerk in the interior department at Washington, was found unconscious on the street yesterday morning and died a few hours later. It was undoubtedly a case of suicide from opium poisoning.

Suspicions of Foul Play.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 4.—The body of Patrick Rogers, a stone cutter, who has been missing for several days, was found in Stony Brook last evening and brought to this city for the coroner's inquest. Marks of violence upon the body give ground to the suspicion of foul play.

BLOODSHED FEARED.

Miners Armed to Prevent New Men From Going to Work.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 3.—A private dispatch to the United Press correspondent here, from Ridgeway, Elk county, states that Sheriff Elliott has deputized 150 men from Ridgeway and the surrounding towns, who have left to protect the men who will go to work in Hall, Kaul & Co.'s mines at Shawmut, Elk county. Resistance is expected from the striking miners, who have been reinforced by 800 men from Reynoldsville and Punxsutawney region.

The miners are well armed and desperate.

Girl's Father Aided the Elopers.

ELKTON, Md., June 3.—A sensation has been caused in the upper part of this county by the elopement of Walter Reynolds, son of a well-to-do resident, and Ella Kirk, of Sylmar. A few days ago the young couple, accompanied by the girl's father, came to Elkton and took a train for Philadelphia. They crossed the river to Camden and were married by a justice of the peace. Reynolds is only 18 years old and the girl a year his junior, yet Mr. Kirk assured the justice that the couple were of marriageable age. Reynold's parents are very much chagrined at the clandestine wedding, and it is thought will take legal steps to have the contract annulled.

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 4, 1894

Women voted in New Jersey in the Presidential election of 1804, when Thomas Jefferson was re-elected for a second term. In 1892 the women of the new State of Wyoming participated in a Presidential election which resulted in the choice of Grover Cleveland, who was the first President since Jefferson to be elected by the aid of women's votes. Now what was gained in either case by the women voting? And if all the women of the country had voted, would the result have been any different?

What is it that drug clerks absorb from the materials they handle that gives them such physical power and endurance? Cycling is a severe test ordinarily on a man generally cooped up indoors all day and the best part of the night, but Plainfield drug clerks come out of long trips as fresh as the fruit crushes they serve. Dudley S. Miller is a fast pedal pumper; Bert Schriener, Peter Hodge and John Powers seem tireless; and Charles H. Hall thinks nothing of a swift ride to Hightatown, Paterson or Staten as a gentle exercise after working hours.

What shall we do with the boys for a Summer outing? That's the question that perplexes parents. Take them in tow yourself, and they 're always getting lost or injured, because they will get out of your sight in spite of all your watch and worry. Then why not put them in charge of the Y. M. C. A. Camp? A host of boys is given a glorious time, and the Camp has never had an accident. The spot this year is on Lake Champlain near Westport, N. Y., and the expenses are small. The Press has n't time nor space to tell all the advantages, but Harry Manning is waiting in the Plainfield headquarters to post anyone whose interest is aroused.

Harper's Bazar, woman's best newspaper, confesses woman's weakness. Where Eve's daughters are lacking is in pockets. Read:

A boy's pockets are his certificate of empire. In virtue of his pockets he belongs to the stronger sex. Standing with hands in pockets, the miniature man surveys his little world with the part of a conquerer. All through life he will carry the sceptre of dominion by right of his pocket, in which, whatever his degree, he will carry the sinews of war. The amount of inconvenience, of worry, of absolute distress, occasioned to women by the lack of pockets, is almost tragic. No place for keys, for her pencils, for her purse, for her handkerchief, poor wretch, she must carry them all in one little struggling, encumbered hand.

Now that this is all clear, why does n't the fair sex move for reform in the right direction! Possessing pockets, a woman need n't be everlastingly borrowing things from a man.

Right here in Plainfield some honest-minded workingmen are being led into approving the socialism which theorists argue before them. But in all the schemes of socialism, whether in Europe or in America, from Mr. Bellamy's Nationalist plan to the straight-out plan of socialism pure and simple that is advocated abroad, the one thing that the socialists give no satisfactory explanation of is the question Who will pay the bills? If the social condition of the most of mankind if to be greatly improved, of course its improvement will cost money. E. L. Godkin contends in the June number of The Forum that this is the radical weakness of all socialistic programmes. He analyzes one plan after another, and searches in vain for a single system which will explain how the cost of social improvement is to be met.

The Asbury Park Shore Press and the Long Branch News are at it hammer and tongs over the relative advantages of the two watering places. The Press sets forth the divers attractions of the Park, with a few compassionate remarks upon the failing grandeur of Long Branch and the News laughs (to scorn the boasts of its neighbor. "Yesterday, today and forever," it says in one editorial, "Long Branch is the leading Summer resort of the world. It is favored by Providence, loved by mankind and patronized by the wealthiest and most refined people on earth. It is not a picnicker's paradise or a pie-eater's retreat, but is beyond all comparison the healthiest and most delightful resort under the stars. Exchanges please copy." Both newspapers are stanch in their partisanship, but when the growth and the popularity of the two places are taken into account the mass of the people who do own villas of their own would be disposed to think that Asbury Park had the better cause for rejoicing over comparative gains. Fortunately, however, there is room for both, and when anyone tires of either Plainfield's charms still invite.

Because there is still, among the uninformed, some misapprehension concerning the new Plainfield School Law, it is well to point out that the government of the Plainfield schools is in no way affected. The law merely provides

That it shall not be lawful for any Board of Education in any city of this State to borrow money, issue bonds, or incur indebtedness in excess of five thousand dollars, for the purpose of purchasing lands or erecting any school buildings, without the incurrence and approval first obtained of the Common Council, Board of Aldermen or other governing body of said city.

The Plainfield School Board continues unmolested in its power to provide a first-class education to all Plainfield children, and can spend each year just as much money as it ever could in the matter of running expenses. The only restriction is against acquiring more real estate or running up bonded indebtedness. The school taxes continue in the exclusive control of the School Board, as heretofore. They name the amount, and the people pay it. The Council has no authority to revise their rate or check any item of expense in operating existing schools.

Surely the people of Plainfield who have in their power to give the money needed to finish the Y. M. C. A building are not going to permit the unfinished structure to stand as a reproach all Summer! The Association ought by all means to enter its new home in the Fall, and besides it's a bad ad for the town to have strangers continually confronted with the present condition of the structure. The fund is open for subscriptions. Be generous now.

"The storekeeper who expects to do much business this season must practice the lesson taught in the following story:

Two frogs found themselves in a pail of milk and they could not jump out. One of them was for giving up and said to the other, "Good by; I sink, I die". Said his mate, "Brace up, you duffer! Keep a jumpin' and see what turns up". So they kept jumping up and down all night and by morning had so churned the milk that it turned to butter, and they jumped off the butter to the ground.

Applied to business the fable means this: If you want the business of 1894 to exceed that of 1893, 'keep a jumpin'. Do n't cry, 'I sink, I die!' The merchant who continues looking for bad times will not survive to see good times first. Carry a level head, buy standard goods and keep a good clean stock, an attractive store and advertise with bright, attractive daily ads."

POND'S, PLAINFIELD'S EXAMPLE.

[From The American Economist.]

Examining into the condition of labor in New Jersey, the American Protective Tariff League has received 47 reports from employers of labor in 21 different industrial centres, which give the following results:

	No. of Reports.	Average number of hands employed, 1892.	1893.	1894.
Asbury Park	1	300	25	350
Bound Brook	1	270	216	180

Weehawken	1	80	40	0
Yardville	1	112	175	113
Totals	47	12,271	9,899	7,070

Decrease in 1893 was 20 per cent. of 1892.
Decrease in 1894 was 42 per cent. of 1892.

We here find that where there was work for 12,271 people in 47 factories of New Jersey during 1892, there was employment for only 9,899 people during 1893, a decrease of 20 per cent., and this year the same factories have been able to find work for only 7,070 hands, a decrease of 42 per cent. as compared with 1892.

Rhode Island	75	19,089	14,770	10,996

An Ornament to the Heights.

An elegant home is that being built by Alfred Cocks adjoining that of ex-Councilman Spangenberg on Woodland avenue. The first story is of prepared wash brick such as compose the Y. M. C. A. building. The balance is of shingles. The lighting-fixtures will be gas and electric combination. Tiling and mantels will be liberally used in the twelve rooms. Blanchard Fosgate is the architect, and he will equip the house with all the elegances to be found in modern suburban homes.

Driving Accidents.

D. W. Rogers harnessed his horse to a carriage yesterday afternoon at 2 and started out from the stables in the rear of his store on Second street. In turning into Madison avenue from the lane, Mr. Rogers was thrown out by a short turn. The horse ran on to the store. No damage was done.

George Voehl's horse ran down North and Park avenues this morning. The rig was stopped by a blockade of wagons at the head of Park avenue. Special Policeman Robertson caught the horse.

PROBING OLD WOUNDS.

Plainfield Pastor Criticized for Nagging Our Southern Brethren About Their Past.

The Memorial Day speech of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church was similar, in its reference to the number of former Confederates in Congress, to the address he made the same day in Westfield, and it has stirred Editor Pearsall, who feels that that the war is over, into saying his say as follows in his Westfield Standard:

The recent speech of Dr. Lewis showed intense earnestness and was replete with patriotic fervor; but we are inclined to think that he took too narrow a view of his subject. It was an occasion when men of all parties were assembled to honor the standard of their common country; and so any allusion to partisan politics was ill-advised. There was not a boy in the large audience who heard the speech who who was for an instant in doubt as to which ticket the Doctor would vote in a contest between the Republicans and Democrats. We think this was a mistake, as was his allusion to the ex-Confederates as "again in the saddle, armed, booted and spurred". The purpose of the Civil War was to retain the Southern States in the Union. We held them in by virtue of the sword and we hold that it was neither patriotic nor generous, now that they have returned to their allegiance and have every right that the North has under the constitution, to taunt them with their past revolt. If we would make our fellow-citizens of the South as patriotic as those of the North we must sink provincialism in patriotism and, forgetting that they were foes in the past, hail them as brothers in the present. In this way only can that electric thrill of patriotism to which Dr. Lewis referred, weld the North and South into a homogeneous whole. And this can be done only by love; every word of bitterness postpones the day of the more perfect Union.

HONOR TO MR. NEWHALL.

He Is Made Permanent Receiver of His Company.

The rule to show cause why Henry B. Newhall should not be made permanent receiver of his company came up for argument before the Chancellor at the Chancery Chambers in Jersey City this morning. Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mr. Newhall, moved the case, and stated that he held the written consents of creditors representing $85,000 out of a total of about $92,000 indebtedness. The Chancellor promptly granted the order making Mr. Newhall receiver.

The Courts of New York have also appointed Mr. Newhall permanent ancillary receiver in that State.

The Pennsylvania Summer-Traveling Guide.

The Summer Excursion Book of the Pennsylvania Railroad for 1894 is out, and presents an unusually meritorious appearance. Great care has been exercised in its compilation, the technical information being especially reliable.

The great variety of routes suggested, the exhaustive schedules of rates, the graphic descriptions of about four hundred places, the explanatory maps and the illustrations, make the volume exceedingly valuable and almost indispensable to these contemplating Summer touring.

A nominal charge of ten cents is placed on each copy, which can be obtained on application to ticket agents or the General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents extra will be charged for mailing.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. No Question About It,

It is an assured fact. You know it, and every one knows it that we are giving the best values, giving more and better bargains than all others. There are many reasons why we can and as Samuel of Posen says "All we want is a chance." Give us that and we save you money.

JUST TRY US.

Just four great bargains we tell about this week, all we have room for here, but a store full awaits your coming.

First—Have you heard about that big purchase of laces we made last week? About five thousand yards of cream, white and butter colored laces and insertions from 5c per yard up. The prices are just half what they cost somebody. See our show window.

Second—Our Millinery Department offers special inducements in trimmed sailor hats for ladies. Prices 25, 49, 60 and 75c. They are all the newest shapes and much under their real value.

Third—Our Suit and Wrapper Department offers a chance for you to save some money on a cape, suit or wrapper. We are selling good wrappers for 69, 89 and 98c. Capes you buy at your own price. Have you seen that Duck suit we are selling so many of for $1 98? A beauty it is.

Fourth—Wash Goods of all kinds and the prices are just what you are looking for. The lowest. Dress ginghams 7c, Russian Duck 10c, Irish lawn 10c, India linen 10c, yard wide percales 12c, best shirting prints 4c.

All specials advertised last week in housefurnishing department at the same prices this week and many new, attractive articles at attractive prices.

THE SATURDAY RACES.

Echoes of the Opening Meet at the Crescent Wheelmen's Oval.

The extra edition of The Press Saturday, issued at the conclusion of the races, told all of the results and much detail, and the races were the talk of the town all day Sunday.

The attendance was 1,300. What it would have been had the weather not been threatening during the morning and showery in the afternoon it is hard to estimate, the interest in the wheelmen's venture being so great and the excellence of the track having attracted so much attention among outside cyclers. Fully 500 bicycles, 200 of them checked by A. C. Rogers, stood out in the rain while their owners watched the races. The stages were well patronized, but few of the spectators coming in carriages. A number of boys enjoyed a long distance view from trees outside the enclosure.

All of the visiting cycling experts commented very favorably on the shape and construction of the track. Not the slightest fault was found with the grades and many thought it probable that records would be broken on it this season.

The rain began at 2, the time when the races were to have started. The first heat of the novices was started at 2:10 and thereafter the races followed rapidly without an intermission. N. H. Guttman's band had no opportunity for playing after their opening piece, but nobody complained. Frank L. C. Martin, the clerk of the course, and his assistants, proved their executive ability by keeping the riders ready for their races. The showers continued until the beginning of Race 5, when a steady drizzling rain set in. Towards the end of the racing the track was very slippery and the high bank was therefore well tested.

The summary:

RACE NO. 1, CLASS A, 1 MILE NOVICE.

Won by B. Jacobus, Montclair Wheelmen, Montclair. I. N. Line, Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield, second. F. G. Hedge, Kings County Wheelmen, Brooklyn, third.

RACE NO. 8, CLASS A, 1-MILE SCRATCH—CONSOLATION.

Won by F. F. Goodman, Riverside Wheelmen, New York. M. Scott, Newark Wheelmen, Providence, R. I., second. E. L. Blauvelt, Elizabeth Athletic Club, Newark, third.
Time—2:54 3-5.

TRACK TALK.

In the second heat of Race 7 H. F. Loehrs of Elizabeth and Olaf Sangstad of the Crescents collided on the back but escaped being injured.

Charles N. Rydell of the Crescents did not race, having not fully recovered from the effects of his fall in the Irvington-Millburn race Wednesday.

The rain added to the club's revenue in one way, if it did keep folks away. People on the bleachers when the showers began were driven to shelter on the grand stand.

The only prizes secured by Crescent riders are: A $20 silver watch, S. N. Line. A $22 pair of G. and J. rims and tires, and a $5 bicycle lamp, A. H. Barnett.

The grand stand expected that Barnett would win in every race he entered. They forgot that he had trained for long distance work and hill climbing. He finished second in the two mile handicap and third in the one mile scratch. In the second heat in the two-third mile scratch he was third and so he obtained no place in the finals.

The official mile record of the track is 2:30 3-5, made by Charles Brown of Elizabeth in Race 3, the one-mile scratch. In the second heat of Race 7, the two mile handicap, R. MacDonald, the scratch man, made the first mile in 2:27. The fastest riding was that of James Willis in the first heat of the same race, when he did his first mile from the 20 yards mark in 2:22 3-5.

The Plainfielders were more accustomed to the track but did not take as much advantage of the coast down from the bank on the short turn as might have been expected. Olaf Sangstad tried it with success in the novice race and had he been a more experienced rider would probably have kept his lead to the end instead of dropping out on the back. Volney Green won the first heat in the boys race by mounting the bank and coasting. Four of the boys tried it in the third heat.

The fall of Taylor and Taxis in Race 2 was all that marred the pleasure of the cyclers. It happened just as the five crack Class B riders entered the stretch. Taylor's front wheel struck Murphy's rear wheel. Taylor fell and scraped his right side. Taxis struck him and was thrown into the air. He fell on his head and shoulders and for a moment everyone thought his neck must have been broken. Murphy blames Wells for the accident; Taxis and Wells blame Murphy. Wells and Titus were working together, Wells setting the pace. Murphy claims that Wells turned out and forced the others over, the accident resulting. Taxis says that Murphy made two distinct attempts to foul Taylor and himself. The first was unsuccessful and Taxis turned out. He did not think Murphy would try the trick again and accordingly, he says, he went ahead again, too fast to turn out for Taylor when Murphy fouled him for the second time. Titus will protest the decision that allowed the race to be run over.

R. MacDonald, the only scratch man in Race 7, won the second heat with a spurt. Edgar Serrell from the 180 yard mark set the pace regardless of his condition on the stretch. MacDonald had ridden fast to catch his field at the mile and the frame of his wheel was broken, so he did not start in the finals.

Taxis was about town for a short time this morning. He will remain at the Albion for a few days. It was expected yesterday that he would lose his right ear but fortunately he will not. His head and face are badly bruised.

Dr. Seneca D. Powell, one of the physicians of the New York Post Graduate Hospital, attended the races Saturday and offered his services when Taxis fell. His son was second in the final of Race 5.

The long delay experienced by wheelmen who had checked their bicycles and had to wait in line after the races Saturday will not occur again. Hereafter the wheels will be divided into four sections for distribution, additional gates having been provided.

"D. S. Lewis" of the Crescents dropped out of the third heat of Race 4 with a severe attack of cramps. His handles were too low and it is said he overtrained.

Willis and Barnett were on the track yesterday morning. Willis made 10 miles in 28 minutes and Barnett made 5 miles in 13:26.

CYCLING COMMENT.

F. L. C. Martin holds the wheel trade.

The Bedford Wheelmen and the Brooklyn Bicycle Club had runs to Plainfield yesterday.

Of course New Jersey won the tri-State relay race. She has the best roads and the best roadsters.

The Pope Mfg. Co., makers of the Columbias, will remove the general offices from Boston to Hartford in the Fall, a handsome new building being in process of construction.

The Race Committee of the Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers report that they are making very satisfactory progress in arrangements for the race meet of June 16 at Waverly Park. The track is in excellent condition, and it is expected that fast time will be made. The prizes, which will be on exhibition at the store of C. P. Russ in Elizabeth, this week, are very handsome, and will excite the ambition of the riders to a high pitch. The open team race is causing a great deal of talk among the clubs, and will undoubtedly be a very interesting event, as it will show the strength of the different racing teams of the Metropolitan District. The trophy offered in this event will be an ornament to any club room.

June Roses.

June is the month of roses, so The Art Amateur, in its current issue, appropriately gives a bunch of them (by De Longpre) as one of its color studies, the other being a sunset (landscape) by Annette Moran, entitled "The Last Glow." An article by the late Theodore Child on the National Gallery, one on "Sketching Ground in Holland and Normandy" by H. W. Ranger, papers on flower painting by Patty Thum, and landscape painting in water-color by M. B. O. Fowler, descriptions of public sculpture in Chicago, and "A Group Exhibition," are special features of the number. "A Modern Interior" is the subject illustrated in the series of house-decoration and furnishing. In the department of china painting there are articles on game painting and painting of fish and "A Lesson in Raised Paste Work". All the regular departments (drawing, sketching, modeling, wood-carving, etc.) are as usual thoroughly well maintained, and the Note-Book, with its fresh and telling comments on the day's art-interests, is, if possible, more readable than ever. (35 cents.) Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

George Rickert is out again.

VICTORY THROUGH THE CHURCH.

Organized Religion More Powerful Than the Saloon, Says Rev. Cook.

Rev. Joseph Cook of Boston lectured in the First Presbyterian Church last evening under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The church was packed, and many went away after trying to enter. Even the halls and the pastor's study were filled with people.

Mr. Cook spoke for an hour and a-half. He used the argumentative style and made a deep impression by his eloquence. His views were those of an earnest Prohibitionist, although he announced himself as an Independent in politics and said nothing against any party. He was formerly a Republican. His main point was that the churches should unite in temperance work.

An effective illustration which Mr. Cook used and which explained his ideas was one in which the speaker's fingers represented different powers in the land. In connection with the political field Mr. Cook showed his left hand opened. He then called the little finger the ignorant voter and bent it to the palm of his hand. The third finger followed, representing the mercenary voter, and then the thumb, the rum power, clinched the two. Of the remaining fingers the second, right, which refused to admit the rum-seller were represented by the fingers. First were the Methodists, 5,000,000 strong, next the Baptists with their 4,000,000, the Presbyterians, 2,000,000 and the Congregationalists somewhat smaller. The thumb, the common school, clinched them and held their influences together.

In regard to the general expression of opinion that the saloon element had an enormous amount of money behind it, Mr. Cook said that the churches had much more behind them. If the churches organized as they were, joined forces and worked heartily for reform they would be successful. The way to victory was through the church.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A sociable will be given by the Ladies Aid Society in the Congregational Church Friday evening.

Commencing next Sunday, the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed Church will meet mornings at 9:15.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church will hold a regular meeting next Friday evening at 8 in Vincent Chapel.

Six persons received the right hand of fellowship in the First Baptist Church yesterday. There was a large number of communicants present.

Tobin & Addis have received the contract from Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters to put city water into Trinity Church, and commenced work this morning.

After the usual prayer-meeting Wednesday evening the Official Board of the Methodist Church will hold their first quarterly conference in the parlors of the church.

The fifth annual convention of the Epworth League of the Elizabeth District will be held in Woodbridge June 7. A stage will run there for the accommodation of the delegates.

After next Sunday the Sunday-school of the M. E. Church will be held at 10 in the morning instead of the afternoon, and the church service will commence at 11. This arrangement will last during the Summer months.

The earnest, practical preaching of Pastor Cornelius Schenck of Trinity Reformed Church was again evidenced yesterday at the Communion services in that church. The hearts of pastor and people were made glad by the reception of fifteen members—ten by letter, and five on confession of their faith in Christ.

A Great Success.

When VanEmburgh & Son opened their new store in the Babock Building Saturday, it looked like all New York; when the crowd was over, it looked like the tail end of a church fair

It was a great crowd—the biggest success in Mr. VanEmburgh's 20 years in Plainfield.

So big was the crowd that there was scarcely room to move about. The people jammed the place full, swept tables and counters clear of bargains, and went home talking about the great new store and the money they had saved.

The store is a beauty, and the immense bargains will continue right along. The basement is not yet to rights. If the crowds continue, the firm will be compelled to enlarge the store by knocking out the partition either at the side or in the rear of the present quarters.

Silver Wedding.

Rev. and Mrs. S. P. Simpson of 933 Watchung avenue celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with a tea Saturday afternoon from 4 to 7. The house was decorated with and red roses and smilax. There were many handsome presents.

Mrs. J. L. Anthony was in charge of the dining room. Her assistants were Miss Swords of Newark, Miss Maude Bowers, Miss Effie Simpson, Miss Morgan, Miss Ethel French and Miss Marion Bowen.

PARTICULAR MENTION

Miss Louise Startup of Middletown, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Startup, of Westervelt avenue.

Miss Kate Thorne of La Grande avenue started today for the Adirondacks to visit her brother, Harry Thorne.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

Tuesday last the dwelling of Mrs. Furey, corner of Terrill road and North avenue, this city, was entered by William Adams and George Shay of Plainfield and Thomas Shelley of Fanwood.

Shay entered first, and finding Mrs. Furey alone committed an assault upon her—by knocking her down, and otherwise maltreating her. Then appeared Adams and Shelley, and to the woman's appeals for assistance they replied by Adams smashing the furniture and Shelley abstracting a sum of money from the woman's clothing as Shay held her on the floor. The woman was rescued by William Peel, who happened to be passing, but the money was not recovered.

Later in the day, while the bruised and bleeding woman was preparing to leave the house, Adams again appeared and placing himself before her said—"Where are you going?" she replied "I am going to see Judge Moore". "I will give you something to go for" replied the brute and knocking her down, kicked her in the hips and side.

She was afterwards taken to the residence of Mrs. Julia Wallace and cared for, but was so terribly injured that she was not in condition to make complaints until Friday, when she appeared before Judge Moore with blackened and swollen eyes and face.

Warrants were promptly issued, and placed in the hands of Constable W. R. Mattox, who arrested Shelley and brought him Saturday morning before the Judge, by whom he was committed to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Adams and Shay have not yet been apprehended, the last heard of them being that Shay procured money from his sister, Mrs. Henry Brick, and both worthies started West.

Adams had recently been released from jail by Judge McCormick before the expiration of his term, for beating George English of this city, at which time he promised reformation.

Shay also has served terms in jail.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

Sanitation and Health.

From 1700 to 1750 the death rate in London was so high that the population stagnated. In the former year the inhabitants numbered 665,200 and in the latter year 653,900. During this period the deaths were in the ratio of about one per 30 persons living. By 1801 the population had crept up to 777,000, and the deaths had fallen to one in 41 persons living. This great improvement in the state of public health in London was not, except to a trifling extent, the result of sanitary legislation. People were becoming more enlightened on many matters affecting their health, partly owing to a more general knowledge of chemistry, physiology and other sciences relating to man and his surroundings. When those intrusted with the conduct of public affairs became aware how much the health of the people was affected by bad water, by foul emanations and even cesspools, and by too great a density of population, they began to secure supplies of pure water, to construct proper house drains and street sewers, to remove systematically filth from houses and to widen streets. The promulgation of the natural laws of health preceded the enactment of laws of health by the state. Jenner's discovery of prophylaxis in smallpox had for its corollary the vaccination laws. The chemical analysis of water was the basis of acts of parliament relating to water and rivers.—Charles Cameron at Sanitary Congress.

Queen Victoria has a dread of fire. Whenever she goes abroad, she always has a couple of fire extinguishers sent out in advance and fitted up in the house where she will reside.

MUNICIPAL MAXIMS.

Every town's success depends upon the success of its people.

Labor should be dignified, intelligent and, above all, well fed.

Cultivate a patriotic spirit in the young. Let the stars and stripes and, if need be, the notes of the tin horn float on every breeze.

The enterprise of a town may be accurately gauged by the appearance of its streets, its public buildings and its parks.

Whatever advantages a village or city may possess, the citizens should co-operate with the existing forces to stimulate what otherwise must prove a slower, even though inevitable, growth.

Cast about wherever you will and discover that within a comparatively limited area there is an incalculable wealth of earth's treasures, the transactions in which even for a day are beyond measure.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his research.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

END NOT YET IN SIGHT

An Attempt to Close General Debate on Bill To-Day—Prospect of Longer Struggle on Tariff Than Democrats Predicted—May Resort to Night Sessions.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The end of the debate on the bill to repeal the law taxing the issues of state and other banks and associations is not yet in sight in the house, although an effort will be made to draw it to a close.

It has been the desire of Speaker Crisp and other democratic leaders, especially those interested in the management of the appropriation bills, that to-day should see the close of the general debate on the bill, and there has been talk of bringing in an order from the committee on rules to that effect. But that has been opposed by the republicans, who want the debate to exhaust itself, and by a number of democrats, of whom Messrs. Rayner, of Maryland, and Harter, of Ohio, are types. The former opposes repeal and the latter favors it, but both agree that the discussion should proceed two weeks at least, as in their opinion that period of time could be profitably spent in consideration of the subject. That the time would be occupied is proved by the length of the list of those who have asked Chairman Richardson for time in which to speak.

It is probable that the order referred to will be reported by the committee on rules to-day, to test the question. If it shall be agreed to, it will be taken to mean that the repeal bill will pass; if it shall be defeated, the fate of the bill will be to be "talked to death." In that event, the executioners may consent to reduce the limit within which to perform that duty and end the matter within a day or two.

When the state bank tax bill shall have been disposed of the Indian appropriation bill will be taken up. An unusually long discussion of its provisions is anticipated, because of the many radical changes Mr. Holman has introduced into the bill.

Next in order of general legislation will be the general deficiency bill for the year ending the 30th inst., which will have been reported to the house in the meantime.

Senate.

Two months of tariff debate have passed in the senate and the end is not yet within telescopic vision. Republican senators stated ten days ago that the close of this present week would find the sugar schedule still undisposed of. The course of events in connection with the facts elicited by the sugar trust investigation of the special committee as far as that investigation has proceeded, and the facts which it is expected will be developed in the further sessions of that committee seem to make it possible that this threat may be verified. Some of the leaders on the republican side insist that the vote cannot with decency be taken on the sugar schedule until the investigation into the allegation of improper influence being used to secure the adoption of that schedule have been disposed of.

Several of the populist senators and also Mr. Hill are on record as favoring this view.

Their forces, added to the united republican strength, will form a phalanx dangerously near the majority, provided there should be one or two democratic absentees on the critical roll call, as is hinted there may be.

These same forces—the solid republican vote and the populists, or most of them, it is expected, will rally to the support of Mr. Manderson's prosped amendment to retain the bounty on domestic sugar instead of laying an increased tax on the imported product. The suggestion is made that the vote on this amendmen tmay be so close that the onus of defeating it will be thrown on the two Louisiana senators whose state is the chief beneficiary of the bounty.

Mr. Harris, the chosen captain of the democratic cohorts on the tariff question, has given fair notice of an intention to force the fighting. He declares that so long as his side of the chamber will uphold him, night sessions shall be held regularly from to-day until the final vote is taken.

"It is the beginning of the end," said Mr. Harris, when asked what his announcement meant. "If reasonable progress is made we can adjourn about 8 or 9 o'clock; if that will not do we will extend the sittings until 10 or 11 o'clock, and if reasonable progress is not made under that plan we will sit here until midnight. From that it is but a step to an all night session. Progress must be made and progress in this debate shall be made if the majority on the democratic side stand behind me."

It is understood that the republicans will not oppose an extension of the session to something like 8 o'clock, but various threats are made as to what course may be pursued if Mr. Harris attempts to urge what the republicans call "extraordinary measures."

The tactics pursued by the republicans last week were successful in drawing out a number of democratic senators, and, it is understood, the same policy will be continued this week, with the hope that democrats will be compelled to participate in the debate.

If Mr. Manderson's amendment for a bounty should be voted down in committee of the whole, it is quite likely that the sugar schedule of the committee will be adopted pro forma in committee, the republicans, of course, reserving their rights for a yea and nay vote when the bill comes into the open senate. Even should the vote be taken on a motion to put sugar on the free list, it is understood the republicans, at present, would not permit the proposition to get the full strength of the vote that could be given it if need be.

The 15th of June, at which date democrats have said the bill would pass, is not very distant, but there seems little chance of a final vote by that time. It can be said with absolute certainty that the sugar schedule will not be dropped until the republicans have an opportunity to discuss the testimony taken by the investigating committee.

The wool schedule will afford opportunity for a number of speeches and the republicans say the income tax has much in it of politics that needs to be ventilated.

There is another matter that will tend to prolong this debate about which nothing has hitherto been said, but which will probably come to the front very soon. An amendment to the bill has been prepared and will be introduced, probably this week, which provides for the repeal of the 10 per cent. state bank tax.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know tha there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, t and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweathes is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

Formerly of Trenton, the well-known expert in Chronic Diseases, can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

To Cross the Atlantic Alone.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 5.—Capt. Adolph Freitsch, of Milwaukee who purposes to cross the Atlantic in a 13-ton schooner, arrived here with his little craft the Nina. He will remain here several days and then go through the canal to New York. Capt. Freitsch is bound for Stockholm and expects to make the voyage from New York in 40 days. He will be the first man to attempt the trip without a companion, but he says his boat steers so well that he will get enough sleep in small installments to carry him through. The Nina is built after the American plan of a flat bottom with a centre-board and is 47 feet over all with 9 1-2 feet beam. She is rigged with two spars and has a sail area of 1,000 yards.

Indians May Be Robbed.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., June 5.—The money from the government to the Cherokees in payment for their lands is about to be distributed. The Indians, as a rule, have large families, and the amount received by each member will be $266.45. The normal population of the capital is 1,500. It has now increased to 5,000. A few have come to witness the novel sight, but the majority are here to obtain from the Indians by foul or fair means some of the money. There is no danger of a raid being made as long as the money is in the treasury. The fear is that when the Indians draw their cash they will be robbed on their way home. It is impossible to meet the demand for guns and rifles.

Acute Religious Mania.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The autopsy on the body of Lulu Erskine, the girl from Rockland, Me., who committed suicide by throwing herself from Flat rock into the Hudson river, was performed by Dr. R. S. Horton at Peekskill. The autopsy was complete and disclosed no physical reason why the girl should have killed herself. The doctor said it was his opinion that the girl committed suicide while suffering from acute religious mania. The girl was small and thin for her age. Every line of her face betrayed an exceedingly nervous temperament. The lines about the eyes were drawn as though for hours or perhaps days the young woman had suffered mentally.

New Nominations.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations: Charles Neilson, of Maryland, to be second assistant postmaster general, vice J. Lowrie Bell, resigned. George E. Van Kennen, of New York, to be collector of customs for the district of Oswegatchie, New York. R. J. Zahmser, to be postmaster at Mercer, Pa.

Newspapers and Crime.

LONDON, June 5.—A circular signed by 105 members of the house of commons has been sent to the editors of the prominent daily newspapers throughout the united kingdom asking them to cease to demoralize the people by reporting sensational cases and immorality or brutality and in other ways appealing to the sensual nature of man.

Printers Want Sunday Papers.

MONTREAL, June 5.—Typographical union No. 176 of this city has passed strong resolutions condemning Charlton's Sabbath observance bill prohibiting Sunday newspapers, which they claim to be a boon to printers, and have asked Mr. Lepine, M. P., to present the resolutions to the house of commons.

Negro Labor in Mines.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5.—Pennsylvania mine operators have decided to employ negro labor in their fight against the miners. This means of warfare has already been quite successful in this state. Two hundred coal miners have already left here in special cars for Pennsylvania, and more are to follow.

Rainmaking in Nebraska.

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., June 5.—One of the rainmakers brought to Nebraska by the Rock Island Railway company has begun operations in this locality. The section is very dry, and his maneuvres are watched with interest. It costs the Rock Island $100 a day, it is claimed, for each operator.

Prof. Whitney Better.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—An apparently decisive improvement has taken place in the condition of Prof. W. D. Whitney, the Yale authority on philology, during the past 24 hours. Although he is still very weak, if the present favorable tendency continues for any length of time, Prof. Whitney will recover.

Ex-Gov. Van Zandt Dead.

BOSTON, June 5.—Ex-Governor Charles Van Zandt of Rhode Island died in Brookline at the residence of his brother-in-law, Rev. Samuel W. Duncan, D. D. The funeral will take place in Newport, R. I.

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

PREPARING FOR WAR

Colorado's Coal Strike Situation Serious.

Arms and Ammunition Received at Colorado Springs Daily—More Mine Officers Captured and Held Prisoners as Hostages By the Strikers at Cripple Creek—Situation Elsewhere

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 5.—Preparations for war are going rapidly forward here, arms and ammunition coming in daily.

One hundred thousand rounds of ammunition, shipped from Chicago Saturday, has arrived. Rifles and revolvers are coming in, and further shipments are expected from Chicago to-day.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., June 5.—A skirmish took place near Midland toll-gate shortly before noon between three miners and five deputies who were sent out from the main body at Divide as pickets. Several shots were fired on both sides. Jack David, a miner, was shot in the arm, and a deputy was seriously wounded. The deputies were forced to retreat.

Besides taking Henry E. Woods, president of the Victor Townsite company, into custody, the strikers have seized Clarence O. Finch, county superintendent of schools, and D. E. Watkins, a Colorado Springs school teacher, and they are now held prisoners on Bull Hill as hostages for President Calderwood or any other miners who may be arrested.

John Shorten, editor of the Cripple Creek Herald, organ of the miners' union, has been arrested by the deputies.

DENVER, June 5.—Governor Waite declares that he has come to no decision in reply to the request of Sheriff Bowers for military assistance. He received a request from Sheriff Radford, of Las Animas county, through T. D. Mitchell, of Trinidad, for troops to quell the riotous miners there. The governor said he did not think the situation warranted the calling out of troops and declined to act.

Calderwood disappeared from view from the time he arrived in the city. It is now believed that no further efforts will be made at this time to place him under arrest.

TO BREAK THE COAL STRIKE.

Three Firms in the Clearfield District Will Try to Resume To-Day.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—An effort to resume operations will be made to-day by a number the bituminous coal operators with mines in the Clearfield region.

A leading operator in this city states that preparations to begin work were completed by three firms, John C. Scott & Sons, the Berwind-White Company and David E. Williams & Co., last evening. These operators expect that at least a few of their old men will return to work, and the places of the others will be filled by new men.

Will Not Recognize the Union.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—That the operators of the Central Pennsylvania region are determined not to recognize the Miners' National union, but are willing to confer with a committee of their own miners, is evidenced from the telegram forwarded to Gov. Pattison in reply to the one from Secretary McBryde of the Miners' National union, asking him if he could arrange a conference with the operators. The operators decline to meet the executive committee of the Miners' National union, but will be pleased to arrange a meeting between a committee of the miners and operators of the Central Pennsylvania region.

Strikers' Trial at Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 5.—The June term of court opened with Judges Ewing and Mestrezat on the bench. The town is crowded with hundreds of witnesses, defendants and prosecutors. The strike cases make up the principal part of the criminal list, which is swelled to something like 300 cases. The Paddock case will be taken up first. The 35 defendants in that case will be called for trial before Judge Ewing. The charge will be first degree murder.

A number of evictions will be made at Redstone this week preparatory to making a start.

Strikers Burn a Bridge.

JOLIET, Ill. June 5.—Striking miners in Will and Grundy county have burned a bridge near Carbon, as a warning to the company to stop transferring coal from Virginia to the Rock Island and other Chicago roads.

Started to Use Hard Coal.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., June 5.—The Bethlehem Iron company has started in using hard coal and will endeavor to keep the ordnance works running.

Floods in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 5.—The melting snow on the mountains will cause the Fraser river to rise to a great height. Flood-bound people who have just been rescued state that not one-half of the wholesale devastation has been chronicled. An entire family after being tossed about on the waters for several days without food or sleep were drowned. Many other such scenes of horror are expected to be developed before the rivers settle to their former confines.

In the State of New Jersey.

ALBANY, June 5.—The secretary of state has written, as reply to the question from a New York attorney as to whether Ellis and Bedloes islands lie within the boundaries of the state of New York or New Jersey, that a map and agreement filed in his office certify that the islands are in the state of New Jersey. The question as to whether New York ever ceded jurisdiction over the islands was not determined by the search.

Valuable Cows Killed.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., June 5.—Five cows belonging to George Foulke, whose farm is near this city, have been killed by Dr. Edmunds, a state veterinarian, because of their affection of tuberculosis. They were of Jersey and Holstein stock.

N. G. S. C. Encampment.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 5.—Adjt.-Gen. Bradley has issued an order for the annual encampment of the Connecticut national guard, beginning Aug. 11, and continuing eight days.

Bismarck Going to Varzin.

BERLIN, June 5.—Prince Bismarck will leave Friedrichsruhe for Varzin on June 9.

MRS. POLLOCK BEATEN.

Reversal of the Former Verdict Giving Her $37,500.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The general term of the court of common pleas has just handed down a decision in the case of Ellen Pollock against her wealthy father-in-law, Alexander Pollock, for alienating the affections of her husband, tried before Judge Pryor in June last and which resulted in a verdict of $37,500 for the wife. The general term has reversed that judgment, Judge Bischoff writing the opinion. Six years ago young Eddie Pollock, 17 years old, secretly married Ellen Mahoney, then 22, who was employed as a servant by the young man's father, wealthy Alexander Pollock, of Nyack, Rockland county. The marriage was kept secret for four years, or until young Pollock attained his majority. At the expiration of that time the young wife confessed the secret marriage to her youthful husband's parents. Instead of welcoming their daughter-in-law to the bosom of the family Mr. Pollock, sr., declared that the youth should no longer be a son of his so long as he chose to live with his wife. At last Pollock deserted his wife and returned to the parental roof. Then Ellen Pollock brought suit against Alexander Pollock for alienation of her husband's affections. Great interest was shown in the outcome of the suit by the general public. Notable counsel were retained on both sides, Alexander Hain appearing for Alexander Pollock, and Colonel James championing the cause of the deserted wife. The trial of the case occupied a week and fairly bristled with sensational testimony.

Parkhurst to New York Policemen.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst has issued an address to the patrolmen of the police force of New York city. He expresses in the most flattering terms his confidence in their integrity and honesty. He says the corruption of the police force, as he views it, is due entirely to the pressure brought to bear upon the men. He insists that the charges made by his society have been proved by the testimony taken before the Lexow committee. He then urges the men to aid the investigation by coming forward and testifying to all the facts in their possession. To induce them to do so he declares that the society and the committee have the power and have made due preparation to fully protect every person who gives evidence.

U. of P. Commencement Exercises.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—At the commencement exercises of the University of Pennsylvania yesterday the usual fun-provoking and harmless personalities were indulged in. In the afternoon the annual handicap meet was held and in the evening the Ivy day ceremonies took place followed later by the senior concert and dance. The awarding of the traveling scholarship in architecture and selection of a design for the students' hall by jury of architects will not take place until Thursday.

NEW YORK POLICE CORRUPTION

Lexow Committee Continues to Bring Out Damaging Disclosures.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Lexow senate committee, investigating the methods of the New York police force, continues to pile up evidence of gross corruption and every session is full of sensational developments.

So much direct evidence of bare-faced bribery has been produced that it is impossible to imagine how the matter can escape the attention of the district attorney and the grand jury.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst is very much pleased with the result so far. At the close of yesterday's session he shook Mr. Goff warmly by the hand and said triumphantly:

"It is suberb. I regard it as a perfect vindication of our actions during the past two years. We knew we were right and had the evidence right along."

As a sample of the evidence produced that of Kate Schubert will suffice. She said that she kept a house in Chrystie street. She testified that Captain Cross called at her house, introduced himself, demanded and received from her $500. She said that after that she paid him $50 a month.

When Captain Doherty took command of the precinct she paid him $500 and $50 a month, she testified.

Mr. Goff here produced a sensation.

"Who was captain before Cross?"

"Captain McLaughlin, sir." McLaughlin is now a police inspector.

"Did you know him?"

"Yes sir; I paid him $500 and $50 a month for protection."

Another witness testified to having paid large sums for protection besides giving every patrolman on the post on which her house was situated $3 a week, and even then she said she was arrested several times. She also testified to having paid Senator Roesch $150 to secure for her the needed protection. Roesch is now a civil justice.

SALVADORIAN REBELS WIN.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The following cablegram from Captain Thomas, commanding the Bennington, now at La Libertad, has been received at the navy department.

"The revolution has been successful. The president of Salvador has escaped, and has gone on board German steamer all ready to leave La Libertad. The brother of the president has been dead three weeks. This fact has been kept secret."

The state department received a despatch from the American consul at La Libertad conveying similar information.

The commander of the Bennington was directed to remain in Salvadorian waters for the protection of American interests and to be available for duty on the west coast of Nicaragua should any emergency arise in regard to the Mosquito matter.

Cozey's Letter of Acceptance.

MASSILLON, O., June 5.—In his letter of acceptance addressed to to the people's party congressional committee of the 18th district, written in "Parlor" 67, United States jail, Jacob S. Cozey charges the industrial depression to British influence; accuses Cleveland, Sherman, Voorhees, Crisp and all other "Congressional Judas Iscariots" with having wrought his personal humiliation and complains that they are succeeding in heading off material support of the commonweal movement.

They Were Fined By Mistake.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 5.—Justice Gaynor, of the supreme court, has remitted the $250 fine imposed on the five democratic members of the board of canvassers of this city for failing to canvass the vote of the city election on May 15th, as required by the city charter. The court stated that it did not intend to impose a fine, and that it was put in the order without his consent or knowledge.

Charges of Attempted Bribery.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 5.—Councilman Vose cast a bombshell into official circles at the city hall, by declaring openly that $10,000 had been offered him to get the $300,000 appropriation bill for the new filtration plant through. Mr. Vose said he would expose the whole thing on the council floor at the regular meeting.

Jerry Simpson Rapidly Improving.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Representative Jerry Simpson, of Kansas, continues to improve. Mr. Pence, of Colorado, received a telegram from Mrs. Simpson which states that his recovery is so rapid that, in Mrs. Simpson's opinion, should it continue uninterruptedly, he will soon be able to resume his work in the house.

To Leave for Gray Gables.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—It is learned at the white house that on account of the hot weather Mrs. Cleveland will leave Washington with the children for Gray Gables on Wednesday instead of Thursday.

The Cruiser Minneapolis.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—The cruiser Minneapolis, which has just left Cramps' shipyard on her builders' trial trip, is a sister ship of the Columbia, now in commission, and is the finest type of the commerce destroyer cruiser that has ever been built.

Tax Collector Short.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., June 5.—It has been discovered that Herman Snyder, the tax collector, is apparently $5,000 short in his accounts. A criminal warrant for embezzlement has been issued.

TO END TALK ON SUGAR

Senate Agrees to Vote on This Schedule To-day.

Night Sessions Thus Avoided, for the Present at Least—House Passes Without Referring to the Committee an Urgency Appropriation of $10,000 for Bribery Investigation

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The discussion of the tariff bill in the senate yesterday was entirely on the amendment of the finance committee postponing from July 1, 1894, to January 1, 1895, the date for the repeal of the sugar bounty to go into effect; to be followed by a similar amendment in reference to the imposition of the duties on sugar.

Republican senators insisted that these amendments would be for the exclusive benefit of the sugar trust, which would then have six months in which to gather in all the sugar of the world free of duty, and to put into its own treasury the duties which should go to the treasury of the United States.

The senators who represented the democratid element of the finance committee argued against the correctness of that interpretation.

No action was taken on the amendment; but it was arranged, by unanimous consent, that the vote upon it, and upon Mr. Manderson's amendment to it (for a continuance of the bounty till 1905), shall be taken this afternoon; that debate on any other amendments to the sugar schedule shall be under the ten minute rule, and that the whole sugar schedule shall be disposed of before adjournment to-day. After making that amicable arrangement, and thus avoiding (for the present at least) the threatened night sessions, the senate, at 6:20, adjourned.

House of Representatives.

At the beginning of the debate on the bill to repeal the state bank tax in the house yesterday, Mr. Holman, chairman of the committee on Indian affairs, gave notice that on Tuesday (to-day) he would ask the house to take up the Indian appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1895. This will, however, under an agreement made later in the day, be postponed until Thursday morning.

The debate was further continued by Mr. Dalzell (rep. Pa.), who made an elaborate and eloquent argument in favor of the constitutionality of the law now on the statute books, asserting that the states had no right nor power to issue bills, and by Mr. Raynor (dem., Md.), who declared against the authority of the national convention to bind his vote upon a matter not within its jurisdiction.

In the transaction of miscellaneous business a senate bill, with amendments, was passed authorizing the construction of a bridge over the Delaware river between Philadelphia and Camden by the Pennsylvania & New Jersery Bridge company. A conference with the senate was asked on the amendments.

A senate joint resolution was passed before adjournment appropriating $10,000 to meet the expenditures caused by the investigation of the sugar trust and its relation to the tariff now in progress. Owing to the exhaustion of the senate's contingent fund an emergency existed for prompt action and the resolution was agreed to without the usual reference to the appropriation committee.

Mrs. Halliday's Trial.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 5.—Mrs. Lizzie Halliday, who was lodged in the Sullivan county jail September last, on a charge of having murdered old Paul Halliday and the McQuillan woman, will be tried on the 16th inst. for the triple crime. The prisoner is uneasy and nervous, and her mind, which for the past four months has been rational, is again wandering. She calls the sheriff her father, and seemingly takes delight in speaking of him as such to the many callers who visit the place from all parts of the state to see her. The defense will be insanity. The majority of people who visited the prisoner express their opinion that she is acting a part. The superintendent of Bloomingdale asylum, New York city, who has visited her on several occasions, pronounces her insane without a doubt.

Death of Major Clemens.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 4.—Major William W. Clemens, an official of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, is dead at his residence here, aged 56 years. Major Clemens was captain of the 15th U. S. Infantry. He was one of the first defenders to leave Pottsville at Lincoln's call for troops. He was a gallant soldier and received personal commendation from Secretary of War Stanton.

Mrs. Raum Granted a Divorce.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—Common pleas court has issued a decree divorcing Annie Iredell Raum from Green B. Raum, jr., son of the ex-commissioner of pensions, on the ground of non-support and desertion, the husband putting in no defense. Mrs. Raum was Miss Annie Iredell Rogers, daughter of the well-known carriage builder, William D. Rogers.

Dufferin's Daughter Married.

PARIS, June 5.—Lady Victoria Blackwood, the youngest daughter of the British ambassador, the Marquis of Dufferin, was married to William Lee Plunket, eldest son of Lord Plunket, archbishop of Dublin. The father of the bridegroom officiated. Lord Dufferin gave his daughter away.

READY FOR SEWERS.

COMMON COUNCIL MAKES SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS.

Preliminary Ordinance Adopted—Street Railway Extension Still Deferred—No Safety Crossing for the West End—Much-Needed Sidewalks Proposed for South Avenue.

The Common Council at their regular meeting last night accepted a favorable report from the Finance Committee on the petition for a sewerage system, and in adopting the recommendations of the committee practically began the construction of sewers. All the councilmen were present except Mr. Stockton.

The regular order of business was suspended when the meeting opened so that the report of the Finance Committee might be heard while Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was present. The committee presented sworn statements from Joseph A. Hubbard, city assessor, and A. Stuart Patterson, expert accountant, proving that the assessed value of the property owned by the signers of the petition for a sewerage system was $3,665,400, and that therefore the required three-fifths of the property in the city was represented. The committee recommended the introduction of a sewerage system.

Councilman Dumont offered a resolution accepting the report and adopting the recommendations made by the committee, and on motion of Councilman Fisk the resolution was adopted unanimously. Councilman Frost presented "An Ordinance to Provide for a System of Sewerage". The ordinance, which is published in full elsewhere in The Press, directs the laying of sewers in certain streets, and gives the city the right to condemn property for the purpose, as provided for in the act of April 7, 1890. The ordinance was unanimously adopted on second reading and the clerk was instructed to give notice of a special Council meeting to be held June 18, when protests will be heard and the ordinance will be considered for final adoption.

Councilmen Frost and Fisk explained that the ordinance related only to the first of the work to be done, and that other ordinances regarding the completion of the work throughout the city were to follow. Each street in the city needed careful inspection and the committee could not offer an ordinance covering the whole plan.

The minutes were then read and approved, the regular order of business having been resumed. The Y. M. C. A. asked that their assessment of $300, paid for the extension of Watchung avenue, be paid back to them. The petition was referred. A protest was received from property owners who objected to the opening of a street under the Central Railroad between Grant and Clinton avenues. Charles C. Burke of Ravine road asked that a sewer with an outlet on his property be closed. The matter was referred to the Board of Health. To the Street Committee were referred a petition for the acceptance of Spooner avenue between South Second and Third streets and one for a crosswalk on Washington street across LaGrande avenue.

Another petition for sewerage was referred to the Sewerage Committee. Other matters referred were a petition for two hydrants on Front street west of Grant avenue, one near the corner and one 500 feet west; a petition from residents of Netherwood for sidewalks, making an improved route along South avenue, to Belvidere, to Woodland, to Watchung, to Hillside, to Ravine road; the rules and regulations of the Board of Engineers, and the report of the city treasurer.

Frank E. Miller was granted a license for the Hotel Netherwood, Councilman Frost alone voting no on the liquor clause. The Sewerage Committee reported that the petition referred to them earlier in the evening represented $19,700 worth of property. Councilman Erickson reported that the hydrant desired by residents of Elmwood place was not needed. The hydrant was therefore refused, Councilman Frazee alone voting for it.

An appropriation of $4,000 was granted the Street Committee to pay for work on the streets until July 1. The sale of the old fire-alarm bell, the old truck, two old hose carts and the discarded hose was authorized. The Fire Committee was granted permission to purchase necessary stationery for the department, and the Mayor and clerk were instructed to borrow $2,000 for the general use of the committee.

Councilman Fisk reported that the cost of putting a street under or over the Central Railroad between Grant and Clinton avenues would be more than the value of the improvement warranted. The track was so low that the street could hardly go below and the building of a bridge would encroach on valuable private property, especially that of the Pond Machine Tool Company. The protests sent in outweighed the petition, and the committee did not favor the plan. The petition was refused by a unanimous vote.

The City Clerk was instructed to publish a notice of the dog law. Councilman Dumont asked if the one registry remained good for a single year or for the dog's life. The clerk was authorized to buy necessary books and the collector to secure a safe place in which to keep records, as his safe was filled.

The ordinance amending the sidewalk ordinance of 1881 was read for the third time and adopted. Councilman Fisk said that the street railway ordinance had not been brought up again because the company wished all action postponed until they had perfected plans for extension to Netherwood and in another direction. Bills were ordered paid, and the meeting adjourned.

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the fourth day of June instant an ordinance of which the following is a true copy to wit:

An ordinance to provide for a system of sewerage.

Whereas, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in said city as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in said city in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890;

And whereas, On the 21st day of May, A. D., eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

And whereas, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the common council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said common council;

And whereas, it has appeared and does appear to the said common council and the said common council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said city as shown by the assessors books have petitioned said common council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said city in the manner provided for said act;

And whereas, in the opinion of the said common council the public good requires that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said common council has so determined and doth hereby so determine; therefore,

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That the common council doth hereby direct and order that a system of sewerage be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the act of the legislature aforesaid with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, land, and rights of way, described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Fourth street from Watchung avenue to Central avenue.

Sec. 2. That the said Common Council doth hereby determine to acquire by purchase and to take and appropriate the lands and real estate necessary to be taken and appropriated for the construction of said system of sewerage, and to make compensation to the owner or owners thereof by payment of damages therefor in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act. Was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by the said Common Council at a special meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, 109 Park avenue in said City of Plainfield, on Monday, the eighteenth day of June instant, at the hour of 8 o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing or otherwise as the Common Council may at that time direct; and public notice is hereby given of the intention of the said Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in said ordinance to be made and such persons or corporations as may object thereto are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office (109 Park avenue in the City of Plainfield, N. J.) at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of said days, and said common council at such meeting to be held on the day of June instant as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.

By direction of the common council.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., June 5, A. D. 1894.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. PLAINFIELD GRADUATES

Commencement Matters Are in Preparation, and Music Hall Is Engaged for June 21—Hygienic Desks Ordered—Efficient Teachers Reappointed—Supt. Maxson Argues the Merits of Free Text Books.

Twenty-four students will be graduated from the Plainfield High School this year. They are:

Katherine Crissey Baxter,
Julia Mabel Belnap,
Grace Mae Queen Bonny,
Marie Eloise Bourgeoise,
Emma Virginia Fish,
Cora Earl Gardner,
Frederick Worth Goddard,
Helen Augusta Hasbrouck,
Elsie Rutherford Horne,
Carrie Marguerite Kellogg,
John William Kirkner,
Edith Cowell Lane,
Nathan Lane, Jr.,
Phebe Durfee Lovell,
Mary How Miller,
Mabel Watson Mitchell,
Alice Louise Needham,
Grace Adele Palmer,
Norman Hayes Probasco,
Walter Raynolds,
Champlain Lord Riley,
Henry Claflin Wells,
Albert Emil Woltmann,
Florence Clough Smith.

Arrangements are about completed for Commencement, as reported at the meeting of the School Board last night.

The members present at the session were Dr. Probasco, Mr. Finch and Dr. Jenkins. The committee reported Music Hall engaged for June 21, and music and ushers secured for the occasion. Other details were progressing.

New desks of a hygienic pattern were ordered for an Irving classroom, the seats being adjustable to the height of the pupils.

The Committee on Teachers reported that they had carefully examined the list of teachers, and recommended their appointment for another year. This was heartily approved.

The Committee on Text Books reported that in compliance with the law providing for temperance instruction they recommended the series of physiologies of Drs. Blaisdell and Stowell. The report was adopted.

Supt. Maxson submitted the following:

To the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN—I would call the attention of the Board to the fact that the Legislature has enacted a law compelling all cities and towns to furnish free text-books for the pupils use. So little is known in Plainfield concerning the working of such a law, I have thought the Board would be interested in some points concerning it.

The expediency of the law it is not for us to discuss since it is now on the statute book; it may be said, however, that this law is now in force in all the New England States; it has been voluntarily followed in a large proportion of the cities of New Jersey for some years, and it is being quite generally adopted in other States.

The law does not mean that every pupil in school shall at once be supplied with a new book at city expense; but that classes that are only partly through a book shall use the book they now have until they have finished it, but when they are promoted to a class where they would go into new books they shall be bought by the Board and loaned to the pupil.

It is sometimes thought that free text-books would teach pupils to be careless in the use of school property. On the contrary, books loaned to the pupils by the city are much better kept than those owned by the pupils. Before being given to the pupil each book is stamped with the city stamp, and numbered. It is then covered with a specially prepared glazed paper cover and charged to the pupil, who must return it at the end of the term or year in a good clean condition. The books of a class are examined from time to time, by the teacher, and if a book is injured by carelessness or wilfulness, the pupil is fined if the damage is small, or has to buy a new book if it is badly damaged. When the pupil owns his own book, he feels as if he had a right to do as he pleases with his own, and is often careless in its use; but since it is already paid for the carelessness brings no punishment. If he is careless with a city book, he realizes that it means additional expense for his parents, who usually apply some argument that deters him from further carelessness.

In quite an extended experience with free text-books, I have found that it increases the school attendance, particularly in the higher grades, where the books are more costly; it results in great saving of time since all pupils are supplied with all their books on the morning of opening school and work begins at once with no waiting for pupils to buy books; it cultivates neatness and creates greater respect for public property; and it improves the teaching, since the needs of the school are generally supplied better and more uniformly.

I have observed no evils resulting from the plan. It is sometimes thought that free books might spread disease, but I have never heard of an authentic case where this was done, and of two hundred and fifty physicians who were consulted in the matter some years ago not one had known of an authentic case. If a city book is in the home of a pupil who has a contagious disease, it is at once burned when returned. When books are owned by the pupil such books are often brought to school again and used since the teacher cannot exclude them. As soon as the paper covers become soiled they are torn off and new ones put on. When the book itself becomes unfit for use it is laid aside. A book that is used in several grades is sent on with the pupil as he is promoted so that he uses the same book until he is through with the study. If any pupil wishes to own his books they are sold to him at cost price. Thus the danger of disease is infinitely small, much less than the danger from public library books, very much less than the danger from the paper currency that is used so freely without a thought of the hands or the places that it has been through.

The annual cost for the first two or three years is usually from $1.50 to $1.75 per capita of enrollment. After the schools are fully supplied it is about $1 per capita.

Respectfully submitted,
H. M. MAXSON,
Supt. of Schools.

The Committee on Text Books was authorized to select and purchase books and supplies in compliance with the new law.

Six-months interest and $1,000 principal were ordered paid on the Irving building, leaving $29,000 due, payable $1,000 annually.

The Alumni Committee was granted the request for use of the Franklin Assembly Hall for the graduates reception the night of June 21, and Mrs. Waldorf was given permission to give a lecture recital in Stillman Assembly Hall.

The Clerk was instructed to advertise in the local papers for the annual bids for coal.

—There was no quorum at the meeting of the Pond Machine Tool Works Company stockholders yesterday, and the meeting was adjourned subject to call.

RED AND WHITE TEA.

Baptist Young Women Afford Pleasure in Working for Missions.

The Young Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church is noted for its ability in the art of raising money for its work for home and foreign missions. The members take a deep interest in the objects of the society, and are always ready and willing to push forward to success any plan whereby the desired results may be obtained.

Under the very able direction of Mrs. D. Dewitt Brokaw, the society arranged a Red and White Tea, which was held in the lecture room of the church last evening.

Miss Edith Harold, assisted by Mrs. W. B. Vail, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Fred Slater, Miss Laura Runyon and Miss Ida Yerkes, arranged the rooms most artistically, and a very pretty picture was the result.

Red and white streamers were gracefully draped from pillar to pillar, and the incandescent lamps also were adorned with colors.

One room was fitted up in a very homelike manner. It was called the tea room. Easy arm-chairs were provided for comfort, and rugs were spread on the floor, while large parlor lamps made the scene one of brilliancy.

In the main room tables neatly arranged were ready to receive those who wished to partake of the good things on sale.

During the evening a programme of music and readings was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bigelow sang several pleasing selections, and Miss Maude Chilton was heartily received and applauded for her excellent recitations. Howard Case was the efficient accompanist.

The affair was so carefully managed that nothing marred the pleasure of the evening. A large number of people were present to enjoy the event. The committees were:

Refreshment—Mrs. G. H. Batchelor chairman, assisted by Miss Mary Thorn, Mrs. E. VanName, Miss Manning, Mrs. Charles Lee, Mrs. Spratt, Mrs. H. Serrell, Mrs. Dr. Simpson, Mrs. F. Slater and Mrs. Charles Conover.

Apron table—Miss Laura Runyon, chairman, assisted by Mrs. G. F. Brown, Miss Ella Serrell, Mrs. William Worth, Mrs. Caleb Dickinson, Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Miss Love, Miss Carrie Runyon, Miss Louise Runyon, Miss Emily Coriell, Miss Mollie White.

Candy table—Miss Spear, chairman, Mrs. W. B. Vail, Miss Lizzie Smalley, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Harry Brokaw, Miss Bertha Needham, Miss Susie Woodland, Mrs. Gage, Miss May Clawson, Mrs. D. W. King, Miss Lulu French.

Tea Room—Mrs. Walter McGee and Miss Grace Yerkes, assisted by Miss Edith Taylor, Miss Mamie French, Miss May Stelle, Miss Ida Yerkes.

At the tables the following presided: Mrs. Serrell, Mrs. Dr. Simpson, Mrs. Spratt, Mrs. C. Conover, Mrs. Fred Slater and Miss Trewin. Miss Lewis carefully guarded the door and received tickets, while Mr. Chapman and G. H. Batchelor were efficient in assisting everywhere.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3, in the church.

Rev. G. Hauser of Jersey City will preach again in the German Reformed Church next Sunday, and will probably be called to the charge.

Westfield Congregationalists are making a feature of the Camp Quartette Choir, late of Plainfield, composed of Charles Crouch, Susan Boice, Marion Camp and T. H. Camp.

At the Children's Day exercises in the First Baptist Church next Sunday special music will be a feature. Dr. Yerkes will preach the Commencement sermon in Peddie Institute, Hightstown, that day, and Rev. Arthur Crane will fill his place.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, Trinity Reformed Church, will give a strawberry and ice-cream festival Thursday and Friday afternoon and evening, in the lecture room of the church, which will be prettily decorated. Home-made candies will be provided. The admission is 10 cents.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will celebrate their first anniversary next Monday evening. An address will be made by Rev. J. Judson Pierson of Woodbury, State President of the Christian Endeavor Societies.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church will give an entertainment in the Sunday-school room Friday evening.

Christian Endeavorers are recommended to supply comfort bags, books, magazines, papers, mitts, mufflers, wristlets, socks, yorn caps and the like, for the comfort of the surfmen in the Life-Saving Service. Rev. J. Lester Wells, 188 Grand street, Jersey City, is Secretary of this branch of the Christian Endeavor work.

Court Wedding.

Miss Anna Daume of North avenue and John Edward Stiner of Springtown were married this morning in the City Court by Judge William A. Coddington. Overseer of the Poor Vanderbeek gave the bride away and witnessed the ceremony with Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely. The couple will live in Plainfield.

—The C. Y. M. L. will nominate officers at their meeting this evening.

—Dr. Jenkins has sold to Mr. Voehl enough land to give him a driveway to the rear of the new brick building he will put up on East Front street. The contracts for the building are being pushed as follows: I. Pangborn, mason work; Carney Bros., tinning and plumbing; D. N. Force & Co., carpenters.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Taxis left for home at 3:45 this afternoon.

Hereafter it costs the public 10 cents to enter the Crescent grounds, and 15 cents to go on the track. A man is on duty at the gate.

Taxis told H. C. VanEmburgh yesterday that this was the finest new track he ever saw, and that it was almost as good as the best track, that at Springfield, Mass. The Springfield track leads because of its age, 14 years. He is very enthusiastic over the Plainfield track.

Congressman Dunn enjoys the distinction of being the only bicycle rider in the New Jersey delegation in Washington. On any balmy evening he may be seen mounted on his charger of steel, gracefully careering along Pennsylvania avenue, exciting the admiration of the multitude by his difficult evolutions and the wonder of the onlookers by his perfect command of the wheel.—Summit Record.

Saturday afternoon at the Crescent oval H. C. VanEmburgh, the efficient superintendent of construction of the track, had a hammer thrown to him; it struck on the ground, and, rebounding, the claw struck him in the back of the head. The wound bled badly and was dressed by a physician present. He is doing nicely now, but it was a narrow escape. Mr. VanEmburgh is highly praised for his work on the track.

A LETTER FROM MURPHY

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In the report of the Plainfield, N. J., bicycle races in your issue of the 3d inst., I am accused of causing the spill which brought down George F. Taylor of Waltham and W. W. Taxis of Philadelphia, seriously injuring the latter, and of interfering with Wells. This is a reflection on my fairness as a track rider. I wish that you would print the following, which is a correct statement and can be verified by eyewitnesses:

It was well known by some of the officials and spectators who were on the inside that there would be a fine display of team work and that an effort would be made to shut out the Stearns team. Wells and Titus, representing the Spalding team, were starters in the third of a mile scratch race for class B riders. Wells had been instructed by the trainer of the team to make the running for Titus to the head of the stretch and then pull out and let Titus have the pole; but as I had been warned that something of this kind would be tried, I watched their actions closely, and, just before we rounded in the homestretch, I jumped out from behind Wells and Titus and attempted to pass on the outside of Wells, according to the rules.

Wells, upon seeing me coming, and knowing I would get to the pole ahead of Titus, came out from the pole and attempted to head me off so as to let Titus through on the inside. In so doing he ran against my wheel and drove me out against Taylor, who was coming up with me on the outside, causing us to collide. Taylor was brought down, and my wheel was damaged so that I could barely finish. Taxis, who was riding in the rear, came down over Taylor, and had to be carried from the track. Wells, seeing the the trouble he had caused, endeavored to shift the responsibility on to me, and, furthermore, he abused me in the most shameful manner in the presence of the officials, knowing well that I could not retaliate without running the risk of being suspended. He was particular, however, in getting out of my way in the dressing room. Referee Prial ordered the race to be run over, and as I was the only one that came out for the run-off the race was awarded to me. Wells, who was outclassed in this field, simply entered as a donkey for Titus, intending to run Taylor, Taxis, and myself wide, so as to let his stable mate, Titus, win.

Trusting that you will give my letter the same prominence you gave this unpleasant affair in the first place, I have the honor to remain yours, respectfully,
C. M. MURPHY.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

New Market was illuminated last evening for the first time with the new lamps. It makes a decided improvement.

Messrs. Boscow will give an entertainment, spiritualism, in Friendship Hall, New Market, tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights.

A new loan and building association is to be organized in Dunellen. A meeting will be held this evening. Several Plainfielders, it is said, are interested.

Fred Brock was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Nettie Reed of Dunellen, over Sunday.

Mangled by the Cars.

The body of Joseph Ellison, colored, single, aged 39, was brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Tims, 529 East Sixth street, last night. Ellison's mangled remains were found on the Jersey Central tracks, Elizabeth. He left here Saturday night to visit a brother in Brooklyn. Another brother (Frederick) works at Hillside Cemetery. The funeral will be held at 11 tomorrow morning.

—John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, at their meeting last evening decided to meet the first and third Monday in every month. One recruit was mustered into the camp.

OBITUARY.

John Ridley.

The death of John Ridley, age 38, occurred this morning at 3, at his home, 821 Second place, of consumption, after a month's confinement.

He was well known in legal circles, being an office lawyer of considerable reputation in New York and New Jersey. He excelled in compiling law books.

ABOUT TOWN.

—An informal reception will be held in the Children's Home, Thursday afternoon at 4.

—F. White will be pianist at the strawberry and china party in the Colored Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening.

—Are you in need of a buckboard, wheelbarrow, express wagon, velocipede, tricycle, or hammock? If so, purchase at Harper's, 411 Park avenue.

—M. Quinn's young mare Vanity, from the Avon Park Stud, trotted her maiden race at the Parkway Track, Brooklyn, last week, and gave them quite an argument for the money.

—Whether it be a chaille or a duck suit, or any dry goods, fancy article or millinery, Boehm is prepared to fill your want, and his prices are low. Read and see, or better still stop in and inquire.

—Hotel Netherwood opened Sunday to what promises to be a most successful season. Mr. Miller is in personal charge, and makes life a delight for his guests. The famous Netherwood dinners are already gaining additional reputation.

—The merry-go-round was not running last evening. Mr. Shelley, the proprietor, had the ponies and cars painted and varnished yesterday, and as they were not thoroughly dry he closed down for the day. Tonight they will be ready again for use, and a large attendance is looked for.

—At Hipp's Manhattan Hotel and Bowling Alleys last night a grand opening was had, and one of the best lunches ever before served was enjoyed. A large gathering assembled, and with instrumental and vocal music a very pleasant evening was passed. Mr. Hipp was welcomed into business in great shape.

Shot at a House.

Dominick Duffy will be tried tonight by Borough Magistrate Crosley for disorderly conduct. He was arrested by Chief Marshal Pangborn last evening for shooting at a house on Grove street at 11 at night, a week ago.

THE SENSIBLE VIEW.

WOMAN'S SENSITIVE ORGANISM

Does Not Permit Her to Do What Men Do, and She Ought Not To Try.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You might as well know that you have a wonderfully sensitive and peculiar organism. You ought to know that from the moment the girl is changed into a woman, the matter of first physical importance to her is the regularity with which nature purifies her system. That all through life this is of the very first importance to her, and that neglect in this direction means misery in every direction.

Stop and reason out what happens when nature is balked in its efforts. The blood takes up the poisonous particles, carries them to the lungs, and decay follows. It carries them to the heart, and before long the organ is weakened, and your courage and strength vanish. It carries them to the brain, and before long the wildest fancies run riot, you think you have every known disease.

It destroys poisonous germs, cleanses the system, strengthens the womb, and makes a strong, hopeful, happy woman out of a physical wreck.

Mrs. J. A. Rice, of Florence, Ky., whose portrait we are permitted to publish, is only one of many thousands who owe their health to the Vegetable Compound, and are doing all they can to help other women to believe that the same health and happiness will come to them with the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicines. She says:

"I suffered eight years from woman's early troubles. I could find no permanent relief until, one year ago, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief then came with it almost immediately, and at this time I am a well woman.

"I absolutely know, not only by my own experience, but by others also, that it is a harmless and sure remedy for irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness of the stomach, sick headache, and female complaints generally.

Red Men Make Merry, Eat and Dance.

Delegations from Nenemosha Council of Elizabeth and from the local tribes of Red Men attended the meeting of Iona Council in Red Men's Hall last evening. The room was prettily decorated with bunting and Chinese lanterns.

After routine business had been transacted and nominations had been made for next term's chiefs, an enjoyable programme was presented. It included short talks by Pocohontas Lavinia Holstein, Pocahontas Miller of Elizabeth, Deputy Great Chief Ida Craig of Jersey City, Chief of Records William Newcorn, and Past Sachem of Jersey City. Mrs. Fred Canfield gave a piano solo and Mrs A. J. Stiglitz and Mrs. William A. Westphal sang solos. Edward Wolff was encored seven times for his dialect recitations. Little Miss Ada Westphal gave an exhibition of fancy dancing.

The floor was then cleared, and dancing to Sam Frazee's music continued until 1:30. Supper was served at 11, and the visitors boarded the 11:28 train.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

Good Showing for the Efforts of the Christian Workers on This Side of the Atlantic—Difference Between American and Continental Associations—Reception to the Delegates.

LONDON, June 5.—Count Bernstorff, of Berlin, presided at the opening of the fourth day's conference of the Young Men's Christian association at Exeter hall. The devotional exercises were conducted by Pastor Krummacher, of Germany.

Richard C. Morse, of New York, secretary of the American international committee, presented a paper on Association Work in America. This paper was in English, French and German and was in the hands of delegates of different nationalities when it was read. It is now in print in America and will be extensively used in connection with the American jubilee services next Sunday.

C. M. Hobbs, of Denver, spoke of the railroad work of the American associations. He said it had been growing steadily since its inception, in 1877. There were now 98 railroad associations with 25,000 members, employing 120 secretaries and owning 15 buildings. This department was receiving the hearty support of railroad companies and officials and was appreciated by all classes of railroad employes. During the last year its growth had been quite satisfactory. It was one of the permanent institutions in railroad management.

John R. Mott, college secretary of the international committee, was introduced and said that for the last seventeen years the College Young Men's Christian associations had been exercising a wide and hopeful influence in the religious life of American colleges.

A prominent college professor had designated this college movement as "the great fact in the religious life of the colleges today." College students had been called the most favored and the most exclusive class of young men, and, as a result of this Christian association movement, he was glad to say, that they were also the most Christianized class of American young men. In America but 5 per cent. of the young men were church members, while in the colleges more than 50 per cent. of the same class were church members. Statistics showed that during the past year these associations had helped one out of 2,800 college men. Many had been influenced to enter the Christian ministry, many had volunteered as foreign missionaries, and thousands of young men had gone from the college associations trained as Christian laymen. This college work had not by any means been confined to the American institutions, but its influence had been felt in Europe and in missionary lands.

Claus Clandt jr., secretary of the international committee, in charge of its work for German young men, said that in America the associations were making an effort to reach the German young men who had come from the fatherland in great multitudes. Secretaries and buildings were located in the leading cities in which there were large numbers of Germans and were doing good work.

These papers, following each other, illustrated plainly the difference between the American and continental associations. In America, with 1,400 associations, there are 251,000 members; in Holland, with 700 associations, there are but 16,000 members. On the continent there are hundreds of associations that are simply young men's prayer meetings, composed of the young men of a single church, and sometimes as many as 20 in the same city. They often but few buildings, employ a few secretaries and do little else than hold a weekly prayer meeting for a limited number of Christian young men.

Sir George Williams, who had taken the chair during the reading of the papers, read a telegram in which Sir Henry Ponsonby, the queen's secretary, conveyed her greeting to the conference.

After lunch in the pavilion the topic of what is known as the "Paris Basis," or the "Evangelical Tests of Active Membership," was presented in a paper by Prof. Gladstone in English, and one in French by Edward Barde of Geneva, Switzerland. Each gave a brief historical sketch of the first world's conference in Paris in 1855, in which the "Paris Basis" was adopted.

At 8 o'clock a reception was given to the delegates and their friends by the lord mayor and the corporation of the city of London, in Guildhall. The council of the city appropriated £1,000 for this reception.

The lord mayor presented Sir George Williams with the freedom of the city. Among the 108 guests who received special invitations for the reception were Cornelius Vanderbilt, Morris K. Jessup, John Wanamaker, James Stokes, Richard C. Morse, Robert H. McBurney and Thomas K. Cree. The lord mayor presided. He and Sir George Williams, Count Bernstorff, Alfred Andre and Sheriff J. C. Dimsdale delivered addresses.

New Corn Pest.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., June 5.—A small yellow worm, about an inch long, and resembling the black thousand-legged worm that is usually found in decayed timber has made its appearance in the corn fields in this section and is creating havoc with the coming crop. TILLMAN HAS BACKBONE

So He Informs the Temperance Congress.

And Proves it to the Extent of Talking to the Prohibitionists Against Their Dearest Ideas in Support of His Own Dispensary Scheme—Says Prohibition Will Not Prohibit.

PROHIBITION PARK, S. L, June 5.—Gov. Tillman, of South Carolina, presented his state agency plan for the solution of the liquor question to an audience of two thousand prohibitionists at the evening session of the International Temperance congress. The governor's hearers did not agree with him as to the plan, but they listened closely to the end and found some points at which they could applaud without doing voilence to their consciences.

At other times they loudly expressed their disapproval.

Gov. Tillman said in part:

"I have come a long way and left my official duties in the interest of truth and the right. I have heard a great deal at the sessions I have attended of 'sand' and 'backbone.' It has been said that I possess those qualities. I will say this, that I will show here to-night that I am willing to advance my convictions in any audience; and I am going to contravert your dearest ideas and firmest beliefs. I am probably the only politician present. I have been elected governor of a state and I am a candidate for the United States senate and expect to be elected."

The governor then went on to say that he was not exactly a politician in the ordinary acceptance of the term. He said that he always spoke his convictions, and that was not characteristic of politicians.

He said that he was a farmer; that his gubernatorial position was his first office. He went on to say that he proposed to have his say, and if anyone in the audience wanted to throw rocks at him he would throw rocks back. Then drawing himself up to his full height he said, in tones that made the rafters ring:

"I am here to-night to tell you prohibition does not prohibit, and never will prohibit. We have got a plan in South Carolina that completely wipes out saloons, and we have done more than you have. Now I am a temperance man. (Applause.) I never drank five gallons of whiskey all told in my life. (Laughter.) I sometimes take a social glass with my friends, but I don't like the stuff."

The governor then produced a bottle of whiskey with the South Carolina label on it. He waved it like a fire-brand in the faces of his audience, and described the state dispensary plan. He said that prior to the decision by the supreme court of the state there were 66 dispensaries in operation, and the state had paid out $379,000 for liquor; $57,000 for bottles, and $37,000 for labels and other expenses. From the total outlay of $473,000 and with $98,000 worth of liquor on hand, $567,000 worth had been sold, and a net profit of $100,000 to the state and $84,000 to the counties had been realized.

He said that the quality of whiskey was chemically pure, so that the people quit having a headache when they got drunk on it. He said a moment later that no one got drunk on dispensary whiskey; they got drunk on black tiger whiskey which he said they hid in holes in the ground or "toted" in their boot legs.

He stirred up the audience by declaring that prohibition would never be established by votes.

"Give us a chance," said a man in front. This brought a volley of applause. Then the governor shouted:

"You are not ready to remove the government tax on whiskey.

"Yes we are," came from all parts of the hall.

"Then you are blinder than I thought you were," said the governor.

A moment later he alluded to "prohibition narrow mindedness" and that the audience would only go half way with him. Then he said:

"Before you are a dozen years older you will see half the states in the Union following the example of South Carolina."

"Never!" shouted a woman delegate."

"If you can't get prohibition, will you take the dispensary?" asked the governor. There were a hundred noes, and one man in the back of the hall said yes.

"That is encouraging," said the governor. He went on:

"So far as backbone is concerned I have as much as any other man, but when you tackle the liquor trade, entrenched behind its hundreds of millions you need to have the backbone of the statue of Liberty."

Harvard-Princeton Game To-morrow.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—Manager Hill of the Harvard baseball association announces that the postponed Harvard-Princeton game will be played on the Yale field to-morrow afternoon.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. If matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies as indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

GAVETT'S

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

Formerly of Trenton, the well-known expert in Chronic Diseases, can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

A PAMPHLET

Containing a large array of testimonials of remarkable cures, similar to that above, and giving valuable medical information on important matters, will be mailed free to any address, or furnished on application at Dr. Lighthill's office, No. 144 Crescent avenue.

NEW JERSEY NEWS.

Presbyterian Church Centennial.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 6.—Large crowds gathered at the second day's exercises of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Presbyterian church here. Dr. Mott, the present pastor, gave the centenniel discourse, treating upon the history of western New Jersey and the founding of this church up to the present time. Dr. Janeway, his predecessor, made an interesting address to many of his old hearers. He preached here 17 years ago and is now very old and feeble. Among the the prominent decorations of the church were life-size portraits of all six pastors who have had charge of the church during the past 100 years.

Postmasters Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The senate has confirmed the following postmaster nominations:

Rhode Island—Edwin L. Hawkes, Pascoag; Daniel R. Southwick, jr., Wakefield.
New Jersey—Harriet F. Cadmus, South Amboy; William D. Holmes, Belleville.
Pennsylvania—John J. McDonald, Kingston.
Delaware—William Reynolds, Milford.
Maryland—George A. Atkinson, Port Deposit.

Prize Fight in New Jersey.

ORANGE, N. J., June 6.—Ray Badgeley, of Orange, and Con Schultz, of Newark, fought a savage battle to a finish in the woods near the Hilton hotel in South Orange at an early morning hour. Both men are welterweights, and the match was for $50 a side and the gate receipts. Nearly 300 sporting men were present. Badgely knocked out Schultz after 11 rounds had been fought.

Football Prizes Awarded.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 6.—The two football prizes, valued at $60 and $40, offered by the New York alumni, have been awarded, the first to Edward M. Hunt, '95, of Trenton, N. J., and the second to Joseph Sawyer, '97, of Stamford, Conn. Each contestant was allowed six punts and 18 drop kicks.

Gorman Going to Atlantic City.

LAUREL, Md., June 6.—Senator Gorman has decided to go to Atlantic City to recuperate. The senator is in good spirits and will probably leave for Atlantic City on Friday.

WRECK OF THE TEXAS.

The Dominion Line Steamer and Most of Her Cargo a Total Loss.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., June 6.—The Dominion line steamer Texas, Capt. Hunter, from Montreal, May 30, for Bristol, England, went ashore one mile inside St. Shotts, St. Mary's bay, on the wildest and most dangerous headland of the whole Newfoundland coast, the scene of many shipwrecks. Shortly after noon she struck land during a dense fog.

She was going at only ordinary speed when she ran into a small bay and was thrown on to the rocks.

Her whole bottom was torn open on the starboard side, her bow was stove in and she filled with water. Her cargo consisted of deals, grain and flour, 240 head of cattle and 1,416 head of sheep. The cattle were drowned. They were kept on the main deck, and, the seas washing over the ship, they perished.

The crew, seeing no immediate danger to their lives, occupied themselves in saving the sheep, and all but 20 head were landed safely. The crew then landed themselves with their effects.

The sheep have been driven into the woods and scattered all over the adjoining country. It is unlikely that the underwriters will ever see them again, as they will be easily disposed of in the neighborhood.

Loss on vessel and cargo estimated at nearly half a million dollars.

Opposes Automatic Gallows.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 6.—At a monthly meeting of the state board of charities, Dr. A. W. Tracey, of Meriden, the president of the board, presented a communication from himself objecting to the hanging of "Jack" Cronin, Aug. 24, by means of the automatic hydraulic gallows. Dr. Tracey argues against a criminal's taking any part in ending his life. With the proposed gallows, Cronin, when he steps on a small platform will set in motion hydraulic machinery which will complete the execution.

DO THEY SEE DEFEAT?

Indications of Surrender on the Miners' Part.

The National Strike Committee Adopt Resolutions Declaring Willingness to Meet With the Operators of Mines in the Various Districts to Try and Settle the Trouble.

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—The miners' national strike committee adopted the following resolution, late last night, after being in executive session from 10 o'clock in the morning:

Whereas, It is evident that the national convention of miners and operators cannot be had for the purpose of effecting a general settlement of the present differences over mining rates to be paid for the next year, and

Whereas, The operators in nearly all the districts have expressed a willingness to meet within their respective mining districts, the representatives of the miners for the purpose of adjusting said prices,

Resolved, That we, the members of the executive national committee and the district presidents, to whom was delegated the power to act for the miners at the last convention of the United Mine Workers of America, declare our willingness to meet with the operators of the mines in the various districts, to attempt, and if possible to effect a settlement of mining prices.

Resolved, that the conferences of representatives of the miners and operators of the different districts be arranged for and held not later than Saturday, June 9.

The following conferences will be held on that date:

Central and northern Pennsylvania, at Altoona; western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and eastern Illinois, at Columbus, O.; central and southern Illinois, at East St. Louis; Kentucky and Tennessee, at Jellico; Arkansas, Indian Territory, Missouri and Kansas, at Kansas City; Iowa, at Oskaloosa; Butler, Beaver, Lawrence and Mercer counties, Pa., at Mercer; Latrobe, at Latrobe, Pa.; Ohio River mines, at Pomeroy; northeast Kentucky, at Central City, and Maryland at time and place to be agreed upon locally.

The resolution was opposed by both President McBride and Secretary McBryde.

Inasmuch as they have all along declared that they would consent only to a national settlement of the strike the resolution looks very much like a confession that the miners are beaten.

Troops to Protect Mine Workers.

BALTIMORE, June 6.—The Fourth and Fifth regiments, under command of Brig.-Gen. Stewart, arrived at Frostburg this morning to protect the mine workers from the strikers. This is the first strike that has occurred in the Cumberland coal region of Allegheny and Garrett counties, Maryland, and the Elk Garden region, West Virginia, since March 8, 1886. The cause of the strike in 1886 was the reduction from 50 to 40 cents a ton, the same reason that caused the present strike. The operators will not pay the advance nor deal with the labor organizations.

Negroes for Frick's Works.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., June 6.—One hundred and seventy-five negroes have been brought here and sent to the Standard & Central works of the Frick Coke company. Most of them were accompanied by their families. Some of the labor leaders boarded the train and tried to induce them to join the strike. This they refused to do. The negroes who arrived at Painter went to work, though that plant was surrounded by 800 strikers, who have established a camp in an adjoining field. There are 40 armed deputies on guard and Superintendent Brennan expresses a determination to open the plant at all hazards.

Return Under Police Protection.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., June 6.—James Passmore, of this place, who operates the Urey Ridge mine in Indiana county, is reported to have started his colliery, a number of his old employes having returned to work, under the protection of the police. It is to that mine that Captain Clark took quite a number of coal and iron police. There is no truth in the report of great destitution prevailing in this region, the suffering not being so great as it was last winter, when a relief board was organized in order to prevent starvation among the women and children.

Strikers to Be Tried Separately.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 6.—The grand jury returned findings in the cases of the 35 strikers charged with the murder of Chief Engineer Paddock at Davidson on April 4 last. The cases against seven of the defendants all Slavs except John McSloy, were ignored. The other 28 will be tried separately. This means an almost endless dragging of the cases throughout the summer, for there are 100 witnesses in each case and each trial will take several days. The work of selecting a jury for the first trial is now under way.

Armed Peace Maintained.

MASSILLON, O., June 6.—An armed peace is being maintained on the southern end of the Cleveland, Lorraine & Wheeling railroad. General Manager Woodford has made no attempt to move the loaded coal trains, and the strikers maintain a guard over two hundred cars. This inability of the road to continue daily supplies of coal to the Lake Shore road at Elyria has reduced that road to desperate straits and local trains are being taken off.

Peace Restored at Cripple Creek.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., June 6.—The arbitration agreement was read to the miners by Alexander McIntosh, the state organizer for the miners' union. All the miners on the Bull Hill immediately laid down their arms, the pickets were called into camp and the fortifications were abandoned. There is general rejoicing here over the settlement of the strike, flags and other decorations being seen on every hand.

Situation in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 6.—Gov. Matthews said to-day in reference to the coal strike: "The trouble now lies in Sullivan county, and if the present state of affairs continues it may be necessary to declare martial law. The militia will stay there six months if required. The state has undertaken to put down this trouble and it will be done without fail."

Special Coal and Iron Police.

'WEALERS SENTENCED.

Not One of the Idaho Train Stealers Escape a Term in Prison.

BOISE, Idaho, June 6.—In Judge Beatty's court the commonwealers who stole the Union Pacific trains at Montpelier and Nampa were sentenced.

Not one escaped.

The leaders, including Gen. Scheffler, Breckinridge and Collahan, with Dick Williams, who was leader of the citizens at Montpelier, got from one to three months each in various county jails. The officers were punished as far as they could be identified.

The mass of the 'wealers got 30 days in prison, which is to be built in Washington county near the Oregon line and guarded by United States soldiers.

Judge Beatty passed some severe strictures on the action of Portland, Ore., citizens, headed by the governor of that state, who it is alleged held out false inducements to 'wealers, promising them aid and money for the purpose of getting them out of Portland on other communities and then left them stranded.

New York Police Officials Uneasy.

NEW YORK, June 6.—That the disclosures brought out by the Lexow senate investigation, of gross corruption in the police department, is causing the police officials more than a little concern is made apparent by the action taken by the police commissioner at their meeting yesterday. Commissioner Murray offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted to the effect that the superintendent of police be authorized to examine all the testimony given at the police investigation and determine exactly what charges could be brought against all officials in any way concerned, no one excepted, and bring them to trial; and further that the superintendent shall confer with Chairman Lexow so that the work of the former shall in no way interfere with that of the committee.

Granger's Bad Record.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Gideon Granger, the ex-son-in-law of Police Commissioner McClave, who disappeared after giving damaging evidence against his former father-in-law before the Lexow committee, returned yesterday and continued his testimony. On the cross-examination he made admissions that confirmed charges of his misconduct and showed himself to be a man whose life has been corrupt.

Floods in Colorado.

PUEBLO, Col., June 6.—The incessant rains in the canons above Canon City and Florence for the past 48 hours have done more damage then the flood of last Wednesday night. A cloudburst occurred just above Florence, the river rising 18 feet in less than an hour. People are fleeing to high ground.

De Lesseps Still on Top.

PARIS, June 6.—At a meeting of the Suez Canal company Charles de Lesseps was re-elected to be a director, despite rather strong opposition. The proposal to pension the 13 de Lesseps children with 60,000 francs annually and Madame de Lesseps with the same amount was approved.

President Barrett's Son Arrested.

VANDERBILT, Pa., June 6.—A son of President Barrett, of the Miners' union has been arrested here for throwing a billiard ball through a window of the Hotel Vanderbilt with the intention of killing a deputy sheriff. The ball hit the deputy on the shoulder and glanced off, breaking a $100 mirror.

Horsemanship at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 6.—The three galleries of the riding hall were packed full of spectators to witness the antics of the school of the trooper. Twenty-seven cadets, selected from the graduating class, under command of Captain Craig, gave a fine exhibition of horsemanship. Many of the feats performed by the cadets, such as mounting and dismounting while the horses were on a fast gallop, were very exciting, and two or three of the army girls almost fainted away at the thrilling performance. The bareback riding and hurdle acts were particularly fine. The board of visitors were highly elated and warmly congratulated Captain Craig upon his success as instructor in cavalry tactics. This is the captain's last year here, he having been transferred to another post.

The Late Mrs. Amory's Will.

DEDHAM, Mass., June 6.—The will of Mrs. Jeanne Philomine Amory has been filed for probate and provides that on the death of her husband, William Amory, jr., her estate in Braintree, known as "Seven Oaks," shall be given to Francis I. Amory, Sigourney Butler, and one other chosen by them, in trust, as a temporary home for poor women and their young children, and for invalid women, both young and old, the said home to be known as St. Margaret's, to be under the supervision and control of the Sisters of St. Margaret, a Protestant Episcopal charitable and religious society in Boston.

De Felice's Family Expelled.

PALERMO, June 6.—Upon an order issued from Rome, the wife, mother and two children of the socialist deputy, Joseph De Felice-Giuffride, recently sentenced to 18 years' imprisonment for complicity in the Sicilian riots, have been expelled from Sicily and ordered to take up their residence at Moras, on the island of Sardinia.

FIGHTING THE LORDS.

Unanimous Action of the National Reform Union.

LONDON, June 6.—The conference of the National Reform union, a movement in favor of the abolition of the house of lords or at least a considerable abridgement of the power of that body, was opened here with Hon. Philip James Stanhope, M. P., in the chair. After the preliminary work of organizing the conference, Mr. Labouchere submitted a resolution that whenever the house of lords should reject a bill that had been passed by the house of commons it would only be necessary for the latter body to signify its approval of the measure by a formal vote, when the bill would become a law. In proposing the resolution, Mr. Labouchere said that he himself was in favor of the abolition of the house of lords, root and branch, but, to be practical, they must first see what they were likely to accomplish. The house of lords, he said, was an irresponsible and pernicious assembly, which was opposed to the elementary principles of self-government, and therefore it ought to be swept out of existence. R. J. D'Burnie, M. P., made a speech seconding the resolution of Mr. Labouchere, and it was adopted by a unanimous vote. Sir Charles Dilke introduced a resolution that the franchise ought to rest upon the personal fitness of the voter alone, and not depend upon the possession of property or the occupation of premises; also the districts should pay the election expenses and the state pay members of the house of commons and order second ballots.

Convict Wallwitz's Case.

TRENTON, N. J., June 6.—Judge Abbett refused to grant an order for the exhuming of the body of James B. Lippincott, the state's prison keeper, for whose murder convict Joseph Wallwitz is now under sentence of death. Lippincott is buried in a Philadelphia cemetery and his wife opposes any further handling of his remains. Judge Abbett said the court was absolutely without any power to order the disinterment, but he suggested that the counsel for the condemned man go before the court of pardons who, while considering an application for his pardon, could and probably would ask the authorities of Pennsylvania for permission in the interest of justice to take the body up. The object of the proposed re-examination of the body is to determine definitely whether the bullet of the convict or one fired by a deputy prison keeper killed Lippincott.

Hewston Convicted of Manslaughter.

LONDON, June 6.—The coroner's inquest upon the body of the street musician Burton, whose death was caused by General John Hewston of California, who thrust the ferrule of an umbrella into his eye on May 30, was closed, the jury finding a verdict of manslaughter against Hewston. A bystander named Bowering testified that Burton's harp touched Hewston's arm when the latter turned upon Burton and spoke to him angrily. Words were exchanged. Hewston finally raised his umbrella and said: "I'll poke this into your eye." Burton defied him and Hewston deliberately jabbed the point of the umbrella into his eye. One of Burton's fellow-musicians (Pember) declared on the witness stand that the umbrella thrust was not accidental, but was done deliberately.

Maney's Court Martial.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 6.—The rumor is flying around Fort Snelling that the findings of the court-martial are in favor of Lieutenant Maney on all counts. The findings were completed, signed by all the members of the court and forwarded to Washington, but the officers are not allowed to make any announcement to the public in advance of the receipt of the papers by the secretary of war, and have not done so. Whether or not the rumor is correct is not known, and probably grew out of the haste with which the court reached its decision.

Commonwealers at Salt Lake.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 6.—The city is filled with commonwealers since the embargo was lifted from the Sacramento regiments, and the patience of the citizens is fast becoming exhausted. The city and county authorities had determined to do nothing more for any industrials, but Gen. Smith, in command of the Sacramento contingent, went before the county court and agreed to move his 350 men in the direction of Denver at once if they were given five days' supplies. The county court promptly accepted the proffer.

Orphan Children Poisoned.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 6.—As a result of eating a poisonous vegetable, which they had mistaken for fragrant, five little inmates of the Catholic Sisters of Mercy home died in great agony during the night. The dead are James Forrestal, 10 years old; John Callahan, aged 10 years and 5 days; Thomas Cassmore, aged 10 years and 3 months; Augustus Powers, aged 12 years; John Donnelly, aged 12 years. Seven others of the inmates are ill but may recover.

Bicycle Meet at Rome.

ROME, N. Y., June 6.—The Central New York championship bicycle race meet, which was to have been held here on May 30 but was postponed on account of the weather, will occur on June 23. The entries will be reopened.

Cab Strike To Be Arbitrated.

LONDON, June 6.—The differences between the London cab drivers and cab owners have been submitted to the arbitration of the duke of Devonshire, who will undertake to end the strike.

New England Railroad.

BOSTON, June 6.—In the house the bill to incorporate the New England & New York Railroad company (the reorganized New York & New England) was passed under suspension of the rules.

Embezzles and Disappears.

LOWELL, Mass., June 6.—Frederick W. Goodwin, late financial secretary of the Lowell lodge K. of P., is said to be an embezzler in the sum of $1,000, and has fled to parts unknown.

MOBBED BY STRIKERS

Tube Workers Driven Out at McKeesport.

Five Thousand Rioters Break Down an Entrance to the Works, Chase the Fleeing Workmen Through the Streets and Beat Them With Clubs. Several Seriously Injured.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 6.—The expected trouble at the National Tube Works has occurred. Last night a mob of 5,000 strikers broke down the entrance to the mill yard and drove the workmen employed in the various departments out of the plant. As the men were driven out of the works they were surrounded by another mob of strikers on the outside and beaten with clubs and chased through the central part of the city. Several welders crossed the Monongahela river. They were pursued by the strikers down the river. One of the men was caught and severely stabbed by his pursuers. His condition is critical.

The strikers intended to intercept the men when they came out of the works at 6 o'clock and try and induce them to join their ranks. The officials of the company anticipated a move of this kind and had a dining room erected in the works where the men at work could get their meals without leaving the place.

A foreigner came out of the shops shortly after 6 o'clock. He was halted by the strikers.

The man drew a knife and in an instant at least 20 strikers jumped on him and would have killed him, but for the interference of police officers.

At 7:30 o'clock the mob was increased to 5,000. They broke down the entrance to the works and drove the men at work out as related above.

The greatest excitement prevailed throughout the city and the mayor ordered all the saloons to close.

Charles Manlin and Joe Koborky, two of the men beaten by the mob, are maimed for life and internally injured.

Councilman Watson was mistaken for one of the non-union men and was badly beaten by the strikers.

The mob stopped a street car and took off a man who had also received a severe drubbing. No one was killed, but many of the non-union workers had narrow escapes at the hands of the angry mob.

It is reported that deputies are coming from Pittsburg, and the strikers have pickets out to intercept them.

There were 240 of the old employes in the mill when the raid was made.

Nicaragua Canal Property Sold.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The receiver of the Nicaragua Canal & Construction company, Thomas B. Atkins, reported to the United States circuit court that he had sold at public auction to John R. Bartlett for $297,625 all the property and assets of the company. The purchaser paid $25,000 in cash and gave notes for the remainder. The instructions given by Judge Lacombe, of the United States circuit court, were that the property should be sold for the minimum price of $604,000; but on the event of the receiver failing to secure this price he might afterward sell it to the highest bidder at any sum exceeding $100,000. The property was sold in accordance with the terms of the judge's order.

Carbuncles Large as Hen's Eggs!

Mrs. NANNIE GOULDMAN, of Beulahville, King William Co., Va., writes as follows: "For about eight or ten years my father, Col. T. U. Fogg, of West Point, Va., was laid up with carbuncles, the worst that I ever saw. He tried everything he heard of, his doctor could do nothing for him. Had six or seven carbuncles at a time, as large as hen's eggs. He got so weak and suffered so much he could not walk a step. In 1873 he had his bed put in the middle of his room and got on it to die. No one expected him to get well. He saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advised for all blood disorders. Before he had taken half a bottle of 'Discovery' they began to go away. Two bottles entirely cured him. He is now 78 years old, and enjoys good health."

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 6, 1894

Know it all about dogs? Read what the City Clerk says.

Newark and Trenton water and gas pipes are being ruined by electrolysis from the trolley currents.

If Alert Hose Company would send her $10,000 silver hose carriage to the Poughkeepsie gala day June 18 she would surely capture the prize statuary offered for the handsomest carriage.

The way to get rid of tramps is to make their food and shelter depend absolutely upon work. Who'll start the crusade? Why can't Plainfield capture vagrants and compel them to work on the streets? That would make them shun the town and keep Plainfield women from being insulted and terrorized.

Willie Walker, who ran on the Socialist ticket for Mayor of Newark, is announced to address a meeting at the corner of Grant avenue and Second street, Friday evening, June 8, when, if he fulfils the promise of the circulars now in distribution, he will answer the question propounded two days ago by The Press: "Who pays the bills?" in any of the many schemes of Socialism proposed. The Press will be pleased to report what Willie says.

Miss Mary Philbrooke of Hoboken, the first woman to apply to the New Jersey Supreme Court for examination for admission to practice as an attorney at law, failed yesterday to receive the privilege. Justice Reed made the announcement, and later filed a short opinion giving the reasons of the court for its denial. The opinion says that until the Legislature grants to women the privilege of becoming attorneys at law the weight of reason and authority is against the existence of the right.

LADAS WINS THE DERBY.

(Special to The Press.)

LONDON, June 6.—The Derby race at Epsom today was won by Lord Rosebery's bay colt Ladas, which won the 2,000 guineas stakes May 9 and the New Market stakes on May 26. Lord Alington's Matchbox was second, and T. Cannon's Reminder third. Ladas is a direct descendant of Whalebone, who won the Derby for the Duke of Grafton, when the latter was prime minister in 1810. Ladas is by Hampton, sired by Lord Clifden, by Newminster, whose sire was Touchstone, by Camel, sired by Whalebone.

The Derby Stakes are of 6,000 sovereigns, the winner to receive 5,000 sovereigns, the nominator of the winner 500 sovereigns, the owner of the second 300 sovereigns, and the owner of the third 200 sovereigns. The event is for three-year-olds, colts to carry nine stone and fillies to carry eight stone nine pounds. The distance is about one mile and a half.

DEATH FROM A QUARREL.

(Special to The Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6—Julia Kelly, the wife of George Kelly, a printer, living at 231 East Fifty-ninth street, fell from a window of their flat, in the second story, late last night.

She received injuries that are believed to be fatal. Her right arm was partly torn from its socket. The police arrested her husband on suspicion and locked him up in the Fifty-first street station. Mrs. Kelly was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where she is believed to be dying.

The 5-year-old child of the couple was given into the charge of the officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

ANDREW'S IN GOOD HANDS.

His Boarding Mistress States a Strong Case, and He Comes to Plainfield for Salvation.

A hearing is being given this afternoon in Westfield before Judge Collins in the case of Andrew McMurray, charged by Julia Zimmermann with assault. McMurray, who drives a butcher wagon through Summit, has been boarding for a couple of months with Mrs. Zimmermann, who lives on the Springfield road, near what is called the "Sand Hill". There are no near neighbors, and Mrs. Zimmermann claims that her boarder assaulted her May 17, when she was home alone. Prosecutor Marsh conducts the hearing for the State. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh is looking after the interests of the accused.

DON'T WANT FOREIGN COMPETITORS

Local Grocers Taking Action Against Incoming Traders.

The Grocers Protective Association held a special meeting in the Board of Trade rooms last evening at the call of Plainfield bakers who asked for action against outside competitors. The matter was discussed at length, a representative of Mangel & Schmidt of Newark speaking for their side.

George W. Rockfellow and Herman A. Weber were appointed to consult with local bakers with instructions to report next Monday night, when the matter will be brought up at the regular meeting of the Association.

FIRE PURSUES HIM.

This Time No Alarm, as Help Was at Hand.

Jim Babbitt's East Front street pool room caught fire again at 9 last evening from the old cause, a large, overheated swinging lamp. The crowd of young colored men became greatly excited, but they managed to extinguish the flames with a bucket of water without calling out the firemen. Several ceiling boards were ripped away for an examination of the floor above, but the fire had not burned through.

MARY'S DIAMOND AGAIN.

Supreme Court to Settle the Case of Joe Pike.

In the Supreme Court in Trenton yesterday the case of VanRiper against Pike, which was taken up on certiorari from the Union County Court of Common Pleas, come up for final argument. W. S. Angleman represented Mr. Pike. Briefs are to be submitted Tuesday, and the Court will then finally decide the matter.

Lyceum Nominees.

President—William O'Connor.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Quart bottles 25c. To be diluted for use according to directions on label.

Plainfield's Chance to Secure Another Important Industry.

Capt. Eastman, President and General Manager of the Indestructible Clay Wick and Burner Company of 120 Broadway, New York, called yesterday on George W. Rockfellow, President of the Board of Trade, in reference to the proposition to locate their works in this city.

This company will control several patents on burners, lamps and oil stoves. They propose to manufacture not only these new clay-wicks, but a full line of burners, oil stoves, lamps and lanterns for all purposes under patents covering the entire field.

These clay wicks have many points of advantage over those now in use, among which are the following:

1. They will last as long as the lamp.
2. They never have to be trimmed or cleaned.
3. They can be turned as low as may be desired and left burning, without creating any disagreable odor.
4. They give a whiter flame, clearer light, and 25 per cent. more illumination than the best cotton wicks.
5. The flame cannot be extinguished by jar or sudden change of direction of draft.

This last feature will be fully appreciated by bicyclists.

The wicks are made of burnt clay, and rendered capillary by incorporating with the clay while in a plastic state, filaments of vegetable fibre, which are burnt out in the process of baking the clay.

Lamps are on exhibition which have been burning undisturbed daily from 9 to 12 months.

The company is capitalized at $150,000 in shares of $100 each, full paid and non-assessable.

The company makes the following proposition to the Plainfield Board of Trade: That if the Plainfield Board of Trade raises $50,000 the company will locate works in this city, will guarantee eight per cent. and will assign $60,000 of the capital stock with the privilege of redeeming the same at any time within ten years; or will make the assignment outright without guarantee and privilege of redemption.

One company alone employes 800 people in the manufacture of cotton wicks, and as these clay wicks will likely supercede the cotton wicks, and as the company intend to manufacture a full line of lamps and oil stoves, the enormous proportions of the business, and the great advantages to be derived by Plainfield upon its acquisition can hardly be realized or estimated.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Manhattan Bicycle Club will run to Plainfield June 10.

That fresh Crescent track will probably be salted to harden it.

The Elizabeth Journal trophy race comes off Saturday afternoon of this week. The starting time is set for 5.

The Cyclers of Elizabeth will in all probability enter teams both in the open race to be ridden at Waverly on the 16th, and in the county race for the Saltonstall cup at Plainfield July 4.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "The score card given out at the opening meet of the Crescent Wheelmen at Plainfield last Saturday was a model one and well worthy to be copied." The Daily Press printed it.

At the present time there probably is no man spoken oftener of in the sporting world than is A. H. Barnett. His record-smashing on the hard and hilly course between Irvington and Millburn is considered something phenomenal.

The Spalding people, on whose wheel (supplied by Rogers) Barnett won the Irvington-Millburn race last week, are building a special wheel to weigh 17 pounds, which they will present to the lucky Crescent Wheelmen rider.

A. B. Hoagland and A. J. Cortelyou rode their safeties from Neshanic to this city a day or two ago, leaving there at 7:20 a. m. and arriving here at 10:30 a.m. This is considered good time, taking into consideration the rough and hilly country they had to go through. The distance by road is about 27 miles.

The Elizabeth Wheelmen held the biggest night of their career in their handsome club-house last evening. The parlors were crowded by members and their friends, who had come to witness the presentation to A.H. Barnett of the handsome gold medal given by the New York Times to the man who made the best time in the Irvington-Millburn rac. Barnett, it will be remembered, won the race in world's record time. President Kent, who has just been elected to his office, made his bow as Chairman. He introduced W. S. McKean, the representative of the New York Times. Mr. McKean said it gave him great pleasure to call on Charles C. McBride, one of the foremost members of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, to make the presentation in behalf of The Times. Mr. McBride make a happy speech, and Champion Barnett modestly expressed his thanks in a few words, saying that he felt highly complimented and rewarded for all his hard training in capturing such a handsome testimonial from The Times, and he should always prize it as one of his most valued treasures. John C. Wetmore, one of the pioneer wheelmen in Elizabeth, made an interesting speech, giving reminiscences of the early days of the pastime in Union County, and how the Elizabeth Wheelmen organized in 1884 with only eleven members riding old Star machines.

—Carney Bros. are doing a most creditable job in putting new tubes into the boiler of Warren Engine.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

GOT SASSY IN COURT.

Two Men Fined as the Result of a Borough Auction.

Borough Magistrate Crosley heard the case of Dominick Duffy of upper Grove street in the borough court room last evening. Duffy was charged with firing a revolver at the house of his neighbor, James Caufield, several times at 11 the night of May 21.

According to the testimony of Marshal Wilson and Alexander Stites, Duffy had been engaged in a fight with Caufield and wished to scare him. Duffy said that he had simply left his house and gone into the street with his revolver and shot at cats which had been annoying him.

Caufield, who had come into court under the influence of liquor, arose without being requested and explained that he had been in bed at the time Stites said he had seen him from his window. Caufield soon became personal with his remarks and swore at the chief marshal. The magistrate sent him to a cell below while he fined Duffy $3 with a ten day alternative. The fine was paid.

Then Caufield was brought upstairs and sentenced to pay a fine of $2 or spend three days in the lock up for his disorderly conduct in court. He was then conducted to a cell again. Caufield's drunken actions on Somerset street during the evening were such that he would probably have been arrested, even if he had not walked into the hands of the police.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The regular monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in their rooms Thursday afternoon at 3:30

Ex-Councilman F. E. Marsh presided at the opening session of the East New Jersey Baptist Association's two-days anniversary celebration in Newark yesterday, and several others from Plainfield attended.

The fifth annual convention of the Epworth Leagues of the Elizabeth District will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Woodbridge, tomorrow. The delegation from the Plainfield M. E. Church will go over in Hand's stage, leaving about 7:45 a. m., and returning after the evening service.

Rev. Herbert Randolph, pastor of the Grace M. E. Church of North Plainfield, and son of Rev. William F. Randolph of the M. E. Church of Basking Ridge, officiated at the services held in the M. E. Church, Basking Ridge, Sunday night, in exchange with his father, who conducted the services in Grace M. E. Church.

The Summer festival of the Westfield Congregational Church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow evening. Supper will be served, and magic lantern views of the World's Fair will be shown. Among the attractions for the little folks will be a heap of seashore sand, in which small articles will be hidden, and for which the children can search.

The Children's Day programme in the First Baptist Church will be as follows:

Organ Prelude.
Doxology.
Invocation.
Hymn—"Holy, Holy, Holy".
Psalm XXIII.
Anthem.
Scripture Lesson—St. John XII: 1-9.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will give a strawberry festival in the church June 19.

W. G Holton Council, J. O. U. A. M., met last evening and held a mock initiation. The Council is progressing most favorably.

The Elizabeth District of the Epworth League holds its fifth annual convention in Woodbridge tomorrow. Rev. W. C. Kinsey is district clerk, and he, together with several of the members from Wesley Chapter of Dunellen, will attend, joining the Epworth Leagues from Plainfield. They will go by stage.

The Wesley Chapter of the Epworth League of the Dunellen Methodist Church gave their third delightful social last evening in the church. It was preceded by an excellent entertainment in the main room, kindly given by Epworthians from Plainfield and Westfield. The battle hymn of the League, "Look Up, Lift Up", was sung as a chorus, after which Rev. W. C. Kinsey offered prayer. A few remarks were then made by Mr. Kinsey, welcoming all to the hospitality of the League. A selection, "Daughters of Zion", by a quartette, Miss Mary Moffett, soprano, Miss M. K. Brittingham, alto, M. F. Townley, tenor, and W. H. Ruth, Jr., baseo, all of Westfield, was rendered and very much enjoyed. Mr. Kinsey then gave in his best style a reading entitled "The Critic", abounding in humor. An enjoyable part of the programme was the violin solo by Dyckman Winckler of Plainfield; he played like a master. Miss Mary Moffett delighted all with a soprano solo entitled "Waiting". Her pleasing voice was fully appreciated. The cornet solo, "La Perle Du Mer", by E. F. Brittingham, won hearty applause. Another reading by Mr. Kinsey, "Father Phil's Collection", was a charming rendition of that Irish classic. The baritone solo, "I Fear No Foe", by W. H. Ruth, Jr., won full approbation. Perhaps the most enjoyable number on the programme was the selection, "Capriccia Brilliant", Mendelssohn, which was played by Miss Pearl A. Whittaker of Westfield. The piece is a most difficult one, and this talented pianist rendered it in a way that held her audience spellbound until the last note was touched. Miss Whittaker is truly an artist, and her continued triumphs are gratifying to her friends. She also very ably accompanied those who sang during the evening. The last selection was "Come Where the Lilies Bloom So Fair", by the quartette, and was given in faultless style. Those present then adjourned to the Sunday-school room, where all enjoyed social talk and refreshments.

New Market.

Signor Bosco, the celebrated magician, gave his unique performance in Friendship Hall, New Market, Tuesday evening. This is certainly the best and most enjoyable entertainment had there for some time; and at the same time it is neat and void of anything objectionable, just where one can go and have a good laugh. Signor Bosco carries out what he advertises "Fun without vulgarity". A feature in the entertainment is his gift of a silver cake basket to the most popular lady. The voting contest on Tuesday night was: Miss Clara Pierce, 18; Mrs. C. T. Rogers, 4; besides several others who had 1 and 2 ballots cast for them. Thursday night the contest will be decided, being the last performance. Be sure and attend and cast a ballot for your best girl, so that she may carry home the beautiful basket, which will be an ornament to any table. The price of admission is: for children, 10 cents; adults, 20 and 30 cents.

WEST END NOTES.

Two more new houses are being built on Bocap Hill.

A. Muir, the champion bowler, rolled 245 in Hope Chapel.

Ed. Young, son of Adam Young, has begun to ship pineapples from Florida, where he owns a pineapple farm.

Dude Lyons, the champion pitcher, put out 14 men at a game in Bound Brook Sunday afternoon. The score was 4 to 1.

Mrs. Edwin Dockhan and son of Worcester are visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leland of 951 West Third street.

F. Weston, one of The Press carriers, has begun work with Dr. Davis in place of J. Finnegan, who moved to Newark with his parents.

Conductor Seymour, who was thrown from the yellow jacket car and had his collar bone broken, is now improving, but will not be around for two months.

A large number of people spent Sunday at Washington Rock. The day was so clear one could see the Brooklyn Bridge piers by the naked eye. The woods were found to be covered with locusts.

G. Firstbrook has resigned from the Crescents to play first base for the Arlingtons of Rahway; D. Kane will cover third base in his place on the Crescents. Firstbrook played third base for the Ironsides, who played with the Clevelands Sunday at Shooting Park, Newark; he made one of the four hits off Fisher, the Cleveland pitcher.

WEST ENDER.

For bilious headache and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills.

Book free, pills 25c. At drugstores; or write to B F Allen Co, 365 Canal st, New York.

LIVING PICTURES IN HOLY CROSS.

Many Things to Attract the Public to the Parish Building Tomorrow Night.

One of the most varied and thoroughly entertaining programmes of the year is the one arranged for tomorrow evening by Holy Cross Brotherhood in the Parish Building. Two farces will be played by the Spencer brothers, William Holmes and George Taggart, a reading will be given by Miss Maude James Chilton, and incidental music will be furnished by Henry M. Western. A delightful feature will be a unique series of tableaux in which the grace and beauty of the borough will appear in a score of charming representations. In the tableaux will be seen Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. McQuade, the Misses Jennie Haviland, Annie Murphy, Kate Miller, Grace Barlow, Mamie Grannatt, Sarah Long, Alice Barlow, Blanche Miller, Louise Saunders and Mary Barlow; Messrs. Clarence Murphy, Charles Western and Robert Douglass, and Masters Percy Western, Langdon Howard and Albert Ford. A large attendance is, of course, already assured. A few tickets are still to be had at Barker's pharmacy.

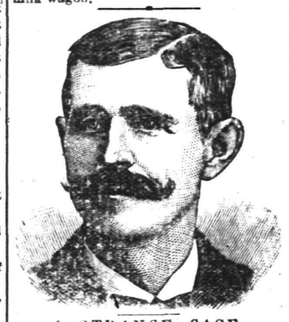
Westfield Stayed Home.

At the meeting of Somerset Council, No. 104, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, held in Red Men's Hall last night, Burton Metler was initiated. A delegation was expected from Westfield, but only two came.

It was decided to devote the second Tuesday evening of each month to good of the order enjoyment among the members, the women being invited and the initiatory work omitted. Five members were appointed a committee to manage the proposed social affairs.

A Neighborly Suit.

The suit for $50 damages brought by Geo. D. Small of Terrill road against his neighbor, Mrs. Annie Neighbor, will be ventilated in Justice Newcorn's Court tomorrow morning. The suit was brought to recover alleged damages to Small's milk wagon.



A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and feet. I had to rub and beat them constantly until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was a case of paralysis, from which, according to their diagnosis, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it creeps its insidious progress until a vital point is reached and the sufferer dies. So I supposed my case. I had been doctoring myself for half steadily, but with no perceptible benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 157. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

Corporation Notice.

Plainfield N. J., June 6, 1894.

The attention of all concerned is called to the following extract from an act passed by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, and approved April 4, 1894:

"That every person who shall own, keep or harbor any dogs, bitch or bitches shall have the same registered and numbered with the Clerk of the City in which the owner or person harboring the same shall reside, and shall place upon the neck of each dog or bitch kept or harbored a collar, having engraved thereon upon a metal surface, the name of the owner of said dog or bitch and the registered number thereof; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or bitch found straying off the owner's premises without such collar upon its neck.

"The person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered."

The registry book is kept at the office of the City Clerk, 109 Park avenue. Prompt compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid statute is urged.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

THEY'LL COME TO PLAINFIELD.

And Give an Informal Talk on the Calhoun School for Negroes.

Every one has heard of the famous Hampton School for Negroes and Indians, and of its noble founder, the late General Armstrong. Every one has not, however, heard of the young and promising offshoot of this institution, the Calhoun School, situated in the Black Belt of Alabama. Two young New England women, Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham, ventured into this wilderness (where the colored people outnumbered the white in the proportion of 25 to one) about two years ago, and their enterprise has prospered greatly. The school has kindergarten, primary and normal departments, and is attended by about 350 scholars. The boys also learn farming, and the girls sewing and general housework. Scholars are fitted here for Hampton and Tuskegee Schools. One of the great aims of these plucky young ladies is to teach the colored people how to live, how to get little homes for themselves, and to grow up respectable citizens.

Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham, who have come to the North for their Summer rest and vacation, will give an informal talk about their work, Friday afternoon, June 8, in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, at 4. The occasion promises to be one of great interest. All are cordially invited to attend. A collection will be taken up to assist in defraying the expenses of the school.

Democrats Satisfied With Their Work on Sugar.

Leaders' Programme Carried Out to the Letter—The Duty, 40 Per Cent. ad Valorem, With Additions Above No. 16, Dutch Standard, to Go Into Effect January 1, 1895—House Agrees to Vote on the State Bank Tax Repeal Bill To-day.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Democratic leaders in the senate express themselves as greatly relieved now that the sugar schedule of the tariff bill is out of the way, and they are naturally pleased with the day's work, for their programme was carried out on every point.

The work was completed after an intensely and exciting struggle. The fight for the greater part of the day was as it had been during the preceding four days, over the proposition to postpone the time when the repeal of the sugar bounty is to take effect from the 1st of July, 1894, to the 1st of January, 1895.

It was carried by a vote of 38 to 31.

On this vote the populist senators, Allen and Kyle, voted with the democrats, and Mr. Peffer with the republicans. Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) did not vote, and Mr. Irby (dem., S. C.) was paired with Mr. Dixon (rep., R. I.).

Mr. Manderson (rep., Neb.) offered an amendment to continue the sugar bounty in force until July, 1905. Rejected—yeas, 23; nays, 40. On this question Mr. Hill voted with his party. Mr. Peffer (pop., Kan.) voted for the amendment; and Senators Allen and Kyle and the two Louisiana senators (Messrs. Blanchard and Caffery) against it.

The next amendment offered by Mr. Manderson was to reduce the sugar bounty one-tenth each year from July 1, 1895, to July 1, 1905, and then to cease. It was rejected—yeas, 34; nays, 37.

It was voted for by the populist senators, Allen, Kyle and Peffer. Mr. Hill did not vote.

Mr. Manderson's next amendment was to confine the bounty to sugar from beets and sorghum. Rejected—yeas, 31; nays, 39. Mr. Peffer voted for it and Mr. Allen and Mr. Kyle against it. Mr. Hill did not vote. The Louisiana senators (Messrs Blanchard and Caffery) voted against it.

An amendment for free sugar was offered by Mr. Peffer and was rejected—yeas, 26; nays, 37; and one offered by Mr. Allison (rep., Ia.) to make the sugar duty go into effect with the passage of the bill was rejected—yeas, 30; nays, 33.

This was the closest of all the votes. Two of the populist senators (Kyle and Peffer) voted with Mr. Hill in supporting the amendment, and if the third populist (Mr. Allen) had cast his the same way, the vote would have stood 31 to 32. But Mr. Allen voted in the negative.

Finally the amendment of the finance committee, or rather the Jones' modification of it, was agreed to, yeas, 35; nays, 28; and with a few minor amendments to the other paragraphs the sugar schedule was completed and the tobacco schedule reached.

The bill provides for a duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem on all sugars, with additions where they are above No. 16 Dutch standard, and this duty is to go into effect on January 1, 1895.

House of Representatives.

The committee on rules at the opening of the session of the house yesterday through Mr. Catchings (dem., Miss.) reported an order shutting off general debate on the pending bill and amendment to repeal the state bank tax. The bill was to be further considered during the day under the five-minute rule, and then a vote was to be taken immediately after the committees had been called this morning.

Before the day had far gone, however, it was found desirable to amend the terms of the order by unanimous consent, by which Mr. Harter (dem., Ohio) was permitted to speak an hour and a half in favor of the repeal of the tax, and the advocates of repeal will have an hour and a quarter to present their views to-day before the vote shall be taken.

In presenting the order from the committee on rules, Mr. Catchings admitted with regret that the proposition to repeal the 10 per cent. tax law would doubtless fail to pass the house.

Implicates the Italian Government.

ROME, June 6.—In the trial of Signor Tanlongo, formerly governor of the Banca Romana, evidence was produced to show that Giolitti, when in office, took from the bank 100,000 lire with which to defray election expenses of government candidates. A letter from Giolitti, which was found among Tanlongo's papers, promised pardon for a certain convict on the condition that the family support the ministerial candidate in the district of Frosinone.

Inter-Collegiate Boat Race.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Considerable interest is being manifested in the inter-collegiate boat race which takes place on the upper Delaware river on Friday afternoon, June 15. The Pennsylvania crew and coach, George Woodruff, have arrived at Torresdale and taken possession of their quarters. The Cornell crew is expected to-day, and the members will occupy their house, which adjoins the Pennsylvania cottage.

Marblehead to Hasten to Bluefields.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 6.—Orders have been received here to prepare a torpedo outfit for the new cruiser Marblehead. She is due here now and the torpedo station has but 24 hours to prepare the outfit. Directly upon the ship's departure from here she will proceed to Bluefields with all due speed.

Car Shop Hands Re-employed.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 6.—Twenty men, who last week were discharged from the New York & New England repair shops at East Hartford, have again been put to work and others added. The indications are that the long period of inactivity in the shops is passing away.

State Typographical Union.

UTICA, N. Y., June 6.—The delegates to the State Typographical union, in session here, selected Binghamton as the place of meeting next year and elected officers as follows: President, A. J. Donnelly, Binghamton; vice-president, Thos. D. Cahil, Utica; secretary and treasurer, Thomas H. Wheaton, Syracuse; state organizer, Theodore Ray, Utica.

FOR THE GOOD OF ALL

Object of the New Presbyterian League.

Not in Defense of Dr. Briggs or Any Individual, But for the Maintainance of Liberty Within the Constitutional Limits of the Church—Other Objects to Be Striven For.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Presbyterian league of New York and vicinity held a meeting here for the purpose of issuing a public statement explaining the reasons for the existence of the organization, which it was claimed in some quarters was for the purpose of dividing the Presbyterian church, and in the interest of Dr. Briggs and Prof. Henry Preserved Smith.

The statement declares that the object of the league is not in the defense of individuals or their private opinions, but the assertion and maintenance of liberty with in constitutional limits in the church, and to heal differences and to make it possible for men of reasonable conservatism or liberal views to remain in fellowship, while maintaining their differences in common loyalty to the standards of the church.

The league holds that the Presbyterian standard of qualification for office bearers is to be found in the statements of the written constitution, as far as these conform to the infallible rule of faith in the scriptures, and that no resolutions, deliverances, judgments or other votes of the majority of any ecclesiastical body can form a part of this standard until they have been, by due process, incorporated in the written constitution.

The statement also says that among the objects of the league is to aim to bring about, sooner or later, the reversal of burdensome and unjust action recently taken by courts of the Presbyterian church; to secure as soon as practicable a better declaration of the faith of the church; the adoption by the church of needed amendments to the book of discipline, and to encourage all reverent study of the bible.

Railroad Sold Under Foreclosure.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The Quarryville section of the Lancaster & Narrow Guage railroad, which extends from Lancaster, Pa., to Quarryville, Lancaster county, a distance of 15 miles, was sold at auction under foreclosure at the Philadelphia Exchange to Charles H. Locher, a Lancaster banker, for $300,000.

Cronin Will Surely Hang.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 6.—The attorneys of John Cronin, the convicted murderer of Albert J. Skinner, of South Windsor, have abandoned all further hope of saving his neck. He will undoubtedly be hanged August 24, at the state prison.

Election Result in Oregon.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 6.—Election returns are still coming in very slowly. The republicans have had a clean sweep except in one or two counties, where the populists have been successful.

Actor Haworth Seriously Ill.

BOSTON, June 6.—Joseph Haworth, the actor, is at the city hospital where it is feared that he is suffering from appendicitis, but that has not yet been definitely ascertained, and the physicians are waiting to see if the trouble can be remedied without resorting to a surgical operation. His condition is said to be serious.

Caprivi's Aide-de-Camp Honored.

BERLIN, June 6.—Major Ebmeyer, Chancellor von Caprivi's aide-de-camp, has been made a Freiherr by the emperor.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C. KINNEY.

BLOODSHED AND RUIN

Great Mine Strike Culminates in a Wave of Wild Disorders.

Fatal Battles in Illinois and Ohio—Three Men Killed and a Number Wounded — Mine Property Destroyed—One Mob Disregards a Flag of Truce—Troops Marching in Several States—Coal Train Engineer Murdered By Strikers—Trouble at Cripple Creek Probably at an End—A Move in Pennsylvania That May Result in Bringing About a Settlement of the Mine Troubles.

PEORIA, Ill., June 7.—One man shot in the neck and killed instantly, several men fatally wounded, a number of others seriously injured, $30,000 worth of property absolutely destroyed and many homes made desolate, is the result of the attempt made by the miners of the Peoria district to close the mine operated by Little Bros. in Tazewell county, a mile or more back of Wesley City.

The tragedy was the sequel of the meeting held at Bartonville the other day, about which there was so much secrecy. No one could get the faintest inkling of what was done at the meeting. Now everybody knows.

It was decided at that time that the Little Brothers mine must close. There could be no equivocation, no quibbling, no half way measures. It must close and remain closed.

In consequence of this conclusion about 400 miners started out of Bartonville at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They came from nearly all the mines in the district.

Without anything having been previously said on the subject, except in the utmost secrecy, every man apparently came armed.

They were desperate and were ready to use desperate means to accomplish desperate ends.

Sheriff Frederick, of Pekin, having been advised of the trouble, went to the mines with a posse.

The strikers crossed the Illinois on boats and were met by the sheriff, who commanded peace and reasoned with them in vain.

Led by a stalwart miner with a revolver in each hand, crying: "Follow me," they charged on the mine.

The two Littles and their two sons and a colored man retreated into the tower over the shaft and opened fire on the besiegers, some of whom fell.

The shaft was set on fire and the air shaft closed. The crowds fled in dismay as it was feared the powder house would be ignited.

Of the besieged, John Jackson, a negro, was killed; Ed Little was shot in the breast and may die, and Peter Little was shot in the arm.

There were eight or ten miners in the shaft and it is feared all were suffocated.

Ed Blour, one of the attacking party, was killed and half a dozen other strikers were wounded. It is believed two or more of the strikers will die.

The sheriff and posse have returned to Pekin. They were unable to handle the mob. The wildest excitement exists.

After their work of destruction at the mine the mob raided one of the miners' houses. There was no one inside, so the door was kicked in and several gallons of kerosene found in a tank were taken to the mine and thrown all over the shaft and power house. The match was applied and as the buildings went up in smoke the strikers danced around.

All the mine buildings were burned to the ground.

After completing their work of destruction the mob dispersed, crossing the river in skiffs to prevent an armed force intercepting them.

TWO KILLED; FOUR WOUNDED.

Battle Between Deputies and Strikers at Kenova, Ohio.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—The trouble at Kenova reached a crisis this morning. The guards on the bridge (the N. & W. railroad structure) were compelled to shoot into a crowd of men who approached suspiciously from the Ohio side and two men were killed and four wounded.

The killed were John Kessler and an Englishman named Redmond.

The trouble is yet going on and the Ohio militia at Portsmouth have been called out.

Operators to Meet at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, June 7.—The special committee of ten coal operators, representing the coal producers of western Pennsylvania, will meet in Pittsburg to-day. Two propositions are to be considered. First: Shall the operators attend the Columbus, O., conference of miners and operators on Saturday, called by President McBride. Second: Shall the coal operators ignore the call of President McBride and begin preparations for a return to work regardless of, and ignoring the miners' organization. It is highly probable, however, that a subcommittee will be appointed to attend the Columbus meeting. There is now a disposition on the part of the operators to compromise on the matter of wage scale.

Sheriff Aiding Strikers.

SHELBURN, Ind., June 7.—Chief Deputy Sheriff Briggs has gone to Sullivan to request the county judge to make application to have the county placed under martial law, as Gen. McKee had declared it impossible to do anything so long as he is handicapped by Sheriff Mills, who is evidently operating with the miners.

Troops Moving in Iowa.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., June 7.—Superintendents Buxton, of Muchakinock, and McNeill, of Evans, have refused to join the state conference of miners and mine operators to be held in Oskaloosa Saturday, June 9. Company "F" will go to Evans at once.

Battle at Farmersburg, Ind.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 7.—A bulletin from Farmersburg, Ind., states that guards have been fired upon by strikers and 50 shots returned. Everything is excitement, but officers have matters well in hand.

OBEYED THE MOB.

Duquesne Tube Workers Quit Work and Avert a Riot.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 7.—The crowd of 3,000 strikers that started for the Duquesne Tube works to force the men at work there to stop, were successful.

The crowd reached Duquesne, two miles below, and entering the works asked the men to stop. There were 350 men at work. The men obeyed the order to quit at once.

The sudden stoppage of the artificial gas plant in the tube works will probably destroy the lining of the furnace, causing a loss of $150,000.

One report that created great excitement and consternation in McKeesport was one to the effect that the coal mine from which the city water works and the electric light plants have been securing coal is to be attacked, with the hope of driving the few miners employed there away. The mine is located within the city limits. If the strikers can be successful in closing it, a water famine may follow and the city would be left in darkness.

Following the closing of the Duquesne Tube works, the strikers raided the Dalzell Coal mine from which the company obtained its fuel. The miners were driven out and the tipple badly damaged.

BLOODY ENCOUNTER EXPECTED

One Hundred Armed Men Guarding Workmen at Manown.

MANOWN, Pa., June 7.—Deputy Sheriffs Phillips and Rice, in charge of 100 armed men, guarding 30 workmen, accompanied by General Manager Young, of the Youghiogheny Gas Coal company, have arrived at Manown pit to protect the miners who wish to work.

While passing through McKeesport the train was stoned.

At Manown a crowd of 200 men and women gathered across the river, at Brown's works, and a striker blew a bugle. Within ten minutes 800 men were out.

The deputies disembarked slowly, placing the workmen between two squads in which they formed. On the way to the tipple the foreign strikers made a rush and seized two of the workmen, taking one away in the face of cocked winchesters. He is secreted in a house. The other escaped.

The deputies took possession of the company property and placed pickets at all points. Strikers surrounded them, not heeding the commands of Phillips and Rice to disperse.

At a hurried meeting it was resolved by the strikers to attack the deputies and a bloody clash is expected at any moment.

After the arrival of the deputies, the firemen, engineer, fire boss, and pit boss, being in sympathy with the strikers, quit work.

All employes are to be evicted Saturday unless they work. General Manager Young said that the imported men would begin work at once.

SITUATION AT CRIPPLE CREEK.

Miners Will Lay Down Their Arms When the Troops Arrive.

DENVER, Col., June 7.—The Cripple Creek demonstrations are now conceded to be at an end, without further loss of life, though the property loss has been very heavy.

When Gov. Waite heard of the advance of the deputies upon the miners entrenched in the hills he denounced Sheriff Bowers' action as cowardly, but took some comfort in the reflection that if the deputies should attempt to force a fight they would get the worst of it, as, in the governor's opinion, the strikers are game fighters.

When the sheriff learned of the coming of the troops he called the deputies off. The deputies will follow the troops.

Alexander McIntosh, who is in Cripple Creek representing the miners, says that the miners will lay down their arms as soon as the state troops arrive.

An uncertainty still exists as to the method of procedure when the troops arrive. The governor entertains a most intense dislike for Sheriff Bowers, and does not propose that the militia shall be under orders from that official. It is his request that the militia first go upon the hills and see that the miners lay down their arms, then depart to leave the sheriff to serve his warrants and make arrests.

One Great Effort to End the Strike.

PITTSBURG, June 7.—Sheriff Richards has sent 70 deputies to Carlton to guard the works of the Youghiogheny Gas Coal company. They are armed with winchester rifles, and one great effort is to be made to end the coal strike. A proclamation was also issued by the sheriff warning rioters to disperse to their homes. The location of the works makes the present move one of importance in the great coal strike. The plant is situated at the junction of Allegheny, Westmoreland and Washington counties and deputies from all three counties can be gathered at that point. Monongahela City is on the opposite side of the Monongahela river and is one of the strongholds of the striking miners, bringing the strikers and operators into conflict at a most advantageous point for both.

Troops Ordered Out in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Gov. McKinley has ordered out 1,200 state troops to prevent the interference with the operation of railroad trains in eastern Ohio by striking coal miners, which has been going on for several days. Thirty-one companies of militia left for Cambridge at midnight.

A bloody encounter is expected to occur at Martin's Ferry when the troops arrive there, as a mob of several thousand strikers have had things their own way there for nearly a week.

Coal Train Engineer Murdered.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 7.—William Barr, of this city, one of the oldest and best known of Vandalia engineers, was instantly killed between Knightsville and Harmony by striking coal miners. He was hit in the head with a rock thrown by strikers. His engine was drawing coal cars.

Eastern Ohio Coal Traffic Blocked.

BELLAIRE, O., June 7.—Five hundred coal miners from the mines along the Baltimore & Ohio have stopped the second section of a coal train and will not allow it to go west. This completely blocks the coal traffic on all the roads running through eastern Ohio.

Guards Arrive at Horatio.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 7.—About 100 coal and iron police have just arrived at Horatio from Philadelphia and are stationed around the Berwind-White company's mines.

New Men Arrive at Vanderbilt.

VANDERBILT, Pa., June 7.—Two carloads of men have arrived here to be distributed among the W. J. Rainey plants between Moyer and Vanderbilt. The men will go to work at once.

INCREASE OF PENSIONS.

Benefit of Survivors and Widows of Mexican and Indian Wars.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A bill to increase the pensions of the survivors and widows of the Mexican and Indian wars from $8 to $12 a month has been agreed upon by the house committee on pensions. Commissioner Loehren estimates that the additional appropriation necessary to meet this increase will not exceed $1,300,000 per annum. The commissioner has sent an interesting communication bearing upon this subject to Mr. Moses, the chairman of the house committee. He shows that 13,625 survivors of the Mexican war are borne upon the rolls in addition to 7,611 widows, making in all 21,236. The Indian war pensioners are evenly divided between the survivors and the widows, the total number being 6,170. Inasmuch as 3,421 of the Mexican war pensioners have had their pensions increased to $12 a month, there remain 10,204 survivors who are still receiving the minimum rate of $8 a month. The additional amount required per annum in each case will be $48, or a total for the pensioners now upon the rolls of $855,120. As it is estimated that of the claims for Mexican war pensions now pending in the bureau 1,979 will be allowed, the additional amount in this class will aggregate $94,992. This makes a grand total of extra cost for Mexican war pensioners, by reason of the proposed legislation, of $950,112. To this must be added $360,000, in round numbers, for the Indian war pensioners.

The Pullman Strike.

CHICAGO, June 7.—In response to a telegram received by Vice-President Howard of the American Railway union from the employes of the Pullman company at the St. Louis shops, he sent word that they could go out on strike as soon as they wished. There is great suffering among the strikers at Pullman, 300 families being relieved in one day. Many of the strikers are too proud to ask for relief, and a house to house canvass was ordered to see that no one went hungry. The officials of the company say that the striking of the employes in the shops at St. Louis or Ludlow, Ky., would have no effect on the position of the company.

Floods in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, June 7.—The great $250,000 bridge at Mission City with both approaches gone, still stands, but the continued rise of the water interferes seriously with the operations of the workmen. The water went up five inches at Matzqui and all records, even that of the big floods of 1857, are now passed. There are thousands of cattle that will be lost if the flood continues much longer. The volunteer artillery have voted $500 which they intended to use for the Dominion day celebration for the relief of the sufferers.

What the Daltons Call Fun.

GUTHRIE, O. T., June 7.—United States Marshal Nix has received the following letter, dated June 1, from Cushing, the scene of the deadly fight last September: "The Daltons were in town to-day. After doing some trading and paying for all goods and groceries they started to ride out, when they caught sight of Ike McCoy, of the Sac and Fox police. They made him dismount and dance in the street, then took off his cartridge belt, and thumped him over the shoulders a few times. They did no damage or violence, but rode away laughing."

Bicycle Race Referee.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 7.—Louis A. Tracy, chief consul of the Connecticut division of the L. A. W., has been chosen to referee the road races of the Columbia Cycle club, which will be held on June 16.

Miss Cleveland Talks to Graduates.

SING SING, N. Y., June 7.—The commencement exercises of the Ossining seminary came to a close with an address to the graduating class by Miss Rose Cleveland, sister of President Cleveland. The leading thought presented, she said, was actions, not words, and the influence which woman is bound to exert on the present and future. While touching on the subject she made some very clever hits. At the close of the exercises an informal reception was given Miss Cleveland by Miss Fuller, the principal of the seminary.

Unexpected Opposition to Agricultural Schedule.

Six Hours Consumed on the Paragraph Relating to Live Animals—Tobacco Clause Easily Disposed Of—Ten Days of the Time of the House Wasted.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The agricultural schedule of the tariff bill, the subject now under discussion by the senate, is causing the democratic leaders more trouble than they expected. The matter met an obstacle at the very start, over the duty on live animals. The house bill fixed at the rate at 20 per cent ad valorem, and the finance committee reported it without amendment.

Mr. Hale (rep., Me.) moved to substitute the paragraph of the existing law, making the duty on horses and mules $30 per head; and where valued at $150 and over 30 per cent. ad valorem, and the debate over this amendment occupied nearly six hours. It was finally rejected—yeas, 23; nays, 30, and the duty remains 20 per cent. on live animals.

The next paragraph was one imposing a duty of 20 per cent. on buckwheat, corn, oats, wheat, etc., except when imported from countries that impose no duty on the like articles, and in that case they are to be free of duty. The opposition to this paragraph was started by Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) and was kept up without action on the paragraph till adjournment.

The tobacco schedule was quickly disposed of in the early part of the day with very little friction. At first it appeared as if it might lead to a protracted discussion, but a conciliatory proposition came from the democratic side of the chamber and was instantly accepted by the republican side.

The question was as to the duty to be imposed on leaf tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers.

The house bill fixed the rates at $1 per pound for unstemmed tobacco, and $1.25 for stemmed tobacco. The senate finance committee had reported this paragraph without any amendment, but subsequently an amendment was reported by Mr. Jones (dem., Ark.), on behalf of the committee, increasing those rates to $1.50 and $2.25 per pound. However, Mr. Jones proposed to withdraw those rates and to substitute the house rates. That proposition started what might have been a protracted struggle, but Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.) admitted for the committee that the modification might be an undue surprise to the republican side, and suggested that it be withdrawn and that the Jones amendment be adopted as originally offered, leaving the rates of $1.50 per pound on unstemmed tobacco and $2.25 on stemmed tobacco. The necessary changes could be made, Mr. Vest said, when the bill was reported back to the senate (it being now considered as in committee of the whole). The proposition was gladly accepted on the republican side and the remaining paragraphs in the tobacco schedule gave rise to no question.

By a vote of 172 to 102 the house voted not to repeal the law imposing a tax of 10 per cent. upon the issues of state banks and other associations. Then it decided, without the formality of a vote, or even a division, to kill the Brawley bill, to which the other proposition was an amendment.

This bill proposed to suspend the operations of the law as to the certificates and other evidences of money issued by clearing houses and other associations during the currency panic of 1893. This latter action was somewhat unexpected, because in the course of the ten days' debate just closed there had been no objection expressed to that proposition.

The vote to repeal the 10 per cent. tax law, it is said, did not represent the full extent of the opposition to that measure. Just before the vote was taken it was reported on the floor of the house that there were 30 opponents of repeal absent and unpaired. The upshot of the 10 days' consideration of the measure, therefore, was that nothing was done.

The Indian appropriation bill was then taken up, and under an agreement by which the first reading was dispensed with, the house, at 3:25 o'clock, adjourned.

Death of Mary P. Thompson.

DOVER, N. H., June 7.—Miss Mary P. Thompson, of Durham, historian and authoress, is dead at her home in that town, aged 68 years. She was the daughter of Capt. Eben Thompson. After receiving her education in this country she went abroad and spent several years in France. Since her return she had written many able articles for the Catholic Review and other publications. Several years ago she wrote a book entitled "Landmarks of Ancient Dover," which was published by the Dover Historical society.

Paying Off Fair Stockholders.

CHICAGO, June 7.—World's fair stockholders will receive their 10 per cent. dividend on stock by Saturday morning's mail. The total amount to be paid is a little more than $790,000. The largest order, for $245,596.29, goes to the city of Chicago, being the dividend on the city's $5,000,000 stock, less $254,403.51, which the Exposition company advanced. The next largest check was for $123,643, made out to the order of the Field Columbian museum.

Bill to Purify the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) has introduced in the senate a bill bearing the unique title "To Preserve the Purity of National Legislation." The bill prohibits any senator or representative from dealing in speculative stocks, the value of which may in any manner depend upon a vote of congress, and the penalty provided is expulsion from his seat in congress together with indictment and conviction

NEW JERSEY NEWS.

Mr. Phelp's Condition Unchanged.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 7.—There is no noticeable improvement in the condition of Hon. William Walter Phelps, who has been lying ill at his Tea Neck residence for the past two weeks. A gratifying fact is the abatement of a fever which has visited him almost daily. It is believed that a crisis will be reached in a few days and that his naturally strong constitution will pull him through.

Money Satisfied This Enoch.

NEWARK, N. J., June 7. — Patrick O'Dowd, Bloomfield's Enoch Arden, who claims that the wife of John Higgins was married to him years ago, left for parts unknown after promising never to return. He was financially embarrassed, he said, and received enough money to take him away from his former wife on condition that he would not return for at least 27 years more.

Larceny of a Wife.

NEWARK, N. J., June 7.—The wife of Vincenzo Bertrano, an Italian hotel keeper, became infatuated with Giuseppe Valencio, one of the boarders, and eloped with him. A brother of Valencio, it is alleged, aided the elopers in their flight, and Bertrano caused his arrest on the peculiar charge of larceny for so doing.

Graduating Exercises at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 7.—The third day of the graduating week exercises opened with the sham battle by the naval cadets. They landed at Fort Madison under cover of the Bancroft's guns and drove the marines from the fort. The Bancroft then steamed into the Chesapeake with the third and fourth divisions of naval cadets and had target practice at 1,000 yard range with the ship under way. The target was riddled to the great satisfaction of the board.

Ohio Republicans.

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The state republican convention adopted a platform strongly favoring the McKinley law and favoring a tariff on wool. H. M. Taylor, of Champaign, was unanimously renominated for secretary of state. John A. Schauk, of Dayton, was nominated on third ballot for supreme judge, defeating the present incumbent, Chief Justice F. J. Dickman.

Government Successes in Brazil.

PARIS, June 7.—Cablegrams from Brazil say that the government troops have met with such signal success against the insurgents in the state of Rio Grande do Sul that they have been able to advance their outposts many miles into the territory held by the enemy. The government has sent reinforcements to Paranagua.

Rebellion in Corea.

SHANGHAI, June 7.—Advices from Corea say the rebellion there is becoming more serious daily. Two thousand Chinese troops drilled and commanded by foreign officers have been sent from Tientsin to suppress the uprising. The British fleet is at port Hamilton in readiness to protect foreigners should it become necessary.

Grand Master Hodge.

ST. VITUS'S DANCE,

Spasms, Convulsions, Dizziness, Fainting Spells, Nervous Prostration and those nervous conditions brought on by functional disorders are permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a strengthening nervine and restorative tonic, prescribed by an eminent Physician for all those distressing "weaknesses" and irregularties common to women.

MISS MERKEL.

MRS. ADAM BERK, Albany, Berks Co., Pa., writes: "Dr. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir:—My sister, Miss Cordelia Merkel, had St. Vitus's Dance. Her head and right arm moved or twitched constantly; she could not walk without being held under her arms. She tried four doctors, but without good. After fifteen months, having been given up as a hopeless invalid, I bought her Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; in two months she was well and strong."

PIERCE Guarantees a CURE.

ASK THEM WHY?

Ask the men who are making imitations of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening, why they give up lard and try to trade on the merits of COTTOLENE? Perhaps YOU can guess why.

ASK HIM WHY?

Ask the grocer who attempts substitution, why he tries to sell an imitation when people call for that pure, palatable and popular vegetable shortening, COTTOLENE? Perhaps YOU can guess.

ASK YOURSELF WHY?

Why should not YOU use COTTOLENE, instead of lard or any other compound, for all cooking purposes? It has the highest possible endorsement; from Physicians as to healthfulness; from Cooking Experts as to superiority; from housekeepers as to economy. Use COTTOLENE and stick to it.

If through a policy unwise
He fails to freely advertise.

It is not often that a man can be persuaded to let well enough alone in the matter of his wife's surname. He loses sight of artistic propriety in the fog of conventions. But Mrs. Olive Schreiner has married a man who not only refuses to absorb his wife's identity but even hitches his wagon to her star. She is Mrs. Olive Schreiner—he is Cronwright Schreiner. Her name was famous—his was unknown; therefore he has done what must seem to many an obviously proper thing—for a large-souled man.

New Brunswick's Plaint.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

No money for public improvements imperatively needed, and no electric railway on which a poor man can have a five cent ride. This is progress backwards that amounts to stagnation. No wonder there are 800 delinquent taxpayers and nearly $200,000 due the city for taxes and assessments.

Honors to a Westfielder.

[From The Westfield Standard.]

Dr. Robert R. Sinclair, while yet in his minority, has on his scholarship as a medical student, been appointed by the Hospital Staff of Physicians and Surgeons, Assistant House Surgeon of the new Elizabeth Hospital, of which Dr. Rufus B. Whitehead, also of Westfield, is House Surgeon. The appointment of "Rob" Sinclair is simply on his splendid qualifications demonstrated in an examination against students of the University of Pennsylvania, New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, and Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, the pick of the medical colleges in the country. Dr. Sinclair was the youngest of all the competitors, and yet, won his appointment, clearly on his superior scholarship. With Dr. Whitehead young Dr. Sinclair shares the honors and responsibilities of the best equipped hospital in the State of New Jersey. The new buildings are surrounded by beautiful grounds and are splendidly lighted and ventilated. Both gas and electric light are within reach of patients, with windows between each bed through all the wards. The new hospital has accommodations for 125 patients.

Those Temperance School Books.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

The Camden Courier says:

In view of the expose made of the manner in which Mrs. Henry H. Hunt of Boston pushed through the New Jersey Legislature the bill providing for the use of hygienic instruction in our schools, and the questionable methods resorted to to have that introduction made at once, it would be eminently proper for Boards of Education everywhere to go slow about it. In fact, there is no more pressing necessity for the introduction of the alcoholic question as a study in the schools now than existed before the passage of the bill, and it would be well to hold the matter in abeyance until the motives of the parties instrumental in having the law passed are thoroughly probed. The forgery of State Superintendent Poland's name, as well as the names of county superintendents, in order to have a certain class of text books on the subject published by the American Book Company indorsed and used, and which would involve an expenditure of $365,000, should be rigidly inquired into, and if it is traced to Mrs. Hunt it will be good ground to reject all books indorsed and recommended by her. The usual book agents' commissions, should the American Book Company's publication be approved, would make Mrs. Hunt a reasonably rich woman, and might account for her wonderful activity in buttonholing legislators and securing the passage of the bill. Here is a case in which a treatise on the subject sufficient for the purpose could be prepared for and published by the State at a nominal cost. It would be well for the State Board of Education to look into this matter, and endeavor to protect parents from the foray threatened by the hygienic book publishers.

To teach the effects of alcohol on the human system is one thing. To deprive the children of school necessities is quite another. The Camden Courier's suggestion that a treatise be prepared and printed by the State at a nominal cost is a good one. But, better still, let the law be repealed and a new one be enacted in its stead; one, for example, that will show temperance in the expenditure of State school money as well as teach temperance to the public school children.

A Business Proposition.

The tramp had got into a Third street kitchen, where it was dry, and a bountiful repast of second-hand victuals was spread before him, the lady of the house standing by.

"Is that all for me?" he asked, looking over it greedily.

"Every bit of it", replied the lady encouragingly.

"Kin I eat it or take it away with me?"

"It's yours to dispose of as you please."

"Thank ye, mum", he said, rising and bowing; "I 'd like to sell it to you fer a quarter in cash."

Indisputable.

Why spend $1 for a bottle of medicine for a complaint when one box of Beecham's pills, costing only 25 cents, will cure nearly all known diseases? This is because constipation is the cause of nearly all ailments, and Beecham's pills cures constipation. A valuable book of knowledge mailed free, on request, by B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal street, New York.

To Sewer, or Not to Sewer.

A public meeting will be held in Linden School Hall next Tuesday evening to give the people of that place an opportunity to express themselves on the question of having the proposed sewer built at the township's expense, or to let the company, formed some time ago for that purpose, go on with the work.

Safe and Sure, If by United.

Manager Mills of the United States Express Company reports that but six packages received by the local office will be sold at the auction of unclaimed express in Elizabeth tomorrow morning, all other articles received during the year having been safely delivered.

Karl's Clover Root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell; 25c., 50c. and $1. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 308 North ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

Captain Sweeney, U.S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good. Price 50c. Sold by J. D. Mallinson, 308 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

TO DRESS LIKE THEIR FATHERS.

Successful New Tribe of Red Men Order Gorgeous Costumes.

The order has been placed for the fine outfit for the new tribe of Red Men—Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque, No. 193,—with the old-established firm of William H. Horstman Brothers & Co., of Philadelphia, which is sufficient guarantee that the paraphernalia and costumes as selected by the committee, consisting of John H. Carney, Ely M. Odan and Elbridge H. Neal, will be fully up to the standard and as near the real style of the Aborigines as possible to be.

Mr. Derby, their popular salesman, who is untiring in his efforts to please, assures The Press the outfit is one of the best, if not the best, in the State; and why should it not be? No. 193, although one of the youngest tribes in the State, bids fair to become the banner tribe of New Jersey.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The School Board's proposals for coal are advertised today.

—The hunters degree will be worked in Miantonomoh Tribe tomorrow evening.

—The Tableaux Phantasma netted between $400 and $500 for Muhlenberg Hospital.

—The first rank was conferred on one candidate in Unity Lodge, K. of P., last evening.

—A business meeting of the Reform Club will be held in Reform Hall this evening at 8.

—The valuable English setter lost by D. E. Gavin was recovered today through an ad in The Press.

—Edsall says he is now offering at his great three-days special sale the biggest bargains ever offered in this city.

—There was no quorum present at the meeting of Gazelle Engine Company last evening and it was adjourned for one week.

—George Kirch has erected a new awning in front of his grocery store on Somerset street.

—An elegant stock of Turkish towels and bath rugs can now be purchased at Reynolds's Pharmacy at prices to suit everybody.

—The profits of the Red and White Tea given by the Young Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will be about $75.

—A number of bowlers met to form a club at Jacob Hipp's alleys on Somerset street last evening. Organization was postponed until June 15.

—A competitive drill will be held in the High School, the last of the month, in which three companies, two of boys, and one of girls, will participate.

—Bargains are not an uncommon thing at Putnam & DeGraw's. Their advertisement today mentions a few of the many good things to be found at their small but popular store.

—L. J. Coombs has purchased a saloon in Elizabeth, and will probably take possession tomorrow. He will continue to reside on West Third street, and will commute to business.

—Because the public school commencement exercises will be held June 21, the presentation of Rev. Adam Chambers's panorama of "Pilgrim's Progress" in Bethel Chapel has been postponed until the next evening.

—Boys broke the gates in the dam and let the water run from the pond on the grounds of Capt. John I. Holly, Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. Frank Hand, Patrick Lyons and John Kelting waded in and in a short time filled several pails with bass, white perch and other fish.

MAY GO TO DUNELLEN

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

It is now reported that the Central Railroad Company will not build new shops in this city, but will locate their car building and repairing plant at Dunellen. Grounds have been staked out by the company's surveyors, and the rumor is the tract of land is to be the site for the shops.

The company has for a long time been cramped for shop room in this city, and enlarged buildings have been talked of for some time. A year or two ago the company was the reported purchaser of a large tract of land near the Elizabethport station, and for the purpose, it was stated, to build the shops there. The removal of the shops from this city would be a great loss to the industrial interests. About six hundred men are employed, all mechanics, and many of them property owners.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Charles Thompson, President of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Third Street Mission, will lead the meeting this evening in the Mission.

Meeting of the Liederkranz.

The Liederkranz met in Red Men's Hall last evening. Martin Heubner was elected corresponding secretary to serve while Henry Haurand is abroad. Fred Caspar was officially notified of his election to the vice-presidency.

Arrangements for visiting Chimney Rock June 18 with the Somerville and Raritan Saengerbunds was referred to a committee. A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening in the parlors of Caspar's Hotel.

The New Tribe's Progress.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of Paugh Caugh Naugh Sinque Tribe last evening. Two hunters were raised to chiefs, F. A. C. Baker of Hopatcong Tribe, Hoboken, was present and made a few remarks. The fair committee reported that $400 were the profits of the fair held in Central Hall recently.

BURNED BY ACID.

Heedless Boy Causes Serious Mischief at the Park Avenue Bridge.

James Mottley of 216 Richmond street, employed by Tobin & Addis, was painfully injured in the face by carbolic acid this morning. He was passing under the Park Avenue bridge when the acid fell upon him from a bottle which a boy on the bridge was emptying into the street.

The boy was cared for in H. P. Reynolds's Pharmacy, oil being applied to his wounds. The side of his face and his his neck were badly blistered, and it was feared that he would lose the use of the right eye. Dr. F. C. Ard attended him afterward, and removed the acid from his eye. The doctor said his sight would not be impaired.

He was formerly a valued employe of Walter Scott & Company.

Verdict in the Maney Trial.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 7.—It is evident that somebody about the headquarters of the Army of Dakota has been talking out of school, as the verdict in the Maney trial has reached the public in advance of the findings arriving at Washington. Of course nobody here has given out the findings officially, but they are out nevertheless. On the first count, that of murdering Capt. Hedberg, Lieut. Maney is acquitted. The finding on the second specification is guilty, and the sentence is suspension from rank for one year and forfeit of one-half pay for the same time. A clause is added recommending Lieut. Maney to the clemency of the President.

The Spring House Cleaning Wisely urged by the BOARD OF HEALTH is not complete without a proper use of DISINFECTANTS. But, in choosing these, do not be misled into paying fancy prices for "patent" specialties. Common lime is better than any of them for damp cellars and stables. For vaults, drains, cess-pools, the best and cheapest disinfectant is COPPERAS, supplied by us by the pound or barrel at low rates. But for use in the house, in the plumbing, in kitchen sinks, in closets, for purifying the air of sick rooms, deodorizing offensive discharges—in short, for all purposes of a household disinfectant, nothing can excel the powerful solution of chlorides made and sold by us for 15 years under the name of REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Quart bottles 25c. To be diluted for use according to directions on label.

JUST TRY US.
Just four great bargains we tell about this week, all we have room for here, but a store full awaits your coming.
First—Have you heard about that big purchase of laces we made last week? About five thousand yards of cream, white and butter colored laces and insertions from 5c per yard up. The prices are just half what they cost somebody. See our show window.
Second—Our Millinery Department offers special inducements in trimmed sailor hats for ladies. Prices 25, 49, 60 and 75c. They are all the newest shapes and much under their real value.
Third—Our Suit and Wrapper Department offers a chance for you to save some money on a cape, suit or wrapper. We are selling good wrappers for 69, 89 and 98c. Capes you buy at your own price. Have you seen that Duck suit we are selling so many of for $1 98? A beauty it is.
Fourth—Wash Goods of all kinds and the prices are just what you are looking for. The lowest. Dress ginghams 7c, Russian Duck 10c, Irish lawn 10c, India linen 10c, yard wide percales 12c, best shirting prints 4c.
All specials advertised last week in housefurnishing department at the same prices this week and many new, attractive articles at attractive prices.

TO REDEEM BULL FROG CITY.

Important Enterprise of Wide-Awake Presbyterians.

The young people of the First Presbyterian Church are going to make a brave effort to raise enough money to buy a plot of ground in Bull Frog City, upon which will be erected a mission chapel. Their first step in this direction will be taken tomorrow, Friday, evening, when an entertainment will be given in the chapel of the church under the direction of Miss Herring.

The entertainment is to include calisthenic drills and marches, "tableaux phantasma" and music. Five boys will sing the "Kemo Kimo" chorus, and it is promised that everyone who attends will be repaid for the fifteen cents admission charged at the door.

TARANTULA IN TOWN.

A Banana Dealer's Narrow Escape from Its Bite.

A. Lusardi, fruit dealer of North avenue, was handling a bunch of bananas this morning when a tarantula touched his hand. Lusardi withdrew before the spider could kill him with its venomous bite.

The tarantula was afterward caught and boxed and placed on exhibition. It was said to be larger than those ordinarily brought north with bananas, and excited much comment because of its bad reputation.

Cooper's Dentine.

Cooper's Dentine, which has been advertised in our columns for a number of months, is a perfect tooth paste, put up in tube form. Each tube contains enough for 99 applications, at a cost of 25 cents.

It is absolutely pure; free from acid, grit or other hurtful substance; and leaves a delightfully refreshing sensation in the mouth; strengthening and healing the gums.

Those of our readers who have not already tried this dentifrice can get it from first-class druggists or at dealers in fancy goods, or by sending the price in postage stamps to the manufacturers, Messrs. Cooper & Hardenburg, Kingston, N. Y.

Takes Dunham to Make the Maps.

Engineer F. A. Dunham of Plainfield will have his grade map of the streets of Westfield completed in a few days. He will then make a grade map of the county road in Cranford Township.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

Mrs. Nelson Runyon of East Second street, Plainfield, visited Dunellen friends yesterday.

As soon as the weather gets settled, the weekly band concerts will be enjoyed at Taylor's Hotel.

In pleasant weather boating parties are the attraction for Dunellen young people on the New Market pond.

C. Huff has opened a store on Main street, where confectionery, cigars, and the daily papers, can be purchased.

Mr. Gulick received a large number of horses from New York yesterday afternoon, and will turn them out on his large farm in West Dunellen, for the Summer.

The Misses Smith rehearsed the school children yesterday afternoon for the musical and literary entertainment to be given in the Presbyterian Chapel this evening. The proceeds will be used for the school library, and a large sum will no doubt be realized.

Oscar Waldron, the boy who was injured on the Central Railroad about three weeks ago, was taken from Muhlenberg Hospital late yesterday afternoon to his home on Main street. His father carried him from the wagon to the house, as he is still very weak.

Mr. Anderson, of Hightstown, representative of the State Mutual Building and Loan Association, has been in Dunellen endeavoring to organize a loan there. About $150 worth of shares have been sold. A meeting to organize was held in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union rooms last evening. There was a large number present who are interested in the loan, which will start off with about thirty members.

Jacob R. Titsworth, aged 75, of Prospect avenue, died at his home yesterday morning at 8. He had been ill but a short time, and his death was a sudden shock to his many friends. Decendent was well-known in Plainfield, and was a respected and honored citizen in this community. He was an active member of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church of New Market, and his funeral will take place from that church tomorrow afternoon.

Jeremiah Dunham, another well-known and respected citizen of Dunellen, passed away yesterday morning at his home after an illness of about a month. His death resulted from a complication of diseases. Mr. Dunham had been in the employ of the Central Railroad for the past thirty-five years, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Engineers. He was also a member of the Presbyterian Church. As a citizen he always took a live interest in the affairs of the Borough. His funeral will be held from the Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon.

CHURCH CHIMES.

S. P. Willis of New York will preach in the First Church of Christ tonight.

The East New Jersey Baptist State Convention will be held in the First Baptist Church, this city, in the Fall.

Rev. A. D. Waugh of Spartanberg, S. C., a delegate to the General Presbyterian Assembly, will preach in Bethel Chapel Saturday evening.

A programme of vocal and instrumental music will be a feature of the strawberry festival in Trinity Reformed Church tonight and tomorrow night.

At the closing session of the East New Jersey Baptist Association's fifty-third anniversary in Newark yesterday the following annual reports were made:

Plainfield, First—Baptisms 34, deaths 19, membership 847, benevolence $5,810.74.
Piscataway—Baptisms 16, deaths 6, membership 249, benevolence $1,274.
Scotch Plains—Baptisms 3, deaths 4, membership 139, benevolence $333.16.
Westfield—Baptisms 10, deaths 5, membership 200.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes was named to preach the introductory sermon next year.

The friends of the Rev. Thomas Rosling Howlett, will be interested to learn that his new book, Anglo-Israel, has reached its third edition, with a supplement of 100 pages. The Rev. Jonathan Goble says of this work that it is the best elucidation of the Holy Prophets he has seen. It is a valuable book to students of the Scriptures, and for the reading public which wishes to be generally well informed. It gives in a most readable manner the best authenticated solution of the problem of the Ten Lost Tribes, and logically identifies them with our modern Anglo-Saxon race. The book can be had of Rev. T. R. Howlett, 16 South Front street, Philadelphia, for $1. Mr. Howlett was formerly pastor of the old Second Baptist Church in this city, (now Reform Hall) but more recently of the Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, D. C., and of the Berean Baptist Church of Philadelphia.

Justice Newcorn's First Trial.

Justice Newcorn this morning heard the case of George D. Small of Terrill road against Mrs. Annie Neighbor. Small sued for $50 which he had paid for repairing a milk wagon damaged by an employe of Mrs. Neighbor.

Harry Runyon was the plaintiff's attorney. Small, John Homan and George Steele were sworn. W. K. McClure, for the defendant, objected to the Court's jurisdiction and to the issuing of the summons and then withdrew. Decision was reserved until tomorrow morning at 10.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A run of the Boys Department of the Y. M. C. A. will leave the rooms tomorrow evening at 7:30 sharp. All members who wish to partake will please be on hand promptly on time.

The Crescent Wheelmen last night elected the following members: John M. Burnet, Wm. M. Runyon, E. R. Leland, R. J. Tolles, H. S. Mason, G. E. Sanders, C. S. Gotthell, A. Saltzman, Frank Koch, and F. G. Hui, all of Plainfield; and Edward Brunner and E. L. Fitch, of Westfield.

Volney Green will not ride in the P. H. S. A. A. races Saturday, his doctor having forbidden him to race. He rode in the Crescent races under a physician's protest, and it was doubtless his illness that kept him from winning in the final of the boys race after he had won his heat so easily.

The Fourth of July races on the Crescent Oval will begin at 2:30 p. m. The list of events is as follows:

1 mile novice.
1 mile handicap.
2 mile team for Saltonstall trophy.
2 mile handicap.
1 mile scratch, for boys under 16.
½ mile scratch.
5 mile handicap.

The Victor Wheelmen will meet tonight at the home of Captain Israel Jones, Washington avenue. Capt Jones will probably be entered in the century run of the Atalanta Wheelmen, July 14. The question of having a series of races on the Crescent track will be discussed. The percentage proposition of the owners is satisfactory, but the Victors object to paying for the admission of trainers and attendants to the track during practice.

A LETTER FROM TAXIS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6, 1894.

Crescent Wheelmen:

GENTLEMEN:—Nobody was to blame for the falls in the ½ mile open at your race meet but C. M. Murphy.

The track was amply wide. Titus was leading, and had the pole, Murphy being abreast of him, Taylor lapping Murphy's wheel on the outside, and I was trailing Taylor.

The sprint was started. Murphy looked around and deliberately turned towards the outside of the track, striking Taylor's wheel, nearly throwing him. I dropped back several lengths, and when they got straightened out I started sprinting and when I was about to pass Taylor, Murphy again fouled, throwing him, and before I could think I was down in a heap.

Murphy claims that Wells was the cause of the fall, but he was not. Murphy says that Wells rode wide at one place (so he did, and any of the rest would have done it, as the track was unrideable right on the pole at this place) and that this caused the fall. The fall occurred 100 yards past this point.

Trusting the prize may be given to the owner, Mr. Titus, and not to the crooked one, who claims it.

I am your friend,
1804 Park avenue. W. W. TAXIS,
P. S. Would be pleased to give you any further information you may desire.
TAXIS.

WEST END NOTES.

James Dady, an employe of A. M. Griffen, will enter the race on the Crescent grounds July 4, with a 28 lb. wheel.

Jacob Schlick of the West End says he is looking for the appointment of Postmaster of the West End.

A Socialist meeting will be held tomorrow night in the rooms on Grant avenue and South Second street. Good speakers will be in attendance, to discuss socialistic subjects.

A game of ball played yesterday on the Crescent grounds between the T. A. B. and actives resulted in a victory to the tives of 18 to 13. In the afternoon the Albert Jaeger B. B. C. defeated the T. A. B's by the score of 30 to 24. Battery, I. Johnston and C. M. McCarty.

WEST ENDER.

MUSCLE MAKERS.

Clarence Murphy's high score of 226 on the Park Club alleys has been beaten by Peter Matthews with 236.

The medals to be awarded by the P. H. S. A. A. Saturday afternoon are now exhibited in the window of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store.

Read What the State Dairy Commissioner Says About the Del Marvia Farms Dairy, Depot 327 Watchung Avenue.

TRENTON, N. J., May 31, '94.

MY DEAR SIR:—Regarding the inquiry you make as to our recent inspection of your dairy at Belle Meade, I have to say that our inspection shows that you have one of the few model dairies of the State. The inspector reports that every condition of the place is favorable to the production of clean wholesome milk.

Yours very truly,
GEO. W. MCGUIRE,
Dairy Commissioner.

Borough Realty Changes.

Elias R. Pope and wife to J. M. Higgins, $1.
A. D. Thompson and wife to Theo. Smith, $600.

Justice Newcorn today issued summonses returnable June 14, in the case on contract for $100 of the Connecticut School for Training Nurses against Herman Simmons, and in the $50 contract case of Vincent W. Baker against Clarence L. Titsworth. Mr. Baker's similar case against John V. Beekman will be tried next Wednesday.

FUND FOR TOWN BOOMING.

A scheme novel in itself, yet practical and businesslike in its operation, has been adopted by some towns that have boomed their business and population to an unusual degree. The method is a strictly fair one and possesses no drawbacks so far as experience teaches or the skill of promoters can detect. Few towns like to give money outright for the establishment of manufacturing enterprises, and it a mooted question whether or not it is commercially right for a concern to thus handicap itself by accepting an absolute consideration for the transfer of a business from one city to another. Certain it is that no town can afford to give a bonus sufficient to induce a manufacturing firm to change its location if it is not for the firm's interest to change, irrespective of the good will offering that may be made, and it may be set down as a fact that any enterprise that will move its plant solely to secure the cash that a town may give it is not a desirable enterprise nor the one that a town wants.

Granting, however, that there exist advantages in the way of railroad facilities, convenient sites, low priced fuel cheap living, good schools and the like, of sufficient importance to attract a manufacturer, it is but proper that the tradespeople, landowners and citizens generally who are directly and indirectly benefited by his advent in their town should generously bear the expense attached to moving and the loss incident thereto.

A fair sized town whose citizens are reasonably liberal and awake to the public interest would be able to raise a sum of perhaps $10,000 as a nucleus to a permanent fund to encourage new manufacturing. This money raised by voluntary subscription is best placed in the hands of trustees and its expenditure given over to a board of trade. When opportunity offers, the whole or a part of it may be given, without interest, to induce a manufacturing concern to locate, the stipulation being that 10 per cent of it shall be paid back each year until the entire sum is refunded. The 10 per cent received is expended in the same manner, and eventually a fund is created of magnificent proportions. The first year, as will be seen, the revenue from the investment is $1,000, the next year $1,000 from the original and $100 from the previous $1,000 installment, and the next $1,000 upon the original, $100 upon the loan of $1,000 and $10 upon the loan of $100, and so on ad infinitum. Should this fund be added to, as is usually the case, the advantages accruing to a town engaging in the method of fostering industries will be manifold and farreaching.

New York Newspaper Veterans.

The Dansville Advertiser adds several names to our list of editors of country newspapers in this state who have been in the harness for 25 years or more, though we made no attempt to make a complete list. We mentioned the names of McKinstry of the Fredonia Censor, Gane of the Watkins Express, Bunnell of the Dansville Advertiser, Beach of the Brockport Republic, Root of the Niagara Falls Courier, Pomroy of the Niagara Falls Journal and Dudley of the Warsaw New Yorker, and Mr. Bunnell adds the names of Milliken of the Canandaigua Journal, Pratt of the Corning Journal, Parker of the Geneva Gazette, Sanders of the Nunda News, Stowell of the Seneca Falls Reveille and Holden of the Yonkers Gazette. Nearly if not quite all of these men, says Mr. Bunnell, were on the same papers as far back as 1860, and some of them for many previous years. It is pleasant to know that so many newspaper veterans are still in active service. We wish them health and strength and prosperity. — Rochester Post-Express.

Relics of Shakespeare.

Thomas Hornby, whose grandmother, the late Mary Hornby, was once a resident of the old house in which Shakespeare was born, has at his place at Kingsthorpe, England, several valuable relics of the great poet. They include carved oak chests, portions of a carved bedstead, fine oak chairs and several other articles of household furniture. Besides the above Mr. Hornby is also the owner of Shakespeare's iron chest or "treasure box," an old sword that formerly belonged to the bard and several contemporary paintings, one of which is framed with the wood of the famous mulberry tree.—St. Louis Republic.

ONE WOMAN'S REWARD.

A GREAT SHOWER OF CONFIDENCE

Such as Never Descended upon Any Other American Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IT'S a glorious possession.

The most famous physician wins it from a comparatively small number.

One woman, and only one, has won it from tens of thousands during the past twenty years.

Loving confidences, heartfelt gratitude, loyal devotion, is showered upon her name because of salvation from a miserable existence, and the peace and joy of restored health through her wonderful skill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's name will go down the ages as the friend of all women.

Her Vegetable Compound has saved thousands from the terrors of female complaints.

Backache, despondency, fainting, spinal weakness, avoiding society, bearing down, are all symptoms of trouble in the womb.

Read what Mrs. S. W. White, who lives at 816 Holly Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., calls a family blessing.

Thus she writes to Mrs. Pinkham:—

MRS. S. W. WHITE

"I have suffered for ten years with female complaints of the worst form, accompanied by severe spinal trouble, causing incessant backache, weakness of the stomach, and nervousness.

"I gave up all hope of ever being well again. Just then someone recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I followed your directions and treatment until I am now a perfectly well woman.

"I gave it to my two daughters, aged fourteen and sixteen years, and they are fine, healthy girls.

"It is surely a blessing to our family."

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUBS.

In many towns throughout our land there have been established clubs whose aim is to see that the best interests of their respective communities shall not be sacrificed to individual or party ends. They are always composed of the best and most progressive men and usually are entirely nonpolitical. From various causes it sometimes happens that unworthy men are elected to positions of honor and trust, and they, neglectful of the confidence reposed in them, seek to profit themselves or the clique they represent regardless of the duty they owe to their fellow citizens.

In so deplorable a state of affairs a good government club can be of the greatest value to the community. Its mere existence has the effect of putting a damper on dishonest practices and of keeping the management of town matters strictly on a business basis.

In the expenditure of public money there are various ways in which it may be in part diverted from the purposes intended. Laying out parks, building and repairing streets and sidewalks, sewers, public buildings and all public improvements afford opportunities for those who are not averse to making an "honest" dollar out of the public treasury. But with a well organized good government club always on the alert to see that every cent expended brings a return in results obtained there is small opportunity for defrauding the people.

A good government club is desirable also because it acts as a brake on extravagance and the unwise use of public funds. A town is often burdened with debt through the injudicious policy of honest but shortsighted officials, whose enthusiasm is greater than their judgment. The knowledge that an intelligent body of men will weigh with calm and clear decision every act is certain to have a most salutary effect.

It is not only the privilege but the duty of taxpayers and those who hope to become taxpayers to thoroughly acquaint themselves with public affairs to the end that unwise or dishonest men may not bring discredit on the community and to insure that the people's money shall be so spent as to benefit the people and the town and confer the greatest good on the greatest number.

Proposals for Coal.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of this city until Monday, June 18, next, for 275 tons best quality Upper Lehigh coal as follows: Twenty-five (25) tons egg size and two hundred and fifty (250) tons No. 1 chestnut size. All to be thoroughly screened and delivered free of expense within the public school buildings of this city, at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether short or long tons.

The Board reserving the right to reject any or all bids.

HALF A CENTURY OLD

Y. M. C. A.'s Great Anniversary Jubilee.

Mr. Wanamaker Presides at One of the Meetings and Pays a Glowing Tribute to the Founder of the Order, Sir George Williams, Who Was Present.

LONDON, June 7.—The great jubilee of Young Men's Christian associations was celebrated yesterday. It was the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the first association, which occurred June 6, 1844, in a small room in St. Paul's churchyard, under the shadow of the cathedral. Sir George Williams, the founder, is a man still active in business and a leader in all departments of religious and benevolent work. Prior to this there had been young men's societies, but none were called Young Men's Christian associations, and none did the work the Young Men's Christian associations are doing.

A morning meeting was held in Exeter hall at 10 o'clock. It was addressed by John Wanamaker, formerly United States postmaster general, and for many years president of the Philadelphia association, who was introduced as the presiding officer.

Mr. Wanamaker said he had been thinking how great God could make one man. All present would agree that no other man in the world had touched so many men for their own good as had Sir George Williams. The queen was the greatest woman in the realm and Sir George Williams was the greatest man. London, the foremost city in the world, had conferred the highest honors upon Williams, the foremost man in the world.

Mr. Wanamaker said that as the representative of many Philadelphia friends he bore their greetings to the parent association and the brethren in council.

As the first employed secretary of an American association, he had watched with very deep interest the progress of the associations on the American side of the water, and the fact that the associations now employed nearly 1,200 secretaries was certainly an indication of growth such as only a vigorous country could produce.

Dr. Monroe Gibson, formerly of Chicago, spoke generally of the work of the associations.

The Rev. Theodore Cuyler, of Brooklyn, delighted the audience with one of the best speeches of the conference. He referred to Morris K. Jesup, of New York, as the "consecrated millionaire banker" and to Cornelius Vanderbilt as the "Christian railroad president." Of James Stokes, of New York, he said: "He is too modest to wear the knightly badge of France." In conclusion he said: "I have brought you the greetings of 250,000 American associates in whose hearts the name of George Williams is revered.

At the opening of the afternoon session J. H. Tritton, of London, occupied the chair. Jubilee presentations were made to Sir George Williams by various societies and organizations. The Americans gave a beautiful album, in which was an illuminated address of congratulations signed by all the members of the international committee and its secretaries and by the chairman and secretaries of the state and provincial committee.

The presentation address was made by Morris K. Jessup.

The French national council presented a bronze bust of Sir George, and the Paris association a bust of Coligny, the French admiral who was assassinated because of his defense of Protestantism in France. The address was represented associations in all parts of the world.

The great event of the evening was the unveiling of the bust of Sir George Williams, a faithful representation of him in marble. It was unveiled by Lord Kinnaird. In response to Lord Kinnaird's flattering speech, Sir George said that he looked back today upon the time 50 years ago when in the little bedroom in St. Paul's churchyard the association was born. The brethren that were associated with him he remembered with much affection and that God had so wonderfully blessed the little seed which was planted there had been during all these years a source of gratitude, thanksgiving and of praise. To no man or set of men could the glory be ascribed. It was simply that the blessing of God had been in this movement since its inception and to Him should be all the glory. He was grateful that God had spared him to see the fiftieth anniversary, and his heart went out in gratitude and love to the brethren all over the world. Sir George added that he felt unworthy of the honor shown him by the associations, but he would [illegible] gift as a memento of their love.

Prince Oscar, of Sweden, in a brief speech said that he brought to the associations of the world the greetings of the Swedish and Norwegian brethren. Addresses were delivered also by Canon Fleming, Dr. Joseph Parker and John Wanamaker. It was a new thing, Mr. Wanamaker said, in referring to Sir George Williams' new title, to knight a man because he was good. The queen had done noble things, but she did the noblest of them all when she knighted a modest man for his goodness.

After a stereopticon exhibition of association pictures, buildings, and leading representatives of association work in all parts of the world, the meeting closed with a special doxology written for the occasion, translated into 20 languages and sung by each delegation in its own tongue.

The jubilee will close to-day with an excursion to Windsor.

MAY END THE STRIKE.

Miners' Executive Board Have Probably Paved the Way.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The committee recently appointed by the Clearfield coal operators met in the offices of the Berwind White Coal Mining company, this city, and decided to call a general meeting of the operators to be held in Philadelphia on Friday.

This action was taken as a result of the decision reached at Columbus by the general executive board of the United Mine workers, which concluded to call for joint conferences of the miners and operators in the various affected districts, to be held Saturday, June 9.

At Friday's meeting, the Clearfield operators will be called upon to decide whether or not they will send representatives to meet the miners from that region on Saturday, to the end that a settlement of the strike may be effected. There is every reason to believe that the operators will decide to do so, and, if so, it is highly probable that they will be able to reach an agreement with the miners that will be satisfactory to both sides.

In fact there is a strong feeling in the bituminous trade that the action of the miners' executive board has paved the way for a peaceful termination of the strike.

Pending the outcome of the meetings on Friday and Saturday, the operators will defer their promised attempt to resume operations at the mines in the Clearfield region.

Situation at McKeesport.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 6.—The National Tube works are still surrounded by a crowd of at least 5,000 strikers and sympathizers. The men are nervous and anxious, but in no way desperate. No trouble is looked for unless an attempt is made to start up the works. All trains are closely watched by the strikers for deputies. The call issued by the mayor for all good citizens to assemble at his office and be sworn in as special officers was responded to by only four persons. Mayor Andre told a United Press reporter that he anticipated no trouble for the present at least. He said he had not called upon Sheriff Richards for assistance, but had discussed the outlook with him. The tube works officials state that the mills will be shut down indefinitely.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies as indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed. H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

Formerly of Trenton, the well-known expert in Chronic Diseases, can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

A PAMPHLET

Containing a large array of testimonials of remarkable cures, similar to that above, and giving valuable medical information on important matters, will be mailed free to any address, or furnished on application at Dr. Lighthill's office, No. 144 Crescent avenue.

IS THE BEAR LOST?

No Official Confirmation at Washington.

Officials Unable to Account for Her Presence at Sitka, as She Was to Have Left There on May 19th, Ten Days Before the Date of the Alleged Grounding.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—No official dispatch had been received either by Secretary Carlisle or Captain Shepard, of the revenue marine service, under whose immediate control the revenue cutter Bear is, or by the navy department confirming the very circumstantial report of the wreck of the vessel telegraphed from San Francisco.

The report said: "The revenue cutter Bear is almost a total wreck, and possibly by this time is battered to pieces. A dispatch from one of the officers of the well known vessel says she is fast on the rocks at the entrance of the harbor at Sitka. The steamer was ploughing her way into the harbor at good speed on the night of May 29 when she struck on a rock, and all efforts to get her relief were unavailing. She went on at high water and the officers state that they have very little hope of ever getting her off."

The nearest telegraph station to Sitka is Departure Bay, British Columbia, from seven to ten days steaming from Sitka. Captain Shepard, however, is unable to account for the presence of the Bear at Sitka at this time. The last report from Captain Healy, dated Sitka, May 14, stated that when the Rev. Sheldon Jackson had completed the object of his visit in connection with the introduction of reindeer on the islands, the Bear would sail in pursuance of department instructions received at Port Townsend. These instructions directed the Bear to visit Prince Williams Sound, Cooks Inlet, Shumagin Islands, enroute to Unalaska, the Seal Islands and Point Barrow.

The fact that from Captain Healy's report the Bear should have sailed from Sitka on May 19 makes her presence in the harbor on May 29 unexplainable.

Captain Shepard, who has had extensive experience in these waters as the commander of the Rush, said that the waters at Sitka harbor are of sufficient depth to admit vessels of any draught, but that the channels are narrow, crooked and beset with many sunken ledges, and for these reasons entrance is at all times difficult, and in thick weather, which prevails a great part of the time, hazardous.

In one part of his last report to the department Captain Healy says the Bear experienced very heavy weather on the passage up, in which their lower sails were more or less damaged and that the davits were so bent as to necessitate a new pair on arrival at San Francisco. The weather about Sitka, the Captain said, was the most severe since American occupation, and the snowfall had been the heaviest on record during that period.

The Bear is the largest cutter in the service and was built by an English company in Nova Scotia in 1882 for use as a steam whaler in the Arctic. She was purchased by the United States and was utilized as one of the Greely relief vessels, and transferred to the treasury department soon after the return of that expedition.

To Divorce Elections.

ALBANY, June 8.—The constitutional convention committee on legislative powers met and endorsed in part the resolutions adopted by the cities committee, calling for the separation of municipal from state and national elections. The committee favors the separation of such elections only in the cities. The committee is of the opinion that county and state elections should not be divorced, as in the country especially the state elections tend to bring out a much larger vote for county officers than would be cast if the county and city elections were held together apart from state and national elections.

Confirmed By the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations:

Charles Neilson, of Maryland, to be second assistant postmaster-general.

Postmasters—New York—David Falvey, Westfield.

New Hampshire—Albert N. Flinn, Nashua.

The Duke of Sutherland Will Case Settled Out of Court.

LONDON, June 8.—The Sutherland will case was settled in the high court of justice without trial. The action was brought by the dowager duchess of Sutherland to have declared valid the will and codicils made by her late husband, by the terms of which she was benefited to the extent of about £1,000,000. The present duke of Sutherland, the plaintiff's stepson, opposed the will on the ground that the dowager duchess had prejudiced her husband's mind against his children in order to obtain possession of his property. The court room was crowded, principally with women, who expected that the case would abound with sensations. When the court was called to order, the opposing lawyers announced a belief that they could, after consultation, settle the case out of court. A conference was accordingly had, and, after discussing the matter about an hour, the lawyers informed the court that a settlement had been reached. The terms of the settlement were not stated, except that the will and codicils propounded by the dowager duchess would not be opposed, and all pleas would be withdrawn. It was further stated that the dowager duchess would retire from the administration of the estate, and that only the duke would have any further interest in realizing upon the residuary estate.

HOUK'S LITTLE GAME.

Attempt To Show Up the War Record of His Opponent.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Representative John C. Houk of the second district of Tennessee introduced in the house an innocent looking private bill which, it is said, is not half so innocent as it looks. The bill in question is to perfect the military record of Henry D. Gibson of Tennessee, and calls upon the secretary of war to furnish the war records of Mr. Gibson. Messrs. Houk and Gibson are both republican candidates for congress from the second district. At the recent primaries Mr. Gibson was declared the nominee, but fraud was alleged, resulting in the casting out of votes of both aspirants, but the number of fraudulent ballots for Mr. Gibson, it was claimed, so far exceeded those of Mr. Houk that the republican committee of that district declared Mr. Houk the regular nominee. Mr. Gibson declined to abide by this decision and has announced his intention to run against Mr. Houk. The latter has gathered campaign material against his opponent, and among other things states that Mr. Gibson is not a Grand Army man and a volunteer captain as Gibson claims, but was only a sutler's clerk during the war. This fact Mr. Houk desires to bring before the public in official form, and makes use of his position as a member of congress to bring the matter up in the house.

Death of a Famous Chief.

DULUTH, Minn., June 8.—Naganab, chief of all the Chippewa Indians, died at the Indian reservation at Fond du Lac. He was 99 years old and had a history. As early as 1826, through his efforts, the treaty was made by the Sioux and Chippewa Indians by which they acknowledged the sovereignty of the United States. In 1856, at Bayfield, he negotiated and signed the treaty by which the Indians ceded to the government the northern part of Minnesota and Wisconsin. In 1856, through his intervention, the Indians ceded the lands now comprising the Vermillion and Mesaba iron ranges. He died blind and poverty-stricken and will be buried with Indian ceremonies.

Tynan Said To Be Dead.

LONDON, June 8.—The St. James Gazette, commenting on the book issued under the name of P. J. Tynan, "No. 1," expresses the belief that Tynan is dead, and that he never had anything to do with writing the book. The Gazette attributes the authorship of the book to a "certain burly, good-looking ruffian, who knew nothing of the invincibles personally." This man was wanted by the police on other charges, but fled from London to the United States before the arrest of Carey.

Sugar Trust Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The next move of the sugar investigation committee will be to summon members of the sugar trust, and subpœnaes for several of them have already been prepared. Those who will be summoned are William H. and C. O. Havemeyer, H. L. Terrill, Reed and Searle. Mr. Reed, who resides in Boston, is now in Washington. Mr. Terrill will be examined particularly with reference to the conversation in his rooms at the Arlington hotel overheard by witness Gaston.

Business Man for Buffalo's Postmaster

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The president has named Howard H. Baker to be postmaster at Buffalo, N. Y. The selection is regarded as exceptionally good, inasmuch as Mr. Baker is essentially a business man. He has never held a political office. He is a ship chandler and a native of Buffalo. There have been a number of candidates, all of whom had strong political backing.

Dr. Israel P. Warren, and will hereafter be the editor and proprietor.

Refused to Guard Men.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 8.—Eighteen of the 150 coal and iron police who arrived here refused to stand guard on learning that they were here to guard men, it having been represented to them that they were employed to guard bridges. The miners are quiet, but are determined not to return to work, not a man reporting for work though assured of ample protection.

Columbia Inquiry.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—The naval court of inquiry investigating the cause of, and the circumstances surrounding, the accident to the cruiser Columbia, called Captain Sumner as the first witness. He said there had been an inspection of the interior of the ship's bottom on May 15 and the reports showed the interior of the keel, bottom and hull to be in good condition. This disproves the story, said to have been advanced by some one on board the Columbia, that the injury was sustained while the vessel was on her preliminary trial trip, prior to its acceptance by the government.

Prof. Magie Becomes a Benedict.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 8.—Wm. F. Magie, Ph. D., professor of physics, and Miss Mary Blanchard Hodge, daughter of the late Prof. C. W. SHE'S A GREAT BOAT

Remarkable Performance of the Minneapolis.

Uncle Sam's New Cruiser Makes 21.75 Knots on Her Preliminary Trial Trip, Burning Anthracite Coal, and Can Probably Do Better—Swiftest War Ship in the World.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—A broom at the foremast and the figures 21.75 painted in big white letters on the funnel of the Minneapolis told every craft in the Delaware river and the crowds on the shore the result of the big cruiser's preliminary trial trip off the Delaware capes, and proclaimed to the world that the United States government has another ship superior in speed to any vessel possessed by other nations.

The 21.75 knots were made in an off shore run off the Delaware capes. The run was made under forced draught, in comparatively shallow water and with anthracite coal burning in the furnaces.

From the time of leaving Cramps' yards at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning the three engines were run continuously while the cruiser was steaming and not a flaw of any kind showed itself in the machinery. Not even a journal or bearing got hot, and the engines worked as smoothly as if they had been running for months.

The trial throughout was the most successful preliminary of any ship the Cramps have ever built.

Capt. R. W. Sargeant, in command; a crew of 407 men; Edwin S. Cramp, the engineer of the firm; Supt. Lewis Nixon representing the builders of the ship and a dozen friends of Mr. Cramp were among those aboard the ship.

The navy department was officially represented by Naval Constructor John Hanscom, Past Assistant Engineer A. B. Willetts, and G. W. Dangerfield, inspector of equipment.

The start from the yard was made at an easy seven knot gait.

After Chester was passed and the river widened, the speed of the Minneapolis was increased to a 17 knots, and in one stretch of seven miles she was spurted at a 19-knot gait.

The Breakwater was reached at 5 o'clock and the anchor dropped. The run of 105 miles having been made in about 7 1-2 hours.

On Wednesday morning at 6:30 the anchor was weighed and the ship steamed out to sea for a day's trial of her engines. They worked perfectly and at one time the cruiser was spurted to 21.70 knots.

Captain Sargeant got under way at 6:30 in the morning and passed out to sea at 8:10 for a speed trial of the cruiser. The fine showing made by the Minneapolis on the two preceding days had put aside any doubt about her proving as speedy if not a speedier ship than the Columbia, and everyone aboard was confident that the day's run would show something remarkable.

The cruiser was loaded with water ballast to make up for the weight of her armament and displaced 7,300 tons.

With anthracite coal it was not expected that steam could be made as fast as with soft coal, and it was not thought that the best speed of which the ship was capable could be gotten out of her for this reason.

The cruiser steamed straight, out to sea for about 40 miles. At 10 o'clock she was turned and her prow pointed to the shore. The turn was made on two degrees of the helm in 16 minutes, and showed the Minneapolis to be particularly smart in answering her rudder.

On the run out Chief Engineer Towne and his assistants had been firing up, and everything was in preparation for the trial. The great blowers in the fire rooms were turned on and air forced into the furnaces.

Gradually the cruiser began to increase her speed. Her sharp bow cut the waves as easily as a knife and she forged through the water with hardly any perceptible motion on her decks.

As she gathered way her stern gradually settled in the water until the gallery rail over the screws was buried in the foam.

A perfect maelstrom of snow-white water was churned up into the air to the height of about 10 feet by the screws as they revolved. This wave spread out fan-shape from the stern of the ship to a distance of about 75 feet. The remarkable height of this stern wave was due to the shallowness of the water, there being a mean depth over the course of only 16 fathoms. In deeper water this wave would be much smaller and the drag on the stern of the ship would be much lessened.

The engines were working perfectly under the tremendous strain to which they were being subjected.

The revolutions of the screw under 160 pounds pressure of steam ran up as high as 188, but only for a few minutes. During the hour's run the average revolutions of the three screws were 128 a minute.

Streams of water were kept running over the journals and bearings, but more as a precaution than of necessity.

The anthracite coal was burning well and made steam nearly as fast as bituminous, but was much harder to handle in the furnaces.

At the end of an hour the forced draught was turned off and the speed of the ship decreased. The capes were passed at 11:50, and so perfectly satisfied was Mr. Cramp with the trial that the ship proceeded directly up the river to the yard.

As the course was not marked a perfect dependence cannot be placed upon the patent log, and it was difficult to arrive at an exact knowledge of the speed made. Calculations approximated it at 21.75 knots for the hour's run, but it is more than probable that it was greater than this.

The Columbia on her preliminary trial trip made but 20.98 knots.

Mr. Cramp said: "I am perfectly satisfied with the showing made by the Minneapolis, and I expect her to do a knot and a quarter better under the same conditions as the Columbia."

Among some of the enthusiasts on board 23 1-4 knots were freely predicted for the official trial.

Cramps' shipyard was reached at 6:15 and the most successful preliminary trial that any ship in the world has ever had was over.

Sheehan Sues a New York Paper.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Police Commissioner Sheehan, brother of the lieutenant governor, has brought suit against the Evening World demanding $50,000 for alleged libel for a recent article in the World which referred to him as a "pedrone" in connection with a certain contract he was working on Long Island.

BE ASHAMED OF SICKNESS!

THERE'S NO VIRTUE IN NONSENSICAL KIND OF PATIENCE.

Disease Is Not a Fatality When Paine's Celery Compound Is Within the Reach of Every Sufferer in the Country,—It Is Making Thousands of People Well This Month.

Sickness is not a fatality.

There is no virtue in patience with disease or weakness.

"I always feel ashamed to be sick," says a famous preacher. "In nine cases out of ten I know that it is due to carelessness; I get well as quickly as I can, almost ashamed, as if I had been caught in some culpable act.

Think of it that way if you want to live long. With the great modern remedy, Paine's celery compound, the remedy that makes people well, within the reach of every sufferer, there is no excuse for moping around with a long face, casting a shadow over the bright lives around you.

Paine's celery compound cures speedily and thoroughly diseases directly traceable to unhealthy blood and a weak nervous system.

It makes new life and courage and happiness. It has done it in thousands of cases. It will do so in thousands more. Try it.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE CLOSES.

Delegates and Their Friends Make a Visit to Windsor Castle.

LONDON, June 8.—The closing day of the Young Men's Christian association conference and jubilee was spent by the delegates and their friends, a party of some 2,000, in a visit to Windsor castle. The castle and grounds, by special permission of the queen, were given up to them for the day.

The party was received by the queen's equerries and household and officers and were shown through the state apartments, the queen's audience and presence chambers, reception and throne rooms, some of the private apartments, the chapel and royal stables.

The queen's private grounds and Frogmore, the burial place of Prince Albert, were opened by special permission of the queen to the delegates, a privilege never before accorded to a public assembly.

By invitation the party visited Eton college, two miles from Windsor.

The party was photographed in the royal grounds. A large tent was erected in the royal park in which lunch was served and the farewell meeting was held.

At 5 o'clock Howard Williams called the delegates to order and farewell addresses were made by John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia; Delegate Graham, of Stockholm; H. Thane Miller, of Cincinnati; the Rev. Webb Peploe, and the Rev. Theodore Cuyler.

A number of American secretaries will pass several days at Margate, where a conference of the association secretaries of Great Britain will meet this week. After a few days sightseeing in London many of the American delegates will visit Paris, where a reception will be given them in the new Paris association building, and after a short continental trip they will return home by various lines of steamers.

HIS LONG WALK ENDED.

BERLIN, June 8.—Printer Schnedereit has just arrived at his birthplace, Rathenow in Prussia, and thus ended a walk which he began two years ago in Calcutta, India:

Schnedereit was a job-printer in Melbourne, Australia, in 1889. In March, 1892, he had saved 23,000 marks and he sailed for home with his wife and two children. The ship in which he took passage was struck by lightning during a storm in mid-ocean. It was burned and Schnedereit's wife, children and fortune were lost.

He, with a few others, escaped in a small boat.

He landed on an island, from which he worked his way aboard ship to Calcutta. There he was without money or friends; he was unable to find work and could find no opportunity to work his way on any vessel bound for a European port.

In June, 1892, he walked out of Calcutta. He went northward, collecting from all the German consulates he passed certificates to the effect that he was making the whole journey afoot. He traversed Afghanistan, Persia, Russia and Germany east of Berlin without once setting foot in a vehicle.

It's Right Against Common Sense

to suppose that an imitation offers the customer any guarantee like the original does. Take Cottolene for example. FAIRBANK & Co. discovered it, perfected it, and spent thousands in making its merits known. It is plainly to their interest to make and keep it what it is to-day—the most popular shortening in the world.

But when you come

To accept any Counterfeits for Cottolene

these guarantees all disappear, and the housekeeper is at the mercy of an imitator who deals on others' reputation and who profits only by others' loss.

To ensure having good cooking and healthful food stick right to COTTOLENE and let all imitations severely alone.

ALWAYS HIS WAY.

Secured His Client's Honorable Vindication from a Serious Charge.

The Press again has occasion to remark that when you need legal help a good man to tie to is Craig A. Marsh. Andrew McMurray, charged with assault, was given a hearing in Westfield Wednesday before Judge Collins. Prosecutor Marsh conducted the case for the State and Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh for the defendant. Julia Zimmermann, the complainant, was in the witness chair nearly two hours, and subjected to a most searching cross-examination by defendant's counsel. Craig A. Marsh presented the case in so brilliant a light that the Court did not consider that the evidence sustained so serious a charge, and Mr. McMurray was honorably discharged from custody. There are two civil suits pending between the parties which will come up tomorrow morning.

Reviving the Work.

A large attendance greeted the officers of the Plainfield Reform Club last evening, when the President, H. H. Spencer, opened the meeting. Addresses were made by Mrs. Lanphear and other women, also by Messrs. Lanphear, Titsworth, Dunham and Goodwin, and Vice-president King, Marshal Smith and President Spencer. The tone of the speakers was encouraging, and extra efforts will be made to revive the temperance sentiment in this city. ATTACHMENT FOR $500,000.

(Special to The Press.)

NEW YORK, June 8—The General Electric Company has obtained an attachment for $500,000 against property in this State belonging to the Fort Wayne Electric Company. This concern is an Indiana corporation. The attachment is for money advanced between May 1, 1892, and May 1, 1894.

The General Electric Company was a stockholder in the Fort Wayne Company, and loaned the money during the last two years of financial depression to keep the Indiana company from going to pieces.

As it was, the Fort Wayne Company went into the hands of a receiver recently. The suit has been brought on the loans in order to protect the General Electric Company.

PLEASED PARENTS AND PUPILS.

Doll Drill and French Dialogue Features of the Seminary Juvenile Commencement.

The term's final exercises of the younger members of the Seminary were held this morning at 10 There were nearly 200 of the parents and friends of the scholars present, who greatly enjoyed the exercises.

All the members of the school took part, but the exercises were essentially for the younger scholars, and they carried off all the honors.

Especially pretty were the doll drill and French dance. The girls in the doll drill showed the careful training of Miss Lulu Lewis and presented a very pretty appearance as they executed their different marches.

The success of the French dance was due to the efforts of the French teacher, Mlle. Moutenary. This pretty combination of dancing and posing called forth much applause.

Below is the programme:

Singing—Miss Lewis, Miss McCready, Miss Haviland, and a chorus of young girls.
Doll Drill—Gladys Kaufman, Grace Kaufman, Isabella Scott, Anna Davis, Edna Smith, Helen Harmon, Adelaide Case, Mary Case, May Day, Christine Scott, Bessie Phillips, Florence Dewey.
Singing.
Recitation—"Star Spangled Banner"—Fannie Smillie, Edith Titsworth, Grace VanSickel, Anna Davis, Mamie Thatcher, Abi Sykes.
French Dialogue—Eleanor Stimson, Gladys Kaufman, Grace Kaufman, Matie Wadsworth, Elsie Harmon, Isabella Scott, Frank Stimson, Clara Case, Ethel Titsworth, Marion Vandervort.
Singing—Song of the Brook.

FIVE LITTLE GIRLS IN PINK.

Each year the Chestnuts Commencement has new novelties, and the graduating exercises prepared for next Monday are eagerly anticipated. The Rent Adjusted.

The suit for rent of Wm. R. Clarkson against the Camera Club was tried by a jury in Justice Nash's Court yesterday afternoon. J. P. Powers was counsel for the plaintiff, and William M. and Howard Stillman for the defendant. The landlord claimed $125, while the club members testified that he had made a reduction that brought their rent down to $105. The jury remained out for two hours and a half and brought in a verdict for the plaintiff of $105 the amount claimed by the club.

TIRED OF MARTYRDOM.

Coxey Prefers to Pay His Fine and End His Term in Prison.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Coxey, Carl Browne, and Jones, notwithstanding all their professions to the contrary, are tired of martyrdom. Jones, the Philadelphia leader, was only sentenced to 20 days; the other two had the option of serving ten days more or paying each five dollars fine.

If they ever had any serious intention of remaining in jail ten days more they have changed their minds now, for Coxey has sent $10 to the clerk of the police court to pay the fines.

Jesse Coxey and "Oklahoma Sam" have again been refused a permit from the police authorities to parade their ragged army in celebration of the release of the leaders. They have appealed the matter to the district commissioners.

Another B. & O. Coal Train Sent Back

BELLAIRE, O., June 8.—The Baltimore & Ohio railroad again undertook to run another coal train through last night. Number 99 started out with about 15 cars of coal and other freight, but was stopped at McClainesville by the striking miners. They crowded on the train after it stopped and told the engineer and conductor to return it to Bellaire. The trainmen returned it. When the train left this city the cars were crowded with sightseers, miners and others. There was no trouble or rioting of any kind. The sheriff is on the ground, but powerless to stop them. The men are camped and are well supplied with provisions given to them by the citizens here.

Operators Fail to Agree.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—The coal operators' committee of ten met for the purpose of deciding whether the Pittsburg operators shall attend the conference at Columbus next Saturday and to consider other matters in connection with the strike. It was 3 o'clock before the meeting adjourned, and the result was unsatisfactory. On the proposition to attend the Columbus convention the vote was a tie—5 to 5, Mr. Hanna voting as a proxy for Mr. Young. It was then decided, by a vote of 6 to 4, to call another general meeting of the operators of the district, at which the question will be decided.

Refuse to Obey McBride.

BRIDGEPORT, O., June 7.—Three companies of the eighth regiment Ohio National guards are on duty here. The situation is anything but encouraging and a conflict between the troops and miners seems to be unavoidable when trains are started. Railroad officials, fearing an attempt to blow up the tunnels and bridges, have doubled their forces from here to Uhrichsville. The miners got a telegram from President McBride asking them not to resist the troops and to raise the blockade, but it will not be obeyed.

Militia Held By a Mob.

MASSILLON, O., June 8.—The strikers at Wheeling Creek have posted notices warning the public to remain away and threatening to throw newspaper reporters into the river. They have 100 pounds of dynamite and small arms. At Canal Dover, company H, seventeenth regiment, of New Philadelphia, is surrounded by mill men and miners and prevented from boarding the special train for Cambridge.

Big Batch of Sawbones Graduated.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—At the University of Pennsylvania commencement the degree of doctor of medicine was conferred upon 207 graduates, that of doctor dental surgery upon 60 and that of doctor of veterinary medicine upon 22.

Blatz's Big Fortune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 8.—The will of Valentine Blatz, the well-known brewer, who died two weeks ago, has been filed. The bulk of the estate, which is estimated to be worth between $3,500,000 and $3,000,000, is left to the five children of the deceased.

OPEN EVERY EVENING.

ALL IN A GOOD CAUSE.

MANY ENTERTAINMENTS BY LOCAL RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

Church of the Holy Cross.

The footlights flashed on scenes of fun and beauty in the Parish Building of Holy Cross Church last night, and an audience that filled the place enjoyed a programme that was all "A good thing—pass it along".

This was the catch-phrase of George Taggart's "Ships That Pass in the Afternoon", a clever burlesque on Beatrice Harradan's famous book which The Daily Press published in its columns.

George Taggart himself was Bernardino, and William Holmes was The Disagreeable Man. They met in Dr. Cooley's Water-Cure, and after finding out what each "was up for" they exchanged literary confidences and ran through a string of nonsense which kept all laughing.

The "Ships" was but a bit of by-play in an enjoyable farce "Sylvester Daggerwood", Mr. Taggart being the actor Daggerwood, "your most obedient servant to command", who lost no opportunity to advertise his benefit performance. His fellow actors, William Holmes and Will Spencer, did their share of maintaining the fun of the piece. The make-ups were capital. All enjoyed Mr. Holmes's incidental singing, and Mr. Taggart's versification of Mickey Finn's tale of how George Washington whipped Cornwallis was a mighty clever thing that had many other merits besides being entirely new and original. The entire Daggerwood production was Mr. Taggart's best work to date.

The other farce of the evening, "The Stupid Servant", acted by Tiffany and Howard Spencer, was a laughable series of domestic blunders.

The sixteen tableaux were sixteen charming living pictures. Monday's child, "fair of face", was Mrs. McQuaide gazing at her own reflected beauty in handglass and mirror. Tuesday's child, "full of grace", was Mrs. Saunders in bewitching pose, her native elegance accentuated by perfect posture and drapery. Percy Western was Wednesday's child, "full of woe", blubbering over his shattered water pitcher. The idea "has far to go", was well portrayed by Thursday's child, Charles Western, who in spite of his set attitude seemed to be speeding forward with his grip at tremendous gait. Nothing could be prettier than "loving and giving", the representation of Friday's child. In this Miss Grace Barlow was seen in trim street dress, with open purse in left hand, dropping coin from the extended right into the eager palm of a little waif, a part cunningly filled by Mary Barlow. A spinning wheel busily revolved, and Miss Jennie Haviland was pictured fulfilling her mission as Saturday's child, "must work for a living". And Sunday's was best of all, for there stood dainty Louise Saunders, smiling beneath a wide-spreading hat and a wealth of curls, holding out a rope of flowers and looking altogether the "wise and bonnie, good and gay" darling that she really is.

Those who had been expecting something conventional in the Four Seasons were happily surprised. Spring revealed Miss Mamie Grannatt armed with brush, broom, mop and pail for the housecleaning foray. Summer was an idyl, and Robert Douglass was a lucky chap, in being permitted to lean so familiarly over the edge of the hammock where Miss Kate Miller half-concealed her favoring smiles in the shade of an open parasol. The harvesting of the grain was the scene depicted by Miss Sarah Long as Autumn. A golden sheaf stood near her, and her keen scythe kept at its work. Winter was an indoor group, permitting a glimpse of Clarence Murphy gracefully arranging a wrap about the shoulders of Miss Grace Barlow, after the ball.

Miss Alice Barlow was a delightful picture of Maidenhood, gazing into the heart of a lily. Miss Anne Murphy had a trying attitude as Rebecca at the Well, but maintained it admirably. She bore a water jar on her shoulder, kept there by a graceful curve of arm, and the rich red of her head-dress and drapery was in effective contrast to the blackness of her hair. Miss Alice Barlow spread a fan behind her head, and held forth a blossom, as the Coquette, and the familiar picture of the Fates was faithfully reproduced by Miss Kate Miller, Miss Anne Murphy, and Mrs. Saunders.

The curtains were well attended by Albert Ford and Langdon Howard, pages who were models of self-possession.

Miss Maude James Chilton was received with enthusiasm both because of her personal charms and because of her superb recitations. She acted first the story of Brett's and Blakesley's contest for her heart, and when recalled again and again gave Riley's "Orphant Annie" and dialect versions of "Mary's Little Lamb", from the Bostonese extravagance of expression to the laundryman's "Little baa-baa hop 'long allee samee".

The music of the evening was heartily enjoyed, being by Mrs. Benj. R. Western and Henry M. Western.

Grace M. E. Church.

A successful strawberry festival was that held by the Ladies Aid Society in Grace M. E. Church last evening. The attendance was gratifyingly large and the usual social spirit of Grace Church people prevailed. The decorations gave evidence that the workers in charge of the different departments had made careful preparation.

Fancy articles were for sale at an attractively arranged table by the main entrance. Bunches of roses and daises added to its beauty. In this branch of the festivel were expended the efforts of Mrs. H. K. Carroll, chairman, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Mrs. Ezra Loomis and Mrs. J. C. Garey. Next to the fancy table and directly in front of the pulpit stood the candy table. The floral decorations were especially fine. In front the white cloth which touched the floor was adorned with delicate festoons of honeysuckle branches and blossoms. Those in charge were: Mrs. Elmer E. Winckler, Miss Delphine Voehl, Miss Margaret Schuck, Miss Alice Tingley and Miss Carrie Tingley.

In the corner beyond were Mrs. W. H. Griffen and Mrs. Herbert Randolph with lemonade for sale from a well surrounded by rocks and decorated with ferns. Opposite was the flower booth, the most elaborately arranged of all with its sides covered with ferns and evergreens. The bouquets were disposed of by the Misses Alice Carroll, Belle Lunger, Alice Loomis, Grace Carroll and Clara Smith.

The infant class room was given up to the sale of refreshments, conducted by the following:

Cake Committee—Mrs. J. S. Lunger, Mrs. Andrew Lutkins, Mrs. J. F. Schroeder and Mrs. J. W. Bauersachs.

Ice-cream Committee—Mrs. E. A. Vermeule, Mrs. Charles Hummer and Mrs. Edward Sebring.

Strawberry Committee—Miss Emma Smalley, Mrs. Edwin Stein, Mrs. Charles Force and Miss VanCleef.

Waitresses—The Misses Mabel Benner, Nellie Vermeule, Lizzie Hoagland, Minnie Gulick, Nellie Kreger, Ella Benner and May Conroy.

The festival will be continued tonight, and the society hopes to meet with still greater success

Trinity Reformed Church.

When the members of Trinity Reformed Church read on the posters that a festival was to be given in the church parlors they wondered where the parlors were, and last night they were delighted to find that the parlors were a verity, having been brought into being by a beautiful transformation of the staid old lecture room under the skilful handiwork of the Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters.

The general effect of the decoration was pink, with just enough green to relieve it of sameness. Graceful streamers of cheesecloth met at the centre of the ceiling from all sides and corners, and twined gaily about the pillars. The small tables arranged for consumers of strawberries and cream were attractive in snowy cloth with dainty pink mats on which rested pink sugar-bowls and centre displays of roses. In a cozy corner was as pretty a well as ever reflected the face of a pretty girl. The uprights were entwined with smilax, and the roof was thatched with green from which countless daisies peeped. Sprigs of boxwood adorned the posts of the confectionery counter, and the delicious home-made candies were temptingly displayed in hand-painted fancy cartons. Another table was laden with aprons both elegant and sensible. Flowers and ferns were banked upon the piano, and the central booth was a wealth of plants and nosegays which found eager buyers. A table of china painted by Beatrice D. Craig won much admiration.

The scene was beautiful when the last stroke was completed in the afternoon, and when the parlor and banquet lamps were lighted, shedding a soft glow over all, the picture was one of supreme enchantment. The attendance was gratifying, and all had their wants administered to by the following:

Chairman—Miss Gillam.

Candy—Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Etta Krymer.

China—Miss DeCamp.

Refreshments—Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. James A. Love, Miss Woodruff.

Aprons—Mrs. W. F. Williams, Miss M. Williams.

Lemonade—Miss Dunn, Miss Hoff.

Popcorn—The Misses Berg.

Flowers—Miss Mills, Miss Clark, Miss VanWinkle, Miss Grace Rowland.

Waitresses—Miss May Williams, Miss Minnie Wyman, Miss Josie Fritts, Miss Mattie Cook, Miss Maude Van Dyke, Miss Nellie McGinnis, Miss Jeanette Simpson, Miss Grace Emmons, Miss Nettie Krietling, Miss Cora Huff, Miss Laura Wyckoff, Miss Eva Lance.

Flower Girls—Miss Gussie Wilson, Miss Gertrude Tier.

Check room—Miss Arnold, Miss Smith.

The Etna Quartette, consisting of Will Tallamy, Harry Yaeger, Will Leland and Bert Tallamy, sang last night; and during the conclusion of the festival tonight there will be excellent instrumental music.

Miss M. Woodruff, Miss J. Van Winkle, Miss F. Clark, Mrs. J. A. Love, Miss S. Van Winkle, Miss L. A. Force, Mrs. W. F. Williams, Miss L. De Camp, Miss M. Williams, Miss L. Dunn, Miss M. Berg, Miss L. Snediker, Miss P. Mills, Miss E. Gillem, Miss B. Kipp, and Miss F. Kipp.

Children's Home.

The Board of Managers of the Children's Home held a regular monthly meeting in the Home yesterday afternoon. An informal reception was given afterwards from 4 until 8, many visitors calling to greet the workers and to inspect the institution.

The guests were received by the president and the vice-presidents of the board. Tea and lemonade and cakes were served by other officers. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers. Much interest was expressed in the work which is being accomplished so quietly and efficiently by the women in charge, their aim being to make the Home as little like the conventional institution as possible. All of those who attended were very favorably impressed with the condition of affairs. Nineteen children were in the Home yesterday.

Monroe Avenue Chapel.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue Chapel gave an enjoyable strawberry festival in the chapel last evening. The rooms presented an attractive appearance, through the use of flowers, and tables well arranged. In the centre of the main room a large flower booth handsomely decorated, was admired by all. The attendance was excellent, and the profits will no doubt be large. Those in charge were:

Flower booth—Miss K. Ackerman, Miss M. Beekman.

Candy table—Miss Aldrich, Miss Foster.

Lemonade—Miss Bertha LaRue.

Fancy table—Mrs. Haft.

Cake table—Mrs. LaRue.

Refreshment table—Mrs. Haft and assistants.

Mr. Bruen and John Praed assisted in various ways in making the effort a success.

Warren Chapel.

An informal reception was given to Rev. J. O. McKelvey and his bride in Warren Chapel last evening by the officers of the Sunday-school. The chapel was well filled with people interested in its welfare and the pastor's wife was most cordially and pleasantly welcomed to her new position.

The chapel was made as homelike as possible with rugs and chairs and a table set in the rear room. The floral decorations were two large bunches of daisies tastefully arranged in urns.

Rev. Dr. W. B. Richards made a short address of welcome. In responding Mr. McKelvey said it was his wife's reception and introduced her to his people. Miss Ida Dunham and E. B. Ryder sang solos. Refreshments were served afterwards by the Chapel Aid Society. Near the close of the evening L. N. Lovell made a few remarks.

Colored Y. M. C. A.

A strawberry festival in Central Hall last night materially aided the Colored Y. M. C. A. by providing an evening of pleasure to a large number of its 80 members and by adding a satisfactory amount to the treasury.

Among the amusements of the affair was a Chinese cue-pinning party in which Mrs. E. B. Maynard was the most successful. Afterwards the contestants discovered a way to place the cue exactly in its place. Those in charge were: Mrs. Sadie Randolph, Mrs. E B Maynard, Mrs. Mary Doyle, Mrs. Kate Mayhew, Miss Alice Maynard, John W. Reed, Spencer Conway, Winsor Lathan and Secretary H. P. Thomas.

Swedish Baptist Class.

Mrs. John J. Coard entertained her Swedish Sunday-school class in the Park Avenue Baptist Church last evening. An orchestra furnished excellent music, and a short address by Mr. Wyckoff was enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Dr. Lewis will preach in the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday.

Children's Day will be observed in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church tomorrow.

W. E. MacClymont had a large audience at his final organ recital in the First Presbyterian Church last night.

Choir boys from Trinity Church, New York, will sing at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Wilbur Price of Clinton avenue to Mr. Jenke of Leipsic, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, June 16.

Dr. Richards and James McGee will deliver short addresses at the Y. M. C. A. Jubilee Memorial Service in the Crescent Avenue Church next Sunday evening.

Dr. Barnes and Rev. C. E. Herring will address a similar meeting in the Methodist Church. President Murray will speak at both services.

At the Y. M. C. A. Jubilee meeting to be held in the Crescent Avenue Church on Sunday evening next music will be rendered by a double male quartette.

At the Methodist Church the music will be rendered by the choir of the First Baptist Church led by E. J. Fitzhugh.

Following is the Children's Service to be given in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, next Sunday:

—Two circuses are booked—Washburn's June 22, and Forepaugh's July 6.

—A regular meeting of Gazelle Engine Company No. 1, will be held in their parlors this evening to amend by-laws.

—Pearson & Gayle deserve credit for their neat carpentry work in building the booths at the Trinity Reformed Church festival.

—Councilmen Valiant, Neal and Peck have served, through Marshal Pangborn, notice on the Street Railway Company to enforce the company to keep its roadway in repair.

—Look into Leggett's show window and see the imported tooth brushes offered at 9 apiece—the greatest bargain ever offered. He also has a fresh supply of bay rum at only 15 cents a bottle.

—Daniel McCarthy of South avenue is being sued by the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company for the possession of the property on which he lives. He refuses to vacate for the parties who have bought the place.

—Street Commissioner Meeker is busy sending notices to property-owners regarding the laying of bluestone sidewalks, according to the ordinance on that subject, and a flagged walk alongside the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery will result.

A surprise party was given to Joseph Maier, in the Park Hotel last evening, which was an elaborate affair, the occasion being his twenty-first birthday. It was arranged by Miss Hague and Mr. Lyons. The New Market Band was present and serenaded Mr. Maier and his friends. About midnight all partook of a bountiful collation prepared by Mr. Maier. Mr. Maier received many handsome presents. A large cake with 21 candles encircling it adorned the table, and was made by Mrs. Maier. There were about thirty couple present who thoroughly enjoyed the generous hospitality of the host, and all wished him many years of happiness.

The entertainment given in the Presbyterian Chapel last evening was a success. All took their parts well. The Misses Smith of the Lincoln School arranged the affair, which was a Fairy Play in three acts, and they deserve much credit for the very enjoyable evening. The following is the programme:

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

PRESIDENT JOY.

Successful Gathering of Epworth Leaguers in Woodbridge.

The fifth semi-annual convention of the Elizabeth District Epworth League was held in St. Andrews M. E. Church, Woodbridge, yesterday afternoon. Sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening.

There were about seventeen members from this city in attendance, all from the First M. E. Church.

Rev. W. W. Winans, formerly of Dunellen and now of Madison, presided over the sessions.

The convention was one of the most successful ever held, owing largely to the efficient work done by Rev. W. C. Kinsey, corresponding secretary.

Among those selected for offices from Plainfield and vicinity were:

President—J. R. Joy, Plainfield.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Dunellen.

Miss Ida Angleman read a most interesting report of Junior League work. It was a carefully prepared and much appreciated paper.

The vesper responsive service at 7:30 was conducted by J. R. Joy and was a most helpful one.

At 9:30 the inspiration and consecration service was led by Rev. W. C. Kinsey.

Addresses of much interest were made by Dr. Robert R. Doherty, third vice-president of the General League, at 2:30 and Rev. Joseph A. Owen, pastor of St. James Church, Elizabeth.

A resolution complimenting President Winans on his efficiency was adopted by convention.

The women of Woodbridge provided bountiful lunches both at noon and at the close of the afternoon session.

NOVITIATE HONORS.

Beginner a Winner on the Bowling Green.

The Dunellen Bowling Club held their first meeting of the season on the green at Christian Schepflin's, Dunellen.

Upon assembling they were received and welcomed by Mr. Schepflin, the president.

Rinks were formed, and a close game resulted.

Mr. Schepflin as skip was assisted by ex-Mayor Haynes, of Newark, James Smyth and John Young.

Result—Mr. Schepflin 21, Mr. Elliott 19.

Individual scores were bowled by three of the members which resulted:

C. K. Moore.....21
William Low.....9
Charles S. Westervelt.....9

The second game of individuals was a surprise party to the veterans, Moore and Low, as Mr. Westervelt, a novice, walked off with the honors in the most approved fashion, the score being:

Westervelt.....21
Moore.....13
Low.....14

Fanwood Has Another Official Surprise.

Fanwood is now without a health inspector. After his borough inspection of the township, Wright Babcock submitted an exhaustive report with recommendations to the board of health and, much to the surprise of all, immediately resigned.

REGIMENTALS.

The Third Regiment Cadet Corps will meet with cadets from Bloomfield, Passaic and Orange in Captain Edwards's office on Broadway, New York, tomorrow afternoon at 2. Arrangements will be made for the camping trip to the coast June 26.

Norman C. Magee of Major Anderson Post will leave tomorrow night on a trip to Worcester and Fitchburg, Mass. Next Wednesday he will attend the reunion in Middletown, Conn., of his regiment, the First Artillery of Connecticut. It will be 33 years Sunday night since Mr. Magee marched from Hartford and began his four years and six months of service in the army.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell. Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1893.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The century riders from Newark to Philadelphia tomorrow rest in Plainfield at 7 a. m.

The appreciative Westfield Leader remarks: "The Plainfield Press showed its enterprise again in its neat programme of the Crescent races."

Contestants in the bicycle races of the P. H. S. A. A. tomorrow afternoon must obtain tickets for their starters from W. H. Rogers.

Entries for the race meet of the Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers in Waverly Park will close tomorrow. Judging from the way the entries are coming in, it will be a very large and successful meet.

F. L. C. Martin, who inaugurated the run seven years ago, and Walter Manning, will ride in the century from Newark to Philadelphia tomorrow. Martin will use a 21 pound Columbia and Manning a 29 pound.

John Flynn, Jr., of Elizabeth, will race on a wheel 20 miles against horses, on the Third Street ball grounds ¼ mile track, Elizabeth, June 26, at 5 p. m. Two horses will be ridden, in 10-mile relays. by A. S. Meixell of Lewiston, Pa.

The Victor Wheelmen met with Captain Israel Jones last evening. It was decided to enter a member in the Fourth of July races of the Crescent Wheelmen and one in the Atalanta Wheelmen's century road-race July 14. To arrange for an entertainment to be held the night of July 4, Albert Wilson, Israel Jones, Nathan Pollard, William Fisher and John Reed were appointed. They will try to engage Central Hall for the occasion. Nothing has been done yet in regard to having a series of club races on the Crescent track.

MUSCLE MAKERS.

Stages at 5 cent fare will run from the railroad station and from Park avenue and Front street to the Crescent Oval tomorrow.

The married men of the Potter Press Works will bowl with single men for a valuable prize on Jacob Hipp's alleys tomorrow afternoon at 2.

A return game will be played on Jacob Hipp's alley's tomorrow night between Bound Brook bowlers and a picked team of machinists from the Potter and the Scott works. A supper will be served by the proprietor.

Gifts to His Patrons.

White of Plainfield is out after the business, and he is getting it. As an extra inducement to his customers, he is offering a very handsome assortment of bookracks, tables, fancy chairs, easels, music racks, screens, wall pockets, hat racks and cabinets, free to all who want them, and you surely will when you see them. They are certainly the handsomest and most expensive presents ever offered by any house. White says he has adopted this method of advertising because it will result in increasing the business and at the same time divide profits with the customers. Mr. White is issuing a card, and when you have traded the necessary amount you take your choice of any of the articles. The articles will be on exhibition in the house furnishing department tonight and tomorrow night. Do n't miss this chance.

BOEHM'S,

TARIFF WORK BALKED

Nine Hours Wasted on an Unimportant Matter.

And No Agreement Arrived at Yet—Probability of the Five-Minute Rule Being Resorted to on All Schedules Until Wool is Reached—Republicans Still in the Fight.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The agricultural schedule of the tariff bill still occupies the time of the senate and, contrary to all expectation, promises to prove a troublesome matter for the tariff leaders. The progress made with the bill since the schedule was taken up has been so infinitesimal that it caused Mr. Harris, who has the parliamentary charge of it, to rise and, with grim humor, say that he was so much gratified by the fact that throughout the greater part of two days two small paragraphs of the agricultural schedule had been disposed of, that he would move to proceed to executive business.

Nine hours were spent in discussing the paragraph as to duty on wheat, oats, etc., including an apparently unimportant amendment as to reducing the duty on oatmeal from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent. And the paragraph was still under consideration this morning.

Before taking up the tariff bill the question of the debt of the Central Pacific Railroad company to the government, and especially the liability of the Leland Stanford estate for fifteen millions of the debt, was brought up on a resolution offered by Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.), instructing the judiciary committee to inquire and report whether the attempt just initiated by the law officers of the government to enforce such liability should not be forthwith relinquished and put at rest. After a short, but interesting discussion, the resolution went over without action.

It is more than probable that the agreement which Mr. Harris and Mr. Aldrich sought to make, but which was objected to by Mr. Quay, will nevertheless be made, and that too very soon. Under this arrangement, all the succeding schedules of the tariff bill down to wool will be discussed under the five minute rule. Then the republicans say does not indicate that they have given up the fight, but does show their desire to get to the wool schedule, where a contest, unsuccessful, but nonetheless vigorous, will be waged. It is believed that under this arrangement the schedule effected by it can be disposed of in three or four days.

House of Representatives.

The session of the house was given over to consideration, in committee of the whole, of the Indian appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1895. It was notable for an outburst of the business jealousy between New York and Chicago, growing out of the proposition in the bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to remove the Indian warehouse from New York to Chicago.

Besides considering the Indian bill, the house agreed to a resolution authorizing the committee on immigration to make an investigation at Ellis Island, and asking the secretary of the treasury to transmit to the house what has been done by the officials charged therewith, towards enforcing the immigration and contract labor laws.

Sad Downfall of an Aged Banker.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8.—Theodore P. Haughey, the aged ex-president of the wrecked Indianapolis National bank, has been sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. In passing sentence Judge Baker broke down and cried like a child. The prisoner was taken to the Northern penitentiary. He will be assigned to the hospital department and will be granted every freedom possible under the prison rules. His mother, nearly 90 years of age, knows nothing of her son's downfall.

Kelly's Army About to Collapse.

CAIRO, Ill., June 8.—Kelly's industrials are on the point of collapse. Since Wednesday they have camped on Hodges' farm, and have given him their boats. Two hundred special police are strung across the northern limits of the city armed with winchesters. The rumor is current that the army will move across the peninsula to Mound city. The adjacent river banks in Missouri and Kentucky are closely patrolled to keep the invaders from landing.

On the Alert for These Anarchists.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Superintendent Stump, of the bureau of immigration, has forwarded to the proper officers at the several ports full descriptions of 217 anarchists expelled from France, height, weight, color of eyes and hair etc. All persons entering the United States answering the descriptions and found to be of the proscribed class will be deported.

Armor Plate Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The special committee of the house naval committee investigating the alleged armor plate scandal, at a secret session decided that Edward C. Sill, of the Carnegie company, should be summoned. The committee will not determine upon their proposed visit to Homestead until after Mr. Sill is heard.

Valkyrie and Vigilant Entered.

LONDON, June 8.—Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie and George and Howard Gould's Vigilant have been entered for the regattas of the Royal Munster Yacht club at Queenstown on July 23 and the Royal Cork Yacht club on July 24 and 25.

Unable to Convict Sheridan.

DUBLIN, June 8.—The third trial of Walter Sheridan, who was accused of attempting to blow up the Aldboro barracks with dynamite last November, resulted as did the former trials in a disagreement of the jury, and Sheridan was liberated.

Deputy State Engineer Resigns.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., June 8.—Frank R. Becker has resigned as deputy state engineer because of ill health. He has been ill for several weeks at his home in this city with nervous prostration.

Marblehead Sails for Bluefields.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 8.—U. S. cruiser Marblehead received her torpedo outfit and sailed for Bluefields at 7:15 p. m., four and three-quarter hours after her arrival here.

ANXIETY AT ALL POINTS

Condition of the Strike Troubles To-day.

Battle Expected at Manown—McKeesport Strikers Ugly—Report of Another Fight at Cripple Creek—Ohio and Maryland Coal Trains Still Tied Up By the Mobs.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8.—The strike situation in Pennsylvania, according to advices received by Adj.-Gen. Greenland, is not encouraging, yet not of a sufficiently alarming nature to lead to the belief that state troops will be necessary to suppress the disorders.

The most serious trouble at present is at McKeesport and Manown, and at the latter place a battle may occur at any moment. The works at McKeesport will remain idle until the strike is over. No deputies will be asked to aid in protecting the company's property. General Manager Converse says the strikers can wander about as they desire.

The Duquesne Tube works will also remain idle until there is a settlement at the National Tube works.

No trouble is reported from the mines where operators are trying to break the strike with negroes and deputies, but there is a feeling of unrest that may break out at any minute.

Col. O. F. McClellan, quartermaster general of National guard, was here in consultation with Adj.-Gen. Greenland regarding routine matters.

A number of strikers from McKeesport marched to Reynoldton, one mile below, and there destroyed a small tipple owned by Levy Edmondson. The mine had not been worked for three months. When Edmondson protested the crowd started for him, but he escaped by an exhibition of lively sprinting. The mob then proceeded to the houses of Lewis Greenburg and Robert Vaughn, a short distance from Edmondson's place. These two men had been driven out of the tube works Monday night and the crowd wanted more revenge. The men, fortunately, heard the strikers in time to make their escape.

FIGHTING AT CRIPPLE CREEK.

Martial Law May Be Declared and Federal Troops Called Upon.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 8.—It is reported here that another fight is in progress at Cripple Creek. Gov. Waite has wired Sheriff Bowers that the militia must not occupy the disturbed district and that armed deputies will not be allowed within their lines. It is claimed that the deputies have obtained permission from Sheriff Bowers to attack Bull Hill and serve warrants and as only part of the militia have arrived at Gillette, the deputies outnumber the troops two to one and are strong enough to enter the camp ahead of the soldiers.

Should this plan be carried out martial law will be declared and the United States troops called upon.

A despatch from Florence says: "Firing is now going on."

BUILDING BARRICADES.

Signs of an Approaching Battle at Manown—Works Surrounded.

MONONGAHELA CITY, Pa., June 8.—The situation at Manown has become very threatening and there are now indications of an approaching battle. Reports say that the strikers have apparently surrounded the works and that there has been a continual fire of signal shots from the opposite side of the river. The deputy sheriffs are building barricades and entrenching themselves.

Troops Hurrying to Blue Creek, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 8.—Trouble is expected at Blue Creek. Five hundred miners are massed and threaten to blow up the mines. One hundred and fifty of the troops will leave Camp Forney on a special train at once.

A LIST of reasons why you should insist upon having Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and nothing else in their place:—

Because they're the smallest, and the pleasantest to take.

Because they're the easiest in their ways. No disturbance, no reaction afterward. Their effects last.

They absolutely and permanently cure Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation, Sick Headache, and Sour Stomach. The most common cause of Piles is constipation. By removing the cause a cure is effected.

Montgomery, Orange Co., N. Y.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I suffered untold misery with bleeding piles. I could get no relief night or day, until I commenced using your "Pleasant Pellets," and now for two years or more, I have not been troubled with the piles; if my bowels get in a constipated condition, I take a dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and the trouble is all dispelled by next day.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely *free of charge. It matters not what the dis*ease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD in HEAD HAYFEVER DEAFNESS

ELY'S CREAM BALM

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C KINNEY.

A TALK WITH NO. 1

Tynan Discusses His Forthcoming Book.

Declares That He Has Implicated No Man By Name, But Has Stated That the Invincible Movement and the Land League Were Practically One and the Same Organization.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Irish Republic, a local weekly paper, in its issue to-day will publish an interview under the caption "A Talk With No. 1" (Mr. T. J. P. Tynan). The article deals mainly with the alleged abstracts from Tynan's book, recently published by the St. James Gazette. Mr. Tynan is represented as denying that he reveals the identity of any individual in his book. Mr. Tynan's whereabouts are not mentioned, but the Irish Republic gives the assurance that he is in good health, and "has just actually asked us (The Irish Republic) to present his compliments to the old woman (The St. James Gazette).

The interview is in part as follows:

"I notice, Mr. Tynan, that, according to a morning paper, a number of men calling themselves the Clan-na-Gael have been denouncing you and declaring that your book has been brought out by money supplied by Henry Arthur Herbert, cousin to Mr. Balfour, on behalf of the Tory party."

"All that talk is rot. I have never had any business transaction whatever with Mr. Herbert. I have met him casually on one or two occasions, just as anybody might, but that is all. I know that he is as hostile to me and my book as either Gladstone or his cousin Balfour could be. The only gentleman that I know of Irish national proclivities who has any business transactions with him is Gen. O'Beirne, a particular friend of the Clan-na-Gael, who has, I understand, some interest with him in connection with marble works or some thing of that sort.

"This Clan-na-Gael itself is a mere lopped-off withered branch of a great Irish national organization, and it is immaterial what its members will say. I would ask my countrymen to form no conclusions regarding my book from either advance sheets or garbled extracts or interviews appearing in the newspapers. The book, when it is read will be found to sustain the position I have assumed in this international controversy."

"Is it true that you have implicated any man by name in connection with this Invincible organization?"

"It is not true. I have not implicated any man by name, but I have stated in a most emphatic manner, and I hear repeat it, that the Invincible movement and the Land League were practically one and the same organization. It is possible that the three gentlemen who affixed their signatures to the proclamation denouncing the 'suppression' of May 6 were not aware at that time of the identity of that movement with their own organization, but in the face of the fact that Mr. Parnell refused to be taken out of Kilmainham, it is difficult to believe that he did not have a shrewd suspicion of the state of affairs. However these things be it is perfectly plain that these gentlemen acted hurriedly, in a panic, without consulting the government that had conducted the affairs of Ireland while they were in prison.

"I must say if the Dublin invincibles had the slightest conception that there existed any difference between their body and the land league as to the policy to be pursued, the suppressions of May 6 would never have been enacted, and that daring act which saved Ireland from contempt would never have a page in her history.

"When people talk about that glorious deed they forget the assassination of the young girls in Mayo the preceding evening, of the murder of men, women and children during Gladstone's bloody regime from 1880 to 1885. The signers of that proclamation and the other chiefs of the land league had sympathy to offer to the British for the killing of Britain's two secretaries, which killing was done by the orders of the leaders of the land league movement, but not a word in condemnation of the brutal assassinations carried out under the administration of their make-believe friend of to-day, W. E. Gladstone.

"You may say for myself generally that I care nothing for the howlers who would heap slander and infamy upon me. I have shoulders broad enough, I hope, to bear it all."

"While you do not charge any individual, you do not hesitate in declaring the land league responsible?"

"I made no charge against any individual, but publicly state that a movement that is now trying to surrender the Irish nation to Rosebery and his party, and that would have a foreign flag, a foreign sovereign, and Ireland a willing province of her enemy's empire, is the same movement that originated the invincible organization. It was the leaders of that movement who, when the brave fellows who obeyed orders, were in prison, deserted them, slandered them and by their denunciations aided the enemy in creating a false public opinion in Ireland.

"These same men even to-day have no hesitation in calling the brave fellows of the movement created a band of assassins. The policy of the invincibles was not of their own creation. The leading men of the Parnellite ranks of that day gave them the policy, but the very organ of these Parnellites, an organ which was printed in Paris after it had been proclaimed in Dublin, was more bitter in its denunciation of its own men, so to speak, than any organ of the enemy."

Further on Mr. Tynan is quoted as saying that the first exposure of the invincibles came from the ranks of the Irish parliamentarians when they denounced the invincibles as assassins.

"Had they held their peace," Tynan continued, "even after the proclamation, my book would never have been written. In the face of a stupendous lie tried to be fastened upon the national party, silence would not only be cowardly, but criminal."

RED CROSS' GOOD WORK.

BEAUFORT, S. C., June 9.—In September last, upon the special request of Gov. Tillman, Miss Clara Barton, president of the American National Red Cross, with a corps of assistants, went to the rescue of the thousands of sufferers from flood on the Sea islands of South Carolina. The party have occupied the field for eight months and with the aid of United States revenue cutters, assigned by Secretar Carlisle for duty in distributing food and clothing, have done a great work saving thousands of lives, redeeming hundreds of thousands of acres of land and placing upward of 35,000 people in positions to look after themselves. The representatives of the Red Cross will withdraw from the field this week.

The citizens of Beaufort have formally tendered their thanks to the rescuers in a series of resolutions expressing their most heartfelt thanks to Miss Barton and the Red Cross for rendering impartially that aid, without which thousands of their members, friends ond citizens must have perished, and rejoicing especially in the fact that while every form of suffering has been alleviated, every want met and all distress removed, the people have not been pauperized by its methods nor have any forms of self-help been disturbed. The members of the Red Cross will return to Washington this week.

FIFTEEN COXEYITES DROWNED

Barbed Wire in the Platte River Overturned Their Boats.

DENVER, Col. June 9.—At least 15 members of the Denver contingent of Coxey's army lost their lives by drowning in the Platte river Thursday night. The coroner is as yet unable to secure any of the bodies. Four have been washed ashore on the other side of the river about eight miles this side of Brighton, at a point known as McKay's bridge. To reach them it would be necessary to travel about 20 miles out of the way, but he expects to recover them later on. The bodies of the other men have been carried farther down the river.

The Coxeyites started off, about 300, in 26 boats, which were built of light material by the men here. The storms had greatly swollen the stream. The first boats to arrive at Brighton reported the dangers they had passed through.

It was McKay's bridge, about six miles above Brighton that caused the most trouble. The flood poured under it with the speed of a mill-race, and there, hidden by the stream were barbed wires stretched across to prevent the passing of stock under the bridge at low water. The wire caught many of the boats and overturned them. About 350 men are now encamped beside the river at Brighton drying their clothes and recuperating.

WORK IN CONGRESS.

Senators Talking Hay To-day—Indian Appropriation Bill in House.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The senate began work this morning on the hay paragraph of the agricultural schedule of the tariff bill, ten paragraphs being disposed of yesterday after a large amount of talk, mostly of a personal, political and somewhat gry character.

Before the bill was taken up the Hoar resolution as to discontinuing the government's claim upon the Stanford estate in California was, after a brief discussion, laid on the table.

House of Representatives.

Consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was renewed in the house with one particularly interesting feature. Mr. Weadock (dem., Mich.) replied to the arraignment of the Indian bureau made by his colleague, Mr. Linton, and Mr. Aldrich (rep., Ill.) supported the provision of the bill for removing the Indian warehouse from New York to Chicago. Messrs. Brosius and Wanger (rep., Pa.) protested against the enforcement of economy to the extent of crippling the educational arm of the Indian policy.

The house agreed to the conference report upon the Pennsylvania and New Jersey bridge over the Delaware between Philadelphia and Camden.

PROF. WHITNEY'S LIFE LESSON.

Benefits of Studying Other Religions Than Our Own.

BOSTON, June 9.—Prof. Lanman of Harvard, who studied at Yale under the late Prof. Whitney, and who occupies the Sanscrit chair at Harvard, said:

"With the passing of Mr. Whitney one of the greatest lights of American sciences—the greatest light of American philology—is extinguished. For 40 years, less a few months, he has been, as Yale's professor of Sanscrit, one of the chief ornaments of the university. And for a somewhat longer period still, he has been before the public as a writer of the very first authority upon questions concerning the science of language and the antiquities of India. Among his own countrymen his best known and most enduring monument will be the Century dictionary, of which he was the editor-in-chief and the guiding spirit of a large staff of very able collaborators.

"Here, however, from the nature of the case, his own personality cannot show itself so distinctly as in his great technical works, which concern the religions, the literature, the folk-lore, the astronomy, and the language of the Hindoos. These are the works by which his name and fame will be perpetuated among scholars. Some of these subjects seem very far away from the living present, but the time will surely come when—as James Freeman Clarke so nobly strove to teach—the study of other religions than our own will convince us as touching the first verse of the epistle to the Hebrews and teach us that the spirit of truth hath spoken in every age and every clime."

"Let us study the bibles of other races, and we shall then come to see the transcendent merits of our own, and to rest its claims upon our reverent study upon better bases than those of the short-sighted heresy-hunters of to-day. It is by doing the work which is an essential preliminary to the knowledge of other religions and systems of thought that Mr. Whitney has won a place among the patriot sages."

Wanamaker Talks.

LONDON, June 9.—The Westminster Gazette publishes an interview with John Wanamaker, ex-postmaster-general of the United States, who is here as a delegate to the Young Men's Christian association jubilee, just closed. He says he has visited the house of commons on two occasions during debate, and expresses the opinion that the order and dignity of that body compares favorably with the methods observed in the house of representatives at Washington. Of the jubilee, he says the reception of the delegates has been princely. They have been received with the utmost courtesy everywhere, and their sessions have been successful and delightful to remember.

Crooked Still in Tennessee.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 9.—The biggest wild-cat still in East Tennessee was destroyed by revenue officers Wednesday night after many weeks had been consumed in search of it. It was located in Connesauga mountain in Polk county in a wild and picturesque spot upon the verge of a precipice and yet beneath overhanging cliffs. There was only one way to get up and down and it was perilous to life. Fortunately the moonshiners were not at home when the officers arrived or a battle would have followed. Three thousand gallons of beer and many gallons of whisky were poured on the ground and all paraphernalia destroyed.

Spirit of Progress in Portugal.

LISBON, June 9.—A meeting of all prominent progressist politicians was held in Oporto to protest against the domestic policy of the government. Resolutions were passed protesting against the royal decree of May 4, postponing the sitting of the cortes. The country, the resolutions set forth, had a right to refuse to pay taxes unless they were voted annually. Reform of the constitution was necessary to secure the regular meeting of the cortes, and the laws regulating elections and the liberty of the press and public meetings must be modified.

Sealing Vessels Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—The latest news from the Japan coast is anything but encouraging to the sealers. In addition to the four vessels known to have been lost, it is reported that there are six other sealing schooners missing. They are the Mary H. Thomas, Alton, Battler, San Diego, Unga, and the Kate and Ann. Not only have they not touched at Hakodate or Yokohama, but they have not been sighted by any of the vessels which have put in there. The missing sealers all sailed from San Francisco, carrying crews numbering 108 men in all.

Mary Byrne's Story.

NEW YORK, June —Mrs. Mary Byrne, widow of Frank Byrne, who organized the famous "invincible" conspiracy that culminated in the Phenix park tragedy, is dying at Providence, R. I. She declares that Tynan is a fraud and not the famous "No. 1." Mrs. Byrne is supposed to have carried from London to Dublin the knives used by Brady and Kelly in the killing of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke at Phenix park.

Specie Syndicate Fails To Work.

IN CONFERENCE TO-DAY

Operators and Miners Meet at Two Cities.

Further Efforts to Bring About a Settlement of the Strikes in Certain Districts—The Trouble at Cripple Creek Ends in a Victory for Gov. Waite—Ohio the Seat of Most Trouble Now.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—A conference of coal operators of central Pennsylvania for the purpose of considering the question of the meeting with the miners, now on stike, at Altoona to-day, was held yesterday in the office of Berwind-White company. There was a full meeting about 50 operators being present.

Edward J. Berwind, of the firm of Berwind-White, was chairman of the meeting, and no one but the operators were allowed to be present. The details of the meeting to-day were carefully considered and a committee to represent the operators was selected.

It was generally agreed by those present that the operators will only deal with their own miners and if work is resumed they will not consent to any but the old basis of wages, of 40 cents a ton.

Their final decision, however, was carefully guarded, as they do not wish the result of their meeting to be known before the conference to-day.

If no settlement is reached to-day the operators will next week attempt to start the mines with non-union men.

PEACE AT CRIPPLE CREEK.

Gov. Waite Victorious and the Guilty Miners Will Escape

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., June 9.—The long strike in Cripple Creek is ended and the settlement has been effected without bloodshed. Twenty-four hours ago such a consummation seemed among the most improbable things that were liable to happen.

Yesterday the deputies began leaving camp, ostensibly for the purpose of scouting, but really to make a concerted attack, unknown to the militia, on Bull Hill.

Fully two-thirds of the entire force had thus got out of camp before the suspicions of Gen. Brooks were aroused. Then he gave orders for the militia to fall in, and within a few minutes the latter were in hot pursuit.

The deputies' preparations were about complete for the attack when the militia came down upon them and they were ordered by Gen. Brooks back to camp.

The deputies were not inclined to obey the order, but being assured that the governor's instructions to the general were to turn his cannon upon them if necessary to protect the miners from attack, they withdrew.

Meanwhile Gen. Brooks continued the march to Bull Hill, where he found the miners drawn up to receive him. He made them a speech in which he assured them of the protection of the militia, and asked them to submit to the service of warrants by the sheriff.

It was agreed that the sheriff and two deputies should go up the hill to-day unarmed and arrest parties for whom the former has warrants. A great number of these left yesterday for parts unknown and all others who consider themselves seriously incriminated have preparations complete for leaving. The militia are camped in Altman.

The miners have all laid down their arms and the labor trouble is considered practically at an end.

Will Hold the County Responsible.

PITTSBURG, June 9.—Within a few days suit will be entered against Allegheny county to recover damages for property destroyed by rioters along the Monongahela river by the owners of mines and coal tipples. Suits may also be entered by the National Tube works company of McKeesport, for damages. The county, it is claimed, will have to bear the loss in these cases under the special act which became celebrated after the riots of 1877. The best authorities do not seem to believe that the city of McKeesport is liable for any damages. The important case of interest would be that of the National Tube works, where a single item would be $180,000 for a group of furnaces.

Conference at Columbus To-day.

COLUMBUS, O., June 9.—A number of operators from this mining district, consisting of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and eastern Illinois are in conference to-day with the mine workers' officers. Both sides expect a settlement of the trouble in this district before night, but the report that the western Pennsylvania operators declined by a vote of 63 to 53 to be represented in the conference, and the minority operators announcement that they would not be bound by the result of the conference, had a discouraging effect.

All Quiet at McKeesport.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 9.—Order has been restored, there being little or no excitement and save that the principal thoroughfares are lined with workmen there is nothing to indicate that any trouble exists. The notices issued by the general strike committee have been placed in conspicuous places and the main body of strikers approve the advice given, and it is unlikely that there will be any further disturbances.

Situation Serious in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., June 9.—Gov. McKinley regards the situation in the coal regions in this state as very grave and he has sent more troops to Wheeling Creek, in accordance with a request of Gen. Howe, who is now there. An effort to start two coal trains at Wheeling Creek last night was unsuccessful, despite the presence of troops.

Indiana Miners May Give In.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 9.—All is quiet in the Davies and Sullivan county coal districts. Martial law will not be declared unless further trouble occurs. The miners at Cannelburg will hold a meeting to-night and it is thought that the strike there will be declared off.

New England Railroad Affairs.

BOSTON, June 9.—William G. Russell, a well known Boston lawyer, was selected as master to take evidence and make such recommendations as he thinks proper in the matter of the petition of the receivers of the New York & New England railroad for permission to issue $1,500,000 receivers' certificates.

OLD PEOPLE OF 30.

STREETS OF PLAINFIELD SHOW MANY EXAMPLES.

Aged Faces, Nervous Movements, of Young Women—The Driving Pace of Work and Pleasure—Revival of the Old Ideal of Strength and Health—Vigor that Comes from the Proper Course.

Young folks must have strength, above everything.

This good old-fashioned belief is taking firm hold.

It is no longer fashionable even for "dudes" and "swells" to be pale, thin, sickly. Among young ladies, too, the languor and nervous timidity at one time thought "interesting" has given place to desire for ruddy cheeks, strength of body, a firm, transparent skin and clear, well-opened eyes.

Young men and young women in this city are taking Paine's celery compound. Parents recommend it from long experience; physicians prescribe it where purer blood and stronger nerves are urgently needed.

Tired, weak, sickly women who look like hospital phantoms, get rid of distressing nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism and fagged out feelings by taking this marvelous blood and nerve remedy in the early summer.

Dyspeptics should now take courage. The achievements of modern medical science have placed new and wonderful resources in the hands of medicine and replaced the necessity for drugs. Paine's celery compound makes pure, sturdy blood that reaches every tiny muscle and nerve fiber in the body, and builds up strong, healthy tissues and drives out diseases from heart, liver, kidneys and stomach.

Business men, brain workers and constant in-door dwellers secure increased appetite and a more complete digestion and assimilation from this strengthener and invigorator.

Paine's celery compound means a return to sound health, a filling out of the thin body with fresh flesh, bright eyes, red, pure blood and quiet, healthy nerves to thousands of anxious, sickly men and women, who are plainly losing strength and hope every day.

Paine's celery compound cures diseases of the nerves and blood and the worst disorders of the liver, kidneys and stomach, where everything else fails. Paine's celery compound is to the sick better than a vacation in June—and both are good.

Inventors' Prize Offer Withdrawn.

ALBANY, June 9.—Some months ago the Metropolitan Traction company of New York city offered a prize of $50,000 for the inventor of the best underground electric propulsion system, to be determined by the state railroad commission, under the authority of a law passed by the last legislature. The railroad commission recently received a letter from the company withdrawing the offer of the prize, mainly on account of such a time having elapsed since the offer was made.

Dr. Meyer in Sing Sing.

SING SING, N. Y., June 9.—Dr. Henry Meyer, the life prisoner sentenced in New York yesterday, arrived at the prison at 4:30 p. m., and was received in the usual manner. His pedigree was taken and he was given a hair cut and a shave. Meyer was then taken to the state shop and given a suit of prison clothes. Afterward he was locked in cell No. 1,040. Meyer will be consigned to some industry Monday, after being examined by the prison physician.

New Insect Pest.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 9.—A new insect pest called the San Jose scale has been found infecting a peach tree in an orchard in Marlborough. The pest has been making its way eastward from California since 1870. It attacks peach and apple trees and in extreme cases covers the tender branches and in young trees the entire plant with small scales.

Cable From Germany to Africa.

BERLIN, June 9.—At a meeting of the colonial council Dr. Kayser, director of the foreign office, presiding, it was proposed to lay a direct submarine cable to the south west coast of Africa.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Rob Eaton, entered to ride today in the Plainfield two-mile handicap, won the Pingry-Battin ten-mile race on the Morris avenue course, May 19, in the good time of 29 20.

The Essex County Wheelmen will run from Newark to New Brunswick tomorrow by way of Plainfield. Those taking part will be: P. O. Cyclers, Newark Wheelmen, R. A. W., the C. C. C., Hudson County Wheelmen, Castle Point Wheelmen, and about fifty unattached riders from New York, Paterson and Elizabeth.

Since Decoration Day the Racing Board of the L. A. W. have been kept busy declaring racing men in class B. During the past week the following have been declared in class B for violation of clausee a, b, and d, class A rules: Messrs. M. F. Carter, Baltimore; Watson Coleman, Springfield; W. A. Donnell, York, Me.; G. E. Ellisthorpe, Chicago; H. A. Githens, Chicago; F. C. Graves, Springfield; James Levy, Chicago; C. M. Murphy, Brooklyn; W. C. Sanger, Milwaukee; A. Silve, Port Richmond; H. C. Tyler, Springfield; F. J. Titus, New York city; W. W. Taxis, Philadelphia; W. H. Wells, Brooklyn.

CHURCH SOCIABLES.

In the First Presbyterian Church last night a large gathering enjoyed recitations by Miss Cave, Harry Messerschmidt, tableaux, piano solo by Miss Mills, and a clothes-pin drill, the proceeds being for the Bull Frog City chapel fund.

In the Congregational Church those attending the Ladies Aid Society's entertainment enjoyed piano solos by Miss Parsons, Miss Nellie Winckler, and Miss Van Fleet; charades, "Illinois" and "Declaration of Independence"; singing by Misses Dwight, Fuller and Messerschmidt; and recitations by Miss Reid.

Grist of the City Court.

George Conover was in the City Court this morning, charged with running a stage to the track last Saturday without having a license. He pleaded guilty, and was released with sentence suspended on his promising to take out a license at once.

Patrick Bergen appeared again for trial. He was arrested Thursday for using profane language on Cottage place and making thrusts at Policeman Giese. He pleaded not guilty; City Judge Coddington sentenced him to pay a fine of $15 or go to jail for 30 days. He filed a $50 bond for appeal.

Andreas Frank was fined $5 for disturbing the quiet of Plainfield avenue and ordered to give bonds for $50 to keep the peace for six months.

Howard W. Ryder, arrested last night by Policeman McCue for riding a wheel on East Fifth street without a light, was fined $1.

Robbery.

A window was pried open at the home of Mr. Stimpson on Arlington avenue near Sixth street, last night, and $30 in cash taken from a bedroom. Nothing else was stolen. A Hebrew peddler seen loitering about there late last night and this morning is suspected, but the robbery was not reported to the police till 11 a. m., too late to apprehend him.

Seeing is Believing.

The wisdom of time has demonstrated the truth of the saying that "seeing is believing. And seeing the satisfactory results of watch and clock repairing at Collier's, 103 Park avenue, is believing that it pays to take all unserviceable articles in this line where reliable workmanship is guaranteed.

OH, HAPPY DAY!

NO BILLS TO PAY WHEN ALL IS SOCIALISTIC.

We'll All Go Shares with Millionaires, and Life Will Be a Picnic—But Note Meanwhile How, Full of Guile, They Try Collect the Money, and How They Race to Get a Place Where Fees Run Free as Honey.

Forty attended the meeting of the Socialistic Labor Party in the headquarters corner of Grant avenue and Second street last evening. The meeting was called to order at 9 by John W. James, the coming of the speaker, William Walker of Newark, having been delayed an hour. Mr. James was chosen chairman.

Chairman James referred to the following from The Press of June 4 as the matter under discussion:

Right here in Plainfield some honest-minded workingmen are being led into approving the socialism which theorists argue before them. But in all the schemes of socialism, whether in Europe or in America, from Mr. Bellamy's Nationalist plan to the straight-out plan of socialism pure and simple that is advocated abroad, the one thing that the socialists give no satisfactory explanation of is the question Who will pay the bills? If the social condition of the most of mankind is to be greatly improved, of course its improvement will cost money. E. L. Godkin contends in the June number of The Forum that this is the radical weakness of all socialistic programmes. He analyzes one plan after another, and searches in vain for a single system which will explain how the cost of social improvement is to be met.

In continuing the chairman said that the Socialist Labor agitators were not theorists. The party had been attacked in Plainfield from the pulpit and in The Press. He had asked the minister to come to a meeting and debate and he had not thought it worth while. The time would come when he would. The editor had refused to speak. He told a story of a workingman who had applied to one of North Plainfield's wealthiest men for a position as coachman and had objected to shaving to suit the style. As he finished he introduced William Walker.

Mr. Walker said that the newspapers now attacking the party would be asking favors from them six years hence. He read the editorial from The Press and explained that E. L Godkin was a cold-blooded scoundrel who ran an evening paper for Wall street brokers. The question was one of the silliest that could be asked. The bills at present were not paid by the rich, but by the working people. The American workers were slaves and socialism was all that could relieve the situation.

The Press had printed a very mild editorial. The Newark papers had been very mean in their attacks. The papers were all owned by stock companies. Probably the Plainfield papers were controlled by the richest men of the city. "If the Plainfield papers jump on you start one of your own".

The speaker continued with a talk on the purposes and accomplishments of socialism. He showed that he was well posted on the political questions of the day and the history of the world. His arguments were supported by figures and illustrated with stories of present needs and pictures of future distress. He did not attack the millionaires as some speakers in Plainfield have, but compared their incomes with the wages of workingmen and objected to a system under which such luxury and such poverty could exist among the same people. In concluding he hoped the Plainfield branch would elect the chairman when he ran for alderman.

Chairman James said he had no desire to be an alderman in Plainfield, but that he hoped to be elected sheriff of the county. Richard York asked Mr. Walker to answer the question Who will pay the bills? The lecturer talked about the national banking system and ended by asking if the Plainfield branch of the party owed any bills to anybody. Mr. York thought The Press had asked who would pay for the taking of the property of the capitalists when the Socialists assumed control. Mr. Walker explained that the railroads and the other big corporations were fast becoming bankrupt and that when they finally went under the people would take possession as a matter of course. The article in The Press told a deliberate falsehood when it intimated that there would be bills to pay.

Charles Grieb asked what would be done if the Socialists took possession immediately. Mr. Walker refused to speak on the supposition of an impossible occurrence, and said that when the time came a leader would arise to solve all such questions.

The needs of the party were explained and a collection was taken up at the end of the meeting.

INDUSTRIALS HERE AGAIN.

Fitzgerald's Army Will Tarry To-Night in Plainfield.

Fitzgerald's Army will reach this city this afternoon, on their return trip from Washington. It is the same delegation that stopped here before, but its number has dwindled down from 58 to 33. They were in New Brunswick yesterday and march from that place today, reaching here betwoen 4 and 5, it is expected. While here they will stop at Grant avenue and Second street, and hold a meeting there tonight. They will remain here over Sunday.

Mr. May, the advance agent, called at The Daily Press office today and told of the adventures of the army since they were here in the early part of May. They had a quiet trip to Washington, making many stops and holding meetings along the line. They were always entertained by some labor organization. A 12-days stop was made at Washington, where the men were encamped in a church.

SEMINARY COMMENCEMENT.

Diplomas Presented to the Graduates Who Will Have Class Day Next Week.

The Primary Department of the Plainfield Seminary held its closing exercises Friday morning, when the children, under the careful training of Mademoiselle Montanari and Miss Lewis, rendered with great taste and childish grace the programme consisting of singing by the school, a doll's drill, recitations in French and English, and a very pretty French dance with the flags of America and France.

The exercises of the graduating class took place at four o'clock p. m., in the presence of the school and a limited number of guests. The chanting of the Lord's Prayer was followed by the explanation of Miss Kenyon, the principal, that the subjects of the thesis had not been given the graduating class with the expectation that young girls could write anything new or original on such grave questions, but that they might ponder on the subjects they had studied in Moral Philosophy, and for their own sakes, put ideas into shapely form.

The themes: "The Freedom of the Will" by Miss Rose Eleanor Mix; "The Use of Evil" by Miss May Stockton Shreve; "Altruism" by Miss Beesie Evelyn Titsworth; and "Egoism" by Miss Maud Hildebrandt Middledith, showed a great deal of careful thought and, in spite of the abstruseness of the subjects, were exceedingly interesting. They were well read and the quiet dignity of the class did honor to both the instructor and instructed.

Miss Kenyon in a few well chosen words made the presentation of diplomas to the class, including beside the readers of essays, Miss Edith Hastings Tracy, whose protracted illness had prevented the preparation of her essay.

Music by Miss Mary Whiton and a song by Miss Marion Camp, added to the pleasure of the occasion.

The class-day exercises will be held Monday morning, and the reception for the graduating class Tuesday evening.

The Century Run.

The 485 riders in the century run from Newark to Philadelphia, under the auspices of the cycling clubs of Philadelphia, reached Plainfield shortly before 7 this morning. They rested at Park avenue and Fifth street until 7, and then started for Bound Brook by way of Front street. F. L. C. Martin was pace maker. With him rode Walter Manning of this city. Three women were in the party, one of them wearing a bloomer suit. A number of the riders wore peculiar costumes. One of the men had patched up half a dozen punctures already. The lagest delegation from a single club was that from the Mercer County Wheelmen who rode in the rear. Nine Philadelphia Tournament Cyclers waited an hour for delayed members. They expected to overtake the main body in Trenton during the long stop for dinner.

WORKING FOR NEGROES.

Plainfield Hears of the Success of the Calhoun School.

Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham, the two young New England women who founded and are conducting a school for colored people in Calhoun, Alabama, addressed an interested audience of women in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Church yesterday afternoon. The speakers made a very favorable impression and the interest they aroused will probably lead to an additional contribution to their fund besides the collection taken up yesterday.

Calhoun is 28 miles south of Montgomery and has a population of 2,500 colored and 100 white. The school was started by the two teachers, who left the Hampton School for that purpose in 1892. The R. P. Hallowell and Thomas Wentworth Higginson of Boston, Booker T. Washington of Tuskegee, Ala., and Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham.

There are now about 300 day scholars. A night session of the school is held for the older people. Miss Thorn described the way in which the Negroes lived and the mortgage and store system by which they were kept continually in debt. The young women are improving the people's condition by inducing them to raise food for their families instead of raising cotton alone and trading with the merchants.

The school is conducted on the same practical lines which make the Hampton School so successful. The founders started with a few hundred dollars and depend solely on the contributions of friends in the North. The plant is worth about $12,000. The expenses next year will be about $7,000. Twelve teachers will be required instead of nine, the present number.

Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham will remain in the North until the end of vacation in October. They have no series of lectures arranged but in an informal way meet and talk with people interested in the education of the Southern Negro. They have been well received wherever they have gone this season and feel much encouraged.

CARPENTER'S BAD FALL.

J. S. Lunger Severely Injured by the Weakness of a Scaffold.

J. S. Lunger, contracting carpenter of 90 Westervelt avenue, fell from a scaffold at 11 this morning and sustained internal injuries.

He was working on the house he is building for Peter Gordon on Fillmore avenue opposite the new Emmanuel Baptist Church. He sat on the third tier of scaffolding which two of his men had erected. It consisted of two overlapping lengths of plank which rested upon three wooden brackets. The carpenter was shingling the front gable from it. The middle bracket broke in the centre, from no fault in construction, however. Mr. Lunger is a heavy man and with the planks he fell through the two tiers of scaffolding beneath. This broke the fall and he would have been injured but little had not part of a bundle of shingles bounced and struck him in the abdomen.

Mr. Lunger was taken to his home in Pierson & Gale's carpenter wagon. Dr. D. C. Adams attended him. His right arm and shoulder was bruised. The extent of his abdomenal injuries could not be ascertained at the first examination.

BROWN AND BROWER.

Legal Journey of a Wagon, and Its Termination.

Last February Albert Brown advertised to sell a peddler's wagon belonging to Aaron Brower to pay for $75 worth of repairs which Brown had made. The wagon was stored in Sheriff Kyte's barn. Just before the sale was to take place, Brower went to the barn and took the wagon away. Thereupon a complaint was made, and Justice Nash held him to await the action of the Grand Jury. Brower repented and returned the wagon, and the prosecution was dropped. Brown on regaining possession of the wagon advertised anew to sell it. Yesterday afternoon was the time set, and the date was kept, notwithstanding a notice which Judge W. A. Coddington, as Brower's lawyer, served on Brown to deliver the wagon to him. Brown bought in the wagon for the amount of his claim. W. S. Angleman was Brown's lawyer, and successfully carried the matter through.

SHE WAS HIS WIDOW.

Question of Wifehood Settled by Judge McCormick.

The contest for the administration of the estate of the late William J. Lowe, hotel keeper at Scotch Plains, was settled yesterday by the decision of Judge McCormick in the Orphans Court. A brother of Lowe opposed the widow becoming the administratrix of the estate of the deceased, setting up an allegation that she was not the lawful wife of the deceased, but was the wife of one George Lucky of Morristown. Hon. Fred C. Marsh was counsel for Mrs. Lowe, and for several months testimony has been taken, among the witnesses called being Lucky.

Judge McCormick decided that the proof was not sufficient as to the marital relations between Mrs. Lowe and Lucky, and that she is the lawful widow of William J. Lowe, and therefore the administratrix of his estate.

Lacked Their Leaders.

The Bound Brook bowlers who defeated a picked team of Plainfield machinists in Bound Brook Tuesday night visited Jacob Hipp's alleys last evening. Several of the best bowlers of the machinists were absent, and the Plainfielders were easily defeated. It was decided to play a return game in Bound Brook next Friday night.

Help Yourself.

Grocer Fred W. Dunn is not to be outdone by rival firms. He has placed a placard at the entrance to his store, stating that "crackers are given away; walk in and help yourself".

Hundreds Have Used It With Success.

C. L. Seaver of Birmingham, Conn., suffered from Bright's disease and rheumatism near the heart. "My attending physician," said Mr. Seaver, "told me I could not live. I then asked him if he thought Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy would help me; he said he had heard it well spoken of and that I had better try it. The result was I am sound and well today and what's more, I have since then recommended it to upwards of 300 people and I have yet to find a person it has not helped."

It's a remedy that appeals to the common sense of people by striking at the root of the disease; life and health will not permit of trifling. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cures where a cure is possible. Physicians prescribe it and all medicine dealers sell it.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

Miss Clawson of Plainfield spent yesterday with Dunellen friends.

John Conely of Glen Gardner is visiting his brother William at Maier's Hotel.

Miss Jennie Tingley and Miss Celia Staats visited Plainfield friends yesterday.

Mrs. William Shively has returned home after a pleasant visit in Bloomsbury.

L. B. Woolston of Plainfield yesterday found Dunellen roads just the thing for wheeling.

The patriotic citizens of Dunellen are planning for a rousing Fourth of July celebration.

Miss Bessie Cornwell of Plainfield enjoyed a carriage drive through Dunellen and vicinity yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hedges and daughter of Plainfield enjoyed a carriage drive yesterday in the vicinity of Dunellen.

Rev. Mr. Kinsey will preach a sermon tomorrow morning appropriate to Children's Day. The children will take part in the services.

Visiting wheelmen have found John Tingley's place to be an ideal headquarters, and their wants are supplied as only he can do it.

The usual celebration will be held July 4, in New Market. In previous years these events have been notable, and this year's gives promise of eclipsing all former celebrations.

In the Presbyterian Church tomorrow special services will be held, in which the Sunday-school children will take part. The evening service will be in charge of the children, and an interesting programme has been arranged. The pastor will preach an appropriate sermon in the morning.

For the past fifteen years Fred Enander has had the use of the property at the corner of North and Prospect avenues, which belongs to the Jersey Central Railroad Company, and has cultivated the ground each year. It is now in excellent condition and is very productive. Mr. Enander is now very carefully looking after a large crop of potatoes, which promises to be of the finest.

The funeral services of the late Jacob R. Titsworth were held yesterday afternoon at 2, from the Seventh-Day Baptist Church in New Market. Rev. Mr. Peterson, pastor, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the New Market Baptist Church. Each spoke very highly of decedent, who was so well known, and the words uttered bespoke for the very large number present, what each would say. The pall-bearers were H. V. Dunham, J. Y. Wilson, C. E. Rogers, A. Burdick, L.C. Dunn and Mr. Satterley. Interment was made in the Seventh-Day Baptist Cemetery.

A very large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral services of the late Jeremiah Dunham, held at the Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon at 2:30. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Martine, officiated, and was assisted by Rev. Mr. Skellinger, formerly a pastor of the church and a personal friend of Mr. Dunham. The service was an impressive one, and the comforting thoughts given by both divines were evidence of the regard and esteem in which Mr. Dunham was held by his fellow citizens and workmen. Several members of the Brotherhood of Engineers were present, and pallbearers were chosen from them as follows, namely: Pony McClaren, Horace Allen, George Jackson, and H. J. Beck. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield.

Westfield.

The children of Westfield are looking forward with much pleasure to Children's Day when it will be observed in most all the churches here tomorrow. They will meet in their respective Sunday-schools, sing songs of praise and listen to bright addresses. At the Presbyterian Church, Nev. N. W. Cadwell, the pastor will preach an appropriate sermon in the morning. A number of infants will be baptised at this service. At four o'clock in the afternoon the usual anniversary exercises will take place. An interesting programme has been prepared and will be given by the Primary Class. The address of the day will be given by Dr. Rice.

The Children's Day exercises at the Baptist Church will take place on Sunday afternoon, June 17, and Rev. W. E. Staub of the Baptist Church of Elizabeth will deliver the address.

At the Congregational Church both services will be devoted to the children. At the morning service the Sunday-school will attend in a body, and baptismal services will take place after which Bibles will be presented to children over eight years old who ar baptized. Rev. E. H. Patton, the pastor, will preach on "Hiding your light under a bushel". At the evening service will be held the anniversary of the Sunday-school and a Children's Day festival combined. Dr. R. R. Doherty will deliver the address at this service.

At the Methodist Episcopal Church the exercises will be very interesting. In the morning a large junior choir will render appropriate music and Dr. R. R. Doherty will preach on "The Teachers Ideal", after which infants will be baptized. The afternoon exercises will be at 4 and an important feature will be the music. The choir will render several selections under the leadership of J. S. Burhans and a male quartette will also sing. Miss Georgina Walsh of New York will give a violin solo. Songs and recitations will be given by the little folks and Dr. C. S. Ryman the presiding Elder of the district will make a short address.

A meeting of the Centennial Association was held last evening at 8 in the town rooms, and in the absence of President C. N. Codding, Vice-president Charles G. Endicott presided. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by Secretary Edgar R. Pearsall, the different committees made their reports as follows: Finance Committee, $525 subscribed up to date; Committee on Games, progress; Committee on Literary Exercises, progress; Committee on Special Police Protection, progress; Committee on Historical Publication, no report; Committee on Programme and Advertising, progress; Committee on Music, progress; Committee on Fountain, progress. An appropriation of $200 was given to the Music Committee to furnish the music. A communication from Miss E. L. Starr, stating that it would be impossible for the W. C. T. U. to act as the Committee on Refreshments and recommending that a committee of men be appointed to secure a committee of ladies from the different churches as that committee, was received and accepted. The communication was ordered sent to President C. N. Codding, and a notice requesting him to appoint a committee of gentlemen immediately to secure the ladies on the refreshment committee. Much discussion was made on the subject as to the time the services of the bands were needed, and the Music Committee were instructed to confer with the Parade Committee as to the time of service of the bands. The Committee on Parade reported having sent invitations to several military organizations, all fire companies and organizations in town to participate in the parade on the morning of July 4 at 10, and all Sunday-schools in town for a children's parade July 3 at 4. There was some objection made by the firemen in town as to the time of the parade on July 4, they claiming it would be impossible to have visiting companies here on time, andd as there were no exercises to be held in the afternoon, they requested to have the parade in the afternoon. A vote was taken on a resolution offered that the portion of the report of the Committee on Parade given at a previous meeting, designating the hour which was 10 on the morning of July 4 for the parade to move, be adopted as final, was carried. The Chairman of each sub-committee, consisting of A. F. Grant, J. B. Green, J. H. Vail, J. M. C. Marsh, C. P. Wilcox, Dr. Cooper and Irving I. Rose, representing the Fire Department, were appointed with power to arrange the hour for the different exercises to take place. The Finance Committee suggested that all subscribers to the Centennial Celebration Fund, pay their subcriptions as fast as possible. Amounts may be handed to the members of the Finance Committee who solicited their subscriptions, or to B. J. Crosley, Treasurer of the Centennial Association. The meeting then adjourned to meet next Friday evening at the same place.

Fanwood.

The Fanwood passenger station is being improved. The company's carpenter commenced this morning tearing out the interior, and will refit the building entire.

Mrs. William E. Gibbs is arranging a "cake sale" to be held at her residence next week for the purpose of raising money to dress up the rooms to be occupied by the public librrry in the post-office building.

Proprietor Lisor of the Scotch Plains hotel drives to the station behind a beautiful bay horse which is the centre of attraction. When a train passes the animal goes through a remarkable series of evolutions which would be the envy of many a professional waltzer.

It is rumored that the pet rabbit owned by Frank B. Anderson and which disappeared recently, was returned to its owner postmarked and stamped.

The homestead is finished and the Misses Boutcher are entertaining a full complement of guests.

Mrs. Thomas Shelley has resigned as a tenant of Mrs. Julia Wallace, and is moving to this city; and so the depopulation of Fanwood continues. Mr. Shelley is sojourning at Elizabeth.

Wm. Adams and George Shay are reported to be on a western tour.

Business in the criminal department of the justice's court is exceedingly slack.

LITERARY PIONEERS.

Plainfield's Oldest Good-Reading Club Enjoys a Reception.

The members of the Tuesday Morning Club of which Mrs. Horace Kimball is president were delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Israel C Pierson at her home on Watchung avenue. The organization is the oldest literary club in Plainfield. It has a membership of thirty.

Refreshments were served on the spacious piazza, which was enclosed by Japanese screens, by Mrs. McKenzie, Miss Pierson, Mrs. H. E. Bowen, Miss Halloway and Miss Gilbert.

Among those present were: Mrs. Kimball, Miss Everett, Mrs. Frank Wood, Mrs. Nolan, Mrs. Halloway, Mrs. Walz, Mrs. Newhall, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Tomlinson, Mrs. Jaynes, Mrs. Howland, Mrs. Aaron M. Powell, Mrs. H. E. Bowen, Miss Havilland, Mrs. West, Miss Brown, Miss Edgar, Mrs. Baker, Miss Cowdry and Miss Tomlinson.

That Settles It.

The place at Garwood known as the "Wheelman's Rest" will soon be a resort of the past. The Sheriff has sold the property to C. A. Smith of Westfield. Mr. Huber, who was proprietor of the place, is under bonds on several charges of selling liquor without a license. He will go out of business.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

RUNAWAY AND SMASHUP.

Bad Results of an Early Morning Mountain Drive.

Samuel Terry and Howard Woolston started over the mountain yesterday morning in L. B. Woolston's new carriage. On reaching the hill they jumped to the road and began to walk up, leading the horse.

The horse turned suddenly, broke loose and ran away down the hill. As he turned one of the front wheels was wrecked. George Stewart made an unsuccessful attempt to stop the runaway, and George Demler, Jr., and his little children narrowly escaped being run over. The horse then turned again and upset the carriage, breaking the lamps and tearing the curtains. W. F. Spencer caught the horse near his residence.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. CHILDREN'S DAY.

Services and Floral Decorations at the Churches.

Children's day, like Christmas, is a good thing for the children, but a great thing for grown people, because it makes them feel young again and fills them with the blessings that always come to those who identify themselves with their little ones, become one with them in spirit and spend a day in making them happy.

The habit of setting apart one Sunday in the year for children and devoting all its exercises to them has become so extended that it is almost universal. The churches are seldom so crowded as at this time, and probably at no religious service in the whole year are there present so many people who at other times never enter a church. Then the preaching is usually of a sort that touches every heart, because it is done by the children themselves and the flowers by which they are surrounded.

How Charles Dickens would have helped celebrate such a day! How he loved children! His daughter says: "We can see by the different child characters in his books what a wonderful knowledge he had of childhood, and what a wonderful and truly womanly sympathy he had with them in all their childish joys and griefs."

The great writer himself said, "It is good to be children sometimes," and again—one of the most beautiful things ever written about children—"I love these little people, and it is not a slight thing when they, who are so fresh from God, love us." From these words it can be imagined that he would have been among the heartiest supporters of Children's day.

Floral decorations are among the most important accessories of Children's day. They are placed everywhere—on walls, altar, windows and pulpit—and can be procured in great profusion because this celebration occurs in June. A style of decoration which has not been much used, perhaps not at all, consists in making the aisle along which the procession of Sunday school children will pass to take their places in the front seats of the church a floral bower by means of flower twined arches spanning the aisle. The arches may rise about eight feet above the floor and will terminate at the pew ends, to which they are fastened. They are wreathed in smilax and flowers, and perhaps from the center of each arch a bird in a cage, or a white plaster angel swinging lightly on its elastic cord, will depend.

All publishers of Sunday school music issue special Children's day services each year, the pamphlets containing many beautiful and appropriate songs and recitations and always some not so appropriate Scripture readings. These may be supplemented by any suitable recitations of poetry by well known writers, which poems will probably have more literary merit than the verses written for the manual. Among these are "The Gladness of Nature," by Bryant; "The Praise Meeting of the Flowers," by an unknown writer, in "Flower Songs For Flower Lovers;" "The Nearest Friend," by F. W. Faber; "Children" and "Flowers," by Longfellow; "A Child's Thought of God," by Mrs. Browning, and "Field Preaching," by Phœbe Cary.

"TO THE LEAST OF THESE."

A Touching Incident of Children's Day Exercises.

One beautiful Sunday in June the children of a wealthy city church were passing in procession around from the Sunday school rooms through the lobbies and so into the church, where crowds were assembled for the Children's day observances. A ragged little girl heard the big organ as she passed along, and when her sharp black eyes caught sight of the little ones walking two by two in their white dresses she crept in to be nearer. No one spoke to her. She was amazed and had a vague thought that it must be heaven.

Each child carried on her arm a crush basket full of lovely white flowers. The older members of the school would bring bright colored ones. These infant class tots were all in white, with their baskets full of the blossoms whose color matched their pure young souls. The guiding teachers had stepped in just before the last few pairs.

"Gimme a flower," said the street child, pointing to those on the arm of the last little girl. She had noticed the stranger with a sweet smile.

Impulsively she took the ribbon tied basket off and held it out to the little girl, who clutched it, with a cry of delight, and buried her dirty face in it. It was all done in an instant, and then the last little girl, realizing what she had done in her generous haste, followed the rest without any flowers to strew at the foot of a floral cross that was to stand when finished in a bed of white blossoms. No one noticed the lack except the child's mother, who had slung the white ribbons carefully over her darling's arm when dressing her that morning. But to the timid little one it seemed as if the eyes of the whole church were upon her and as if all who saw her would think: "There is one who has no flowers to lay at the foot of the cross. She must have been careless and forgotten or lost them." She was glad when the exercises were over and she could tell her mother how it happened.

"Never mind, my darling. You gave them to God just as much as if you had brought them into the church," said the mother. "Perhaps the little girl needed them more than any one else in this big city just now. Who knows?"

* * * * * *

In a few weeks the light had gone out of the house where the sweet child lived, because she had left it forever. While her desolate mother sat alone one day there came a message from a poor woman, and as the poor were the only visitors she would not turn away in those dark days she went down stairs.

A woman, with a face whose only redeeming feature was its big blue eyes, so marred had it been by evil, was waiting.

"We see th' crape on th' door th' other day. Was it yer only one, missus?" she asked, coming to the point at once.

"My only one," replied the mother, her eyes filling with the tears that were always ready to rise.

"Ah, I'm that sorry!" exclaimed the woman, throwing up her arms. "It must be the same, thin, as give th' flowers to my gurl Katy."

She brought from beneath her shawl a soiled crush basket filled with faded flowers, the white ribbons draggled and dirty.

"Here it is, mum. It's the very same yer little one give my Katy on Childern's day in the church, fer my Katy follered her home ter see where she lived. An th' other day she tould me some one was dead here, so I come to see, thinkin yer might like this basket, 'cause it was th' one she carried. But I want ter ask if ye'll let me kape th' ribbon as was inside. We found it when we was waterin th' flowers."

She produced a white band, forgotten by the mother, but on which to please her child she had printed in gold letters and tucked in with the flowers where it would not be seen, because it was a touch that the other children's baskets did not have. On it were the words, "An offering to God."

"It done me good," said the woman vehemently. "I ain't goin ter drink ner hurt my Katy any more, an I've begun to kape things a bit tidier an mebbe git time to go out washin. It's bin a-starin at me from th' glass where Katy pinned it, an I couldn't help doin diff'rent. An when she telled me 'bout there bein some trouble here I had ter come. I knowed if 'twas her yer'd like the basket, 'cause 'twould put yer in mind o' the good she done."

For answer the weeping mother held out the bit of ribbon, which the woman took in her sodden fingers.

"God bless yer, ma'am," she exclaimed with difficulty, "though I says it that shouldn't."

Then she stole softly out, leaving the mourning mother holding the precious basket closely in her arms, as if it would comfort her. And so indeed it did.

COMMERCIAL PALACE
TONIGHT.

All of the great Special Bargains during the three days special sale will be on sale up to 10 o'clock, and hundreds more not mentioned.

You can just revel in bargains all through our immense store.

Guess everybody has about decided that we are "LEADERS" in the State in low prices, fine goods and the greatest variety.

A visitor from Newark said yesterday in our store that our prices were lower than the biggest houses there.

Competition don't seem to be "in it" at all.

Our big basement grows in popularity every day. New attractions are being added constantly. It is the marvel of the town.

People don't know what to make of the unheard-of low prices.

Everything guaranteed to be first quality, no "seconds" in anything. Come in tonight and we will prove all we advertise and more too.

EDSALL'S
BABCOCK BUILDING.

These are Times When Live Buyers are Looking for Bargains.

We buy our goods direct from the manufacturers in large quantities for cash. This is one of the many reasons why we can undersell our competitors on the same grade of goods. Among the many bargains we have only the space to mention a few—for instance: A Man's B Calf Balmoral, a nice stylish dress shoe for $1.15; a Man's Top Sole Y Calf Working Shoe $1.15; Women's Dongola patent tip, Blu Balmorals $1.15; also the same in button; these goods are sold in most shoe stores for $1.50. A Woman's Genuine Tan Goat Oxford for 74c. The same in black Dongola with Patent tip. Trunks and Bags at New York prices at

ANNAPOLIS GRADUATES

Forty-Seven New Officers for Uncle Sam's Defense.

An Interesting Event at the Old Academy—Secretary Herbert Delivers the Diplomas and is Given Three Hearty Cheers—Names of the Six Honorary Men.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 9.—The centrifugal force of graduation at the Naval Academy has just sent forth 47 young naval officers to every sea to continue their professional education and to represent American ideas to every nation—for whilst their coveted coats and dress uniforms awaited them in their quarters, their orders, with the ink scarcely dry from the pen of Secretary Herbert, lay in the superintendent's office, ready at the moment their diplomas were given them, to scatter them in the waters of every clime.

Interest in the navy has revived. No better proof has been given of it than this week at Annapolis. Never has such a number of visitors been here to witness the graduation exercises, and yesterday exceeded all preceding days in crush and crowd, and what was never known before, those who wanted to hear the address to the graduates could not find room in the chapel.

Marines in their gay uniforms and Roman helmets, officers in the gold and blue of full dress with cocked hat and feathers the excited young girls and stately madames, the hurrying concourse to the chapel, and then the distant blast of martial music that told the battalion had left the armory on its way to begin the end.

Whilst this march was in progress the space allotted to visitors was already filled in the chapel. Presently the rattle of accoutrements told that the battalion was here, and down the aisles the soldiers came, their colors flying and flaunting at the very foot of the chancel itself, graduates in front and centre.

Secretary Herbert, the board of visitors, Supt. Phythian and other naval officers, next entered and were seated on the platform.

Supt. Phythian introduced Gen. Lew Wallace, the orator of the day, who in the course of his address said:

"I am a representative of the army in two wars—I am loyal to it, but the day of the army is past. There is no frontier; no Indian. The army is to decrease in power and influence and the navy to increase in popular favor and importance. I wish with all my heart that I were young again and a cadet in the navy, for the work is transferred from the army to the navy; the guns are already cast that will win you renown."

Long and loud was the applause at the end, for the speech was a telling one.

The battalion and spectators left the chapel, and there was a rush for the band stand, where the diplomas were to be delivered.

The board of visitors took a position in front of the grand stand, Secretary Herbert in front. A basket of diplomas lay at his feet, six decked with ribbons of red, white and blue, for the stars of the class, and 41 in navy blue alone.

The battalion massing itself into four lines deep, with the graduates in front, marched up to the board of visitors. As they came the band stirred their steps and blood with "Ain't I glad to get out of the wilderness."

Secretary Herbert then delivered the diplomas, the six honor men first in order. They are:

1. William P. Roberts, Mississippi.
2. Daniel H. Cox, New York.
3. Irvin V. G. Gillis, New York.
4. Thomas S. Roberts, Alabama.
5. David E. Sellers, New Mexico.
6. Lawrence S. Adams, Pennsylvania.

After the last parchment was delivered Cadet Lieutenant Roberts stepped up and said:

"I propose three cheers for the secretary of the navy."

These and other cheers were given.

It was all over. The graduates received the plaudits of their friends or scampered off to quarters for their coats, the first they have been allowed to wear since they put on navy jackets four years ago.

Last night a grand ball was given in the armory to which 3,300 invitations had been issued.

Declines Their Proposed Banquet.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Postmaster Dayton has wrote to the committee of postoffice employes appointed to arrange for a banquet to the postmaster, that he felt constrained to decline the honor. He gave as reasons that the expense of such an affair would fall heavily upon the men, and that it is prohibited by law.—Postmaster Dayton suggests that the money subscribed for the banquet ($2,000) be paid to the treasurer of the Postal Employes Mutual Aid association. If they are willing to do this, Mr. Dayton states that he will add $500, thus forming a nucleus for the $5,000 necessary for the commencement of business under the proposed incorporation.

To Redistrict Church Territory.

NEW YORK, June 9.—It has been definitely settled by representatives of the state of New York to redistrict the territory of the state, so that three new dioceses shall be created. The committee having the subject under consideration determined to relieve the burdens of the bishops of New York, Albany and western New York, by making one diocese out of the counties included in the jurisdictions of New York and Albany, and the other out of the counties in the diocese of western New York.

Objects to Mr. Waller's Concessions.

LONDON, June 9.—Advices from Antanarivo under date of May 31, say that a French resident there has entered a formal protest against the concession recently secured by John L. Waller, ex-United States consul at Tematave, declaring that France will refuse to recognize any concessions made to foreigners without her permission. The concession granted to Mr. Waller last March covers an area of 225 square miles to the rubber district on the south coast of Madagascar.

Connecticut Iron Hall Affairs.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 9.—Attorney E. L. Scofield, of Stamford, has been discharged as receiver of the Connecticut branch of the order of Iron Hall, his report having been accepted. The receiver was allowed a fee of $2,500. There is $8,410 in the treasury and it is estimated that the 700 Connecticut members will receive about 50 per cent. of the amount paid in.

BUSINESS STILL DULL

Present Week Notes Little If Any Improvement.

The Few Exceptions Practically of Local Importance—Nearly 300,000 Industrial Workers Idle on Account Strikes and Scarcity of Coal—Few Business Failures.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Nearly all the unfavorable business conditions of the past three weeks continue to exercise an influence. The few exceptions where improvement is noted are of practically local importance. Retail trade at many centres has been interfered with by the unfavorable weather and by further restriction of the purchasing power of thousands of wage-earners, by further industrial trouble or by shrinkage in production. Mob violence, with attacks on life and property, have been the feature of the situation, necessitating interference by state troops in many localities. Production of soft coal has shown a slight increase through the return of some miners and the failure of the coal strike in Alabama and southern Tennessee. The offer of the striking miners' committee to discuss a settlement on basis of mining districts is a sign of weakness, as they waive the "national settlement."

Telegraphic advices to Bradstreet's show that in addition to the 175,000 miners on strike, 88,000 industrial workers have been rendered idle within a week by scarcity of coal. These and 35,000 idle through strikes in other lines make a total of nearly 300,000 industrial workers idle on account of strikes.

Bank clearings show an increase of 27 per cent., the week's total being $904,000,000, but a decrease of 22 per cent. compared with the week last year.

Business failures do not increase materially in number or importance, the total being 207, compared with 183 last week, 293 in the week of a year ago (when the commercial and financial disturbance was beginning to make itself felt), and 163 in the week two years ago.

The seesaw of prices tips in the opposite direction this week, most strikingly in cereals, oats having advanced 5 1-2c., wheat 3 5-8c. and corn 1 7 8.; potatoes are 20c. higher a bushel at the west; bar iron and pig iron are up sharply at St. Louis, and live stock at Kansas City. Lard is fractionally higher. Conspicuous decreases in prices of staples reported are in leather and wool, due to heavy receipts of new crop.

Business at Eastern Centres.

At larger eastern centres there is no improvement in general business. New England cotton mills continue to produce in excess of demands. Southern Rhode Island woolen mills are shutting down for want of fuel as well as orders. Shipments of shoes from leading distributing points (except Chicago), notably Boston, Philadelphia and St. Louis, are reported heavier, in some instances equal to those a year ago. Building operations continue checked at many points, which is reflected in dullness in paints, glass and structural iron. Philadelphia jobbers in dry goods report a better spot demand, and the petroleum market there is more active, but Baltimore jobbers in clothing, as well as in some other lines, have not sent out drummers as formerly.

During ten months of the present fiscal year, as officially reported, the total foreign trade of the United States fell away 8 per cent. compared with a like portion of the preceding year. The decrease in free imports was 14 per cent. and in dutiable imports 35 per cent., while the increase in value of exports was 7.6 per cent.

Railroad stock quotations advanced on the defeat of the state bank circulation tax repeal and the adoption of the amended sugar schedule by the senate. The movement was manipulative and directed against short sellers, neither the public nor London showing any real disposition to buy securities, in spite of the more favorable sentiment in regard to the speedy action on the tariff. American sugar made a moderate advance, but receded on apprehensions that the house will not concur with the senate on the modified sugar duties.

Probably a Murder Case.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 9.—The body of Clara Curtis, the inmate of a road house who died under suspicious circumstances on Saturday evening last and was buried in Diamond Hill cemetery, was exhumed by order of Medical Examiner Garvin, and the postmortem revealed the startling fact that the woman had been shot, the bullet having penetrated the woman's stomach. The intestines were also found to have been punctured by a sharp instrument, and this wound was also sufficient to cause death. Warrants for the arrest of the suspected men, who have fled the town, will be issued.

LOSS OF POWER

and Manly Vigor, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, or Palsy, Organic Weakness and wasting Drains upon the system, resulting in dullness of mental Faculties, Impaired Memory, Low Spirits, Morose or Irritable Temper, fear of impending calamity, and a thousand and one derangements of both body and mind result from pernicious secret practices, often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. To reach, re-claim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen who have prepared a book, written in plain but chaste language, treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. The World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., will, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents (in stamps for postage) mail, sealed in plain envelope, a copy of this useful book. It should be read by every young man, parent and guardian in the land.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C KINNEY.

GOV. WAITE WAS MAD

Cripple Creek May Have Martial Law.

Armed Deputies Must Be Removed or Disbanded—All Prisoners Taken By the Deputies Turned Over to Gen. Brooks—Mine Troubles in Sections of the Country in an Unsettled Condition—Trouble Feared in West Virginia—B. & O. Engine Stoned—Strikers Capture a Railroad Bridge and Burn It—Killed By Deputies.

DENVER, Col., June 11.—Gov. Waite was up early yesterday morning and very mad that the deputies in Cripple Creek should continue to act in such a manner as to provoke a row.

"This thing must be brought to a head pretty soon," he declared. At 10 o'clock he received a telephone message from Gen. Brooks, who said:

"The sheriff telephones me that I misunderstood him. He did not state that he could not control them, but that the condition of affairs might arise when he could not. I did not so understand him, but I am willing to give him the benefit of the doubt. His future conduct must decide my course. I go to the Independence mine this morning as soon as I can leave to meet Commissioner Boynton and the sheriff and will advise you of the result. There was desultory firing between a detachment of deputies and some miners this morning between the Legal Tender and the Victor mines. I ordered a company of infantry out, but the firing soon ceased. It was at long range. If the mine owners do not take action to make the compromise effective the national guards will have to stay here all summer and a collision can hardly be avoided."

To this, Gov. Waite replied: "Report from Altman or Victor as soon as possible the result of the interview. Let Brooks and Tarsney advise together and give me their opinion of the necessity of declaring martial law. Command the sheriff to move his deputies to Cripple Creek, their position before he violated the agreement."

At 4 o'clock Gen. Tarsney reported to the governor that the negotiations were then in progress to have the deputies withdrawn or disbanded. He said the mine owners only wanted to be assured that they could work their mines on the agreement. If these terms can be made, which Tarsney thought certain there would be in his opinion no necessity for a more stringent military intervention. All the prisoners taken by the deputies were turned over to Gen. Brooks.

Gov. Waite readily consented to all this but added:

"The armed deputies must be removed or disbanded. Do not slacken your vigilance one particle."

In regard to the shooting of the morning Gen. Tarsney stated to the governor that it was due to the carelessness of the deputies. They had advanced up the canon and a lot of miners had mistaken them for an armed body strengthening their position and had fired upon them. No casualties had resulted.

SITUATION AT PANA.

PANA, Ill., June 11.—The mining situation still remains in an unsettled condition. Mounted patrols are placed around the city and a number of guards are stationed at each coal shaft.

A company of strikers numbering about 200 are camped on Sibley farm about two miles west of the city, and it is reliably stated that they are being furnished arms and food by sympathizers in this city. Several of the guards report local strikers trying to get out of the city during the night with arms for the invaders.

About 500 members of the first regiment of Chicago, with a gatling gun, arrived here on a special train in the morning and were followed by companies from Clinton and Bloomington and they are all in camp at the baseball park. Crowds of strikers are located in the timber and near the railroad bridges all around the city. It is variously estimated that there is from 1,500 to 4,000 foreign strikers in close proximity to the city and they can be massed on short notice. The local miners vow they will not enter the mines while the militia remains in the city. So no attempt will be made to operate the shafts to-day. A meeting of the miners will be held to-day, but what the result will be no one seems to know. Coming in pairs, fours and sixes, about 200 invaders have entered the city and are quietly working with the local miners who remain at work. Unfounded reports are that strikers from several outside districts will reach here to-morrow and that the miners must cease work here either peaceably or by force. The saloons will remain closed until further notice, and the streets are kept clear of loafers.

Scouts just come in report a company of strikers, numbering about 200 in camp, about two miles east of town and about the same number just south of the fair grounds.

Bridge Burned By Strikers.

MASSILLON, O., June 11.—In spite of efforts to burn bridges and destroy trains, the Cleveland, Lorraine & Wheeling railroad is still transacting business and the coal blockade is broken. The military have control of the southern division and anxiety now is for the territory between Massillon and Uhrichsville. Between Uarichsville and Midvale, 800 miners captured two bridge watchmen and burned the structure, blocking the road four hours.

B. & O. Engine Stoned.

BELLAIRE, O., June 11.—There was nothing exciting in the strike situation on this side of the Ohio river yesterday. The soldiers in camp at McClainesville were treated to a serenade by a large number of miners headed by a brass band. Last night a Baltimore & Ohio engine, hauling the commissary train was stoned by strikers right in the camp of the soldiers. The engineer and fireman were hit, but not seriously injured.

Scale Committee Could Not Agree.

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—At midnight Saturday night the scale committee appointed by the conference of miners and operators of this district adjourned to 9 a. m. to-day, not having succeeded in agreeing upon a report. Shortly before this action was taken the miners in the committee asked to be permitted to retire for consultation. A few minutes after they had joined the committee again, the adjournment was announced. The committee met in secret, but from a reliable source it is learned that after all other obstacles to an agreement were removed, A. A. Adams, president of the Ohio Miners' association, could not be induced to agree to the compromise on the 60 and 69 cents per ton basis.

Train Wreckers Frustrated.

ZANESVILLE, O., June 11.—Two attempts were made last evening to wreck Baltimore & Ohio trains by placing obstructions on the track at Deep Cut, four miles east of this city. Both were discovered before any trains were derailed. Section men were ordered out last night and every mile of track from here to Bellaire is patrolled. The water station at Gibsons, east of this city, was burned by striking miners last night.

Refused Soldiers Supplies.

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—Col. J. L. Rodgers, with the commissary sergeants of state troops now on duty in the mining region in the eastern part of the state, arrived here last night to purchase subsistence. The storekeepers in the mining region refuses to sell supplies to the soldiers. Col. Rodgers left at once with several car loads of provisions, saying some of the troops were actually suffering for something to eat.

Threatening in West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 11.—The strike situation looks more threatening than ever. Fully 3,500 Ohio and West Virginia troops are encamped in this vicinity and shots have been frequently heard below the city and out about the Wheeling Creek works in Ohio. So far as can be learned nothing serious has occurred, although there may be an outbreak at any time. Gravest fears are felt in this city over the situation.

Denounced Gov. McKinley.

MASSILLON, O., June 11.—Sheriff Doll is here swearing in deputies. A large number of miners met at Milport last night and were eager to stop the movement of non-union coal. Safer counsel prevailed and they resolved to petition the railroad operatives to cease handling West Virginia coal. They also denounced Gov. McKinley for having called out the militia.

Killed By Deputies.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 11.—A battle between seven armed deputies and a mob of 300 strikers occurred yesterday at the Lemont No. 3 works, of the McClure Coke company. One striker, a Slav, was killed instantly and two other Slav strikers were fatally wounded. The deputies were surrounded and fired upon by the strikers before they shot.

Quiet at Punxsutawney.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 11.—Sunday in this district passed off without any exciting incidents. The guarded mines were visited by thousands of persons, some coming great distances, while the miners from the hill facing the mine watched the carpenters at work on the barracks, the work being continued throughout the day.

To Protect Glass Manufacturers.

MILLVILLE, N. J., June 11.—Word has been received in this city from the national officers of the American Flint Glass Workers' union that the flint blowers throughout the country had voted in favor of working during the summer months. For many years past the factories have shut down during July and August, but now they can keep open the entire year, provided that the blowers get two months' vacation between June and October. This move was taken to protect union manufacturers from the non-union factories, which have lately been operating during a portion of the summer. It is one of the most important changes in the glass business for years.

May Be a Tied Up.

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 11.—There may be a general tie-up of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad at any time. Within the past few weeks many trainmen have been called into the offices and inquiry made if they belonged to the American Railway union. If they answered affirmatively, they were told that the company had no further use for their services. When asked if there were other reasons for their discharge, the officials said their work was satisfactory. The Wheeling & Lake Erie employes are leaving the federation in large numbers and are joining the railway union for self protection. They will strike against further discharge.

Preparing for Cholera.

BERLIN, June 11.—Prof. Dr. Koch has gone to Danzig to confer with the local health officials concerning the cholera epidemic. All the public bathing places in Danzig have been closed and three steamers have been made ready to patrol the harbor. The sanitary stations are already in order for the epidemic. There were 55 fresh cases of cholera and 29 deaths in Russian Poland last week.

Emin Pasha's Affairs.

BERLIN, June 11.—Emin Pasha's affairs are fast becoming entangled beyond hope of extrication. The guardians of his little daughter, Ferida, and Emin's first wife, Emilie Leidschatt, have not reached an understanding, and the widow is about to move in a Prussian court to set aside Emin's formal adoption of Ferida, for the reason that it is void before the Prussian law.

Italy's Cabinet Crisis.

ROME, June 11.—Crispi has failed as yet to find any satisfactory means of settling the present crisis. Admiral Brin, formerly minister of foreign affairs, has been summoned home.

Local Weather Forecast.

Generally fair; slightly warmer; southwesterly winds.

A LION TAMER'S PERIL

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., June 11.—Mlle. Beatrice, a lion tamer at the London Zoo, which is giving a wild animal show on the old iron Pier at West Brighton, had a narrow escape from being mangled to death last night by a lion. It was just 10 o'clock and the enclosure on the pier where the animals are on exhibition was crowded with people. The last performance of the day was being given and Beatrice appeared in the hall, climbed up the ladder leading to the wild lions' cage, and entered. There are two big Asiatic lions in the cage, a male and female. Bella is the female's name and Brutus the male's. The latter is a great pet of the lion tamer and she plays with him for 15 minutes at every performance. Her act with the wild beast is closed by opening his mouth and kissing him. She always succeeded in kissing the brute until last night. While she was making her bold attempt to smack the lips of Brutus last night the man who feeds the lions made his appearance near the cage with a box of raw beef. Brutus caught sight of the beef and in a moment he unfastened Beatrice's hold upon him and sprang upon her. Both had a lively tussle which finally resulted in the lion tamer's falling to the floor and the lion's grabbing the left side of her face in his mouth. The women and children in the audience screamed and the men rushed around the hall looking for clubs and sticks with which to beat the lion away from the woman. In a few moments Manager Farrare and Trainers Bronce and Ortway rushed in with pitchforks. After plunging the forks several times in the head and body of the lion they managed to make him loosen his hold and got the girl out of the cage. She was unconscious and blood was pouring from her face as she was carried into the office. Dr. Hill was summoned and the woman was put to bed. When the doctor arrived the woman was delirious and opiates had to be given to quiet her. Upon examination Dr. Hill found that the lion had succeeded in sticking three of his big teeth through the woman's left jaw. Other parts of her face were also chewed. It took some time for the surgeon to stop the flow of blood. Dr. Hill said last night that it was the worst case of animal bite he ever saw. The woman was delirious at midnight and Dr. Hill says she is in a precarious condition.

Mlle. Beatrice is 20 years old. Her father was a lion tamer and she went into the business when 13 years old. She came from London with the show three weeks ago.

"Last Sunday" at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 11.—Yesterday was what is known in West Point circles as "Last Sunday" and this fact had the effect of attracting a large crowd, the largest Sunday evening crowd that has been present at dress parade this year. Rev. Mr. Vail, of Stamford, Conn., preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class in the chapel in the morning.

Mexican Robber Killed.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 11.—William H. Whitney and wife, both aged Americans, living at Maltrata, state of Vera Cruz, were attacked by three robbers, one of whom was killed by Mrs. Whitney. The attempt to rob the Whitneys was probably due to reports that they kept large sums of money in the house.

Nail Works Burned.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 11.—The Ellis & Lessig Nail works were burned here yesterday entailing a loss of about $100,000. The puddling mill and stock houses were saved by the fireman. The firm employed about 500 hands. The loss is partly covby insurance.

Mrs. Lease for Congress.

TOPEKA, Kas., June 11.—It is announced here that Mrs. Mary Lease will be nominated by the prohibitionists for congress-at-large from Kansas. It is also expected that this nomination will be indorsed by the populists.

WORK FOR THE SENATE

Tariff Schedules That Will Cause Much Debate.

Appropriation Bills Giving Democratic Leaders Uneasiness—Resolutions May Be Passed Extending the Terms of the Present Bills—House Forecast.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The fourth draft of the pending tariff bill which was laid before the senate for consideration the 2d of last April names the 30th of June as the time when the law shall go into effect. That day ends the fiscal year, and throughout all the prolonged debate which have since occupied the senate, Mr. Jones and Mr. Harris have contended they would begin collecting duties under the new law with the beginning of the new year. The present condition of things hardly supports their belief. There are several very important schedules yet to be considered, to say nothing of matters that have been left open pending final action when the bill comes out of the committee stage and goes into the senate.

The spirit schedule will probably be completed to-day and the debate on the cotton schedule will then begin. The wool schedule, and the putting of raw wool on the free list—questions which will follow—are bound to call out protracted debate. Prolific subjects of discussion will also be found in the rates fixed on silk, papers, and in the sundries schedule, where coal will be found. Pearl buttons and gloves will be made the basis of considerable talk and the free list can hardly be disposed of in a day. Three great items in the free list, agricultural implements, lumber and raw wool, will be stubbornly fought for the purpose of making a record, but without hope of changing the result.

When the bill has been finally considered in the committee of the whole and reported to the senate, the struggle over sugar will be renewed. Meanwhile the condition of appropriation bills is giving the democratic leaders uneasiness and if they do not get through by June 30 joint resolutions extending the terms of the present appropriation bills will have to be passed.

House of Representatives.

The order of work for the house this week is pretty clearly blocked out by the managers, but that the house will fulfil their desire is very uncertain. Monday will be devoted to the affairs of the District of Columbia. Then the Indian appropriation bill, of which seven pages were considered last week, will again be taken up under the five-minute rule. It is the hope of the leaders that it will be out of the way by Wednesday night, but the outlook is not flattering. If the bill shall drag along later in the week, a summary end to the debate may be secured by means of an order from the committee on rules. Next in order will come the bill to erect a government printing office on one of the public reservations in the city, Mr. Hatch's anti-option bill, or Mr. Cooper's bill to tax greenbacks as other money is taxed. These three bills are marked for consideration after the Indian bill is out of the way, and before the general deficiency bill shall be called up. The order in which they will be considered, however, will depend upon the action of the house itself.

A "Trusty" Stole the Jail Keys.

CONCORD, N. H., June 11.—William B. Wells, who is serving a six months' sentence for burglary, and Joseph H. Corkum, who was held to the grand jury in $1,300 on a charge of being an accessory to arson in Warner, escaped from jail yesterday. Wells being young and an exemplary prisoner while awaiting trial was sent back to jail instead of prison. He appeared to be trusty and reliable and was taken into the kitchen to work. During the temporary absence of the jailer, he went to the safe in the office and took the key to the jail part, releasing Corkum. Soon after their release the police were notified and a large force have been scouring the woods and surrounding roads in the vicinity of the jail all day.

Curtis to Be Remembered.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The George William Curtis Memorial committee has decided to raise a fund of $25,000 to be devoted in part to the procurement and erection of an appropriate monument in the city of New York, and in part to the foundation and endowment of an annual course of lectures upon the duties of American citizenship and kindred subjects. The lectures are to be published for distribution.

Catholic Clergy May Officiate.

ROME, June 11.—The pope's attitude toward cremation was announced on Wednesday in the Catholic diocesan council of Breisgau, Germany. His opinion is that cremation, while heretical in principle, may be allowed under special conditions, which amount to a guarantee against a public scandal. The Catholic clergy may officiate at services over bodies which are to be cremated, but not at a crematorium.

Ex-Gov. Price's Funeral.

OAKLAND, N. J., June 11.—The funeral of ex-Gov. Price to-day was largely attended. The pallbearers were: Attorney General J. P. Stockton, Congressman Cadmus, ex-Gov. Abbett, ex-Gov. Ludlow, Theodore Runyon, United States ambassador to Germany; Gov. Werts, ex-Gov. Green, ex-Gov. Bedle. These names were all suggested by Mr. Price just prior to his death.

Rondout's Oldest Physician Dead.

RONDOUT, N. Y., June 10.—While sitting on his front porch early yesterday Dr. Juline Quentel, the oldest practicing physician in this city, was stricken with apoplexy and died in a few minutes. For forty years he has practiced steadily in this city, at one time having one of the largest practices in town.

The Kaiser to Command.

BERLIN, June 11.—At the coming manouvres near Kibing Emperor William will command, in the presence of the Czarewitch, a grand cavalry attack by night. Balloons with electric searchlights will illuminate the field and small electric lights will be attached to the lances of the riders.

William Walter Phelps Better.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 11.—Hon. William Walter Phelps is better than he has been at any time for two weeks. For the past two or three days there has been a marked improvement in his condition.

COXEY AND AIDS FREE.

'Wealers Drawn Up in Line to Receive Their Leaders.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Coxey, Browne and Jones, the leaders of the commonweal, were released from jail at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. No demonstration attended their departure. They shook hands with the deputy warden and watch officers, thanked them for their considerate treatment and entered a carriage driven by Oklahoma Sam, drawn by four commonweal horses. At the district line the 'wealers from the camp were drawn up in line to receive the distinguished party. They unhitched the horses and themselves hauled the liberated leaders to the camp. Coxey and Browne spoke during the afternoon.

Coxey said it now looked as though the men might extend their stay at the capital into winter. He said he was going to make an address on the Fourth of July at Knoxville, for which he would be paid $250. He also had other engagements to speak during the coming month. A census of the camp to-day showed 548 men present.

In speaking of his chances for election to congress, Mr. Coxey said that he was not acquainted with the situation of affairs in the Massillon district, as he had not been at home for about three months. Advices received from friends there, however, indicated that he would be successful.

No Drawback on Bituminous Coal.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Acting Secretary Hamlin has sent a letter to collectors of customs in which he says, pending the decision of the question by the supreme court, no drawback can be allowed on bituminous coal used or to be used as fuel on board any vessels, but no objection is perceived to the acceptance by collectors of entries for such drawback, when tendered, provided that the parties making the entries shall file a stipulation to the effect that such entries and all proceeding thereunder shall be considered null and void should said decision of the circuit court of appeals be reversed by the supreme court.

Points on Mars.

BOSTON, June 11.—Mr. Percival Lowell, of Boston, now at his observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., announces the discovery of two bright star-like points on Mars, in the southern polar snow cap, in about longitude 271, south latitude 80. They suddenly shone out at 1 o'clock, Greenwich time, on the morning of June 9. Mr. Lowell thinks they indicate mountain slopes tilted at an angle of 25 degrees. He also announces that the canals are already beginning to be glimpsed.

YOUNG WOMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Miss Jennie Higgins, an operator at the telephone exchange, died this morning at 2:15 after an illness of 24 hours.

She boarded with Mrs. Philpott at 457 West Front street. At 11 Saturday night she went to bed, not complaining of feeling unwell. Shortly afterwards she was taken ill and as her condition became worse, Dr. J. B. Probasco was summoned.

He made four visits, the last one just before the young woman died. She was in great agony most of the time. The immediate cause of death was heart disease, brought on by obstruction of the bowels with foreign substances. Miss Higgins had eaten cherries and peanuts very freely Saturday afternoon. A week before she had been attacked with pains about her heart similar to those which marked her last illness.

Miss Higgins had been in Plainfield but three weeks, coming from Trenton, where she was formerly employed. Her home was in Belle Mead. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins of that place, and her brother, Clinton Higgins, of New Haven, Conn., were telegraphed tor. The deceased was 23 years old. Her sister died six months ago.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Edith Tunison is very ill at her home on Elmwood place.

Edward Stewart of West Seventh street returned yesterday from California.

Among the Vassar graduates this year is Miss Grace Cooley of North Plainfield.

Mrs. O. M. Dunham of East Front street spent Sunday with relatives in Somerville.

A. Holmes and daughter Achsah of Grandview avenue, have been visiting friends in Long Branch.

Mrs. Vincent L. Frazee, wife of the Fourth Ward Lone Star Councilman, is entertaining Miss Mamie Lyons, a Brooklyn belle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Broadway of LaGrande avenue started in a buggy with a single horse this morning to take a driving trip of three weeks.

Mrs. M. J. Edwards, sister of Alfred Norbury of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has arrived safely from Europe, after a delightful voyage.

Miss Blanche Bessant of New York city, who has been visiting Miss Josie Fritz of Somerset street, returned yesterday, accompanied by Miss Fritz, who will spend a few days at Miss Bessant's home.

Miss Clara M. Burt, the teacher who was injured in a runaway, is so much improved that she was expected to return this afternoon from Brattleboro, Vt., to the home of her father, William C. Burt on West Seventh street.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis left for the West this morning on a trip of three weeks. He will visit in Illinois and Wisconsin and will attend the meeting in Minnesota of the Northwestern Seventh-Day Baptist Association which begins Thursday.

Saturday Evening Runaway.

John James's horse ran away with his peddler's wagon for the fourth time Saturday evening. It happened this time near the corner of Front street and Grant avenue. But little damage was caused.

Sunday Morning Runaway.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Darby started from Alton in a buggy yesterday morning at 10 and drove towards Plainfield. On Woodland avenue the horse became uncontrollable and ran at full speed down Watchung avenue to North to Park. In turning into Park avenue the horse slipped on the crossing and fell, cutting its feet slightly. The buggy was not damaged.

The rig was taken to D. S. Roberts's livery stables. Mr. and Mrs. Darby went to the home of Mrs. Darby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schuck, on Vine street.

Sunday Afternoon Equestrianism.

A man and a woman were thrown from a buggy by the actions of a frightened horse at the corner of Grant avenue and Second street yesterday afternoon at 2. The damage was not serious.

Sunday Evening Runaway.

A horse from Westfield became frightened under the Park avenue bridge last evening at 9 and ran down the avenue to Fifth street. A woman and a girl were in the wagon. At Fifth street the horse stopped to kick the wagon to pieces but was subdued before much damage was done.

Larger Loaves by Liefke Leavened.

Another virtue has been added to those famous Vienna loaves that Liefke makes and sells. He has added to their size without increasing the price. They are the biggest, as well as the most palatable and most nutritious, to be procured in Plainfield. The New England loaves have also grown in size, and sell at a price but little in advance of the cost of raw material.

—Eat strawberries and cream, and help the chapel carpet fund, at the First Presbyterian Church festival tomorrow, afternoon and evening.

NOTICE!

Having disposed of my coal business to Chas. W. Dodd, I respectfully announce that outstanding accounts due me may be paid to my collector at 140 Park avenue, the coal office formerly occupied by me. I would appreciate prompt settlement to close the accounts.

HIGH SCHOOL FIELD DAY.

GOOD SPORT OF THE BOYS ON THE CRESCENT OVAL.

Amherst College Record, and Several High School Records, Broken—Woltmann's Great Showing in the Bicycle Races, Winning Three First Prizes and One Second.

The fourth semi-annual field day sports of the P. H. S. A. A. on the Crescent track Saturday afternoon were witnessed by about 500 people. The track was fast, the weather was good, and the boys of the High School ran the races with almost professional promptness. T. A. Cuming took the place of F. L. C. Martin, absent, as judge. The other officers were those announced. "Clerk of the Course, C. B Morse, '95, M. D., P. H. S. A. A.", and his two assistants, did their work very efficiently.

The first event was the 100 yards dash, open. The time was not taken, the report of the pistol not having been heard by the timers at the tape. The runners finished in the following order:

Wesley Abbott, Leal's School.
E. I. Serrell, P. H. S.
Ralph Campbell, P. H. S.
John Whiting, P. H. S.
F. M. Schroder, North Plainfield School.

The one-third mile bicycle handicap was run in two heats, the first three in each entering the final. In the first Moore from the 25 yards mark did not loaf and the others were unable to catch him. He won in 46½. The finish:

	yds
Herbert W. Moore, North Plainfi'd Sch'l...	25
John Kirkner	10
John Gluck	5
J. J. Mora, Pingry's School, Elizabeth	10
Carl Whitehead, Lincoln Sch'l Westfield	10
Charles E. Damon, Cranford	15

The second heat was run in 46 1-5 seconds. McCutchen from 25 yards handicap overtook Rittenhouse on the bank and led until entering the stretch, when Woltmann came up from the rear and passed the group, winning with a strong spurt. The finish:

Albert Woltmann	10
Wm. McCutchen, Leal's School	25
Edgar I. Serrell, P. H. S.	10
W. J. Mooney, Friends' Select Sch'l, Rah'y.	10
Vincent Rittenhouse, P. H. S.	40

In the final heat Gluck lost his pedal on the start and dropped out. Woltmann stayed in the rear, rode up well on the back and won in 45 seconds.

The finish:

Woltmann.
Kirkner.
H. W. Moore.
Serrell.
McCutchen.

Wesley Abbott, Leal's School and Ralph Campbell, P. H. S., started in the running high jump. Abbott dropped out on 4 feet 11. Fred K. Fish, ex-P. H. S., had not been entered, but started with the others and reached 5 feet 1, Ralph Campbell, P. H. S., made 5 feet, breaking the High School record, his own, of 5 feet 4, and beating the Amherst College record by 2½ inches. He received first prize and Abbott, second.

Wesley Abbott succeeded in beating the High School record for the hundred yards dash, 11.15 seconds, made by F. H. Freeman last Fall, by running in 10 3-5.

Rittenhouse set the pace in the Association ¼ mile bicycle scratch and fell back on the stretch. Serrell and Woltmann made a pretty fight down the stretch, Woltmann winning by a length. Time 1:27.

At putting the 12 pound shot George Smith easily excelled, scoring 32 feet 1½ at the third trial. Clarence M. Smith was second with 31 feet 11, his last throw, and John C. Whiting followed with 30 feet 5½.

The four starters loafed at first in the ½ mile bicycle scratch, Damon setting the pace and Woltmann staying in the rear. Mooney and Woltmann had a close race down the stretch, but the Plainfielder won.

The finish:

Albert Woltmann, P. H. S.,
W. J. Mooney, Friends Select School, Rahway.
J. J. Mora, Pingry's School, Elizabeth.
C. E. Damon, Cranford.
Time 1:50 2-5.

In the standing broad jump J. W. Kirkner won with a leap 9 feet 6. J. C. Whiting was second best with 9 feet 1inch. The High School record last year was Fred Freeman's 9 feet 2½.

The Association mile bicycle scratch made an interesting race. Woltmann hung back, as usual, but waited too long before spurting. His riding on the stretch was remarkable, but unsuccessful.

The finish:

J. W. Kirkner.
Albert Woltmann.
E. I. Serrell.
Vincent Rittenhouse.
Time 2:55 3-5.

Ralph Campbell set the pace in the Association ¼ mile run, but dropped to second place on the stretch, allowing J. C. Whiting to win in 1:29. R. E. Sebring was third and last.

The last event was the two mile bicycle handicap with seven starters out of the 17 entries. It was the only event won outside of Plainfield. Woltmann had ridden too much and dropped out on the third lap. Moore, Kirkner and Crane evened up on the fourth lap. Serrell and Moore gave up before anotner third. McCutchen fell back and Eaton spurted on fifth lap. The four leaders were bunched on the stretch and finished in this order:

W. J. Mooney, Friends Select Sch'l, Rah'y.	75
R. L. Eaton, Pingry School, Elizabeth	85
S. C. Crane, ex-P. H. S.	scratch
John Kirkner	85

NOTEWORTHY DOINGS IN THE OUTSKIRTS OF PLAINFIELD.

Children's Day Novelties in Dunellen—Tingley Family Picnic in Prospect—Local Celebrities in a Newark Commencement.

John Tingley is planning for the annual reunion of the Tingleys, to be held in South Plainfield August 29.

A bazar will be held in the Methodist Church July 19, 20 and 21. It will be an elaborate affair, and attractive novelties are promised.

The nineteenth annual graduating exercises of the New Jersey Business College will be held next Friday evening, June 15, in the Peddie Memorial Baptist Church, Newark. Dunellen residents are very much interested, because two of the borough's popular young people are among the graduates. Miss Ella Maud Fisher will deliver the salutatory. Her subject will be "Woman in Business". George William Richardson will lead a discussion of "Free Trade and Protection". Rev. W. C. Kinsey will be the benediction clergyman. Five thousand tickets have been issued for the occasion.

The Presbyterian Church celebrated Children's Day in a very pleasing manner. In the morning Rev. Mr. Martine, pastor, preached an eloquent sermon on the observance of the day, and special music was rendered. The choir which assisted in the music consisted of Miss Taylor and Miss Imogene Smith, soprano; Miss Mabel Burnston, alto; Morris Barick, tenor, and Edward Teel, basso. Miss Maggie Swackhamer was the efficient organist. In the evening a special service was given by the Sunday-school children, entitled "Dyke-Builders". It consisted of songs, recitations and selections by the choir. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers. In front of the pulpit was a solid bank of different kinds of roses, and in the centre was a handsome cross. Encircling the alcove, and around the organ, marguerites smiled, and the entire decoration was one of beauty. Superintendent Frank Lake, Miss Boice, Miss Randolph and Miss Dunham, had charge of the floral display. Rev. Mr. Martine assisted the choir in the evening.

Most interesting Children's Day exercises were held in the Methodist Church. Rev. W. C. Kinsey, pastor, and the women of the church, worked very hard for a successful programme, and their efforts were rewarded. The decorations were very elaborate, flowers being artistically arranged so as to bring out most striking effect. The pastor preached a forceful sermon in the morning, from the text "He fastened it with nails". The choir sang selections appropriate to the day, and the excellent music was much enjoyed. Those in the choir were: Miss Emma Apgar, Miss Ella Maud Fisher, Mrs. Arthur Vail, soprano; Mrs. W. C. Kinsey, alto; Joseph Apgar, tenor; and W. W. Walters, A. Nelson and Raymond Apgar, basso. Mrs. A. Nelson was the accomplished pianist. A service entitled "The Church of the Future" was rendered in the evening. It was decidedly novel, and proved to be very instructive. The front part of a church in miniature was erected on the platform, and large mottoes representing the essentials of the church were placed upon it, with "Christ, Our Foundation" at the bottom. Recitations by the Sunday-school scholars, from these subjects were given as follows: "Introductory Address", Albert Apgar; "Christly Love", Miss G. Vail; "Aggressive Work", Miss Millicent Vail, Miss Mattie Hill; "Social Reforms", David Richardson; "Christian Equality" Miss Lulu Adams, Miss L. Van Middlesworth; "Young People", Miss G. Owens, Miss Lulu Gise, Miss Bessie Vail, Miss Nellie Brown; "Hosanna be to the Children's King", Infant Class; "The Little Folks and the Church of the Future", Helen Maier, Irene Ayers, Clarence Kinsey, Edna Vail, Charles Vliet, Katy Losey, W. Kennedy, W. Giddis, W. Herlich, S. Tilton; "The Great Tomorrow", R. Smalley, Lizzie Herlich, Mabel Lewis, Edna Huff; "The Glory of the Child", Nellie Huff, Alice Apgar, H. Vliet, Lillian Kennedy, Leslie Kinsey. Interspersed among these were responsive readings and singing by the whole school. John Kennedy built the miniature church, and was assisted by Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Miss Ella Maud Fisher, and G. W. Richardson in the arrangement and decoration of it.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Strange Death of Cattle.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 11.—Prof. Paige of the Amherst Agricultural college investigated the disease of which 11 cattle have died in Ware, and thinks it is hydrophobia, though he will submit the brains of the cattle to the Pasteur method of treatment before deciding. He says all the animals that died were of a herd chased by dogs three weeks ago, and no animal has shown signs of disease which was not bitten. All the trouble appears in adjoining pastures with one exception, and in that case, four or five miles distant, as well as in the others, all the cattle were driven and frequently bitten by the shepherd dog of Perry Cheever, which disappeared about three weeks since, after acting strangely. The local doctors, who examined the cattle, said they found diseased intestines and laid it to some strange zymotic disease, but Prof. Paige found no such trouble, and before he came no one thought of hydrophobia, though the cows had run about as if crazy, and died in agony.

Mrs. Shattuck Sentenced for Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—The jury in the Poole murder case found Mrs. Jane Shattuck guilty, and she was sentenced to prison for life. Henry G. Poole was a well-known young man and had been paying attentions to Miss Shattuck, a chorus girl and daughter of the prisoner, for some time. Poole called at the lady's apartments one day and was shot and instantly killed by the mother because he refused to marry Miss Shattuck immediately.

Frau Wagner's Eccentricities.

BERLIN, June 11.—Frau Cosima Wagner, of Bayrouth, widow of the composer, is causing much comment by her growing eccentricities. She recently composed five poems in honor of her son Siegfried's five dogs. On Siegfried's birthday she gave a reception in the new music pavillion built for him in the garden of Villa Wahnfried. After the guests had assembled she called in the dogs and had her five poems recited and sung for their benefit.

China Schedule Not Settled.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An erroneous impression was created some days ago by a statement to the effect that the chemical, glass, china and the metal schedules of the tariff bill had been completed by the senate. Inquiry developed the fact that paragraphs 84, 85 and 86 of the china schedule were temporarily passed over and have not yet been settled.

Killed By a Mud Slide.

LEADVILLE, Col., June 11.—A Midland freight train encountered a mud slide west of here and the trainmen assisted the section hands in clearing the track. While this was work going on another slide came down, killing two men and seriously injuring two others.

Vigilant To Race Britannia.

LONDON, June 11.—The Field says that it is stated that George Gould has had an interview with the prince of Wales, and that they have arranged for a series of matches between the prince of Wales' cutter Britannia and the Gould's sloop-yacht Vigilant. It is added that it is not likely that there will be any complications about the courses over which these races are to be sailed.

Many Indictments at Troy.

TROY, N. Y., June 11.—Forty-four indictments, including many in election cases in Troy and Lansingburgh, have been presented by the grand jury.

CAPT. ROBT. COOK, Camden, N. J., says:

CHILDREN'S DAY.

THE WEATHER WAS DELIGHTFUL AND THE SERVICES WERE AS FOLLOWS.

Crescent Avenue Church.

The children's services were held in the morning. The attendance was large. Decorations about the altar were of white roses, syringa and ferns.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards conducted responsive readings of Bible passages. The Commandments and the twenty-third Psalm were repeated. The singing was by the congregation and by a choir of 75 children from the primary department, conducted by Superintendent I. C. Pierson. The pastor preached from Proverbs 20-11, "Even a child is known by his doings". His remarks were very interesting and were well adapted to the children. There were two baptisms. The offering was for Sunday-school missionary work.

First Presbyterian Church.

The Sunday-school's services were conducted in the morning by Superintendent Lounsbury before a large congregation. The regular voluntary choir sang with the scholars. The reading from the Scriptures and the hymns were especially appropriate to the day.

Miss Grace Overton read the Children's Day greeting of Dr. James A. Worden. The primary scholars sang under the direction of Miss Wandell. A wall building exercises, "Goodly Stones", was participated in by Louise Kline, Hiram Mulford, Arthur Templin, Linda Cave, Marion Engelhart, Sarah Berbecker, Dolly Robertson, Beryl Angleman, Pierson Morgan, Tillie Mulford, Chauncey Murphy and Martha Kline. A collection was taken up for Presbyterian educational purposes.

Rev. Charles E. Herring addressed the children from the text Second Corinthians III: 2, "Ye are our letter written in our hearts, to be read and to be known of all men". He explained that the church members addressed took the place of letters of introduction from God to the unconverted. Materials for writing were then placed on a table on the platform. Mr. Herring drew many practical lessons, easily understood by the children, from different kinds of pens, ink and paper. The paper represented the heart; the pens, the ministers and other workers; the ink, the Holy Spirit. The fine pen, indicated the young woman; the stub pen, the strong man; and the ball-pointed pen, a practical man. New pens were sometimes bent and were therefore unfit for use. Mr. Herring said that when he came to Plainfield first half a dozen men of his congregation appointed themselves a committee to discover if he was a bent pen and asked those who knew him before and tried to discover if he paid his board regularly. Continuing his illustrations, the speaker said that the glass pen was hard and unsatisfactory and that the gold pen was the best and most lasting of all. He closed with a reference to Christ as the writer of the letters. No forgery was possible,

Grace M. E. Church.

The celebration exercises in the afternoon were attended by 300 people. The platform and altar were beautifully decorated with daisies, roses, orchids and other flowers. The programme was prepared by a committee of Sunday-school workers—Ezra Loomis, Mrs. Annie Most, Miss Belle Lunger, Miss Emma Smalley and L. A. Hummer. The pastor prayed and Superintendent Valiant led responsive readings. Nettie Beeching recited and a chorus of 15 girls sang "We Greet you on this Children's Day". The baptism of a child followed. Recitations were given by Tina Voehl, Charles Powell and Ada Van Horne. The pastor, Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, addressed the members of the Sunday-school. Recitations by Ella Benner, Edith Loomis, Grace Powell, Mabel Garey, Belle DeMott, Lottie Benner, Charles Powell, Alice DeMott and Flossie Conroy closed the programme.

Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The Christian Endeavor Society was in charge of the services Saturday morning. The platform had been prettily decorated with roses, orchids and ferns by Miss Mabel Potter and Miss Bessie Titsworth. Miss Jessie Utter was the organist. The special choir was composed of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Dr. Frank Clawson, Miss Nancy Randolph, the Misses Mary and Lulu Lewis, Miss Bessie Titsworth, Miss Mabel Maxson, Miss Ernestine Smith, Miss Mabel Mitchell, Harrol Tomlinson, Charles Randolph, Harry Maxson, Arthur Spicer and L. T. Rogers. Thirty Junior Endeavorers marched in at the opening of the services, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers". Responsive reading from the Bible was participated in by all. The Juniors and the congregation sang. The morning offering was for the benefit of educational work. The services were arranged by two Endeavorers, Miss Lulu Lewis and Miss Ernestine Smith,

First M. E. Church.

The gallery was well filled with visitors at the Sunday-school services in the afternoon. The floral decorations were very pretty. A programme of appropriate recitations and songs was presented by the children. A choir, composed of 20 children from the primary department, sang. Pastor Barnes made an address to the children. The collection was for Methodist educational purposes.

Congregational Church.

The church was decorated with roses and daisies at the morning services. The congregation was large. Rev. C. L. Goodrich spoke to the children. Recitations appropriate to the occasion were given by scholars under the direction of Miss Bainbridge and Miss Julia Belknap. The music was by Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist; Mrs. Dwight, pianist; and Miss Nelle Whiton, violinist.

First Baptist Church.

In the First Baptist Church the floral decorations were flowers and ferns from the conservatory of C. W. McCutchen. The following composed the choir under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh:

Miss F. May Grant, Miss Bessie Blair, Miss Swain, Miss May Clawson and Miss Sesar, soprano; Miss Nancy Randolph, Miss Gussie Runyon, Miss Florence Kline and Miss Bertha Needham, alto; C. W. McCutchen, Edward Ryder and Mr. Smith, tenor; B. T. Barnes, William Holmes and Stacy Raynolds, basso.

Two beautiful solos were sung by Miss F. May Frant, with organ and violin accompaniment.

An impressive sermon from the text, "The odor of the ointment" was preached by Rev. Arthur Crane. The Sunday-schools of the First Baptist Church and the East Third Street Mission occupied the entire gallery.

Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The morning services consisted of songs and recitations from "A Day with Buds and Flowers", by the primary class of Miss Whitfield. Flowers adorned the platform. The Children's Day sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis.

Trinity Reformed Church.

In the Trinity Reformed Church Children's Day was observed in the morning. The church was well filled, and the programme arranged was executed without a break and to the credit of the children. Organist A. L. Titsworth presided at the organ and B. F. La Vere played the cornet. "Onward Christian Soldiers" was the processional by which the main Sunday-school marched from the lecture room, up the centre aisle of the church, to seats reserved for them in front of the pulpit platform, the primary department having previously been seated in the body of the church. This was followed with singing by the choir. The primary department in charge of their Superintendent, Miss Josie M. Tier, then gave evidence of their ability to sing by singing "Our Anniversary", accompanied on the parlor organ by Miss Lizzie Sheppard. Superintendent E. E. Anthony then led the school in reading responsively Psalm 19. The pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, asked all to unite in prayer with him, in which he thanked God for the beautiful Children's Day, and asked God's blessing on all assembled.

Eva Dunavan, Annie Hazell and Mertie Anthony then sang "Morning Prayers," followed by "The Narrow Way," by Minnie Wyman and Laura Wyckoff, with chorus by choir and school, and "Living like Lilies," by Master Bertie Clark with chorus by school and choir. "The Children's Festival" was then sung by choir and school followed by "That Sweet Story of Old" by the primary department. "The boy you can trust" was sung by Master Fred Dunavan, with chorus by choir and school.

Scripture reading and responses by school and choir were followed by "Hosanna to the Blessed", by choir and school and "Nature's Voices" by the primary department.

The pastor then addressed the children in a plain, practical way, telling them a story of the life and industry of the little ant, and the construction of its house or home. He told the little ones, and older too, facts regarding the little ant that were interesting, and will no doubt be remembered to the profit of all. His remarks were based on the text from Proverbs VI: 6, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise". Mr. Schenck's address was followed by more singing by choir and school, after which the benediction was pronounced.

The display of flowers was particularly fine, and the pastor and superintendent publicly thanked Mrs. J. C. VanDyke and all who had labored so hard with her to produce the pretty scene around the pulpit and platform.

In the midst of the Children's Day exercises the following babes were baptised and dedicated to God by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck. It was indeed a pretty sight, surrounded as they were on all sides by the beautiful flowers. Those baptized were: Elsie Mildred Crater Tier, Catherine Elenor Debele, Edna May Oliver and Arthur Edward Gaskill, infants; and Carrie May Krewson, aged about six years.

First Church of Christ.

The evening services of the Sunday-school were well attended. The platform floral decorations were of roses, geraniums and daisies. Pastor Hand made the opening prayer and then the children's programme followed.

The young people who recited were: Mabel Wilson, Edith Wells, Bella Van-Ness, Ada Staats, Lottie Chamberlain, Lloyd and John Van Middlesworth, George Krickner, Percy Hand, Henry Staats, Ada Van Horne, Hattie Busch, Edith Baldwin and Robbie Wells. A quartette, Lottie Chamberlain, Etta Staats, Edith Wells and Mabel Wilson, sang. Remarks were made by the pastor and the superintendent of the Sunday-school.

Hope Chapel.

The programme consisted of recitations and singing by the scholars. A special feature was the filling in of bouquets on a large cross placed in the centre of the platform. The pastor, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, gave a short address.

The children were trained and drilled by the Misses Carrie and Adele Hunter, and much credit is due them for the excellent programme.

Monroe Avenue Chapel.

In the Monroe Avenue Chapel a programme entitled "Merry Sunshine" by W. L. Mason was rendered. Superintendent Walter McGee had charge of the service. In the morning James McGee preacced. The decorations of wild flowers and potted plants were very beautiful.

YOUNG MEN'S JUBILEE.

PLAINFIELD CHURCHES JOIN IN HEARTY CELEBRATION.

Rousing Union Meeting, Addresses by Local Religious Leaders—Impetus Added to the Work, and That Building Should Now Be Finished.

The Y. M. C. A. Jubilee was celebrated last night by union meetings in the First M. E. and Crescent Avenue churches. The attendance at each was large.

In the Methodist church E. L. Bonny presided. The choir of the First Baptist church sang an anthem and an offertory, Miss Grant rendering the solo parts very finely. There was responsive reading of Psalm 145 and prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, after which the addresses of the evening were delivered.

W. D. Murray, President of the Plainfield Association spoke very interestingly of the wonderful progress of the work during the fifty years and gave three reasons to account for its success:

First—It supplied a need.

Second—The associations were clear on the great doctrines of the Christian religion and tried simply to present Jesus Christ as the Saviour of the world.

Third—The work has been chiefly spiritual, although it has been a great educational and physical work as well.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, made an eloquent address. He said in part:

"I have a great affection for young men. The ideal of humanity is youth, and we think of the Angels of God as youths. The great reformers of the world have been youths. Some of the great achievements in the history of the world have been accomplished by young men. While there are great possibilities in youth there are also great dangers. The greatest foundation for youth to build on is Jesus Christ. Prof. Huxley said the basis of virtue is religious feeling and he did not understand how religious feeling could be preserved and conserved unless we had the teaching of the word of God. A young man needs the word of God as the basis of his virtue, and I am suspicious of all other means. There is danger for young men; there is danger for young men in Plainfield. It is impossible for a minister of the gospel to get hold of all young men. Godspeed the day when our cities shall be filled with such institutions as Young Men's Christian Associations. The church must get out of the four walls and get into the life of the people and help them in all their reforms, and I believe that the Young Men's Christian Associations are working along that line. We have a building on Front street that is boarded up. We are talking about building churches. Let us stop right here and put our money into that institution. What an inviting place that is that the Association now occupies under the inspiring glare of kerosene lamps. Here is a building that is waiting for money. I think it is a shame to Plainfield that it is boarded up. The way to get rid of the saloon is to put something in its place. The Young Men's Christian Association is the institution that is to be put in the place of the saloon. And if you want to get rid of the domination of the liquor interest finish that building, put electric lights all through it and a Turkish bath in the end of it. Make it the most inviting place in Plainfield and you will do one thing to stamp out the liquor traffic. Let this anniversary stir us here so that we shall do something exceedingly practical for young men in this city."

Rev. C. R. Barnes, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke in part as follows: "We are here this evening to extend our congratulations to the Young Men's Christian Association as the impersonation of an idea or a group of ideas, and that group of ideas may be expressed in one sentence 'The salvation of young men', and the mental picture of those possessing this idea is a young man plucked out of the pit and clothed with righteousness and moving about among young men endeavoring to lead them into lives of righteousness. The Association asks you if you accept that conception, that idea, that mental picture—a saved man, not saved in the last years of his life, not saved after he has looked upon the ashes of his passion, but while the fire is there burning through every fibre of his, being fanned by the breath of God. I look upon the Young Men's Christian Associations as skirmishers of the church. The young men of Plainfield ought to be Christian—Christly young men, and it is to late in the day for newspaper reporters to laugh at the church. You might as well laugh at the sun; you might as well laugh (I say it reverently) at God, for God has promised to the church the isles of the sea and the heathen for its inheritance. This world belongs to the church. The Young Men's Christian Association comes and says: 'These young men belong to Christ. God so loved the world. The world is the object of God's love'. The Young Men's Christian Association comes in and says: 'Every man who walks the streets has been redeemed by the blood of Christ; every young man belongs to God and we propose to go into partnership with God in saving these young men. Young men must be saved; they must see that Jesus is their saviour.' I say to all such men God-speed."

In the Crescent Avenue Church David E. Titsworth presided. The hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name was sung, followed by responsive reading led by Rev. Dr. E. Rodman, and Rev. C. L. Goodrich led in prayer. An anthem was sung by the double male quartette, and James McGee made an address. He said the present Y. M. C. A. tree, of 5,000 branches, had grown because the seed was of God. It was watered with prayer. It was deep-rooted in the soil. It was not diverted from its original purpose. "The elements that make the tree beautiful are: first, the element of strength coming from and abiding in Christ. The church never undertook to do the work which the Young Men's Christian Association has undertaken to do. Let the young men who have been most active in the work of the Association are the young men who have been most active in the work of the church. The strength of young manhood has been given to this work, and has helped to bring it to its vast proportions.

"Another element is the element of unity—not only strength, but combined strength. I believe, that under God, the Young Men's Christian Association has been the great power which has broken down the barriers between the churches.

"The third element which I find is the element of work. This is not only strength, and unity—combined strength—but it is strength and unity and applied strength. This is what the Young Men's Christian Association has been organized for. Its various forms of work are well known to you.

"The other element of which I wish to speak is the element of endurance. This is strength, combined strength, applied strength, petpetuated strength. There is in the Young Men's Christian Association that element which gives us the assurance of its perpetuation. Its history in the past in only the presage of what it will do in the future."

Mr. McGee bore earnest testimony to the great benefit that the Young Men's Christian Association had been to him.

The hymn "Stand up for Jesus" was sung, and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards spoke, saying:

"The organization of the Church of our Lord was the founding of a Young Men's Christian Association. Whatever criticism we may make against this policy stands against the policy which our Lord himself adopted. When he began his work he called a number of young men about him and associated them with him.

"When we are celebrating the anniversary of anything we like to have a monument of it. Sometimes we are rather perplexed to know what monument to select. It is very plain what the monument ought to be for the Association in Plainfield. It is begun already. It stands on Front street, begun, but not finished. I am glad to know that the young men have encouragement which leads them to think that they can go on and finish their building even if they must bear a certain burden of interest on a loan. It does seem to me that we ought to see to it that there is no burden upon that building when it is finished, and no unsightly burden of interest to carry. This should be a monument which would cheer the hearts of the young men themselves, and would be pleasing to our Lord, and upon which we as long as we live could look with satisfaction. I am not asking for a collection for this purpose, though there will be a collection taken for the running expenses of the Association, but it does seem to me that we ought to see to it that the monument to celebrate the fiftieth birthday of this society should be that building on Front street completed and dedicated to its noble use free of debt."

President Murray made an appeal for funds, well seconded by Mr. Titsworth, and a satisfactory offering was received. Then came prayer, the hymn "Blest be the tie", and the benediction.

SHOWER OF JUNE ROSES.

Delightful Class Day at the Seminary.

On the principle that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever" the Class Day exercises of the Plainfield Seminary, held this morning at 10, will be a lasting joy to the graduates and a beautiful memory to the invited guests. The Study Hall, where a part of the exercises were held, was artistically decorated in pink and green, the class colors. The girls, who were graduated last Friday, dressed in simple white with pink ribbons, occupied the platform, presided over by Miss Rose Eleanor Mix, the class president.

The programmes, on which was the class song indicated "Music" by May Hoagland Hurd and Emma Haviland, who until '93 were included in the class, but on account of illness were unable to prosecute their studies. The duet was well rendered. The class poem on "Chimney Swallows", by Edith Hastings Tracy, was a charming bit of verse, and the reading of it by Miss Mix brought out the charm of the pretty legend it told. The address to the undergraduates by May Stockton Shreve, was full of happy hits and college fun, of which the audience showed their appreciation. The class song in pantomime was enthusiastically applauded. "The Crystal Vision" by Maud Hildebrandt Middledith, was the class prophecy, and as, looking into futurity through the crystal globe, she saw one of her class mates the President of the United States, another, a bride, one an author and another a musician, the pleasure given by the fair prophetess was unmistakeable.

The Valedictory by Bessie Evelyn Titsworth was cleverly written and well read, conveying the impression to all who heard, that the girls are happy who find a school home in the Plainfield Seminary. After well executed music by Miss Emma Haviland, the audience was invited to follow the graduates to witness the planting of the Wild Rose, the class flower. The ceremony was a fitting conclusion to the delightful occasion. Among June scenes, fewer will ever be lovelier in memory than this was in reality. At the Seminary front, under the shade of a Japanese umbrella, the young girls stood, while the guests unconsciously made picturesque groupings, as the class president, from the front veranda, delivered an oration befitting the occasion. At the close, as she wished blessings on the class and future classes, a shower of rose leaves fell on the assembled school from a basket she carried and the open windows above.

Then the rose tree was planted and the ceremonies concluded by the singing of "Roses Blow" by the whole school. Those who were present at the graduating exercises Friday must have been impressed with the fact that the Seminary does good work, and those who witnessed the ceremonies today must be equally sure that the young girls at the Seminary lead a bright and happy school life.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Harriet B. Garretson, wife of J. Smith Garretson, died yesterday in her 55th year, of inflammation of the lungs. She was an exemplary Christian woman, a member of Trinity Reformed Church, and died full of faith in Christ as her Saviour. She leaves four children, Mrs. Fred. Stillman of West Fourth street, Mrs. George Bembrook of Somerville, Mrs. Jeremiah Van Winkle of Central avenue, and Miss Hattie Garretson.

The funeral will be from Trinity Reformed Church Wednesday afternoon, June 13, at 3.

The death of Mrs. J. Caroline, widow of the late James C. Ayres, occurred Saturday, in her sixty-ninth year. The funeral will be from the First Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at 3, and interment in Rosedale Cemetery, Orange.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Reinhart of Belvidere avenue will give a dance in the Casino Wednesday evening.

J. L. Lunger of Westervelt avenue, who fell from a scaffold Saturday morning, was reported by Dr. O. L. Jenkins this morning to be doing remarkably well considering the extent of the injuries he received. Two ribs were found to be broken.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Rand has fanned down the prices for hot weather.

—The Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth today non-suited the city in the Watson liquor case. Appeal was taken.

—Fish matinees are a new institution at Rogers's sea-food market. You pay cash, Wednesdays and Saturdays, and carry away fish at greatly reduced prices.

—The Y. M. C. A. Building will straightway be finished. The boards were taken down today, and the carpentry work proceeds. Arrangements for funds have been made.

CYCLING COMMENT.

J. J. Lynch, J. J. Hibbitts and J. C. Trainor were umpires and W. J. Kiely was a timekeeper at the Journal team race Saturday.

Albert Woltmann won three first prizes and a second in the High School races Saturday. His mount was a Spalding from Rogers's.

Of the 400 cyclers who reached Philadelphia on Saturday, 67 rode Spalding bicycles. Not one of those mounted on wheels of that make met with an accident. Rogers sells Spaldings.

The Manhattan Bicycle Club of New York and the Palma Wheelmen of Jersey City had runs to Plainfield yesterday by invitation of the Crescent Wheelmen. After eating dinner the visitors were escorted to the track by the Crescent officers.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Women's Home Missionary Society will meet in Grace M. E. Church tomorrow afternoon at 4.

The First Church of Christ will have a cottage prayer meeting at 222 Grove street this evening.

The Tract Society transacted routine business at their meeting in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church yesterday afternoon.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Don't miss the C. E. anniversary in the First Baptist Church tonight. Miss Spangenberg and Mr. Crane will talk.

The Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor Society will give a strawberry festival in the church parlors Thursday evening.

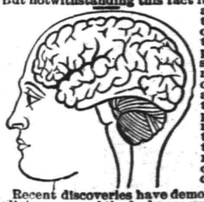
MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

Dr. Franklin Miles, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

A NEW STAR OF FICTION.

Mrs. Martha McCulloch Williams, Author of "The Overton Claim."

Among the clever literary women today who are rapidly acquiring well deserved success Mrs. Martha McCulloch Williams is one of the foremost. As true a daughter of the south at heart as she is by birth and breeding, cultured, courteous and dowered with rare breadth and vigor of intellect, Mrs. Williams presents a most striking and picturesque personality, a fact which cannot fail to impress itself upon any one who is privileged to meet her.

Personally Mrs. Williams is a tall, slender, gray haired woman, distinctly graceful and high bred. Her eyes, of which she says laughingly, but with injustice to herself, that they are her chief claim to distinction, are perhaps her most impressive feature. Large, clear, deep set and darkly gray, they are calm or vivacious, sympathetic or impassioned, by turns, lighting up with rare brilliancy a face which some might consider rather impassive, but which is really only dignified and self contained.

MARTHA M'CULLOCH WILLIAMS.

So much for Mrs. Williams' appearance. Of her character only those who know her most intimately can judge her most accurately. One of its noblest and most attractive features is that she never speaks harshly of any one, and that she resolutely shuts her ears against idle gossip. If she knows aught to the credit of the absent, she will say it. If she cannot truthfully say any thing good, she will say nothing at all.

Of Mrs. Williams' work her many readers will doubtless judge for themselves. It is a rather curious fact that it is only within a few years that she has turned her attention to story writing, in which branch of literature her success has been marked and rapid. Her style is crisp and sparkling, brimful of native wit, but betraying withal an undercurrent of feeling that betokens her deep sympathy with and keen knowledge of humanity. Her characters are always well defined, and though frequently irrational are ever intensely human. Her love of the south and her thorough familiarity with the complexities of negro life and lore render her southern sketches peculiarly entertaining.

A versatile and busy writer always, Mrs. Williams enters into whatever work she may undertake with equal earnestness. She composes directly upon the typewriter, but with extreme care and precision, never revising or rewriting and but rarely ever reading her work after it is once finished. Her newspaper articles are exceptionally bright and interesting and find ready acceptance, while her poems, dainty or vigorous, as the mood may demand, are always delicate in phrasing and perfect in rhythm.

But no sketch of Mrs. Williams' work would be complete without mention of her essays. Prose poems they may well be styled, for they rank among the best productions of their kind among English speaking nations, betraying a subtlety of feeling and an originality of thought and diction that amount to positive genius.

A collection of these delightful little essays, published a little more than a year ago, is among the gems of modern literature. In these delicate pen pictures of woodland life, which could have been written by no other than a daughter of "God's country," Mrs. Williams shows herself to be a sincere and sympathetic student of nature, possessing the power to portray with her pen more faithfully than many artists with the pencil. Essentially a child of nature herself, she has lived so near to nature's heart that she has learned, perhaps unconsciously, to echo its pulsations. Her story, "The Overton Claim," is considered one of her best works of fiction by the lady herself, and it promises to further enlarge her steadily widening fame.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

SILVER IN GERMANY

The Problem Not Solved By the Commission.

Recognize the Impossibility of Germany's Undertaking, Single-Handed, the Rehabilitation of Silver—Another Commission Demanded By Social Democrats in Behalf of Labor

BERLIN, June 11.—The imperial currency commission has adjourned. The commissioners held twenty sittings of six hours each, yet they left the entire silver problem in Germany exactly as they found it. Only the most sanguine of them expect any practical result in the future from their labors. Dr. Arendt, the most ardent of the silver men, and a few of his closer followers contend that the German government has become convinced of the theoretical correctness of bimetallism, although it recognizes the impossibility of Germany's undertaking, single-handed, the rehabilitation of silver. Arendt says he is convinced that the German silver mines must be abandoned if the present prices continue, and that with their abandonment will end much of the zinc and copper production on German soil.

Herr Von Kardorff, who sat in the commission as the representative of the Agrarians, and their lover-mortgaged constituents, professed in a published interview to be well satisfied with the commission's work. "When we met," he said, "the gold men were stronger numerically than the bimetallists, but the latter carried a motion that no votes should be taken on any of the points to be discussed, the object of the inquiry being merely to provide the government with information concerning the currency question." Herr von Kardorff said also that Dr. Bamberger, chief of the militant monometallists in Germany, came off second best in his contests with the silver men, and suffered the mortification of hearing his arguments reduced to absurdity by Dr. Arendt and his sympathizers.

Prof. Suess, when interviewed as to the work of the commission, said that he was present merely as an observer, who was occasionally called upon to give impartial testimony. He believed that Count von Posadowsky, secretary of the imperial treasury, had been deeply impressed with the difficulties of the existing situation and had been convinced that some reform was unavoidable.

Director Russell of the Discount company, who as a monometallist is second in authority only to Bamberger, praises highly the impartiality of the government toward the investigation. He thinks that much good will result from the commission's labors, for, leaving all else out of consideration, he says, the statistical information gathered by the commissioners will be most useful whenever enactments as to the currency of the empire shall be considered. Dr. Arendt's elaborate plan for the issue of silver certificates by international agreement, Director Russell said, was so dangerous and impracticable that Arendt's own friends could not find the courage to support it, and absented themselves from the sittings in which it was discussed. "No practicable method of raising the value of silver was suggested to the commission," is Director Russell's general verdict, "and if Germany ever adopts a compromise in the direction of bimetalism the motive will in all probability be political and diplomatic rather than technical and economic.

The Vorwaerts, organ of the social democratic central committees, after commenting on the commission's work, demands the appointment of an imperial labor commission to inquire into the condition of the unemployed and the causes of the prevalent distress among laborers. Such an inquiry, it says, is needed much more than was the currency inquiry.

Two Men Killed at a Wake.

DUBLIN, June 11.—An old woman who owned half an acre of ground at Nenagh, county of Tipperary, died Friday without leaving a relative or specifying an heir. Her neighbors quarrelled yesterday over the possession of her land. Some 30 men fought with scythes and pitchforks round her hut. Eventually they broke down the door, upset the body and beat each other with the candles which had stood round the body. When the fight was ended two men lay dead at the doorstep and five others were too severely wounded to walk from the scene of the conflict.

Permanent Exposition.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—In accordance with a resolution adopted by the southern industrial congress, held recently at Augusta, Ga., Mr. Walsh (dem., Ga.) introduced in the senate a bill to provide for a pernanent exposition at Washington, "in which the products and resources of the several states and territories may be fitly and properly displayed." Provision is made for the appointment of a commission to consist of the postmaster-general, the secretary of the interior and the secretary of agriculture, to report to the congress as early as practicable a plan for the establishment and maintenance of the exposition and the erection of a suitable building. The committee is directed to advertise for plans for the building, and they are to be reported to congress with a recommendation as to the site.

Simsrott Insane.

CHICAGO, June 11.—It was learned beyond reasonable doubt that William A. Simsrott, the missing secretary and treasurer of the switchmen's union, has been located in Boston. A telegram was received by Mrs. Simsrott last Tuesday stating that her husband had been discovered in that city. The telegram also contained the sad information that Simsrott is thought to be insane. Mrs. Simsrott left immediately after the receipt of the telegram for Boston to bring her demented husband back to this city, and is expected to return with him to-day. Steps have been taken to appoint a receiver for the switchmen's union, as the organization has been doing a mutual benefit insurance business without a charter.

Carnegie Workmen in Trouble.

PITTSBURG, June 1 .—Twenty-five riggers and six machinists whose names appeared on the petition presented several days ago to the Carnegie Steel company for a restoration of wages paid at the Duquesne works prior to January 1, have been discharged. The discharged men are endeavoring, it is alleged, to persuade the remaining employes in the mill to join them in the strike. Thus far, however, they have not experienced very great success in the attempt. In case a strike is declared in this plant, 2,500 men would be thrown out of employment.

DAMAGE TO THE COLUMBIA.

Indications That It Was Done by a Sunken Wreckage.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—After a microscopic inspection of the hull of the cruiser Columbia by the naval court of inquiry as she lay high and dry in the dry dock at the League island navy yard, it was found that the damage is not so great as has been expected. The dent in the vessel's bottom is ninety feet in length, as has previously been announced, and extends along the starboard side of the flat keel. It is in the waist of the ship, beginning about thirty feet from the bow, and consists simply of an irregular curvature of the keel plates, the depression in no one spot being greater than three inches. The width of the indention is a scant foot. The damage seems to have been done by some sunken wreckage, or possibly by the fluke of a sunken anchor.

Although Charles H. Cramp, of the firm that built the cruiser, and who was present at the inspection, says the damage is slight. The Columbia will be laid up for several weeks and the government will have to pay a bill for repairs of several thousand dollars, the inspection also developed the fact that a small piece of the tip end of one of the blades of the centre propeller has been broken off.

Pilot Chambers testified that the ship touched something on Bulkhead shoal on May 17, where the depth of water was 5 1-2 fathoms. The vessel was in mid-channel and had passed the point where he expected any trouble from the shoal. The speed at that time, the pilot thought, was between seven and eight knots.

"I think some obstruction had lodged on the bottom, wreckage of some kind," said the pilot. "When she touched, there was no jarring of the ship. I thought it was merely a mud lump such as frequently heels up there. It is a common thing for a heavy draught ship to touch them."

Rosebery and the Turf.

LONDON, June 11.—The newspaper battle over Lord Rosebery's connection with the turf continues with more bitterness than ever. The provincial journals have joined in the hue and cry, and it is noteworthy that several Scotch newspapers which were among the strongest supporters of Mr. Gladstone have bitterly attacked Lord Rosebery's horseracing proclivities, comparing Mr. Gladstone's scholarly pursuits with Lord Rosebery's partaking in what they call a "carnival of rascality." Several defenders of Lord Rosebery have written open letters to the newspapers stigmatizing the hypocrisy of these anti-gambling protests when at the same time the Young Men's Christian association has been rapturously welcoming American millionaires whose fortunes are due to speculations which throw the heaviest Derby bet into the shade. It is stated that unless Lord Rosebery retires from the turf at the end of the present session the liberals will place the matter before him in a strong and authoritative form. This is just the sort of thing that would make Lord Rosebery a confirmed turfite.

Drowned While Boating.

BREWSTERS, N. Y., June 11.—Two sisters, named Maggie and Bessie Blaney, and Thomas Scanlon and John McCluskey, all of Brewsters, went boating yesterday on Southeast Lake, about two miles from here. The boat upset and the four were drowned. One body has been found and a large crowd is looking for the other three bodies.

Elopers Arrested.

WINSTED, Conn., June 11.—George A. Scott, with four aliases, and Daisy Andrews, aged 17, of Housatonic, Mass., eloped on Tuesday. They were captured at a New Haven hotel Saturday night by Chief Pilson, of Great Barrington. The couple are unmarried and will be on trial at Barrington to-day. The girl's parents are wealthy.

These Industrials Eat.

AKRON, O., June 11.—The Randall detachment of the commonweal army, 250 men, arrived in this city. They are camped at Lakeside park and an admission fee will be charged the money being divided between the park and the army. There were plenty of provisions and a reception by the populists.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

A REMARKABLE CURE

OF A TERRIBLE CASE OF PILES OF FORTY YEARS STANDING EFFECTED BY DR. LIGHTHILL O/NO. 144 CRESCENT AVENUE, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was lost always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only mad its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the part became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed. H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally. JOHN C KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

Formerly of Trenton, the well-known expert in Chronic Diseases, can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

A PAMPHLET

Containing a large array of testimonials of remarkable cures, similar to that above, and giving valuable medical information on important matters, will be mailed free to any address, or furnished on application at Dr. Lighthill's office, No. 144 Crescent avenue.

COMPROMISE EFFECTED

Mine Conference at Columbus Reach a Settlement.

The Miners to Receive About Half the Advance They Demanded and to Resume Work Not Later Than Next Monday—The Settlement Effected Only in the Columbus District, But is Regarded as Practically a Settlement of the National Strike—Ohio Miners May Not Abide By the Agreement.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—The conference of operators and miners of this district, embracing western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and eastern and northern Illinois, effected a settlement of the strike last night, so far as this district is concerned, and so important is the district in the bituminous coal industry that it is regarded as practically a settlement of the national strike.

The committee, which adjourned 12 o'clock Saturday night, unable to agree, resumed work yesterday and was in session all day, with occasional intervals to permit the miners to retire to confer. At 6 o'clock the committee agreed upon a report. It is the 60 and 69 cents per ton promise, proposed by the operators at the outset of the conference.

The miners secured just half the advance they asked for.

It is agreed that the miners shall go to work not later than next Monday.

The report of the scale committee was adopted unanimously by the conference of the miners and operators late last night, and the conference adjourned sine die. It was noticed when the signatures were read that the miners had substituted for W. H. Murray and A. A. Adams, the men who stood out against compromise, John Fahy and Secretary P. A. McBryde.

The scale of prices shall be in effect and bind both parties thereto beginning June 16, 1894, and continuing until the first day of May, 1895, subject to the following provisions:

Provided that the scale prices agreed upon for the Pittsburg district shall be generally recognized and observed. It is further provided that operators and miners shall co-operate in their efforts to secure a general observance of said prices named for said district, and if, during the period covered by this agreement, a general recognition of the prices for said district cannot be secured, either party to this agreement may call a meeting of the joint board of arbitration to meet at such time and place as those having authority may elect; and said joint board, when so called, shall meet and determine, if able, whether the agreement has been sufficiently respected and complied with to warrant its continuance to the date named herein. If the board is unable to agree, the members thereof shall select a disinterested man whose decision shall be final. If it shall be found by the process above provided that it is being substantially respected it shall remain in force and bind both parties thereto for the period stipulated therein.

Secretary Brooks, according to instructions of the conference filed a copy of the agreement with Gov. McKinley as its custodian.

Gov. McKinley said to-day that he was very glad to hear of the settlement. It was in his opinion the only way to promptly and permanently end the troubles in this and other states.

Displeased With the Compromise.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—Telegrams received here from the chief mining centers of Ohio show that the miners are extremely indignant over the compromise settlement of the strike, and there may be an organized movement led by President A. A. Adams in resistance to the order to go to work. State officials are afraid now that the miners will be more difficult to control than before.

Ohio's Troops Nearly All Out.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—Gov. McKinley has ordered the Fifth regiment of infantry into the field to do duty in protecting property in Stark and Tuscarawas counties, where the miners are burning bridges along the lines of the Lake Erie and Cleveland, Wheeling railways. All the armed force of the state, except the First regiment, is now in the field.

Another Conference at Altoona.

PHILADELPDIA, June 12.—Another conference of the operators and miners of the central Pennsylvania district will be held at Altoona to-day. The operators received assurances that if they would consent to another conference they could deal directly with the miners and not through the officials of the miner's union.

St. Louis Conference a Failure.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Less than a dozen miners and only two operators were on hand when the conference was called in East St. Louis. Recognizing the whole affair as a failure the meeting adjourned.

No Free Samples of Nitrate.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Morton wishes it understood that there is no free distribution of nitrate going on in his department and that the courtesies that have been shown to Mr. Julio Foster, the Chilian nitrate agent, by the department are simply those which are invariably extended to all specially accredited agents of foreign governments. These committees have led many people to believe that the secretary of agriculture has free nitrate samples to distribute.

Came Near a Final Knock Out.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—While swimming in the thoroughfare, Walter Edgerton, the "Kentucky Rosebud," who is training here for his coming fight with Dixon in Boston, became exhausted while nearly 200 feet from the shore and would have drowned had it not been for the efforts of Trainer McHale. The trainer went to his assistance and after a hard struggle succeeded in bringing him to shore, where he was resuscitated.

From Law to Baseball.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 12.—Manager Hanlon has telegraphed to Harry Taylor, who did such clever work for the Orioles last season, to report for duty at once. Taylor has been practicing law in Buffalo, but is anxious to get into baseball harness again. He made a phenomenal record with the Cornell University team.

WED TO A COLORED PORTER.

Report From Bennington About a Middlesex, Vt., Society Girl.

BOSTON, June 12.—A Bennington, Vt., special says:

Jennie Mayo, of Middlesex, Vt., was married to Thomas Strong, of Castleton, Vt., last Wednesday. The bride is a well-known young society woman of Middlesex and the groom a colored porter at the American House at Saratoga.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the pastor of the African M. E. Church and was witnessed by half a dozen people.

Last summer Miss Mayo and her mother went to Saratoga and registered at Congress Hall. Miss Mayo, who is about 24 years old, became acquainted with Strong. Soon the affection between them ripened into love. About month ago the porter returned to Saratoga for the season. Miss Mayo had been kept apprised of Strong's movements. The two met in Saratoga and were married. The marriage certificate was signed by Mrs. L. Vandyke and Miss May Wineberry.

Strong fills the position of porter at one of the hotels in Bermuda, returning to Saratoga in the summer. His family lived in Castleton a number of years, his father being a barber there. Strong is considered to be worth several thousand dollars.

Historic Land Held High.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 12.—Several months ago the government condemned twelve acres of land north of Sherman Heights upon which was located what was known as Sherman's old earthworks, and sought to purchase the property from Squire Ford, its owner, for the purpose of making a national park of the land, and it was intended to spend $250,000 on the work, but Squire Ford asked such an exorbitant price that a jury was named to assess the value. That jury brought in an assessment of $400 per acre, but this suited neither the owner or the government and the jury was discharged. Another jury was then appointed, who went through the same tactics of examining the property and surprised everybody Saturday by bringing in a report assessing the value of the property at $825 per acre. An appeal will be taken and Judge Key of the federal court will try the case soon.

Metal Famine in Pennsylvania.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., June 12.—The first consignment of southern pig metal ever brought to Newcastle arrived Saturday for the Baldwin and Graham Stove works. It was purchased in Alabama, owing to the coal strike which has paralyzed all the industrial establishments in the Shenango valley. Blast furnaces in Sharpsville, Sharon and Newcastle, with the single exception of the Shenango Valley company's furnace, are now coked down. There is not only a coal and coke famine here, but also a metal famine, something that was never known before. At the Atlantic furnace there are 12,000 tons of metal but it is being held by a Pittsburg speculator for higher prices. The Shenango Valley Steel mill has some large orders to fill, but is unable to obtain Bessemer pig. The Newcastle tin plate mill is still running and has some large orders to fill.

A Popular Fire Chief Killed.

NEWTON, Mass., June 12.—Chief Henry L. Bixby of the Newton fire department, and one of the most widely known firemen in the country, is dead at his home on Margin street, West Newton, from the result of an accident which occurred while answering an alarm for an incipient blaze at Newtonville. His team collided with a heavy ice wagon, which suddenly blocked the street and the chief and his driver were thrown out, the former striking on his head. He was removed to his home, where he lay in a semi-conscious condition until the end. His driver, P. A. Rawson, of Worcester, was removed to the hospital, badly hurt. Chief Bixby was born in Framingham 52 years ago, and has been chief of the Newton department 16 years.

Craig Knocks Out Slavin.

The Wiman Trial.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The trial of Erastus Wiman began in the court of oyer and terminer before Judge Ingraham. Mr. Wiman is under two indictments for forgery. The first indictment, which is for forgery in the second degree, charges him with having forged the signature of E. W. Bullinger to a check for $5,000, drawn on Feb. 6, 1893, on the Chemical National bank. The check was drawn by R. G. Dun & Co. to Mr. Bullinger's order. The second indictment charges Mr. Wiman with having forged the name of Ogden Brower, treasurer of the Campbell Printing Press company, to a check for $8,000, drawn by R. G. Dun & Co. on Feb. 20, 1893. Assistant District-Attorney F. L. Wellman conducts the case for the people, while the interests of Mr. Wiman are looked after by Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, A. B. Boardman, and James N. Greenshields, Q. C., of the Canadian bar.

Forest Fires in Michigan.

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 12.—Destructive forest fires are raging in the neighborhood of Nestoria, 50 miles west of here. Two bridges on the South Shore road, near here, were burned, stopping traffic to Duluth, and a hard fight was necessary to protect the company's property at Nestoria. The burning district covers an area a mile long and five miles wide, and the destruction to timber must be enormous. Similar big fires extend southward at intervals for many miles. Sagola, a lumbering village of 400 inhabitants, was completely wiped out, and a freight train on the Milwaukee & Northern passing through there was set on fire and several cars burned. Only the most meagre reports can be received, as in many places the wires are down and travel suspended entirely.

MULEY HASSAN'S DEATH.

Latest Despatches Say That He Was Carried Off With Malignant Fever.

LONDON, June 12.—News received from the interior of Morocco confirms an early report of the death of Sultan Muley Hassan. The representatives of the foreign governments are in consultation upon the subject.

It is rumored that the sultan's son, Mulai Abdul Aziz, has been proclaimed sultan of Morocco. There have been no disturbances, and no disorder is apprehended.

The sultan died while traveling between the capital and Rabat. He was born in 1831, and became sultan on Sept. 25, 1873.

A prominent banker of this city has received a despatch from Tangier, saying the belief prevails that the late sultan of Morocco was foully murdered.

His successor, Mulai Abdul, is 16 years old. He is the son of the old sultan's favorite wife, a Circassian woman. The old sultan's famous one-eyed son, the first-born of his numerous children, is already regarded as a pretender, and it is feared that he will take advantage of the first opportunity to incite the people to rise in his behalf.

The cabinet decided in council to double the garrisons at Melilla and Ceuta, Morocco. Warships have been ordered to Mazagan, Tangier and Rabat, all ports of Morocco, as the Spanish government fears that the change of sovereigns may prove the signal for numerous outbreaks.

Prospect of a Shrinkage of Wheat.

DULUTH, Minn., June 12.—It is now considered that there are good grounds for belief that by the first part of August there will not be wheat enough at the head of the lakes to supply the mills. The amount in store at the present time is scarcely 7,000,000 bushels. The amount now left in farmers' hands is not estimated at enough to be worthy of mention. For the past three weeks millers have been drawing largely upon the elevators for their supplies, the receipts by rail being far short of the amount necessary for their consumption. The supply is more than likely to be exhausted before the new crop begins to move.

McClusker's Body Recovered.

BREWSTERS, N. Y., June 12—The body of John McClusker, the last of the ill-fated pleasure seekers who were drowned in the reservoir Sunday afternoon, has been recovered. It was found about 200 feet south of where the remains of Maggie Blaney were found. When the body was brought to the surface a hat belonging to one of the unfortunate young women was found to be tightly clasped in McClusker's arms, and it is indicated that they went down together. McClusker's face was badly discolored and bore an expression of unutterable anguish. His watch had stopped at 4:45 o'clock.

IN EXILE IN SIBERIA

Move for the Release of an American Citizen.

Stanislaus Korzwinski, Well-Known in Buffalo, Where He Has Two Sons Living, Said to Be Unlawfully Detained By the Russian Government.

BUFFALO, June 12.—The Poles of Buffalo are determined to secure the release of a fellow-citizen, a former resident of Buffalo, who was arrested on revisiting Russia after an absence of 28 years, and the United States government will be asked to demand his discharge from the salt mine in Siberia to which he has been transported.

Stanislaus Frank Korzwinski, the exiled American citizen, is well known in Buffalo. He is 65 years old.

About 28 years ago he left Russian Poland and came to the United States. He brought with him two sons and two daughters. His wife remained behind, and for 28 years the couple had not met until some time in March 1884.

About 21 years ago Korzwinski lived in New York city where he was naturalized, five years after his arrival in the metropolis. Seven years ago Korzwinski removed to Buffalo. He lived here that time with the exception of about two years spent in Pennsylvania.

Korzwinski had sent money and many letters to his wife, and had urged her for years to join him. She did not come to the United States, probably fearing that if she attempted to leave Russian Poland she would be arrested and exiled.

It is a violation of the Russian law for a native to leave the czar's dominions without permission from the government. That was what Korzwinski did 28 years ago.

Russian officials have good memories as is demonstrated by Korzwinski's arrest and exile soon after he had reached his native land.

Heedless of the risk of arrest, and believing that his American citizenship would protect him from Russian laws, Korzwinski determined to see his wife and other relatives in Russian-Poland.

Armed with a passport and the necessary papers, he sailed from New York on the Diana, on March 8, 1884. He reached Wlocawek and saw his wife and relatives. Then he started out to spend three or four months traveling through Russian-Poland, intending to return to the United States and to bring his wife with him.

At Lutomielsk he was arrested. Before his relatives could do anything he was on his way as an exile to the salt mines in Siberia.

The American consul in Warsaw was notified and attempted to delay Korzwinski's transportation to Siberia, but was informed that nothing could be done.

The Russian officers demanded a bond for Korzwinski's appearance when wanted before a local tribunal. He had 600 rubles, or about $300, but the money was confiscated by the officers.

The news of Korzwinski's exile reached Buffalo last Saturday. It came in the form of a letter written by his brother-in-law, Mr. Jankowski, of Wlocawek, to A. E. Sielski, of No. 1114 Broadway, this city, an intimate friend of Korzwinski.

Fearing detection by the alert Russian officials, Jankowski traveled many miles, crossed the frontier into Germany and mailed it in Thorn.

A petition was prepared yesterday which will be presented to Secretary of State Gresham asking that the government demand that Korzwinski be released from the mines in Siberia and permitted to return to Buffalo.

Mr. Sileska said that the petition will be signed by 1,500 or 2,000 Polish citizens of Buffalo.

Korzwinski had been at Hazleton, Pa., for nearly two years as agent for the United Industrial Life Insurance company of Newark, N. J. He has two sons in Buffalo, S. C. Frank and Ignatz, of No. 901 Broadway, and a daughter, who lives in Perry, N. J.

Tramps Shoot a Conductor.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 12.—Five tramps boarded a freight train on the Grand Trunk road near Hamilton, and upon being ordered from the cars by Conductor Turner, pulled their revolvers and fired at Turner, each round taking effect. The tramps then jumped from the train and took to the woods. Turner was brought to Jordan station where it is thought he will die. The tramps were surrounded in the woods by a constable's posse, and after exchanging several shots finally surrendered and were taken to St. Catherines and locked up.

De Felice's Efforts for Release.

ROME, June 12.—Deputy De Felice, who was sentenced to 18 years' imprisonment for conspiracy and sedition, is conferring with his lawyers in the prison at Florence as to his appeal, which will probably be heard on August 5. His lawyers will demand that the sentence be cancelled, on the grounds that the Palermo military tribunal before which De Felice was tried had no legal existence, and that De Felice did not conspire and did not incite the people to revolution.

Acting Like Citizens Now.

WASHINGTON, June 12. — Coxey and Browne came to the capitol yesterday afternoon, carrying no prohibited banners, accompanied by no mob and using the asphalted walk instead of the grass in approaching the building and spent some time in the senate gallery. Browne did not wear his theatrical leather coat, and consequently the two commonwealers attracted little attention.

Women Voters Barred in Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., June 12.—The supreme court, through Chief Justice Beasley, has just decided that women have no right to vote in New Jersey and that wherever they exercised the right of suffrage, it was illegal assumption of power. The decision comes in connection with a proceeding to oust from office the road overseer of Englewood township, Bergen county.

Princeton Tennis Championship.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12.—The tennis tournament for the championship of the college in singles has been won by H. Colby, '95, of New York. In the finals he defeated T. Jessup, '97—6-1, 6-3, 0-6, 6-3.

McClave's Condition Still Improving.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., June 12.—The condition of Police Commissioner McClave is reported as still improving.

MANY UNHAPPY HOMES.

"Home, Sweet Home"—the author of the most touching lines ever written had no home; born in New York, he died in Algiers.

Many parents today who live in fine houses are homeless—the baby has gone.

The changeable weather in spring and early summer brings desolation into many homes because of mistakes in the baby's food.

Practical men of science, physicians and philanthropists, long considered infant feeding the greatest medical problem and the most valuable practical outcome of their many investigations was lactated food.

Lactated food should now be fed to babies in preference to anything else but absolutely wholesome breast milk. The most successful physicians use lactated food exclusively. It is the purest, the most nutritious and the most easily assimilated infant food. It is retained on the stomach when other food is rejected. It builds up the strength when without it summer complaints bring dangerous weakness.

Profound knowledge of infant diseases has guided in the preparation of lactated food. It is the only safe substitute for natural mother's milk. It counteracts the weakness and resulting emaciation of diarrhoea. It sustains the strength and supplies rich blood and solid bone. Lactated food is a triumph of human intelligence in successfully combatting infant disorders.

STATE PROBLEMS.

Several Foreign Affairs Puzzle Washington Authorities.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Gresham, who intended to go to stay away from Washington for about ten days, may not be able to leave until later in the week. The peculiar complication of affairs in Salvador where twenty members of the late government are refugees on the United States Steamship Bennington, is said to be the reason for the delay. Yesterday Secretary Gresham with Secretary Herbert had important conferences with the president during which a number of subjects not connected with Salvador were discussed, including the Samoan matter and Bluefields dispute. It is understood that the government will not deliver to the temporary rulers of Salvador anyone who has received asylum on the Bennington, but has directed Commander Thomas to place them on board a merchant vessel bound for Columbian or Mexican ports. The conclusion has also been reached to send no ships to Samoa for the next month at least. The Bluefields affair is in an apparently inextricable tangle and altogether further from settlement than it was a month ago. It is stated at the state department that no advices of importance have been received from Hawaii for some time, and that Secretary Gresham is anxious to see the contents of the mail from there.

Violated No Law.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 12.—The schooner Loring B. Haskell, of this port, has arrived home from the banks, and Capt. Day tells the story of her escape from the Canadian cruiser Vigilant last Monday. He states that on Saturday, June 2, the Haskell ran into Canso for supplies. One of the men wanted to remain there, but Capt. Day would not consent, and for revenge he believes that the man told the authorities that the Haskell had shipped men in Liverpool in violation of the law, and as a result the Vigilant was notified to seize the vessel. As the Haskell was passing Fort Hawkesbury the Vigilant's boat lay directly in her path and ordered her to stop. As Capt. Day had a perishable cargo, and it would be spoiled if the schooner was seized, he refused to obey. The Vigilant fired three shots at the Haskell, but she did not stop and in an hour left the cruiser far astern. Capt. Day said: "I have violated no law, for I took out a fishing license in Liverpool and one in Newfoundland, and have the right to lay in harbor twenty-four hours without reporting at the custom-house."

Will Welcome German Singers.

ALBANY, June 12.—Gov. Flower has left for the woods on a fishing trip, and will not return before Friday. He has accepted an invitation to go to New York June 23d and extend a welcome on behalf of the state to the German societies expected from all parts of the country to the grand singers' convention.

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

There's hardly a housekeeper in the country but has heard of Cottolene the new vegetable shortening. It is a strictly natural product; composed only of clarified cotton seed oil, thickened for convenience in use, with refined beef suet, pure and sweet. So composed,

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap imitations with vegetable names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.

It's easy to avoid disappointment and ensure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

DUNN WILL RUN.

Our Congressman Not to Be Intimidated from Striving for a Second Term.

(Tom Lane's Washington Correspondence in The Summit Record.)

In parts of New Jersey an effort has been made to spread the impression that Hon. John T. Dunn will decline a renomination for Congress on account of the outrageous manner in which the Eighth District has been patched-out by the Republican gerrymander. Most of these stories concerning Mr. Dunn are inspired by a feeling of jealousy among a few members of the Democratic party and circulated by Democrats with whom "the wish fathers the thought". It may be said, however, that there is not the slightest foundation for the assertion that Mr. Dunn will retire from Congress at the close of his present term. The reports that he receives from the various sections of his District, indicate a very general desire on the part of his constituents that he shall continue to represent them, and there is no indication of the slightest opposition to his renomination. Many of Mr. Dunn's friends who have looked over the new district, say that he will have little difficulty in carrying it, as there is a well-defined spirit of fair play that will resent and rebuke the conspiracy to gerrymander a member out of Congress before the completion of his first term. These friends say Mr. Dunn's work in Congress is in perfect accord with the views of his constituents, and believe he will carry the new district by a much larger majority than he received in the old district.

SCHOOL YEAR ENDING.

Prizes Awarded for Deportment and Scholarship.

Miss Rocap's School for Boys closed today. The last week has been spent in final examinations, and the boys' last work was the committing to memory of the following:

The boy that by Addition grows,
And suffers no Subtraction,
Who Multiplies the things he knows,
And carries every Fraction,
Who well Divides his precious time,
The due Proportion giving,
To sure success aloft will climb,
Interest Compound receiving.

First prize for deportment and studies was received by Master Ralph Schoonmaker; second prizes for the same by Masters Gordon Abbott, Harold Dollner, Howard Bushnell and Ralph Vail.

Miss Ida Rocap will take her class of girls on a picnic tomorrow. There will be eleven happy children Wednesday afternoon, but one more happy and proud than her classmates, Lulu Maud Vail, who received the prize in writing.

WEST END NOTES.

The Young People's Society of Hope Chapel will meet in the chapel tonight at 8.

The Crescents will play the Madisons of New York on the Crescent Oval Saturday.

Michael Burk of South Second street has returned from the Hall Circus, which has failed.

An Astute Lawyer.

—Justice Nash today issued a summons returnable June 21 in the contract case of VanZandt against Bailey.

—By the 8:22 train last evening Terrill & Cole forwarded the body of Miss Jennie Higgins, the telephone operator who died yesterday morning. The funeral will be held from the home of her parents, Belle Mead, tomorrow.

Spencer Conway and Secretary H. P. Thomas of the Colored Y. M. C. A. will leave Thursday morning to attend the convention of colored Baptists in Brooklyn.

CAN'T STUMP HIM ON LAW.

Judge VanSyckel's Decision Sustains Craig A. Marsh in the Watson Liquor Case.

The Press of yesterday said: "The Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth today non-suited the city in the Watson liquor case. Appeal was taken." The decision was given on the ground that the city did not prove that Watson was unlicensed. Corporation Counsel Marsh said to the Court that such proof was wholly unnecessary. The Court said "Why?" Mr. Marsh replied: "Because the Supreme Court has so decided." The Court asked for authority. Mr. Marsh went to the law library in the court-house and produced Greenleaf on Evidence, holding precisely what he claimed. Judge McCormick asked for a New Jersey authority. Mr. Marsh said Judge VanSyckel had so decided, but the case decided by Judge VanSyckel could not be produced because the book was not in the library. Judge McCormick said: "I will rule against you, but give you an exception, so that you may take the case to the Supreme Court." Mr. Marsh asked to have the record made straight and took his exception.

The decision of Judge VanSyckel referred to by Mr. Marsh sustains him in every respect. The syllabus of the case is as follows:

"In a prosecution for the sale of liquor without license, the prosecutor need not prove the want of license. If the defendant relies on a license in defence, he must produce it."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. J. H. Cooley's son is home from college.

Mrs. Elias Allen is erecting a dwelling on her Harmony street property.

J. S. Lunger of Westervelt avenue is steadily improving from the results of his fall.

T. H. Keller is on a business trip through New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Joseph Sattels has returned from Indiana where he visited his dying brother and attended the funeral.

Rev. J. Vaughan of Livingston, N. Y., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baxter and family of 813 Richmond street.

Jacob Miles of Somerset street and Johnston drive, who has been confined to his residence for some time, is somewhat improved.

Miss Clara M. Burt returned from Brattleboro, Vt. to her home in West Seventh street last evening. She is much improved from the injuries received in the runaway accident.

Miss Mullen of Brooklyn is the guest of Miss Krymer of West Second street. At the Children's Day services in Trinity Reformed Church Miss Mullen sang second soprano in the choir.

Miss Bertha Englehart of Grandview avenue was married this afternoon at 4 to Wm. Kirch of Warrenville, brother of George Kirch of Grandview avenue and Somerset street. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, Rev. C. E. Herring officiating. The wedding trip is to Washington.

Rev. C. E. Scudder of North Plainfield left this morning for Hunter, in the Catskill Mountains, New York State, where he will rest for two weeks at the home of his parents. Mr. Scudder has been engaged by the officers of St. Paul's M. E. Church in Newark to preach in that church the last Sunday in July and all the month of August.

Didn't Make a Sale.

A certain shopwalker in a large establishment is noted for his severity to those under him in business. One day he approached a junior assistant, from whose counter a lady had just gone away.

"You let that lady go out without her making a purchase?" he asked severely.

"Yes, sir—I"——

"And she was at your counter fully 10 minutes?"

"Doubtless, but then, you see"——

"Exactly. I saw that in spite of all the questions she put to you you rarely answered her and never attempted to get what she wanted."

"Well, but"——

"I shall report you for carelessness."

"Well, I hadn't what she wanted."

"What was that?"

"Half a crown! She's a book canvasser getting subscribers to the 'Life of Nelson!'"

And the shopwalker retired crestfallen.—London Tit-Bits.

Her Social Triumph.

Mrs. Gossip—I hear you attracted much notice on your appearance in the social world abroad.

Mrs. Numoney—I should say so. I wore on an average from $20,000 to $35,000 of diamonds every ball I went to.—Chicago Record.

A Burglar Alarm.

Jimmy Hope, the ex-burglar, is living quietly in this city. He is often seen on Broadway, but always alone. One day he was asked if there was such a thing in existence as a burglar alarm that could be depended upon. "Yes," he replied. "A dark house will never be entered by any one but a greenhorn. Groping about in a house where there is no light is a thing that appalls the boldest housebreaker."—New York World.

A short club run, the first of the season, will start from the Crescent club-house Saturday evening at 8.

Olaf Sangstad will enter the novice, the one mile and the two mile handicap races in Waverly Park, Saturday.

A special meeeting of the Victor Wheelmen will be held at the home of Captain Israel Jones Thursday evening.

The Crescent Wheelmen have entered a team of three in the two-mile race of the Elizabeth Athletic Club in Waverly next Saturday.

The Crescents will have a century club run to Wilmington, Del., Saturday, June 23, leaving the club-house at 5 a. m. sharp. Members who intend to go should notify Capt. Haynes by June 21.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS ANNIVERSARY.

State President Pierson Makes an Address, and Miss Spangenberg Tells the Little Ones of the Similarity of Endeavor Work to the Magnet — Reports Indicate Gratifying Success.

In the First Baptist Church last evening was celebrated the first anniversary of the formation of the Young People's Society of Christian Endervor of the church. The church had been specially decorated for the occasion. On the front of the pulpit was a silver "C" with a golden "E" within. Daisies and ferns had been placed about the platform, the ferns being grouped naturally, the roots resting in their native soil. On the left was a cross of daisies. Above were two blue jars filled with white peonies. The regular choir sang.

After the opening hymn Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes read from the Scriptures and Rev. Arthur Crane prayed. The choir sang and then President George F. Brown asked for a report from the secretary of the society.

Secretary Norman H. Probasco read the following:

To the Officers and Members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church:

It is very pleasing to report the progress made by our society since its organization one year ago.

On May 26, 1893, a special business meeting of the Y. P. L. was held, at which time it was unanimously decided to disband and reorganize, forming a C. E. Society.

Our present society started with a membership of fourteen on June 9, 1893. In September it was admitted to the County Union, and in October to the Local Union. Business and consecration meetings have been held every month, and have been well attended. We have had eleven business meetings at which seventy-seven active, one associate and thirteen honorary members have been received, making an increase of about 8 members per month, and an average increase of about 7 active members per month; our society now having a membership of 90 of which 5 are never on the absent list. The average attendance at the consecration meetings is about 60, and the average attendance of active members 33.

The president and vice-president have shown that they were men who had the C. E. work at heart, and have always been on the alert to acquire some new knowledge with regard to their Master's work by which they might help our C. E. Society.

County and local unions have been entertained at our church during the last year.

The work that the different committees have accomplished certainly is deserving of greatest praise. They have each realized they were Christian Endeavorers, and each have performed the duties devolving upon them, by God's help, to the best of their abilities.

I. PRAYER MEETING COMMITTEE.

In the course of the year the first chairman of this committee tendered his resignation to the society. It was very reluctantly accepted by the Executive Committee. The president appointed Chas. French as chairman in his place and he furnished the society with very interesting leaders until the expiration of his office on March 8, 1894. At the annual business meeting held on March 9, 1894, the present chairman was elected, and it is with great pleasure that I report the progress made. The meetings have been interesting and attractive and God's spirit seemed to be present.

II. LOOKOUT COMMITTEE.

The society is indebted to the present chairman and his co-workers who have earnestly striven to add to the growth of the society. They have been greatly blessed in their endeavors and tonight we are able to report an active membership of 77. Let us hope that at the close of another year their report may show greater increase in numbers.

III. SOCIAL COMMITTEE.

Since our society is as yet young, having only existed one year up to the present date, we cannot expect that we have had many sociable gatherings. Until March 1894 only one sociable had been held, but it was in no wise due to the neglect of this committee, but as there have been so many entertainments of like character it has been almost impossible to find a suitable time. On March 9 our present chairman was elected. The sociable held last month was a grand success in every way. It was thoroughly enjoyed by both young and old. Much thanks are due the chairman and his co-workers for the pleasant evening's entertainment.

IV. TEMPERANCE COMMITTEE.

This committee have found very little to do, although when called upon they have performed all their duties satisfactorily. The former chairman co-operated with the representatives of the various C. E. societies in the city in an attempt to procure a temperance lecturer to speak in the various churches in our city, but owing to satisfactory reasons the project was dropped for the present. On March 9, 1894, the present chairman was elected.

VI. MISSIONARY COMMITTEE.

Miss Linda Butler was elected as the first chairman of this committee, but owing to ill-health she was forced to resign the position. Her resignation was very reluctantly accepted, and the president appointed Mr. Batchelor to fill the vacancy. On March 9, 1894, the present chairman was elected. Owing to the fact that there has been very little work for this committee to do, and most of our members already being engaged in missionary work, it was decided on March 9, 1894 to place one chairman over the Temperance and Missionary Committees.

VI. MUSIC COMMITTEE.

We are grateful to the chairman of this committee for providing someone to take charge of the musical portion of our weekly meetings, and we also are under obligations to our friends for the great interest they have taken in this part of our work.

VII. WELCOME COMMITTEE.

The work of this committee under the present chairman is progressing favorably. Let us all aid him in his work by appointing ourselves as his assistants.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY.

The Corresponding Secretary has always ably filled her position, and has been faithful in informing the society of the various meetings and doings of the Christian Endeavor of our State. We also heartily thank her for her excellent report of the State Convention held at Trenton.

TREASURER.

The treasurer's reports during the year have been favorable. He has been very attentive to the duties which devolve upon him, and very faithful.

JUNIOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The present superintendent of the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor deserves credit for the able manner in which she is conducting the society. Let us hope that God will shower His blessings upon the Juniors, and many souls may be won.

RECORDING SECRETARY.

The manner in which the former Recording Secretary performed the duties devolving upon him certainly is praiseworthy. His neatness and accuracy are especially commendable.

At the close of this short summary of our year's work I cannot help but feel that God's blessings have rested upon us; that we may each rejoice in the work accomplished, looking forward into the future with hopes for greater success. May we never falter, nor be discouraged, but always keep the Master's words in our minds "Lo! I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

Respectfully,
N. H. PROBASCO, Sec'y.

June 11, 1894.

Our Junior Society was organized in October 1893, five months after the older society.

Many of the children of the Sunday-school became at once interested, and attended the meetings, about twenty-two being the average.

Since the beginning but few have signed the cards, though all take an active part in the meetings, which are held every Friday afternoon.

We found an hour too long, so we devote but half an hour now, with every minute filled.

Singing, sentence prayers, a short talk on the topic, form a part of the usual programme.

In December the Juniors under the leadership of N. H. Probasco, then superintendent, gave a Mother Goose entertainment, which netted $30, all of which was given for home missionary purposes, and which I believe will entitle them to a place on the Roll of Honor at the Cleveland Convention.

They are now preparing to send a barrel to a city missionary in New York.

When the Rev. Mr. Crane held revival services here he conducted a children's service at which many Juniors were present, and one afternoon talked for a short time to the Juniors themselves.

Each of these afternoons was a turning point in the lives of some of them, for since that time six attendants of the Juniors meetings, two being officers, have united with the church, and others have become Christians.

We are sure the society has benefited many, and hope much for the coming year—claiming the promise: "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Netherwood was introduced. Her address was especially for the Junior Endeavorers. A magnet and a number of nails were used in illustrating her remarks. In brief she said: The Junior Society is much like a magnet. It must possess attractive powers and it must retain its magnetism. Like nails, boys and girls are drawn to the society. This first nail represents the boy who clings on because the society teaches him to be a "Christian everywhere". Another is drawn because he is taught how to express his love for Christ and be a witness for his Master. Another because then he can obtain a certain education which it would be impossible to secure elsewhere, how to carry on meetings, how the Bible teaches. Another is attracted because the society holds up "Constant Endeavor" with a new motto, "Try and Trust". The society is attractive to others because it upholds Christ as the best Example.

There are some who are attracted but who are not held fast. They are tied to other nails, companions who are not Christians. Others have toys tied to them, pleasures for which they neglect their Endeavor membership. The rusty nail is like the member who grows indifferent because of absence from meetings. Wooden nails can not be magnetized; the Endeavorer must have some of the Christian Endeavor steel or iron in him. A nail covered with muslin resembles a child covered with selfishness. It must be taken off before the magnetic power can be manifested.

Miss Spangenberg concluded by urging the young peopleto be more faithful to the Endeavor movement. The next speaker was Rev. J. Judson Pierson of Bridgeton, President of the State Y. P. S. C. E. Union, for many years a resident of Duer street. He was welcomed with the singing of "Blessed be the tie that binds", all rising and giving him the Chautauqua salute. He alluded to the fact that he was converted in the lecture room under where he stood; and referred to his connection with the church. He was grateful to Dr. Yerkes, who had thrown him the life line. He was pleased to be in the church again and especially at the first anniversary of the Y. P. S. C. E. It could not be told yet what had resulted from the year's work. The future might tell. After telling of the arrangements made for the Cleveland convention in July, he made an address on "Endeavor Opportunity". Briefly stated, his remarks were:

Christian Endeavor is a new opportunity. God's seal is on it, as its accomplishments have shown. First, it is an opportunity for the Christian worker to learn his trade. The young people have been taught and put to work. I once found a young woman who always showed a great interest in young pastors. As a mark of appreciation she gave me a hen. In Hamilton College I had taken a short course in theoretical architecture, so I tried to build a coop for the hen. The building which I finally made was such a disappointment to the hen that she could hardly be driven into it. I had the theory of building, but no practice.

Another opportunity is for fostering interdenominational fellowship. I met three other ministers in Richfield Springs a short time ago. We went fishing in the same boat. All was formal between us until the first fish was caught. Then we forgot formality and soon had four fine strings of fish. We began to talk about church unity and found that, while all favored it, it would be hard to agree on a foundation. The Lutheran wished all to be Lutherans for his was the historical church; the Presbyterian wanted all to come with him because of the order in his church; the Methodist thought the fervency and fire of his denomination essential; and the Baptist expected everyone to settle on the Word of God as he had. Unity of church was not possible in the boat. Just as many fish were caught, however, although they went on different strings.

An opportunity for good citizenship is the Endeavor movement. Once the life line was in the hands of the pastor and the evangelist; now all have hold and are saving souls. The address ended with an appeal for all to work under the motto of the State Convention, "The young people of New Jersey for Christ and the Church".

The meeting closed with the singing of "How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord."

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

C. S. Day and Miss Emma Nelson went to South Orange for a bicycle trip this morning.

Miss Edith Rose of Brooklyn has returned home after spending a week at Mrs. Hannah Nelson's.

Elmer Blackford, who for the past two weeks had been ill in Brooklyn, is able to be out again.

William Dunham and wife of Alfred Centre spent Sunday at his father's on Prospect avenue.

Fred. Gaskill has been engaged to attend to the street lamps. They are a great benefit to the town.

Miss Lizzie Van Doren of Bound Brook and Joseph Harr of Brooklyn spent Sunday at R. L. Pierce's.

Bert Fletcher, accompanied by Irene Day, visited friends in Millstone today, making the trip on their wheels.

Alfred Wilson of New Brunswick, a student in Rutgers College, was in town Sunday visiting his parents.

Dr. C. R. Thiers of Plainfield, accompanied by a friend, spent Saturday afternoon fishing below Randolphville.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pierce left Friday for their home in Jersey City, after spending several weeks at R. L. Pierce's.

Invitations are out announcing the marriage of Charles Dayton of this place to Miss Cora Higgins of Flemington.

C. T. Rogers's building is nearly painted, making a great improvement. George Ryno of South Plainfield does the work.

Posters are out announcing the sale of household and stable goods of the late Henry Van Middlesworth at Dunellen, June 20.

Mrs. Edward Richard entertained her Sunday-school class on the lawn yesterday. Refreshments were served about 5 o'clock.

Eighteen strawberries brought into Day's printing office made one quart. George Blair said they were raised by Henry Ludwici.

Horace Green of Piscataway ran into the gates at the railroad crossing in Dunellen Saturday morning. Only slight damage was done.

The Fourth of July Committee are making arrangements for a big time to be held here this Summer, and it is hoped a big crowd will gather.

Mrs. Albert Drake and Mrs. R. L. Pierce attended the Baptist Convention at Newark last week, and report having had a very enjoyable time.

George Coriell has improved the appearance of his house by adding a kitchen to the rear, and this week he intends having a porch built all the way across the front.

Friendship Band will soon introduce a new piece of music before the public, it having been composed by David Lawson, basso soloist of that organization, and it is called Friendship March.

The appearance of Holy Innocents' Church has been much improved by the addition of a brass rail and curtain enclosing the choir, and a similar one at the doorway leading into the vestry.

School closed last Friday for the Summer vacation. On account of the small attendance the teacher thought it best to have no exercises this year. If the attendance next Fall does not increase it will be a great saving to employ only one teacher.

Justice Storms is suffering from a tumor on his lower lip. The tumor lately grew worse, and necessitates his wearing a silver clamp over his lip to keep the plaster in position. This is of course very inconvenient, as he cannot hold lengthy conversations with his friends.

Friendship Band will hold a festival on Dr. Nelson's lawn tomorrow evening. Strawberries, ice-cream and cake will be served in abundance. A feature of the evening will be the balloting for the most popular woman of New Market or Dunellen. A handsome lamp will be awarded to the winner. Come one, come all. The band will furnish music during the evening.

Any one entering the Seventh-Day Baptist Church Saturday would have known that something out of the usual order was going on, for the ladies had beautifully decorated the church and pulpit with ferns, roses, daisies and many other flowers, which had a very good effect. The service was given up to the children, and was interesting from beginning to end. The recitations were appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Peterson, the pastor, gave an interesting address which was well received by the audience. Below is the programme as carried out, being taken from a leaflet entitled "Consider the Lilies":

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY.

Supt. Maxson and Dr. Probasco Set at Rest Malicious Rumors.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The pupils of the Franklin school came this morning much wrought up by the report that there were very many cases of scarlet fever in that school. How such stories get started I do n't know; but as there may be a number of parents disturbed by them I wish to say, by your courtesy, that I cannot learn of a single child now out from that school by reason of fever in his family. I do not think that there is more fever prevalent in the schools than there is nearly every year, not enough for any parent to feel uneasy about it. The teachers watch the children closely and immediately send home any that have any suspicious symptoms, before they reach the point where they could communicate the disease, if they had it. Children from homes where the disease exists are excluded until they obtain from the Board of Health permission to return. I am keeping close watch of the cases occurring, and if they should become excessively numerous in any school, I should ask the Board to close it. I would ask each parent, therefore, to discredit any stories regarding the matter. There need be no uneasiness regarding it.

Sincerely yours,
H. M. MAXSON,
Supt. of Schools.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Knowing that some parents were uneasy about the report that scarlet fever was prevalent in the schools, Supt. Maxson and I have for some time been watching the schools very closely, to guard against it and to take prompt measures if there should be any need. I do not find that there are very many cases nor that they are increasing. I do not think, as a physician, that any parent need feel any fear or anxiety about his children attending any of the public schools. If any danger should arise, I should be among the first to know of it and should take immediate action to protect the children.

Yours respectfully,
J. B. PROBASCO,
Pres't Board of Education.

Defends Her Husband.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I should like to say through your valuable paper that my husband, Thomas Shelly, had no hand nor part in the disgraceful affair that happened Saturday, June 2, on the Terrill road.

We have lived for the past 18 years in Plainfield, and can truthfully say as well as our many friends, that he has always been industrious and faithful to his wife and home, and has never been brought before into any disgraceful act. This charge now brought against him is a conspiracy, and I hope his past record will clear him and bring the guilty ones to justice

Whitewash Wanted.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—We read that two large picnic parties from Plainfield wore the whitewash off the roof of Washington Rock, Saturday. It is time it was white again. It is almost four years since John Laing coated it, or just four months before he died. William H. Wyckoff, the kalsominer, did it. It has not been fixed since. He can be found again at 191 West Third street.

WHAT A MISTAKE!

Mrs. Wilcox Suffered Years Thinking There Was No Relief.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

One night in a terrible snowstorm a man walked in a circle till daylight because he thought that he was lost.

He had been tramping all night within a stone's throw of his home.

There is a woman in Philadelphia who lived for years in a daily circle of suffering, because she thought there was no relief.

Her suffering was caused by female weakness in its worst forms. She had pain in her back and loins, great fatigue from walking, leucorrhœa, local inflammation, and a frequent desire to urinate.

All this time relief was close at hand, and she had only to accept it with the same faith that has saved thousands of others. Every druggist had it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her of all weakness and disease, and she is now a different woman. This woman is Mrs. Walter Wilcox, of 736 West Street, who advises all women who suffer so from female weaknesses to try it and be cured. It cures kidney trouble in either sex, expels tumors, removes backache, and invigorates the system.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The date of the Trinity Reformed excursion is changed from July 6 to Thursday, Aug. 9

The young people have prepared to keep you cool and in good humor at the festival in the First Presbyterian Church chapel tonight.

An adjourned quarterly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4.

F. Richard Stevens, assisted by members of the Camera Club, will entertain the children in Grace P. E. Chapel tonight with a number of lantern-slide views.

Grace Methodist Church and Sunday-school have arranged to go on an excursion to Roten Point on the Sound, with the M. E. Church of Westfield, Tuesday, July 17.

Beginning next Sunday, the Sunday-school of the First M. E. Church will be held in the morning at 10, the church service following at 11. This arrangement will continue during the Summer.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Miss Spangenberg went to Springfield this afternoon to organize a Christian Endeavor society.

The Junior Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed Church will celebrate their fourth anniversary next Sunday evening in the church. An interesting programme is being arranged.

The next and closing sociable of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church will be held in the church parlors Thursday evening of this week.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the fourth day of June instant an ordinance of which the following is a true copy to wit:

An ordinance to provide for a system of sewerage.

Whereas, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in said city as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in said city in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890:

And whereas, On the 21st day of May, A. D., eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

And whereas, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the common council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said common council:

And whereas, it has appeared and does appear to the said common council and the said common council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said city as shown by the assessors books have petitioned said common council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said city in the manner provided for said act;

And whereas, in the opinion of the said common council the public good requires that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said common council has so determined and doth hereby so determine: therefore,

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That the common council doth hereby direct and order that a system of sewerage be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the act of the legislature aforesaid with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, land, and rights of way, described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Sec. 2. That the said Common Council doth hereby determine to acquire by purchase and to take and appropriate the lands and real estate necessary to be taken and appropriated for the construction of said system of sewerage, and to make compensation to the owner or owners thereof by payment of damages therefor in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act. Was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by the said Common Council at a special meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, 109 Park avenue in said City of Plainfield, on Monday, the eighteenth day of June instant at the hour of 8 o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing or otherwise as the Common Council may at that time direct. And public notice is hereby given of the intention of the said Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in said ordinance to be made and such persons or corporations as may object thereto are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office (109 Park avenue in the City of Plainfield, N. J.) at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of said days, and said common council at such meeting to be held on the day of June instant as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.

By direction of the common council.

BRAKES AGAIN APPLIED

Tariff Progress Meets With Another Slow Down.

The Wool Schedule Having Been Reached, Senator Quay Will Deliver Another Instalment of His Speech Begun April 16—Several Paragraphs Rushed Through.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The senate began the tariff discussion to-day with the wool schedule, the subject under consideration, and the promise of a renewal of the obstruction tactics on the part of the minority. Mr. Quay is to reopen his portfolio and deliver another instalment of the speech begun by him on the 16th of April and of which numerous parts have already been delivered.

The progress made yesterday in consideration of the bill was not only exceptionally good, but was "amazing" to those senators who had no idea of what was going to happen. Schedule H, the spirits and wine schedule, got through in less than three hours, with very little discussion and with no serious friction. Then came the cotton schedule, which had been looked forward to as the one around which the fight would rage longest and fiercest, but it was the unexpected that happened. Paragraph after paragraph was put through without question and without discussion, and it was not until the last paragraph in the schedule was reached and disposed of that the rapidity of the pace gave a chance to Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) to catch his breath and express his amazement at this legislative rapid transit.

Ten pages of the bill had been rushed through in 30 minutes without a single New England senator opening his mouth in opposition. Their silence, he thought, was magnificent.

The mystery which puzzled the senator from oregon was dissipated when Mr. Aldrich (rep., R. I.) confessed that the schedule had been most scientifically framed, and that the finance committee deserved the thanks of the cotton manufacturers for having consented to an arrangement which, while the duties were not high enough, was perfectly satisfactory.

The jute section, which was next in order, had not such smooth sailing as the cotton section had, which fact provoked the sarcastic remark of Mr. Hale (rep., Me.), that the finance committee had not paid so much attention to the pacification of the manufacturers of burlaps as to that of the manufacturers of cotton.

There were some amusing and interesting passages in a discussion over the collar and cuffs paragraph, but the committee amendment was carried without its opponents being numerous enough to carried in a call for the yeas and nays. Then the jute section was finished.

House of Representatives.

Several of the members of the house were in an ill humor, so that requests for consideration of private bills by unanimous consent, so which the first half hour of the session is usually devoted, were met by demands for the usual order, and no bills were passed.

A resolution introduced by Mr. Bailey (dem., Tex.) was reported favorably and agreed to, providing for the printing of 6,000 copies of a compilation of the messages, proclamations and inaugural addresses of the presidents of the United States from 1789 to 1894 inclusive. The rest of the day was devoted to the consideration of bills relating to the interests of the District of Columbia. Three measures were discussed, no conclusion being reached with respect to any of them. A vote by yeas and nays developed the lack of a quorum and at 4:25 o'clock the house adjourned.

Funeral of Ex-Gov. Price.

MAHWAH, N. J., June 12.—Ex-Gov. Rodman M. Price was buried from the Mahwah Reformed church here. The edifice was crowded to the doors. It was a very prominent gathering. The pallbearers were Gov. Werts, ex-Gov. Green, ex Gov. Abbett, Prosecutor A. D. Campbell, Attorney-General J. P. Stockton and Mr. M. Hamilton, state librarian, all of New Jersey. There were many other prominent New Jersey officials and politicians present. The Bergen county freeholders attended in a body. There were ten California pioneers, who belong to the New York branch, to which ex-Gov. Price was connected. Veterans of the Mexican war and members of the Aztec club were also present. Rev. A. H. King, pastor of the Reformed church and a personal friend of the ex-governor, spoke for nearly 30 minutes, giving a very interesting sketch of the life of the deceased, of his able work in California, when he practically saved that state for the union, and with his money built the first wharf San Francisco could boast of.

No News From Korea.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The United States steamer Monocacy has reached Hang Kow. She is the only American warship now in Chinese waters, the Baltimore being still at Chemulpo, Korea. Neither the state nor navy department has had any information from Korea since the Baltimore arrived a week ago, and it is inferred by officers of both departments that the revolutionists have been frightened by the Baltimore's appearance. This was expected to be the result when it was decided to send the ship there.

Does Not Want to Be President.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—When Senator Teller was asked if he took the nomination of himself for the presidency, as made by Mr. Bland Saturday, seriously, Mr. Teller replied that it was all nonsense; that his ambition did not run in that direction. "I am not a candidate on any platform, nor would I except a nomination from any party, even if I thought I could be elected," said the Colorado senator.

Two Years for Engaging in a Duel.

YALE WILL SEND A TEAM

Vote to Meet the Oxfords on British Soil.

The English Athletes Forward a Long Letter Setting Forth the Conditions of the Proposed Games—Fully Prepared Now to Accept the Americans' Challenge.

NEW HAVEN, Con., June 12.—The Yale Athletic union last night voted unanimously to send a team to England to meet the Oxford athletes.

LONDON, June 12.—The Oxford Athletic club has just sent a long letter to the Yale athletes concerning the Yale-Oxford games.

The letter contains the following statement:

All difficulties of forming the Oxford team have been removed and Oxford is fully prepared to accept Yale's challenge. The first condition is that there shall be nine events, namely: Flat races of a mile, a half mile, a quarter mile and 100 yards; a hurdle race of 120 yards with ten flights; a broad and high jump, and weight putting and hammer throwing.

The second condition is that there shall be no more than two contestants from each university in any one event.

The other conditions are:

All contests shall be conducted in accordance with the rules governing the annual contests between Oxford and Cambridge, excepting only the weight-putting and hammer throwing, in which the rules observed between Oxford and Cambridge and between Harvard and Yale respectively may be followed; That the referee's decision be final and no appeal may be taken; that the contestants be chosen solely from the Englishmen and Americans sharing or qualified to share respectively in the foregoing contests in 1894; that Yale and Oxford mutually certify that none of the competitors ever shared in any competition with or against professionals, within the definition and laws of the Amateur Athletic association of England; that both clubs accept the Queen's club financial proposals, namely, that the Yale and Oxford and Queen's clubs divide equally the net profits or losses of the games.

Justice White Not Married.

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., June 12.—The report of the marriage of Mrs. Kent to Associate Justice Edward D. White of the United States supreme court, at this place, is without foundation. Justice White came here last Thursday with the lady to whom he is engaged to be married in the autumn, and her family, to introduce them to their summer home. When the story of his alleged marriage first reached the justice he was very indignant, and his wrath became greater as telegrams of congratulation and inquiry began to pour in on him. He was exceedingly sorry that such a report should have been circulated without its truthfulness having been inquired into. Justice White has left for New Orleans to fill an engagement in the court of appeals. He had quite a tumble from a horse as he was about to start out on a short ride. The attendant carelessly dropped the rein before Mr. White was securely seated. The horse plunged forward and he was violently thrown to the ground, but escaped injury except a slight jarring.

Strike Settled in Iowa.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., June 12.—After an all-day session the Iowa miners and the operators who were represented came to an agreement, which provides that the scale of wages for mining coal and the rules and regulations in force during the year 1893 be restored, excepting so far as they may be modified by the acts of the 25th general assemby of Iowa, and the same be continued in effect until April 2d, 1894. The scale was reduced in district 13. There is to be no discrimination against the men who are out. The operators agree that they will consider complaints at any time and stand ready to promptly adjust any wrongs that may exist. It is agreed that all the miners in the state shall return to work, commencing Wednesday, at all mines willing to resume on the agreed basis. The Paul Whitebreast Fuel company was a leading factor in bringing about the result. Fifteen coal companies, headed by the Whitebreast company, are found on the list.

An Ex-Priest to Become a Methodist.

LOWELL, Mass., June 12.—Rev. E. V. Lelleton, a Boston clergyman who left the Catholic church six weeks ago, has been received on probation into the Central Methodist Episcopal church. His baptism in the Catholic church was accepted and he was allowed to hold his belief in the Trinity and other doctrines in which the two churches do not greatly differ. He states that he did not intend to become a lecturer, but would enter the Methodist clergy as soon as the bishop would allow. It is proposed to open a mission for him in Lowell.

Well-known Railroad Man Killed.

READING, Pa., June 12.—Owen E. Barlow, aged 43, yardmaster for the Reading company at Pottstown, was struck by an engine and died a few hours thereafter. He was one of the best known despatchers on the main line division.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, t and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed. H. VROOM.

A LOCAL ENDORSEMENT.

No. 188 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

To the Residents of Plainfield, N. J.:

Mr. H. Vroom, whose statement appears above, is a brother-in-law of mine. I personally know of his case and his suffering and also know the happy fact that to the surprise of himself and his friends, Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure. His statement is true in every respect and does not say half enough in praise of Dr. Lighthill. Anyone who wishes this statement verified is at liberty to come and see me personally.

JOHN C KINNEY.

Dr. Lighthill

WE LEAD WITH GOLD

The World's Output of Precious Metals.

An Interesting Statement Sent to Congress By Mint Director Preston—Gold Yield in the United States in 1893 Nearly Two Million Ounces—World's Silver Production.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Mint Director Preston has transmitted to congress an important statement of the gold and silver output of the United States and other countries.

He estimates the approximate gold yield of the United States in 1893 at 1,739,323 fine ounces, valued at $35,955,000, as compared with 1,597,100 fine ounces, valued at $33,014,981, in 1892.

The United States still holds the first place in the gold producing countries of the world.

Mr. Preston revises the estimated production of silver in the United States in 1892, as stated by Mr. Leech, his predecessor. Mr. Leech placed the production at 58,000,000 ounces, of the coining value of $74,989,900. Mr. Preston shows that the output was 63,500,000 fine ounces, of the coining value of $83,101,110.

Mr. Preston also materially modifies the figures of the gold and silver output of certain other countries as estimated by Mr. Leech. To the product of South Africa, the output of the west coast, $1,011,924 has been added, making the total African product $24,232,032, and in 1893 at $29,305,755. China and Germany have been restored to the list of gold producing countries in 1892.

According to the corrected figures the world's production of the precious metals in 1893 was $146,297,600 in gold and $197,230,500 in silver, showing an increase over 1891, of $15,647,600 in gold, and in silver of $20,274,600.

The world's silver output of 1893 was $207,895,400, an increase over that of 1892 of $10,664,900.

Facts brought to light in the report that the world's output of gold in 1893 is the largest in history and that the value of the gold alone available in 1893 for monetary purposes was greater than the total value of both gold and silver available for monetary purposes in the years just preceding the beginning of the depreciation of silver.

BLOODY FIGHT WITH BURGLARS

The Notorious Jim Ward Fatally Shot While Attempting Robbery.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 13.—Three burglars forced entrance to the residence of James Mufliley, near Perrysville, early yesterday morning. The family rushed down stairs in the dark and the burglars began firing at them, and John Mansfield was shot through the hand and arm.

Mansfield got a shot gun and fired at the men. One of the buralars fell to the floor and the other two ran away. Neighbors were aroused and came in. The wounded man was soon identified as the notorious Jim Ward, of Apollo, who in 1881, murdered the two Means sisters at Sardis, for which crime he served 12 years in the penitentiary.

The load of shot struck Ward in the side inflicting a mortal wound. Ward refuses to talk or to divulge the names of his companions. He can live but a short time.

Cornell Freshmen Find Contestants.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 13.—It has been definitely decided that the Cornell freshman crew shall row the Dauntless crew of New York city, June 19, on Lake Cayuga, Ithaca. Cornell has a very fine freshman crew, in fact has really claim to the intercollegiate freshman crew championship in 1890, having defeated the Yale crew at New London. Since then Yale has refused to row and Cornell has had to be content to row against Columbia, defeating them easily each time. This year Columbia joins Yale and Harvard in refusing to row the Cornell freshman crew. This practically frose Cornell out of a race with any college freshman crew, and made it necessary to secure a race with some amateur crew. The Dauntless people kindly consented to come to Ithaca, otherwise the crew would have to have been disbanded. The present freshman crew has broken all Cornell records on Lake Cayuga this spring.

Severe Storms at Kingston.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 13.—A series of very severe electric storms, accompanied by wind and hail, raged here last evening for over an hour. Many panes of glass were broken in skylights and greenhouses.

Hon. John T. Andrews Dead.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 13.—Hon. John T. Andrews, of Dundee, member of congress in 1830, is dead, aged 91. In 1834 he was sheriff of Steuben county, and while in office defeated for the congressional nomination the father of the late ex-Senator Francis Kernan.

Fought With Masked Burglars.

NASHUA, N. H., June 13.—Mrs. Julia Ridout, a widow at Wilton, had a terrible strugle with a masked burglar who broke into her home Sunday morning. The man finally escaped.

ENGLAND AND BLUEFIELDS.

John Bull Does Not Consent to the Monroe Doctrine.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Diplomatic correspondence, just made public, throws a new light on the Mosquito dispute, and shows very clearly that England does not consent to the Monroe doctrine. It appears that Nicaragua increased the port charges at Bluefields nearly a year ago, in pursuance of a policy adopted early in 1889, when the Nicaraguan government notified Great Britain that it intended to assert sovereign rights in the Mosquito territory, expecting the vigorous and powerful support of the United States, which it had on former occasions. The Nicaraguans, in notifying Great Britain that the English protectorate over the Mosquito Indians could no longer be recognized and that Nicaragua's long-conceded sovereignty must be given a practical weaning, presented the contention that the Mosquito territory was filling up with undesirable immigrants, who were unable to look to proper authorities for protection, and that in the interest of law and order Nicaragua must assert its rights. In reply, the British government, with great firmness, notified Nicaragua that the English protectorate would be maintained, that Nicaraguan interference would not be permitted, and that the Mosquito government would enact its own laws and enforce them without reference to Nicaragua until, as stipulated by the arbitration following the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, Mosquito consented to complete incorporation into the republic of Nicaragua.

In February of last year President Harrison's administration notified Great Britain that for the settlement of international questions affecting any port of Nicaragua (referring to Bluefields) the government of the United States must look to Nicaragua alone. In his despatch to Minister Lincoln on the subject, Secretary Foster very positively asserted the full sovereignty of Nicaragua, claiming that the rights accorded the Mosquito Indians by the arbitral award of the Austrian emperor related simply to tribal customs and not to the alien settlement at Bluefields, which was self-administered, internationally irresponsible, withdrawn from the tribal regimen of the Indians opposed to Nicaraguan control and prone to invoke British intervention, which would not be permitted. At this point, which immediately preceded the Nicaraguan occupacy of Bluefields, the correspondence ends.

Nellie Grant May Yet Be Happy.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—The reported engagement of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris to Adjt.-Gen. H. Kyd Douglas, of Maryland, is the absorbing topic here, although the story is officially denied. Gen. Douglas is one of the best known and most popular men in the state. He is now at Frostburg in charge of the Maryland troops, sent there to protect the miners and property from the strikers. Mrs. Ulysses Grant and Mrs. Nellie Gtant Sartoris have engaged a suite of apartments at the Blue Mountain house, Maryland, and are expected there the latter part of next week for an indefinite period. The arrangements were made through Gen. Douglas.

Correspondents Indicted.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The grand jury has decided to return the bill against John S. Shriver, Washington correspondent of the New York Mail and Express, and E. J. Edwards, New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, for refusing to give the sources of their information to the senatorial investigation committee in regard to statements about the sugar trust and democratic senators, and the United States district attorney is engaged in preparing the indictments. He has notified Messrs. Shriver and Edwards to appear before the criminal court on Saturday to answer to the indictments and to give bail or go to jail.

Uneasiness in Morocco.

TANGIER, June 13.—The burial of the late Sultan Muley Hassan will take place at Rabat, whither the body has been sent under military escort. At Casa Blanca the succession of Abdul Aziz, the younger son of the sultan, to the throne has been acquiesced in, but at Fez, where Muley Ismail, the dead sultan's brother, has been acting as the sultan's representative, there is a feeling of hostility to Abdul Aziz, Muley Ismail being very popular. He is a man of much ability and force, and it will not be surprising if he should make trouble.

After Canadian Conductors.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13.—Sir John Thompson has given notice of an amendment to the criminal code, making it an indictable offense, punishable by three years' imprisonment, for a train conductor or employe of a railway company authorized to sell tickets to take up tickets or collect fares from passengers fraudulently or to allow any person to travel on such train for any distance without either paying proper fare or procuring a ticket or other evidence that such person is entitled to travel for the distance.

Pugilism in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 13.—Information comes from Tallahassee that the supreme court of Florida will review the injunction which Judge Call granted the Duval Athletic club in January last, restraining the sheriff from interfering with the Corbett-Mitchell fight. It is understood that Governor Mitchell is behind the case, as he is convinced that Call's decision was contrary to law, and he wants the supreme court to finally pass upon the legality of prize-fights in Florida.

Sunday Rest in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 13.—By a decisive vote of the city council, Sunday merchandising was put under the ban of the law. Only the signature of Mayor Hopkins and the enforcement of the measure by the police department are necessary to secure for the Sunday Rest association and the bodies of organized labor in Chicago the essential points for which they have been contending.

Stoddard Gets the Verdict.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Judge Lawrence, in the supreme court, ordered a verdict for $1,751.55 in favor of James Stoddard in his suit against Jack McAuliffe to recover $1,500 which he had put up to back Austin Gibbons in a contest with McAuliffe at Hoboken in September, 1891.

Death of a Centenarian.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The death of Fanny Falkenburg, 103 years old, is reported at the bureau of vital statistics. The cause of death was debility and old age. She was born in Germany and had been 42 years in this country.

Train Thieves Jailed.

HELENA, Mont., June 13.—Forty-five Coxeyites have been sentenced to jail for sixty days for stealing a Northern Pacific train at Heron, Idaho. They will be distributed among the various jails of the county.

MINERS NOT SATISFIED

General Disapproval of the Columbus Agreement.

Probability That the Terms Will Not Be Accepted and the Outlook Now Is That the Men Will Not Return to Work—Altoona Conference Again Fails—Indignation at All Points.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—The scale agreement at Columbus has only shifted the ground of the coal miners' strike, instead of settling it. The miners assert that they will not accept the terms agreed upon and are in revolt against their officers. The latter say they did what was the only thing to be done under the circumstances, and threaten to resign if the miners refuse to go to work, or question their integrity in the premises.

From the outlook the miners will not go to work on next Monday, the day fixed for a resumption of work.

In case they do not, the officers of the United Mine workers say they will resign, and the officers of the Pittsburg district will follow their action.

In the Pittsburg district there is nothing but condemnation for the leaders, and the more outspoken of the dissenters say that the miners had been betrayed by their officers.

The 8,000 miners of the Panhandle field are particularly bitter, and at a mass meeting held at Carnegie a resolution was adopted refusing to endorse the action of the Columbus conference.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—Fifty-seven coal operators and companies in the Pittsburg district who had pledged themselves to abide by the result of the Columbus conference of operators and miners, are preparing to resume work at the compromise rate agreed upon. Many of the operators who opposed the conference say they will dot pay the 69 cent rate, and the strike will doubtless be continued at their pits. It is the general opinion among friendly operators, however, that the agreement will put an end to the importation of non-union men by the operators in the thick vein district.

The miners of western Pennsylvania were generally in favor of insisting upon the 72½ cent rate. Mr. George Harris, the organizer, said the settlement on a basis of 69 cents for Pittsburg would prove a disappointment. He does not expect that they will refuse to work at the new rates, but that the men will regard the settlement as unsuccessful.

The enforcement of the law on company stores, and check-weighmen will be rigidly enforced in the future.

FAIL TO AGREE.

Second Conference of Operators and Miners at Altoona.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 13.—The second conference of coal operators and miners of central Pennsylvania held here for the purpose of endeavoring to reach an agreement whereby the strike could be settled was fruitless, and a settlement is as far off as ever. At the attempted conference on Saturday the operators refused to recognize the United Mine workers as an organization, but expressed a willingness to meet direct representatives of their men. This point was conceded by the miners and the second conference was the result.

The meeting was called to order by Thomas H. Bradley, district president of the miners, and Thomas Lloyd of Gallitzen was chosen as chairman. Mr. Bradley on behalf of the miners asked for a restoration of the wages which prevailed at the commencement of the last scale year—50 cents a ton. Mr. Berwind, for the operators, stated that but 40 cents would be paid. This rate the miners refused to accept and the conference adjourned without having accomplished anything.

In the afternoon the miners submitted a proposition to the operators stating that they would compromise upon a 45 cent rate. This the operators refused to consider.

PUNXSUTAWNEY MINERS ANGRY

Denounce Gov. Pattison and the Compromise Agreement.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 13.—There is more real excitement among the English-speaking miners in this section than at any time since the suspension of mining. The indignation is against the reported terms of settlements made in the western districts, and against Gov. Pattison for issuing his proclamation of Monday night.

At a mass meeting held here the governor was charged with being the indirect cause of the only disturbance of the peace that has taken place, these disturbances being the attacks made on citizens by police appointed by him.

The compromise settlement made in the western districts is vigorously denounced.

Massillon Miners Indignant.

MASSILLON, O., June 13.—The Massillon district miners have adopted resolutions denouncing Gov. McKinley for sending state troops "For the purpose of assisting the coal and railroad operators to defeat the miners in an honest effort to maintain living wages." The basis of the strike settlement has been received by the miners here with mutterings of discontent. The bulletin announcing a settlement was received from Columbus, and this, together with the knowledge that the Tuscarawas river bridge at Midvale had been destroyed, allayed the exciting feeling which had impelled Sheriff Doll to ask for troops.

May Not Abide By the Settlement.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 13.—The reports from the Indiana bituminous mining district are to the effect that the men were seriously opposed to accepting the terms agreed upon by their delegates at the Columbus conference. While the agreement is looked upon as the beginning of the end, yet the end in fact, is not so near as the general public may suppose. The miners believe that they could have gotten what was agreed upon without going on a strike. However much they may be in error in that belief, they are roundly denouncing the officials of the United Mine workers for yielding to any compromise.

Strikers Seize a Mine.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 13.—Great excitement was created here at midnight by 50 armed strikers taking possession of the Baltimore & Ohio mine. Their objective point was the air shaft, where the watchmen were driven off and threatened under penalty of death not to return. The watchmen on the tipple at the mine entrance was also driven away. All the miners left the mine and were taken through the back alleys to their homes. Where the miners came from is not known. The mine has been in continuous operation. The mine has been the chief supply for the railroad.

Reduces Their Pay.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 13.—Extreme dissatisfaction prevails among the miners in the Baltimore & Ohio, Cleveland, Lorraine & Wheeling and Lake Erie throughout this section over the strike settlement. The men have all been able to work at any time at the 70 cent rate, but stood out to aid their brothers, and are now ordered to return at 60 cents. Leaders of the miners say that fully 8,000 votes will be cast by the miners in this section against the ratification of the compromise.

Streator Miners Displeased.

STREATOR, Ill., June 13.—Only expressions of indignation are heard among the miners of the Streator district in regard to the terms of settlement made at Columbus. They say they went into the fight to maintain last year's wages, and are now expected to accept a reduction. A convention of the miners will probably be against acceptance.

Mercer Conference Fails.

MERCER, Pa., June 13.—The second conference of the United Mine workers of the third district was held with no better success than before. The operators made a proposition of 55 cents per ton for mining. The miners held out for 60 cents and the operators withdrew from the conference. It is not likely that another conference will be held.

Casualties From Friday's Gale.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 13.—A schooner of 100 tons, name unknown, lumber laden, is reported wrecked off Cape St. Mary's, near where the steamer Texas was lost. Nothing is known of the crew and it is supposed that they were swept overboard and drowned. Reports from Grand Banks tell of serious damages among the fishing fleet owing to the gale of last Friday. It is feared that many casualties will be reported. A schooner with five or six men on board was driven off from port 20 miles north on Saturday and has not yet been heard from. She probably foundered.

Col. Weissert Injured.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 13.—Col. A. G. Weissert, ex-commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, while stepping from his bath tub in his residence here fell heavily to the floor. He dislocated a shoulder and sustained severe bruises to his body. He is not sure of foot on account of an open wound received during the war.

Valuable Horse Fatally Injured.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 13.—A freight car containing Queen, a valuable mare belonging to Mr. Neil Burgess, who is playing County Fair in this place, was shunted with such force on a siding here that it ran into another freight car and Queen was thrown so violently to the floor that her hip was broken and she had to be shot.

Dress Convicted.

READING, Pa., June 13.—The case of A. Dress, of Phillipsburg, Centre county, charged with obtaining money from the Spang heirs under false pretenses, resulted in a verdict of guilty. Dress was sent to Germany to hunt up evidence of the alleged fortune of $12,000,000.

Murderous Robbers Sentenced.

HARTFORD, June 13.—Arthur St. Marie, Frank Mace and Edward E. Burke have each been sentenced to 12 years in state prison for breaking into the freight house of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R.R. at Thompsonville on the night of Feb. 18, and committing a murderous assault on the night telegraph operator.

TARIFF WORK BALKED

Nothing Accomplished in the Past Two Days.

The Most Tedious and Wearisome Period Since the Senate Took Up the Measure Ten Weeks Ago—The House Jogging Along With the Indian Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—If any progress has been made in the direction of a final vote on the tariff since yesterday morning, it must have been in private consultations, such as those which Monday removed all obstructions from the path of the cotton schedule. In the public open session there has not been a step of progress made.

During the greater part of yesterday the seats of senators were mostly vacant; the chamber presented a deserted appearance; there were only a few listless spectators in the galleries; the atmosphere was oppressively hot and stifling, and no one made a pretense even of taking the least interest in any of the half dozen speeches read to to the senate. It was, on the whole, the most tediously wearisome day that has passed since the tariff bill was taken up in the senate ten weeks ago.

Before the wool schedule was entered on Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.) reverted to the action taken several weeks ago on the paragraph putting a duty of 40 per cent. on spectacles, eyeglasses and opera glasses, and read a speech in commendation of the men engaged in that industry in Massachusetts and other states. His motion to increase the rate of duty to 60 per cent. was defeated—yeas, 21; nays, 30. Then the wool schedule was taken up, and Mr. Quay (rep., Pa.) began to read the seventh installment of the speech which he started to make on the 14th of April last.

As he had provided himself with a volume of 157 printed pages for the day he appeared to be in no hurry to reduce the bulk of that provision, and yielded the floor willingly to Senators McMillin (Mich.), Pettigrew (S. D.), Power (Mont.) and Peffer (Kan.), who severally addressed the senate in favor of protection to the wool growers. He allowed a motion to be made by Mr. Mitchell (rep., Ore.) to postpone the bill indefinitely, which motion was defeated—yeas, 22; nays, 33. The vote was a strictly party one—the three populist senators, Allen, Kyle and Peffer, voting with the democrats in the negative.

House of Representatives.

The house returned to a consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, after spending two hours in passing a bill to aid in the establishment of a national home for aged and infirm colored persons in the District of Columbia. The bill appropriated $100,000 of the half million in the treasury belonging to deceased colored soldiers, to build a home on the site already secured by the colored people of the District. It was agreed that the institution should never become a charge upon the treasury of the United States and that the expenses of the home should be charged to the revenues of the District.

In the course of the afternoon 27 pages of the Indian bill were passed over in committee of the whole. The committee had cut out the appropriation for the expenses of the Indian commissioner appropriated under authority of the act of 1869, practically legislating it out of existence. Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) offered an amendment to restore the appropriation for expenses, but, after an argument of an hour, the amendment was defeated—yeas, 67; noes, 112.

Prof. Shortlidge Again in Court.

CHESTER, Pa., June 13.—Prof. Swithin C. Shortlidge, who is charged with the murder of his young and pretty wife, was brought into court for the purpose of having his bail renewed and his case continued until the September term. He was accompanied by his brother, Mayor Shortlidge of Wilmington, Del., and attorney, who arrived with the patient from the Norristown Insane asylum, where he has been confined since the time of the tragedy that shocked all Delaware county. The prisoner was quiet while in court, but there was a marked change in his appearance and very few recognized him as the once noted athlete and principal of the Media college. The court granted the application and Prof. Shortlidge was taken back to Norristown at once.

Oregon Floods.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13.—Notwithstanding the great extent of the flood the loss of life reported has been comparatively small. There has been none in this city, though one man is reported missing, but from the country an occasional report of death by drowning is received. Advices from Riparia in Washington, say the bodies of three men were seen to pass there in the Columbia. No attempt was made to recover them because of the high water and very strong current. The bodies were plainly visible from shore. Following one was the carcass of a horse saddled and bridled, showing plainly they were drowned together. The water at Portland is slowly receding and it will be two or three weeks before streets near the river are clear.

THE PRESIDENT IS ILL.

Suffering With an Aggravated Case of Summer Complaint.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The excessively hot weather has aggravated the slight attack of summer complaint with which President Cleveland has been annoyed from time to time during the past three weeks until, by the advice of Surgeon R. M. O'Reilly, of the army, who has been in attendance, the president now denies himself to all visitors except the members of his cabinet.

The president was first affected immediately after attending the Decoration Day ceremonies at Arlington. Secretary Gresham, who was with him at the time, being similarly attacked.

The complaint in each case responded readily to simple remedies, but the day after Mrs. Cleveland went away last week the president had a recurrence of the malady and was compelled several days ago to call in Dr. O'Reilly, as he expected to go down the river on Friday afternoon for another cruise on the lighthouse tender with Capt. Robley D. Evans. The doctor advised him not to go until the disorder was entirely checked, and since that time, though the president's health has grown no worse, the prevailing high temperature has been very debilitating, and the doctor has now insisted upon the temporary abandonment of the work with which Mr. Cleveland is always busied, and until he is perfectly well the patient, under the doctor's orders, must deny himself to all visitors.

Unless the president is much improved in the next few days it is very likely that he will go away from Washington on a brief visit to Gray Gables, in order to recuperate.

Political Murder in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 13.—P. G. Bowman, a lawyer and the leading advocate for Reuben Kolb for governor, shot and almost instantly killed Eugene Jeffers, the 21 year old son of Thomas Jeffers, ex-mayor of this city, in a bar room last night. Early in the evening, Bowman and Thomas Jeffers had a dispute, and Bowman who is about six feet and weighs about 200 pounds, hit Jeffers, who is about five feet and an old man and weighs about 105 pounds, twice in the face. Young Jeffers hearing of the occurrence went to see Bowman and ask for an explanation. Those who witnessed the tragedy refuse to talk and if any words passed, it was impossible to get particulars. Excitement is very high. Bowman was first taken to the city prison but is now in the county jail.

Erne-Siddons Battle.

BUFFALO, June 12.—The Frank Erne and George Siddons fight which is scheduled to take place at the Academy of Music in this city, on Saturday night of of this week, is exciting widespread interest. The men are matched to fight for $1,200, the largest purse ever offered in western New York for a featherweight contest. The betting is brisk.

Crispi and the Italian Crisis.

ROME, June 13.—There is reliable authority for the statement that Premier Crispi will announce in the chamber of deputies that his efforts to form a new cabinet have failed, and that he will remain in office with the present ministers, although there is still to be a slight re-arrangement of the portfolios.

Never Saw President Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Mr. Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining company, the only witness examined yesterday by the sugar trust investigators, caused some astonishment among the members of the committee by his statement that he had never exchanged a word with Mr. Cleveland, "or was in his company in my life, and I never seen the man." He said further that he had never exchanged a word with Mr. Benedict on the subject of sugar or any other business matter, on the yacht or any other place.

New York Police Methods.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Lexow committee is still overwhelmed with people anxious to tell what they know about the methods of the police department. Some very interesting testimony about the cost of securing a position on the police force, securing privilege for blocking sidewalks, etc., has been brought out.

State Jobs Given Out.

ALBANY, June 13.—Comptroller Roberts has appointed J. S. McMaster, of Hornellsville, confidential clerk in the bureau of charitable institutions at $2,000 per annum; Henry George, of Buffalo, excise agent for the western portion of the state at $1,200 a year, and Henry True, of Athens, Greene county, clerk in the tax bureau at $4 per day.

Forger Randall Convicted.

JERSEY CITY, June 13.—Albert Randall, the clerk of the Cox Towing company, of New York, who forged checks on the company for $2,000 and eloped with Mrs. Nellie Ladue to Galveston, where he was arrested, has been convicted and remanded for sentence.

For a New Life Saving Station.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The contract for the erection of a life saving station at Cahoon's Hollow, on Cape Cod, Mass., has been awarded to George G. Gill, of Reading, Mass., who was the lowest bidder, at $4,687.

Congressman Hitt Renominated.

Champion Gaudaurs's Bereavement.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13.—After the funeral of his wife Champion Sculler J. G. Gaudaur declared that he would engage in no more rowing contests. His friends say he is completely prostrated over his wife's sudden death.

Against Woman Suffrage.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 13.—Eminent speakers from many cities of the state will address the suffrage committee against woman suffrage Thursday evening. Delegations of women will also be present but will not speak.

A Decisive Prize Fight.

MOBILE, Ala., June 13.—Joe Fernandez, of New Orleans, put Billy Jordan to sleep in the fifth round at the Frascati theatre here by knocking him off the stage and into the side scenes.

Wiman's Trial.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The prosecution in the case against Erastus Wiman, on trial on the charge of forgery instituted by R. G. Dun & Co., will probably close today.

Allen's Plan to Deal With Recalcitrant Witnesses.

The Populist Senator Recommends That Mr. Chapman Be Brought to the Bar of the Senate and Requested to Purge Himself of Contempt or Be Summarily Punished.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—During the course of the afternoon the senate committee which is investigating the sugar question filed its report to the senate concerning the refusal of Elverton R. Chapman, of the firm of Moore & Schley, to answer certain questions that had been put to him, replies to which were held by the committee to be material; and under the law the vice-president will certify the fact to the district attorney for action before the grand jury.

The report was signed by all the members, but Mr. Allen, who substantially submitted the following minority report:

"In addition to the above recommendation of the committee regarding the witness, E. R. Chapman, I think he ought to be brought to the bar of the senate and required to purge himself of the contempt of which he is guilty or be summarily punished for a refusal to do so. I therefore recommend the addition of the following resolution by the senate:

"Whereas, E. R. Chapman, a witness, was heretofore duly summoned by a select committee of the senate, and being lawfully required to testify before said committee, refused to answer pertinent and material questions propounded to him by said committee, therefore,

"Resolved, that the president of the senate issue his warrant in due form under his hand and the seal of the senate, directed to the sergeant-at-arms of the senate, commanding him forthwith to arrest and bring to the bar of the senate the body of said E. R. Chapman, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt, and in the meantime to keep the said Chapman in custody to await the further order of the senate. Respectfully submitted, WILLIAM V. ALLEN."

People's Candidate for Congress.

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 13, 1894

The Paterson Press nominates Dr. Parkhurst for Mayor of New York.

By special request of the President of the Association, The Daily Press will be placed on file for the edification of the National Editorial Association in convention in Asbury Park July 2 to 6.

An entertaining correspondent of The Press writes from Westfield noting that the children of that town regularly attend more than one Sunday-school, and wondering if these are any better than the young people who go to only one Sunday-school. The truth probably is that the pious youths really love the Sunday-school for its holy happiness, and believe in grabbing all they can get of a good thing, but one familiar with children's appreciation of the substantial features of such institutions cannot repress a lurking suspicion that the increased possibilities of Christmas-tide have somewhat to do with this truly remarkable multiplicity of ecclesiasticism.

THE PRESS AND THE CHURCH.

An otherwise admirable address was marred Sunday night when Dr. Barnes said, as reported alike in the Plainfield papers, by stenographic writers:

It is too late in the day for newspaper reporters to sneer at the Church; you might as well sneer at the sun.

By this allusion Dr. Barnes did injustice to a profession which has done more and better work for the Church than has any other profession outside the ministry.

The inference of the good Doctor's remarks is that newspaper reporters through their newspapers are accustomed to sneer at the Church. Faithful readers of newspapers have not remarked such experience. Both as a matter of policy and as a matter of personal regard, newspaper men treat the Church with respect and veneration. There are doubtless exceptions to this rule, as there are exceptions in everything. But why did the good clergyman not say merchants, and lawyers, and sportsmen, and congressmen? In every occupation in life there may be found those who say unkind words of righteous things. Then why newspaper reporters, alone and emphasized?

And this is what he does:

He keeps on his desk a handy volume of the Bible, that he may always be exact in his quotations and references.

He goes without his luncheon to write puffs for the strawberry festivals, the excursions, the teas, the lectures, the missionary meetings, the thousand and one things that go to make up modern church work.

He spends hours chasing about town in search of pastor or officers in order to be able to tell the people what the subject of the forthcoming sermon is to be, who is to preach next Sunday, all about the new choir and special music, just what new branch of mission work is in contemplation, or what the various departments have accomplished during the year.

He keeps the public interested during the week in what is being done for their interest and profit on Sundays.

He provides free to the cause every Saturday a column of announcements to attract big congregations on the morrow.

He sacrifices valuable time placing himself at the disposal of the ever-welcome feminine committees who have some new denominational enterprise under way, and who want the reporter to "boom it all you can, for we depend on the papers".

He gives heed to the plaint of fallen ones who ask to be shielded from public disgrace in order to be given another chance in the Church.

He records daily, in chronicles of the sweet and peaceful departure of saints into glory, the blessed reward of Christian living.

He alone of all men forsakes the divine injunction to do no labor on the Sabbath in order to perpetuate pulpit preachings so that church-goers may preserve and study the Word they heard spoken, and so that the unchurchly and secular may be brought face to face with the things which they seek to evade by shunning the synagogue. The preacher expounds the Word; the newspaper enlarges the pastor's field and manifolds his preachings so that all the world may thereby be enlightened.

He carries into the sacred walls of home—into the home of holiness and into the institution of infidelity alike—the Gospel teachings whose utterance by consecrated tongue suffered from limitation by the walls of the church or by the size of the congregation.

He sends to the bedridden Christian the sermon of comfort and cheer for which the soul thirsted but which it could not get to hear because of bodily infirmity.

He sits, after a day of hard work, through a religious talk, sermon, or discourse, in order to be able to give it accurately to the outside public. He stays up all night to write out the notes thus taken, before another day of toil. Faithful to his profession, he suffers in silence the wound caused by the injustice of the preacher's imputation upon him, and records for print the utterance against him because it is a part of the speech he was sent to get.

All these things, and more, he does for the Church. For in the newspaper profession, as in all others, there is a due proportion of men and women who have been trained by Christian mothers, who have taught classes in Sunday-school, who have held pulpits, who cling to religion and make it a basis of their life-work. The Christian gentleman is no more a rarity in the ranks of newspaper reporters than it is in any other calling. The ministry is full of consecrated men who have paid college expenses by college correspondence for newspapers and by newspaper work during vacation. The ministry is full of men who have been drawn into pulpit work from their constant communion as newspaper reporters with Y. M. C. A. secretaries and church pastors. Rev. Dr. C. B. Mitchell, illustrious predecessor of Dr. Barnes, is a graduate of the printing office. And even as the clergy has its share of former newspaper men, just so the newspaper offices are full of reporters and editors who have found themselves able to adopt that profession without demeaning themselves or disgracing the cloth.

It ill becomes the Church to sneer at its great and faithful ally, the Press.

WHY HE IS MISSED.

Mr. Wessels of Westfield Mourned by His Fellow-Townsmen—Breezy Chat About Children's Parade.

WESTFIELD, June 12.—One of the possible features of Westfield's Centennial week is a parade of the Sunday-schools on the afternoon of July 3. A parade of the public school children was at first suggested; but this was given up. The reason, or one of the reasons, for abandoning it is the difficulty of marshaling the public school children during the Summer vacation, when the schools are closed and the teachers departed. Another reason may be that the Sunday-school parade has been a thorough success in other places. Jersey City and Brooklyn make much of the event every year. There is a method of reasoning by which it is assumed that an event which has succeeded elsewhere will succeed here. It is a method which has some value if the conditions in the two places are similar. I had this fact in mind yesterday while talking with an old resident of Brooklyn; and questioned him with reference to the conditions under which the Brooklyn children march. The march to Prospect Park, I learned, is made on asphalt pavements which are swept clean with brooms before the parade. When the park is reached the children march on the grass. These conditions are interesting in themselves because they explain in part the success of an event that has become famous. To what extent these conditions can be duplicated here, and how the failure to duplicate them would affect the success of a parade, are questions which Westfield will solve for herself.

If it is solved according to her liking, we may look for a Sunday-school parade every year. Westfield has a faculty for repeating whatever will bear repetition.

In speaking of the Sunday-school parade, I am reminded of an interesting fact which is perhaps peculiar to Westfield. It is that many children of the village regularly attend more than one Sunday-school. I suppose the question naturally arises whether these are any better than the other children of the place.

Edward J. Wessels has left Westfield, possibly not to return again, as his business interests are now in Chicago. Mr. Wessels is a man whose going and coming deserve a passing notice. In Westfield he always commands attention. Though without the advantage of special training, he is a fluent publ'c speaker. He organized the Advance Club, the first and perhaps the only successful literary club of the place. On his return from the Bermudas in April he brought back sufficient material for a valuable book descriptive of the islands as seen through a tourist's eyes. This material has been highly spoken of by people competent to judge of its value. The only thing evolved from it so far, however, is a successful lecture, which the author has delivered a number of times. I could tell you many more pleasant things about Mr. Wessels; but perhaps enough has been said to show why it is that Westfield is sorry to lose him.

Keeping Trade at Home.

The old established men's furnishing business satisfactorily conducted by George A. Hallock at 109 West Front street continues to supply Plainfield men with the best goods, in the latest styles. Mr. Hallock's square dealing and personal popularity hold to him a permanent trade, and it is creditable to the place that the town affords such a stock of high-grade goods at such honest prices.

—A violent rain and hail storm aroused everybody at 2:30 a. m. today, and restored cool temperature.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

OBITUARY.

John C. Paul.

Major John Calvin Paul died at his home on East Front street, near Leland avenue, last evening at 8. He had long suffered from heart disease and recent complications with paralysis and other diseases caused his death. He was 53 years of age.

Major Paul was a native of Pennsylvania and when the war broke out he joined the Fourth Regiment of Volunteers of that State. He remained in the service throughout the war, receiving promotion for his bravery. One of his deeds of darling was the recovery of a Union soldier's body from the hands of the enemy, a small body of men being led by him at night into the Confederate camp.

He was well known in railroad circles, having at one time been the manager of the Woodruff Parlor Car Company. He was afterwards with the Pullman Company, acting as the superintendent of the equipment department. When the American Steel Wheel Company, with works in Garwood, was formed, Major Paul became its president. The company recently went into his hands as receiver. He was a director of the Liberty National Bank of New York for a long time.

In Plainfield Major Paul was highly respected and liked. He was the president of the Board of Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church. His wife and a son aged 8 survive him. The boy, John Calvin Paul, Jr., has been very low with scarlet and typhoid fever but is now recovering.

Because of his illness the funeral will be private. Rev. C. E. Herring will officiate at the house tomorrow afternoon at 5. The body will be forwarded to Altoona for burial immediately afterwards.

SEMINARY RECEPTION.

Graduates Congratulated by a Notable Gathering at the Chestnuts.

The Seminary, through whose open doors the invited guests had a glimpse of the graduates with some of the results of years of work in the graduating exercises last Friday and the Class Day exercises of Monday, opened its doors again last evening and gave a glimpse of the graduates and their invited guests in the play that deservedly follows earnest work.

The Seminary was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, a festoon of roses falling between the two staircases, roses everywhere in the parlor, and pink and green decorations in the dancing hall. The guests were received in the parlors by Miss Kenyon, the graduates, Misses Rose Eleanor Mix, Bessie Evelyn Titsworth, Maud Hildebrandt Middledith, Miday Stockton Shreve and Edith Tracy, the teachers, Misses Arnold and Frances Kenyon, and in the school hall by Miss Clark, Miss Rambeau and Mademoiselle Montanari. The reception of guests and social and congratulatory chat, was followed by dancing in the large hall, where inviting strains of music charmed the ear and guided the light steps of the merry company.

Among the guests, besides the members of the school and former pupils, were Miss Howell, Professor of Botany at Barnard College, Mr. and Mrs. James Middledith, the Misses Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Titsworth, Mr. and Mrs. David Titsworth, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Miss Shreve, E. B. Clark, Arthur Clark, and George Lukins of Philadelphia, A. W. Haviland, Mr. and Mrs. Lawton, J. J. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman, Mrs. Hastings, Mrs. Simeon, Mr. Brower of Orange, Mr. Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Suffern, Miss Lewis, James Kimball, Clifford McGee, Howard Corlies, George Schoonmaker, Miss Maxson, Harry Maxson, Miss Rodman, Miss Abbott, James Middledith, Dr. Paul Touzo, Lewis Touzo, Charles Beer, Harry Rodman, Albert Sproul, Norwood and Arthur West, Fred. Huntington, Fred. Case, Louis Waring, Ralph Mills of Nyack and James Hurd of Dover.

Trapped in a Box Car.

Night Watchman Jere Cash of the oilcloth factory saw seven tramps near the corner of Sandford avenue and Front street at 2 this morning. They went to the railroad, and Cash followed. After one had entered a box car on the switch on Richmond street he locked the car door and reported to the police. Policemen Cooney, Frederickson and Pistox brought the tramps to the lockup. They said they were James Kelley, Joseph Doyle, John Kelley, George Joice, Wm. Brown, George Perry and James Carter. Judge Coddington sent them to Elizabeth for 20 days this morning.

The First a Good One.

The first of the series of monthly socials was given by Somerset Council, No. 104, J. O. U. A. M., in Red Men's hall last evening. About 75 were present. Frank Koster, the Miss Schunk and Miss Thomas sang solos, and members of Prof. Guttman's band furnished music. Both dancing and refreshments the affair lasted at midnight.

Confusion of Bottles.

Mrs. Hoffman of Terrell road met with a peculiar accident last evening. She intended to brush her teeth with lime water, but by mistake dipped the brush into a bottle of carbolic acid instead. She discovered the blunder as soon as the acid touched her mouth, and was but slightly injured. Dr. M. B. Long attended her.

Boys Elect Officers.

The Youths Department of the Y. M. C. A. elected last evening the following officers for the ensuing six months:

President—F. Wilbur Cornwell.
Vice-president—J. K. LaBoyteaux.
Secretary—Irving Smith.
Treasurer—Philip Suffern.

ONE THING FAULTY.

And That Is to Be Remedied as a Result of the Festival.

The chapel of the First Presbyterian Church was a bright place filled with sociable people last evening. There was but one thing that the women of the Sunday-school found fault with, and that was the condition of the carpet. It was to buy a new one that the teachers of the school gave the strawberry and ice-cream festival which brought the people of the church together for a social evening.

The decorations with which the chapel had been prepared for the occasion were very pretty. The walls were lined with bunting and flags and Chinese lanterns. About the room on tables were roses and magnolias and enormous bunches of daisies. This work was accomplished the general committee of Sunday-school teachers, Miss William Dunn, Mrs. Howard A. Pope and Miss Wandell.

At the door F. H. Martin saw that no one entered without aiding in the raising of the carpet fund. Near him was the the lemonade well, where were Mrs. Adam C. Blair, Miss Lottie Messersmith and Miss Luella Mills. The flower table needed no decoration to make it beautiful. The sales there were made by Miss Wandell, Miss Edith Lane, Miss Nora Williams and Miss Pulver.

Miss Mabel Pruden and Miss Sadie Keenan were at the candy table, while Miss Conover, Miss Bittenbender and Miss Katie Lounsbury superintended the angling at a fish-pond in a corner classroom. The Japanese table had a very oriental appearance, covered as it was with gay fans and parasols. Miss Ladd and Miss Glen sold the fancy articles, and Miss Louise Wilbur and Miss Edith Hurlbut, attired in Japanese costumes, sold tea and wafers. Mrs. Theodore Pruden had entire charge of the apron table.

The refreshment tables were placed in class-rooms at the sides. Those in charge were:

Cake table—Miss Kate Overton, Miss Jennie Abbott.

Ice-cream and strawberries—Miss Remsen, Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. William Dunn.

Waitresses—The Misses Evelyn Searing, Edith Pruden, Etta Haven, Lillie Glen, Edna Burr, Nellie Meschutt, Kittie Nevius, Elanor VanDeventer, Grace Overton, Mabel Ladd, Olive Newell and Sarah Berbecker.

Children's Party in Netherwood.

The garden party of the children of the Church of Our Saviour, held on the beautiful lawns of Mrs. Loeser, was largely attended. The handsome stable, never before used, was utilized. This stable is furnished throughout in yellow pine, and is the finest building of its kind in Netherwood.

The Sunday-school numbers 83 pupils, with an average attendance of 65. At the garden party there was a very full attendance, and the managers of the school, including Superintendent Phillips, were kept busy in supplying the wants of the children in the matter of ice-cream, cake and strawberries. The enjoyment of the children was unbounded. The rector, Rev. Mr. Simpson, was present in the latter part of the afternoon.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A bazar will be held for the Church of Our Saviour, at the home of W. P. Smith, Belvidere road, Wednesday, June 20, from 4 to 10.

The Men's Association of Grace P. E. Church entertained the children in the chapel last evening with lantern slide views. The Camera Club's apparatus was used.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters of Trinity Reformed Church feel very grateful to their friends and the public generally for the liberal patronage at their festival last week. $100 was realized, and will be judiciously expended "in His name".

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Somerset County Christian Endeavor Union hold their regular meeting Friday evening in the Baptist Church, Somerville. There promises to be a large gathering. Several from Plainfield will probably attend.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel a concert is to be given in the chapel tomorrow evening commencing at 8, for the benefit of the chapel fund. A good programme has been arranged for the occasion.

The women of the Marconnier Christian Endeavor Union will hold a strawberry and ice-cream festival on Holly Grove lawn, Tuesday evening, June 19. The proceeds will be for the chapel fund fund. Good music will be furnished all the evening by the South Plainfield Band. If stormy, next fair evening.

30 Days for Fast Driving.

Justice Crosley this morning sent Jane Rittenhouse to jail for 30 days for drunken disorderliness.

William Jeroloman, arrested for fast driving, was sentenced to spend 30 days in Elizabeth.

Man-Eater in Town.

A live alligator, 6½ feet long, is being exhibited at 10 cents a look, in a tent at Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. The specimen is a Floridan man-eater.

—Winfield Scott Post last night decided to join in the Westfield Centennial.

—Several telegraph poles were blown down by last night's storm, between Plainfield and Martinsville.

—A meeting of the Women's Temperance Aid Society will be held in Reform Hall, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

—There will be a talk on temperance by Rev. B. W. Hand and a musical programme by two young ladies, in Reform Hall tomorrow evening.

—Through a "Want and Offer" ad in The Daily Press D. White of this city was enabled to restore to the owner the valuable K. of P. and I. O. O. F. watch charm lost Sunday afternoon.

—The backing up of the North Avenue sewer during the storm last night flooded The Press press-room and McVey's cellar. No serious damage was done. Mr. McVey worked till 4 o'clock to save the new machinery he had just put in.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

W. Hetfield has had his delivery wagon repaired.

Leonard Leech has felt indisposed the past few days.

Miss May Stelle of Plainfield was entertained by borough friends yesterday.

The familiar face of I. D. TenEyck of Plainfield was seen in Dunellen yesterday.

Mrs. John Kitchen of North Plainfield spent yesterday with Mrs. VanMiddlesworth.

John Tingley visited Plainfield yesterday and his many friends were glad to see him.

Wm. Conely of the Central Railroad, has not been feeling well for a few days, and is taking a rest.

The public schools will hold their closing exercises June 22, probably in the Presbyterian Church.

Wm. G. Holton Council, No. 55, J. O. U. A. M., received another application at their meeting last evening.

Several young men from Plainfield find boating on the New Market pond very pleasant these moonlight nights.

Mrs. Maier has a very large geranium in bloom which is admired by all who see it. It measures about 8 feet in height.

The condition of William Siape remains unchanged, in spite of the fact that his family feared he was worse this morning.

Paul Kratzel's building is being thoroughly painted and repaired throughout and when completed will be an ornament to the borough.

Arthur Giles has taken the contract to dig a well on the poor farm, between New Brunswick and Dunellen. It is a large job, as the well is to be very deep.

In Somerville yesterday occurred the marriage of Miss Teressa Hock to Ferdinand Reidman of New York, at the home of the bride. The Catholic Church choir of Dunellen sang High Nuptial Mass. There was a large number present, and the gifts were costly and handsome.

The house occupied by the Misses Smith, school teachers, came near being consumed by fire Saturday evening. In lighting a match, some inflammable material caught fire and it was with considerable difficulty that it was extinguished. This in connection with the other fire the same evening reminds the people in Dunellen that fire protection is needed very much. In case a large fire should start, there is not the least bit of protection, and the town would burn before assistance could be secured.

Best of Service at Reasonable Cost.

When comes the mournful duty of preparing for the tomb the body of some lamented loved one, it is encouraging to feel that the professional person whose aid is a necessity in the hour of death is a man of refined sensibility, courtesy and delicacy. It is because of his possession of these traits, and because his terms are so considerate, that H. DeMott of 175 Somerset street has came to be so preferable a funeral director. He conducts burial arrangements with a skill acquired in a careful course of instruction in embalming, and his offices are employed in cases where moderate charges are as desirable as first-class service. Mr. DeMott is recommended as looking as faithfully after the wishes of those employing him, as the directors who seem to regard extravagance as an essential feature.

Satisfactory Portraits.

Two more portraits of Plainfield people have been completed by N. E. King of 483 Lexington avenue, Brooklyn, and were delivered yesterday. He took two new orders. All of the work he has done has been very successful, and his patrons express high appreciation of his work. He puts a most accurate likeness on the canvas, giving the faces a lifelike expression, and all who know him regard him as a high-grade artist.

Two chicken thieves started to enter the coop of F. R. Stevens at the corner of Fifth and Berckman streets at 12:15 last night.

The burglar-alarm bell on the side of the house rang and Mr. Stevens looked out in time to see the two driving down Berckman street in a wagon. A 32-calibre revolver was left behind.

His Goods and Prices Are All Right.

Those people who are deceived by the misrepresentations of unreliable dealers in shoddy goods are glad to come back to the local merchant who never swindles. In the line of men's furnishings goods U. B. Crane of 120 West Front street has long been noted for catering to the masculine wants at reasonable prices and by trustworthy treatment.

To Tent in July.

The Third Regiment Cadet Corps will meet this evening at the home of Captain Edwards on Duer street. It has not yet been decided when and where the camp will be made, the other corps having a vote in the matter. The boys will probably live in tents somewhere on the coast for a week next month.

Whitewashed the Rock.

Concerning the discussion of Washington Rock, The Press is pleased to note that the Woman's Friendly Society of the Church of the Heavenly Rest whitewashed the Rock Saturday afternoon. There were 27 of them, and each took part.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Lyceum Cyclers who run to Rahway this evening will bowl a game with the Lyceum team there.

Chief Doane has learned to ride a wheel. He and his trainer, Edward Moeber, can be seen almost any morning taking a spin.

Six members of the Elizabeth Athletic Club were out early this morning for a spin. They passed through town on their way to New Brunswick.

Isaac Townley of the Crescents has entered the novice, the half mile and the mile races of the Elizabeth Athletic Club in Waverly Park next Saturday.

General Secretary Henry Mead, and a party of bicyclers from the Summit Y. M. C. A., visited Plainfield last evening. Summit, with a population of 3,700, has a new Y. M. C. A. building which cost, with the land, $23,000.

The attention of the police is called to the fact that on West Front street near New street several young men make a practice of riding their wheels on the sidewalks. A number of pedestrians have narrowly escaped being knocked down.

William Littell of Newark rode to Plainfield last evening on his wheel to visit his friend Dudley S. Miller. This morning Mr. Miller accompanied his guest back as far as Cranford. He says he saw a large number of sparrows lying dead in the road as a result of the heavy storm.

A colored bicycle rider rode on West Seventh street near Arlington avenue last evening at 5. He had no light. A special policeman saw him and called to him to stop. The man laughed made the violation of the ordinance double by riding away on the sidewalk. The special remarked for the benefit of onlookers that he knew where the man lived and then rapped for Policeman Saunders and held a consultation with him.

RESULT OF A PRESS AD, TOO.

People Like to Borrow of Such a Considerate Creditor as Counselor Reed.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Please discontinue my advertisement of money to loan.

Allow me to compliment The Daily Press upon its value as an advertising medium. As a result of the "ad" the $25,000 was taken in a week and I could loan as much more, if I had it, upon first-class mortgages.

CHAS. A. REED.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 569 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

THE OVERTON CLAIM.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHTED 1894 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER I.

"He's the gallantest old fellow. It makes me fairly heartsick to know his case is hopeless."

Mr. Hildreth said it, looking with compassionate eyes after his departing client. His partner, Major Vance, half turned in his swivel chair, gave an extra long pull at his pipe and said over the top of "Greenleaf on Evidence:"

"Why let it be hopeless? Isn't it your business and mine to persuade one very bad man or twelve good and true ones that the right is always with our side?"

"Certainly, but in this case I should have to persuade them to go against law and fact in order to do what I believe to be right," Mr. Hildreth said, making himself horizontal by putting his heels upon his desk and tipping his chair as far back as possible. Again Major Vance spoke through his blue veil.

"Tell me all about it. Your client looked as though he came out of the ark. Has he got a claim for damages against Noah et al.? Or is it a matter of line fences?"

"Neither. You must have heard all about it. It's one of our celebrated cases—the Overton claim."

"What! Is that the man who has been a legal gold mine these last 50 years?"

"The very same—Francis Overton, Esq. No better blood in the state."

"Tell me about the claim. Of course I've heard of it nebulously. I'd like to know the story of it with circumstantial exactness."

"It's a pitiful one, and my father always insisted begun in a romance back in Carolina. He knew both the Overtons and Fauntleroys there. The heirs of each house, it seems, fell in love with the same young woman—an heiress and great belle—who preferred young Overton. If the other man swore vengeance against his successful rival, nobody ever heard of it, but everybody knew that the warm friendship once existing between the two families was utterly dead. In fact, it was felt to be a good thing when, a few years after his wedding, young Overton moved with all his belongings to middle Tennessee.

"Here he prospered amazingly. Coming in when pretty well all the state lay virgin, he bought half a county of the richest land at a price that was next to nothing. Besides he got possession of the best ore banks in the state, and as soon as he had got a fair sized plantation open, set about building furnaces and making iron. He was essentially a man of big enterprises, one who did nothing on a small scale. Into this new venture he put a deal of money—the most of it, unluckily for him, not his own. There were half a dozen blast furnaces, a forge, a rolling mill, heaven knows what besides, but if the money went out in a stream it looked to be certain that it would come in in a flood. Indeed my father always maintained that Mr. Overton went at least $50,000 in debt simply to oblige lenders who forced their cash upon him. For three years everything went well. No man stood so high, was rated so happy. Then came a sea of troubles. His wife died—his children, all save one, the eldest boy—my client of today. Before people were done talking over their funerals there was a bigger sensation. Peyton Fauntleroy's attorney had come out from North Carolina and laid claim to all the iron land in Mr. Overton's possession. Though he laughed the claim to scorn, it made a fine how-d'ye-do among partners and creditors. They clamored for an explanation. He answered by buying out or paying each one in full, though to do it stripped him of everything but the property in dispute. That was a fortune if he held it. At the trial people waited on tiptoe for the outcome of it all. He came into court mighty sorrowful looking, but no whit downcast. Indeed he had hardly thought it worth while to employ a lawyer, but as my father had settled his other affairs for him he said to him, 'George, please look after this little matter.'

"But my father would never take a fee for that day's work; said he didn't earn it. Fauntleroy's man got up first and said that his client claimed the land under government entry at such a date, to be established by patents and receipts for purchase money. Mr. Overton hardly waited for his last word before he stood up, saying to the judge as though the whole thing bored him, 'If your honor will look at those papers, you will find that my entry of the same land was just two years earlier.'

"'H—m,'" said the judge. 'You must make your statement on oath.' While Mr. Overton was being sworn his honor fumbled with the papers, but didn't look at them. The other man passed up his documents. You might have heard yourself think while the judge was turning them over. The crowd could see that they looked official—on government forms, with big red seals. When he undid the Overton packet, everybody gave a gasp. It was nothing but blank paper. Mr. Overton stood like a dead man for a minute, then sprang facing the judge, and shouted out: 'The records—search the records. I know my deeds are there!'

"Most likely they were there, but the book was missing—has been from that day to this. Of course, though, there was nothing for it but to give judgment for Fauntleroy. But when court was over, as my father was helping Mr. Overton from the room, the judge came to them and said: 'I know it's your land, sir. Appeal, appeal, and by the Eternal I will help you to get justice.'"

"That broke Mr. Overton all up. He choked and said gaspingly: 'The fight will go on, sir, so long as Overton blood runs in any creature's veins. I have got just one boy left. Better, much better see him dead than to know he would let it be said his father had been proved a scoundrelly land thief.'

"'They never shall say it, father,' young Frank cried out. The old man reached out a hand to him, staggered, fell, was dead before they could lay him straight on the grass in the courthouse yard. Kneeling beside the corpse, the lad—he was just turned 17—swore to avenge and vindicate the dead man if it took all his life. Though of all his father's fortune there was not enough left to bury him, the son was not badly off. His mother's money was held in trust for him, and there was more to come from a rich bachelor greatuncle.

"The Overton claim has swallowed nearly all of it, for, you see, these things came to pass more than 50 years ago, before you and I were born. Through all these years the fight has been kept up. The absence of the records has made that possible. Lacking them, neither claimant can perfect his title to this great property. Fauntleroy got possession under bond after the first decree, but it profited him next to nothing. He lacked money to develop it, and nobody had faith enough in him or his case to risk a dollar in his hands.

"Francis Overton swears to this day that the night before his father's death he—the son—read over deeds to all the iron land, duly attested as of record in the missing volume. By what treachery they were abstracted and blank forms left in their place nobody can even imagine, always supposing that such a thing did occur, which I, for one, devoutly believe. But few folk agree with me. Some of the overgood even sigh and lift their eyes, intimating that the elder Overton was 'struck down' for false swearing, as well as that some things in the life of his son are 'a judgment' for the assertion of an unjust claim.

"To me he is the most heroic, the most pathetic figure I ever knew. This struggle to set his father right has risen from a duty to a religion—one, too, which, unlike most religions, comes before everything, anything else."

"Yet you say his case is hopeless?"

"Quite, save in two most impossible contingencies."

"What are they?"

"He must find the missing volume of records or the man who made away with them and with his father's deeds."

CHAPTER II.

Seventy years, full of trouble though they were, sat lightly on Francis Overton. He walked away from his lawyer with a masterful step, though his head drooped a little, and his eyes were full of speculation—so full indeed that he took no note of two other men, who looked hard at him from an adjacent street corner.

When he had vaulted upon his tall black horse and gone away at a swinging lope, one said low to the other:

"That's your man. Tough old nut, isn't he, to be riding that gait at rising 70?"

The speaker was an elderly man, smug faced, though not quite ill looking, with narrow, light eyes; a square jaw and close clipped bullet head; well dressed, well groomed, yet giving withal some suggestion of underbreeding.

The other was taller by a half head, lithe, slim, with an oval face tanned to healthy brown and lit by two clear, convincing gray eyes. Every line, every motion told of strength and suppleness, the muscular perfectness of the early twenties. His hair, just long enough to show a hint of ripple, was of the warm brown that catches gold of the sun, the same sun which had burned to an ashen shade the drooping mustache that hid a firm, well cut mouth.

Altogether you would go far before seeing a better specimen of the genus gentleman. He looked intently after the vanishing figure, and as it was lost to view said, "Hawkins, I like his looks, so much so indeed that I have three parts of a great mind to give up the whole thing."

A lightning scowl drew together Hawkins' brows, but he was wise enough to mask it and say interrogatively: "What? I didn't quite catch what you said."

For a minute the other was silent. Then he said, not loud, but dropping his words with the precision of a plummet: "That old man is honor personified. So much his face proclaims. There must be much more than I have been taught to believe in this claim to whose upholding he has sacrificed so much."

"Oh, nobody ever said a word against him. No doubt he believes all he says; took his father's word for gospel truth. Clearly he is a victim of circumstances and his own bull headedness. That's why we, our side, thought of this compromise." Hawkins returned hurriedly, jumbling one word on another as if to prevent further speech of his comrade.

The younger man looked at him hard as he asked, "On your honor, now, do you believe a compromise possible?"

The other broke out with impatience that he tried vainly to smother in suavity: "That's just what I can't say—what we want to find out. See here, F—— Haywood, you can't mean to go back on us now. Think for a minute what it means, where we stand. Here's one side—an English syndicate just aching to invest $1,000,000; the other, the finest iron property in the world, at which they will jump, once the title is absolutely clear. There is no reasonable doubt whom it really belongs to. Spite of 50 years of suits in all sorts of courts, Fauntleroy possession has not been overturned."

"You forget there have been lapses, quite enough to give the other side a fighting chance."

"That's your man. Tough old nut, isn't he, to be riding that gait at rising 70?"

"No, I don't forget. Reduced to its lowest terms, the case stands thus: Overton has no possible chance of winning the property. All he can do is to play dog in the manger and keep the rightful heirs of it from getting full benefit of it. Now, it seems to me, regard for him, if nothing else, ought to make you anxious that he shall be properly approached, the case stated fairly to him and an effort made to convince him of the error of his ways. You were willing enough"——

"Before I saw him or the land in dispute, yes. Now I put myself in his place, try to think how I would feel if, after all of these years of struggle, a man came to me, saying in effect: 'Sir, your father was a thief and a scoundrel. All the same, your persistent denial of it keeps me out of a fortune. If you will agree to admit it and thereby put $1,000,000 in my pocket, I will see to it that it is made worth your while.' I think, Hawkins, I should kick the messenger very hard, all the harder if he rang in anything about regard for my own interest."

"Then you won't go to him?"

"Not as you proposed, under an alias. But openly, in face of daylight, giving my own name, I mean to see Major Overton, and see also if there can possibly be found an honorable way out of all this evil."

Hawkins fell back a step, with eyes of amazed fury. After a minute he said, with a slowly whitening face: "You—will—go—to him—in—your—own name? Young man, you are—worse than a lunatic. He would murder you at the sound of it."

"I think not. He has not the assassin's face. Do you know where he lives? I want to do him the honor of seeking him in his own home."

"Would you really risk it?" Hawkins spoke in an awed whisper. The other laughed a little, saying: "Why not? I can but fail. If I do, it will be failure between gentlemen, which, while it may be unpleasant, surely cannot be dangerous."

Hawkins' eyes dropped; his face grew hard. He half turned away, saying over his shoulder: "Oh, well, do as you like. Ridgeley, the Overton place, lies about 10 miles out of town, on the Blackwood road. But you are not sure of finding the major at home except at breakfast. So I advise you to go early, if you will in spite of me."

"Go I must and soon," the other said, walking away.

Hawkins looked after him and muttered under his breath: "Him—of all the men in the world. He cannot know—not half a dozen do—all that lies under the surface of the Overton claim."

A long procession of diseases start from a torpid liver and impure blood. Take it, as you ought, when you feel the first symptoms (languor, loss of appetite, dullness, depression). As an appetizing, restorative tonic, to repel disease and build up the needed flesh and strength, there's nothing to equal it. It rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, braces up the whole system, and restores health and vigor.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Elmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

A REMARKABLE CURE

MIDDLEBUSH, Somerset Co., N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For the past forty years I have been afflicted with bleeding piles. I suffered constant pain in the lower part of my body, but when I had an operation of the bowels the pain was perfectly terrible, and was most always attended with the loss of a large quantity of blood. My condition was complicated with prolapse of the rectum, which at first only made its appearance when I had a movement of the bowels, but at length the parts became so weakened that the protrusion took place while walking or stooping, or after the slightest exertion, and sometimes even while I was at rest. Whenever this happened it gave rise to the most agonizing pain, and felt as though something was pulling the life right out of me. In fact only those similarly situated can imagine the suffering and distress which I had to endure from day to day, and which made my life a terrible burden. Hearing of Dr. Lighthill's wonderful success in the cure of difficult chronic diseases, I placed myself under his care, and now I am proud and happy to say that, marvelous as it may seem, he effected a complete and radical cure in my case in every respect, and he performed this cure without any painful operation or preventing me from work. Since this terrible disease has been removed by Dr. Lighthill's skill I feel new life, and for the first time in forty years I feel once more what it is to be without daily pain, discomfort and distress. I am not a wealthy man, but no amount of money would tempt me to be put back in my former condition.

I make this public statement, not only from a deep and everlasting sense of gratitude to Dr. Lighthill, but also as a simple Christian duty to let the afflicted know where they can find a physician whose skill cannot be surpassed, and in whom implicit confidence can be placed.

SUGAR TRUST SECRETS

The Combine Formed Solely to Advance Price.

Consumers Compelled to Pay More for Refined Sugars Than Under Free Refineries System — Prices Fixed to Exclude Foreign Competition—Admissions of Havemeyer.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Three witnesses were examined by the sugar trust investigation committee yesterday. They were H. O. Havemeyer, John E. Searles, the treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, and H. P. Birney, chief clerk of the Arlington hotel. Mr. Havemeyer's testimony was brief but interesting. His examination began with the question of Senator Allen which was left unanswered the day before. This was read as follows:

"So far as I am concerned, I request of the witness, Mr. Havemeyer, to produce full data as to all money contributed by the American Sugar Refining company, or any of its officers, on its account or in its interest, in the different states of the union in 1892 and 1893, for political purposes, to any political party, whether national, state or local."

"While I am perfectly willing to answer any material matters," said Mr. Havemeyer, in answering the question, "under advice of counsel I decline to answer about outside matters. I decline to answer about local contributions. I know of nothing given to the national campaign. There exists no bargain of any nature, and I never claimed that the company was entitled to anything except what its merits required."

Senator Allen—You may state, if you can, the difference of protecting your industry under the McKinley act and what it would be under this act as it is now framed in the senate, under the Wilson act with the senate amendments now being considered?

A. Under the senate amendment it is about one-quarter what it is under the McKinley bill.

Q. I understood you to say yesterday that owing to the existence of the American Sugar Refining company, and your ability to control the output of the American Sugar trust, that sugar has been bringing to the people of the United States 3-8 of a cent a pound more than it would under a system of free refineries?

A. I think my testimony was that the profits of the American Sugar Refining company had been 3-8 of a cent for three years.

Senator Davis—Do you mean to say that that 3-8 of a cent a pound would not have been made in case the sugar refining industry was conducted by independent refineries all over the country?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you mean to say after the trust was formed that sugar cost 3-8 of a cent a pound more than it would otherwise have cost under previous conditions?

A. Under conditions immediately preceding the formation of the trust, yes, 3-8 of a cent a pound. But taking the time of six years since the formation of the trust, the cost to the purchaser has been less than it would have been three years previously.

Senator Lodge—What has been the reduction of price to the consumer since 1890?

A. I should think it was nearly three cents a pound.

Q. What would you estimate the increased price to the consumer under the proposed bill?

A. A cent a pound from the present price.

Senator Lindsay—Is not this the further fact that the trust, being able to fix the price in America, has it not been the policy of the trust to fix it just low enough to keep out refined sugar made in foreign countries?

A. That is the business, practically, of the American Sugar Refining company.

Q. And you have so fixed it as to practically exclude all foreign competition?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Havemeyer said that under the trust the number of refineries had been reduced from 20 to 7, and the capacity represented had been increased from 65 per cent. to 80 per cent. The 20 refineries before the existence of the trust had been able to exist but not to make any money.

"In fact," said Senator Allen, "the very purpose of the formation of the trust, as I understand you, was to advance the price of sugar to the American consumer?"

"Yes, sir," was the frank response

"And the American consumer is to-day paying three-eighths of a cent a pound on refined sugars more than he would be compelled to pay under a system of free (or separate) refineries?"

"Yes, sir."

Senator Allen reverted to the question of contributions of the trust for campaign purposes and the examination of Mr. Havemeyer was concluded with this colloquy:

Senator Allen—So the American Sugar Refining company's politics, so far as its contributions to the campaign fund are concerned, is controlled by the political complexion of the state in which it happens to have a particular refinery?

Mr. Havemeyer—The American Sugar Refining company has no politics of any kind.

Senator Allen—Only the politics of business?

Mr. Havemeyer—Only the politics of business.

Senator Lindsay—You say the company is seperate and distinct from the officers and stockholders; each man has his own politics?

Mr. Havemeyer—We have nothing to do with politics in any shape or manner. Our business is the refining of sugar at a slight profit that is consistent with a reasonable return on the industry.

Senator Allen asked what amount of money had the American company earned on its capitalization of $50,000,000 since its organization in January, 1891, and Mr. Searles said that while he did not have the figures he should say about $35,000,000. This represented the earnings, not the net profits, which were about $20,000,000.

Then Mr. Allen proceeded to question Mr. Searles about the contributions of the trust to campaign funds. Mr. Searles said that contributions had been made in 1892, but he did not care to testify on that point unless the resolution under which the committee was acting embraced that inquiry. He was told that the resolution did embrace that point and added: "In answer to that question with reference to any contributions to secure or defeat legislation, I answer emphatically, no."

He was not certain as to what states had received campaign contributions from the trust, but he thought money had been given in New York. He declined to say how much money was contributed for campaign purposes in 1892, on the ground that it was not within the province of the inquiry. No national contributions were made.

Senator Allen—Do you decline to state simply because you know it was disreputable and unlawful to contribute this money?

Mr. Searle—No, sir; I do not admit anything of the kind. The contributions were actuated by a patriotic duty.

A PUZZLER FOR CARLISLE.

About 3,000 Unregistered Chinamen and No Money to Deport Them.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—A question that is causing the treasury department considerable bother just now is what to do with unregistered Chinamen. According to the official report made by Commissioner Miller 107,000 had complied with the extended Geary law and registered. Official estimates place the number of Chinese in this country at 110,000, so that it would appear that there are now in the United States, 3,000 unregistered Chinese, every one of whom according to the law must be sent out of the country.

There is no money appropriated for the purpose, and as it costs fully $75 per head to send Chinamen back to China from the United States, the aggregate amount required for the purpose will be quite large.

In the meantime, under circular instructions sent out by the treasury, any citizen can appear before a United States commissioner and make complaint against an unregistered Chinaman and United States marshals and custom officers are by law directed to do so.

Secretary Carlisle and Attorney General Olney have the vexed question under consideration and will probably make some official announcement on the subject shortly.

Coalition of Big Labor Organizations.

CHICAGO, June 14.—The coalition of the American Railway union and the Knights of Labor was effected at the session of the first annual convention of the Railway union. The first steps were taken toward an offensive and defensive alliance of these two great labor organizations, with an effective strength of 350,000 men, each founded upon the principle of including in its membership laboring men of all classes. Opposed to this great confederation of laboring men are the American Federation of Labor, the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers, the Brotherhood of Firemen and all kindred orders working on the class organization basis. There is every prospect of war to the death between the two factions of organized labor.

Wells College Commencement.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 14.—The 26th annual commencement at Wells college, Aurora, came to a close with the address to the graduating class by President Stryker of Hamilton college and the president's annual reception. The festivities of the week have been tinged with an element of sadness, caused by the retirement of the Rev. Dr. Frisbee from the college presidency, after 19 years of faithful service. At the meeting of the alumnæ association some verses in this connection, written by Mrs. Mildred Fuller Wallace, of Tacoma, Wash., a daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, and a member of the class of '89, were read by Miss Jessie Jewell Smith, '92, of Elizabeth, N. J.

Confirmed By the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations:

Wm. J. H. Ballard, of New York, to be consul of the United States at Hull, Eng.

Charles F. Stone, of New Hampshire, to be naval officer of customs in the district of Boston and Charlestown, Mass.

George E. Van Kennan, to be collector of customs for the district of Oswegatchie, New York.

STILL TALKING WOOL

Two Days Already Taken Up With This Schedule.

Senator Sherman Makes an Earnest Argument Against Free Wool and is Followed By Other Republican Members—Mr. Quay on Hand With His Endless Speech—Work in House

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The second day's debate on the wool schedule was opened in the senate by Mr. Sherman (rep., O.), who made an earnest argument against free wool, as a thing that would result in the destruction of the wool-growing industry of the country and would be "the culminating atrocity of the bill." He declared that the pending bill, if it was submitted to the people of Ohio, who are largely interested in wool growing, would not receive the support of one-fifth of the voters.

He was followed on the same side of the question by Senators Dubois (rep., Idaho), Stewart (rep., Nev.), Shoup (rep., Idaho), Hasbrouck (rep., N. D.) and Mitchell (rep., Ore.).

Mr. Mitchell demanded for the wool-grower consideration equal to that given to the woolen manufacturer, whose duties had been cut down between one-half and two-thirds. "Do with the wool-grower," he said, "no worse than that."

After the delivery of these speeches a discussion was started by Mr. George (dem., Miss.) as to whether, if a duty were placed on wool (to which he did not express any opposition), compensatory duties, additional to those reported by the finance committee, would have to be given to manufactured goods. That discussion occupied one hour and a half, and was closed by Mr. Frye (rep., Me.) with a passionate appeal for protection to American wool growers.

All the time Mr. Quay (rep., Pa.) hovered about the chamber ready to go on with the eighth instalment of his speech whenever the supply of talk from other senators would fail. Occasionally he crossed over to the democratic side of the chamber and held conversations with Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, and other members of the finance committee as if he were negotiating terms on which he might be willing to wind up his speech. If that were the purpose, it must have failed, for half an hour before the usual time of adjournment, he resumed the floor and set out to read another section of his apparently endless speech.

House of Representatives.

The continued warm weather had a depressing influence upon the house, and although the Indian appropriation bill was taken up promptly, and held the attention of the committee of the whole four hours, but eleven pages were disposed of. Several slight amendments were made to the text, chiefly in the way of increasing appropriations for the support and civilization of certain tribes.

The chief event of the session was a discussion of the present Indian policy of the government, especially with reference to the education of the children of the red men, in the course of which Mr. Reed (rep., Me.) made a brief speech that held the closest attention of the committee and received a round of applause at its close.

Great Fire at Panama.

PANAMA, June 14.—About 225 houses were destroyed by fire last evening. Thick showers of sparks and brands fell throughout the district where the fire started, and thousands of people were on roofs clearing off combustible materials and pouring water down heated walls. The wind was blowing a gale. No full estimate of the loss is yet possible. A vast stock in shops and in storage has been burned. Families living near the burning quarter were panic-stricken. Scores of them were trying to move their portable goods, but the confusion and excitement were so great that they could find no workingmen to help them.

Reform Policy Carried Too Far.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The branch printing office in the navy department is said to have been seriously hampered in its work, which is largely of a technical nature, by the discharge of several experienced men under the reform policy inaugurated by Public Printer Benedict. Among others the foreman has been discharged, and the places of several useful men are said to have been filled by the appointment of incompetent workmen. The naval hydrographic officers are annoyed by vexatious delays in the publication of important bulletins, which, it is claimed, must be issued promptly to be of any value to mariners.

Coaching Exhibition.

LONDON, June 14.—A coaching exhibition has just been opened at the Aquarium. It includes articles of about every sort used in driving and riding. Many of the 2,000 exhibits are vehicles, harness or whips once in the possession of famous persons. Some fine old paintings and prints also are shown. The Princess Louise lent to the exhibition the sleigh which she used in Canada when the Marquis of Lorne was governor general of the dominion. The American exhibits are creditable and are regarded with much interest.

Run Over By a Train.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 13.—George Richardson, superintendent of the Hydraulic company, was run over by a train at the depot in this city last night. On the train was his wife and daughter who fainted when they learned of the accident. Richardson was taken to the hospital and his arm amputated. He is in poor health, and it is feared the shock will kill him. His only son, Joseph, lives in New York and is reputed to be worth $15,000,000.

'Wealers Capture a Freight Train.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 14.—Judge Allen of the federal court has issued an order directing the United States deputy marshal to proceed to Fairfield and rescue a Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis freight train from a band of 150 Coxeyites who now hold possession of the train.

Gold Reserve Still Dropping.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—An engagement just made of $1,250,000 in gold for export to Europe from New York has reduced the treasury gold reserve to $67,950,000.

Stock Yards Burned.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Union stock yards, located at Bennings, D. C., a short distance from Washington, has been destroyed by fire. Loss $125,000.

TOO MUCH BALLAST.

Something Which May Explain Why the Columbia Was Damaged.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Naval officers will be surprised if the report proves true that the court of inquiry which has been investigating the damage to the Columbia fails to place any responsibility for the disaster and makes no reflection on the efficiency of those in charge of the ship at the time of the accident. It is considered remarkable if the court did not learn the fact that the Columbia had 300 tons of water ballast in her compartments on her voyage down the river in direct neglect of the regulations. The normal displacement of the ship is only 7,350 tons, but when she left League island on her trip her displacement was 8,400 tons, over 1,000 tons in excess of what her design called for, and of this, 300 tons, it is stated, should not have been taken aboard until deep water was reached.

Experienced officers very frankly say that the proper officials should have placed before the court of inquiry the fact that the Columbia was excessively and unwarrantably deep in the water, and in this connection the board should have insisted upon a reasonable explanation from the officers in charge of the ship as to the comparatively high speed that was maintained on the way to the trial in a river known to be full of shoals, having a narrow and circuitous channel in places and shown upon all charts to have barely more depth than the draught of the heavily weighted ship. These facts will be brought to the attention of Secretary Herbert when he reviews the case.

Overcrowding the Steerage.

NEW YORK, June 14.—It was said at the office of the North German Lloyd that the overcrowding of the Havel, of which the English board of trade has taken cognizance, was due to a mistake. It was said that at the time the Havel was ready to leave a large number of passengers presented themselves, and, although 50 of these were refused transportation, many of them got on board. At the office of the Hamburg-American line it was said that the trouble was caused by the difference between the English and American laws governing the transportation of steerage passengers. According to the former, every passenger must be allowed 18 superficial feet of space without reference to the height between decks. The American law is that each passenger in the steerage shall be allotted 100 cubic feet of space.

Death of Commodore Rogers.

PITTSBURG, June 14.—Commodore John Rogers, one of the best known naval veterans of Pennsylvania, who also was owner and captain in command of the Little Bill and Tide when they carried the deputies to the morning fight at Homestead, died, aged 71. He began his service when a boy on the United States schooner Madison, and was in command of the United States lightship at Helena, off the South Carolina coast, from 1845 to 1850. In 1863 he commanded the United States gunboat Naumkeag, and was promoted for gallant service on White river to a general command of the gunboat fleet. He was born in London, Eng. A widow and two children survive.

Salvador Refugees.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—It is stated on authority that as soon as the new government in Salvador has fully established itself and is able to preserve law and order it is the intention of President Cleveland to direct the surrender of the refugess now on board the Bennington, to the proper judicial authories, not, however, without the fullest guarantee on the part of Salvador that the prisoners shall be tried by an impartial tribunal organized in conformity with the constitution of the republic.

Situation in Morocco.

LONDON, June 14.—A dispatch from Tangier says: "The Bensicar tribe, which declared against Abdul Aziz on Tuesday, has been subdued with but little bloodshed. Couriers arriving here say that the people of Fez are about equally divided in their sympathies between Abdul Aziz and Muley Mahomed."

Prendergast's Case.

CHICAGO, June 14.—At a conference of the lawyers representing the state and Prendergast it was agreed to have the insanity case called before Judge Payne in the criminal court at once. The attorneys for the condemned assassin say they are not prepared to go to trial now.

Flag for the Indiana.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The navy department has accepted a handsome flag and staff presented to the battleship Indiana by Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin Beardsley, of Elkhart, Ind. This is intended to be used as the colors for the battalion of the vessel when on parade.

Kansas Prohibition Nominations.

EMPORIA, Kan., June 14.—The Kansas prohibitionists convention nominated I. O. Pickering, Olathe, for governor; H. G. Loughart, Hiawatha, for lieutenant-governor and a full ticket.

Trouble in Store for Old Tombok.

RANGOON, June 14.—The governor of the Dutch Indies will send five warships and 2500 troops against the rajah of Tombok to enforce upon him obedience to the Dutch sizerainty.

Going to Spark His Best Girl.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—The Czarewitch will sail for England next Saturday in the imperial yacht Polar Star, to visit his fiancee, Princess Alix, of Hesse.

Prominent Canajoharie Man Dead.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., June 14.—George Eice, commissioner of highways and a prominent and popular citizen, is dead of pneumonia, aged 63 years.

Graduating Class at Vassar.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14.—The class that graduated at Vassar numbered 7? and is the largest class that has graduated in many years.

TRINITY HOUSE BANQUET.

Admiral Erben Praised By Lord George Hamilton.

LONDON, June 14.—Rear-Admiral Erben and Capt. Mahan, of the United States cruiser Chicago, were among the guests at the Trinity house anniversary banquet. The Duke of York, who was recently chosen master, presided. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha (Duke of Edinburgh), the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, Lord Salisbury and the Earl of Rosebery were present.

In proposing the toast to the army and navy the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha said that, as a member of the corporation, he felt much pleasure in seeing among the guests such distinguished representatives of the United States navy.

The Earl of Rosebery touched upon the relations of the powers, notably as they might be affected by the complications in Morocco. The death of Muley Hassan, he said, had opened an important question which, but for the wisdom and moderation of the statesmen now at the head of European affairs, might prove to be the source of much trouble.

Lord George Hamilton, formerly first lord of the admiralty, gave the toast to the visitors. Nobody, he said, had done more to cement good feeling between England and the United States than had Admiral Erben with his happy speeches.

Rear-Admiral Erben has not recovered fully from his recent illness, and, in answering Lord George, he spoke only a few words of thanks.

New Railroad Extension.

GENEVA, N. Y., June 14.—A contract has just been let to John G. Dolan for constructing an extension of the Middlesex Valley railroad from Stanley to Geneva, connecting with the Lehigh Valley at Torrey park. The road is now in operation from Naples to Stanley, twenty-two miles. The extention to be built is only eight miles long, and the roadbed is already graded, being that of the old Geveva & Southwestern railroad which was graded twenty-one years ago. The extension is expected to be in running order within sixty days.

Queer Strike.

PITTSBURG, Kan., June 14.—A peculiar strike has occurred at the Black Diamond coal plant near here. Superintendent Wilmer was so well satisfied with the work of his men that on Saturday last he posted notices stating that he would advance their wages two cents on the box. For some reason the miners, who had been apparently contented before, became suddenly avaricious and demanded a further increase of three cents—five cents higher than the old price. Pending a reply from the company, the miners quit work.

"Under This Flag We Starve."

CHESTERON, Ind., June 14.—The Chicago Polish Commonwealers, under command of Count T. Rybacowski, were ushered out of town by the sheriff's posse after a great deal of persuasion. They went a mile and a half east and went into camp. Some one entered their camp and stole an American flag with a banner fastened upon it saying, "Under this flag we starve." West of here the army stole a cow, killed it and ate nearly all of the carcass raw.

Catholic Church Union.

ROME, June 14.—It is stated that the pope intends to issue an encyclical to the Anglican prelates urging them to recognize his authority and jurisdiction. In vatican circles it is admitted that such an encyclical is comprised in the pope's programme, but it is stated that it is withheld until the ground is better prepared for its favorable reception. He is preparing an encyclical to the dissenting eastern churches also.

Quackery and Starvation.

CARTHAGE, Ill., June 14.—Mr. and Mrs. John Loeffler, charged with the murder of their son Henry by starvation, were arrested and placed in jail without bond. They claim that the young man was responsible for his own condition physically and it was the numerous vile nostrums which he had taken by advice of quacks that killed him.

MEETINGS OF MINERS

Only Condemnation for the Columbus Agreement.

National Officers Denounced By Delegates Representing Ten Thousand Pennsylvania Miners—No Surrender, the Decision of the Punxsutawney Meeting.

PITTSBURG, June 14.—At a mass meeting of miners at Ten Mile Inn, near Camden, 16 pits out of a total of 21 in the first and second pools of the Monongahela river and those controlled by Brown & Co. in the Youghiogheny valley, were represented by 1,200 strikers, who assembled to take some action on the decision of the Columbus conference commission's action.

Ten thousand men are employed at the mines which had representatives in the meeting. It was the unanimous consent of those present that the new scale was unsatisfactory, and that the demand for the 79 cent rate be further prosecuted.

All the delegates were instructed to arrange for immediate meetings at their respective mines and elect delegates to the conference to be held in Pittsburg tomorrow to decide whether or not the 69 cent rate shall be accepted.

A resolution condemning the national officers of the United Mine Workers' association for misleading the delegates to the Cleveland convention and extending thanks to President Adams, of Ohio, and President Murray, of Illinois, for bolting the Columbus convention and refusing to sign the agreement was passed.

No Surrender, Their Decision.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 14.—"No surrender," was, in effect, the outcome of the miners' mass meeting here, and in emphatic language were the coal companies denounced for refusing to make any compromise with the delegates at Altoona. The leaders advised the men to remain just as they are, to obey the law and to offer no violence to the guards. If they do this they will be victorious in the struggle. The Italian and Slav contingent among the miners was excited, but conservative speeches made by the interpreters kept them in check. Most of the men who had been served with eviction notices at Horatio have voluntarily left their houses. The failure of Gov. Pattison to respond to their request for the use of tents until the trouble is over is causing much anxiety.

To Resume With Negroes.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 14.—The Hecla Coke company, operating 772 coke ovens, and the Calumet Coke company, operating 225 ovens, will start their works with negroes that have been imported into East Moreland county. It is said on reliable authority that 3,000 negroes will be imported into the coke region by July 1. The sheriff of this county has a large number of eviction notices that will be served on strikers.

Trouble Quieting Down in Ohio.

BELLAIRE, O., June 14.—The excitement has quieted down considerably in eastern Ohio. That part of the country where the recent troubles occurred is being patrolled by soldiers, whose presence now seems unnecessary. The strike, however, is as far from being settled as ever. The miners say they will starve before excepting the 60 cent rate decided on at Columbus. No trouble is expected and trains are now moving.

Vote to Return to Work.

WEST NEWTON, Pa., June 14.—At a meeting of the miners formerly employed at the Big Chief mines, at Robbins station, it was voted to return to work Monday at the 69 cent rate as adopted by the Columbus conference.

More Bridges Burned.

MASSILLON, O., June 14.—Two more bridges have been burned on the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad at Fuller's mine, two miles east of Sherrodsville.

Serious Charge Against Officials.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 14.—Walter Swayne, who has the contract to collect the garbage of this city, charges Dr. Frank H. Wright and the clerk of the board of health, Ward Bailey, with demanding from him large sums of money in order that complaints against Swayne's efficiency might be hushed up. Swayne alleges that a week or more ago Bailey demanded $100 a month out of the contract money, but later on consented to accept a much smaller sum, which Swayne paid with a check, and a small sum of money, so as to "catch Bailey, he says. The matter has been brought to the notice of the board of health.

Cleveland and Silver.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from Fort Worth, Texas, says that Senator A. M. Carter, of that place, received a letter from Secretary Carlisle, of the treasury, in which the following passage occurs: "I am satisfied, from all my intercourse with President Cleveland, official and otherwise, that he is in favor of the largest possible use of silver as money, consistent with the preservation of the parity of the two metals, and the maintenance of good faith on the part of the government. He is neither a gold nor a silver monometalist."

'Wealer Fitzgerald Indicted.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—The grand jury has found a true bill of indictment against Michael Fitzgerald, ex-leader of the New England division of the commonweal army, and other social commonwealers, charging them with making seditious speeches at an alleged socialistic meeting held on a Sunday night in May last.

Rich Old Bachelor Hangs Himself.

SHARON SPRINGS, N. Y., June 14.—John H. Staley, a wealthy bachelor aged 71, living with his brother, Alexander Staley, on a farm about a mile from here, hanged himself in the garret with a clothes line. Despondency is the cause assigned for the deed.

Wetmore Elected Senator.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 14.—In grand committee of the legislature George P. Wetmore was elected United States senator. A dinner and a salute of 100 guns followed.

Death of E. G. Robinson.

BOSTON, June 14.—Ex-President E. G. Robinson of Brown university is dead at the city hospital, where he has been under treatment for some time.

WATCH BABY'S FOOD.

June Starts the Deaths Among Thin and Pale Ones—Repeated Assurance of Physicians That Lactated Food is the Best Diet for Babies in Summer.

A mother's instinct—the holiest thing alive.

At a jump she reaches conclusions that physicians arrive at only by long experience. Every mother feels that baby's span of life is measured by the summers safely passed. She speaks of her infant as a child of so many summers.

Thousands of infants are every season safely carried through the trying summer kept well, and steadily gain in weight and size by the use of lactated food

Mrs. L. L. Bartlett, 568 W. Sanborn street, Winona, Minn., writes: "I nursed our baby until he was four months old, and my health was in such a terrible state that it threw him into inflammation of the bowels of a severe type. His life was despaired of. I had heard about lactated food, and by the advice of the attending physician, we purchased some. The baby liked it from the first and it agreed with him. He got well and began to grow fat at once. At 6 months of age he weighed 25 pounds. He never had the slightest trouble with teething, his teeth coming without our knowledge until we could see them. On the whole he is one of the happiest, sweetest babies one would care to see."

No family should be without lactated food from this time on.

NEW YORK POLICE REVENUE.

Startling Figures Based on Testimony Given at the Lexow Investigation.

NEW YORK, June 14.—An evening paper prints an interesting article in connection with the investigation of the police now being conducted by the Lexow committee. It is to the effect that the police revenue, based on figuers given in testimony, amounts to more than fifteen millions of dollars a year. The revenue is derived from the following sources:

From the city	$5,139,147.64
Disorderly houses	8,120,000.00
Saloons	1,820,000.00
Gambling houses	165,000.00
Merchants and peddlers	50,000.00
New members of the force	60,000.00
Grand total income	$15,354,147.64

In conclusion the paper says:

"If the testimony of the witnesses who have testified to paying blackmail is true, and the income of the police force from all sources is more than $15,000,000 a year, as shown by the figures above, then each one of the 3,600 persons in the department should receive more than $4,000 a year.

"In addition to all this, it is alleged that some police captains and sergeants, etc., have paid ten, five and three thousand dollars for advancement. This, of course, would not be revenue from the ouside. It would seem, however, to be better to be a policeman on the ground floor than a member of the sugar trust.

Women and Jersey School Elections.

TRENTON, N. J., June 14.—Attorney General Stockton has submitted to State School Superintendent Poland an opinion that women can vote at school meetings, notwithstanding the chief justice's opinion delivered in the Bergen county road overseer contest case, which has been generally interpreted as denying to women the right to vote at any election. The chief justice set aside the road overseer election, because women had voted at it. The attorney general bases his opinion on the constitutional provision giving the legislature power to provide for the "management and control of free public schools." He says the chief justice's opinion cannot possibly be interpreted to deny women to vote on other matters than election of officers and advises that women be permitted to continue voting on all matters until court expressly decides to the contrary, which he does not think probable.

Hudson River Bridge.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The president has selected the following board of engineers to recommend what length of span, not less than 2,000 feet, would be safe and practicable for a bridge over the Hudson river under the terms of the act of congress recently passed: Prof. W. H. Burr, of Columbia college, New York; Geo. S. Morrison, of Chicago; S. Bouscaren, of Cincinnati; Theodore Cooper, of New York, and Major C. W. Raymond, corps of engineers, U. S. A.

DID YOU EVER

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 14, 1894

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Central Lodge will act on three propositions this evening.

—The Colored Y. M. C. A. excursion to Coney Island, June 28, promises to be a large one.

—No definite arrangements for camping were made by the Third Regiment Cadet Corps at their meeting last evening.

—Justice Crosley will tonight try Richard Cavalear for alleged cruelty to his children. George DeMeza will defend him.

—Justice Newcorn today adjourned for one week the case of the Connecticut Training School against Herman Simmonds.

—"The biggest bargains yet" Edsall says, at his great special sale Friday and Saturday next. It 's a good place to go to save money.

—Otto Brandt, soda-water bottler, has bought the Thorn Building on Somerset street now occupied by A. B. Thorn and will move in July 1.

—The Press advises its readers to take advantage of the sale of white goods at VanEmburgh & Son's. The goods are displayed in their windows.

—The large and elegant stock of china, glassware, lamps, fruit jars, flower pots, and novelties, at Gavett's, is the admiration of all, and his prices are low.

—The closing literary exercises of Harned Academy will take place Friday forenoon at 10 in the assembly room. Patrons and friends are invited to attend.

—Enter your turnout for the Driving Parade. The managers meet in the Casino tonight. Already 60 entries have been made. It'll be a great event. You must enter now to be in it.

—It is rumored that an effort is being made to organize another camp of the Sons of Veterans in Plainfield. The members of John Hand Camp think it unlikely that a charter will be granted.

—Engine Company No. 2 was out for a wash at the corner of Fifth and Richmond streets last evening, testing the engine in anticipation of Fourth of July fires. It was a satisfactory test, the first since the new tubes were put in.

—Col. John F. Wilson had a wheel wrecked by the street railway track in front of the First M. E. Church this morning. His horses behaved splendidly, and neither he nor his daughter, who were in the carriage, was injured.

—John R. Miller & Son, the Newark tobacconists whose team recently damaged fence and hydrant at Watchung avenue and Second street, have honorably volunteered to pay all damages. The team was a new one, and it was their trial trip.

—The floral decorations in the Casino last night were exquisite, and were furnished by A. E. Lincoln the Park Avenue florist, who showed great skill in the artistic arrangement of the beautiful plants and flowers. The stage was a poem in itself, and the whole auditorium was like a fairy scene.

—When White of Plainfield cuts a price the knife goes in deep, right to the centre, and the great success attending his sales proves that advertisements are read and when the goods have merit and are genuine bargains they go every time. They advertised Tuesday night that they would sell fine dress ginghams Wednesday for 5 cents per yard and they sold over 2,000 yards. Advertising pays.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Manager Armstrong, of Reynolds's Pharmacy, has mastered the bike.

Ten Lyceum Cyclers rode to Bahway last evening and enjoyed a dance and a supper in St. Mary's Lyceum.

Carl von Lengerke, who will have charge of the Century run to Asbury Park, June 22, states that fully 800 riders will make the start, and not less than twenty-five women riders will attempt to make the distance. Each of the thirty-five clubs in the Metropolitan Association of Cycling Clubs, and the twenty clubs in the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, beside the members of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Philadelphia, will take part.

Steam Up at Sebring's Mills.

The 40-horse power boiler in the electric light plant in Sebring's Mills was tested to 85 pounds pressure yesterday. It was the first time it had been heated in two years when it was used for eight months for the Dunellen service. None of the tubes leaked and it was found that the boiler was in excellent condition.

The plant now consists of one 650-lamp dynamo which is run by water power to supply 100 lights. Another boiler and a large engine will be put in shortly. The engine will run a new 1,000-light and an arc-light dynamo. Another turbine wheel will be added and then the water power will do the street lighting while the engine will supply the commercial custom, a fast increasing branch of the business. It is possible that the plant will light Dunellen before long.

Wreck on the Central.

The Jersey Central road was blocked this morning from 7 till 9, one mile east of Glen Gardner, due to the breaking of an axle under a carload of pipe. No damage was done other than to the car itself. The 8:48 did not arrive here till 10 o'clock.

STOLE AND ELOPED.

(Special to The Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—Benjamin C. Peters, Assistant Treasurer of the New Central Coal Company of Maryland, whose principal offices are at 1 Broadway, has decamped with nearly $6,000 of the company's money. In addition to robbing his employers, Peters deserted his wife and children and eloped with a pretty young school teacher. The present whereabouts of the couple is unknown.

A THIRD OF A BLOCK BURNED.

Quick Work of Flames in Paper Warerooms.

(Special to The Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—Fire destroyed one-third of the block of business buildings bounded by Broadway, Pearl, Elm, and Duane street, between 7:40 and 10 this forenoon. Nothing of the large stocks of goods was saved. A damage estimated at $250,000 was caused. Vernon Brothers, paper dealers, were the principal losers.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Wm. H. Lyon has gone to South Higham, Mass.

Rev. Mr. Hillman of Brooklyn visited relatives in town yesterday.

Seely Edsall is enjoying life at the American House, Lake Hopatcong.

Chief Doane witnessed the fire in New York today. He counted 26 engines at work.

William M. Sandford of East Front street has purchased a new horse from Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Knowles of Atlanta, Ga., are visiting J. W. Reinhart of Belvidere avenue.

Alfred Berry Thorn left town this morning for Rahway to be married at 5 this afternoon to Miss Thorn, a relative, of that place. The wedding tour of two weeks will include a visit to Niagara Falls.

Willard L. Case of this city was graduated from Peddie Institute yesterday in a class of 35, the largest in the history of the institution. Mr. Case expects to continue his literary studies in Brown University, preparatory to his life work in the Gospel ministry.

Aeronauts Reported Safe.

A report reached this city from Princeton this morning that the balloon "Wind Swept", which made an ascent from One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, near the East River, yesterday afternoon, and passed over Plainfield, landed a few miles from Princeton last night. The balloon was somewhat torn, but neither Tracy A. Tisdell nor his companion, Lloyd Winter, the occupants, was injured. They made the ascent in order to take photographs from an elevation, for Judge. It had been wrongly reported that one of the men had been killed by a fall.

The balloon passed over Plainfield at 5:15, going directly over the Crescent Avenue Church and Mrs. Hawley's house on Second place. It was so high up at that time that it looked the size of a tennis ball. The balloon lowered after crossing the mountain, and followed the valley westward, after an unsuccessful attempt to land.

Treated Right by the Dog's Owner.

Elmer Hoffman, aged 10, a Press carrier, had an encounter at 6 last evening with the large white and brown dog owned by James P. McQualde of 731 West Seventh street.

He left the copy of The Press and then went from the house to the sidewalk. The nurse came out for the paper with a child in her arms. The dog followed, jumped the fence and knocked the boy down.

When he was rescued by a coachman and taken into the house the boy's left leg showed the marks of the dog's teeth in two places. His body was bruised where the dog had struck him. Dr. W. C. Boone attended the boy, who was taken to his home, 688 West Front street. He will be confined to the house for a few days. Mr. McQualde voluntarily pays expenses.

Justice Balked by the Doodle-Do Paper.

The police deny the statement of another paper last night that they had not heard anything about the violation of the law by a local book-maker. They say they knew all of the facts of the case and were obtaining additional evidence when the previous publication gave man warning.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

THE REINHART DANCE.

The dance in the Casino last night was greatly enjoyed by a number of young society people. It was given by Miss Katharine Reinhart of Belvidere avenue in honor of Miss Mary Wharton of Pittsburg, who is visiting her brother, Clifton Wharton, Jr., of Third place.

The Casino was beautifully decorated with white and red roses and other flowers, and ferns, and was bright with fairy lights. George E Rogers furnished music. A supper was served at 11 by th3 club caterer, Max Wertz. The affair broke up at 1.

Honors to a Press Graduate.

McCready Sykes, who entered Princeton from the staff of The Daily Press, won extraordinary honors in the Commencement yesterday. Special honors were awarded to him in Philosophy; and he won the McCosh prize in Languages, first prize in Debate, first in Oratory, the Class of '59 prize, and the White prize in Architecture. This remarkable exhibition of high scholarship is a source of great pride to his friends and family here.

That Far-Off Land.

How soon may we tread that echoless shore,
Our feet to return nevermore—nevermore,
While weary eyes so bitterly weep,
And loving souls with anguish deep,
Pour forth in vain their notes of wail,
Of loss and sorrow without avail,
God pity the loved we leave behind!
The "Source of all Strength", I pray they may find;
And solace seek from the heavy blow,
In Him who will comfort, for He hath said so.

Looking onward and upward to One though afar
Will be to us each a sure guiding star,
Till we reach the fair clime where they no more weep,
But blissfully rest in that "blessed sleep".

On a Little Book, "The Long Shore".

As we approach that endless shore,
And hear the words—"Time is no more",
May we find rest at God's right hand,
All glorious in that heavenly land.

Birthday Verses for a Beloved Child.

Another year has sped my love,
Thanks to the guiding hand above,
Thou still art spared to cheer my heart,
And form of life "the better part".
'T were easier found a fairer face
And nobler form of matchless grace;
But, loving heart, more fond or true,
Ne'er beat my darling child for you.
A mother's love! In years to come,
When she with earthly things hath done,
Sweet recollections of these days,
Remembrance of her simple lays;
And thoughts of all that tenderness
Which sought her only child to bless,
Will crowd thy mem'ry thick and fast,
And hold "Mamma" dear to the last.

Then cherish her while she is near,
Lest anguished tears beside her bier,
Fall silently on that cold head,
When she is numbered with the dead.
But strive to walk from day to day,
The narrow road—that heavenly way,
Which leads to glory and to God,
The blood-stained path our Saviour trod.
Now, little one, I bid farewell,
In vain I strive my love to tell,
'T will changeless prove till I with thee,
Shall spend a long Eternity.

REPAYING ASSESSMENTS

END OF THE WATCHUNG AVENUE ENTERPRISE.

North Plainfield Discusses Its Liability in a Newark Hospital Case.

The North Plainfield Township Committee met last evening. It was decided to return the assessments paid in for the abandoned Watchung avenue scheme. The case of John Corwin, the man who was admitted to a Newark hospital on what was supposed to be an order from the township, was discussed. At the beginning of the meeting the following letters were read:

ST. MICHAEL'S HOSPITAL,
NEWARK, N. J., June 2, 1894.

D. R. Weaver, Overseer of the Poor.

We enclose a copy of the letter sent here with the patient, John Corwin, and by it you will see that it is signed by two men in their official capacity. Such a letter can only be sent by one in authority, and in every case when a patient is sent by an Overseer of the Poor outside of this city the township is responsible for expenses.

Do you not think it would be rather unjust to send a man to a strange city while you have a hospital in Plainfield? This institution receives no aid whatever from your city, and has to be supported by the efforts of the Sisters. Our expenses are very heavy, and, as we have few endowed beds, the institution must be supported by the Sisters soliciting from door to door. Patients coming from places which support the hospital are treated gratuitously if unable to pay; but otherwise the expenses must be met by the township unless the patient is able to do this; and, as we have stated above, when sent here direct from an overseer of the poor, patients are always paid for even if we collect in such townships.

We therefore beg to return bill for settlement.

Respectfully,
SISTERS OF THE POOR OF ST. FRANCIS.

BILL.

Overseer of the Poor, North Plainfield, for John Corwin.

To St. Michael's Hospital, Dr.

For board and medical attendance, from Nov. 7, 1893, to May 7, 1894—$125.

Horace J. Martin, Township Clerk:

I herewith return the letter from the Sisters of the Poor, of St. Francis, dated June 2, 1894, with bill from St. Michael's Hospital for $125 and a copy of a letter dated November 7, 1893, which papers you left with me a few moments ago asking for an opinion in relation to the liability of the township.

I would not venture to give an opinion without knowing very much more in relation to the facts. For instance was the person, John Corwin, a pauper and chargeable to the township? What authority had the officers to sign the paper? Had there been any order made that Corwin should receive aid? Were the officers acting in an official capacity or were they simply doing a friendly act? If the latter was the case I cannot see what right they had to sign in their official capacity.

Does the township wish to stand strictly upon its technical rights in the matter? Certainly the paper signed by the officers is of such a character as to give the Sisters the impression that the township would be responsible for the expense, and while it may be that the bill could not be collected by law yet it seems to me that the township cannot afford to allow these women to be misled by its officers into a position where they must lose $125. They say that their expenses are met by soliciting charity from door to door and remind us that we never contributed anything in any way toward the support of their institution.

As I have already stated I am unable to answer offhand whether the township is legally liable but I am clear that morally it is bound to see that the bill is paid. It may be that there is a right of action against the officers who signed the letter. They may be personally liable. That will depend upon the facts in the case, with which I am not acquainted, but it seems that the township should see that the bill is paid by some one.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES A. REED.

Charles Debele of Rock road, who employed the man before he went to the hospital, made a statement to the committee. He had hired the man in Somerville where he had been working by the day for a short time. Previous to that Corwin had been in Newark. He was born in New York State. After the man had worked for two months he became ill. Dr. Gaston said his illness came from drinking.

Corwin then, according to Debele, went to Newark and returned saying the hospital there would not receive him unless he had a paper showing where he was from. Debele took the man to Overseer of the Poor VanHorn and they gave him a paper with which he went to Newark. Debele last saw him a month ago when he came from Newark for his clothes and then went away again.

Ex Overseer VanHorn then told what he knew of the case as follows: Debele brought the man to me in the afternoon and said he had been working on the Rock Road farm. Corwin had been to the hospital and had been sent back with word that the management would take him if they had a paper showing where he came from. I went with him to Justice Crosley and we agreed that the man was not a charge on the township, coming as he did from outside. We went to Counsel Charles A. Reed and he asked how much the man wanted a week. We told him that Corwin wanted nothing except a note showing where he had been. The counsel said the township could do nothing for him. So we waited until the next morning and saw the man again.

Justice Crosley asked Corwin what he wanted. He replied that he asked for nothing, not even car fare. He only wished to have a letter stating where he was from. Accordingly the justice wrote a letter which we both signed. It was a mere note, stating that the man came from North Plainfield. He was not positive as to the wording, but was sure there was nothing in it about providing for medical treatment.

The copy of the order sent by the Sisters was then read. It was as follows:

(COPY.)

NORTH PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 7, 1893.

To the Sister Superior of St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, N. J.

You are hereby requested to admit the bearer, John Corwin, to the above named hospital for medical treatment.

T. R. CROSLEY,
Justice of the Peace.

J. W. VANHORN,
Overseer of the Poor.

Committeeman Smith said that if the copy was correct the township would have to look to the signers of the original for the amount of the bill.

Justice Crosley then arrived. Counsel Reed's letter and the copy of the order were read to him. He said he thought the copy was substantially the same as the original he had written and signed. He had intended the letter simply as a recommendation for the man as a charity patient. The man had assured him that he wanted no aid from the township. Said the justice, "I drew up what I supposed a friendly, unofficial recommendation that he be received and was surprised to hear that a bill had been sent. The matter was not presented in legal form and the man was not a pauper. If any fraud or misrepresentation has been practiced, remember that fraud always makes any contract void. The bill should not be paid if there had been a misrepresentation. It would not be well to pay it under the circumstances".

Mr. Smith said it would be well to look the matter up further and intimated that Justice Crosley's bondsmen might be responsible. The justice said he could n't be sued for an official act. His bondsmen were simply liable for his doings in money matters. The signing of the paper was not an official act.

Mr. VanHorn was asked to investigate the matter further and to try to get the man and the hospital authorities before the committee at their next meeting.

Charles Sherman's letter asking for repairs on the road from Warrenville to Dunellen, was referred to Chairman Fountain after a discussion as to whether the part of the street mentioned was in the township.

The following letter was read:

The Honorable the Township Committee of the Township of North Plainfield:

Pursuant to your instructions to bring about legally a termination of the proceedings to open Peace street, application was made to the Supreme Court for an order to set aside the whole proceedings, not only those who sued out writs of certiorari, but as to all others also.

I am pleased to report that such an order was made by the Court on June 5, instant.

The assessments which were paid in can now legally be refunded by order of the committee.

I beg to call attention to the bill of costs due from the township to R. V. Lindabury and amounting to $20.15. I have assured Mr. Lindabury that the same would speedily be paid and will be obliged if it can be done at once.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES A. REED.

In accordance with the opinion the following assessments were ordered returned.

Wm. Sandford	$ 20.75
Wm. Price	30.00
Edward Embury	62.25
Samuel Ayers	20.75
George W. Fitch	37.00
W. C. Baldwin, per George Moore	12.45
Martha Campbell	62.25
Ignatz Boehm	8.30
R. R. Fairchild, per P. B. Hodge	103.75
Wm. H. Shotwell	62.25
Mary E. Hollow	41.50
Sarah Wilson	12.45
Total	$535.95

The committee then adjourned.

MIKE MONAHAN WINS.

A Change of the Deal Results in an Unexpected Victory.

The Railroad Quartette were quietly enjoying their daily game of whist. The customary spectators were silently observant. The score was very close—Teal and Brokaw a little nervous, as the time was short before duties must be resumed, and they were a point or two behind.

Eddie shuffled and dealt the cards, but upon glancing at his hand immediately recollected that he had dealt before and it was Gus's turn to deal. "Well",—said Mike—"That 's pretty tough. I held eight trumps and some leaders".

The hand was played on the new deal, and won by Teal and Brokaw, placing them in the lead.

Mike and Gus said nothing, but anxiously watched the clock. The last hand was dealt. Time short; play rapid.

"Seven odd"—calmly remarked Mr. Monahan.—"Gus you are a dandy partner; them deal changes do n't pay". Silence on the other side.

Funeral of Mrs. Garretson.

The body of Mrs. J. Smith Garretson was laid to rest in the family plot in the North Plainfield Cemetery yesterday. The mourners gathered first at the house on Lee place, where Rev. Cornelius Schenck read comforting passages of Scripture. The funeral then proceeded to Trinity Church, where both Pastor Schenck and Rev. C. E. Herring spoke tenderly of the departed and offered consolation to the family. Mr. Schenck told of his visits to the sick bed, and how he had been helped by communion with so devout a Christian woman. It was during one of his calls that she said "For me to live is Christ; to die is gain". Prayer was offered by Mr. Herring, and three appropriate selections were sung by Miss Krymer, Miss Mattison, Mr. Clark, and Mr. Barnes. The pall-bearers were Abram L. Cadmus, G. L. VanEmburgh, N. K. Barnes, and A. L. Force. The Ladies Christian Work Society, of which decedent had been a member, gave a tribute of a white floral anchor; and a floral pillow bore the words "Our Mother". There were numerous other tributes.

"Westfield" Retorts.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—If "Westfield" had brains enough to grease a gimlet he would see that bread and coal are produced by two entirely different methods. Coal is product of nature, placed in the earth by an All-Wise Providence for the use of all men; but the deposits are seized upon by the few who enrich themselves at the expense of the many. From the time wheat is planted till the bread is made it is the product of individual effort. Labor is the principal element that give (sic) it value and the Standard has always maintained that individual effort should receive its individual reward. If bread were found in mines there might be some reason in this statement. As it is it is drivel, not logic. —Pearsall in Union County Standard, June 9.

The syntax of the above recalls the pedagogue who said to his pupil: "I believe if it were not for me you would be the biggest blockhead on earth!" Is Rev. Mr. Cadwell coaching the editorial Mr. Pearsall? But it is not surprising that this editorial pedagogue is annoyed. It must be harrowing to be corrected in history, politics and political economy at once by a poor thing who has not "brains enough to grease a gimlet".

WESTFIELD.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

The Misses Trust entertained a few friends from New York yesterday.

Mr. Agany will commence in a few days the erection of a building next to Mr. Peters's barber shop.

The Methodist Church will give one of their renowned festivals next Tuesday evening at the church.

The Methodist Church and Sunday-school will join the First M. E. Church of Plainfield on their excursion to Asbury Park July 10.

The musical and literary entertainment in the Methodist Church this evening gives promise of being excellent, and should be well patronized.

Rev. Mr. Kinsey has sent invitations to the two Grand Army Posts of Plainfield to attend a patriotic service in his church the Sunday preceding July 4, and it is expected they will attend.

The lawn festival on Dr. Nelson's lawn last evening was largely attended, and proved to be a success. Excellent music was provided by Friendship Cornet Band, under whose auspices the affair was held.

The new school law, which will take effect soon, will not affect the borough of Dunellen this year. The contracts made by the present Board will stand. Next year the borough will be governed by the new law.

A large number of New Market young people have formed a lawn tennis club, and every fair evening they meet and have a most enjoyable time. A portion of the Griswell estate near the Episcopal Church is used by the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sturtevant of Plainfield were out for a carriage drive yesterday afternoon. When nearing Dunellen the horse stumbled, breaking the shaft. Some time was spent in repairs, after which they continued their journey.

Unintentionally the name of Miss Jessie Haynes was omitted from the Children's Day programme in the New Market Bap-Church Sunday evening. The solo singing of Miss Haynes was a strong feature of the exercises, and her pleasing voice was much enjoyed.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

The street lamps are again furnishing satisfactory light.

T. J. Walsh of Prospect avenue has purchased a new road-horse.

Frank Eller is painting Sisser's Hotel, formerly run by Harry Illsley.

Henry Keuhr has finished painting the Meyers house on the mountainside.

A special service of song will be held in the Baptist Church next Sunday evening.

Albert Magowan of Fanwood is having a barn built on his Park avenue property by John Boraman,

John Simpson has his boarding house on the side of the monntain ready for guests from the city.

A game of base-ball will be played in the Plains the morning of July 4 with a team from Berkley Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark have taken up their residence with Mr. Clark's father, Joseph Clark of Front street.

One of the stone crushers broke down yesterday morning and several of the carters had a holiday in consequence.

Wilbur Miller of Fanwood, who sprained his right ankle while playing ball Decoration Day, is again able to be about town.

The progress of the Arkell balloon was watched by crowds of people of the Plains and Fanwood yesterday afternoon.

Will Illsley will join his father, Harry Illsley, in Patchogue, L. I., as soon as he has graduated from the Scotch Plains School.

Henry Guerler of the Social Four has engaged Sam Frazee of Plainfield to furnish music for the dance in the Fanwood club-house June 21.

Barber Champion of Newark has started business in the shop on Park avenue formerly occupied by Charles Mann, who is running the Fanwood club-house.

A number of young people of the Plains and Fanwood will attend the ball of the Social Eight in Berkley Heights July 3. This time the trip will probably be made in Jacob Kliner's stage.

Hezekiah Hand is making a success of his management of Lowe's Hotel. The barn and sheds which were burned will be rebuilt at once. Yesterday he engaged Joseph Nestor as his new bartender.

Fanwood Council, No. 744, R. A., will celebrate Arcanum Day Monday, June 24, the postponement from the Thursday preceding that date because of other engagements. A festival for the members and their friends will be given in Excelsion Hall in the evening.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 and Chemical Engine Company No. 1 have received invitations from the Westfield Fire Department to join the parade in that place the morning of July 4. It is not probable that the Plains firemen will go, as many of them have engagements elsewhere.

The commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains School will be held next Thursday evening in the Baptist Church. A reception and dance will be given in the assembly room of the school by the graduating class after the awarding of the diplomas. The members of the class are Miss Edna Nicholl, Richard Robison, and Will Illsley.

In the Union County Orphans Court yesterday Judge McCormick accepted the bonds of Mrs. William J. Lowe as administratrix of the estate of her late husband, and the property owned by him in Scotch Plains and Morristown will now be sold to satisfy his creditors. Mrs. Lowe has a one-half interest in the hotel in Morristown. The other half is held by her brother-in-law, Thomas Lowe.

Postmaster Charles J. Noel.

Charles J. Noel was yesterday appointed postmaster of Netherwood. He'll make a good one.

THE SUMMER MAILS.

A Righteous Plea by the Elizabeth Journal.

Is it possible for the Post-Office Department at Washington to make such arrangements as will provide for the prompt delivery of newspapers at Summer resorts during this season?

We make this inquiry now, because complaints are already coming in, to the effect that the newspapers which are mailed daily at the post-office in this city are received in bunches of three or more, at odd intervals.

Now this is the annual complaint. It is the complaint received every year, at every newspaper office in the United States, excepting, perhaps, the largest metropolitan dailies. For some reason these latter are forwarded quite regularly, but all others suffer.

It is fully understood, or ought to be, that the fault is not at all in the newspaper offices. They get their papers off every day. And it is not the fault, as a rule, of the local post-office officials. They are just as anxious to get mail matter out of their way as the printers are.

It is the fault—or the misfortune—of the New York post-office. That is to say, it is the fault of the Post-Office Department in Washington in not providing a sufficient force of men during the Summer months to do the extraordinary work in the great Central offices necessitated by the enormous increase of Summer mails.

And the Post-Office Department should be held to a strict accountability. These Summer mails are now a permanent part of the people's service. They are annual, they are necessary, they are just as much demanded by the people as are the business mails during the Winter season. They are also so regular as to be easily prepared for, and after so many years of troubles, complaints, disappointments, etc., it is fully time that such regulations were made as would insure at least a decent delivery of the daily newspapers at every post-office to which daily trains are run.

The fact, however, that complaints have begun to come in thus early in the season is indicative that at least another year must elapse before Congress and the postal authorities at Washington will make a successful attempt to meet the people's demand for decent mail services during the Summer.

The Company Granted Possession.

Justice Mosher has decided the case of the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company against Daniel McCarthy. The company demanded possession of the property on South avenue, claiming it had been sold. The defendant could not disprove their statements, and the company was granted possession. W. B. Codington appeared for the plaintiff and Craig A. Marsh for the defendant.

Growing in Popularity.

The B. M. G's of this city gave another of their well-conducted dances in Eureka Grove last evening. The attendance was good, and the best of order was preserved. The music was furnished by O'Reilly, and it was early this morning when the dance ended. M. Meeker made a good floor manager, and was ably assisted by John Eberley. The next picnic will be given Wednesday, June 20.

THE RESULT

OF AN AMERICAN WOMAN'S WORK.

Not An Assertion, But a Truth, Proven by the Accumulated Testimony of 20 Years.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

HERE'S a reason for it, when a special remedy for a special disease maintains the first place in the faith of the people for twenty years; when, year after year, the confidence given cautiously at first rolls into a tremendous volume; when one woman's name is known throughout the civilized world; when letters by the thousands come by every mail from all parts of the earth in gratitude and praise; when druggists place this remedy first on the list of standard remedies.

Then there is a reason for it. Lydia E. Pinkham and her wonderful Vegetable Compound, deserve the first place in the hearts of womankind.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more women from all disease arising from irregularity and derangement of the uterus and womb than any remedy known to medical science.

Are you suffering? then profit by the experience of this thankful woman:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham,—Last winter I did not think my little ones would have a mother long. I suffered terribly with female troubles.

I could keep nothing on my stomach, and got so "poor" my friends hardly knew me. I suffered with severe headaches, dizziness, faintness, backache, and the blues.

Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am now as fat as ever, and have no female troubles.

If you use my letter I hope it may be the means of saving some other poor mother's life as it did mine.—MRS. ELLA VAN BUREN, St. David, Fulton Co., Ill.

OBITUARY.

Abner Bartlett, Sr.

Abner Bartlett, who had become very widely known in real estate circles in New York city during twenty-four years of service for the Astors, his duties having been particularly to look after their great property holdings, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 201 West Fifty-fifth street. He was seventy-six years old, and until a month ago enjoyed exceptionally good health. Then he suffered a severe attack of indigestion. The extreme heat of Monday and Tuesday prostrated him, and he died at 2 a. m. yesterday.

Mr. Bartlett was born Feb. 27, 1818, in Plymouth, Mass. The family was of Revolutionary stock and prominently identified with the whaling industry in the days when it made fortunes for the owners of the New Bedford fleets. He came to New York and went into business, but was ruined by the war. In 1871 he entered the employ of William B. Astor, and since that time his opinions on real estate matters have had the full confidence of that family.

His widow survives him. She was Medora Sibley Easton, daughter of Rufus Easton of St. Louis, and they were married in 1844. There was to have been a reunion of the Bartletts and the Sibleys on the occasion of the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett at the Waldorf next October.

They had three sons and three daughters. Two of the sons died in childhood. The third is Abner Bartlett, Jr., who lives in Plainfield. The daughters are Mrs. S. S. Stryker, of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. W. Horner, of Flushing, L. I., who is now in Europe, and Mrs J. B. Kissam of New York.

Funeral services will be held at the house at 3 p. m. Saturday. The interment will be in Greenwood at the convenience of the family.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Dr. Jocelyn Johnston of New York will preach in the Church of the Redeemer next Sunday.

The illustrated lecture on Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, in Bethel Chapel, will be given Friday evening, June 22, instead of the 21st, as was first announced, as the public school Commencement takes place the 21st.

Gifts have been made, by members and friends, to the Church of the Redeemer, of a silver Communion service, brass cross, brass vases, altar books, Bible, Communion linen, alms basins, 100 prayer books, and hymnals.

The regular monthly meeting of Holy Cross Brotherhood was held last evening in the Parish Building A committee was appointed to fit up a club room for the Brotherhood and other important business transacted. There was a large attendance.

So great interest in the school for Negroes at Calhoun, Alabama, was aroused by the addresses of Miss Thorn and Miss Dillingham at the Crescent Avenue Church last Friday afternoon, that the women of the Plainfield Branch Alliance have decided to work for this cause during the Summer, and to forward to the school in the Autumn all that they can collect in the way of money, clothing and juvenile literature. Mrs. Wm. F. Adams, Mrs. David Prescott Hall, and Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard have been appointed a committee to receive contributions, and anyone desiring further information can obtain it from them.

—M. Quinn's black mare Vanity trotted yesterday in the 2:45 class for a purse of $150 at the fair of the Queens County Agricultural Society held in Mineola, Long Island. The mare finished third in three heats.

CHAPTER III.

"Black Mammy, I want to go get some blackberries."

"Lis'en at dat now, will yo'? Miss Dare, didn't yo' hear ole marster tole me not ter let yo' outen my sight twell he came home, an here you wantin ter go strayin off by yo'sef lik' yo' wus some po' white trash."

"You can come, too, though I ain't afraid."

"I cain't dat; got ter spin my stockin yarn dis mornin while hit's cool. Wait twell de evenin; den I'll sen Suse ter fotch yo' mo' blackberries, an yo' kin shake a stick at."

"I don't like waiting."

"Is yo' gwine anyway spite er me?"

"Not in spite, but I am going. Spin away, mammy. I'll never tell grandfather; you needn't either."

"Ef go yo' will, I got ter, but you is the ill convenientest gal, hungry fer blackberries wid horse apples des meller as dey can be layin right yer under yo' nose. I don' min de goin so much, but I does hate ter see yo', er Overton, actin like er po' white. All dem lives in de brier patch, dis time er year, des same as de wus rabbits."

Dare Overton laughed aloud, then ran down the piazza steps, calling as she went: "Music! Damsel! Here, here!"

At sound of their names a couple of foxhounds, lank, lithe, many spotted, got up from the grass, where they lay panting and snapping at the flies, and ran away to their young mistress, who stood beside the yard gate, waiting Black Mammy's slow approach.

She fitted well into the joyful summer morning. Her clean pink calico frock fell away from a round white throat, whose promise was repeated in the wrists revealed by loose sleeves, fulfilled in the rose and ivory of her face. One bare hand lifted the pink skirts high enough to show two small proud stepping feet in quaint buckled shoes. The other held a small basket woven of fine white oak splints. A mop of yellowy hair showed under a big palm hat. Brows a trifle darker arched over deep blue eyes that were full of merry mischief as the fat dark figure waddled slowly toward the gate.

"Own up now, mammy; you wanted to go as bad as I did or Music or Damsel," Dare said, with a dimpling smile.

"I never," retorted Black Mammy, drawing down the corners of her mouth in a vain effort to keep up a semblance of her grievance. "I dunno what things is er comin ter. My po' fut's got ter suffer wid de rumatics, I reckon. Pear lik' I ain't never gwine git de time ter spin dat yarn. 'Twix' yo' projeckin an ole marster's po' ole Diney ha' ter be spryer'n a hopper grass, den cain't do everything."

Dare laughed outright, crying out: "Mammy, mammy, what fibs you do tell! You've got 10 pairs of good yarn stockings now. I counted them last time you opened your chest, and then you beg me to knit more for you. I won't unless you give away at least half you've got."

"Come 'long if yo're comin," mammy said, pushing open the heavy gate. Then, as Dare passed through it: "Whar is yo' head sot fer? De ole fiel er dem big fellers—des er bustin wid sweet juice—whut grows de yother side de creek bottom fiel?"

"The creek, of course. It's shady there. The sun has not got over the hill-top yet," Dare said, running down a narrow woodland footpath. The two dogs plunged ahead, running out now and then in leaping circles through the shaded depths on either hand. The slope was long and gentle. It was a full mile before they came to the creek, now a thread of bright water slipping with summer whispers over the smooth, clean, pebbly bed. The eddy round the root of a big sycamore made a small shining pool, beside which Dare stopped a minute to look at herself. Black Mammy laid a heavy hand on her arm.

"Come away, chile. Bad luck come soon enough, widout stoppin ter conjure hit up, lookin at yo'sef in runnin water. I spec we gwine git wet anyway 'fore we sees home agin. 'Tain't no dew hardly on de bushes dis mornin, an pears ter me lik' I been hearin hit thunder ever sence we started."

Thus adjured, Dare ran lightly over the stepping stones and on to the cornfield opposite, where all the fence was one mat of laden vines. Very shortly the baskets overran, though the pickers took only the choicest fair fruit. Dare held up a rich cluster and said, with the central berry between her lips:

Where all the fence was one mat of laden vines.

"Ain't you glad you came, mammy? This is ever so much nicer than even spinning on the piazza."

"I ain't gwine say twell we git home agin. Time enough ter crow when you know ye ain't gwine ter cry," mammy said sententiously. Then as an unmistakable thunder peal came down the valley: "Lis'en at dat. Rain'll ketch us sho' fo' ever we gits ter de house."

"Not if we walk fast and take the near way up the hollow," Dare said, looking doubtingly at the sky, whence an inky wall was rising out of the southwest. Black Mammy gave a groan.

"I knowed better'n to be here. Why didn't'I do better?" she said, puffing after her young mistress, whose skimming motion had already put her well ahead.

To reach the near cut they had to go down the creek almost to the place where the Blackwood road ran across it. They had passed the stream perhaps 50 yards and were toiling over a narrow bottom into which the hollow expanded when Dare stopped short, flung up her head and cried in a startled voice, "Mammy, mammy, what can that be?"

"D-d-de—d-d-debble, I re-reckon," mammy said, with chattering teeth, for a wild, shrill crying came out of the ground, apparently at their very feet.

CHAPTER IV.

Dare held up a warning hand and said after a minute of listening: "No; it's somebody in trouble. I hear them calling 'Help! Help!' but it does sound curious. Where on earth can it come from?"

"Come 'way, honey, do! 'Tis de debble, I tell yo'. He so 'ateful—des doin dat ter fool yo', make yo' sorry for him and wait so he kin ketch yo'. Run quick. Oh Lordy! He done smelt us; des hear 'im hollerin worse'n er 2-year-old bull. Dare, you Dare, my chile, come 'way f'm dar, I tell yo'."

Black Mammy shrieked as Dare ran swiftly forward, stopped abruptly and looked intently into something at her feet. In a minute she called: "Mammy, come here, quick! Some one has fallen into the big sinkhole. We must get him out before it rains, or he will drown."

"Take keer. Don't you fall in, too," mammy shouted, waddling up at her best speed. Dare indeed knelt perilously near the verge of the earthen pit, up whose smooth, straight, crumbling sides its occupant had been vainly trying to climb, despite the drawback of a badly sprained arm. At sight of Dare he said fervently: "Thank the Lord! I shall not have to die in this hole, after all."

"How came yo' dar?" asked mammy suspiciously.

Spite of his ill condition the prisoner answered, laughing: "Because of a pig, auntie. I was riding along the road there just after daylight, not dreaming of such a pitfall close at hand. All at once master piggy got up from his puddle at the roadside. My horse shied violently this way, stumbled, broke the girth and pitched me and my saddle to this depth, from which I had begun to fear I should never escape."

"Dat dar place des broke in las' week. 'Twould er bin fenced an kivered ef master had knowed hit wus dar; but, po' man, he got so much on his min. But say, mister gentleman, yo' mus' come out er dar er be washed out. Rain er comin. When hit do come, dis yere sinkhole runs er ribber."

"Only tell me how I can."

"Lemme see. Is you hurt bad?"

"Only my arm. Otherwise I think I could have managed to scramble out."

The problem of rescue was no easy one. There was not a house within a mile of the spot—no place indeed where help could certainly be got. And the storm was coming on so fast that long ere aid could be summoned the earthy cavern would be flooded, for sharp hills drained into it, from which the heavy rainfall would run at racing speed. The pit was about four feet across at the top, widening to five at the bottom, where the mellow top soil still lay in testimony to the freshness of the cavein. If it stood for a year, clay would settle on and around it till it took on a funnel shape, from which escape would be more than easy. In its present estate it was as awkward a trap as even good intention ever led a young fellow into.

Dare looked into it to say: "We will get you out somehow. Don't be uneasy."

What wonder if to its prisoner she seemed a very angel of deliverance, though there was nothing the least angelic in what she set about doing. Wherever mammy went her pocket held always a barlow knife. By help of it her checked cotton apron and striped linsey petticoat were cut into strips, then twisted into a rope long enough to reach quite to the bottom of the cavern. By knotting three or four stout sticks crosswise in it and making the upper end fast to a fencerail laid at the top it gave the stranger the foothold he had so vainly sought and brought him safely out of the miry pit.

As Black Mammy brushed the earth from his sleeve she said, nodding toward Dare: "Hit beats me how she thunk erbout dat dar easy way. I wus studying 'bout makin yo' ketch holt er pole, an den me ba'rin down t'other end an fetch yo' up daterway; but, s'posin de pole had er bruk, we'd er been in a bad box sho'."

"We certainly would," the stranger said, laughing, though his lips got white at an inadvertent touch. "I can never be grateful enough to both of you."

"We did nothing," Dare said—"nothing that is worth a mention. Now, sir, as you seem a stranger and are not very well, may I not ask you to go home with us? My grandfather is away, but we can give you rest and shelter."

"Ah, you are"——

"Dare Overton. And you?"

"I—oh—my name is—Haywood—Allen Haywood—at your service. Miss Overton, my whole life will not be long enough to thank you for coming this way today."

"The rain sent me," Dare said, with a little smile.

"It was rain from heaven for me," young Haywood answered, so low that Black Mammy did not catch the words.

Notwithstanding she watched him narrowly as she paced homeward through pelting rain at the young couple's heels. Soon as they were indoors she sent Dare to her own room and set about finding dry clothes for the man so oddly thrown on their hospitality. Evidently something had disturbed her.

"He talk fa'ar an squar, but I don't lik' de favor of him," she muttered under her breath as she went to and fro. A little later in Dare's own chamber she opened vials of wrath, saying as she stood an ebon statue of outraged family pride:

"What you spec' I'm gwine tell marster 'bout dis yere caper? Reckon it gwine please him ter hear er his gran'-chile traspsein round arter blackberries lik' dee warn't no nigger could go gether um fer 'er, an den fin um sinkholes full er strange mans an fotchin um here lik' we didn't hab trouble enough all ready ter our hands. Like as not master'll say yo' done clean fergot you wus born er Overton—hit do 'pear like dat ter me—an if de Lord hisself knows whut yo' gwine do nex' I wish't he'd send word. Yo' done clean beyond me."

"I'll save him and you the trouble," Dare said, with her dimpling smile, "for in strict confidence I mean to make a sling for Mr. Haywood's arm, now that you have wrapped it in vinegar and brown paper."

"I—oh—my name is—Haywood—Allen Haywood—at your service."

"H-m-m! No need er dat. Ef he got de sense he orter been born wid, he'll stay dar in-dat bed twell marster come home. Den let him sen 'im back ter town whar he come from. He'll think yo' metty forrard ef yo' set up ter retain 'im lik' he wus yo' bean."

"I don't think he will," said Dare indefinitely.

"Will whut?"

"Stay in bed, or anything."

She was right. Allen Haywood did nothing of the sort.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

DEER PARK.

On the Crest of the Alleghenies.

To those contemplating a trip to the mountains in search of health and pleasure, Deer Park on the crest of the Allegheny Mountains, 3,000 feet above the sea level, offers such varied attractions as a delightful atmosphere during both day and night, pure water, smooth, winding roads through the mountains and valleys, and the most picturesque scenery in the Allegheny range. The hotel is equipped with all adjuncts conducive to the entertainment, pleasure and comfort of its guests.

The surrounding grounds, as well as the hotel, are lighted with electricity. Six miles distant on the same mountain summit is Oakland, the twin resort of Deer Park, and equally as well equipped for the entertainment and accommodations of its patrons. Both hotels are upon the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, have the advantages of of its splendid Vestibuled Limited Express trains between the East and West. Season excursion tickets, good for return passage until October 31, will be placed on sale at greatly reduced rates at all principal ticket offices throughout the country. One way tickets reading from St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Columbus, Chicago, and any point on the B. & O. system to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York, or vice versa, are good to stop off at either Deer Park, Mountain Lake Park or Oakland, and the time limit will be extended by agents at either resort upon application, to cover the period of the holders visit.

The season at these popular resorts commences June 23.

For full information as to hotel rates, rooms, etc., address George D. DeShields, Manager, Deer Park, or Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland.

Summer Vacation Tours.

The Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Co. now has on sale at all its offices east of the Ohio River a full line of tourist excursion tickets to all the lake, mountain and seashore resorts in the Eastern and Northern States and in Canada. THEIR CRIME SHIELDED

New York Green-Goods Men Pay for Protection.

The Latest Interesting Information Brought Out by the Lexow Committee—The Illegal Operations Conducted Almost Openly with the Consent of the Police.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Lexow senate committee's work of unearthing police corruption in this city is fruitful of new disclosures every day, the latest, and not the least among the many interesting revelations, is the methods of the green goods men, as told by George Appo, one of the men formerly engaged in fleecing the would-be purchasers of spurious money, on the witness stand.

Appo described minutely how the game was worked, how many men it took to work it, and how the spoils were divided. He said that James McNally was the principal backer of the green goods game in this city, and that Frederick Hadleck was his chief rival. Appo said the green goods men all work under police protection, and that he would swear to that fact. Witness said that he had heard that there was a man in the postoffice to look after their interests.

"Has not Frederick Hadleck a brother in the postoffice?" Mr. Goff asked.

"Yes, sir."

"It is understood that the green goods men have a helper also in the telegraph office?"

"Yes, sir; every green goods man has a telegraph operator, whom he looks after."

The witness then said a few years ago McNally was a very poor man but now he is very rich. He also said that it was an understood thing that only one green goods man was allowed to operate in each precinct.

"Is not the First precinct a good place for picking up guys?"

"Yes, sir; it is; but it is a dangerous place for those who have not protection."

"You mean by protection that the police would not interfere with you?"

"Yes, sir; I was to walk along with impunity. They frequently saw me, but they always passed me by."

"Do your know a detective named McManus at the Grand Central depot?"

"Yes, sir; I see him four or five times a day."

"With victims?".

"I don't know about that; the victim generally follows the 'steerer' and is not seen in his company."

"McManus knows you, does he not?"

"Yes, sir; he does, and he never interferes."

The witness said he had made as high as $600 in one day; McNally made $800 in one day. He said McNally employed 35 men. The "steerers" should get 10 per cent. from the backer, but 5 per cent. was kept for protection.

"Do you know of any other city but New York where protection is guaranteed?"

"No, sir; New York is the only city where protection is guaranteed."

"Have you ever known a victim to return again?"

"Yes, sir; I have known them swindled three or four times in succession."

"Is that business done in New York today?"

"Yes, sir; it is."

"You were once shot at in Poughkeepsie? Tell the committee about it."

The witness explained that he was sent with a note to two men in Poughkeepsie by Dol Saunders. He was bringing them to New York when a man named Mullin spoke to one of the men and warned them that he was a swindler.

"The name of the man," said he, "whom Mullin spoke to was Hiram Hogshead and the other man's name was Cassell. Hogshead got suspicious and while my back was turned pulled out a revolver and shot me. I was unconscious for three days. A warrant was issued for my arrest. I was brought to the court and Justice Forchauser said to me: 'I am against you, but we are out for the dust.' They kept me four weeks in jail without a hearing, trying to shake money out of me."

"Was McNally, the backer, ever arrested?"

"No, sir; he has been running the game since 1886 and has never been touched."

With much reluctance the witness said he gave $25 to a central office detective at one time. "I was taken with a revolver in my hand in McNally's opium joint in 43d street."

He explained that two detectives from the Central office put up a job on him and sent him a letter decoying him into the alleged opium joint. The revolver was found on him and he had to give the detectives $25 to "square" the matter.

"Did policemen go into the opium joint and smoke the pipe?"

"I saw them frequently; every opium smoker now has his own lay out."

In referring again to the case of the green goods man on whom Hadlick put up a job, George said it was the intention to "do the man up."

"Look at how Tony Martin was 'done up' in Brooklyn," said he; "that was a foul, deliberate murder."

Off on Another Cruise.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The president has gone to the capes of the Chesapeake to try the efficacy of salt air as a recuperative agent. He intends to cruise for several days on the light-house tender Maple in company with Dr. R. M. O'Reilly, his regular physician, and Captain Robley D. Evans, naval secretary of the light-house board, and if his health is benefited as much as expected he may return to the white house next Monday or Tuesday. Mr. Thurber has left with his family, for Buzzard's Bay, where he has taken a cottage for the summer.

Threaten to Sue Dr. Paxton.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Attorney Steinert, of the health department, says that if the Rev. John R. Paxton fails in the next few days to pay the fine of $10 imposed on him for not recording the Breckinridge-Wing marriage certificate within the time required by law, he would bring a civil suit against him to recover the amount.

No More Delay for Prendergast.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Judge Payne has refused to grant a continuance in the case of Prendergast, the murderer of Mayor Harrison, and will set a day at once for the insanity trial.

Local Weather Forecast.

CONGRESSIONAL PAY.

Conscientious Members Said To Suffer Under the Deduction Law.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Representative Sperry of Connecticut purposes pushing his resolution which looks to the "turning on of the light" on the pay certificates which the members present to the sergeant-at-arms before receiving their salary. The resolution, which was offered some days ago, requires that these certificates shall be made public each month so that it shall be known whether members have certified to their continued presence in the house for the entire month; whether in cases of absence the number of days thus absent is specifically mentioned in the certificate, and any other facts relating thereto in which all the members are supposed to be equally interested.

The committee on rules gave Mr. Sperry a hearing upon his resolution. He stated in effect that the grotesque spectacle was presented of members of one house losing their pay under the operation of an old law which was now being enforced while its provisions were ignored by those of the other house. He believed that the law was continually violated by members who are left free to construe it as they choose. Some members insist that it is not in force, and make no mention therefore of the days they are absent. Others insist that they will resign their seats in congress, if they cannot go home and attend occasionally to their private interests. Others again assert that the government pays them a salary of $5,000 a year, and that this is not subject to any exemptions because of absence. The law, he continued, works an injustice to the conscientious member and does not in the least affect the one who is not conscientious or who does not believe that it is legally in force. He pointed out at considerable length the various methods by which the law is evaded, and requested that the committee on rules report back the resolution favorably so that the house might pass upon the subject. The committee took the matter under advisement and will act upon the resolution within the next few days.

POWDERLY'S PLAIN TALK.

Severe Charges Against His Enemies Among the Knights.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Terrence V. Powderly, ex-general master workman of the Knights of Labor, and A. W. Wright, ex-member of the general executive board, have issued and distributed among the members of the order a pamphlet answering and denying in detail the charges brought against them by the present executive officers of the knights. Powderly's pamphlet contains thirty-four pages and is dated "Scranton, May 81, 1894."

Mr. Powderly opens his statement with a reference to the official report of the proceedings of the last session of the general assembly in this city, as issued by General Secretary-Treasurer John W. Hayes. The statement then goes on and takes up the charges against Powderly, Wright and Devlin of using the funds of the order for their own benefit, and their positions to advance their own interests to the disadvantage of the knights.

Powderly takes up each of the charges separately, and gives his version of the transactions of which he is accused. In conclusion, he says: "The fear that at New Orleans the past general master workman might be present is the real cause of my suspension, and it is as well that the whole order should know it.

"It is a conviction with me that the intention is to disrupt the order, disgust the membership, drive true men and women out of it, and then its valuable property will fall to those who remain. There can be no other reason assigned for such a suicidal policy as we are now witnessing."

The official report of Mr. Wright as delegate to the last general assembly to D. A. 125, which he represented and which was printed by order of the district assembly for the information of its members, to a large extent covers the same ground gone over by Mr. Powderly in his statement. As a matter of course, Mr. Wright pays more extended attention to the individual charges made against him by Mr. Hayes.

Altenberger's Trial Set for July 16.

JERSEY CITY, June 15.—Judge Lippincott has set the trial of Bernhardt Altenberger, who murdered Katie Rupp at Snake Hill on May 12, down peremptorily for July 16. Max Salinger, the murderer's counsel, asked for further postponement, saying that his client had sent to Germany for evidence. Salinger intimated that he would withdraw from the case if his request was refused, but the judge informed him that he was not privileged to throw up the case, as he was assigned by the court.

MURDER AT BUFFALO

Ex-City Clerk Delaney Slain in His Apartments.

Two Women and a Man in the Room at the Time of the Tragedy. One of the Women the Wife of the Murderer—The Affair Shrouded in Mystery.

BUFFALO, June 15.—The murder last night of ex-City Clerk William E. Delaney, while not shrounded in as much mystery as that of Montgomery Gibbs, has created as much excitement and has caused a large number of prominent members of the bar to ask: "Whose turn next?"

Delaney, who was a prominent lawyer and democratic politician was shot in his apartments over the "Gold Dollar" saloon, about 7 o'clock last night by George A. Bartholomew, aged 26 years, of Victoria, Ont.

Two women and a man were in the room at the time of the shooting and up to a late hour the police had not captured or identified any of them.

At midnight Bartholomew walked into No. 1 police station and gave himself up. He told the police that one of the women in the room at the time of the shooting was his wife and the other's identity would soon be made known.

Bartholomew told the superintendent of police that he would have nothing further to say until he had time to engage counsel.

The building where the murder occurred is in the most prominent part of Main street and the street was crowded at the time.

George Alexander, a bartender in the saloon, heard the report of the revolver and ran to the foot of the stairway. As he reached it a man with a revolver in his right hand came flying down the stairs. He struck the bartender a blow that knocked him back into the saloon, put the revolver in his pocket and walked into the street. There he disappeared and the police were unable find anyone who saw him after he stepped into the street. This man was Bartholomew.

Delaney was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found that a bullet of 38-calibre had entered the right side and passed almost completely through the body. Death occurred within ten minutes after the shooting.

Delaney was one of the counsel for Sheriff Beck and appeared for the defense in all the election trials here. He was a handsome man about 40 years of age. He had long been prominent in politics, serving several terms as city clerk, where his ability as a parliamentarian made him a party leader.

Bartholomew is a nephew of Peter Bartholomew, one of Buffalo's pioneer grocers.

Since the murder of Delaney it has been learned that only last Saturday, a week ago, George C. Rush, a clerk in the pension department at Washington, came to Buffalo to kill Delaney for his attentions to Mrs. Rush, whom he met at the world's fair. The men met in a detective agency, and, it is said, Delaney declared that outside of corresponding with Mrs. Rush their intimacy went no further. Mrs. Rush was seen in a cafe in this city late one night with Delaney.

KAUFFMAN'S AWFUL DEED.

Kills His Wife, His Three Children and Himself.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 15.—A quintuple tragedy has startled Cramer Hill, a suburb of this city. John Kauffman, a Bavarian, 50 years of age, cut the throats of his wife, Rosina, and his three children, twin boys, aged 5 years, and a month-old infant, and then deliberately hanged himself. The awful crime must have been committed between 6 a. m., Monday and the same hour yesterday morning, but it was not discovered by the neighbors until late last evening.

Kauffman was a comparative stranger in Cramer Hill, having moved there from Trenton five weeks ago. He is thought to have committed the deed out of sheer despondency, as he had been out of work for some time.

The fact that the house remained closed for nearly two days excited the suspicions of the neighbors, and they communicated them to Justice of the Peace Schmidt, who went to the house and pulling open the shutters saw in the dim evening light the body of Kauffman hanging by the neck between the double doors of the first floor, front room. Further investigation showed the body of Mrs. Kauffmann on a bed in the middle room of the first floor, clasping her dead infant in her arms. Up stairs, in another room were found the bodies of the 5-year-old twin boys, with their throats cut from ear to ear.

Shorn of Political Attachment.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—This significant order has just been issued by Secretary Carlisle: "The authority to nominate persons for appointment as keepers and assistant keepers of lights in the light-house service was taken from collectors of customs June 6, 1894, by order of the secretary, and transferred to the inspectors of the several light-house districts." "This action," said Captain Evans, naval secretary of the light-house board, "absolutely takes the light-house service out of politics. All light-house inspectors are naval officers.

NEW YORK, June 15.—In accordance with the opinion of William H. Willis, as referee, which has just been filed with the supreme court, the wishes of Mrs. Sarah Helen Green, the widow of John C. Green, who died on May 21, 1893, will be carried out, and several thousand dollars will be distributed to various charitable institutions named by her in a letter to her nephew, Frederick Frelinghuysen, of Newark, N. J., prepared some time before her death.

Brought Back from Samoa.

NEW YORK, June 15.—United States Deputy Marshal P. H. Malowney, of San Francisco, has just arrived here with Augustus C. Hagan, who is under indictment for embezzlement. Hagan was arrested in Apia, Samoa, and arrived in San Francisco on the 7th inst. Hagan was a bookkeeper in the Exchange National bank of this city, and is charged with stealing $30,000, with the aid of a depositor, named C. E. Bartholomew.

THIRTY WERE DROWNED

Boat Crowded with Farm Laborers Capsized.

While Enroute from Achill to England—All of the Victims Between the Ages of 16 and 30, and Most of Them Women and Girls—The Skipper Arrested.

DUBLIN, June 15.—Many of the agricultural laborers on the island of Achill go to England every year to work in the harvest fields. A big party started for Westport yesterday, intending to leave that place for England this morning. When only about a mile from Westport a gust of wind struck them and the little sailing vessel capsized in a twinkling, in full view of hundreds of people on shore, who heard the agonizing shrieks of the drowning ones and saw them sink before aid could reach some of them.

The craft was a one-masted fishing boat of 15 tons, known along the coast as a hooker. It was commanded by Skipper Healy, an old and skilled seaman.

Latest reports say there were 110 persons aboard, all of them between the ages of 16 and 30. Undoubtedly the boat was overloaded.

When the accident occurred the skipper was trying to jibe about. A strong gust of wind struck the boat just at the moment when he made the attempt.

The majority of the passengers were entangled in the sails, cordage and deck gear immediately after the hooker went over, and all would probably have perished but for the quickness of help from Westport.

The steamer Elm was waiting at Westport dock to take on passengers for Glasgow. She lowered four boats at once. The first of them reached the wreck about seven minutes after the accident.

As the sea was smooth the rescue party could work rapidly. They worked cooly, despite the excitement round them and the screams of the women and girls.

They saved 75 of the 110 passengers of the hooker. The other 35 were drowned. Those who were rescued were completely exhausted, but all were restored upon the deck of the Elm.

The shore boats, which reached the hooker about 15 minutes after the accident, collected the dead bodies. Fifteen of the drowned were girls and women between the ages of 15 and 25; three of them were boys under 20.

Captain Carswell, of the steamer Elm, said in an interview that he saw the hooker approaching Westport shortly before noon, and the pilot, who saw her make ready to jibe about, remarked to him that it was dangerous business. He signalled to Healy to lower his sail, but Healy did not heed the signal.

Healy was among those rescued and has been placed under arrest.

A Young Woman Terribly Injured.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 15.—Miss Bessie Off, 18 years old, the daughter of William Off, of Philadelphia, was run over by a trolley car last night. Both legs and one arm were broken, one of her ears was torn off and she was otherwise terribly injured. Miss Off was so tightly wedged in beneath the car that a gang of men were compelled to lift the vehicle in order to get her out. She was carried to Senator Bradley's house, near which the accident occurred, and Dr. Wilbur was summoned. The physician says she cannot live.

SENATORS ON THE RACK TO-DAY

Their Turn Now To Tell Why They Aided the Sugar Trust.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The senate sugar trust committee begins to-day the examination of senators, with a view of ascertaining what reasons were assigned by the senators who enlisted themselves in behalf of the trust to have the sugar schedule changed.

The examination yesterday of Treasurer Searles of the sugar trust ended in sharp words between the witness and Senator Allen.

Senator Allen asked Mr. Searles to produce the books showing the contributions that were made by the sugar trust for political purposes in 1892 and 1893, and Mr. Searles said:

"I shall decline to do anything of that kind."

"What percentage of cost in the operation of your business is made up by contributions for political purposes?"

"I cannot answer that. It would be infinitesimal."

"You have no objection to stating the political party to which you belong, have you?"

"No, sir; I am a republican."

"The contribution you made last year and in 1892 was probably made to that party?"

"You are entitled to your inference on that point. You have heard my statement."

Mr. Searles said, that so far as he was concerned, a newspaper statement attributed to him that the trust had contributed $250,000 or $300,000 to the democratic campaign of 1892 was pure fiction.

Later on Senator Allen announced that "As a member of this committee, I insist that this witness, Mr. Searles, and also the witness Mr. Havemeyer, shall be required to state the amount of funds contributed by the American Sugar Refining company for political purposes in the years 1892 and 1893, and that upon failure to testify upon that subject they shall be reported to the senate as other witnesses have been reported."

CONVENTION OF OHIO MINERS.

Called To Take Action Against National Officers.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—The opposition to the coal strike settlement is assuming threatening proportions and the national officers of the miners' organization are now very much worried over the situation, which threatens the disruption of the organization. President A. A. Adams of the state miners' organization has issued a call for a state convention of miners at Columbus, on June 19, to take action against the settlement.

Upon hearing that a convention had been called by President Adams, President John McBride said:

"Ever since the memorable struggle of 1884 the mine officials have continually had to exert all of their diplomatic powers to hold the operators of the valley in line, and nothing better could happen to them than a schism or disruption of the Mine Workers' union. In 1884 we taught them a lesson by presenting to them a united front and we bankrupted many of them, as well as the Hocking Valley Railroad company. The effect of that victory will be lasting if the miners will be guided by the judgment of their officers and preserve intact their organization. But let our forces become divided or our organization lose the respect of the Hocking valley operators and they will jump at the chance of reducing wages to 40 cents, as they did in 1884, and effectually shut out all competition from the Pittsburg district.

"With the union out of the way Pittsburg operators will be crowded out of their own markets, on account of the natural advantages possessed by the Hocking valley operators when once they have the opportunity to employ cheap labor.

"If the Oalo miners continue to follow the lead of Adams and refuse to accept the compromise agreement, I predict that before a month the men in the Hocking valley will be forced to go back to work at 40 cents a ton, instead of 60 cents secured for them by the agreement.

Convention at Pittsburg To-day.

PITTSBURG, June 15.—The most interesting event to the miners in this district since the order was given to suspend work, is the district delegate convention now being held in Pittsburg. The delegates will decide upon accepting the terms made at Columbus, and at the same time upon the official existence of their leaders in this district. At a mass meeting of about 4,000 miners, held at Carnegie, it was decided to hold out for 79 cents per ton. The strikers asked for the resignation of every man who signed the agreement at Columbus, and refused to listen to addresses from District President Cairns and District Secretary Warner.

WOOL IS A STICKLER

Blocks All Progress with Tariff Work.

Democratic Leaders Exceedingly Anxious About the Delay—Unsuccessful Effort to Fix a Time for Taking a Vote on the Schedule—Heated Session in the House.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The democratic managers of the senate are exceedingly anxious to make better headway than that now being made in the discussion of the wool schedule. Messrs. Harris, Cockrell and Lindsay were in conference for a half-hour, with the result that they determined that the vote should be taken before the senate adjourned to-day, if possible. Mr. Aldrich was at once consulted, but declined to be bound by any agreement, stating to the democrats that he could not tell what the republicans would do until he knew how many more speeches were to be made on this schedule. The debate on the general schedule bids fair to be prolonged throughout the remainder of the week.

No progress whatever has been made on the wool and woolen schedule.

The discussion yesterday was kept closely confined to the question actually before the senate, whether raw wool shall be placed on the free list, or on the dutiable list, and was of an interesting character. It was opened by Mr. Lodge (rep., Mass.), who characterized the proposition to place wool on the free list, as "selfish, unfair, purblind and shortsighted to the last degree." He was followed by Mr. Teller (rep., Col.), who expressed his conviction that he might as well speak to the blustering northeast wind as to talk to democratic senators on the subject of free wool and said that the wool growers of the country would understand that putting wool, on the free list was an attempt on the part of the democratic party to placate the woolen manufacturers.

Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.) characterized the offer of free wool to the woolen manufacturers as the apple of Sodom, held to their lips, but which they resented and scorned.

In the course of some brief remarks by Mr. Power (rep., Mont.), he was asked by Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.) as to what his proposition in regard to a rate of duty on wool would be, and he expressed his willingness to accept five cents a pound or 40 per cent. ad valorem. Mr. Vest, however, indicated no purpose, either to accept or reject that offer.

Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) declared that, of all the abhorrent features of the tariff bill none was so abhorrent to him as the free wool proposition. As to the bill itself, he said that he despised it in his heart and denounced it with all the energy that he was capable of.

This speech of Mr. Platt's closed up for the day the direct discussion on the free wool proposition. It was followed by a two hour discourse of Mr. Higgins (rep., Del.) directed chiefly to the relations of the United States and Canada, and by speeches of Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) and Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.).

After an unsuccessful effort on the part of Mr. Harris to have a time fixed for taking a vote on the question of free wool, the senate at 6:30 p. m., adjourned.

House of Representatives.

Notwithstanding the agreeable change in the temperature, a wholly inexplicable degree of heat developed in the proceedings of the house, the Indian appropriation bill being under consideration. Much disorder was manifested on the floor, notwithstanding the efforts of the presiding officer to keep the members in such a frame of mind that the bill could be intelligently understood by them. Two or three times the emotions of those particularly interested were too violent to be restrained and once the office of the sergeant-at-arms seemed to be essential in preserving the peace. Despite this, however, about ten pages of the bill were disposed of when the house adjourned at 5 o'clock.

The greater portion of the session was spent in discussing the ability of the superintendent of the Indian schools. Two amendments were offered to the item of the bill relating to his salary, $2,500 a year and $1,000 for traveling expenses; one by Mr. Johnson (rep., Ind.), to make the salary $3,000, and one by Mr. Cox (dem., Tenn.) to abolish the office. Neither one was agreed to.

Big Four of Guttenberg.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 1.—Allen D. McDermott, counsel for Dennis McLaughlin, John C. Carr, Fred Walbaum and John N. Crusius, the big four of Guttenberg, who pleaded guilty of keeping a disorderly house, made an argument before Judge Lippincott and a full bench, in the oyer and terminer court, in mitigation of sentence. He argued that it was the evident intention of the legislature by the acts of 1893 and 1893 to legalize race tracks and horse racing, and, therefore, the court should deal leniently with the prisoners. He held that while those acts were in force, as they were at the time the alleged offenses were committed, they certainly had the color of legality. Judge Lippincott said that as this was the first time that this view of the case had been presented to him he would take time to consider it carefully and would render a decision on Saturday, June 23.

Envelope Contract Awarded.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 15.—The contract for furnishing the department of the interior with envelopes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, which was prematurely announced as having been given the Morgan Envelope company, has been officially awarded the Springfield Envelope company, who have been furnishing them the past year. Outside of the postoffice contracts this is the largest contract for envelopes, awarded by the government.

Mrs. Stowe's 83d Birthday.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 15.—The 83d birthday of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, the gifted authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was quietly celebrated at her residence on First street. Although in comparatively strong physical condition she is so feeble mentally as to be unable to receive the personal congratulations of any others than her immediate relatives.

Removal of an Historical Bell.

DEDHAM, Mass., June 15.—A bell cast by Paul Revere in 1793, and which for the past 100 years has hung in the tower and dome of Norfolk court house, at Dedham, has been removed from the present court building and placed in the care of the Dedham Historical society for safe keeping.

Trouble with the Amalgamated.

PITTSBURG, June 15.—There are some differences between the Pittsburg iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated association, and it is possible that a suspension of work will take place when the old scale expires on June 30. The conference failed to accomplish anything looking toward a settlement, and adjourned in a wrangle. Another meeting will be held, but a settlement is not likely unless the workers back down from their position on the scale. The conference brought out the old fight of the manufacturers on the high-salaried workmen, the rollers and heaters in important mills. In the finishing departments the manufacturers demand a reduction of from 5 to 10 per cent. and a change in the wages of the crews. The manufacturers insist upon the right to make separate terms with all the men, exclusive of the rollers and heaters, and that they shall be subject to the company in all things instead of to the head of the crew, as formerly.

Starvation at Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., June 15.—Six hundred unemployed Poles marched down the principal streets with flags flying and halted in front of the city hall. A committee was appointed to wait upon Mayor Major and request of him that they be put to work, as they understood $100,000 had just been set apart for park improvements. The riot alarm was sounded, and things looked decidedly dubious for a time. The men were finally quieted with the assurance by the mayor that he was powerless to aid them at present. The men finally dispersed and went home, but they have had no employment for nearly a year, and their families are on the verge of starvation. There are 2,500 idle Poles in Toledo and trouble is feared.

Doing Too Well.

NEW YORK, June 15.—John Kernell, the variety actor, who was arrested in the Tenderloin district, where he was creating a disturbance, was arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court. He told Justice McMahon that he lived in Asbury Park, and, as it was impossible to get anything there to drink, he came to town for a sociable time. He said he was doing fairly well when arrested. He was sent to Blackwell's island for three months in default of $700 bonds.

LONDON, June 15.—A despatch from Berlin to a local news agency says that Chancellor von Caprivi has informed the Spanish government that Germany will take no action in Morocco without giving due notice to Spain.

Statue to Paul Jones.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Mr. Cummings (dem., N. Y.) has introduced a bill in the house appropriating $50,000 for a statue to the memory of Commodore John Paul Jones, to be erected at the southwest corner of Lafayette square, facing the navy department, this city.

To Regulate Duels in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 15.—The czar has caused the issuance of a decree appointing a court of honor to regulate dueling in the army. The court is composed of army officers, whose duty it is to decide whether a duel is necessary. If it decides in the affirmative any officer refusing to accept a challenge will be dismissed from the army in disgrace.

Garretson—Sheppard.

Miss Lizzie Sheppard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Sheppard, was married last evening at 5 to Elmer S. Garretson of West Front street. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 136 Central avenue. Rev. J. W. Lake of Ghent, N. Y., was the officiating clergyman. Only a few intimate friends of the families were present.

The couple received many handsome gifts, among them an antique oak chair from the clerks in the Central Railroad Liberty Street office, where Mr. Garretson is employed. Mr. and Mrs. Garretson left by the 6:54 train for Niagara Falls. They will return in a week to take up their residence at 426 West Front street.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. William E. Collins gave a tea yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 at her residence, The Larches, Scotch Plains, in honor of her cousin, Miss Florence Bartlett, of South Natick, Mass., who is visiting her. Miss Bartlett served tea in delicate china cups; also ice-cream and cake. She was assisted by the dainty and graceful little Miss Marjorie Collins. The parlors were tastefully decorated with ferns and daisies. Mrs. Collins received in a gown of garnet and pink satin. Among those present were Mrs. J. A. Braker, Mrs. E. L. Hand, Mrs. J. G. Walker, and the Misses Grace Robinson, Mooney, Bliss, Cotton, Randolph, Squires, Cook and Adams.

Mrs. Martin Has Paresis.

NEW YORK, June 15.—A sheriff's jury, after inquiry, has adjudged that Mrs. Caroline D. Martin, wife of William A. Martin, business manager of the New York Witness, is incompetent to manage her affairs. About three years ago she went to Australia and, did not return to the United States until May 10 last, when she arrived at San Francisco. In that city she gave the impression that she was a woman of great wealth and brought a lot of conch shells, some of which she sent to Mrs. Cleveland, to whom she wrote that she wore the shells they would become fashionable. Mrs. Martin has about $35,000 worth of real estate and a small amount of personality. She is suffering from paresis.

His Conscience Relieved $10 Worth.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—A conscience contribution of $10, for unpaid duties, from "R. W.," of Milwaukee, Wis., through D. W. Whittle, of Northfield, Mass., has been received by United States Treasurer Morgan.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

THEIR STUDIES A PASTIME.

A Delighted Audience Witnesses the Fawcett School Closing Exercises.

Long before the hour appointed for the closing exercises of Miss Fawcett's school and kindergarten, last night, every seat in the Park club-house was occupied by the parents and friends of those interested in the children; and although every effort was made to seat all, there were many who preferred standing than miss the very pleasant entertainment that they knew was in store for them. Another year, The Press trusts Miss Fawcett may have a larger room for her exercises, for the interest in her and her school is becoming greater every year, and the Park club-house will no longer hold the people.

Those who had the privilege of witnessing the little ones sing, recite and play their little parts, and the excellent marching and calisthenic exercises by the school last evening, were more enthusiastic than ever, if that were possible. At the close many were the congratulations given to Miss Fawcett and her assistant, Miss Harriot, for the result of their excellent training, and The Press would add its word of commendation also, feeling that too much cannot be said in praise of the tact and good judgment displayed. From the opening number all through the varied programme the audience was deeply interested, and often highly amused, especially by the Kindergarten games, the little ones seeming to forget that the eyes of all were upon them, and entering heartily into their play.

It would be very difficult to attempt to individualize, and it might appear unfair, for all did well; but The Press would not omit to mention the calisthenic exercises, including dumb bells and some very pretty and graceful hand and foot movements by the older children, under the direction of Miss Bass.

The display of charcoal drawings, done under the direction of Miss Hellwig, was much admired, and the excellent French spoken was under her tuition.

Miss L. A. Force was pianist for the exercises, as she has been for four years.

The programme:

SCHOOL PAPER ILLUSTRATED.

Novel Features of the Scribner & Newton School Commencement.

The closing exercises of the Misses Scribner & Newton's School held yesterday afternoon in the school building, took the rather novel form of an illustrated edition of a school paper of which several numbers have appeared during the past year as a result of the co-operative efforts of the students of composition and literature edited by their teachers.

After a chorus by the school "Summer Fancies", the first part of the paper, which is happily called "Once in a While", was read by Miss Gertrude M. Smith. It consisted of an account of its origin as an outgrowth of a literary society meeting at the homes of the different teachers. (The first number being compiled by them as a surprise to their young guests, the authors of its contents), and the essays: "A Beautiful Old Lady", "Portia and Calphurnia", James Russell Lowell" and "The Vision of Sir Launfal".

After a piano solo by Miss Mabel F. Wilder, the reading was resumed by Miss Katharine Reinhart. A column of school notes for '93 gave a pleasant glimpse of school life, the haps and mishaps of the sketching, botany and astronomy, (star gazing) classes, the choice of a school pin, the names of those who have received prizes for excellence and improvement in manual work.

The "Notes" also included the notice of an entertainment given as a farewell before vacation by about 40 of the younger children.

After the "Notes" came the essays "What the Wind Said", "Gialto, a Sketch", a sheaf of "Gleanings" and a bright little story of "An Adventure", with which it concluded.

Next came a recitation, "Lady Yeardley's Guest", by Miss Harriet Goddard. Then a clever essay, "Turn, Turn My Wheel", by Miss Mabel F. Wilder, in which which she compared the spinning-wheel of Priscilla to the bicycle of the girl of today.

This was followed by the presentation of diplomas to the graduates, Miss Mabel F. Wilder, who has taken the examinations for Vassar and Miss Gertrude M. Smith, who is received on the certificate of the school at Wellesley.

The entertainment finished merrily with a spirited and sympathetic representation of "Fanny Squeers's Tea Party", with the following cast:

Fanny Squeers.....Anna K. Miller
Tilda Price.....Edith VanBoskerck
Nicholas Nickleby.....Marion P. Bowen
John Browdy.....Josephine Randolph
Maid.....Lulu Holly

All the parts were well rendered, their young impersonators seeming to enter fully into the wholesome fun of Dickens, winning hearty applause from the audience.

BUNCOED.

GREEN-GOODS VICTIM BEGS PLAINFIELD TO HELP HIM.

He Sold His Property and Lost It in an Effort to Get Rich Quick.

Adam S. Bridgefarmer of South Omaha, Nebraska, a carpenter aged 54, asked Police Captain Grant last evening to recover $300 he had lost by green-goods operations.

Bridgefarmer answered an advertisement offering pay of $250 a month to anyone depositing $300 security.

He corresponded with "G. Barton of 16 Morris street, New York", and was directed to bring his $300 to Buffalo. He sold his little home at a sacrifice, and his wife sewed the $300 in a leg of his trousers.

He left home Monday morning, and at Buffalo a stranger sent him to Bound Brook. There he spent Wednesday night in company with "Barton", a benevolent looking old man, and his dapper "son".

Yesterday they took him by train to South Plainfield, then to New Market, and the three walked to Smalley's cider mill. There the strangers got him interested in a green goods scheme, offering him $3,000 for $300. They counted out the $3000 and wrapped it up, but when they went away with his $300 the package they gave him was found to contain nothing but some old newspapers.

Bridgefarmer cried like a baby, telling his story to the police. He threatened to kill himself, and said his wife would go crazy.

He is destitute and penniless and will have to beg his way home. The police gave him lodging over night at Boice's Central avenue and Third street. Today he went to Bound Brook.

SERRELL BARN BURNED.

The Fire Believed to Be the Work of an Incendiary.

The barn of L. W. Serrell on West Front street was partly burned about 3:30 this morning.

A locomotive whistle first sounded the alarm, and Policeman John Flynn pulled Box 43. Quick time was made, and good work done by the firemen.

The top story of the barn, where the fire started, was burned, with a quantity of grain and two tons of hay.

The lower portion was saved, with all the stock and harness. The loss is about $300, insured, VanBuren & Timpson holding the larger policies.

Incendiarism is suspected.

The firemen highly praise the Serrells' hospitality, and good, hot coffee so freely given.

Business Men, Take Notice!

When you want to know about any business outside of the large cities, write to the local newspaper. If the firm is of any account, you will find the advertisement in the home paper.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

The rigs will be designated by the numbers given above and will follow the order indicated.

The route was decided upon as follows:

From Crescent avenue and Seventh street, to Central avenue, to Front street, to Grove street, to Mercer avenue, to Rockview avenue, to Grove street, to Park place, to Jackson avenue, to Westervelt avenue, to Manning avenue, to Sandford avenue, to Front street, to Leland avenue, to LaGrande avenue, to Belvidere avenue, to Woodland avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Crescent avenue, to Eighth street, to Plainfield avenue, to Seventh street, to Crescent avenue; around the circle and countermarch through Seventh street to the Union County Country Club.

The riders in Class A will assemble at the Riding Academy at 2:30 sharp and there await orders from the Marshal.

Class E will form on LaGrande avenue with the right resting on Watchung avenue.

The start will be made at 3:30. All participants are requested to report promptly at 3. Spectators are asked not to crowd on the line of procession during the parade, but to keep the way open. The time occupied in going over the route described will probably be one and a-half hours. The judges will review the parade from a carriage which will pass over the route in the opposite direction to the procession. A carriage will be provided for the representatives of the press who will be at liberty to drive to any part of the route.

At the finish in front of the Country Club prizes will be awarded as follows:

For the handsomest decorated carriage of any description.
For the best matched pair of horses.
For the most stylish and best appointed rig of any description.
For the best groomed horse or horses entered by any one person.
For the best appointed coachman.
For the best pony rig.
For the best all-around saddle horse owned by the rider.
For the best lady rider, appointment to count.

The teams entered by committeemen and the officers of the day will not be considered in making the awards. Many of the vehicles will be handsomely decorated with ribbons and flowers. Those in charge are:

The Press Souvenir Book.

The illustrated history and descriptive volume soon to be issued by The Daily Press already excites enough interest and favorable comment to insure its success in every way. Plainfield has never yet been worthily described in type or picture, yet to do so will certainly result in a general benefit which will more than repay the expenditure of time, thought and money involved.

The souvenir volume which is to make its appearance within a reasonable time will contain an unexaggerated description of the city, showing the accessibility and natural advantages of its locality, its healthful surroundings, the wholesome character and moral tone of its institutions, its churches, schools, art collection and library, its athletic, social and literary clubs, its effective government and advanced municipal improvements, its industries, banks, hotels, stores, markets, etc., and referring particularly to the advantages it offers to people of refinement and wealth desiring an appropriate place in which to dwell.

The historical portion will be contributed by a prominent clergyman, whose residence and studies in the locality render him particularly well equipped to deal with the subject minutely and with a fidelity that will give a distinct value to this part of the work.

Besides illustrations of public buildings and notable localities, the book will contain exterior and interior views of many residences given with all the accuracy of the photographers art; it is hoped this to include within its covers all the features that can make it at once an attractive souvenir for residents and an interesting, reliable guide to those who may be inclined to join us. As its publication and circulation depend entirely upon subscriptions it is hoped our public spirited citizens will not hesitate to order and use large quantities so that a wide distribution among desirable people may be secured.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church gave their last social of the season last evening. The attendance was large and a very sociable time was enjoyed. A large bank of daisies on a table back of the platform and vases of cut flowers on the other tables decorated the room.

The Social Committee served refreshments during the evening. The following programme was much appreciated:

Splendid Investor.

The Irving Savings Institute, of which David M. Demarest of this city is President, has declared interest at 4 per cent. on all deposits. After paying this, the institution will have a surplus of profits for the past six months of $29,000, which will make a total of over $70,000, being fully 13 per cent. on the amount of deposits.

Public Schools Exhibits.

The various schools have their exhibit of pupils work next week. The Washington School on West Fifth street has its exhibit Monday afternoon from 2 to 5; the Bryant, East Sixth street, Tuesday afternoon; the Franklin, West Fourth street, Wednesday afternoon; the Irving, Monroe avenue, Thursday afternoon. The work is largely the regular work of the pupils, intended to show the parents what their children are doing. All visitors will be welcomed at each of the schools on the afternoons appointed.

DUNELLEN'S PRESIDENT.

Dr. Brakeley Grows Reminiscent at the Close of His Quarter of a Century of Dunellen Life.

[From The Weekly Call.]

Just twenty-five years ago today, Dr. P. W. Brakeley, now one of our most prominent and prosperous business men, drove into the village of Dunellen, then a little hamlet of about a dozen houses. Dr. Brakeley had just finished his course in college and carried a medical diploma of which he was rightfully proud. He started from Phillipsburg for the purpose of selecting a location in which to practice his profession. He arrived in the village late in the afternoon and decided to put up for the night, during which time he met Charles Wolverton, then a thriving contractor of the place who told him he had contracts to build twenty-seven houses in the town. This looked favorable and the doctor decided to remain here and grow up with the place. He has been very successful in business and has worked hard and efficiently for the interests of the borough, having been identified at some time in all the town affairs. He is a Republican, and while not a politician, the leaders of the party are always anxious to get his views before engineering through any political scheme. He is the only original member of the borough commissioners that has retained office.

A Call representative interviewed Mr Brakeley last evening and asked him to give a history of the town during the last twenty-five years.

As far as I remember, says the doctor, W. S. Stevens, Robert Humpston, Christian Schepflin, Silas Carpenter, John Runyon, William Lawrence, O. M. Hetfield, Peter Mohan and J. Y. Wilson are the only heads of families that were here when I came and still remain here, and but two or three properties are owned by the same persons that owned them twenty-five years ago. Two days after my arrival I assisted at the raising of the frame of John Runyon's house, he at that time lived over his shop—it is one of the instances where the undertaker preceded the doctor. In July, 1872, I opened at the solicitation of Drs. Coriell and Vail, of New Market, my drug store, for the accomodation of us all, as we had to go to Plainfield for druge, which became very inconvenient. I was doing nicely, when on the 14th of July, 1875, a small wooden building in the rear of Pope's store caught fire, and when it was over nearly all the business places were in ashes, mine among the others, and as I had no insurance was considerable poorer than when I began. Had we had only one of Banning's smallest fire extinguishers at that time $20,000 worth of property might have been saved. Fire even has its advantages, as all the ground burned over has been rebuilt with substantial brick buildings. When I came here the district employed only one teacher in the public school. About 1873 or '74 a number of citizens, feeling the necessity of better school facilities, Messrs. C. Schepflin, I. D. Titsworth, Benjamin Smith, John Runyon, Charles Boice, S. D. Affleck and P. W. Brakeley applied to the Legislature to be appointed a board of school commissioners for the purpose of building a new school-house. This being granted the board of school commissioners erected the Whittier school.

The board of borough commissioners was organized in the Spring of 1886. The original board comprised John W. Handren, C. Schepflin, John Runyon, Robert Lowrie, John Hunt, R. J. Swackhamer and P. W. Brakeley. Mr. Handren was elected president, C. Schepflin treasurer, and P. W. Brakeley secretary. The officers continued this way until Mr. Handren removed to Brooklyn. I was then elected president and have remained at its head ever since. About the same time the building loan was started. The officers after organization were John W. Moynihan, president; Eugene Runyon, treasurer, and W. H. Cole, secretary.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her."

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price. $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

CHURCH CHIMES.

An enjoyable festival was given by young Unitarians in the parlors of All Souls Church last evening. The decorations were pink and blue draperies and potted plants of various kinds.

Howard Woolston was at the door, handling the tickets furnished by the new firm of Rittenhouse & Riley, printers. Stanley Kip was the cashier of the evening. Miss Bertie Kip was the general chairman of the committees. Champlain L. Riley, Henry Wells and Howard Riley were assistants.

At the tables were the following:

Candy Table—Misses Ada Woolston and Emma Vetterlein.
Flower Table—Miss Laura Osgood.
Lemonade—Miss Clara Buckle.
Waitresses—Misses Ellen Osgood, Emma Buckle and Dorothea Wells.

—Jeremiah Cash is a good watchman, and never leaves his post. It was while on duty at the oil-cloth factory that he saw the seven tramps whom the police captured in a box car, and not at the corner of Front street and Sandford avenue as reported.

Thirteen new members were elected to the Crescent Wheelmen at the meeting of the Board of Governors last evening.

M. Scott of Providence, R. I., is one of the riders who have been practising on the Crescent track this week. In the impromptu handicap races which have been run he has given the fastest of the others 30 or 40 yards and beaten them.

These two organizations in my judgment have been largely instrumental in building up our borough, making it such a pleasant and beautiful place for all classes of a quiet and domestic nature.

The years from 1873 to 1877 were noted for the gayety and sociability of its people. Every Winter sociables were carried on that comprised the best citizens of all ages, and it was no unusual thing to see the old gentleman of sixty years leading out the young girl of eighteen to take part in the lanciers or quadrilles, Charles Boice, Sr., can testify to this. The headquarters for good times in those days was at Mr. and Mrs. Marlow's, whose home was always open, and I understand that the same hospitality is extended to the present and rising generation.

Twenty-five years ago the only church in the borough was a Methodist Church. Along about 1875 the Methodists, who were located where the Episcopal church now is, traded some lots with Benjamin Smith and built their church on its present location.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—George Squires shot a 13½ lb carp in Tier's pond a day or two ago.

—The Country Club will give a dance in the Casino tomorrow evening.

—A wheel of R. A. Boyce's carriage was wrecked by the Somerset street car track this morning. No one was hurt.

—George W. Squiers of 30 Harmony street caught a 22 pound snapping turtle in the New Market pond yesterday, on a six-ounce rod.

—The proposed entertainment of the new tribe of Red Men will not be held tonight. The committee need more time for making preparations.

—The following special prices will prevail at Rogers's tomorrow: Salmon, 30; halibut, 15; cod, 12; blue, 6; weak, 8; porgies, 8; butter, 8; flounders, 6.

—Remarkable cures of serious diseases of long standing are being effected by Dr. Lighthill, the celebrated specialist of Crescent avenue. Local endorsements are freely given by those on whom he has accomplished difficult cures. Dr. Lighthill's beautiful residence is a continual Mecca for the afflicted.

—F. A Dunham has just received word from the engraver of his new Atlas of the City and Borough that the first completed copies of the work will be shipped tomorrow. The work of delivering the books will be commenced next week Although the delay in issuing the Atlas has proved a source of inconvenience to many of the subscribers, it is believed that the excellence of the work will amply repay them for the delay.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

CHAPTER V.

The house at Ridgeley was square, solid, sparely furnished and scrupulously clean. A tall narrow portico shadowed the front door. At the back the roof hung over to form a generous shed piazza, upon which, at the west end, the overhanging gable of the log kitchen abutted. All the fair weather through this south looking piazza served as a dining room as well as lounging place. The day whereon fate thrust Allen Haywood upon Ridgeley hospitality gusty sheets of rain drove all across the floor, so Black Mammy was fain to fling wide the shutters of the big square room lying to the right of the front door. Somehow she felt a curious reluctance to do so.

"Hit fa'arly gimme de creeps, hit do now," she muttered, rubbing away at the big mahogany table she had rolled to the room's middle. "Maybe hit's all right. Dat dar man jest ornery stranger, but de heabenly marster knows I don't lik' de favor of 'im. Do' 'ant ter see 'im er settin yere in dis yere room opposite Dare, an nobody else but des dem two. Hit's too lik dat yother time. Wish't ter Lord ole marster was here, but de way hit's er rainin now we 'on't see him 'fore termorrer. Dat dar creek is past fordin now, an sho' as I'm Diney he went 'crost hit dis mornin, 'case I hear him ax Jubilee 'bout de nigh cut tu de Bilin Spring neighborhood, whar ole Aunt Jincey live. Uster be house gal here, she did. Wonder if she knows anything ole marster wanter fin out? She so ole, mos' er hunderd, dee tells me. I s'pec she won't remember him, but I don't know, she big conjure 'oman, she is, an no tellin whut dee do, dee so queer.

"Who are you talking to, mammy?" Dare asked, stopping short in the door, a picture of rosy, excited eagerness. Without waiting for an answer she darted at the old woman, snatched the cloth from her hand and said coaxingly:

"I'll do that, mammy, and set the table too. You go out in the kitchen and see—help Susy, I mean. You know nobody else can cook like you, and I want a real nice dinner, the best you can possibly get."

"Umph! Whut reason yo' so bad off 'bout hit?"

"Oh, because we have company, strange company, too, somebody who has seen a heap of the world, though that does not make a difference. You know how careful grandfather always is about strangers, and really Mr. Haywood"—

"Is dat his sho' 'nough name?"

"What a question, mammy! It's the one he gave us. You heard him."

"I did dat. I seen him, too, an hit pears lik' ter me he didn't say it right easy, strut up an down. Dee wus sorter hitch re hit come out. 'Sides he don't fa his name. I knowed plenty Haywood back in Car'liny."

"Who does he favor?"

"Don't ax me, chile. I ain't got time ter bodder fin'in out who all he look lik'. Yo' go on back an retain him dar in de parlor room. Ne'er min 'bout de dinner. I lay he be too busy lookin at yo' in dat dar white frock, wid dem roses in yo' belt an yo' ha'r, to know whedder he's er swallerin fried chicken er neat an snaps. 'Sides I don put on all sorts er thin's, an that dat fool Suse cain't spile um if she try."

Dare's face grew rosier than ever, but she said, with an attempt at dignity: "You mustn't say such things, mammy. You know very well that I—that he—oh, pshaw, I forget. I came to ask you to open the press and see if grandfather had any arnica."

"Fin out fer yo'self," mammy said majestically, flinging wide the doors of a tall secretary, black with age. "Yo' kin read de name on dem dar doctor's truck, but ef dat dar Mr. Haywood t'ink he know better'n I does whut good fer er sprained wris', why, jes' let 'im go long 'bout fixin hit. I ain't po' ter doctor 'im, God knows!"

"Yes, you are, mammy. You know you dote on sick people, but this is my doing. His arm pains him dreadfully. I know it by the whiteness of his lips, and I read the other day"——

"Oh, yes, yo' 'read!' Much dem newspapers knows 'bout hurted folks. Go on erway, chile. Nebber seed no good come yit outen foolin wid doctor's truck. Des soon as dinner's ober I gwine make 'im er tansy sweat fer dat arm."

"No, this will do," Dare said, running off with a tall bottle. Mammy looked after her anxiously, shook her head and went on laying the table for two, stopping now and again to give a groaning sigh and mutter something that sounded like "rack an ruin."

If her eyes could have pierced walls, she would have been even more rueful. In the parlor across the hall young Haywood lay at length upon the old fashioned sofa, his drawn, set face alone proclaiming what he suffered. Dare knelt at his side, carefully unbinding the bruised and swollen arm, at sight of which she gave a little involuntary cry.

"Let me bathe it," she said, fetching a basin of fresh water. A minute later ease seemed to trickle from her slim, soft fingers. The stranger looked at her with grateful eyes, saying: "How delicious! If it could but last, I would go straight to sleep."

"Try to," said Dare. "It is the best thing that could possibly happen to you," as she spoke propping his elbow with a pillow and supporting the hurt arm with her hand. Her touch brought a quick light into the young fellow's eyes. He looked straight at her and said:

"Would you really stay there on your knees a whole 10 minutes for me?"

The girl put down the hand she held very gently, got to her feet and said, with dropped eyes: "I would do it for anybody who was suffering, but no doubt I had better bind your arm in arnica and leave you alone until dinner is ready. Maybe you will catch a nap anyway."

Young Haywood sat instantly upright, saying anxiously, "Indeed, Miss Overton, I hope I have not offended you?"

Dare shook her head. "No," she said, "but you will offend me very deeply if you do not at once lie down and make yourself as comfortable as possible."

With a merry feint of terrified obedience, the stranger stretched again on the couch. Dare threw a light gray blanket over him and bent to slip a fresh cushion under his arm. As she leaned lightly above him a voice from the door said:

"Dare, what does all this mean?"

Turning, she faced her grandfather, his eyes blazing, his mouth blue white and working as she had seen it but once before in all her young life.

CHAPTER VI.

Well might Francis Overton stand aghast at a sight so unexpected, so unwelcome. Already the day had brought him weird and thrilling experience. It all came back to him now with double force. Through the earliest morning he had ridden fast, picking his way along bridle paths through overgrown neglected byways to the conjure woman's cabin. Why he could not have put in words had life depended on it. For days the feeling had been growing upon him—vague, intuitive, expectant. Jincey, once his father's slave, years older than himself, was a living link with that fated, fateful past. Her own race ranked her at once seer and sorceress. Further, her master's son knew experimentally that her magic was not wholly matter of fable. He remembered but too well how in the old days the strongest arm in the plantation had withered at her curse; even better, the sidelong downcast look with which, after freedom came, she had approached him, saying, "Marse Frank, I—I—gwine leave yo'—fur yo' own good, unnerstan."

"Let me bathe it," she said.

He could not, if he would, forget the unctuous satisfaction underlying the seemingly humble words. Then he did not stop to think what it might mean, rent and torn as his mind was with the blows and buffetings of fate. As time brought calmness and clarity to his mental atmosphere, he had begun to piece together many shreds of his misfortunes and so in a measure judge the stuff whereof they were spun.

Throughout this process the feeling had grown and strengthened that this weazened creature, so brown, so bent, so soft of voice and downcast of eye, held in her hands more than one clew, worth to him far more than life. Indeed life meant to this brave gentleman but a weary battle, where defeat was shame, victory only death with honor.

Fate had so nearly stripped him of human feelings as human ties. There was only Dare, a slip of a girl, who would marry away from the Overton name, who would forget in her frocks, her babies, her husband, all the story, the wrong, the tragedy of her race. From the outset she was among his disappointments. He had so hoped for a grandson that this puling girl seemed a sorry jest of fate—all the more when within a year of her birth she was left wholly orphaned. If her father had but lived, if that other— Brave as he was, Francis Overton dared not trust himself to think of or remember the valley of the shadow from which his soul had come out so cruelly seared.

Strong in this nameless, formless impulse, he had drawn rein at Jincey's cabin when the sun was an hour high. It sat under the lee of a sharp hill, whose shadow fell heavily about it. A brindled starveling dog lay on the step before the single door. Its shutter stood fairly ajar, giving a long glimpse of the dusk interior, where a fire of roots smoldered in the big fireplace, their burning filling all the place with a dank, pungent smell.

The mongrel lay voiceless, motionless, watching the newcomer with fierce, beady eyes. It was but a starveling atom of skin and bone, hardly able by the look of it to upbear the chain which was fastened at one end to its collar, at the other to a staple driven in the long wall.

Major Overton looked at it compassionately. He knew that the gaunt creature was no reflex of poverty within, but a victim to the belief among the class of its mistress that only a hungry dog is a trusty guard. As he set foot upon the threshold, rapping loudly on the batten, the cur, with a quick, stealthy motion, made as if to set his teeth in his leg. Instead of kicking or striking it, Major Overton turned and looked steadily at it until it slunk out of sight under the house.

Before he turned away his eyes a soft, cracked laugh at his elbow made him start. Jincey had flung wide the door and stood peering at him from under her hand and saying:

"Marse Frank, won't yo' nebber learn ter kick dogs in time?

The covert significance of the query was lost upon her visitor. or if he heeded it, he gave no sign. Stepping within, he fixed a firm regard upon the old woman and said very low:

"Jincey, do you know why I have come here? I confess that I cannot say."

Again Jincey laughed. This time there was a hint of triumph in it. A sudden flame on the hearth lit up the low, grimy interior, the gun upon the wall, the swinging rack heaped with skins and garments, the big plump bed, with its white pillows and "rising sun" coverlid, the hide bottomed chairs, the row of chests against the wall, the table at one side spread with an untouched breakfast, Jincey herself, with her thatch of snow white wool, her keen, down lidded eyes, her small fingered, skinny hands.

She held both before her, as in deprecation, and said slowly, as if in deep meditation: "Maybe it's because I'm most dead. You couldn't be let wait any longer."

There was so little of African accent or idiom in her speech as to proclaim that she had been in her youth more with white people than with the black. There was, too, a curious similarity of intonation to the voice of her visitor. A quick ear would easily perceive that their speech had been molded after much the same model. Major Overton shivered slightly as she spoke and said, dropping into the nearest chair, "Mother's been dead more than 50 years, Jincey, but you've got her accent as pat as the day she died."

"I don't change—in some things," the black woman said, moving toward the fire and steadying herself against one of the huge rock jambs. Major Overton got up and stood facing her, eying her keenly as she slowly fingered the rosary of keys at her girdle.

Upon one of them—a small dull bit of brass—her hand paused with a slow, sensitive clutch, then moved defiantly on to the copper, the steel, the iron, that made up the tale. But not one of them was so odd, had such wards as the brass one, though it was strangely familiar to Major Overton's eye. He held out his hand for it, saying carelessly, "Let me see that, Jincey, that brass key there."

Without a word she laid it in his palm. He saw the duplicate of the key which had locked in his father's deeds in that faraway night, so sorrowfully well remembered.

"What does this unlock?" he asked, his eyes full on the old, old face. Jincey answered, as though dreaming.

"Better ask them that know. I don't."

"How came you by it, then?"

"I—found it—in the road—last year."

"Jincey, we are too old for lying. Tell me how long you have had this key."

"Why do you want to know?"

"You know without telling. It was by help of that key our deeds were stolen—my father murdered."

"Master—master was a good man, too good to die," the old woman said, staring straight before her with fixed, glassy eyes. Suddenly her form grew rigid, she threw a hand above her head and said in a hoarse whisper, punctuated by gasps: "Go away, master; go away! You are dead, dead! I never touched your papers."

Major Overton took her hand in a hard grasp and said close to her ear:

"Who took them, Jincey?"

No answer. The rigid figure tottered, would have fallen but for his support. Suddenly it slid out of his hands to a writhing heap at his feet, and out of it a smothered voice cried, with still the note of mockery: "Overton claim! The end is coming, coming through a woman whose weakness is stronger than your strength."

"Overton claim! The end is coming."

What wonder, then, that his face blanched at sight of the old woman who owned Overton blood thus in proximity to a young man unheard of, undreamed of before?

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

SENATORS' TURN NOW

In Line Before the Sugar Trust Investigators.

A List of Carefully Prepared Questions Which It Is Believed They Cannot Dodge—Senator Brice's Examination More Rigid Than His Brother Members—Charges Denied

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The senatorial sugar trust investigators have got to what is considered the most direct and therefore the most important branch of the inquiry. It is the branch that consists in the examination of the individual members of the senate in alphabetical order as to their knowledge of or connection with dealings in sugar stock or the sugar legislation of the tariff bill. The committee has made excellent progress, examining each of its five members and all the senators, with few exceptions, from A to H inclusive.

The examination of senators was based on a number of carefully prepared questions, so framed that the committee to a man believes that no senator who has ever touched sugar stock or had anything to do with the members of the trust in connection with legislation can make even a technical denial or evasive answer of any sort without putting himself in a questionable position. These questions are as follows:

1. Have you been in attendance at the present session of congress during the pendency of the tariff bill in the senate?

2. Have you given any information, directly or indirectly, to any one interested in sugar trusts, so called, or in the stock of the American Sugar Refining company that was intended or calculated to affect its value?

3. Have you bought or sold, directly or indirectly, since the beginning of this session of congress, any so-called sugar stock or stocks, or stock or certificates of the American Sugar Refining company?

4. Have you been concerned with anyone in interest, direct or indirect, contingent or otherwise, in any operation whether by purchase or sale of said stocks or certificates?

5. Has anyone bought or sold for your account, or in your interest, any of such stocks, or speculated in any of such stocks on your account, or given you to understand that you would share in the profits of any operation in such stocks, or placed any money to your credit as the proceeds of the purchase or sale of such stocks, or promised or agreed to place such money to your credit?

6. Has any member of your family or any person in your employ, or any clerk employed under the laws of the United States in your service, been, to your knowledge, interested in any of the ways indicated in any of the preceding questions, in any transactions in sugar stocks or certificates during the period mentioned?

7. Have you, or has any member of your family, or any such clerk, owned or held certificates of the American Sugar Refining company during the period heretofore mentioned?

8. Have you, at any time, been connected with the American Sugar Refining company, or have you, at any time, been in its employ as attorney, agent, or otherwise?

The members of the committee—Messrs. Gray, Lindsay, Lodge, Davis, and Allen—were examined before the alphabetical list was begun, and each answered each question in the negative, with the exception of the first, which from its nature required some explanation.

Naturally the most interesting, if not the most important testimony, of the day was that of Senator Calvin S. Brice, whose name has been so frequently connected with speculation in sugar and with the legislation on the sugar schedule. The examination of Senator Brice was not made on the questions given, because other witnesses had brought in his name in giving their testimony.

Senator Gray read to Mr. Brice the statement of Correspondent Edwards in the Philadelphia Press alleging that Senator Brice was a speculator in sugar stocks, and put this question:

"I ask you, senator, whether that statement, which means to impute that you and others have been enabled to accumulate wealth upon the probable course of legislation, is true, and to state what you have to say in regard to it?"

"Before or since entering the senate?" asked Mr. Brice.

"Since entering the senate."

"But I may as well answer as to the whole time both before or since," said the Ohio senator, "that I have never been concerned in any speculations or investments, or interests in them, the result of which depended upon legislation in congress or elsewhere. Since entering the senate I have not been concerned in anyway, directly, or indirectly, in any property, securities, stocks, investments, or speculations in anything that is mentioned in the tariff bill from the first line to the end of the free list, with the exception of some local manufacturing establishments in Lima and adjoining towns in Ohio. Nor have I sought to accumulate wealth in any way by investment or speculation since I entered the senate, in any of the things which I have mentioned. In other words, my investments and the things with which I am concerned are not connected with or affected by the operations of the tariff act except as the general property of the country is. There is no truth whatever in it so far as I am concerned."

Senator Brice then told of his meeting with Mr. Havemeyer at the Arlington hotel in the room of H. L. Terrell on the evening of March 1 last. He said he went to the hotel to call on Mr. Terrell, a friend, and a New York lawyer interested in railroads. After spending an hour with these gentlemen Mr. Terrell, he said, mentioned that he was interested in sugar and discussed the question of an ad valorem as compared with a specific tax. Finally Mr. Terrell said that Mr. Havemeyer was in the hotel, and Senator Brice said he then requested that Mr. Terrell send for him, that he might get his statement, as he presumed Mr. Havemeyer to be the best informed man in the country on sugar.

Senator Brice said that this was the first time he had ever met Mr. Havemeyer.

Senator Brice said he listened to Mr. Havemeyer's discussion of the manufacture of sugar, the prices in various markets, etc. He attacked the policy of the democrats in congress as being destructive of manufacturing interests of the country. Senator Brice said he presented this and said to him that while he was from a state which, in his judgment, favored free sugar, both raw and refined, and had no manufacturing sugar interest in it, he would do what was fair and right if Mr. Havemeyer and other refiners could satisfy him what that was, but that in no event would he concede more than half the differential in favor of refined sugar allowed by the existing or McKinley law; that he was inclined to believe that there was some protection to the refiners in an ad valorem schedule.

At this point, Senator Brice said, Senator Smith, of New Jersey, came in, having learned at his house that he had gone to call on Mr. Terrall, and a few minutes later Mr. Reed entered to pay his respects to Mr. Terrall. While these gentlemen were present nothing was said about sugar, except Mr. Havemeyer made some reference to the fact that they had been having an exciting discussion. Mr. Reed and Mr. Smith soon left and Mr. Havemeyer went to his room a few moments later.

To the report that he had turned over a copy of the four hundred amendments of the tariff bill to brokers before they were reported, Senator Brice absolutely denied.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Progress Made with the Wool Schedule—Old Time Day in the House.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The democratic leaders in the senate expect to have the wool schedule of the tariff bill out of the way before adjournment to-day, and they look then for comparatively smooth sailing with the balance of the measure. It was not until late yesterday afternoon that voting was begun upon amendments. None of the speeches of the day presented anything very new or remarkable, except a short one by Mr. Proctor (Rep., Vt.), who made good use of his Bible reading to illustrate his view of the attack made upon the wool industry. He discovered in the murder of Abel, "a keeper of sheep" by Cain, a tiller of the ground, the first historical mention of hostility to sheep husbandry, and he predicted that, in this case as in that, "a mark would be set" upon the democrats and that they would be forced to cry out: "My punishment is greater than I can bear."

The oppositeness of this and other Biblical references and quotations was felt and greatly enjoyed on the republican side of the chamber and in the galleries.

A good many votes were taken upon amendments offered on the republican side of the chamber and, while all of these amendments were rejected, one of them came very nearly being carried. It was an amendment offered by Mr. Peffer (Pop., Kan.) to substitute the McKinley classification on woolen goods (reduced 50 per cent.) and the vote upon was yeas, 33; nays, 35—the whole four populists voting in the affirmative.

The senate adjourned at 6:30, with another amendment of Mr. Peffer's pending—to put all woolen manufactures on the free list.

No action has been taken on Mr. Jones' (Ark.,) amendment to strike out the house paragraph leaving wool on the dutiable list; nor, in fact, has the amendment been formally offered.

House of Representatives.

For a while the scene in the house recalled memories of the former time when active partisan contests were more common than they have been since the adoption of the quorum-counting rule. The occasion was the introduction of an order from the committee on rules to limit debate on the Indian appropriation bill. It was at first opposed by a number of democrats, especially by Mr. McRae, of Arkansas, and Mr. Swanson, of Virginia, but after the limit had been extended from 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon to 3:30 o'clock to-day the order was adopted by a party vote.

Before proceeding with the consideration of the bill Mr. Richardson (dem., Tenn.) made a personal explanation, denying the the charges, expressed or implied, in the Washington News that he had sold a tract of land to a street railroad company in the District of Columbia, which was to be used by the company in pursuance to the provisions of a bill which Mr. Richardson had reported to the house.

The text of the appropriation bill was then read, the reading occupying nearly all the rest of the session.

DEFEATED IN HOUSE OF LORDS.

Bill to Permit a Man to Marry His Deceased Wife's Sister.

LONDON, June 16.—The earl of Dunraven moved in the house of lords the second reading of the deceased wife's sister bill. He said that experience of the United States and Canada, which did not forbid a man's marrying his deceased wife's sister, was a sufficient refutation of the objections of the bishops. It was a hardship and a cause of expense that a man to marry his deceased wife's sister and legitimize his children by her must go abroad to have the ceremony performed.

Lord Herschell, the lord chancellor, spoke in favor of the bill. The archbishop of Canterbury and Lords Selborne and Dudley spoke against it.

The bill was lost by a vote of 129 to 120.

The prince of Wales, Lord Rosebery and most of the liberals supported the bill. Lord Salisbury, the duke of Norfolk, most of the other tories and some twenty bishops opposed it.

Dr. Sara Chase's Conviction Affirmed.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The general term of the supreme court has rendered a decision affirming the conviction of Dr. Sara B. Chase, who was indicted for manslaughter jointly with former Commissioner of Arbitration Florence F. Donovan and Dr. Frederick Diemer, for having caused the death by malpractice of Miss Margaret Manzoni, of Brooklyn, some months ago.

A Tree Their Only Shelter.

PITTSBURG, June 16.—The Chicago division of Coxey's commonweal army is camped in a field near the Pennsylvania railroad at Brushton. Capt. George C. Coleman is in command of the army which now numbers only twenty-seven men. They have no tent and but little baggage. Their only shelter from the scorching sun is a large tree. The camp attracts much attention.

At Emperor Frederick's Tomb.

BERLIN, June 16.—The emperor and empress observed the anniversary of Emperor Frederick's death by going to the Potsdam Mausoleum, offering silent prayer at the tomb, and laying wreaths at the head and foot. Hundreds of other persons were at the tomb later in the day. Many of them left wreaths and great bunches of flowers.

Banks Will Supply Gold for Export.

NEW YORK, June 16.—It is said that the national banks of New York will in the future supply the gold needed for export and thus relieve the strain upon the treasury.

THE BUFFALO TRAGEDY

Did Bartholomy Intend to Murder Delaney?

Made Repeated Promises that He Would Not Shoot, and Did Not Until His Victim Came at Him with a Chair—Bartholomy's Wife and Her Friend Locked Up.

BUFFALO, June 16.—Mrs. Harry Thorner, the friend of Mrs. Bartholomy, the wife of the slayer of Lawyer Delaney, has been arrested on a warrant charging her with murder. She disappeared shortly after Delaney's death was made known and led the officers a merry chase through the small Canadian villages across the river from Buffalo. She was finally apprehended and came back voluntarily. Both women are now locked up. Mrs. Thorner will be the principal witness in the trial.

Mrs. Thorner is the wife of the young man who attracted considerable attention in New York some time ago by representing himself to be a son of C. J. Hamlin, the noted turfman. Thorner is now one of the American colony of fugitives from justice located in Canada.

Bartholomy, the murderer, gave out a story of the crime in an unofficial way, after the superintendent of police promised him that it would not be used against him during his trial.

From his own statement it appears that he had pledged himself not to resort to any violence if Mrs. Thorner would open the door of the room and admit him.

The moment he stepped inside and saw his wife and Delaney standing together all thought of his promise suddenly vanished. He quietly but hastily drew a revolver from his coat pocket, removed his coat and vest, locked the door so that no one could escape, and pointing the revolver at Delaney's head said? "I ought to shoot you for what you have done. I ought to shoot both of you."

"Sit down," he continued sternly addressing Delaney. Delaney took a chair standing by the foot of the bed, and the other three remained standing.

All this time Bartholomy's rage was evidently increasing. With his revolver still pointed at Delaney's head he compelled him and Mrs. Bartholomy to confess their guilt and to admit that they had been unlawfully intimate that afternoon.

Delaney beseeched Bartholomy not to shoot. "I admit I have done wrong," he said, "and I am willing to do anything to make it right." He then requested Mrs. Thorner to get pen and ink.

She left the room and returned with the desired articles in a very few minutes. Why Delaney wanted them Bartholomy does not say. Mrs. Thorner says she thinks it was his intention to draw up an agreement to pay Mrs. Bartholomy's living expenses in case she was turned adrift by her husband.

When Mrs. Thorner came back into the room Delaney and Bartholomy were still arguing and there appeared to be no prospect of any settlement being reached.

Fearing that Bartholomy would forget his promise Mrs. Thorner pleaded with him not to shoot, and he assured her that he would not. Delaney, however, did not appear to place much faith in his promise, for a moment later he jumped up, and catching up the chair sprang towards the door. But after going two or three steps he turned around holding the chair in front of him, evidently with the intention of either warding off the shot which he expected or to knock the revolver from Bartholomy's hand. It was at the moment Bartholomy shot, the bullet striking Delaney in the left side.

Delaney staggered, gasped "I'm shot," and fell to the floor. Bartholomy looked at his victim for a moment, then picked up his coat, put it on and ran out on the street.

CROKER AT QUEENSTOWN.

Out of Politics for Ever—Going to Paris to Remain Indefinitely.

QUEENSTOWN, June 16.—Richard Croker arrived here on the Cunard steamship Umbria. Immediately after landing he was seen by a United Press reporter and questioned concerning the report that he had come abroad to escape the Lexow investigating committee in New York.

"I was not summoned to appear before the Lexow committee," he said, "and I had no fear of being summoned. I came abroad for my health. I would have told my friends of my plans, only I did not regard them as of importance to others, since I had retired from politics. I am out of politics forever. I have no idea who my successor will be.

"I do not wish to hear any politics. I am going to Paris for the Grand Prix on Sunday. I shall remain over there indefinitely—until I recover my health. I would have left America months ago but for the illness of my mother-in-law."

Mr. Croker added that there was no chance of his ever resuming the leadership of Tammany; that he did not know who the new leader would be, and that he would in no way influence the appointment of his successor.

RECOGNIZED HIS DAUGHTER.

Mr. Phelps Regained Consciousness Last Night, but Did Not Speak.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 16.—An intimate friend of William Walter Phelps arrived here from the Teaneck residence at midnight.

He said that Mr. Phelps regained consciousness last evening for the first time in many days and was able to recognize his daughter, the Baroness von Rottenburg, who arrived yesterday from Germany.

He passed no conversation with her, but gave her a look of recognition.

Drs. Janeway, Lusk and Currie are in attendance. The latter said early this morning that he believes that Mr. Phelps will survive a few hours, but does not think he can possibly live longer than to-day.

Irish Liberality.

LONDON, June 16.—It is announced that the reply of the people of Ireland to the appeal for funds to support the Irish parliamentary party has exceeded all expectations. It is believed that the amount subscribed will reach $90,000 in spite of the unfavorable season.

One Strike Ended.

BELLE VERNON, Pa., June 16.—Elkhorn trestle has been rebuilt and traffic resumed. Brownsville strikers held a meeting and decided to return to work Monday. This destroys all chance of the fourth pool continuing the strike.

TRADE CONTINUES DULL

Outlook for the Summer Not Encouraging.

Numerous Causes Combine to Bring About the Present Depression—Slight Increase of Business Failures—State of Trade in Eastern and New England Cities.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The practical arrival of midsummer season and the usual slackening of business, extreme heat and need of rain in northwestern and southeastern states, continued uncertainty as to the tariff preventing merchants from anticipating demands next fall, together with the large number of idle wage-earners in industrial, mining and other lines, all combine to produce continued dullness, says Bradstreet in his weekly resume of the trade situation.

Present prospects point to the practical failure of the bituminous coal strike, as strikers' demands have not been granted, and the outlook is for a practical return of the miners to work in a sufficient number of districts to end the largest strike in a single industrial line in the history of the country. Should western manufacturers of iron and steel refuse to sign the wages scale of the Amalgamated association, higher prices for various forms of those metals will result. Demand for Bessemer pig iron, steel billets and bar iron is barely sufficient to sustain recent advances of from $1 to $3 a ton compared with lowest prices. The excessive restriction of demand for iron at this time may be noted in the fact that furnaces in operation June 1 were producing at the rate of about one-third the maximum capacity. Until the coke strike is broken there cannot be renewed activity in the Pittsburg region.

Prices of staples have moved both ways, wheat having reacted 1 3-8c. from its recent heavy advance, pork having gone off 25c., lard 5 points, cotton 1 1-16c., and hogs and sheep several cents. Similar advances in price include Indian corn, 1-4c.; oats, 1 1-2c., coffee, 1-8.; raw sugar, 1-8c., and cattle, 10c.

There are 237 failures in the United States this week, against 207 last week, 303 in the second week of June, 1893, 161 in 1892, and 230 in in the like week of 1891.

Of more important eastern cities the only one noting an improvement is Pittsburg, where sales have been stimulated by warmer weather. Features of the depression heretofore reported at other eastern points are still prominent. Prices of wool continue weak and sales small. While cotton mills report a fair output they are accumulating supplies, and while some woolen mills are running on old orders, orders at others are being canceled.

New England shoe factories are shipping more heavily than previously, and Boston advises that 5,000 tons of provincial coal have been received. General trade is stagnant at Buffalo, and at Philadelphia the textile industries report a sluggish demand, although sales of paints and glass are in fair volume, and anthracite coal sells for a little more. Baltimore merchants report the same extreme conservatism on the part of both buyers and sellers, and trade very dull.

In the south there are five cities at which merchants have enjoyed some improvement in business. Jacksonville declares collections are better, and at New Orleans and Memphis demand for staple goods is increased in groceries and dry goods. Nashvilles regard the outlook for fall improved. At the manufacturing centers, Atlanta and Augusta, mills are reported fairly active.

OUT OF MONEY; DEFEATED.

McBride Tells Why the Columbus Agreement Was Entered Into.

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—President John McBride in an interview gives to the public facts that will be more potent in inducing the miners to accept the settlement than the formal address sent out from the national headquarters last Tuesday.

"I stated explicitly," said he, "in the Cleveland convention when the conduct of the strike was placed in the hands of a committee, of which I was one, that whenever the danger line was reached I should favor saving all that could be saved rather than meet defeat with its consequent demoralization and disaster.

"For the last three weeks the men have only been held in line by the suspense occasioned through the holding of conventions at different points.

"Our funds were exhausted and we are hundreds of dollars in debt and our field workers, unable to pay their own expenses, were compelled to stay at home. Most of our workers had exhausted their personal means and were helpless to go on, and although myself and others have advanced money to keep the movement alive, if financial aid cannot be secured from some source the next issue of our official journal will be our last, until money comes in, and to suspend publication cuts off the last reliable means of communication between the national office and the men.

"We have dozens of men in jail and hundreds under arrest for conspiracy. With no money to defend these men many of them, though innocent, will suffer.

"At many mines new men were taking the strikers' places, and this with big desertions from our ranks indicated that we were defeated."

Big Railroad Sold.

RICHMOND, Va., June 16.—The Richmond & Danville property as a whole was sold to Chas. H. Coster and A. J. Thomas, of the purchasing committee representing Drexel, Morgan & Co. The property was sold for $2,030,000.

Endorse the Settlement.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 16.—The convention of coal miners of the Pittsburg district endorsed the action of the national and district officers by accepting the 69-cent rate and will resume work Monday.

PEARL HARBOR.

Admiral Walker's Preparations for the New Naval Station.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Reports from Admiral Walker's flagship at Honolulu show how thoroughly the preliminary work for the utilization of Pearl harbor as an American naval station is being pursued. There is no longer any room for doubting that the expensive surveys nearly completed are to be followed promptly by the occupation of Ford's island or Rabbit island and the necessary land at the entrance of the narrow channel for fortification purposes. For more than two months the prospecting party from the United States ship Philadelphia have been constantly engaged in the examination, and the new maps that are about finished will be considered by the navy and war department officials, according to present expectations, before the end of this month. This party includes Lieut. Wood, Ensign Knepper, Cadet Upshaw and Surgeon Crandall, with twelve sailors and a staff of local surveyors. The party has been quartered under the United States flag at a house on Ford's island. That island has been elaborately surveyed as well as the larger island close to it. This larger island was recommended as a naval station by General Schofield several years ago. Ford's island is six miles from the outer bar on which the soundings have been made in search of the supposed coral reef. In these investigations a gigantic tripod having legs 36 feet long is carried on a scow to various points specified by signals from the surveyors on shore and hydraulic borings through 20 feet of sand under 17 feet of water are made. No rock or coral has yet been encountered. A channel 300 feet wide and extending out to deep water has been thus examined and numerous soundings on each side of this channel have been plotted. Various locations have been determined for fortifications, showing elevations, character of soil and water supply. Estimates have already been made of the expenditures that will be necessary to open the harbor to the largest warships, and a full statement for consideration of the authorities is expected in Washington by the next steamer from the islands.

Hill's Unseen Hand.

WASHINGTON, June 16. — Postmaster-General Bissell said that the statement that Judge J. H. Woods had been selected as the nominee for the Albany postmastership and that Senator Hill had refused to endorse him was slightly incorrect. Judge Woods' name along with many others had been presented as a candidate for the Albany postmastership and had been submitted to Senator Hill, who had refused to endorse him, but it was not correct that the postmaster-general had determined to lay Judge Woods' name before the president in spite of Senator Hill's refusal to approve of it. For the present nothing will be done in the matter. The postmaster-general has given Senator Hill every opportunity to endorse a candidate; as yet he has refused to recommend any one. Whether or not the name of Judge Woods will be sent to the senate is a question which the postmaster-general under the circumstances cannot answer.

No Indictments Yet.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—No indictments have yet been returned by the grand jury relative to the cases of the newspaper men, Shriver and Edwards, but it is not unlikely that the indictments will be made public in a day or two. They have been authorized by the grand jury and are being prepared in the district-attorney's office. The indictments are not voluminous, covering but three type-written pages. The case of E. E. Chapman of New York, another recalcitrant witness before the senate investigating committee, has been laid before the grand jury, and Senator Gray, chairmen of the committee, sent some proofs as to this case to the district-attorney by special messenger. J. E. Searles, treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, was a witness before the grand jury.

Severe Criticism.

LONDON, June 16.—The Daily News has a leading article on the reported lynching at Blackshear, Ga., of a negro who had assaulted a white girl. It says that the statement that the negro was skinned alive will send a thrill of horror throughout the country. The mob exhibited a disgusting brutality that would disgrace savages. "These are American citizens," it says, "who are committing crime with apparent impunity under the greatest republican government in the world. No doubt the great body of Americans are ashamed of these outrages, but their position is one of direct responsibility. Do they intend to stand consenting in silence while their flag is dishonored and their government disgraced by outrages that bring to all concerned the scorn and reprobation of all mankind?"

Ohio Miners Coming Around.

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—Telegrams from mining towns in Ohio indicate that the miners are coming to think better of the settlement agreement. At Nelsonville, Sand Run, Yorkville and Bellaire they have resolved to accept the settlement and go to work on Monday.

Vigilant Across the Ocean.

LONDON, June 16.—The American yacht Vigilant was signaled at Tory island, off the northwest coast of Ireland, at 2:30 p. m. The captain indicated by signals that the Vigilant had had fine weather during the entire voyage. All are well on board.

You hear a great deal about oatmeals as good as H-O. Do you ever hear that H-O is as good as some others?

CONVICTION OF WIMAN

Complete Downfall of This Extraordinary Man.

For Thirty Years One of America's Leading Business Men, Drawing a Salary Income of No Less Than $200 a Day, Now Confined in a Felon's Cell.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Erastus Wiman, convicted last evening of forgery, spent a restless night in a cell in the Tombs. He shows plainly the mental strain under which he is suffering and evidently has little hope of the success of the efforts of his lawyers to secure for him a new trial.

To a reporter he said: "There is nothing that I can say. My case will, of course, be appealed. I am not guilty, for I did not intend to defraud anyone. I was persecuted, not prosecuted."

The close of the Wiman trial ends an extraordinary case. An extraordinary term of the court of oyer and terminer had been convened for the purpose of trying an extraordinary man on the charge of an extraordinary crime, for one in the position of Erastus Wiman, one of America's leading business men, in receipt for thirty years of an extraordinary salary income, averaging no less than $200 a day during the past ten years, and at the least reaching $80,000 for the year, the crime of forgery of a $5,000 check.

The evidence and Mr. Wiman's own testimony on the witness stand proved that he had for years performed acts which, had he been an ordinary man, would have been criminal, and the only question at issue was whether his character made them lawful.

Prosecutor Francis L. Wellman insisted that there should not be one law for the poor man and another for the millionaire. The defense claimed that the law was not invoked against Erastus Wiman so long as he was a millionaire, but that when he had lost every dollar and stood stripped of everything except a powerful business acquaintance, dangerous if engaged by a rival to the R. G. Dun Mercantile agency, the dying lion was pounced upon by the jackals who had respected him and his power so long.

The scene in the court room as the jury came in with their verdict will long be remembered by those present. As Wiman rose to face the jury, his ruddy face became deadly pale, and he trembled violently. The foreman of the jury was much more affected, however. Indeed, he was actually weeping when he delivered the verdict—guilty, with a strong recommendation for mercy. The other jurors would not look at the prisoner and hurried from the court room as soon as Justice Ingraham had thanked them for their service to the state.

As soon as the verdict was announced, Mr. Wiman fell back in his chair with a groan. His young son placed his arm about his father's shoulders, and the two sat silent for a few minutes. Then Sheriff Brown came, and Erastus Wiman started for the Tombs, and immediately after his father's departure, young Wiman started for home to tell his mother the sad news.

Both Gen. Tracy and Mr. Boardman seemed very much surprised at the verdict. Mr. Boardman, who is an old friend of the convicted man, was plainly overcome. He could say nothing more than that the case would be appealed.

The penalty for Mr. Wiman's crime is imprisonment for ten years in state prison. There is no minimum penalty.

He will be sentenced next Wednesday.

It is impossible to ascertain how many ballots were taken by the jury. It was reported that on the first ballot the jury stood seven for conviction, three for acquittal and two uncertain.

GREGSON, THE INVENTOR

A REMARKABLE ENGLISHMAN'S WORK IN THIS COUNTRY.

Incessant Labor Nearly Cost Him His Life—He Tried America's Greatest Remedy, and It Made Him Well—Sleeps Sound for the First Time in Several Years.

"Inventing is my business," said Geo. Gregson.

This remarkable Englishman has been in this country five years. He received the great gold medal from the Paris Academy of inventors, and it was his work that was selected by the examiner-in-chief at the World's Fair as the best representative invention of its class.

Most people think of inventors as men gifted with golden brains that turn out the most marvelous devices without exertion.

As a fact, men of ideas are the hardest workers; they live by the very sweat of their brains; in the eager pursuit of an idea, like many professional and business men, they forget that their minds are not tireless and that to rack their brains all day and far into the night the nervous system must have unusually good and abundant nourishment that will build up its myriad delicate parts.

The following letter from Mr. Gregson is an example that is better than columns of advice:

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 5, 1894.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO.,

Gentlemen:—Having been subject for years to extreme nervousness, with its attendant want of sleep, I was induced, much against my will, to try a bottle of Paine's celery compound simply as an experiment; the improvement that followed was so marked that of my own accord I purchased a second bottle and then a third. By the time I had finished the third bottle I felt like a new man, slept sound at night and woke in the morning both ready and able to do a day's work. Whenever I now feel in the least indisposed I at once take one or two doses and that is all I require. In my case Paine's celery compound proved to be all that is said for it. You have my permission to publish this in any way you like.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE GREGSON.

His is the experience of thousands of others.

Paine's celery compound feeds the nerve tissues, banishes lassitude, debility, inability to sleep and prevents nervous prostration.

When an overworked and worried brain worker, no matter whether student, lawyer, minister or man of business, has sufficiently sinned against the laws of health he begins to suffer from disturbances of heart and stomach and to have certain signs of nervous exhaustion. He works with less ease, sleeps badly. New symptoms come; giddiness, dimness of sight, neuralgia of face or scalp, with entire nights of sleeplessness. Many a man struggles on, ignorant of the terrible demands he is making on an exhausted brain.

Diseases of the nervous system do not come without warning. Rheumatism, dyspepsia, and diseases of the heart, liver and kidneys are loud cries for a prompt increase of nourishment for the brain and nerve centres; this feeding with just the food the vital parts crave is what Paine's celery compound does. It is upon this marvelous power of nourishing all the nervous tissues and purifying the blood that its remarkable cures depend.

Its action is perfectly intelligible to every well educated physician, and that is just why Paine's celery compound is so unhesitatingly prescribed by physicians in every city, town or village, without exception, in the United States and Canada.

It supplies new, rich blood, full of brain and nerve food; it feeds worn-out nerve centres and exhausted tissues wherever the freshly enriched blood stream goes; the languor and tired feeling that without exception accompanies thin, lifeless blood vanishes; the spirits are raised and a new feeling of health and life declares the presence of pure blood and well fed nerve and brain.

There's nothing so GOOD as Cottolene

The new vegetable shortening. Wherever introduced, it drives lard from the kitchen, and indigestion from the household. It has been tried by every test, and has met every requirement. It is as much superior to lard as the electric light is to the tallow-dip. The only question now is, will you give your family the benefits which its use bestows?

There's nothing LIKE Cottolene

In composition, in healthfulness, in flavor, or in economy. Its success has called out a lot of imitations and counterfeits made for the sole purpose of selling in the place and on the merits of Cottolene. Avoid them all. They are made to sell and they are a sell. Get the genuine COTTOLENE.

H. P. Baldwin, the get-ahead General Passenger Agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, has been doing another enterprising thing in issuing a handsome volume, handy for the pocket and delightful to the senses, describing the charms of seashore, lakes and mountains as reached by New Jersey's best railroad. Its tale of the delights of New Jersey and Pennsylvania is a veritable poem, and the best of it is 't is true. EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The walls of the public department of the post-office are being painted.

—F. A. Pope has finished the building of a new barn on East Fourth street.

—Albert Hedden of East Fourth street purchased two fast roadsters last evening, one a chestnut and the other a dark roan.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will give an entertainment in their headquarters Tuesday evening for members and invited friends.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Grace M. E. Church was not held last evening, the transaction of business being postponed for a month.

—Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., initiated three candidates last evening. They were George H. Batchelor, Warren Townley and James T. Spratt.

—The hardware men will close their stores at 7 every evening except Saturdays, beginning next Monday. Early closing will be continued until September 1.

—Arthur Mosher had the middle finger of his right hand crushed and another cut while he was at work yesterday morning in S. C. Baker's printing establishment on West Fifth street.

—D. S. Mills of Liberty street has placed his stock of groceries in the hands of Justice V. W. Nash, who will close out the business for the benefit of the creditors. An inventory was taken today.

—The women and friends of Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, will give a strawberry festival and entertainment in Republican Hall, Tuesday evening, June 19. Good music will enliven the event. The benefits are for the church.

—David T. Kenney, of 193 North avenue, is exclusive agent in Plainfield for the celebrated Dangler gas stoves, the best gas stove made. The gaslight company will furnish gas to those using this stove for $1.50 per month.

—Mrs. Dr. Edwards, the clairvoyant whose many friends here hope she will make Plainfield her home, came to town today for one week, and may be consulted in Room 8, City Hotel. She is sure to have abundant patronage.

—The Brand will case, in which testimony has been taken during five months past, came up for final argument before Judge McCormick in the Union County Orphans Court at Elizabeth yesterday. Craig A. Marsh and William M. Stillman appeared in support of the will, and W. S. Angleman against it.

—H. C. Smith of Prospect avenue was taken violently ill at the corner of North and Park avenues yesterday afternoon. H. P. Reynolds personally, and his assistants, ably cared for him in the drug store, until medical aid could be obtained, and then Dr. Endicott attended. Mr. Smith was able to be about again this morning.

—A dramatic entertainment will be held at the home of Mrs. G. H. Goddard, 205 East Ninth street, on Monday, June 18, at 3:30. Admission will be 10 cents. Candy will be for sale. Those who take part are Hattie Goddard, Annabell Ashly, Margaret Goddard, Elsie Goddard, and Josie Lapsley. The proceeds will be for the Boys Club.

Next Convention in Plainfield.

A meeting of the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Newark last evening. William D. Murray and Curtis M. Phillips, members of the committee, attended.

It was decided to hold the next State Convention in Plainfield, beginning the second Thursday in February, 1895, and lasting until Monday. The last convention held in Plainfield was that of 1888. The new Y. M. C. A. Building will be completed by the next convention.

Fifty Cents a Week.

Only $75 a lot, $5 cash down, balance 50 cents a week, will buy one of those beautiful building lots at Netherwood station. Rent-payers, doesn't it make you ashamed of yourself when you can buy a building lot on such easy terms and have it paid for in a few years at 50 cents a week, the price of a theatre ticket? Then you can secure a loan from Building Associations to build a comfortable home, by paying them monthly, the same you are paying rent now. Come up Saturday or Sunday and pick out a lot or two for a home; buy for your children; buy for speculation. Only 11 lots to sell. Maps and particulars of

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

THE PARK CLUB'S FOURTH.

Fireworks in Abundance, to Be Followed by a Dance.

Remembering the beautiful event of last year, members of the Park Club and their friends will be delighted to learn that preparations are in progress for a Fourth of July celebration even more glorious than before. Soon after dark the club grounds will be the scene of a great display of fireworks, followed by a full-dress dance. Admission will be by ticket only, and each member will be allowed two guest tickets, to be obtained of the steward. The pyrotechnic exhibition will begin at 8:15, and dancing at 10.

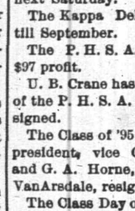
UNANIMITY OF OPINION.

But One Expression: "They are the Largest and Best."



THERE is at hand the always reliable evidence of the largest and best of the daily newspapers, which are upon the exchange list of this office. Wherever the Adam Forepaugh Shows have exhibited thus far this season the newspapers of this class, as well as the smaller ones, express an astounding unanimity in their praises of the Adam Forepaugh Shows. Judging from the tone of these papers, in which may be placed implicit confidence, the Adam Forepaugh Shows are the largest and best of tented exhibitions and are simply unparalleled in their extent and in their merit, while the prohibition of all sorts of peddling, gambling, and every manner of offences to law and good taste, and the compulsorily correct and gentlemanly deportment of all attaches, place the Adam Forepaugh Shows absolutely beyond criticism. They will exhibit here Friday, July 6.

BOUND TO GET HOME.

Wonderful Instinct of a Myrtle Avenue Thoroughbred.

Augustus VanDeventer of Myrtle avenue has a valuable greyhound which bears the cognomen Tip. A few days ago Mr. VanDeventer sent Tip by express to Neshanic, to some friends living near there, who were to keep Tip for the Summer. Tip never before had been more than a mile or two from Plainfield, and made the trip to Neshanic in a baggage car from which he could not see the country through which he was passing. Nevertheless, he determined that farm life did not suit his taste, and Tuesday morning about 8 he started afoot for home, where he appeared at 1 p. m., footsore and weary, but glad to get back. The distance is upwards of 23 miles.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Temperance Committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church is preparing a very interesting and instructive programme for their regular meeting next Monday night. One of the attractions will be temperance songs by a male quartette.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J, and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

FANWOOD'S SCANDAL.

SENSATION OVER THE ARREST OF MRS. HOFFMAN.

She is Accused of Blackmailing a Brooklyn Man, and the Developments Lend Color to the Report that She Attempted Suicide to End Her Sorrows—Her Friends Believe Her the Victim of a Bigamist's Vengeance.

People remarking a woman of distinguished appearance occupying Box B in Music Hall the past two seasons were told that she was Mrs. Hoffman, wife of a wealthy Brooklynite. She always dressed fashionably and wore a wealth of diamonds.

Report was made last Tuesday evening that she had attempted suicide to avoid public disgrace and arrest. Then it was learned that she accused her alleged husband of bigamy, and that she was in turn threatened with imprisonment. Dr. Long, the physician in charge, and a Spaniard who acted as spokesman for Mrs. Hoffman at her house, told The Press that she had merely been accidentally and only slightly burned by carbolic acid used by mistake as a toothwash. Their statement was accepted as a denial of the suicide story, and the report was published exclusively in The Press; but present developments seem to indicate that Dr. Long was deceived in the matter. She was arrested two days after the alleged attempt.

It transpires that a detective investigation has for some time been in progress, and that Mrs. Hoffman knew of it, and it is believed there is truth in the report of attempted suicide.

Mrs. Hoffman is said to have gone under various aliases, including Stewart and Sonate; but her real name is given as Annie Bothe, she being the alleged wife of Thomas Bothe, a resident of Philadelphia, who left her some time ago. The prosecution claims that the woman drifted to New York after her husband left her, and lived in a house on East Fourteenth street.

"I first got on her track"—said Prosecutor Marsh, who caused her arrest—"through a wealthy citizen of Brooklyn, whom it was said, she was endeavoring to blackmail. He made her acquaintance on Fourteenth street, New York, and afterwards was frequently in her company. After awhile he began to tire of her and tried to avoid meeting her, but she was not to be shaken off so easily, and wrote him letters demanding money. For some months he used to remit cash to her, but finally decided to stop this practice.

"The the woman wrote threatening letters. He paid no attention to these notes, and then the climax came when the woman wrote to his wife and informed her she held her husband in her power".

This was too much for the alleged victim to stand, and he went to Elizabeth, laid the matter before Prosecutor Marsh, and asked if something could not be done to stop this persecution.

Prosecutor Marsh took the case in hand, and set to work to learn something about the woman, and the result was that he had two warrants issued against Mrs. Hoffman for the alleged character of her house.

The prisoner obtained her liberty late Thursday night through the efforts of her lawyer, ex-County Attorney McClure, of Plainfield. He induced a friend of his in Elizabeth to go her bail in the sum of $2,500. The papers in the case will be sent to the October Grand Jury.

All of the alleged blackmailing letters were mailed in New York city, and the authorities in this State cannot on that charge proceed against her. The woman is shrewd, and either knew or had advisers who knew that under the Jersey law blackmailers are liable to severe penalties, and she was careful not to send any of her letters from this State.

Mr. Marsh obtained the affidavits of a number of young women who visited Mrs. Bothe's house, and secured other evidence on which the charges against her are based. It is stated that large numbers of fashionably dressed young women and their escorts frequented "Mrs. Hoffman's" house, both from Plainfield and vicinity and by train from New York. Many of these will be dragged into the story in the courts.

The Brooklyn man in the case is Henry Hoffman, reputed to be a millionaire, the secretary of the Berwyn-White Coal Company. Counselor McClure is confident he can prove that Hoffman acknowledged Mrs. Hoffman as his wife. Mr. McClure was the first in Plainfield to have business dealings with them. He was sitting in his office over the First National Bank one day when a little man of 55 years, gray, and a bit faded and wrinkled, came in with a handsome, black-eyed woman of 24.

"I am Henry Hoffman"—said he to the lawyer.—"This is my wife, Mrs. Hoffman. We came to see if the title to our property on the Terrell road is perfectly clear."

The lawyer had already been engaged by Mrs. Hoffman's agents to search the title, and had found it good.

According to Mr. McClure, Mrs. Hoffman made a discovery about six weeks ago that prostrated her completely.

She learned that the man she had been living with as her husband had a wife and thirteen children in Brooklyn. She accused him of it. There was a stormy scene. It ended with the hysterical woman turning her gray-haired lover out of the house. She then wrote a bitter letter to the wife in Brooklyn, telling of her discovery and signing it "Mrs. Henry Hoffman No. 2".

Then came Hoffman's alleged persecution. He had detectives haunt her, and succeeded in accomplishing her arrest, which Mr. McClure characterizes as "the greatest outrage upon a defenseless woman in all the annals of New Jersey".

Mrs. Hoffman, when arrested, begged that she might send for her lawyer, Mr. McClure. It was refused, with the admonition to get into a wagon that was waiting, but was at last permited to send him a telegram. She pleaded that she might go to her home to change her dress.

"No, not if we know it", said the detective, with a mock smile.

"Then I demand that you take me at once before Justice Moore, here in Fanwood," she exclaimed.

Justice Moore is her neighbor, who has known her and esteemed her during all her stay in that place. She knew that the law gave her the privilege of having her case considered by the nearest justice did she so desire; but her captors would not listen to it; and forcing her into the wagon they had waiting, they drove her to the police station in Elizabeth, where she knew no one, and would in all probability be unable to furnish bail. The neighbors, who had been shocked at what they termed a great outrage, hastened to inform Lawyer McClure of it, and he hurried to Elizabeth in time to frustrate the designs of the detectives to make their captive spend the night in one of the police station cells.

Lawyer McClure was livid with wrath when he heard of the Prosecutor's statements. "Mrs. Hoffman is no adventuress", he cried. "I will show that she was married to Henry Hoffman five years ago. It ill-becomes a public prosecutor to try to defame a woman and ruin her character before she has a chance to defend herself. As for the women's affidavits, it is easy to buy them at $1 a piece."

Lawyer George DeMeza said this morning: "The arrest of this woman is one of the basest outrages ever perpetrated in Union County.".

QUITE A STORY, SHE TOLD.

Julia Zimmermann Defeated Again in Her Suits Against the MacMurrays.

The civil cases of Julia Zimmermann against Andrew and Charles MacMurray, brothers of City Clerk McMurray of Plainfield, for board, came up before Judge Collins in Westfield Wednesday. Craig A. Marsh appeared for the defendants, and as usual won the suits. Mrs. Zimmermann did not appear at 2, the time set for hearing the cases, and they were moved by the counsel for the defence. Andrew MacMurray presented a set-off, for which judgment was awarded him in the sum of $19. The case against Charles MacMurray was dismissed. About 5 Mrs. Zimmermann and her husband appeared at the courtroom and told a lengthy story as the reason for their not appearing on time. She claimed that the MacMurrays had sold the greater part of her furniture under a chattle mortgage and on Monday turned her and her husband and two little children out of the house. They were kept over night by a neighbor. Tuesday evening she and her husband walked to Newark to see a lawyer, whom they thought would befriend them, and conduct their case on Wednesday. They were unable to find the man they sought in Newark, and at noon set out to walk back to Westfield, not having money to pay car fare. On the way back Mrs. Zimmermann was overcome by the heat and fatigue, and was compelled to rest along the road. When she finally arrived at Westfield, after the walk of about fifteen miles, it was to learn that her cases had been disposed of. She says she has supported the family recently by doing sewing, but that now her sewing machine has been taken from her and she has no means of earning a living. She and her children are stopping with a neighbor until the woman can find work.

One of the Monkeys Still at Large.

Schwed Brothers received a box of three monkeys for exhibition in the window of their store yesterday afternoon. One of their employes opened the box carelessly, shortly after 4, and two of the monkeys escaped and ran up Park avenue.

One was caught in F. Margentino's fruit store. The other ran through J. M. Dunn's grocery on Park avenue, and went into the back yard. A crowd searched for it, but its hiding-place was not found. The missing monkey was seen in Boice, Runyon & Co's lumber yard this morning.

Lawyer DeMeza Got Him Off.

Patrick Bergen of Cottage place was in the City Court again this morning charged, as he was last Saturday, with abusing his neighbors. He was not represented by counsel Saturday and was fined $15.

Neighbors Brown and Parsons testified this morning that he had been still more profane on his return from court. Lawyer George DeMeza was Bergen's counsel. The case was dismissed. The case of a week ago has been appealed.

Learn to Be Useful.

WISDOM THEIR STRONGHOLD.

Washingtonville Students Conclude Their School Course, to the Pleasure of Parents and Friends.

The closing exercises of the Washingtonville school took place in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Chapel Thursday night. The members, their parents, and friends of the school, filled the chapel, and greatly enjoyed the programme. The students showed great proficience in their studies. The trustees, Wilson, Clark and Bullman, in well-chosen remarks showed their confidence in John F. Riger, the teacher, and incited the scholars to higher ambitions in the future, urging them to take advantage of their opportunities, and showing that school days were a preparation for the great race of life, in which the advantage was not alone to the physically strong but also to those who, having a right and noble purpose in view, made wisdom the means of obtaining the end.

After the programme, Mr. Riger thanked the trustees and parents for their interest in the welfare of the school, and for their help to make the past term a success.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

New Market.

Hallett's Cottage is having many Sunday boarders.

Mr. and Mrs. James Day of Elizabeth are visiting at Joseph Mitze's.

Miss Annie Gaskill of Rahway is visiting relatives in this community.

The Christian Endeavor Society will hold a sociable in the near future.

Katie Hoff had the misfortune to lose a parrot last Sunday. Anyone returning it alive will be paid $3; if dead, $1.

The lake last evening had every boat on it filled with occupants. When you want a pleasant row, come to our village.

A mill hand employed by John Otto gave the band boys a surprise Wednesday night by playing on the bass horn, drum and cymbals. He once belonged to the Prussian Army.

Hannah Danz, a daughter of Herman Danz, proprietor of the Lake House, was awarded a prize at the close of school for punctual attendance, she having never missed one day in the past four years, and only half a day in five years. She is not yet 11 years old.

July 4 will be celebrated here with an unusually intefesting programme of athletic sports, and a grand display of fireworks in the evening. Friendship Cornet Band will be present and enliven the occasion with the choicest selections of music. Ice-cream and refreshments will be served at reasonable rates.

The number of votes polled Wednesday evening for the prize lamp was as follows:

Annie Starkes	3
Irene Day	1
Bella Logan	3
Emma Nelson	1
Sarah Kischner	1
Alice Pierce	25

The prize was awarded to Miss Alice Pierce, and not to Anges Pierce as stated in the doodle-do paper yesterday.

Fish-Catching Extraordinary.

Frequenters of the Fishing Banks have been deerying their bad luck ever since Gen. Long, A. Vanderbeek and John J. Shotwell spent a day there. They hauled in fish by wholesale, and the General seemed to have a peculiar style of catching his—hooking one through the eye, one through the back, and one the regular way through the mouth; but the mouth-caught fish got away as soon as the hook was taken from his jaw.

Four New Houses.

Through the real estate agency of Edward C. Mulford contract has been given out for the erection of four cottages on a lot of 137 feet frontage on Manning avenue between Somerset street and Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, which has been awarded to Phillip Cottrell. The houses are to be ready for occupancy next October.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

A PICTURE FOR WOMEN'S EYES,

With the Hope That It May Do Some of Them Good.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

To-day there is the happy mother, healthy boys and girls, sunshine, music, amusements, the church, the romp and the ramble, the country and seashore. Whatever healthy minds in healthy bodies may desire, that they may have, and mother is ever ready to join with them in the pleasure and fun.

Years come and go. The boys and girls grow up to men and women. Mother's hair is turning white: her steps are not so elastic, her spirits flag; there is an uneasy look in her dear eyes.

What can be the matter with mother?

She is approaching the most important crisis of her life, "the change of life." Those watchful eyes detect the evidences. Years bring this change demanded by nature. What preparation have you made to carry the brave mother safely through it?

Within a comparatively short time the issue will be decided. Either nature fulfilling the law in proper, healthful manner, or — there is the wreck of a noble woman for you to grieve over.

There is salvation in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will carry the mother safely through the inevitable change in her physical life.

All reputable druggists keep for you this grand remedy. See that "mother" has it, for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was won from the heights of medical science by a woman for all women nearing the change of life.

The Overton Claim.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH WILLIAMS.

CHAPTER VII.

Dare faced her grandfather with no sign of confusion. Indeed her first word was for him.

"How wet you are!" she cried, moving toward him. "Surely you did not have to swim at the ford?"

He put her away with an impatient gesture, saying no word, but a burning question in his eyes. Dare had met him with a pretty appealing droop of the head. Now she stood up as straight as himself, and to the watcher's eye a curious race likeness to the stern old face crept over the soft curves of the young one.

Letting a hand fall either side of her, Dare said, with a distinctness that would have been harsh had her voice been less clear: "The gentleman is hurt, grandfather. I have tried to make him comfortable, as you would have done. Let me make you acquainted with him—Mr. Allen Haywood."

"What name did you say? The wind roars so I can hardly hear," Major Overton said, stepping within, unmindful of the dripping from his soaked garments upon the immaculate floor. Before Dare could repeat it the stranger got upon his feet and said, with a profound obeisance:

"Let me answer that, Major Overton. The young lady knows only a part of my name. I am Allen Haywood Fauntleroy, very much at your service."

Spite of his white hair, fire leaped to Major Overton's eyes; big veins stood out upon his forehead; his mouth grew set and hard; his hand clinched nervously upon the riding whip he held. For a full minute he was silent. Then, speaking very low, he said:

"Leave us, Dare. Mr.—Fauntleroy,"—choking over the name—"I am sorry to see you in such ill plight. I hope that my people have made you as comfortable as possible."

"They have done much more than that—saved my life. But, Major Overton, every minute you stand thus dripping wet endangers yours. I beg you to make yourself comfortable. Then give me the pleasure of an hour's talk with you."

Major Overton's eyes blazed more than ever, yet he answered in a tone even more sibilee soft:

"Pardon me, Mr. Fauntleroy, you are my guest. Nothing puts that aside. But under all the circumstances of the case I must ask that all other than casual communications shall come through my lawyers."

With that he bowed himself away, to return a little later in a well brushed suit of fine threadbare black, with a silver tray in his hand, upon which stood a decanter and two glasses. He set the salver on the table at Fauntleroy's elbow and said in the same restrained voice: "Dinah, my housekeeper, has told me of your mishap. After it you are naturally rather shaky, and here is some brandy that I can recommend. It has stood in Ridgeley cellar rising 40 years. As you are somewhat disabled, let me give you a glass."

The other held out his well hand and watched with curious eyes the flow of the oily golden brown liquor that, in spite of a rainy day's gray light, held yet a hint of sunshine. As he sipped it slowly the door was thrown aside, and mammy's voice said, "Dinner's ready, marster."

As the two men entered the dining room the younger looked expectantly about, but Dare was not visible. Only two covers were laid. The meal went heavily forward, though the guest found both his host and mammy, who waited at table, even embarrassingly attentive to his lightest need. He made but a poor pretense of eating. Each mouthful indeed came near to choking him, though everything was dainty, flavorous and exquisitely served.

"The gentleman is hurt, grandfather."

At the close of the meal the two men went out together, pausing for a minute at the half open front door to watch the dashing raindrops vex the limpid pool spread over all the yard. One of the long summer storms had broken since morning. The sky was a dun cup, without fold or rift. The slightest hollows held such rainy runnels as assured all who knew the lay of the land that the creeks must be at flood. It was full of sharp hills, from which the waters ran fast as they fell. Already above the plash of the rain came the roar and boom of torrents in the lowlands. But young Fauntleroy stepped without the hall door and said:

"Major Overton, I feel this intrusion of mine to be so impertinent that if your woman will return me my own garments I will make my way somewhere else till the storm is over."

The grim ghost of a smile played on Major Overton's face.

"That would be suicide, which is the worst form of cowardice," he said. "Either side of us is a stream that now a man with two good arms could not safely pass on horseback. On foot and crippled you would surely drown. Ridgeley's door can let no man go out to his death. Stay and be sure of your welcome until you can go in safety."

"If only you would let me speak," the other began. A gesture stopped him. Major Overton had raised his hand, a look of pain unutterable upon his face. After a minute he said slowly, as though weighing each word:

"It is not my wish to embarrass you or add to your discomfort, but surely you must understand that of all men you are the last with whom I can discuss—anything."

"Why, because of that old trouble? Believe me, Major Overton, whatever imputation there may have been in the past, I do not believe"— Young Fauntleroy burst out before he could be silenced. His pause, when it came, was due to amazement. The old face fronting him was rage incarnate, the old hands clinched hard. By a supreme effort Major Overton controlled himself and said, half turning away:

"Belief amounts to nothing, certainly as against deeds. It is just possible that you came in ignorance of some things that have gone before. Pray pardon me if I ask to be spared further reference to all painful subjects. Be simply the stranger within my gate for the rest of your stay."

"In one minute, sir. All I ask is that you will believe I came simply with the honest purpose of trying to better a bad matter, a very sad one. I am not a sneak. They told me to approach you under a feigned name, but I refused. I did not give my full name at first because I feared to startle the young lady"—

"Will you come to my office for a smoke?" Major Overton said, as though he had not heard, leading the way to a small bare room just off the back piazza. As the two came into it they found themselves face to face with Dare. She did not flush, look conscious or seek to evade her grandfather's disapproving eye. Instead she gathered up a handful of torn papers, and stepping to the door stopped beside it to say:

"I knew you would want to smoke, grandfather, so I lit the fire, if it is July, and put pipes ready filled there over the mantel."

"Very good. I am obliged," Major Overton said grimly, stepping so as to hide his granddaughter from his guest. Dare moved lightly aside, drew a chair to the corner of the hearth and said to Fauntleroy:

"Sit down, and I will give you a light for your pipe, as you have but one hand now."

"You spoil me," he protested, sinking into the seat and looking straight into the girl's eyes. Major Overton frowned heavily, took the girl by the arm and led her through the door, saying, "Stay in your room, Dare, until I send for you."

CHAPTER VIII.

By midnight the storm had sobbed out its wrath. Morning broke fair over the radiant, new washed world. The rays of dawn were struggling through the window panes ere Allen Fauntleroy dropped asleep. When at last his eyes opened, the sun was high in heaven. His host stood at his bedside, grayer, harder, sterner looking in the light of the golden day than in that of rainy skies. Yet still his voice was a well bred monotone, bare of all feeling.

"Pardon me for disturbing you. I fear you slept poorly," he said. "But a friend has come in search of you, and I had no choice but to wake you. Here comes Jubilee with your boots. He will help you to dress and wait on you at breakfast. Take your time. There is no need of hurry. I will take care that your friend does not grow impatient."

"Who is it—Hawkins? I thought he'd look me up if the horse got back without me. I beg you not to let him get at that precious old brandy. He will stay till he drains the bowl," Young Fauntleroy said in an effort to speak lightly. He was far from feeling so. All his sleep had been a phantasmagoria of trouble of thick clouds, of swelling waters, with Dare in the midst of them, swept forever away in their flood. The night through he had not hidden from himself the fact that in their all too brief encounter she had taken captive his heart and his fancy. He must not, he could not, would not go away without further sight and speech of her. He would not startle, maybe distress her with any talk of love. Instead he would speak a little of the gratitude he felt for her timely aid and beg her, if ever the time came that she needed help, to remember that she had in him a faithful friend.

But how achieve so much, guarded as she was? After breakfast he must go away, and throughout the meal mammy would certainly attend him. If he could get her away—a voice broke through his musings. Jubilee, black and slim, with woolly head and big upturned eyes, stood in the door, saying:

"What corrections does you have ter gimme, sir, 'bout puttin on your clothes?"

Jubilee, turned 14, had been to free school since he was 6, and now could spell in three letters, knew all the figures except seven and had a great desire to use the longest words he heard and to overcome his tendency to the dialect of his race.

Withal he was a sharp lad, as full of resource as of mischief. So much young Fauntleroy discovered before his clothes were in place. Dropping his voice, he spoke rapidly to the boy, who answered with winks and nods and hushed "Yes, sirs." As the stranger made an end by pushing $1 in his palm, Jubilee said:

"Who—ee—I do my best, sir, but maybe I can't. The ole lady is very expicious."

Notwithstanding, when young Fauntleroy sat dawdling over rolls, coffee and boiled chicken under mammy's wrathful eye, Jubilee's head came through the door, Jubilee's voice said in accents of weary disgust:

"Aunt Diney, you better come help me. Somebody's knocked over your turkey pen, and that old fool is huffin it to the woods as fast as her young ones can go. I ran so hard tryin to head her, my breath is still clean obflusticated."

"De laws a massy, 'pon my soul, dat ole hen tukkey gwine make me lose all my 'ligion, quor'lin at 'er," mammy cried, making a dash for the door. It hardly closed behind her when Dare came through the one opposite and said, with a rosy flush:

"Jubilee said you sent for me. Do you want your arm bandaged afresh?"

"No, no. Something much more important. Miss Overton—Dare—come closer, please. Lay your hand again in mine. Ah, thank you for coming! I sent for you because I—what I want to say is—don't take your hand away—I shall never forget you. Your kindness, your help, and—and—if ever—I can straighten all this tangle I shall come back to you. Meantime if I can serve you—one never knows what may happen—you—you are to give me the privilege. Don't forget that," the young man said disjointedly, holding fast to Dare's hand.

It was harder than he thought to choke back the words of love, yet to speak them would be madness. She would leave him in affright. Yet he could not forbear raising to his lips the slim rosy fingers that lay fluttering in his own.

"Why should I remember you?" Dare asked, half turning away. "Next week you will forget my existence, except maybe as the heir to a claim that troubles you. Ah, you see, I know something of family affairs. Believe me, I am not so disloyal to our side of the quarrel as to have come here thus clandestinely if I had not thought that maybe you needed me—were in pain that I could ease."

"I am," Fauntleroy said, getting quickly to his feet and flinging his sound arm around her. "Dare! Dare! I love you better than my life. I did not mean to tell you just yet. It is so sudden. But from the first look of your eyes into mine as you knelt, an angel of rescue, beside that living grave, I have felt that I belonged to you—solely, entirely; that I would give my life for you and die happy in the sacrifice."

"I cannot go, Mr. Fauntleroy. I am an Overton."

"You may have the opportunity elsewhere," Major Overton said from the door behind him. Hawkins darted through it and caught young Fauntleroy's arm, crying out:

'Allen, Allen, are you mad? Come away at once. You should never have come here, though," turning to the old man, who stood a statue of white fury. "I swear, Major Overton, he did not know everything."

With one stride the old man caught Dare's arm and essayed to drag her from the room. The girl shook herself free of his hold and said, with eyes outblazing his own:

"I am no child, grandfather. Even from you I demand the courtesy due a woman."

"I see. You demonstrate your womanhood by slinking thus to a rendezvous," the old man said through his teeth. Fauntleroy sprang to the girl's side, caught her hand in his and cried out:

"Major Overton, you—no man shall breathe one hurtful word of her. Here to your teeth I beg her to come away with me as my wife—chosen, honored above all the world."

Dare shivered through and through. A red tide swept up over brow and cheek, then faded, leaving her white, with eyes of fire. She was so young, barely turned 17, all this seemed so wonderful, so terrible, it put her happy, careless girl life years and years behind her. She drew her hand gently from Fauntleroy's clasp and said, staring straight before her at her grandfather, who stood a shaking embodiment of speechless fury:

"I cannot go, Mr. Fauntleroy. I am an Overton. I cannot turn against my own, no matter how I may be wronged."

"Forgive me, Dare, forgive me! You are your father's child, thank God! Forgive my doubt of you," the old man almost sobbed, drawing the girl's hand through his arm as though to lead her away. She half turned from him, but not in anger, and said to her young lover:

"Goodby. Go away, please, and forget that you ever came."

"I go, since I must, but I will never give you up so long as we both do live," Allen Fauntleroy said. Even as he spoke she vanished. Hawkins caught his arm and drew him away to the vehicle waiting outside the door. As they took their seats in it Major Overton stepped over the threshold, gave them a courteous adieu, then laid his hand lightly in detention upon the reins and said slowly:

"Mr. Fauntleroy, I give you safe conduct from my home. If ever you set foot on it again, your life will pay for it."

An Eminent Physician of Arkansas, tells of some Remarkable Cures of Consumption.

Stamps, La Fayette Co., Ark.
DR. R. V. PIERCE:

Dear Sir—I will say this to you, that Consumption is hereditary in my wife's family; some have already died with the disease. My wife has a sister, Mrs. E. A. Cleary, that was taken with consumption. She used your "Golden Medical Discovery," and, to the surprise of her many friends, she got well. My wife has also had hemorrhages from the lungs, and her sister insisted on her using the "Golden Medical Discovery." I consented to her using it, and it relieved her. She has had no symptoms of consumption for the past six years. People having this disease can take no better remedy.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

Corporation Notice.

Plainfield N. J., June 6, 1894.

The attention of all concerned is called to the following extract from an act passed by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, and approved April 4, 1894:

"That every person who shall own, keep or harbor any dogs, bitch or bitches shall have the same registered and numbered with the Clerk of the City in which the owner or person harboring the same shall reside, and shall place upon the neck of each dog or bitch kept or harbored a collar, having engraved thereon upon a metal surface, the name of the owner of said dog or bitch and the registered number thereof; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or bitch found straying off the owner's premises without such collar upon its neck.

"The person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered."

The registry book is kept at the office of the City Clerk, 109 Park avenue. Prompt compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid statute is urged.

After July 1 the provisions of this act will be enforced.

SENSATION FOR BERLIN

Serious Charges Promised in a Libel Suit.

Dr. Blum Says That Leading German Socialists Received French Money To Organize a Prussian Rebellion While Boulanger Was Minister of War—Other Foreign News.

BERLIN, June 18.—Dr. Hans Blum, the author of "The German Empire in the Times of Bismarck," now promises to give the world a sensation in his suit for libel against Ignaz Auer and William Liebknecht, social democratic deputies. For years Blum has associated with the least liberal of the liberals, despite the fact that his father was shot for his democratic principles, and has launched the bitterest tirades against both radicals and socialists. Since he published his "Lies of the Social Democrats" several years ago the feud between him and the social democratic leaders has been uninterrupted.

Within the last two weeks Blum has published in the Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten a series of articles intended to prove that, while Boulanger was war minister of France and all Germany was fearing an open rupture between the two countries, conspicuous German socialists were taking French money and were using their influence to organize rebellion in Prussia.

The social democratic plan, says Blum in his last article, was to strike at Germany's heart the moment France began threatening the frontier. Liebknecht and Auer at once published denials of Blum's story and then vilified him with all the accumulated bitterness of years. Blum retorted promptly by suing them for libel, at the same time declaring that he would prove in court the truth of his accusations.

The Vorwaerts, social democratic organ, has tried to anticipate Blum's proof by publishing an explanation of what it expects Blum to bring in evidence. It acknowledges that bribes were accepted from the French war office when Boulanger was minister, but the bribetakers, it says, were not good social democrats, but police agents hired to injure the social democratic party. The paper adds that Capt. Ehrenberg and Lieut. Trautner, who acted as spies in France, England Belgium and Switzerland during Boñlanger's time, also got large sums of French money.

Imperial International Regatta.

KIEL, June 18.—More than 200 yachts and 95 boats from warships have been entered for the Imperial International regatta in Kiel. Nine of these craft are English, nine Danish, two Swedish and one Austrian. The rest are German. Whether or not the nine Danish boats will sail in the races, is still doubtful. The expulsion of the royal Danish actors from Schleewig a week ago has caused much bad feeling in Copenhagen and the Danish newspapers are urging all Danes who entered boats for the races to show by their withdrawal that they do not care to intrude where they are not wanted.

Count Von Larisch's Nobleness.

VIENNA, June 18.—Count von Larisch, owner of the Karwin mines, where explosions occurred last week, will pay to every woman who lost her husband in the accident a pension of 40 florins yearly and to every one of her children 12 florins yearly up to its 14th year. Some 3,500 miners will be out of work for months while the mines are repairing. During this period of enforced idleness Count von Larisch will give them all half pay.

Duke Paul Frederick's Ride.

VIENNA, June 18.—Duke Paul Frederick, of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who is riding horseback from Berlin to Aleppo in the north of Syria, has just covered the way between Jerusalem and Damascus in company with his aide, Freiherr von Ranit. He will return to Berlin via Constantinople, Sofia, Belgrade, Budapest and Vienna.

Better Man Than His Father.

LONDON, June 18.—Sultan Abdul Aziz, of Morocco, in his proclamation to the people promises amnesty to persons guilty of offences against his father, but threatens most severe punishment on any one daring to resist his authority. He has ordered the summary execution of several Bedouins charged with robbing caravans.

American Furniture on Exhibition.

BERLIN, June 18.—The furniture which was bought in Chicago by the government, is now on exhibition in the Berlin museum of art and industry. It will pe sent to all the state capitals in order that the artisans of all districts may study the peculiarities of its manufacture.

Another Bullet-Proof Coat.

HAMBURG, June 18.—William Weber, a blacksmith, has invented a bullet-proof coat. At a distance of 30 paces a marksman with a regulation rifle failed to pierce it. All the bullets lodged in the coat without even starting the material on the inside.

Croker in England.

LONDON, June 18—Richard Croker was so fearful of missing the Grand Prix in Paris that as soon as he reached England he chartered a special train which brought him to London. He says he will enter three or four of Iroquois' get for the next Derby.

To Bury the Drowned Harvesters.

LONDON, June 18.—The wife of William O'Brien has given $250 to the fund to bury the harvesters drowned between Achill and Westport Wednesday, and to assist their relatives. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., has given $100 to the fund.

Christians Massacred in China.

HONG KONG, June 18.—Nine native converts at the Catholic mission Yenchau Fu, in Shangtung, have been massacred by a pagan mob. The local officials refused either protection or punishment.

Royal Thames Yacht Race.

LONDON, June 18.—The Royal Thames yacht race was won by the Britannia, which crossed the finish line four minutes and thirty-six seconds ahead of the Satanita.

Atalanta Reaches Cowes.

LONDON, June 18.—The Goulds' steam yacht Atalanta, which sailed from New York on June 8, has arrived at Cowes. All on board are well.

MERELY A PROCESSION.

Cornell Easily Wins the Eight-oar Race.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The four mile eight-osred shell race between Cornell and Pennsylvania, on the Delaware river, was won by Cornell by five lengths in 21 minutes and 12 1-2 seconds. Pennsylvania's time was 21:34 3-4.

Cornell rowed a magnificent race from start to finish, while Pennsylvania's ragged work more than off-set their strength.

The postponement of the race cast a damper upon the crowd of enthusiasts, and the attendance was comparatively small. The day was warm and the heat was tempered with a strong southwesterly wind that cut the river into choppy little seas.

The referee was to have been Robert J. Cook, the famous Yale coach, but, as Mr. Cook was compelled to go to New Haven, Thomas G. Hunter, of the university of Pennsylvania, acted in his place. The Cornell judge on the referee's boat was Charles Francis, and the timer was Benj. I. Wheeler. Pennsylvania's judge was John C. Bell and timer, C. Pemberton, jr.

R. C. Hare was Cornell's judge at the finish, and James Bond was Pennsylvania's judge.

When at last the bows of the two shells were almost upon a line Referee Hunter gave the signal and at 6:57 the two crews were off. Pennsylvania took the water first and their shell shot ahead of the Cornellians for a half a length. It was the first and last time Pennsylvania led in the race. Cornell quickly settled down to it and shot their shell after their opponents. Pennsylvania was pulling a 34 stroke to the minute and Cornell 35. The crews had not rowed twenty lengths before the evident inferiority of the Pennsylvanians was evinent. The Quakers were rowing a strong sturdy stroke that lifted the boat well through the water, but their form was very bad. On the contrary the Ithacans pulled together as if each man was a part of one machine.

A quarter of a mile from the start Cornell was even with Pennsylvania and both crews were pulling a 36 stroke. At the half mile Cornell had drawn away from Pennsylvania by half a length and their stroke had gone up to 37 while Pennsylvania was still at 36. The difference between the two crews was now more evident than ever. In the Pennsylvania shell every man seemed to be rowing on a sort of go-as-you-please plan that presented eight figures each moving at a different time. It was only the great strength of the Pennsylvanians that sent their boat along with such speed that enabled them to hang so close to Cornell.

The work of the Cornellians was beautiful to see. Every man in the boat took the short, quick stroke in rythmic unison, and the shell glided through the water with hardly the perceptible splash of an oar. From the half mile stake the race was only a question of how many lengths Cornell would win by. They gradually drew away and at the 2 1-2 mile stake were a length and a half ahead. Pennsylvania stuck doggedly to it and pulled sturdily on. The crowd of excursion boats that were following the two crews pushed close upon them and in one or two instances steamed alongside of the shells not more than fifty or sixty yards from them. Pennsylvania being in the rear was the worst sufferer, and several times their shell was violently rocked by the wash and shipped water by the close crowding steamers.

At the three mile post Cornell was 2 1-2 lengths ahead. Both crews had averaged a 36 stroke up to this time, but now Pennsylvania made its last vain effort. Coxwain Perkins threw up his hand and called to his men for a spurt. They responded and ran the stroke up to 42, but Cornell quickly increased its stroke to 40 and maintained the distance between themselves and Pennsylvania. From here on it was only a procession and Cornell crossed the line at the finish five lengths ahead of Pennsylvania.

Both crews finished strong and Cornell rowed their shell ashore and jumped out and carried it up on the beach. After the race Trainer Woodruff of the Pennsylvanians and Captain Wagonhurst said that they had no excuses to make, and that they were fairly and squarely beaten.

Pennsylvania's crew was composed of Bull, O. Wagonhurst, Hancock, Woodruff, Farrer, Marshall, Beck, J. Wagonhurst, Perkins. Cornell's, Robbins, Shope, Freeborn, Carver, Dyer, Hagan, Hall, Freeborn, Allen.

This is the third straight race that Cornell has won from Pennsylvania.

Perhaps Count Fredenburg's Bones.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., June 17.—While workmen were excavating for a mill dam at Fredenburg falls, near Plattsburg, they unearthed some human bones. There is a tradition that Count Fredenburg, who settled in this place one hundred and twenty-five years ago, and after whom Fredenburg falls was named, suddenly disappeared and never was heard of afterwards. It is surmised that these bones are those of the lost count. A thorough investigation will be made by private parties in Plattsburg to decide this matter, which is of great historic interest.

Mrs. Lockwood's Victory.

RICHMOND, Va., June 18.—Mrs. Belva Lockwood has won a signal victory in Virginia for women. For the past four years a struggle has been going on in this state to induce the legislature to pass a special act permitting women to practice law, but without success. After a long fight Mrs. Lockwood's counsel has secured a decision from the supreme court of appeals which allows her to practice the legal profession in this state. This, of course, throws open the same profession to all of her sex who can pass the examination.

Husband and Wife One.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., June 18.—The case of Mr. and Mrs. Metzer, on trial here on a charge of conspiracy to defraud Dr. Wilhelm, has been ended by the court's decision on an unique point of law raised by the defence. One person, of course, cannot be guilty of conspiracy. The defense argued that Mr. and Mrs. Metzer are husband and wife and held in law to be one person, consequently it is impossible for them to commit conspiracy. The court sustained the defence and the prisoners were discharged.

Amherst Has the Championship.

HANOVER, N. H., June 18.—Milne and Pratt of Amherst defeated Thurston and Hayes of Dartmouth, in the championship doubles in tennis, on the association courts. This gives Amherst the championship in doubles.

Ingalls May Edit.

ATCHISON, Kan., June 18.—John J. Ingalls has received an offer to become editor-in-chief of an important magazine published in New York. He will go to that city to confer with the management.

JUDGE PHELPS' DEATH

Many Telegrams of Sympathy Received.

Funeral Service to Take Place at the Englewood Presbyterian Church on Wednesday—Interment Will Be at Simsbury, Conn., the Same Day. Short Sketch of His Career.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 18.—The remains of Judge William Walter Phelps, who passed quietly away at his home here early yesterday morning, will lay in state at the family residence until Wednesday morning, when the funeral services will take place at the Presbyterian church of this place. The Rev. Harry M. Booth, of Auburn, N. Y., has been requested to officiate. The interment will be at Simsbury, Conn., the same day.

The following will be the pall bearers: William W. Bennett, of Englewood, the manager of Mr. Phelps' estate; Patrick O'Neill, A. T. Herrick, William E. Bond, Thomas R. White and Donald Mathewson.

The great love borne Mr. Phelps by the old retainers of his vast estate was evinced in many ways to-day by tokens of regret.

Scores of telegrams of sympathy have been received by the sorrowing family from many prominent persons.

William Walter Phelps was born in New York city on Aug. 24, 1839. He was a lineal descendant of William Phelps (a brother of John Phelps, Oliver Cromwell's private secretary), who came to this country and settled near Simsbury, Conn., in 1830. William Walter's grandfather represented that town in the Connecticut legislature for thirty consecutive terms.

His grandson, William Walter's father, was the first to leave Simsbury for New York, where he accumulated a large fortune in business and later organized and became president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company.

William Walter was his only son and inherited the bulk of his father's property. At an early age he was sent to Yale, where he won many honors and graduated second in his class in 1860, despite the fact for a year he was obliged by an affection of the eyes to remain out of college and for another year to give up reading. Three years after leaving Yale he graduated from Columbia law school, being the valedictorian of his class.

Entering active practice he became counsel for several prominent corporations before he was 30 years old. He was offered a judgeship by Gov. Fenton, but declined to accept the honor, and on the death of his father, in 1869, was obliged to retire from practice to assume the management of the estate.

In 1872 Mr. Phelps was elected to the United States house of representatives from the New Jersey district, where his country seat was located. He took high rank almost immediately as a debater and became noted as one of the few men to whom the house would listen. In his first term he took part in the discussion of many important questions. Together with Clarkson N. Potter and Gov. Charles Foster, he was sent by the house to New Orleans to investigate the outbreak of the white league against the Louisiana legislature, and that body was, according to an agreement between the two parties, finally organized in accordance with the committee's report.

Mr. Phelps, from the beginning of his congressional career, showed independence, and his vote against the republicans on the so-called civil rights bill, which he declared unconstitutional, cost him his re-election, he being defeated by seven votes in a district that he had carried at the previous election by 2,715. He was a warm supporter of James G. Blaine in the presidential conventions of 1876, 1880 and 1884. In the last two national conventions he was delegate-at-large from New Jersey.

In 1881 President Garfield appointed Mr. Phelps United States minister to Austria, where he proved a valuable representative. On the change of administration he tendered his resignation and retired in August, 1882. Shortly after the inauguration of President Harrison Mr. Phelps was appointed United States minister to Germany, which post he filled creditably until a change in the administration, when he returned to this country.

Upon his return from Austria Mr. Phelps was immediately re-elected to congress from his old district and served through the 48, 49th and 50th congress. His committee work required him to give much attention to foreign affairs, but he also took special interests in discussions of the tariff, the merchant marine and the congressional library.

Many of Mr. Phelp's more notable speeches have been published separately, among them being those on the franking privilege, the civil rights bill, Fitz-John Porter's case, "The Dangers of War," delivered before Gen. Grant and his cabinet at a Grand Army reunion at Paterson, N. J., and "The Dangers of Peace," delivered on Decoration day, 1886, at Mount Holly, N. J.

Mr. Phelps was a regent of the Smithsonian institution, a fellow of the corporation of Yale college, vice president of the Yale alumni association, president of the Columbia law school alumni, and one of the founders of the Union league and University clubs.

Not Guilty But Pay the Costs.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 18.—The jury in the case of the fifty-seven Stickle Hollow strikers charged with riot at Washington Run mines, returned a verdict of "not guilty, but pay the costs." The costs amount to about $800, which will be raised by friends of the prisoners, and the latter released. Two of the strikers charged with the murder of Superintendent Paddock have been found guilty. The remaining twenty-six men will be tried together instead of separately, as at first intended.

COLLIDED WITH AN ICEBERG.

Thrilling Experience of the Anchor Line Steamship Ethiopia.

GLASGOW, June 18.—The Anchor line steamship Ethiopia, just arrived from New York, having left the latter port on June 2, had a thrilling experience with an iceburg June 6. While she was steaming along in a dense fog the Ethiopia struck the iceberg with terrific force.

Everybody who was standing at the moment of impact was thrown to the floor. At first the officers feared that the vessel would not float and the captain ordered that the boats be lowered.

The excited passengers crowded up to the deck, most of the women weeping and the men asking the usual questions. The pumps were lowered just after the captain ordered down the boats, but no water was found in the hold. The order for the boats was then countermanded and something like confidence was restored among the passengers.

Soon the fog lifted. As there was little sea the crew were able to work to advantage in making temporary repairs.

A wall of bags of flour was built up near the bow. When the flour became thoroughly saturated it was almost as hard and unyielding as cement.

The crew worked for two days shifting the cargo aft so as to lift the broken part of the bow above the water.

The Ethiopia, which had been stopped for repairs, was put ahead after the worst damaged portion of her bow had peen partially closed and braced. At first she went at quarter speed, then at three-quarters, and, after passing Tory island, at full speed.

Nobody aboard the Ethiopia was injured and the cargo was not greatly damaged. Persons who saw the Ethiopia's bow, after her arrival, marvel that she was kept afloat after the collision. That the vessel was saved they think was due to the stability of her bulkheads and the intelligent management of the captain.

The passengers were so pleased with the untiring and successful efforts of the crew that they subscribed $270 for the sailors.

Says Dalton Is Alive.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A special from Perry, O. T., says: One Sanders, known as "Bitter Creek," a member of the Dalton gang, just convicted here of horse stealing and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, says he was with the Dalton gang for five years and that Bill Dalton, who was reported killed near Ardmore, I. T., is still alive. He declares that the report that he was killed was sent by a deputy marshal to get the $25,000 reward. Many men here who know Bill Dalton say the description of the dead man does not fit the noted leader.

Corner Stone Laying at Red Bank.

RED BANK, N. J., June 18.—The corner stone of St. James' Roman Catholic cathedral was laid yesterday afternoon. Fully 8,000 persons witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Archbishop Satolli, of Washington. The new cathedral when completed will have cost about $55,000. It will be of brick and stone and will be of modern architecture. St. James' parish is the oldest, in Monmouth county.

Powder Works Blow Up.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 18.—Seven hundred and twenty kegs of powder exploded yesterday at Colteway, about 15 miles from here, in the works of the Chattanooga Powder company, scattering the building and its contents for a quarter of a mile. The explosion was heard for 20 miles. It will not interfere with the work of the company, as only one building was destroyed.

Must Pay for His Fun.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., June 18.—Mrs. Laura Leavitt of New York secured a divorce here from William Leavitt and the day her decree was granted she was married at the home of her attorney to E. A. LeMouriac, a New York banker. They went at once to New York to live and the divorced husband brought suit against DeMouriac for $50,000 for alienating his wife's affections. He has just been granted a verdict of $7,000, which DeMouriac will pay.

THE END OF THE STRIKE

Expected That Operations Will Resume To-Day.

Claimed That 90 Per Cent. of the Miners Are Ready for Work—The Struggle, Which Lasted 50 Days, Will Entail a Loss of at Least $20,000,000.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—According to despatches received from various points of the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio and parts of Illinois, indications are that fully 90 per cent. of the miners returned to work this morning under the Columbus scale of wages. The talk about a disagreement seems to have faded away, notwithstanding the utterances of President Adams, of the Hocking Valley miners, where most of the discontent apparently centered.

If, as indications show, that a general resumption of work commences to-day, the supply of coal in this and other markets affected by the strike will be, within a short period, sufficient for all immediate wants.

This, the first general strike of the Miners' association, began April 21 and has continued without interruption to the present time. With an exception here and there the entire bituminous coal fields have been involved. Virginia, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois and Indiana, Iowa and a part of Missouri and Kentucky comprise the territory. The struggle was fiercest in western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. Conservative estimates place the number of men involved at 100,000. These men, according to the best obtainable information, earn on an average of $2.50 a day. The loss to the miners in wages for the, say fifty days' duration of the strike, makes the astounding total of $12,500,000.

That a number of the mine owners lost heavily is equally true, but it is more difficult to even approximate the loss. Naturally none of them will discuss their loss, though one was candid enough to say it had been heavy, and if the others similarly situated as himself lost as heavily the operators were out of pocket several million dollars.

Then again there is the cost to the state in general of maintaining order by the importation of troops and an increase of the civil forces in the several insurrectionary counties of the several states. Properly, too, the losses of manufacturing plants because of lack of fuel and those of the railroads and other locomotion must be included. This loss is represented in the increased price paid for coal, the advance being from $3.25 to $4.75 and $5 a ton. In all, then, upon the basis of an operator's figuring, the grand total loss as a result of the miners' strike for fifty days will not fall short of $20,000,000.

All Quiet in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., June 18.—Reports received here indicate a quiet day in the mining districts of the state. Gov. McKinley has issued an order calling home the Circleville, Portsmouth, Mount Sterling and Marion companies of the Fourteenth regiment.

Will Continue the Strike.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 18.—The miners of Barn Hill, Gosehen and Stone Creek have decided to remain out and continue the strike. Hundreds of miners are involved.

To Help Home Rule.

CHICAGO, June 18.—In response to an appeal from Justin McCarthy, leader of the Irish parliamentary party in the house of commons of Great Britain, prominent citizens of Chicago of Irish birth or home rule sympathies have organized a committee to obtain subscriptions to continue the parliamentary struggle for home rule. Nearly $5,000 have already been subscribed and enough more has been promised to bring the total to $10,000 before the money is sent to Mr. McCarthy.

The Crispi Assassination.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Acting Secretary of State Ed Uhl has received a cablegram from Mr. MacVeagh, United States ambassador at Rome, stating that the unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Premier Crispi was made by a carpenter who came from Bologna for the purpose. The despatch says there is no evidence that he had any accomplices, that Crispi's position is greatly strengthened and that the city is quiet.

Prendergast's Insanity Trial.

CHICAGO, June 18.—After two hours of argument Judge Payne decided that the courts had no power or authority to approve the stipulation entered into between counsel for the state and defence postponing the insanity trial of Prendergast, the murderer of Mayor Harrison, until November next and ordered that the case be peremptorily set for Wednesday morning next.

C. N. G. Encampment.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 18.—Adjutant-General Bradley issued orders for the encampment of the C. N. G. at Niantic, Conn., for eight days begining Saturday, August 11. The state will feed the troops as last year, charging the men one-half the cost, or $3.50 for the tour of duty.

Ratifies the Committee's Action.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—Seventy coal operators of the Pittsburg district met at the offices of the Coal exchange and ratified the action of their committee at the Cobus (O.) conference. They decided to start up their mills on Monday next.

Miss Pollard Sight Seeing.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., June 18.—Among the passengers who arrived here on the steamer Peerless was Miss Madeline Pollard. After sight seeing for the day she left on the City of Duluth for Chicago.

Clothing Store Destroyed by Fire.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 18.—The large clothing store of Davies & Griffin of this city was destroyed by fire at 1 o'clock a. m. yesterday. The loss is $50,000 and the insurance $45,000.

Lightning's Fatal Work.

MENOMINEE, Mich., June 18.—Three men were killed and two seriously injured by a lightning bolt at this place yesterday.

Drowned While Bathing.

BIDDEFORD, Me., June 18.—Elise Laboute, a 15-year-old French girl, was drowned here while bathing.

Eastern Forge Company Assigns.

PORTLAND, Me., June 18.—At a meeting of the directors of the Eastern Forge company, it was voted to make an assignment to President George T. Morse and Mr. Fisher, one of the directors. This step was necessitated by the hard times and the difficulty of securing coal. The plant is at East Deering and there is but one larger one in the United States. The company is capitalized as $125,000.

Furniture Company Assigns.

MILWAUKEE, June 18.—The S. A. F. Tanner Furniture company has assigned to Charles Wetzel, who filed a bond for $65,000, representing the amount of the assets. The liabilities are not known, but are said to be smaller than the assets. The assignment is attributed to the failure of Tanner & Co., furniture dealers, a few days ago.

Gold Medal for Admiral Benham.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—A handsomely designed gold medal will be presented by the Union league to Rear Admiral A. E. K. Benham in recognition of his patriotic service in the harbor of Rio Janeiro in maintaining the rights of United States merchant vessels during the Brazilian conflict.

Louisvilles Sign Pitcher Meaney.

BALTIMORE, June 18.—Manager Barnie, of the Louisville Baseball club, has signed Pitcher Meaney, of the Harrisburg, Pennsylvania State league team. Meaney, is a left-handed twirler and has won the last seventeen games in which he played. He will join the club in Pittsburg.

Died of His Injuries.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 18.—William Cammack, who was stabbed by an Italian at Wappinger's Falls on Friday night, died of his injuries last evening. The stabbing was the result of a quarrel between the two men. The murderer has not been arrested.

No News of Cholera at Hamburg.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Surgeon General Wyman, of the marine hospital service, has received no official notification of the reported outbreak of cholera at Hamburg. The latest cablegram from Hong Kong reports the plague rapidly diminishing.

Attempt at Wholesale Poisoning.

PORTLAND, Ind., June 18.—A rumor has reached here that there was an attempt at wholesale poisoning near Farmland and that Lena Healy, a school teacher, and 26 pupils were affected. Some one is supposed to have put poison in the well.

CAPITALISTS ARE BUGS AND RATS.

That's the Sentiment of This Outspoken Socialist.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Daily Press of the 4th inst. quotes with much satisfaction an article in the June number of The Forum by E. L. Godkin, in which the attempt is made to show that Socialists give no satisfactory explanation of the question "Who will pay the bills?" If The Daily Press is satisfied with Godkin's treatment of the question its editor must be very easy to please. That question is the exact question that King George put to Benjamin Franklin when Franklin suggested that the colonies might free themselves from England. He asked "Who will defend you?" On the same principle, potato bugs might ask "Do you want to remove us? How will you have potatoes unless we are there?" On the same principle rats in the granaries might ask "Do you want to kill us? How will you get corn unless we are there?" Capitalists are to the working class what potato bugs are to potatoes or rats to the granaries.

Who will pay the bills under Socialism? Why, Mr. Editor, the identical people who pay them today—the working class. The difference would be that the workers, who pay all bills, would enjoy what they pay for, whereas now they pay the piper for others to enjoy; those others are the capitalists.

The notion, Mr. Editor, that the capitalist pays anything is a superstition; it also was a superstition of some honest-minded, but misguided Tories in this country, some hundred years ago, that they needed the potato bugs of a British king, but that superstition was knocked out of them by our Revolutionary fathers, who, right here in New Jersey, hanged a lot of them for treason. The modern superstition among a good many honest-minded people is that they must have capitalist rats to eat up their substance, but that superstition is fast passing away, and the people who pay all the bills propose to do all the enjoying.

It would be a good idea, if instead of reading the false analysis of Socialism that Godkin gives, you were to read up the literature of Socialism itself. By the way, Mr. Editor, do you know who this Godkin is? He is the editor of the New York Evening Post, who says the workingman should be given the rifle diet

Now that bill—the bill the Pinkertons would present, is about the only bill that there would be no one under Socialism to pay: that is the reason Godkin and the capitalists don't want Socialism; but it will come, it is at hand, whether he wills it or not.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Martha M. Wright of East Front street, Plainfield, who delivered her essay entitled "Das Ewig Weibliche" at the Packer Institute commencement the other evening, received the highest encomiums from her friends for the efficient style in which she acquitted herself. Her clear enunciation, her keen-cut satire, and the elegance of her composition, were features which commended her, and her elocution generally carried the audience in her favor. Where all did so well, the compliment to Miss Wright is all the more handsome. Some of her classmates playfully remarked "Served her right".—Brooklyn Eagle.

Family Auction.

Martin Brennan, a respectable citizen of Dunellen, had considerable trouble with his wife yesterday. She sold two choice chickens Saturday, and appropriated the proceeds to the purchase of liquor. She became quarrelsome and attacked her son Thomas, a young man of 21, with a pitcher, breaking it over his head and causing a severe and deep wound, in which Dr. Brakeley took two stitches. The ear was cut badly. The cause of the row was the son accused her of too much drinking.

LIGHTNING LIMITED.

It Burned a Barn, But Could n't Awaken a Tired Policeman.

The part of the double house occupied by Special Policeman Dennis Carney was struck by lightning about 3:45 yesterday morning. The bolt struck the ridge of the roof, making a hole eight inches wide and six feet long.

Mr. Carney knew nothing of the event, until he was starting for church. He then happened to see some shingles lying around, which led him to investigate. Mr. Carney was the victim of the recent "White Cap" joke. Hoodoos seem to follow him.

During the heavy thunder shower yesterday morning a barn on the property occupied by Patrick Connolly, 627 West Third street, was struck by lightning, setting fire to the structure. An alarm was sent in at 5:15 from Box 45, and the Hook & Ladder, Alerts, and No. 1 Hose, responded through the driving storm. Only one line of hose, however, was needed. A portion of the roof was burned, and the damage was slight. In the barn were a horse and wagon which were removed before the department arrived.

Mr. Connolly will receive $100 insurance. The firemen were kept busy about an hour, when the flames were finally extinguished.

Sunday morning lightning struck the house of the late Mrs. Peter Randolph now occupied by Abram Van Arsdale. The wall-paper was completely torn from the wall of one room, and the carpet from the floor. Otherwise no damage was done.

A hickory tree in the Hotel Albion yard was shattered by lightning during the storm of early Sunday morning.

The rainfall was terrific, nearly 2½ inches falling. The streets were flooded, and in many cases the top of the macadam was washed away. Under the railroad bridges the water accumulated to a considerable depth, the sewers being too small and choked up with cinders. A milk wagon attempting to pass under the Park avenue bridge floated. The board walk from Rheaume's lumber yard on Fourth street floated under the Watchung avenue bridge and had to be hauled back by horses. On account of stoppage of the sewer, the rain flooded the basement and yard of the Climax Stopper Company, corner of Fourth and Washington streets, raising the coal scales from their bearings, caving in the bank, and destroying everything in the basement, the water reaching a height of 3 feet 9 inches.

Street Commissioner Meeker and Station Agent J. A. Haynes did a good thing for the public yesterday morning. The Street Commissioner had his gang of men out cleaning off the crossings of the principal streets, and Mr. Haynes had a gang of men shoveling off the great piles of mud that had accumulated on the side walks under the railroad bridges.

—A summons was issued in Justice Mosher's Court this morning in the case of Lebbeus L. Manning against Frank M. Hulett, on contract, returnable June 25. W. R. Codington represents the plaintiff.

DON'T starve yourself if you have dyspepsia, indigestion, or a weak stomach, as you cannot build up the system on a low diet, but eat generously, then take one of
Dr. Deane's
Dyspepsia Pills
immediately after meals until cured. These pills cause the flow of bile and pancreatic fluid to occur as the food leaves the stomach—nature's method; and it is wise to observe natural laws, for in this way only can we expect perfect cures. Dr. E. R. Mackey, one of New York's most celebrated physicians, and hundreds of other noted physicians, vouch for the pills. If you are constipated, get bottle with white label; otherwise with yellow. At druggists', 25 cents, or send to us for free sample.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.
TO THE PUBLIC:
For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J, and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.
TO THE PUBLIC:
I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z GRIGGS.

HORSES OUT FOR SHOW.

STYLISH RIGS IN ROW; GAY PARADE OF ROLLING BOWERS.

Beauty Queen Amid the Flowers—June Admires with Smiling Face Thoroughbreds for Prizes Pace; Silken Ribbons, Petal-Showers, in the Breezes Blow.

Forth from the chrysalis Enterprise, came the butterfly, Driving Parade, Saturday afternoon; and it was a creature so altogether lovely that Plainfield is bound to develop its culture as a permanent institution. Nature's fairest bloom gave it sweetness and beauty, and the sunshine of a perfect June day brought out the rainbow-glisten on its gauzy wings. By dainty hands it was harnessed with silken ribbons, and fair daughters of Plainfield lent their radiance and charm to increase its glory. In sinuous gracefulness it undulated through the curving driveways of the town, under the arching shade trees, past the splendid homes of wealth, past homes more modest, past the rippling brook that shimmered in the sunshine, past the daisy-spangled meadows and the woodland green. The kisses of sun and breeze gave a glow to the cheek; the brilliancy of the spectacle brought sparkle to the eye. The gay ribbons fluttered, the elves of the air plucked handfuls of petals from the roses and pelted them in soft pink showers upon the delighted people.

It was Plainfield's first venture in this charming line of recreation, but success was a preliminary presumption most happily fulfilled. And why not? Success is certain, when the engineers are such men as brought this most happy diversion into being. Success is sure, when the fashion and wealth and culture of the town join in such a cause. This the first Driving Parade was a melody of refinement. The next to come will be a poem even more nearly perfect. Let it be soon!

A pleasure to be in such parade, to form a part of so great a harmony, to feel the exquisite intoxication of the scent of flowers, the poetry of motion engendered by such magnificent equine specimens, to greet and be greeted by one's happy friends, to strive for laurels in the friendly contest. A pleasure to be among the populace gazing on it all. The flowers, the gowns, the appointments, the personality, were the realization of a dream. Seeing it once, no one was content, but raced and chased hither and thither to some other point of view to drink in the beauties anew. Nature wept when it was ended; her sunny eye dimmed, and a gush of soft tears poured forth, as of a boy transcendantly happy through the feast and blubbering when his cake is gone.

The start was made at 4 from Crescent avenue and Seventh street. The route prepared was followed with one exception. By a mistake the procession went through Westervelt avenue to Front street instead of through Sandford avenue. Marshal S. St. J. McCutchen headed the line and the parade through his aides, T. J. VanBoskerck, O. G. Waring, Gifford Cooley, W. T. Kaufman, J. N. Moore, H. F. Johnson, L. E. Waring, S. H. Patterson, J. P. Munn, S. A. Crulkshank, J. C. Gilbert, W. J. Roome and George C. Evans. The plans carried out were those of Committeemen J. W. Reinhart, George C. Evans, J. W. Johnson, James P. McQuaide, O. T. Waring, T. J. VanBoskerck, F. A. Barnaby, William J. Roome and E. M. VanBuren.

The equestrians who rode before the coaches were: D S Ginna on a bright sorrel; T W Wicks of Brooklyn on a black horse; George C Evans on a black cob and Mrs Evans on a roan bob; W J Roome and Mrs Roome on black horses; C W McCutchen on a white trained mustang; Mrs Wm. L. Saunders on a bay; George T VanBoskerck on a hackney brown raised by W S Webb; Miss Margaret Holly on her father's sorrel, "Judge"; A G Henderson on a large bay; Miss Henderson on a gray; A W Haviland on a bay horse; and Miss May Holly on a bay hunter.

The leader of the coaching was J. W. Reinhart with his four-in-hand brake, undecorated. With him rode Mrs. Reinhart and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Knowles of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Stella Gregory of St. Louis. The wheelers were a bay and a gray; and the leaders two chestnuts.

W. P. Stevenson's spike team was composed of a gray leader and bay wheelers. The brake was a handsome one of black with red frimmings. Mr. Stevenson drove with a party of young people from Roselle.

William Palmer Smith exhibited what the judges decided to be the most stylish and best appointed rig. The dark olive cart was drawn by a tandem, bays. Bunches of violets tied with violet ribbons on the harness and the cart were striking ornamentations. He adopted his wife's favorite color for the parade. Mr. Smith drove with his coachman.

Thomas B. Penton, Jr., drove his sorrel tandem, leader "Harry" and wheeler "Dick", to an antique oak cart. He was accompanied by his coachman, who took first prize for appointment.

A. C. Vail was the driver of a stylish tandem. The leader was a sorrel and the wheeler a white. The decorations consisted of palms, smilax and roses. Miss Carrie Vail rode with her father.

F. A. Barnaby's cabriolet was driven by his coachman. Mrs. Barnaby and Miss Gertrude Walz rode in it. The horses were two handsome bays, "Diamond" and "Frank".

Edward M. VanBuren was the whip in J. W. Reinhart's hunting trap. It was not decorated. Miss Reinhart rode with Mr. VanBuren. The horses were a pair of dark browns.

Walter S. Force of Fanwood was in the parade with his two-horse trap. Mrs. Force sat beside him. The horses were stylish blacks, "Rocket" and "Bennie". The trap was black with blue running gear. It was decorated with buttercups and yellow and blue ribbons.

Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart guided her team of bay ponies harnessed to a four wheeled pony cart. In the cart with her were Miss Constance Knowles and Clarence Knowles, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. The rig was handsomely decorated with daisies and with white and yellow ribbon, two arches of the flowers crossing in the centre.

Miss May Evans drove her spider phæton with Hardy Wharton. The body of the vehicle was black and the running gear red. Two seal brown horses made up the team.

F. A. Barnaby was the whip in his maroon Tyrolean trap. Fred Walz was with him. The horses were a brown, "Brownie", and a gray, "Graylock".

J. P. McQuaide drove with Mrs. McQuaide, Miss Murphy, Miss McQuaide and Mrs. Park of Philadelphia. The black trap with red running gear was decorated in red and white, the gowns of the women matching. The spokes were wrapped with white and tied with bright red ribbons. White and red roses beautified the body. The horses were a team of sorrels.

Pliny Fisk's game trap carried off first prize for decorations. The spokes and felloes were covered with large pink peonies. The body and the shafts were adorned with pink and white sweet peas. An arch of pink peonies tied with pink ribbon was between the seats of the trap. Miss Bowers rode with Mr. Fisk.

J. W. Johnson drove a team of blacks to his black Kensington. Mrs. Johnson sat beside him. Pink roses and ribbons were used in decorating.

Mrs. S. A. Crulkshank was the driver of a pair of Cleveland bays, harnessed to a black trap with red gear. Charles A. Lummis. Miss Lila Crulkshank and Miss Ethel Opdyke accompanied her. Yale blue ribbons were the ornaments, the reins and other parts of the harness being covered.

C. W. McCutchen's victoria was driven by his coachman. Miss Margaret McCutchen and Miss Dorothea Wells rode. Pink roses and smilax were prettily arranged as trimmings. The horses were two bays, "Tramp" and "Gypsy".

A. A. Drake and Mrs. Drake of Westfield were in a high black trap with Mrs. Wiggs of the same place. The coachman drove. The horses were Mr. Drake's "Queen Bess" and "Topsy".

Miss Helen Drake followed in her light pony trap with Miss Sergeant of Westfield. The ponies were small brown Shetlands, "Teddie" and "Dorothy". The team attracted much attention because of its size and style.

Charles W. Hogan's blue trap was driven by Mrs. Hogan. James T. Scott rode with her. The horses were two fine sorrels, "Mascot" and "Hoodoo".

Mrs. J. Parker Mason exhibited an olive green trap. R. L. Colburn accompanied her. The horse, "Punch", was a bay. The trap was trimmed with pink roses and ribbons and branches of smoke tree.

F. A. Barnaby's coachman showed the paces of a sorrel hackney, "Puck". The vehicle was a Tilbury cart with black body and red running gear.

C. L. Lutkins paraded with a high stepping roan with white collar hitched to a dark Bellamy trap with red wheels. Mrs. Lutkins rode with him.

Mrs. A. G. Fisk's rig was driven by A. D. Shepard, Jr., with Miss Coe. The trap was black with blue trimmings and was adorned with pink poppies and ribbons. The horse was a dark bay cob.

Miss Katherine Reinhart drove in her one horse trap with Miss Florence Waring. The horse was a gray. The decorations were of pink and white peonies, twined with pink ribbon.

Townsend Rushmore did the parade in a black buggy behind a black horse. Miss Ackerman rode beside him. The carriage was decked with daises.

Harvey Fisk was in the line with his bay pony, "Chief". Charles W. Fisk was in the cart with him. The decorations were of pink and white roses and evergreens and daisies. A floral canopy top had been arranged.

Augustus B. Fisk's pony was a white, "Daisy". Daniel Runkle was his companion. The oak cart was covered with blue and white ribbons twined in stripes.

Charles T. Nightingale, Jr., was in a black cart drawn by his black pony "Jim". Miss Bessie Cornwell drove. The cart was decorated with daisies.

A. D. Shepard's dark bay pony, "Debs", was driven to a black trap by Miss Daisy Shepard. O. W. Bright of New York rode with her. The trap was adorned with geraniums with ribbons to match.

W. P. Smith's black and red pony cart was driven by Miss Georgianna Smith. Lawrence and Willie Smith sat behind. The pony was a dark bay, "Foxy". The decorations were pink satin ribbons, smilax and pink roses. Miss Smith's hat was trimmed to match, and her gown of white muslin was embroidered with rosebuds. The boys wore sailor suits.

Little Miss Angela Brady was in a black cart with light wheels, behind a cute black pony. Daisies and green foliage formed the decorations.

Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen rode with little Miss McCutchen in a black cart trimmed with honeysuckle and daisies. It was drawn by a very pretty dark brown hackney pony.

Roy T. Phillips shared his pony cart with Misses Margery and Bessie Phillips. The cart was surmounted by an arched canopy of daisies. The pony was a black, "Punch".

The donkey rig entered by Carney Brothers attracted as much attention as any in the line. Little Miss Carney drove with six others in an Irish jaunting car which was covered with flags and daisies. The donkey gave out on Jackson avenue near Westervelt, the pace being too hot, but a short cut was taken across town and the rig came in at the finish. Those in the cart were Misses Maude and Addie Carney and Bertha Neely and Andrew Carney, Jr., Leo Kenney and John Carney, Jr.

A. D. Shepard's black opera buss was driven by his coachman. The horses were a team of seal browns. In the carriage were Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. W. P. Smith, and Mrs. Pierre Mali.

Mason W. Tyler's Glens Falls buckboard was one of the showiest rigs in the procession. It was covered with white and bright yellow tissue paper fringe. Mr. Tyler drove with Mrs. Tyler. the Misses Stewart and Miss Maude VanBoskerck.

Charles J. Fisk's one-horse excursion wagon was driven by Theodore H. Banks. In the wagon were also Miss Louisa G. Fisk, Miss Fanny Cox, Miss Ethel B. Bowers, Miss Helen Talmage, Miss Ethel VanBoskerck, Arthur Talmage and Reeve Stockton. The decorations were very elaborate. The wheels were filled in with blue flowers, the red felloes alone showing through. The body was a mass of white peonies and green foliage.

C. T. Waring's light surrey was decorated with orange and black, the colors of Princeton. Mr. Waring drove two dark bays. With him were Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Miss Tyler and Miss Waring.

J. M. Bettman drove a team of bays to a black surrey decorated with daisies. Mrs. Bettman and Mr. and Mrs. H. Moore were in the carriage.

John T. Baker entered the parade with his black phæton decorated with daisies and yellow ribbons. The horses were two bays. Mrs. Baker, Miss Gertrude Baker and Whitney Baker were in the carriage.

William J. Roome's black team was driven by B. A. Hegeman, Jr. With him in the surrey were Mrs. Hegeman and Mrs. Brewster.

George W. Spring of Fanwood was the driver of a rig entered by Walter S. Force. It was a Brewster buggy with red running gear, drawn by a chestnut mare, "Blanche".

Charles J. Fisk's one-man road wagon, black, with red gear, was driven by his coachman. The horses were a sorrel, "Dick" and a bay, "Tom".

Miss Grace L. Day of Randolph road paraded in a pony surrey, driving her sorrel pony. The Misses Fish rode with her. The vehicle was trimmed with red, white and blue.

Burritt Shepard handled the reins over a dark chestnut, "Hunter", owned by A. D. Shepard. Miss Talmage of Netherwood sat beside him in the road wagon. The decorations were of honeysuckle and yellow and black ribbons.

Laurens VanBuren drove a black to E. M. VanBuren's buckboard. L. G. Timpson rode with him. The vehicle was ornamented with daisies and trimmed with yellow and white ribbons.

T. F. Sykes of Fanwood rode in his runabout with Mrs. John Doull Miller behind a bay cob. The decorations were very striking, green foliage tied with scarlet ribbon.

Robert Finch's black park phæton was drawn by a team of bay horses. Mr. Finch drove with Miss Lulu Holly.

Pierre J. Smith's coachman drove a prize winning team of browns to a buggy with red gear, decorated with daisies and red ribbons.

D. S. Ginna's black park phæton was drawn by two dark brown horses. It was trimmed with daisies and smilax Mrs. Ginna and Miss Ginna rode.

The judges, Alexander Gilbert, Augustus D. Shepard, C. C. Burke, J. B. Dumont and William L. Saunders, awarded prizes as follows:

The handsomest decorated carriage of any description: First, Pliny Fisk's game trap. Second, John T. Baker's phæton. Third, Mason W. Tyler's buckboard.

The best matched pair of horses: First, Pierre J. Smith. Second, C. W. McCutchen. Third, Charles J. Fisk.

The most stylish and best appointed rig of any description: First, W. P. Smith's tandem and cart. Second, W. P. Stevenson's three horse brake. Third, Miss May Evans's team and spider phæton.

The best groomed horse or horses entered by any one person: First, A. C. Vail's tandem. Second, Thomas B. Penton, Jr's., tandem. Third, S. A. Crulkshank's team.

The best appointed coachman: First, Thomas B. Penton, Jr. Second, W. P. Smith. Third, Charles J. Fisk.

The best pony rig: First, W. P. Smith. Second, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart. Third, Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen.

The best all around saddle horse owned by rider: First, T. W. Wicks, Brooklyn. Second, C. W. McCutchen. Third, Harry Johnson.

The best woman rider, appointment to count: First, Miss May Holly. Second, Mrs. W. L. Saunders. Third, Miss Henderson.

The committee made special mention of the coachmen of J. W. Reinhart's brake and F. A. Barnaby's trap, and would have awarded them prizes had they been in competition.

The prizes were rosettes: First, blue; second, red; and third, yellow. Charles J. Fisk returned his prizes as he thought he might be considered one of the committee.

The committee whose names were appended to the invitation to participate, and who had sixteen entries of various classes in the demonstrations, did not join in competition for prizes of any kind.

The newspapers were courteously accorded the unrestricted use of a landau, by thoughtfulness of the committee.

A thunder shower began just as the parade ended at the Country Club, driving participants and spectators to shelter.

An informal dance in the club-house ended the day.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Pleasant observance of the fourth anniversary of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of Trinity Church was enjoyed last evening by the members and friends. Concert recitation from memory of the Ten Commandments and the 23d Psalm were followed by spirited singing of Endeavor hymns. Recitations were given by Miss May Williams and Miss Minnie Wyman, and an exercise was creditably given by the following: Laura Wikoff, leader, Ashiah Holmes, Eva Dunavan, Lucy Smith, Bessie Wilson, May Williams, Martha Anthony, Evyline Berg. Recitation by May Williams, "Little Ray's Prayer". Recitation by Minnie Wyman, "The Silver Plate". Carmon Sutphen, George Reynolds, Willie Swan, Clarence Swan, Clarence Rittenhouse, Henry Wyman, David Wikoff, Fred Dunlap, Fred Dunavan.

During the offertory B. F. LaVere played a cornet solo, accompanied by A. L. Titsworth on the organ. The intense heat compelled Rev. Mr. Schenck to condense a very interesting address to the Juniors on the "Endeavor" of a Christian Endeavor. He closed his address by paying a just tribute to the labors and success of Mrs. R. A. Meeker, superintendent of the society, which now numbers nearly 50 members. The secretary, Miss A. Holmes, read a report of the society for the past year, and Charles Dolliver, the treasurer, sent his report, which was also read. William Swalm, the treasurer of the missionary funds, reported an expenditure of $26 in his department. The work is in a most gratifying condition.

OLD ONE-HORN.

Another Chapter in the History of Plainfield's Famous Cannon.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE WESTFIELD STANDARD:—Attracted by the correspondence about your old one horn gun, I beg to say that I have arrived at the truth concerning its history.

In June 1861 the first batch of Confederates, prisoners of war, arrived in New Yord harbor and were hurriedly sent to quarters on Bedloe's Island. At that time the government sent 16 Dahlgreen guns to the harbor defence committee, and four of them were mounted on Bedloe's Island, while the 30 or 40 old iron cannons were carted over to Jersey City. They lay on the docks there for several years but eventually disappeared one by one. And this one appears to have found its way inland as far as your town. Plainfield stole it in 1872. L. F. DORRANCE.

The Jury 11 to 1.

The case of Thomas against Sage was tried in Justice Crosley's Court Saturday. Thomas worked for Sage on his farm in Union Village, and one day last Winter while running a corn sheller his hand was caught, severing two fingers.

Lawyer H. O. Hance represented Sage, and Lawyer W. S. Angleman appeared for Thomas. The case was handled in a very able manner, and the plaintiff's lawyer praised the excellent manner in which the defendant's counsel presented the facts. The jury disagreed, standing 11 to 1 for Thomas, and in consequence a new trial will be necessary.

Gifted Teacher and Accomplished Pupils.

A large and delighted audience attended the closing exercises of Mrs. Edmund Waldorf's elocution class in High School Association Hall Saturday night. The emotive gestures in Greek costune were all encored, and the recital of Mrs. Waldorf herself was a masterpiece which demanded another encore. "How Ruby Played", by Miss Lilian Hunt, was greatly appreciated. Altogether the exhibition was a most creditable production, showing how competent and thorough is Mrs. Waldorf and how apt were her pupils. She and her class were warmly congratulated.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut, this nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies, is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The new organ of the new Cranford Presbyterian Church will be given its inaugural recital tonight.

George Hoskins, for three years choirmaster and organist of Grace Church, Jersey City, has been engaged to fill the same position in Holy Cross Church, this city, and took charge of the music yesterday.

It costs noth'ng to get in, and no one will be asked to spend more than $5. at the bazar of the Church of Our Saviour, at the home of W. P. Smith, Belvidere road, Wednesday, June 20, from 4 to 10. It will be a delightful event.

The Cranford Presbyterian Church will be dedicated tomorrow evening. Dr. John Hall will preach the sermon, Rev. N. W. Cadwell will offer the invocation, Rev. Dr. McNulty will read the Scripture lesson, Rev. Dr. Kempshall will offer prayer, Rev. Mr. Whitaker of Orange will offer the prayer of dedication, and Rev. Dr. Rankin will offer the benediction. Mr. Whitaker was the pastor of General George B McClellan.

The Thorn-Thorn Wedding.

[Rahway Correspondence of The Elizabeth Journal.]

Miss Nellie B. Thorn, daughter of Thompson Thorn, Esq., of Hazelton avenue, was married to Alfred B. Thorn of Plainfield Thursday evening at 5. It was a home wedding, and a fine one, too. Rev. H. M. Lowry, pastor of the First Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Yerkes of Plainfield, officiated. The bride (a blonde) looked charming. She wore a white China silk, trimmed with moire and lace. She carried a bouquet of tea roses. The bridemaids were Miss Nettie Thorn of Plainfield, sister of the groom, and Miss Ida Thorn of Rahway, sister of the bride. After congratulations a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Thorn were the recipients of a number of beautiful presents. They left shortly before 8 on their bridal tour, but not without being showered with rice. Their trip will be a Southern one. On their return trip they will make their home at Plainfield. Among the guests at the wedding were: Mr and Mrs William Mershon and daughter Lottie, Editor H B Bollison and wife, Mr and Mrs E A Campen, Mr and Mrs George C Miller, Charles Howard, Mrs E St Clair Moore, Mr and Mrs Linton B Thorn, Lewis Thorn, Frank Thorn, E M Slater and wife, Miss Hattie Clarkson and others from this city, and from Plainfield: Charles Brown and wife, Irving Brown, and the father and mother of the groom.

THE WORK IN CONGRESS

Struggle for Priority Probable in the House.

Several Measures of More or Less General Importance To Come Up To-Day—Rapid Progress Expected on Tariff Bill—But Two Schedules Before the Free List is Reached.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Now that the appropriation bills, except that providing for general deficiencies are all out of the way, the house is likely to be precipitated into something of a struggle for priority of consideration of a number of measures of more or less general importance. The contest may not take place in open sessions of the house, although that is probable, but may be fought out before the committee on rules.

The first struggle is promised for to-day, when Mr. Hatch (dem., Mo.), chairman of the committee on agriculture, will ask the house to take up his anti-option bill. The measure is materially different from the one he formerly championed, but the general purport is the same. It will be opposed by the representatives from the large cities and their vicinities, but it is believed that a majority of the house favor the principle of the bill. The author hopes that debate on it will not extend over two days; if there should be difficulty experienced in bringing it to a close, the power of the committee on rules will be invoked so that it will burden the calendar no longer than Wednesday at the furthest.

Then Mr. Joseph (dem., N. M.) will bring forward his bill to admit the territory of New Mexico to statehood. This will be antagonized, it is supposed, by the republicans, probably without avail.

After these two bills are out of the way it is thought the general deficiency bill will be put upon its passage. It will be reported to the house, it is understood, to-morrow, but should it not be taken up Mr. Cooper (dem., Ind.) stands ready to urge his bill providing for the taxation of greenbacks the same as gold and silver are taxed, which has been favorably reported from the committee on banking and currency. And the friends of the bill providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people are earnestly pressing the house managers for a day on which that measure may be given the right of way. The majority members of the committee on rules are understood to favor the consideration of the above named bills in the order given.

Senate.

The democratic managers look forward to the coming week in the senate with confidence; the republicans are, outwardly, indifferent. Mr. Harris, the parliamentarian in charge of the skirmish line in the great contest, declares that when next Saturday comes the tariff bill will be out of committee of the whole and Mr. Aldrich, the republican leader, admits that the outlook is favorable to rapid progress. Both of these declarations coming from opposing leaders appears to justify the conclusion that the end is approaching nevertheless, in those portions of the bill which have yet to be acted upon, there is much that must cause debate.

But two schedules remain before the free list is reached. They are paper and sundries. But little debate is expected on either.

Although no positive announcement has been made it is believed, as indicated in these dispatches more than a week ago, that the democrats would be willing to recede from all their proposed amendments to the administrative feature of the bill if by so doing they can shorten the time for debate. Inasmuch as 49 pages are devoted to this subject and the amendments are numerous, it is obvious that debate would be very materially shortened by letting the McKinley administrative bill stand unamended.

The remaining bone of contention in the majority party is the income tax and this will cause some lively debate, although it may not be protracted.

CHAPTER IX.

Until they were past the ford that marked Ridgeley's boundary line, Allen Fauntleroy sat silent, leaning in his corner of the carriage. Hawkins spoke once or twice, but getting no answer relapsed likewise into silence.

When they had splashed through the swift stream, still flush and palely turbid, Fauntleroy said, drawing a long breath:

"I could not hear it upon his ground, but now in heaven's name tell me what all this means."

"Seems to me a matter of names, Fauntleroy versus Overton — Overton versus Fauntleroy," Hawkins said, folding his arms and sticking his chin in the air.

The other looked at him impatiently and said very low:

"Don't fence, Hawkins. The time for that is past. Tell me now, on your honor, the whole cause of grievance that old man cherishes."

"Why didn't you ask him? You had time enough. But I reckon you were so struck with the girl you forgot everything else. 'Pon my life, Fauntleroy, you must have rushed things. It is not quite common to find a fellow proposing formally to a young woman he has known not quite 24 hours. But if you could make the riffle there—run away with the girl—what a card it would be for our side! She's the major's sole heir, and with her thus well in hand the syndicate would grab at the property at our own figure."

For answer Fauntleroy called to the driver: "Stop! Open the door!"

"What's wrong?" asked Hawkins impatiently as the man clambered down from his seat.

"Nothing," said Fauntleroy, "only I refuse to ride with a man who gives me insult in place of information."

"You are a touchy one," the lawyer retorted, banging to the door. "Go on, Dick. I'll give this young man what he wants."

"Very well, but be a little careful how you do it," his client retorted, sinking back upon his cushions so as to look the other full in the face. Hawkins shifted a trifle under the scrutiny, but said:

"You are an odd fish, Allen—nearly as odd as the old one back there," nodding behind them "You know I warned you against going there—as yourself, that is. If the old man hadn't known who you were, I'm persuaded you would easily have got into his good graces, enough so maybe to induce him to listen to reason. You see, you are to him not merely the heir and agent of the Fauntleroys. There's a heap more that you, that almost nobody knows."

"Why was I not told?" the young man asked sternly. The other laughed disagreeably, saying:

"Well, now, it's a bit awkward to say to a fellow in plain English, 'Your father was a thorough paced scoundrel.' But that's the frozen fact of the case."

"How did he prove it?" The tone was even, but Hawkins saw that the other's eyes had begun to blaze. He drew a little more away before he said:

"It's a long story. Did you never hear how he died?"

"He was drowned before he was 30, five years after I was born—at least that is what I have been told and believe."

"Correct, not a doubt of it. In fact, I saw it myself, and somebody else was drowned with him. Can you guess who it was?'

"No. Not my mother?"

"Not by a long shot. She went mad at your birth and spent the rest of her life—10 years—in a lunatic asylum. I don't think Peyton, your father, ever cared much for her or she for him if the truth were told. The old folks made the match. So it isn't astonishing that after her misfortune the sight of him set her fairly wild. So he put her wholly out of his mind and went the pace. I tell you I was a lad in those days, but remember well how he opened people's eyes. He drank his company blind, yet went away with head in air, bet high and nearly always won. While as for women, they ran after him until I wonder he didn't despise the whole sex.

"One winter he went to Alabama and there met Margaret Overton"——

"The major's daughter?" Allen cried, in spite of himself. The other went on:

"Yes, the major's daughter, as like him as two peas and the very apple of his eye. Folk that knew him well said in those days that his Peggy—his 'Pretty Peggy' he called her—was the one thing in the world he put before the claim. How he ever agreed she should stay a whole winter away from him is one of the mysteries, but he did agree to trust her in care of her mother's sister, who was a matchmaker and a fool. When Peyton Fauntleroy came, she thought here was her chance to make an end of the feud. She let Margaret believe he was a widower until the girl was mad with love for him and he more than lunatic over her. Then my lady wrote to her brother-in-law circumstantially the state of affairs; also that it was his Christian duty to see that Peyton divorced his wife and married Margaret. When the letter was past recall, she got frightened and told Peyton what she had done. He did what anybody who knew him would surely have expected—told Margaret of his love, his despair, and persuaded her to run away with him. He would take her to New Orleans, to France, where nothing, nobody, could separate them, and make her life all one long happy dream.

"So at least the aunt told us when we got there, your uncle and I. I was his clerk at 15. Major Overton had let us know what was in the wind. I remember now how he looked stepping into the office with that woman's letter in his hand. Though we set off at once, somehow he got ahead of us and had been three hours on the trail of the elopers before we got to their starting point. We pushed after at our best speed, but that was mighty slow. It was February, had been raining a week, and all the world was a quagmire. Your Uncle Allen was a hunchback. Peyton threw him in one of their boyish scuffles and hurt his spine, but he was a fine man, a fine rider for all that. We got ahead at a sort of snail's gallop, and I remember thinking that he looked as hurt and miserable as did Major Overton.

"Presently we began hearing of our couple. Peyton had a team that even those roads could not stall, but in one place the trap upset; in another a broken strap delayed them. They were heading for the railway station, 50 miles off as the road ran, but less than 30 if once you got across the river, up whose bank we were riding. But crossing for a sane man was out of the question. The stream was bankful and running like a mill race. Higher up the waters had run out a trifle; besides a considerable affluent must be reckoned with half way.

"Yet we did not think even Peyton would tempt fate in such fashion, even though he knew who was hard on his track. We had ridden 20 miles or more when we caught sight of the major and heard him give next minute a wild, strangling shout.

"The road ran straight and level for a mile in front of him. Half way a track ran down from it to a ford, passable at low water, and into this Peyton Fauntleroy was madly urging his tired horses. He must have known the water was swimming. I think he reckoned that the team would take him half way over, and from there he could carry Margaret safe to the other bank. It was just a bare chance, but I am sure he chose it—the risk, I mean—with full knowledge, in preference to the certainty of losing her forever.

"First he brought Margaret to us quite dead."

"He sent the horses so slowly down to the water that we, all his pursuers, were in hailing distance as they struck the stream. We shouted to him to stop. We had as well called to the wind. I saw what the slowing up meant. He wanted the horses to be well breathed when they lost their footing in the water. They had long ago thrown out their little luggage—everything, in fact, that was movable—to lighten the load. I tell you it was a sight to see that tall, handsome fellow, with such a flower face beside him, drive down so quickly and carefully into the raging torrent.

"The beasts took it gallantly. When they lost their feet, after one snort they swam beautifully for the other side, taking the current quartering so that the buggy did not upset. But for accident they must have got over safe. Indeed they were more than midstream when a big drift log shot down upon them and sent all to the bottom, the horses madly plunging, their master clinging to the last to the girl he had brought to her death.

"Before we could stop him Major Overton was in the water. I never saw such a swimmer. First he brought Margaret to us quite dead, but with the happiest smile on her face. When he laid Peyton at our feet, we saw how it happened. He had the print of a hoof in the right temple. Major Overton looked at the two of them—oh, such a look!—and said in gasps to your uncle: 'Remember—please—there has been—an—accident. My daughter—will remain—for awhile longer—with—her aunt.'

"With that he dropped senseless, but your uncle saw to it that things should be as he said. They had great respect for each other after that, those two men, though they never spoke again. In fact, if your uncle had lived, I think the claim would have been settled years ago, but he died in six months, leaving everything to you."

"The claim. Oh, it is settled now and forever," young Fauntleroy said, sinking back with a long, shivering sigh.

enables the more advanced and Conservative Surgeons of to-day to cure many diseases without cutting, which were formerly regarded as incurable without resort to the knife. RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy Trusses can be thrown away! TUMORS, Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others are now removed without the perils of cutting operations. PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife. STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

PENDING FOR 25 YEARS

The Close of a Sensational Will Contest.

The $100,000 Savings of Cynthia Hesdra, an Old Colored Washwoman, Causes Considerable Litigation—Two of the Litigants Die Before a Settlement Is Reached.

NEW YORK, June 19.—One of the most sensational and remarkable will contests, after considerable bitter litigation, has now reached a climax, and will be settled to the ostensible satisfaction of all parties concerned as claimants and litigants at the law office of Henry C. De Witt, within a few days.

From the affidavits or papers in this case it appears that over 25 years ago Cynthia Hesdra, with her husband, Edward Hesdra, both colored people and slaves of a planter in Virginia, came to this city after the war, with a sum of money given to them by their former master. Cynthia secured quarters in Thompson street and began to take in family washing. It was not long before Cydthia's industry had for her a bank account. Then she invested some money in real estate, and at the time of her death, which occurred in 1879 she was estimated to be worth at least $100,000.

It was found after her death that the formality of making a will had not been gone through, and, accordingly, her husband took possession of all the property.

Hesdra had no more than made application for letters of administration before Surrogate Calvin, of this city, when a petition suit was filed against him before the surrogate, at the instance of two sisters, several nieces and nephews of Cynthia Hesdra, who claimed their share of the washerwoman's property as lawful heirs.

The petition proceedings had been pending for some time when an arrangement was decided upon by which the alleged heirs agreed to concede to Hesdra one-sixth of the entire property as his share. The papers were drawn up and all made ready for the signatures, when one claimant stubbornly refused to sign the document.

Just at this juncture, and to the utter amazement of all the claimants, Edward Hesdra appeared in court and presented what he said was a will made by Cynthia, leaving her entire property to her husband.

The sisters, nieces and nephews of Cynthia at once declared their intention of showing this will to be a forgery. Notwithstanding action was taken to this end Surrogate Galvin received the will and admitted it to probate.

The alleged heirs next applied to the general term of the supreme court to have the surrogate's action on this will set aside. This resulted in the decision of the surrogate being reversed and a new trial on the validity of the will to be before a jury. This jury, curiously enough, also pronounced the will genuine. The strain of this contest made Hesdra so sick that he took to his bed at Nyack and died.

When Amanda Foldoff appeared to administer, the question was raised as to whether she could establish any claim to blood relationship. She declared she could, and depended upon the widow of Solomon Hesdra to appear in court and swear she had given birth to her.

A few days before the time for the foster mother to appear in court she was taken ill and died. It was alleged that before Hesdra expired he had signified a desire to divide up all the property among the relatives of his wife to obliterate past differences, but Amanda Foldoff, who was constantly at his bedside, influenced Hesdra's action to this end. She had taken full possession of the property at Hesdra's death, collected rents and supervised in general.

The terms of the settlement of the will have not yet been made public.

Jury Drawn in the Halliday Case.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 19.—The trial of Mrs. Lizzie Halliday, the Burlingham, Sullivan county, murderess, was begun here before a special term of the court of oyer and terminer, Judge Edwards presiding. The peculiarity of her case has tended to draw a large number of people from other places to witness the trial. The actions of her counsel, George H. Carpenter, of Liberty, evince a design to rest the case on the plea of insanity. The district-attorney, however, believes that he has evidence which will controvert any such plea and prove this a case of murderous perversity. She is very taciturn, refusing absolutely to say anything to any one. The prisoner is very pale from her long confinement, but the jail physician says she is in good physical condition. All about the floor of the cell were strewn story books and magazines, in which she has seemed to take special delight when alone. After some sparring by counsel, a complete jury was empaneled at 6:30 last evening.

The Abattoir Fire.

JERSEY CITY, June 19.—Simon H. Smith, superintendent of the Abattoir, says the company will rebuild immediately upon an enlarged plan with improved machinery and adequate protection from fire. He said the Central stock yard and Transit company lost $600,000. The total Abattoir losses foot up $801,000, irrespective of outside losses. The insurance foot up $437,000, distributed among 60 companies. This does not include the Pennsylvania Railroad company's insurance.

Violation of Contract Labor Law.

TRENTON, N. J., June 19.—District Attorney White has begun suit in the federal court to recover $1,000 penalty from the Peerless Plush company, of Paterson, for alleged violation of the alien contract law. Emile Reidel, the foreman of the plush factory, was imported from Germany lately, and fellow workmen objected to this way of filling places in the factory. They made it known to the authorities.

For Representatives' Widows.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The general deficiency bill, just reported to the house, contains a provision appropriating $5,000 each (or one year's congressional salary) to the widows of deceased Representatives Mutchler (Penn.), Enochs (O.), Chipman (Mich.), Houk (O.) and Brattan (Md.), and to the nieces of the late Representative O'Neil, of Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, June 19.—In the great international shooting of Schuetzen at Mainz, Germany, Gus Zimmerman, champion sharp shooter of the New York Independent Schuetzen, carried away the first prize at the opening of the tournament.

DELAY MAY SAVE EZETA.

Efforts Made in Behalf of Salvador's Refugee General.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Neither the state department nor Mr. Romero, the Mexican minister in Washington, has yet received the slightest confirmation by wire or mail of the statement sent out from Mexico City that President Diaz had acceded to the request of Don Carlos Ezeta, ex-president of Salvador, and had interceded with President Cleveland in behalf of his brother, Gen. Antonio Ezeta, now a refugee on board the United States man-of-war Bennington, and whose surrender to the properly constituted authorities of Salvador, it is understood, has been directed by President Cleveland under certain conditions. Those conditions, as already mentioned in these despatches, were that there shall first be established a permanent, recognized government in Salvador, and, secondly, that guarantees shall be given that Gen. Ezeta and his fellow refugees shall receive a fair and impartial trial by a legally organized tribunal.

Both the United States and the republic of Mexico are on record as opposed to foreign intervention in the domestic affairs of nations. When the unfortunate Mexican emperor, Maximilian, was betrayed into the hands of the republican general, Escobedo, President Juarez's general-in-chief, the emperor of Austria asked the intervention of President Johnson in his brother's behalf. Mr. Seward, then secretary of state, transmitted that despatch to President Juarez in San Luis Potosi with this significant comment:

"While the United States is willing to express the hope that the republic of Mexico may find it consistent with public policy to comply with this request and to extend clemency to the Archduke Maximilian, it at the same time desires distinctly to assure the government of Mexico that, if a contrary policy should be deemed necessary for the peace and welfare of the country, no complications with European powers need be apprehended therefrom."

This despatch sealed Maximilian's death warrant. The only pretext upon which President Juarez could have resisted the demand of his army for Maximilian's execution was that it would bring about foreign complications. This only excuse for clemency being removed, Maximilian was shot. Mr. Seward's despatch was shown by President Juarez and Minister of Justice Iglesias both to Princess Salm-Salm, the wife of Maximilian's aide-de-camp, and to the correspondent of the New York Herald, then in San Luis Potosi. It has never appeared in any official publication of diplomatic correspondence. President Juarez, commenting upon it to Princess Salm-Salm, said: "I have either to shoot Maximilian or be shot myself."

It appears to be the purpose of the United States to defer the surrender of Gen. Ezeta until a contingency such as existed in Mexico in 1867 shall have passed—that is to say until the present ruler of Salvador shall have reached such a point that it will not be necessary to shoot Gen. Ezeta in order to avoid being shot himself.

WHO WAS HE?

Somebody Sadly Mistaken in Identifying a Suicide.

NEW YORK, June 19.—It has developed that there is a tinge of romance connected with the suicide of the man who registered as A. J. Otey, of Augusta, Ga., at Smith & McNell's hotel. A young woman called at the hotel and asked permission to view the remains, saying that perhaps she might be able to identify them. She said that she had read the story of the suicide in the papers, and, if her surmise was correct, she knew the dead man. She explained further that Jasper J. Beall, with whom she had been intimately acquainted at one time, went under the name of A. J. Otey. He was a southern man, she said, and for many years had lived at Atlanta, Ga., with his stepmother, Mrs. Alexander Beall. About three years ago, she continued, he came north and located at Perth Amboy, N. J., where he became editor of the Perth Amboy Argus. Later he severed his connection with the paper and went to live at South Amboy. About a year ago he left this place and returned to the south again, remaining there until a few days previous to his suicide.

The woman was taken to Mooney's undertaking rooms where the body is, and she identified it as Jasper Beall. The woman gave her name to Superintendent Wardell, of Smith & McNell's hotel, only upon condition that he would keep it secret. It is understood that she related to him also the fact that they had been sweethearts at one time and were engaged to be married, but that for some reason the girl broke off the engagement. It was at this time that Beall returned to the south. Returning a few days ago he called upon the girl and renewed his suit, requesting also an early marriage. The girl declined to have anything to do with him and he left her. She heard nothing from him or of him until now. She was much affected by the discovery at the undertaking rooms. It is understood the girl's home is in Perth Amboy, that she belongs to an excellent family and that she is both pretty and cultured.

A telegram was received at the hotel from Charleston, S. C., and signed by William J. McCormack asking if the body had been yet identified. All of the dead man's linen was marked "G. W. M'C." which suggests that he may have been passing himself off as G. W. McCormack. The lady who identified the body also volunteered the information that Silas Jackson, of Kings Tree, S. C., was the dead man's most intimate friend.

The case was subsequently complicated by another identification. Assistant District-Attorney Battle saw the body and positively identified it as that of George W. McCormack, a lawyer, of Charleston, S. C.

Rough on Rosebery.

LONDON, June 19.—Dr. Percival, master of Rugby, preached at Westminster abbey. He referred to Lord Rosebery and horse-racing, taking as his text, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and said that the whole world appeared to have taken Cain's words as a motto. When an English nobleman patronized the turf, with its weedy growth of dishonesty and degradation, simply to gratify a feeling for excitement, and did not raise a finger to reform it, he came under condemnation.

Boston Morals.

BOSTON, June 19.—"Boston, the highest city in culture, is the lowest in morality." These were the striking words of Rev. Isaac J. Lansing at the Park Street Congregational church. They were uttered in the course of his sermon, the subject being "A Moral Revival Needed."

Big Mill Burned.

UTICA, N. Y., June 19.—The Dolgeville woolen mill was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The plant was insured for $30,000. The stock, machinery and building were valued at $60,000.

PROGRESS ON TARIFF

Free List To Be Taken Up Sometime To-day.

Senator Hill Defeated in His Attempt to Place Bituminous Coal on the Free List—Instructive Debate in the House on the Anti-Option Bill. Representative Warner's Views.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The senate made good progress yesterday with the tariff bill. Beginning with schedule M, "Pulp, paper and books," on page 77, it disposed of that and the succeeding schedule, N, "Sundries," and at 6:15 o'clock, when it adjourned, it had reached the free list on page 89. The only important check to rapid progress was caused by the amendment of the finance committee to place bituminous coal on the dutiable list at 40 cents a ton. Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) made his expected fight on that and moved to strike out the paragraph and to place bituminous coal on the free list.

After a long and somewhat heated debate Mr. Hill's motion was rejected by 51 to 7. He only drew one vote besides his own from the democrats, that of Mr. Irby, of South Carolina, and two from the republicans, those of Senators Hansbrough (N. Dak.) and Washburn (Minn.), and to these were added the votes of the three populists—Allen, of Nebraska; Kyle, of South Dakota, and Peffer, of Kansas.

House of Representatives.

An interesting and instructive debate marked the first day's consideration of the Hatch anti-option bill in the house. Mr. Hatch and Mr. Bryan (dem., Neb.) advocated the passage of the bill, on the ground, with others, that gambling transactions in food products affected injuriously the prices of those products, and Mr. Warner (dem., N. Y.) opposed it for various reasons; one of which was that the bill would not put a stop to gambling but destroy or harass legitimate traffic.

He also said the bill was undemocratic, paternalistic, and ever since it had been introduced in the congress by its republican author in the 51st congress down to the present time, he had been opposed to it. Comparing the Hatch bill of the 52d congress with the present one, Mr. Warner pointed out the changes, which demonstrated, he said, either that the charges made by Mr. Hatch in his report on the first measure were not well founded, or that the condition of things was so rapidly improving that there was no necessity for the passage of the bill. The omission of flour from the list of commodities named in the bill of the 52d congress, said Mr. Warner, demonstrated that the bill had been monkeyed with by somebody who was about a thousand times more of a miller than the author of the bill (Mr. Hatch) was a farmer.

Mr. Warner spoke an hour and a half, and when he closed his remarks, a round of applause was given him.

Mr. Bryan (dem., Neb.) followed in support of the bill, and at the conclusion of his remarks the committee arose and the house adjourned.

In the earlier part of the session bills were passed authorizing railroad companies to issue interchangeable 5,000-mile mileage tickets, with privileges of excess baggage (requested by the national association of commercial travelers), and granting right of way to the East Nebraska & Gulf Railroad company through the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska.

Expected to Return To-day.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The president is expected to return to the white house to-day at least that was his intention when he left last Thursday, provided his recuperation was as rapid as Dr. O'Reilly hoped it would be and nothing has since been heard from the party on the Maple to indicate that the return would be delayed. There is, however, no particular reason for the president to hurry back as there is no executive business that requires to be disposed of with extraordinary dispatch. Private Secretary Thurber has returned from Marion, Mass., where he has placed his family in the cottage he rented not far from Gray Gables.

To Indict the Altoona Rioters.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., June 19.—Judge Martin Bell in the Blair county court has directed the grand jury to indict all the participants in the riots with the Italian laborers at Altoona last March. The American workingmen assaulted the foreigners, injured many, burned their houses and destroyed their property. Over 100 Americans are implicated in these riots, and many have left the county to escape prosecution. Gov. Pattison and the Italian consul at Philadelphia had requested the court to take action.

Fitzsimmons-Choynski Fight.

BOSTON, June 19.—The fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Joe Choynski last night was stopped by the police in the fifth round. Choynski was groggy and would probably have been knocked out if the fight continued. In the third round Choynski landed heavily on Fitzsimmon's jaw, flooring him and making him groggy. Bob got up and fought on the defensive until the round closed. Fitzsimmons in the other two rounds had the best of the fight. It was declared no contest by the referee.

St. Gauden's Design Ready.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Mint Director Preston has received a letter from the Artist St. Gaudens stating that the long delayed design for the world's fair award medal would be forwarded to the treasury department within a few days.

New Railroad Charter.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 19.—A charter was granted at the state department yesterday to the Monongahela & Allegheny Railroad company, capital $60,000, which will build a line from Pittsburg to Homestead.

STEAMER PLYMOUTH ASHORE.

Wedged Between Two Rocks—Passengers Taken Ashore.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 19.—Steamer Plymouth, Captain Davis, went ashore on the north end of Rose island last evening during a heavy fog. She is tightly wedged between two rocks.

The accident caused considerable excitement, but there was no panic among her 600 passengers.

Her outer shell is badly damaged and will be examined this morning by divers before attempting to float her.

Most of the Plymouth's passengers were taken ashore on a ferryboat and brought on to New York by train.

THE SUGAR INVESTIGATION.

Examination of Senators Continued by the Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The examination of senators was continued by the sugar trust investigation committee, and several of the remaining 11 senators who did not appear Saturday gave their evidence.

Senator Cameron was the first witness, and he answered all the drag net questions about speculating in sugar stock in the negative.

Senator Cameron was examined with reference to the meeting in his room between Senator Jones, of the finance committee, and H. O. Havemeyer, the president of the sugar trust.

Senator Morgan was another important witness, and his testimony extended outside the set questions to the conference he had with other senators in the interest of rearranging the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. Other senators who testified were Messrs. Irby and Washburn.

Correspondent Howland, of the New York Press, was also questioned with reference to the information he thought he possessed implicating Senator Ransom in sugar speculations, which was so thoroughly disproved by the statement of General Ransom Saturday when he showed that his son, George Ransom, and his messenger, Capt. Barnes, had placed small bets on sugar in bucket shops.

Mr. Howland confirmed Senator Ransom's statement, and said he had no evidence to the contrary.

Senator Gorman answered "no" to all the categorical questions relative to speculation in sugar stock. He was asked about the interviews he had with representatives of the refining companies and other senators and replied that these interviews were such as honorable men might hold in an honest endeavor to arrange a tariff bill upon which the party would agree.

When asked about campaign contributions, Mr. Gorman said that while he was a member of the national committee, he never heard anything about contributions from the sugar trust or any one representing them.

SPAIN'S RETALIATION.

An Increase of 24 Per Cent. Duty on Cuban Shipments.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Spain's threatened retaliation upon the United States for the abrogation of the Cuba commercial treaty, whereby the sugar products of that country are admitted free into the United States in return for a material reduction in the rate of duty on exports from the United States has not long been delayed.

Representative Harter of Ohio, has been informed that the Spanish government has ordered an increase of 24 per cent. in the duty on all classes of shipments from this country to Cuba, and that this new rate will take effect July 1. The information came to him through the Isaac Harter company, of Fostoria, Ohio, who are large shippers of flour, and who have had a profitable market for their manufactures in the Spanish West Indies. Their Cuban correspondent has notified them to ship no flour that cannot reach them by the foregoing date.

Mr. Harter thinks an easy remedy for this kind of retaliation, which is also threatened by Germany, is to attach to the tariff bill a provision doubling the rate of duty upon all articles coming here from any country which may increase existing rates of duty upon articles produced or manufactured in the United Staees.

The Pope and Church Union.

ROME, June 19.—The pope's jubilee encyclical letter is completed, and is now in the hands of the printer. It is a vastly important document, from the point of view of a political statement. Every phrase has been carefully considered. In consequence of receiving favorable news from the eastern countries, the pope is about to call a convention in Rome of representatives of the dissident eastern churches.

Wiman Keeping Cool.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Erastus Wiman was visited by his wife and two sons, who spent several hours with him. He told a reporter that he had passed a comfortable night and was contented. Laughingly, he said that the Tombs was one of the coolest places in New York and that he was glad he was not exposed to the rays of the sun.

GOING BACK TO WORK

The Great Mine Strike Rapidly Breaking Up.

The Men Losing Ground in All Parts of the Coke Region—The Cambria Iron Company Instructs Their Men to Return to Work or Be Evicted. Outlook in Ohio.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 19.—Reports from all parts of the coke region indicate that the strikers are losing ground and that a general break-up is not far distant. The Frick company reports more men at work than at any time during the strike, many of the men at work being old employes. Several carloads of new men were brought into the region yesterday and are at work. The Cambria Iron company has posted notices instructing the men to report for duty to-morrow morning, or if not to vacate the houses of the company at once. The company intends starting this plant with the old or new men. Forty-seven eviction writs have been issued for families living at the Davidson plant of the Frick company near Connellsville.

All indications point to the fact that there is much trouble among the district officers of the strikers and may result in a complete division and disintegration of the strikers' organization.

In the Huntingdon and Broadtop districts all the miners will commence work at the rate of 40 cents per net ton, except at the Crescent mines, who still hold out for 40 cents per ton gross.

The situation in the Blair Cambria mountain region is quite different from what was expected. The operators are quarrelling among themselves. Some of them, however, will pay the 40 cent rate and will start up this morning.

District President Bradley notified the miners in the Houtzdale, Osceola and Philipsburg districts to return to work whenever 40 cents net was offered. The miners were indignant, and condemned the action of the board of officers. Notwithstanding this fact it is thought that some of the works will resume to-day.

THE OHIO OUTLOOK.

Evidences Everywhere of a General Resumption.

COLUMBUS, O. June 19.—The outlook for the state convention of miners to be held here to-day is that the convention will be small, and that President Adams will be defeated in his attempt to array the miners against the terms of the settlement.

Reports received to-day from Ohio mining centres show that the resumption of work has been more general than was expected by President McBride. All the Hocking valley, except Straitsville and Lost Run mine, resumed work. Straitsville will resume to-day, and probably Lost Run also. Nelsonville, Cambridge, Martins Ferry, Bellaire, Rock Hill, Yorkville and New Lisbon report resumption of work in the mines and a good feeling among the miners. The miners along the Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking railway remained out to see what the convention here to-day would do.

In several big mines the men have cleaned up their rooms preparatory to going to work. The Toledo & Ohio Central railroad reports that the miners at Corning and Gloucester are ready to go to work, and probably will do so to-day. The Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railroad loaded 200 cars of coal yesterday.

The miners of Coshocton have resolved to go to work. Wadsworth, Ohio, miners telegraphed to know whether they could go to work for 75 per ton. As this is the settlement scale price, they were answered in the affirmative and will of course go to work.

It is stated that the Kansas miners have suspended pending the settlement of local differentials. They endorse the settlement made by the national officers.

Uneasy at Pana, Ill.

PANA, Ill., June 19.—The strike is not settled here yet. Out of 800 men employed in the four mines a little less than 300 are at work, 160 of them being in the Penwell shaft. The deputy sheriff's force has been about 40 loaded cars dashed into a portion of express freight No. 146, also bound for Boston, which was standing on the main line of the Boston & Albany railroad, just above the South Framingham depot, yesterday. The damage to rolling stock was heavy, amounting to upwards of $10,000. No one was hurt.

Alabama Miners Still Out.

TENNESSEE, Tenn., June 19.—The Alabama miners vote to continue the strike. Another bridge has been blown up.

Dr. Walker's Many Woes.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 19.—Dr. Mary Walker walked into police headquarters and applied to Matron Mollory for protection. She said she was on her way to Lebanon, N. H., to see about the final adjustment of the $2,500 reward for the capture of Frank H. Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, and that the emissaries of the Warden family were following her with evil intent. The request was finally granted, and the doctor slept in the police station.

Dr. Mahan Now.

LONDON, June 19.—The senate and house of Cambridge university performed the ceremony of conferring the degree of LL. D. upon Capt. Alfred T. Mahan, commander of the United States cruiser Chicago. Dr. Sandyo, public orator of the university, welcomed Capt. Mahan as a distinguished citizen of the great republic, who has devoted his remarkable knowledge of naval science and naval history to the production of admirable works.

Death of Caleb Foote.

BOSTON, June 19.—Caleb Foote, of Salem, Mass., died in Milton, aged 91. He had been connected with the Salem Gazette since 1817 to 1888, first as apprentice, then as editor and lastly as proprietor. He also established a small weekly paper to which he gave the name of the Salem Mercury. This was afterward enlarged, and its title changed to the Essex County Mercury.

CHOLERA INFANTUM HERE.

BABIES BEGINNING TO DIE OF THIS DREAD DISEASE.

Summer Disorder that Kills the Infants Comes Early—The Prompt Use of Lactated Food is Recommended to Mothers.

The summer begins early this year, and cholera infantum, the dread disease that causes half the funerals in June and July, has appeared in some places almost like an epidemic.

Mothers should feed their babies upon lactated food. Physicians all over the country say it is the most valuable means at their command for tiding children over the dangerous days of summer, as a preventive of cholera infantum, and as steady diet all the year round for making sickly children grow sturdy, clear-eyed, happy and full of animation.

"Lactated food babies," has come to mean those solid, rosy-cheeked, bright little fellows who have never known a day of serious illness.

Says B. Frank Penny of the New Bedford, Mass., Standard:

"Shortly after our baby Willie was born he had a severe attack of sickness with symptoms of cholera infantum; we tried various foods and remedies, but he grew thinner every day until we began to despair of saving his life. Finally a friend recommended lactated food, and we began using it; the effect was extremely gratifying. He began to grow better at once, and in a short time he was fat and strong and the very picture of health. We have fed him on lactated food ever since, and he has not been sick a single day."

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity, than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

NETHERWOOD BAZAR.

An Elegant Home Offers Its Delightful Hospitality to the Public.

Final preparations are being made by the women of the Church of Our Saviour for a unique, social fair tomorrow afternoon and evening. It will be held from 4 to 10 in the handsome residence of William Palmer Smith, 201 Belvidere avenue.

The women are much interested in the welfare of the church and desirous of raising all of the money they can, but will not confine their attention to financial matters solely. No admission will be charged and the affair will undoubtedly be most pleasant, socially. Mrs. Smith will entertain visitors at tea in the dining room and and music will be furnished.

A feature of the fair will be the limit placed on individual expenditure. No one will be allowed to spend more than $5 and to make it unnecessary for them to do so the prices on all articles costing more have been cut down to that amount.

An effort has been made to have the goods of a variety unlike that usually found at church fairs. Maillard's and Huyler's candies, in hand-painted boxes, will be sold. Several valuable articles will be sold by chances. The women in attendance at the tables will be in evening dress.

THE HOFFMAN CASE.

TOMBS POLICE COURT DISCHARGES THE ALLEGED BIGAMIST.

Wife No. 2 of Fanwood Did Not Appear, and Her Counsel Could Not Secure an Adjournment—Hoffman Tells His Story, and Wife No. 2 Tells Hers.

The examination in the case of Henry Hoffman, superintendent of the Berwind White Coal Company, who is accused by the Terrill Road woman who calls herself Mrs. Hoffman No. 2 of stealing a pair of $600 diamond earings from her, came up in the Tombs Police Court yesterday morning. Mr. Hoffman lives at 252 Tenth street, Brooklyn, with his wife, by whom he has thirteen children.

The woman who had him arrested alleges that she met and married him in 1889, he having represented himself as a divorced man. He gave her the house in Fanwood. She says that six weeks ago she discovered that there was a Mrs. Hoffman No. 1, and thereupon refused to admit him to her house. He had her arrested for keeping a disorderly house, and she was released under $2 500 bail for trial. In retaliation, she secured a warrant in New York city for his arrest on the charge of larceny.

The complainant was not in court yesterday, but her New York counsel asked to have the case adjourned. This Justice Martin refused to do. He then discharged the prisoner.

Mrs. Hoffman's reason for not appearing was given as prostration by the heat. Her New York counsel, Mr. Stoddard, declared out of court that Mrs. Hoffman No. 2 married Hoffman in Boston five years ago; that he took the marriage certificate, but the marriage was on record in Boston. He said, too, that Hoffman always introduced the woman as his wife to their friends in Fanwood and Plainfield, and that at a "banquet" he gave he praised her wifely qualities and her faithfulness to his guests with such warmth that he was moved to tears.

Hoffman denied that as vigorously as he did that he stole diamonds from Mrs. Hoffman No. 2. For the first time he told his story of his intimacy with her.

He met her, he said, five years ago, in a Hoboken variety hall of lowest class, when he was entertaining some steamship engineers, whose acquaintance he was cultivating in a business way. She soon after left the stage and took a room at 1 Washington street, Hoboken, where her pace was so fast that the neighbors complained and she moved to Union Hill. From there, and for a like cause, she moved to Parkville, N. J., and about three years ago she bought the house at Fanwood, where, Hoffman said, he occasionally visited her. The house cost her $2,500, he added, but he did not know where she got the money to pay for it.

Hoffman went to Europe last September. When he returned, in the latter part of October, he said he found a young man named S. Monroe Corwin was very intimate with Mrs. Hoffman, No. 2. When he asked who Corwin was she told him indifferently that he had come there to fix the windmill pump that supplied the house with water. "That pump is not fixed yet", said Mr. Hoffman with some feeling.

Then he tried to break off his acquaintance with her, but she threatened him with exposure to his wife. When she saw he was determined to leave her she wrote this letter to him in German, postmarked May 25 last:

Henry Hoffman: Have just written to your wife No. 1 and will see her tomorrow personally. War to the knife is our motto from today, and I will never rest until you get what a person like you deserves, and until there is another superintendent in your office.

MRS. HENRY HOFFMAN, No. 2.

To emphasize her declaration she splashed red ink on the paper after the words "war to the knife". That same day she wrote thus to Hoffman's wife:

Dear Mrs. Hoffman: Please be so kind and allow me an interview tomorrow afternoon at 3. I will take the liberty of meeting you in front of your house, when I will tell you something. This is not a blackmailing story, as Mr. Hoffman told you. I will swear to it.

MRS. HOFFMAN, No. 2.

She did go next day to Hoffman's house, a handsome establishment at 252 Tenth street, Brooklyn, but Mrs. Hoffman was ill and would not see her. In proof of his wife's present attitude towards him Hoffman showed yesterday a letter written by his wife, but not yet delivered to the other woman. Mrs. Hoffman addresses her by all the names by which she has been known, declares that she is impertinent to address her and charges that she has entrapped her husband, knowing him to be married, for, writes Mrs. Hoffman, "you came to me three years ago and told me you had quarrelled with your husband about my husband".

To cap the climax, Hoffman declared that Mrs. Hoffman No. 2 was now the wife of a man named Bothe, who is living in Philadelphia.

A World reporter saw Mrs. Hoffman No. 2 yesterday and says she is apparently about thirty years old, of medium height, with a well-rounded figure. She has blue eyes, blonde hair, and had evidently been strikingly handsome. She shed tears when speaking of her troubles. She said she was born in Germany, where her parents were deemed wealthy. Her father was a manufacturer named Lamade. He had branch establishments in London and Paris. Her parents are both dead. Her brother Herman, is in Germany, while another, Louis Lamade, has lived with his sister in Fanwood and Brooklyn since 1891. It was admitted that she was formerly married to one Henry Bothe, of Philadelphia. Her family secured a divorce upon the ground of her immaturity.

She showed a newspaper clipping giving an account of a suit against Hoffman in a Jersey City Court by Annie Lendle, an actress, in which the latter was awarded six cents damages for breach of promise and betrayal.

The home of Mrs. Hoffman No. 2 is a pretty two-story frame house, with mansard roof. It stands in a plot of 5 14-100 acres and there is another acre across the road. The records in the office of the County Clerk, at Elizabeth, show the transfer of the property by deed dated April 15, 1991, from Elizabeth A. Tilby to Anne Hoffman. The consideration was $4,500. Fully twice as much more has been spent in improvements.

Conductors Invoke the Law.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 19.—In the county clerk's office judgment in default was entered in suits brought by forty-seven Lehigh Valley conductors, who went out on strike last November, against the Order of Railway Conductors. The aggregate amount involved is $11,750. The men alleged that they were promised a strike allowance until they found work but Grand Conductor Clark denied this and repudiated their claims, hence the actions to recover. The summons and complaint in the 47 cases were served on Grand Conductor Clark at the Imperial hotel, New York, three weeks ago and this morning the twenty days allowed for answering elapsed without a reply from the order, whereupon judgment in default was entered. The order, however, has retained counsel to fight the case and it is likely that prior to the issue of executions the default fees will be paid and the case reopened. The signing of the judgemnts will in all probability lead the grand officers to fulfill their threat to annul the charter of Buffalo lodge.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

Corporation Notice.

Plainfield N. J., June 6, 1894.

The attention of all concerned is called to the following extract from an act passed by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, and approved April 4, 1894:

"That every person who shall own, keep or harbor any dogs, bitch or bitches shall have the same registered and numbered with the Clerk of the City in which the owner or person harboring the same shall reside, and shall place upon the neck of each dog or bitch kept or harbored a collar, having engraved thereon upon a metal surface, the name of the owner of said dog or bitch and the registered number thereof; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or bitch found straying off the owner's premises without such collar upon its neck.

"The person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered."

The registry book is kept at the office of the City Clerk, 109 Park avenue. Prompt compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid statute is urged.

After July 1 the provisions of this act will be enforced.

NEW SEWER ORDINANCE

MANY STREETS ADDED TO THE LIST TO BE PIPED.

Common Council Holds Two Meetings on a Hot Night to Push the Sewerage Project — The Watson Liquor Case to Be Appealed.

The Common Council met twice last evening. At the first meeting the sewerage ordinance read for the second time was killed. At the second meeting a new ordinance was substituted. All were present except Councilmen Bird and Stockton.

The special meeting for the consideration of the ordinance on sewerage was held first. The ordinance was read and expressions of public opinion were called for. No one responded. Mr. Frost then said he thought it best that the ordinance be killed and by a unanimous vote this was done. The meeting was then adjourned.

City Clerk MacMurray read the call for the second meeting which provided for action on other matters besides sewerage. After a recess another ordinance was presented and adopted on first reading.

It was the same as the first except in regard to the streets named in it. The original ordinance provided for the laying of sewers in a few streets where the trunk lines were to be. On further consideration it was thought best to cover all the territory that at present would probably be included in the contract, putting all in one ordinance instead of two. In the new ordinance the section changed is as follows:

Woodland avenue from South avenue to Highland avenue.

Belvidere avenue from Ravine road to LaGrande avenue.

Ravine Road from Woodland avenue to Berkley avenue.

Franklin place from East Fifth street to Watchung avenue.

Muhlenberg place from South Second street to West Third street.

East Third street from Berckman street to Watchung avenue.

West Third street from Arlington avenue to city line.

Fourth street East and West respectively from Richmond street to Grant avenue.

Fifth street East and West respectively from Richmond street to Plainfield avenue.

Sixth street East and West respectively from Richmond street to Plainfield avenue.

LaGrande avenue from Belvidere avenue to Watchung avenue.

West Eighth street from Park avenue to Grant avenue.

Albert street from West Front street to Dunellen avenue.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh presented a report in which he told of the proceedings in the Watson illegal liquor selling case. According to his suggestion he was authorized to carry the matter to the Supreme Court.

In regard to the Y. M. C. A. petition for the return of their $300 assessment for the Watchung avenue extension, the counsel reported that it could be repaid, along with others, according to a ruling of the Supreme Court. The amount in this case had been assessed to the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The money could be returned when the Y. M. C. A., which bought the property from the company, proved that the Association had paid the assessment.

On the recommendation of Mr. Fisk a crosswalk was ordered laid on LaGrande avenue at the corner of Washington street. The petition asking for the acceptance of Spooner avenue was returned for correction as the map did not show the street to be of the width required by ordinance.

The meeting was adjourned until July 9.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

The company have reduced a number of engineers along the line owing to business depression, putting them back to firing at Jersey City, Bergen Point, Somerville, Hampton, Phillipsburg, and along the L. & S.

A special train was run from Phillipsburg to Jersey City, Sunday, May 27, for the Brotherhood men to attend the convention, in New York, for which kindness the committee desire to extend their sincere thanks to the officials of the road.

Two conductors and six brakemen were discharged at Bergen Point for drinking while on duty recently. This is a matter which the company does not tolerate in any way, a policy which is supported by a large majority of the employes. This should be looked after in all cases, as it is the surest way to give satisfaction to the traveling public.

The Railroad Employe says: "Brakeman William Moffett, of Plainfield, while riding his bicycle recently allowed the fractious steed to get the bit between his teeth, which caused the machine to side track. Result—a broken leg, which now confines him to his home. Verily the perils of railroading are not in it alongside of the frisky bike".

The many friends in Plainfield of that veteran railroad conductor, William F. Rand, who is now living in Flemington, will be pained to learn that he is still a great sufferer and totally unfitted for any kind of work. Mr. Rand was conductor on the Central railroad more than twenty years, and has many well-wishers in Plainfield.

GAVE CHASE ON HIS BIKE.

Marshal Pangborn Does Some Hustling After Beer-Money Beggars.

Martin Holmes, John Hensey, and Charles Warnock, went about the borough last evening begging for money with which to buy more beer. They insulted women on Craig place and then went up Somerset street, where they held up Howard Woolston and Lorenzo Townley.

Chief Pangborn saw the three on Race street and chased them down Warren street on his wheel. He left the bicycle on Pearl street and caught Warnock on Tier's dam. Holmes and Hensey reached the city by way of Stiger's alley and were caught afterwards by Policeman Frederickson and transferred over the brook. The men will be tried this evening at 7.

Death of Wm. Dunlap.

William W. Dunlap died shortly before 8 last evening at his home corner of Madison avenue and Front street. He had been ill for ten months. He was formerly employed in the meat market of Andrew Lutkins. He came to Plainfield from Millstone.

Mr. Dunlap was 35 years old. He leaves a wife and two daughters, one ten years old and the other ten months.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Dunlap, lives on West Second street with his brother Charles and his sisters Lizzie and Cora. His brother David lives in Wyoming and another, George, lives in Millstone. The funeral will be held from the house tomorrow afternoon at 2.

Started in the Wood Box.

The fire yesterday afternoon was in the house 651 West Third street, owned by Jere Manning and occupied by Pine Yettman. The fire started in a box of wood which was behind the stove, burned a portion of the floor and spread to the soot in the chimney.

The alarm was sent in from Box 45. Neighbors were working with water when the firemen arrived. Two extinguishers were used. No fire had been made in the stove recently.

The house was insured in the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company, through J. T. Vail's agency. The damage will probably not exceed $25. The principal item of expense will be the papering of the kitchen walls which were discolored by smoke.

Dispensation to John Hand Camp.

At the meeting of John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., last evening, one application was received. The badges for the members arrived and those present secured them.

There was an excellent attendance, and the members are taking an interest in the work of the Camp.

A dispensation for two months has been granted the camp to receive persons and muster them in the same evening. Several are expected to join next Monday evening, when a special meeting will be held.

Waterbury to Get What Plainfield Refused.

M. A. Korff returned yesterday from Waterbury, Conn., where he has been attending a meeting of the Clay Lamp Wick Company. Inducements have been offered them to locate their factory at that place, and it is possible they may decide to. They were desirous of locating here.

Great Shooting.

Dr. D. C. Adams, Counselor Chas. A. Reed, Judge W. A. Coddington, J. A. Smith and John E. Beerbower went to the great shoot between the Haymakers and the Buckwheats, in Dog Corners yesterday. After the match, sweepstakes were shot, Judge Coddington winning by his scientific killing of all the birds he shot at.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100. for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Fanwood.

The Commencement exercises of the public school children will be held tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Robinson celebrated the eleventh anniversary of their marriage Sunday. An informal reception was held in the evening, many of their Fanwood friends dropping in to pay their respects.

The women's waiting room at the station is now ready for occupancy, the carpenters being engaged in tearing out the men's room. It looks like several more weeks of upsidedownedness.

Fine top dressing is being spread on the sidewalks in the vicinity of the station. The coal dust will be covered, thus saving the ladies' skirts, and be a saving to shoe leather.

Rev. Dr. True preached at All Saints Sunday and notwithstanding the extreme heat the church was filled and a large collection resulted.

The published reports of the Hoffman case were a complete surprise to Fanwood people as Mrs. Hoffman has always been considered a modest and ladylike person. The manner of her arrest is looked upon as an outrage, and it will require pretty strong evidence to convince Fanwood people that they have been deceived in her and to remove their sympathy for her.

The locust and cherry crops are immense, particularly the former. As to the latter, they are in such quantities and the tree owners so liberal that the school children gather great baskets of them and are happy.

New Market.

A sociable will be given at the home of the Misses Powers in South Plainfield, Thursday evening, June 21. Sixty invitations have been issued. Friendship Cornet Band of New Market will furnish the music.

Some time ago the late Jacob R. Titsworth of New Market made a will bequeathing his real and personal property. A good portion of it was given to the Seventh-Day Baptist Church in New Market. Out of the entire amount the sum of $100 was left to his only son, C.D. Titsworth.

He being the only one left in the family, thinks he deserves more of his father's property, and is now making an effort to break the will. He claims that when he inquired more particularly as to the date of the will those in charge of the matter did not give him the information he thought he had a right to.

Mr. Titsworth says he is being deprived of his lawful share of the estate, and is determined to see that he has his rights.

On the other hand, those in opposition claim he is getting all he is entitled to. The matter will probably be brought into court.

Dunellen.

Miss Trewin of Orchard place visited friends in the borough yesterday.

A. Farley and his sister Miss Annie Farley of Fanwood, spent a pleasant Sunday with the Misses Staats.

Miss Celia Staats enjoyed a visit to Netherwood yesterday, where she was entertained by friends.

Jacob Henry of Chicago is being pleasantly entertained by friends and relatives in Dunellen.

Fred. Andrews, the operator at Tide Water, is on a vacation and his place is being filled by Herbert Ostrander.

Mr. and Mrs Charles Coriell and son, Abner, had a delightful drive to Millstone, Sunday.

The closing school exercises of Lincoln and Whittier schools will be held Thursday evening in the Methodist Church.

The Harris Lane School closed last Friday with appropriate exercises which were much enjoyed. It was the most successful one ever held.

The patriotic people of Dunellen will assist the residents of New Market in making July 4 a memorable one.

The old barn opposite the railroad station, which was owned by Mr. Welch of Hackettstown, has been torn down and a house will be erected thereon.

It is thought that Peter Huff will have charge of the Union News stand at the station.

Arthur Godfrey, who lives on top of the mountains, back of Dunellen, is very ill at his home with consumption and little hopes of his recovery are entertained.

Charles Harrison and Lewis Powelson, of Bedminister, and Edward Wayne of Bayonne, have enjoyed the past few days with their friend, George Conover.

Adam Dealaman and his friend, Jacob Henry, of Chicago, visited Plainfield yesterday.

Dunellen lost one of its oldest residents Sunday, in the death of Mrs. Lucy A., relict of C. C. Morgan, aged 90 years. The funeral will be from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lucy M. Titsworth, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be in Bound Brook.

Had a Good Time.

Jacob Hipp, Rudolph Spiegel, and some of the Leiderkranz Society of this city, visited the picnic at Chimney Rock yesterday, as guests of the Somerville and Raritan Saengerbund. Both of them speak in the highest term of their reception, and they will attempt to reciprocate when the opportunity permits.

Local Camp Meeting.

Camp meeting in Vail's Grove, West Fourth street, will commence July 21, under the auspices of Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, directed by Rev. T. A. V. Henry, pastor.

Karl's Clover Root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell; 25c., 50c. and $1. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 205 North ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

Captain Sweeney, U.S.A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good. Price 50c. Sold by J. D. Mallinson, 205 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

Shiloh's Cure, the great cough and croup cure, is in great demand. Pocket size contains 25 doses, only 25c. Children love it. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 205 North ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

SWORE THEY WERE HOLY.

But Lemon Phosphate and Cider Didn't Go Down With the Court.

Mrs. Maggie Bunworth of West Fourth street and Mrs. Mary Stevens of Second street and Park avenue spent the night in the borough lockup and appeared before Justice Crosley this morning. They were charged by Chief Marshal Pangborn with being drunk and using profane language on Greenbrook road at 7 last evening.

The women testified that they had gone to Dunellen with Mrs. Stevens's husband and had returned alone. Neither of them had ever used a profane word. Mrs. Bunworth had enjoyed a lemon phosphate and Mrs. Stevens a glass of cider, they admitted, but both declared they had taken nothing more intoxicating.

Chief Pangborn swore that he had heard them swearing from a buggy surrounded by boys. The chief had driven with them to the lockup. They had a quart bottle containing a quantity of rye whiskey with them.

Justice Crosley said it was plain, according to the evidence, that the women had been intoxicated and profane and had disturbed the peace of the borough. He sentenced each to pay a fine of $3, which they paid rather than go to jail for five days.

Bids for School Coal and Water.

At the Board of Education meeting last evening all the members were present except Mr. Lounsbury. Besides the usual routine business the absences of teachers during the term were considered and allowed.

The Building Committee reported received bids for putting city water into the Franklin Building. A. M. Griffin's bid was the lowest, but his specifications were not exactly like those called for. He will probably be given the job.

Bids for coal were received and the Fuel Committee were authorized to give the contract to the lowest bidder. The local dealers, receiving coal by the Central Railroad, offered it for $5.00 a short ton. Ten Eyck & Harris, with yards on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, made a bid of $4 67 a long ton, screened according to the Board's specifications.

Thinks He Knows the Thief.

John H. Sayers of East Front street was robbed of $10 between 8 and 9 Saturday night. He was in his harness store for half an hour showing his goods to City Judge Coddington. Meanwhile his vest containing $19, hung in harness shop in the rear.

Mr. Sayers did not notice that some one had stolen $10 from his vest pocket until yesterday morning. He thinks he knows who took the money.

Elizabeth Gains Three Boarders.

Lee Jones, colored, Michael Grosky and John Coffee, were sent to Elizabeth for twenty days by City Judge Coddington this morning. They had been arrested by Policemen Mattox and Vanderweg for trespassing on the Central railroad. Jones comes from Virginia. He has been begging about town and sleeping in freight cars for some time.

Another Stunning Plainfield Rig.

J. W. Reinhart, President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, has given Kimball & Co, of Chicago an order for a coach which will be seen on the roads about Old Orchard, Me., within a fortnight or so, and on the Netherwood and Plainfield roads in the Fall. The harness is to be brass-mmounted.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church extend a vote of thanks to Benjamin LeVere for his fine cornet solo at their anniversary Sunday night, accompanied by A. L. Titsworth.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Board of Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church held a meeting last evening and discussed methods of church work.

A MOTHER'S DUTY

TOWARDS HER DAUGHTERS.

Suggestions Which May Help to Avoid Many Dangers.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Less than twenty years ago even the medical profession scouted the idea that young girls could suffer from the misery of uterus troubles.

That form of disease, it was claimed, came only to married women. When Lydia E. Pinkham first sent out the news of her great discovery, there was no lack of harsh speech from those whose practice and opinions she set at defiance.

But when young girls by the hundreds were absolutely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then the tongues of the traducers were stilled, and faith was allowed to live in the hearts of the people.

Young girls are subject to this trouble. It robs them of the buoyancy of youth. It makes all effort distasteful.

It causes retention and suppression of menses, leucorrhœa, severe headache, waxy complexion, depression, weakness, loss of appetite and interest.

This being the condition of your daughter, what is your duty, loving mother?

Certainly you ought to know that these are all symptoms of the one cause of nearly all the suffering that comes to women; and to save your daughter you ought to begin that treatment at once, which for 20 years proved its power throughout the world.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the surest and most natural remedy for women ever compounded. It will accomplish its work with certainty.

AUXILIARY EXPEDITION

Starts for the Relief of Peary To-morrow.

The Explorers Will Visit Ellesmere Land and Other Points After First Stopping at Peary's Headquarters—Expect to Arrive Home on or About the 15th of September.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—Henry G. Bryant, the youngest leader of any Arctic expedition ever undertaken, and the party of six who will go to the relief of Lieut. Peary in the far north, will rendezvous at dinner at the St. George hotel, Brooklyn, this evening. To-morrow they will leave New York on the steamer Portia for St. John's, where the steam whaler Falcon awaits them.

The auxiliary expedition, as it is termed, makes the journey under the auspices of the Philadelphia Geographical club. The members of the expedition in addition to Mr. Bryant are: Prof. Wm. Libby, jr., of Princeton university, geographer; Prof. T. C. Chamberlin, of the University of Chicago, geologist; Dr. Axel Onlin, of Sweden, zoologist; Dr. H. E. Wetherill, of Philadelphia, surgeon; H. L. Bridgeman, of the Brooklyn Standard Union; Emil Disbitch, of Port Royal, S. C., civil engineer.

The party was entertained at a farewell dinner here last evening at the University club, by the members of the advisory committee of the Geographical club.

The Portia will reach St. John's about June 23, and the Falcon will proceed northward with the members of the expedition and their supplies the first week in July.

The first stop will be made at Godhaven, on Disko island, in North Greenland, where official recognition from Denmark will be obtained for the expedition. Continuing north, Melville bay will be crossed as quickly as the condition of the ice permits and a brief visit made to the settlement of primitive Eskimos near Cape York.

Thence a direct run will be made to the Peary headquarters at Boudoin bay, in the Inglefield gulf, in latitude 77.43, which point it is hoped will be reached by July 25. Lieut. Peary and the members of his inland party will not return from their long sledge journey to the north until the last of August but it is deemed advisable to acquaint the members of the party at "Anniversary Lodge," in Boudoin bay of the presence of the Falcon and at the same time to deliver the mail and gain assurance of the safety of all hands.

That assurance obtained the Falcon will leave on a brief independent expedition to Ellesmere Land, where a sharp lookout will be kept for traces of the ill-fated Swedish naturalist, Bjorling and Kallstenius, and their two companions, whose vessel, the Ripple was wrecked in 1892.

They left a message which was found by a Scotish whaler stating that they would seek refuge among the Eskimos of Ellesmere Land. Jones sound will be penetrated as far west as the weather and ice will permit, and an attempt will be made to chart the 300 miles of unknown coast line forming the western border of Ellesmere Land, which is thought to be an island.

By Sept. 1, the Falcon will return to Bowdoin bay and taking on board the Peary party will sail for Philadelphia, arriving soon after September 15.

Lansingburgh Election Offenders.

TROY, N. Y., June 19.—The first arrest of alleged election offenders who operated in Lansingburgh in November of last year, occurred yesterday when Frank McKeon, who served as a democratic inspector, was taken into custody on an indictment charging him with a violation of the penal code, which provides for the punishment of offenders against the election laws.

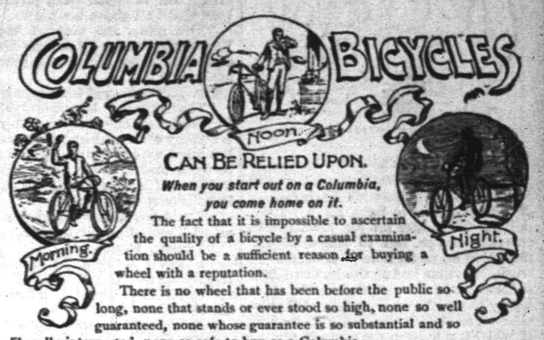
COLUMBIA BICYCLES



CAN BE RELIED UPON.

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

The Overton Claim.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894

CHAPTER X.

Three days later Hawkins walked into Mr. Hildreth's office with much the air of a man going to have all his teeth pulled. The older lawyer greeted him cheerily enough, but to Hawkins' ear there was an under note of triumph. In truth, Hawkins had in the last two days suffered a moral shock that had left him a prey to emotional neuralgia. What he misread as elation was really but a sort of whistling to keep the courage up.

Mr. Hildreth knew well whose business alone could bring Hawkins to his office and had got some hint of the syndicate's overtures. So it was plain to his mind that Major Overton's antagonists meant to force the fighting, with what result he had no manner of doubt. Well as he loved a legal battle, Mr. Hildreth had never been able to quite sink the man in the lawyer. Next to Major Overton himself he would feel the sting of the claim's oversetting, which, as he had all along felt, only a miracle could prevent.

After a glum "good day" Hawkins dropped heavily into a chair, put his elbow on the table and said, affectedly: "I tell you, you don't know what may happen. If anybody had said to me a week ago things were going to turn out thus and so, I'd 'a' told them to their teeth they lied. I would—sure as I sit here."

"What's the matter? Syndicate busted or gone back on you?" Mr. Hildreth asked, with a sympathy that had the liveliness of relief. Hawkins snorted with rage. He was being mocked as well as despoiled.

"See here," he growled, "let a man down easy, can't you? I couldn't feel more cut up if the claim had been all my own."

Mr. Hildreth looked puzzled.

"Is this one of your jokes?" he asked. "For the life of me I can't tell what you are driving at."

"Don't you really know?"

"What?"

"On your honor, now, haven't you heard?"

"About what?"

"Why, this infernal foolishness of Allen Fauntleroy's."

"What's the size of it?"

"Oh, nothing much! Only he gives up the fight. Will let the case go by default next time it comes up. Just now, too, when the thing means a cool million in hand and more to follow. All lost for lack of a little bit of sand."

Mr. Hildreth gave a long whistle.

"The boy's no fool. He must be drunk or crazy," he said, half to himself. Then to Hawkins: "Are you sure? Maybe he is only joking to frighten you."

"Wish I could think so," Hawkins retorted ruefully, "but I can't. He put it in black and white. I read the letter myself. What's more, I saw it dispatched last night by special messenger to Major Overton. That was why I thought you knew. I made sure he would be here before me this morning."

"We have seen nothing of him yet. Oh, I say, Vance"—to his partner, who was just coming in—"here are the story books ontdone, the miracle come to pass and Major Overton a millionaire if he chooses to be."

Vance looked sharply at Hawkins. He did not trust the man. After he had heard the story he turned to the newsbearer, saying:

"For such an effect there must be a cause. Can you enlighten us as to that?"

Hawkins shifted his feet uneasily and answered, with dropped eyes: "Oh, he saw the old major and heard—well, some things that have happened. So the notion takes him to play Don Quixote, not fight any longer with an old man and a—a—child."

"H-m-m," Vance said, setting his lips close. "The child' is pretty well grown. I saw her only last month, and a handsomer, high stepping, up headed young filly you seldom cross. Pity she and Allen can't make a match of it. That would be an ideal settlement of this 50-year-old lawsuit."

Hawkins and Mr. Hildreth exchanged looks. Clearly Vance did not know all that might be known regarding Overton's claim. Finding the others silent, he went on:

"Good thing for you, Hawkins, to have it settled anyway. I was talking yesterday with one of those syndicate fellows. From what he said, no matter whom they buy from, your commission is safe. I always thought you were a sharp fellow. Now I know you for the prince of double action bargain makers."

Hawkins smiled all over his face at the equivocal compliment. Yet in the same breath he sighed.

"One way I am safe," he said. "Still if Allen had held out—but never mind. As you say, any settlement is better than none, for no settlement no sale, and that's the main thing with me. I tell you it's a chance that doesn't come to a poor country lawyer more than once in a lifetime."

"Hear him, will you?" said Vance, apostrophizing space. "Poor country lawyer indeed! Why, Hawk, your bank account is positively corpulent, your purse overloaded with fees and charges from the claim alone. You owe Major Overton a monument when he dies. He's been your best friend. His persistence has been the cornerstone of your fortune. I don't wonder that you are downhearted over not having to fight him longer. But cheer up, old lad. Once the furnaces are running again, there'll be fine pickings in the harvest of damage claims."

Hawkins turned the livid blue red of a turkey gobbler's snout. Though money was his god, he hated to be proclaimed its worshiper. He got up, saying stiffly:

"Good day, gentlemen. Mr. Hildreth, no doubt you'll see the major pretty soon. When you do, my regards to him, and tell him I'll be pleased to wait on him with the agent of those foreign capitalists. Not that I'm trying to worm you out, sir. Not at all. Only I know their ways and might give you and the major a hint or two worth having."

"Not a doubt of it," said Mr. Hildreth, bowing his visitor away. As the door closed Vance flung a curse after him and said, shaking himself as if to be rid of something unpleasant:

"That fellow walks straight enough, but I never see him that I don't feel as though he were crawling and I wanted to tread on him."

"It would scarcely be safe. In the main he's a good enough fellow, but there is something of the reptile about him," Mr. Hildreth said, puffing a big blue cloud all above his head.

"You mean the fangs, I suppose," Vance said, banging down the lid of his desk with extra force and putting his heels upon it.

Mr. Hildreth eyed him approvingly.

"That's right," he said. "Old man, I never before knew you to give yourself a holiday at 11 o'clock in the morning, but what we have just heard requires to be celebrated in some most uncommon fashion. It is so unheard of I can hardly believe it even yet."

"Could anything surprise you more?" asked Vance, lighting a cigar.

"I hardly think so."

"Not even if the major should refuse to give up the fight?"

"Good God, Vance! You don't dream he will do that?"

"It is what I expect of him."

"Vance!"

"Hildreth!"

"Are you sane and sober?"

"I'll make affidavit to both."

"What gives you such an idea?"

"Major Overton, if I at all comprehend him, has fought all these years not for fortune, but to clear his father's name. Winning by default will never do that."

"No. I remember now, he has put away every compromise. But, hello! What's this? Letters from Ridgeley?"

Jubilee, in Sunday best, came through the office door and laid a packet on the desk before Mr. Hildreth, saying, with his best school bow:

"My employer, Major Overton, bequested me to survey those letters into your hand and seal. Will you have the

A minute later he passed it to Vance.

amiability to give me a reacknowledgment of it to take back to him enduring my return?"

"Yes, wait outside," said Vance, seeing that Mr. Hildreth was absorbed in the note, whose seal he had immediately broken. A minute later he passed it to Vance, who read:

Find inclosed, from Peyton Fauntleroy's son, a full withdrawal of their side of the case. Let him know at once that the suit must go on to a legal determination. If he will not fight, take steps to make him. Please God, before the day of trial I shall be able to prove my case. Meantime believe me, your obedient servant,

FRANCIS OVERTON.

Vance laid it down, with a hard breath, but next minute laughed aloud, saying:

"Poor Hawkins! He'll be madder than a wet hen."

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, t and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

UNCLE SAM HAS TO SUFFER.

Alleged Defects in the New Dry Docks on Puget Sound.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The first result of Secretary Herbert's Pacific coast tour is an official investigation of the new Puget sound naval station. Captains Asserson, Menocal and Prindle, of the civil engineers corps, left New York very privately for Seattle on a mission which has been carefully guarded. The importance attached to their trip will be appreciated when it is stated that they are ranking officers of their corps, Captain Asserson being in charge of the Brooklyn yard and Captain Menocal of the Norfolk yard. It is understood that their expert opinion is required as to the usefulness of the new dry dock costing $800,000 now under construction. Some doubt has arisen as to whether its foundations are strong enough to carry the great ships of the navy for which it was designed. It is said the contractor has not been driving the piles as deep as called for by the specifications, and that an effort has been made to use inferior concrete in the work. The contractor claims that he cannot drive the piles as deep as demanded by the navy department, as the soil is harder than was indicated by the preliminary borings made before the specifications were drawn, and that the work he has done is good enough for all practical purposes anyhow. He is further of the opinion that the specifications for mixing the required 10,000 cubic feet of rubble concrete are unnecessarily severe. To settle these questions three ranking officers are despatched across the country at considerable expense to the government, which Secretary Herbert thinks is much better policy than having the dock prove a failure when an emergency arises for promptly docking a 10,000 ton battleship.

BLACKMAIL SCHEME.

Latest Developments in the Delaney Murder Case at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N, Y., June 20.—Mrs. George Bartholomew, wife of the man who killed ex-City Clerk Wm. E. Delaney, has confessed that the visit of herself and her husband to Delaney's apartments was part of a blackmailing scheme. She says that her intimacy with Delaney was a part of the scheme as planned by her husband. According to her story, she was reluctant to be placed in the position, but she declares her husband insisted upon it as being a necessary part of the plot. Mrs. Bartholomew says that after her husband and the Thorner woman had come there, and she and Delaney had confessed to their intimacy, Bartholomew demanded money from the lawyer. To avoid trouble the latter said he would pay the injured husband for the wrong he had done him. Delaney then sent Mrs. Thorner for the paper and ink with which to write a check. While she was gone, it flashed across the mind of the lawyer that this might be a blackmailing scheme, since his intimacy with Mrs. Bartholomew had been only during the last few weeks. Rather than be a victim to this and the subsequent demands which would be made, Delaney made a dash for the door. He did not, Mrs. Bartholomew says, raise a chair to strike her husband. The latter, according to her confession, shot Delaney in cold blood.

New Scientific Theory.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Robert Stevenson, member of the Academy of Sciences, in a lecture before that body, declared that the true cause of gravity had at last been discovered. Newton's theory of centripetal force is proven to be simply a delusion as complete as the Ptolemaic delusion of the motion of the heavens. According to the new theory, there is no need for an atherial medium to transmit force or energy, as both can be made to pass through a vacuum without any accompanying matter. The lecturer said that facts stated already have been for several months in the hands of Lord Lelvin, president of the Royal society, and, according to this new law, any weight whatever, if given horizontal velocity near the surface of the earth equal to 1,036 feet per second, would never fall to the earth, and if a disc of any weight be rotated free in a horizontal plane with resultant velocity or momentum of velocity equal to 1,036 per second the disc would lose all its weight; so that the construction of flying machines is only a question of engineering skill and capital.

MRS. HALLIDAY'S TRIAL

Evidence Against the Plea of Insanity.

Justice Thayer Says She Was Perfectly Rational Until the Discovery of the Bodies—Revolver and Bullets, with Which the Deed Was Committed, in Evidence.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 20.—Although counsel for Mrs. Halliday will endeavor to establish a plea of insanity, evidence is fast gathering about the woman that must convict her of the murders of which she is charged. Twelve important witnesses have been sworn, and their testimony tends to prove that she was sane when the crimes were committed.

Abram Thayer, justice of the peace of the town of Manakating, testified that she was perfectly rational until the evening of the day following the discovery of the bodies of the murdered women, when she began to act queerly and complained that potato bugs were crawling all over her. When made acquainted with the finding of the bodies of the two strange women under the hay, Mrs. Halliday said some one must have put them there; she did not.

She has a continual downcast look which she has practiced since her arrest, and seems to have an aversion to meeting ones eye. She keeps her handkerchief pressed to her mouth or nose, and seems as listless as ever. Sometimes when she removes the handkerchief from her mouth, her lips move, as if she was muttering to herself. She is continually blinking her eyes but will not look up.

Paul Halliday, the son of the murdered man, testified to calling to see his father on August 23, this being the last time he ever saw him. He called several times afterwards, but on asking after his father Mrs. Halliday inquired if he did not know that his father had bought some property at Bloomingburg. Upon his replying in the negative, she said that he had gone there to do masonry work. When he asked how he had gone, she said "afoot." Halliday then joined Constable Canfield, James McCoad and others who were watching the house. A search warrant was procured and they proceeded to make a search. They found the bloody carpet and rope, and on being asked how the blood came on these articles the woman struck Canfield on the hand with with a board and threatened to "cut his heart's blood out." He had not been in the habit of calling much at his father's place since his brother was burned to death.

Two rings were put in evidence. Addie Halliday testified that Lizzie told her that the rings were the gift of old Paul. One of the rings had the initials of Sarah McQuillan on the inside. The revolver, which is supposed to have been used by Mrs. Halliday in killing her victims, was produced and identified by Constable Scott and John McHugh. Five of the chambers were loaded and when the judge learned of the fact he ordered it discharged before further damage was done.

For the last two weeks the district attorney has been diligently searching for the bullets taken from the bodies of Mrs. Halliday's victims. They were found yesterday in the clerk's office, wrapped in a copy of the evidence taken at the coroner's inquest.

William and the English.

BERLIN, June 20.—It is reported that Sir Edward Malet, British ambassador, has sent his resignation to his government in London, stating as the reason for his wish to retire that it is impossible for him to longer successfully represent the interests of England at the court of the kaiser, since, owing to recent acts of the British cabinet the confidence of the emperor has been lost. It is said that the kaiser has bitterly reproached the British cabinet for taking unfair advantage of his straightforwardness in dealing with England and also accused Sir Edward Malet with having countenanced the English cabinet's duplicity. Sir Edward Malet, it is asserted, protested to the kaiser against the accusation, declaring that he was as much surprised as the kaiser. The emperor then, according to report, informed Sir Edward that England could thank herself if henceforth he should reverse the friendly policy of Germany and return to Prince Bismarck's distrust of everything English.

Tragic End of a Criminal Life.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 20.—A sensational suicide has just occurred here. A seaman of the disabled steamer Stockholm City, named Harris, while suffering from delirium tremens, gashed himself about the body, losing so much blood that he died in a few hours. He was formerly a medical student, a graduate of Oxford. He committed wilful murder in London in 1881, was sentenced to be hanged. The sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life and afterward for ten years, and he was then released on ticket of leave. He was a very dangerous character. He tried to set the ship on fire Friday night, and chased a Catholic clergyman through the streets Saturday with an open knife before he killed himself.

Poisoning in Montana.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 20.—A dastardly attempt at poisoning is reported from Kibbey, 40 miles out. Arthur Vieau, ranchman, was away from home for several days. After his return the first batch of bread made those who ate it dangerously ill. It was thrown out, and it killed the chickens and pigs that ate it. A quarter of beef hanging in the shed was found to be doctored. A neighbor, Miss E. N. Bell, borrowed flour, and her family had a serious time of it. A stranger who ate there came near dying. Vieau gave damaging testimony in an important cattle-stealing case some time ago, and claimed that his life was threatened by the defendant.

Colorado Coxeyites.

JULESBURG, Col., June 20.—Fifty Coxeyites, all that remain of the band of 1,300 that left Denver two weeks ago for Washington, started down the Platte river in boats. "General" Carter said he intended to return to Salt Lake at once. He is tired of the movement, he says. At Ogallala, Neb., six of the California Coxeyites were arrested for plundering a dwelling.

Nine Horses Killed.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Four men were badly injured and nine valuable horses killed outright in a wreck on the Wisconsin Central railroad at Stillman Valley. The wreck was caused by a breaking of the coupling, which caused the cars to leave the track and completely overturning three of them. A lamp in one of them soon set fire to the wreck.

The Miners' Leaders Score Each Other Bitterly.

Exciting Scenes Enacted in the Convention at Columbus—The National President Accused of "Selling Out." He Retaliates by Calling the Ohio Leader a Traitor.

COLUMBUS, O., June 20.—There were many sensational scenes in the meeting of Ohio miners here yesterday afternoon, charges of a serious character being hurled back and forth by President John McBride, of the United Mine Workers, and A. A. Adams, president of the Ohio miners.

The convention of Ohio miners adopted a resolution inviting President McBride to address the convention and explain the compromise settlement of the strike. In doing so he handled President Adams, who has led the opposition to the settlement in this state without gloves, charging him with attempted treason to the cause and attempting to turn the strike into anarchy, and President Adams in his reply, which was even more bitter in tone, charged McBride with duplicity and "selling out."

There were 44 delegates present, representing, Secretary Pearse said, 63 local assemblies and 9,000 members. No vote was taken that showed the feeling toward the settlement, but from the applause it seemed that the delegates were about equally divided on the question.

A resolution endorsing the action of the Ohio executive board in standing out for 70 cents was almost unanimously adopted, but a speech by Representative Thomas, of Stark county, advising that a resolution be adopted requesting all Ohio miners to go to work at once was enthusiastically applauded.

The appearance of the national officers in the convention at this time, however, stopped further proceedings.

Before addressing the convention President McBride wanted to know whether they were instructed to vote against the settlement or not. If they were it was useless to argue the question. It was found that about one-third of the delegates were so instructed.

McBride proceeded, after some hesitation. He spoke about an hour and showed that at the annual convention here the miners had resolved to suspend work until ordered in by the national officers; that the latter were authorized to make a contract for a year. At the Cleveland convention the district presidents were added to the national officers as a strike committee into whose hands the whole matter was put. From this point his recount of the strike closely followed his review of it published last week. At the time the strike committee decided to authorize local settlement, said he, the strike was in imminent danger of going to pieces in every state but Ohio and Indiana. He gave the weakness of the strike in these states and the causes of it in detail. On May 26 the local union at Gloucester, O., President Adams' home, wrote that the miners were starving, while from all sides came the cry "For God's sake end the strike, men are ready to break."

Alluding to lawlessness and destruction of property, he said much of it was in preparation and never reached the surface.

From one mining district the miners wrote him that they had 14 cannon secretly trained on a mine. The press, that had sympathized with us at first, turned against us when lawlessness showed itself.

There was nothing in the Cleveland resolution requiring a national settlement.

Incidentally, he said he thought they would have trouble in Pennsylvania maintaining the 69 cent rate. President Adams, he said, did not refuse to act on a sub-committee of the strike committee appointed after they had concluded to make the best local settlements possible, but after the work was all done, refused to sanction it. "When the other 19 members of the committee signed it," said McBride, "Adams rolled his eyes toward heaven tragically and said: 'I believe we can win; now is the time to fight the differences between labor and capital. There never was a lasting victory without bloodshed and I am ready for it now.'"

Then McBride sailed into Adams rough shod. He charged that he was a traitor to the cause, because he had tried to stir up dissension in the organization. He referred to Adams' apocalypses and to his stories that people were trying to assassinate him. "Here is a man," said he, "not sane enough to run at large, charging the national officers with selling out, and me with ending the strike in the interest of President Cleveland. Why is there a man here who does not know it would have been the crowning act of my life if I could have made a success of this strike."

Adams was presiding and said nothing except to deny that he had reported that McBride had ended the strike in the interest of the democratic party. President McBride closed by saying that it made no difference what this convention did. "Four-fifths of the miners of the state have approved it," he said, "and gone to work."

Secretary McBryde spoke briefly, saying he did not believe the strike could have held out a week longer.

Then President Adams took the floor and defended himself. He denied that he had acted in bad faith in the strike committee. He only obeyed the behest of the Ohio miners, and he would take the same course if he had to do it over again. By inference he charged President McBride over and over again with working with the operators in selling the strike and recounted a story of how McBride and the operators sought to do him violence through John Short, an ex-mine inspector, when he refused to sign the scale. The speaker and McBride became involved in a question of veracity, but after flat denials from both sides, Adams resumed his vehement speech. At 7 o'clock the convention adjourned until to-day. It will probably accept the settlement and order the men back to work.

THE CHICAGO'S BOILERS.

In Such Bad Condition They Must Be Repaired Abroad.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Admiral Erben has notified the navy department that he will be compelled to remain at Antwerp for about two months in order to have urgent repairs made on the boilers of the Chicago, costing about $10,000. Although the Chicago's boilers were overhauled a year ago and were guaranteed for 18 months, the chief engineer of the ship has discovered that they are in such dangerous condition that no further use could be made of them without repairs.

Admiral Erben will retire in the autumn bringing the Chicago home in the meantime in order to haul down his flag at New York.

The current naval appropriation bill contains item of $200,000 for commencing new boilers and engines for the Chicago, it being the intention to put the vessel out of commission in November, for a two years stay in a navy yard. In these circumstances the department considers it strange that Admiral Erben should be willing to spend so much money on repairing obsolete and condemned boilers abroad at this time. It is thought that the admiral must have been imposed upon as to the serious and immediate character of the defects by his subordinate officers.

STORM IN BERGEN COUNTY.

Havoc Wrought by a Cloudburst—One Man Killed.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 20.—Bergen county was visited by a thunderstorm and cloudburst last evening. Telegraph poles, trees, out-buildings and chimneys were twisted and upset in a surprising manner, and channels of telegraphic communication were rendered worthless.

James Flanagan, a lineman, was killed near Bergen field. He was up a telegraph pole when ligotning struck it.

There were several landslides along the Susquehanna and Western railroad, and trains were delayed in order to take the eastbound tracks near Paterson.

A tornado raged through the mountains near Suffern and much damage was done.

Lightning set fire to the Spring Valley hotel, and also struck the house of Vincent Dunn.

Storm at Ballston.

BALLSTON, N. Y., June 20.—During the severe thunder storm here shortly after noon the dwelling of William J. York, on McLean street, was struck by lightning. Several members of the family were shocked but none severely. The flames ignited by the flash were extinguished before the house was badly damaged. The immense volume of water that fell caused the breaking of Foote's dam, on Gordon creek, and flooded the central part of the village. The Kayaderosseras river is also at flood height.

A Farmer Killed by an Electric Bolt.

ROME, N. Y., June 20.—While two farmers, named Patrick Whalen and Micah Kenyon, were at work in a field on Mr. Whalen's farm, north of this city, an electstorm came up very suddenly. The two men started to get their coats some distance away, with the intention of going to the house. As they ran there came a terrific flash of lightning. The bolt struck Whalen and killed him instantly. Kenyon was badly hurt and his recovery is despaired of.

Three Boys Struck by Lightning.

BELLFONTE, Pa., June 20.—During a severe electric storm here William Loz, Charles Hunter and Ed Loz, aged respectively 12, 11 and 10 years, who had taken refuge under a tree, were struck by lightning and burned so badly that the two latter can hardly recover. The storm was very severe in Penn's valley and washed out almost entire fields of corn and potatoes. The damage is as great as by the recent floods.

Most Terrific Seen in Years.

PATERSON, N. J, June 20.—During the electrical storm, which was the most terrific in years, the main tower of the new Barnert synagogue was destroyed. The wind tore off a section of the roof of the mill of the Paterson Ribbon company, and trees were blown down in nearly every street. When the storm subsided dead locusts, which were blown from the mountains, could be found everywhere.

Electric Pranks at Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., June 20.—The severe electrical storm which broke over this city yesterday did considerable damage and caused several small fires. Telegraph, telephone, electric light and trolley wires were seriously affected and the service is considerably impaired. Lightning struck the steeple of the Central M. E. church on Market street damaging it considerably.

Richardson Held for Trial.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The examination in the case of Leander Richardson, the editor of the Dramatic News, charged with assaulting John T. Sullivan, the husband and manager of Rose Coghlan, the actress, came off before Justice Ryan at the Jefferson Market police court. The assault occurred on May 9 in the lobby of the Madison Square theatre, on the opening of Charles Coghlan's play of "The Check Book." After hearing the evidence Justice Ryan held Richardson in $300 bail for trial, which was furnished.

QUICKSILVER ON TOP

Finance Committee Sustains Its First Defeat.

Senators Hill and Morgan, with the Aid of the Four Populists, Voted with the Republicans to Retain It on the Dutiable List—Several Democrats Absent.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Yesterday's proceedings in the senate were made memorable by the fact that the finance committee sustained its first defeat in the management of the tariff bill. It came at the close of the session when there were more absentees on the democratic side of the chamber than was consistent with assured victory on that side. The subject of it was quicksilver. This had been placed on the free list by the house, and the senate finance committee reported it without amendment. An attack upon it was made by Senator Perkins (rep., Cal.), who argued that its adoption would mean the ruin of the quicksilver mines of California and the delivery of the control of the quicksilver markets of the world to Rothschilds, who have contracts for the entire supply of the quicksilver mines of Spain and Austria. Mr. Perkins' argument was backed by Mr. Lodge (rep., Mass.), Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) and Mr. Stewart (pop., Nev.), and the democratic senator from California Mr. White, although paired and not voting, gave it some support in the shape of a letter from a representative of the quicksilver industry in California, setting out facts.

The opposition to the finance committee was only passive, not active. On the vote to strike the paragraph from the free list Senators Hill and Morgan (democrats) and the four populist senators—Allen, Kyle, Peffer and Stewart—voted with the republicans, and the motion was carried—yeas, 23; nays, 20.

Quicksilver was then placed on the dutiable list without opposition or division at the rate of seven cents a pound. Thirty-three pages of the bill were disposed of during the day, and when the salt paragraph was reached the senate, at 6:25 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

Among the bills passed in the house was one directing the secretary of the interior to sell at public auction 100,000 acres of pine land on the Chippewa reservation, Minnesota, and one to surrender to the city of Newport, Ky., for park purposes, the old site of the Newport barracks, situated at the confluence of the Ohio and Licking rivers.

The day was chiefly spent in general debate on the Hatch anti-option bill, speeches against it being delivered by Messrs. Coombs (dem., N. Y.) and Aldrich (rep., Ill.), and a speech in its favor by Mr. Sibley (dem., Pa.). Mr. Fletcher (rep., Minn.) had read letters from actual wheat buyers in Minneapolis protesting against the passage of the bill. In presenting them Mr. Fletcher said that statistics showed that for five years past at Chicago, the average price of May wheat as a future had been five cents a bushel higher than the article commanded as a spot article in that month, demonstrating the advantage that "futures" were to the producer.

Row at a Funeral.

READING, Pa., June 20,—St. Mary's Polish Catholic church was the scene of considerable excitement yesterday. The trouble was caused over the funeral of a member whose body had been taken into the church. Suddenly Rev. Father Januzkiewiez arose and in his native tongue said "All persons back in their church dues will vacate their pews and either stand or leave." The request was repeated three times, when at least 150 persons arose in their seats and demanded the $10 which had been paid for mass and which was returned. The bearers then carried out the remains followed by the friends. This was followed by a tremendous uproar in which the priest was knocked doown. The remains were taken to the cemetery where one of the members of the St. Anistaus society officiated.

No Time To Discuss Rumors.

BOSTON, June 20.—The officers of the Pearson Cordage company have adopted the uniform policy of neither denying nor affirming any of the reports regarding their company. They did this two years ago when stories of the sale of the Pearson plant to the trust first began to be given out. These stories have been revived from time to time since without anything materializing, so that the present report appears to partake of the nature of its many predecessors. It is thought to be as improbable now as it was before.

Blessed Instead of Murdered.

NEWARK, N. J., June 20.—J. B. Osborne, an irate Arlington tailor who lay in the woods armed with a shotgun all Monday night to kill Isaac Van Emberg, a milkman, who had run away with and married his 15-year-old-daughter, Ida, and followed the young man around the village all day with murderous intent, has relented and given the couple his blessing.

The Conference a Partial Success.

POMEROY, O., June 20.—The conference of operators and miners here yesterday was a partial success. The miners decided to resume work at 2 1-4 cents per bushel which was accepted by about one-third of the operators, who will start their mines at once. The remainder refused to give more than two cents, but it is believed they will capitulate within a week.

Wealers Capture a Stock Train.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 20.—A fast stock train on the St. Paul road was captured at La Crosse last night by "Jumbo" Cantwell's commonweal army and brought through to this city. The conductor received orders from the officials to bring them here. There are 190, 40 being left at La Crosse.

Abdul Aziz Recognized as Sultan.

TANGIER, June 20.—Muley Mahommed has been imprisoned in the city of Morocco. The Shereef of Wazan has recognized Abdul Aziz as sultan. All the foreign diplomatic representatives have done likewise.

Senate Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The senate has confirmed the nominations of Frederick B. Clark, to be postmaster at Moodus, Conn., and J. George Wright, Indian agent at the Rosebud agency, S. D.

BEST DIET FOR CHILDREN.
Physicians of Large Experience Say the Only Security is in Lactated Food—Little Miss Krapf of Pennsylvania.
Babyhood cannot be trifled with. Thousands die yearly in the months of June, July and August from mistakes in diet, and that means from causes which could be prevented.
When the baby is weaned a substitute must be found for mother's milk, sufficiently nutritious to supply material for baby's rapid growth and development, agreeable to take and of absolute purity. All these conditions are perfectly fulfilled in lactated food. It is the most nourishing, strengthening, rapidly digested and palatable food that can be given the baby.

Says Mrs. Charles A. Krapf, 351 West Broad street, Hazleton, Penn.: "Our little girl has been using lactated food since last year up to the present time, and we think it is the best food for children. It has built her up in solid flesh and I could not do without it."
In a recent letter Mrs. Susan Bartram, 3611 Tulip st., Philadelphia, wrote:
"I have raised three babies on lactated food. I tried all kinds of foods for the first one and none of them gave satisfaction, for the baby was sick all the time; the doctor advised me to use lactated food, and in one week's time after commencing its use I saw an improvement in the baby and after that I never had any trouble and have never used any other kind of food. I commenced using the food with my next baby when she was 3 days old. He is now 20 months old and has cut 17 teeth without any trouble. I have another baby only three weeks old tomorrow, and I have begun to give her the lactated food, too. I have recommended the food to many friends and they have used it with great satisfaction.

City Treasurer's Records Seized.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., June 20.—Five big safes in the office of City Treasurer Bleckwenn, containing all the books and records of his department, were seized by Deputy Sheriff Walter to satisfy a judgment for $270.57 obtained against this city by Michael Hand. Treasurer Bleckwenn, Deputy Treasurer Kaufman and Clerks Crowley and Boyd tried to get possession of the books and papers. They grabbed up everything available and rushed out of the place with them. While the deputy sheriff was trying to close the safes, Treasurer Bleckwenn held a consultation with Mayor Sanford and Corporation Counsel Stewart. The latter said that the seizure was illegal, as the court prevented the sheriff taking possession of any city property in use. Mr. Hand owns a house on Eighth street, this city. There was a case of smallpox in his house during an epidemic of the disease here over a year ago. The city was without a pest-house at the time, and several smallpox patients were removed to Hand's house despite his protest. He sued for $500 damages.

Nautical Opinion.

LONDON, June 20.—The Graphic, commenting on the voyage of the Vigilant, says: "If Atlantic voyages were to be taken into account as an augury of the coming trial between English and American yachts the victory would not be with the English; but the Valkyrie is not the only antagonist the Vigilant has to meet. The race between the Vigilant and the Britannia will be the most interesting ever seen in the annals of yachting. If we are beaten we will take our defeat with good grace. The Americans have learned much of us in the matter of yacht building, and we can well afford to learn something in return."

COTTOLENE IS MADE TO EAT
Made from clarified oil, expressed from Cotton Seed—as pure and golden as the Southern Sunshine which produces it.
For convenience in handling, there is added to this oil enough beef suet to make it a semi-solid.
The combination of these two pure natural products makes Cottolene, a shortening and cooking fat, with which in healthfulness, cleanliness, flavor and economy, nothing in the world can compare.
IMITATIONS are MADE TO SELL
To sell on the merits of the genuine. To sell by substitution; or by deception. To sell to the injury of the genuine, to the dissatisfaction of the consumer, to the detriment of the dealer, to the loss of all concerned—except the scheming counterfeiter himself.
If you wish the best food and the best health, you should insist that your cooking be done with genuine Cottolene. Refuse all counterfeits.

Good Talk to the Boys.

J. C. Bates of Westervelt avenue gave an especially interesting and helpful address to the Boys Department of the Y. M. C. A. last evening. He gave the boys the result of his wide observation, gained through extensive travel, of the evil effects of drink. The talk was followed by a mock trial, in which James E. Stafford was the prisoner, F. Wilbur Cornwell and Edgar Shepard the lawyers, and J. K. LaBoyteaux the judge.

They Were N. G.

Wm. Hall of 36 Sedgwick street, Allegheny City, wrote to City Treasurer Titsworth enclosing a $2 and a $1 bill of the defunct Plainfield Bank of '49, asking if they could be redeemed. They were signed by Cashier A. Beach and President Nathan Vail.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

51-2 YEARS IN PRISON.

Erastus Wiman Sentenced to Sing Sing.

(Special to The Press.)

NEW YORK, June 20.—Erastus Wiman was sentenced this morning by Justice Ingraham in the Court of Oyer and Terminer to five years and six months in State Prison for the crime of forgery in the second degree.

This means an actual term of service of three years ten months and fifteen days in Sing Sing.

On request of Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy of counsel for Mr. Wiman, Justice Ingraham said that he would direct the Sheriff not to remove the prisoner from the Tombs to State Prison before Tuesday morning next.

This is to allow a reasonable time for the counsel for Mr. Wiman to apply to a Justice of the Supreme Court for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Such a certificate, if granted, will act as a stay of execution pending appeal, and Mr. Wiman could then be admitted to bail.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Harry Rand and Curt Gottheil returned home yesterday after a pleasant trip on their wheels to Peekskill. They found the roads in excellent condition.

If you want to go on the century run to Asbury Park Saturday, see Captain F. L. C. Martin. Walter Magie, P. B. MacIntyre, and Volney Green are the Plainfield entries thus far. McVey will supply one of his famous breakfasts in Captain Martin's new store.

The New York Times says: "The Crescent Wheelmen of Plainfield are booming their Fourth of July races in great style. The entries are coming in fast for the events. The ten-mile team race is exciting considerable attention among the New Jersey clubs."

Great Players, The Park Club.

The Park Club defeated the Elizabeth Whist Club for the third successive time, by two points, last night, at duplicate whist. Refreshments were enjoyed after the game. The Elizabeth Club has beaten the celebrated Hamilton Team of Philadelphia.

ELECTRIC EXPLOSION.

All the Town Startled by a Terrific Discharge.

Blue blazes played about Plainfield in earnest last evening. The thunder storm of the afternoon had entirely passed over, and its blackness was over towards New Brunswick. Above Plainfield were only a few light straggling clouds, the blue sky predominating. Suddenly, at just 6:35, the air seemed full of electric needles, sparks snapping and crackling all about. People on the streets had barely time to realize a prickling, tingling sensation when there came a terrific crash and roar, like the fall of buildings and the boom of gigantic cannon. Everybody indoors rushed out in alarm, and those on the street seemed dazed for a moment. Only a few drops of rain fell, and no further manifestations followed. In an East Front street house opposite the First Presbyterian Church a family of frightened children set up a pitiful wailing. Mail-Carrier Edward T. Van Winkle was in front of the church, and jumped two feet into the air, from the shock. J. B. Coward's family, sitting on their porch, saw a fireball explode in front of the church and shoot into the pavement. S. E. Flower saw a similar discharge in front of Hebard's Pharmacy. Another bolt struck the trolley wire and the current ran into Car 5, being taken care of by the lightning arrester there and sent harmlessly into the air. Still another bolt burned out telephone fuses, and the electric lamps in the main part of the First Presbyterian Church were rendered useless. A little son of F. W. Bird was for a time severely affected by the shock, and the nerves of everybody suffered.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Maizie Gray of Elmwood place is suffering with tonsilitis.

Mrs. D. C. Green and daughters leave today for Northfield, Mass.

Daniel Crowley, proprietor of the Central Hotel, left yesterday for Boston.

W. W. Newell of Chicago is visiting his brother, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell of this city.

Marshal Pangborn will tonight attend the graduating exercises of the Essex County Asylum.

Mrs. George W. Sayre of Newark will spend the Summer with her mother, Mrs. Ledos of Mt. Bethel.

Rev. and Mrs. Dwight of 95 Rockview avenue are enjoying the homecoming of their son from Princeton.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman and Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., are spending this week in Avon by the Sea.

Mrs. Rachael Hart of Philadelphia, who has been visiting Mrs. Silas Yerkes on Central avenue, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. C. A. Stadleman of Brooklyn is spending a few weeks with her nephew and his wife, Mr and Mrs. Edward Walter of Park place.

The musicale given by Miss Gertrude Walz at her home on LaGrande avenue yesterday afternoon, was well attended and much enjoyed.

The death is reported of ex-Councilman Jacob Shulthise of Elizabeth, who was foreman at Schepflin's clothing manufactory of city for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Grant of West Front street entertained John Walker of Montreal over Sunday. Mr. Walker is manager of a large insurance company.

David T. Kenney, the North Avenue plumber, attended the annual meeting of the Steam and Hot Water Fitters Association of the United States, held in the Broadway Central Hotel today.

Craig Bros of Texas recently sold through Elston M. French the fine residence on Somerset street occupied by Dr. Thiers, to Dr. P. J. Zeglio, who will probably occupy it next Spring. The consideration is in the neighborhood of $15,000, about $90 a front foot.

Frank Cokefair, son of C. C. Cokefair of this city, received the degree of Civil Engineer from the School of Mines of Columbia College. During the past year he has been leader of the Columbia Glee Club, which has given several popular concerts in New York, Brooklyn, New Haven, Newark and other towns contiguous to New York. He is is expected home this week.

Ran Into the Station.

The air brakes on Engine 619, drawing the Philadelphia train which passes through Plainfield about 8:45 for Jersey City, did not work this morning, and when she reached the terminal the engineer was unable to stop. The engine ran up on the stone platform, carrying away considerable wood and iron work.

Twelve Lives Lost.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., June 20.—The schooner Rose, Henry Gosse master, bound from Spaniard's Bay to Labrador for the summer's fishery, having on board fishing crews numbering 55 persons, struck an iceberg Sunday afternoon off Partridge Point during a dense fog and sank within ten minutes.

The iceberg being low and flat 43 persons managed to clamber upon it. The remaining 12, however, sank with the vessel. The latter included eight men, two women and two boys. The survivors consisted of 27 men, nine women and seven children, and but for the accessibility of the iceberg none of them would have been saved. The body of one woman was recovered.

Shortly after, the crew of another vessel, the Irene, which was passing, hearing the cries of the people on the iceberg, brought their ship near and took off the castaways. The Irene brought them to Coachman's cove and landed them. The Rev. Father Sheehan, the priest of that place, did his utmost to help the unfortunates.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

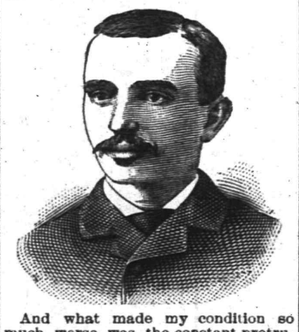
Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.



And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Corporation Notice.

Plainfield N. J., June 6, 1894.

The attention of all concerned is called to the following extract from an act passed by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, and approved April 4, 1894:

"That every person who shall own, keep or harbor any dogs, bitch or bitches shall have the same registered and numbered with the Clerk of the City in which the owner or person harboring the same shall reside, and shall place upon the neck of each dog or bitch kept or harbored a collar, having engraved thereon upon a metal surface, the name of the owner of said dog or bitch and the registered number thereof; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or bitch found straying off the owner's premises without such collar upon its neck.

"The person applying for registration shall pay the sum of one dollar for each dog or bitch thus registered."

The registry book is kept at the office of the City Clerk, 109 Park avenue. Prompt compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid statute is urged.

After July 1 the provisions of this act will be enforced.

GOOD WORK BY STUDENTS.

Excellent Exhibition of a Year's Progress.

An exhibition of school was given by the pupils in Bryant School yesterday afternoon. Nearly every one of the 400 scholars were represented in some study. The collection compared very favorably with that which was sent to the World's Fair and which received an award. The specimens sent to the fair were specially prepared for the purpose, while this year's exhibition represents actual class-work.

The school contains seven grades in ten rooms. The new principal, Miss E. V. Shattuck of Buffalo, has introduced new ideas in methods during the year she has been here, and the work exhibited shows how successful her management has been.

The kindergarten exhibit showed the careful work of the teacher, Miss Cora F. Cadmus of East Orange, in directing the early efforts of the children. The designs in paper were very neatly executed. The first year class displayed the illustrated results of observation lessons. The next two years work was shown by progress in the same direction. In the fourth year geography began to take a prominent part in study, maps of the zones showing the effects of variations of climate being exhibited. The fifth year class is under the direct supervision of the principal. Maps of South America formed the geographical section and illustrated essays indicated study in mythology and history. The next class showed illustrations in color, the study of the American flag beginning.

The highest class displayed fine collections of minerals and illustrated work comprising essays on botany and copies of poems. In this class was shown the forestry collection of Miss Alice Callahan, who has been notified that she will receive the prize for this work.

Because of the rain yesterday the exhibition in Bryant School was continued this afternoon. Franklin School hold theirs today also. Irving School will exhibit tomorrow.

The High School has no exhibition this year. The teachers of the three grammar classes in the Stillman Building have each prepared a year book for preservation and reference. Miss Benedict in Class 9 a and Miss Runyon in Class 9 b have books especially strong in American history with essays illustrated with free hand drawings. Examples in mensuration are cleverly illustrated and neatly arranged. Miss Tomlinson of Class 8 c has a book of compositions, examples in percentage and pictures of foreign life.

CHURCH CHIMES.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church Clarence E. Bond was elected President of the Board.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards will preside and introduce the lecturer, Adam Chambers, in Bethel Chapel Friday evening, when Mr. Chambers gives his grand panoramic lecture on Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

A cordial invitation is extended to the members of Winfield Scott and Major Anderson Posts, G. A. R., to attend the memorial services of Major John C. Paul, of the Fourth Pennsylvania Cavalry, in the First Presbyterian Church, next Sunday evening, June 24, at 8.

At a meeting of the trustees of the First Presbyterian Church, held Monday, June 18, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, in His wise providence, to take unto Himself our brother, Major John Calvin Paul, late president of this board; and,

WHEREAS, It is fitting that we should, at this time, place upon record our testimony to his worth; therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him "who doeth all things well"; we deeply deplore the loss of one, who, as a member of this church, and presiding officer of its Board of Trustees, has set an example of energy, devotion and faithfulness in his Master's service that we may well strive to imitate.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family in their affliction, and commend them to the loving care of Him who has promised to be the "God of the widow and the Father of the fatherless", and whose "promises fail not".

Resolved, That the following preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this board, and that copies thereof be sent to the family of the deceased, and to the daily papers of this city for publication.

HOWARD A. POPE, Secretary.

Life There Is a Delight.

One hundred feet higher then the level of Front street, on the side of the Second Mountain, is the model country home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark. The house stands in a plot of 35 acres, which produces crops of every season, a large bed of delicious strawberries being the leader just now. Everything is provided for beast and man, and a party of Plainfielders who visited the place last night can testify fully to the hospitality. The large house is beautifully situated on a knoll, commanding an enchanting view from the large veranda. That which was a field, Mr. Clark has transformed into beautiful lawns, with macadamized roadways for the public on the highways and for himself inside his grounds. He also has a fine sidewalk in front of the entire property. Credit is his for the many improvements he has made and helped to make in that part of Washington Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Clark and their three sons are very hospitable people.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor meeting in the East Third Street Mission Thursday evening will be in charge of Miss Florence Hawkins of the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Boys and Girls Win Equal Honors.

The companies of High School students, each 16 strong, one composed of boys the other of girls, participated in a competitive drill in the yard this morning. The result was a tie. The girls kept in line better than the boys, but did not obey orders so readily. Accordingly, instead of one company's receiving ice-cream soda as prizes, all the contestants were treated to plain soda. The prizes were awarded in H. P. Reynolds's pharmacy.

Dunellen.

Will Jennings has been spending a few days in Newark.

Louis Hildebrant has been enjoying a visit with friends in Lebanon.

Benjamin Peyser and William Waglow have returned from their Jacksonville visit.

The grounds about the railroad station have just been put in fine condition, and they never looked better.

So many boys have been bathing in Green brook, in their birthday clothes, that of late an officer is obliged to chase them.

Mrs. William Clawson of South Plainfield has recovered from her illness, and is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tingley.

One of Dunellen's popular young men is about to leave the ranks of singleness, and his many friends are waiting to congratulate him.

Postmaster Staats went to the Meyers Stock Farm, Finderne, yesterday, to purchase a horse. Now all the town will turn out to see its paces.

William Conley picked nearly 125 quarts of cherries for Mrs. Maier yesterday, off the one tree next to the hotel. Mrs. Maier canned 70 cans.

It being very warm last evening, the festival at the Methodist Church was liberally patronized and was very successful in every particular.

Mr. and Mrs. Caspar Maier of Martinsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maier of Bound Brook, have returned home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Maier.

Complaints have been heard of several men who congregate at different times in West Dunellen, near the railroad track, and sell beer. Recently one of their meetings ended in a fight.

A number of Dunellen's young people were desirous of erecting a platform in some convenient place to have dancing July 4, but the church people objected and the plan has been given up.

Paul Kratzel has just received a crayon portrait of himself. It is taken with the uniform on which he wore in the Seventy-sixth Regiment of the German Army. It is an excellent picture, exceedingly lifelike.

George Orlemann, who was so seriously injured in a runaway accident in Montclair, Monday, was formerly a resident of Dunellen, and was well-known here. He afterwards moved to Plainfield, and worked for his brother-in-law, A. G. Vogeler, at his meat market.

This is not leap year, but the young men wish it were, so they could enjoy what fell to the lot of a young man from New Market last Sunday. His best girl, who lives in Dunellen, secured a horse belonging to her employer, hired a wagon and gave him a most delightful drive.

Constable George Huff made a levy on the goods belonging to Carl Heimerle, who keeps a poultry farm, near New Market, last week, to satisfy the claims of a New York firm. On Monday the goods were inventoried, and unless the bill is paid soon, they will be advertised and sold.

Charles Bolce, a well-known man about town, met Mr. Hopkins on the street yesterday and make known his presence by giving him a few smart raps with his umbrella. This did not please Mr. Hopkins very much, and he resented the assault. A lively time ensued, but quiet was finally restored, without arrests.

It is said that several women of the borough, headed by one more daring than the rest, discovered a place the other day which is similar to some of the popular watering places. All it lacks is the surf. The bathing was very much enjoyed, acording to all accounts. Your correspondent was not invited.

Charles Dickinson has been putting a new roof on Paul Kratzel's building. The other night after he had gone home, necessarily leaving a large opening in the roof, the heavy shower visited Dunellen, the water running through into the garret, soaking the floor and ceilings in the rooms below. The roof has since been completed.

An incident where a man was put to flight by a woman is the talk of Church street. Near the line fence in Howard Giles's yard is a cherry tree, some of the limbs hanging over the fence in the yard occupied by Mrs. Randolph. Mrs. Giles made a bargain with Thomas Bodine to pick the cherries on her side on shares, and when Mrs. Randolph saw the man around she was very angry and expressed her mind quite freely. Mr. Bodine became frightened, and the result was that Mrs. Randolph chased him away. He has not been back yet.

Dr. Brakeley, president of the borough, was recently authorized by the Commissioners to look into the matter of fire protection for Dunellen. A chemical engine, it was thought, would answer the purpose, and then a test was given of a fire extinguisher, but nothing was definitely decided on. Dr. Brakeley then corresponded with the Phœnix Insurance Company of London, and the Phœnix Insurance Company of Brooklyn, in regard to risks, and they both informed him that they could not take heavy risks unless the borough had a first-class water supply. In order to have this it would cost the borough about $1,000 on the start, and an additional thousand each year to maintain the system. The Plainfield Water Supply Company charges 10 cents a foot for laying pipes, and counting everything it would amount to that at least, to give Dunellen the supply she needs. Nothing further has been done in the matter, as the Commissioners do not feel able to go to such expense. The protection is needed, and something should be done before it is too late and before a severe loss is sustained.

Stirling.

Miss Mattie Cooper is rapidly recovering from a severe attack of illness.

Alfred Commeyer, the New York shoe merchant, is making extensive improvements at his Summer residence on Long Hill.

Sol Soles is about to move into his handsome new mansion on Long Hill. It is the finest country residence for miles around, and is estimated to have cost nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Nick Thomas has just commenced building a new house, and the people are wondering which one of the pretty young women will share it with him, as he seems quite a favorite with a number.

C. B. Moffett has moved into his new house, which he has just completed on the old Grant farm, situated between Stirling and Millington. The new site commands a view for miles up and down the Passaic Valley.

Snatched from a Soft Bed.

William Coriell of Evona went to sleep in ex-Mayor Randolph's barn last evening. A workman found him in the hay at 8 and had him arrested by Chief Grant. City Judge Coddington suspended sentence on Coriell this morning.

A fire hydrant is called for to be placed in front of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Robert Gow has returned from Ocean Grove after a pleasant week's visit.

David Thompson has secured a position at Rockaway Beach for the Summer.

Fred Firstbrook was bitten in the leg by a turtle while bathing in Green brook.

Manager John Scott of the Crescents has signed Charlie Blanchard to play first base.

"Amateur Billy" of Potters, who went fishing at Bound Brook, got wet, but caught no fish.

A game of base-ball will be played next Saturday between the married and single men of Hope Chapel.

Grant avenue has been in worse condition than ever since the rain washed the stone into the gutters.

Frank Weston has returned from Florida after spending a few weeks with friends and relatives there.

Ex-manager Mague of the Crescents will assume the management of the Metropolitan Base-Ball Club of Pondville.

Frank Whitely, while riding to Metuchen, fell off his wheel and sprained his ankle, which will keep him from working several weeks.

Elmer Hoffman, the Press carrier who was bitten by a dog, will be able to be around again in a short time, in the new suit the dog's owner gave him.

Fireman Bert Littell severely burned his arm at the Connolly barn fire Sunday morning. Dr. Honan dressed his wound, and he is now getting along well.

ELECTRICIANS ELECTRIFIED.

Henry Miller and Charles Allen Badly Burned by the Current.

Henry Miller, who has had charge of the Westfield electric plant since its establishment, was attending to the arc light at the Broad Street crossing yesterday, after the storm, when suddenly he and his assistant were badly shocked. Miller was the first to break loose from the wire, and, throwing his arm around his assistant's neck, pulled him away. A crowd quickly gathered. Both men were badly burned about the hands and feet, and very much prostrated. They were carried to the office of Dr. Kinch, who dressed the terrible burns. Allen says it is his last "monkeying" with electric light.

Early Morning Runaway.

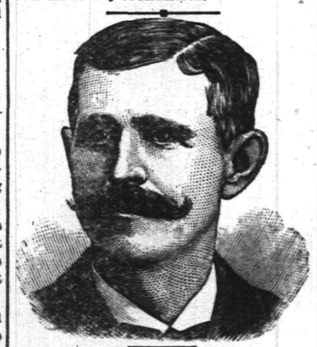
Woolston & Buckle's horse ran away from in front of their stores on North avenue, with their business wagon, shortly after 7 this morning. The horse was standing untied and became frightened.

The painters' wagon collided with the delivery rig from Walker's bakery, and overturned it, but did no damage. The runaway horse dashed on down North avenue. In front of the Press office the wagon struck John Vroom's bicycle which stood by the curb and dragged it to the corner of Park. Here the horse fell. When he started up again he was caught by George Bilyeu. Woolston & Buckle sent the damaged bicycle to a shop and will pay for repairs.

Emulating Plainfield.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

Several prominent citizens have seconded the suggestion of The Home News to hold a driving parade in this city similar to that held in Plainfield Saturday, which was a great drawing card. The exhibition here will probably come off Labor Day, which is early in September, or probably the Saturday afternoon preceding Labor Day. Valuable prizes will be offered, and there is likely to be lively competition for them from contestants all over the county of Middlesex.



A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that 'creepy' feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recomendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

NEW SCHOOL PRIZES.

Awards to Encourage the Study of Botany and Forestry.

A new set of prizes appear on the Commencement programme this year under the title of Botany and Forestry Prizes, which are given by Mrs. W. D. Murray, who was a member of the class of 1877. They are to encourage observation and study of nature, and consist of a prize for the best collection of flowers collected, pressed and named by a member of the botany class, and one for the best collection from a pupil not a member of the botany class.

The forestry prizes are for the best collection of leaves of trees pressed, mounted and named by pupils in the grammar schools and by high school pupils.

Justice Mosher's Papers Defective.

The case of Charles K. Moore against Charles P. Rice was to have been tried at Elizabeth this morning before Judge McCormick.

The case was called, Walter L Hetfield representing Col. Moore and Craig A. Marsh for Rice.

Mr. Marsh moved for a non-suit on the ground that the summons in the case as issued by Justice Joseph E. Mosher was defective in that it was not issued in the name of the State of New Jersey—did not specify the year in which it was returnable, nor the place at which the hearing was to be held.

Mr. Hetfield immediately saw that the defects were vital and argument useless. The Court granted Mr. Marsh's motion.

Col. Moore told Judge Mosher that he had a little boy who though not an expert penman, knew enough to date his papers.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. COLUMBIA BICYCLES

CAN BE RELIED UPON.

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

The Overton Claim.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894

CHAPTER XI.

Vance was a true prophet. When it came out that no persuasion, no counsel, could win Major Overton to accept Allen Fauntleroy's surrender, that he persisted in leaving that fatal cloud on the title, Hawkins fell first into a foaming rage, later into a hard eyed, sharp edged anger that augured ill for whoever might chance to be held in his power.

Yet Hawkins was not ordinarily bad tempered. Indeed he reckoned himself among the most generous and forbearing of mankind, especially when he thought of Major Overton, whose secret he had so faithfully kept through all these years of warfare.

To think that now the major could be so selfish, could set his own foolish notion of right and honor above the music of jingling gold in both pockets—Hawkins' pockets! Clearly he ought to be reminded of what he owed to the disappointed attorney; made to understand that knowledge, especially of family skeletons, is always power.

So reasoned Mr. Hawkins as he made away to Ridgeley one bright day when July had slipped into golden August. Either hand the fields lay ripe and lush. All the world was bright with summer's most radiant smile. Hawkins heeded it as little as though blindness veiled his eyes. He saw only precious yellow gold vanishing forever, held from his hand by an obstinate old man, whom he wished heartily "dead and done with it all," not from any personal grudge, but simply by way of setting right an inconvenient complication.

All the way he told himself over and over the story of his wrong, his deserving. By the time he came into Major Overton's presence he was so full of wrath as to lose sight of discretion.

The major sat at ease within the narrow front portico listening to the county news which Dare read in scraps from the local papers. Through the long hall came the drone of mammy's wheel from the back piazza. Under a rosebush, a little to one side of the door, Jubilee sat polishing knives by rubbing them hard in the fresh earth at its root.

Hawkins looked at all of it with a contemptuous eye—it was so poor and rough, poverty stricken almost, beside his gorgeous imaginings of what might so easily be in its stead. Very deliberately he flung his reins over the limb of a near maple, got down and walked to the unhewn stone steps, paused with a foot upon the lowermost one and said in deepest chest tones:

"Good day, major. I'd like a little talk with you this morning. Will you come out with me, or shall I come in?"

"Good day, sir. Be seated," Major Overton said, rising courteously to welcome the guest, at sight of whom Dare had vanished.

Hawkins climbed the three steps in front of him with the ponderous tread of an angry man and sat heavily down in a big splint chair, dropped his hat upon the floor and said, brushing over his mustache a fine, scented cambric handkerchief:

"You are surprised, I know, to see me, major, but my surprise is that I haven't come before."

A deep line drew in betwixt Major Overton's brows, but he said, with no hint of impatience in his tone:

"Indeed! Then you must have urgent business?"

"I have," said Hawkins, uncrossing his legs and setting both feet firm on the floor. Leaning forward, he continued:

"The fact is, major, you haven't used me well in this last turn of affairs. You know, for I sent you word through Hildreth, how I stand regarding this sale, yet just for a chimera you set yourself against everything. If it meant nothing to anybody but yourself, I'd agree you had a perfect right to act—well, the fool if it suited you. But taking money out of my pocket is another thing. Do you think it is quite square, considering all you owe me?"

The last words were spoken very low, but Major Overton caught their full meaning. He sat up very straight, and lightning began to play under his penthouse brows. Gripping hard the wooden arms of his chair, he said, not loudly, but with a ring of defiance:

"No doubt, Mr. Hawkins, right and honor are to you but chimeras, not a feather's weight in the scale against hard cash. Unfortunately for you, I see differently. As to any obligation that I may be under, if money or material advantage can discharge it, then it does not exist."

Hawkins rose up in white fury.

"Do you mean to say that I lie?" he roared. "Wouldn't you have paid all and more than all you were worth to keep people from hearing that your only daughter willfully, knowingly, ran away with a married man? By the Lord, sir, they shall hear it, with proof, too, such proof as cannot be pushed aside, unless you listen to reason. I've been easy with you, your friend so long, you forgot, didn't you, how I could cut your pride? Now make your choice and be quick about it. I'm not in the humor to stand any more of your airs."

Both men had risen and stood face to face. Major Overton's jaw was like iron, his eyes deadly, but his hands hung at his side, his tone was low and even as he said:

"Under my roof, Mr. Hawkins, you say what you please. Repeat your threats away from it, I will answer them as they deserve."

"You shall suffer for this," Hawkins said, turning upon his heels.

"No, you will," said Allen Fauntleroy, who had come unheard of either contestant and stood a bare three feet away.

"Stand aside," said Hawkins furiously, trying to shoulder past. Allen caught him in a hard grip, shook him as a dog shakes a rat and said through set teeth:

"You hound, you hound, to threaten an old man in this dastard fashion! Go now, but take this word with you—the minute you dare to speak of anything in that miserable past you sign your own death warrant! It touches me, too, remember. I will shoot you with as little compunction as I would a mad dog."

As Hawkins reeled down the steps Allen turned to Major Overton.

"Forgive my intrusion, sir," he said, "or at least hear my errand before you punish it. You warned me fairly of the risk I ran in coming, but in spite of it I felt that I must see you here at once again."

"Will you come within to speak?" Major Overton said, with grave courtesy, leading the way to the small office Allen remembered so well. The old man was spent and shaken in spite of his iron nerve. He sat down heavily, with a long sigh, and said as though speech were painful:

"Since our last meeting, Mr. Fauntleroy, my opinion of you has changed, though unluckily fate has put it out of the power of either of us to change our course of action."

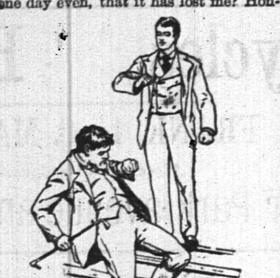
"You mean we can never be friends? Believe me, Major Overton, if I had known everything I would never have dared to thrust my presence upon you. When I came to know all the wrong you had suffered, suffer yet, I felt that it must henceforth be the purpose of my life to help you to your own."

The old man looked at him with a long, farseeing gaze, saying: "It is my own—justly, honorably my own—but I must prove it. I will. I can take it on no man's sufferance. I would not lift a finger to take it all, save that I must do it to clear my father's name."

"Do you not care for fortune?" young Fauntleroy asked.

The major touched his white hair.

"Why should I?" he said. "I am old, old. Could fortune bring back one year, one day even, that it has lost me? Hon-



"I will shoot you with as little compunction as I would a mad dog."

estly, now that I find what stuff you are made of, I am sorry that I cannot leave you in peaceful possession, even when I remember whose son you are."

"You forget your grandchild," Allen said, halting ever so slightly over the word.

The major shook his head.

"No, but what can a girl do with money? It is oftener than not a curse to her, makes her the prey of fortune hunters, drives deserving lovers away. Believe me, young man, the trouble of the world comes through and to women. Why, there is, in my judgment, a woman at the bottom of this disagreement of ours."

"Indeed! Tell me who she is or was?" Allen said, with a great start.

"You forget I have yet to hear what brought you to me this morning," Major Overton said, looking keenly at the other

"Let me speak after you," Allen replied eagerly. "It may be one story will illuminate the other."

73 Market Street Near Plane Street

Are doing better by customers than any other house in the trade, by making and laying Carpets with paper without charge, which is a saving of 15c. per yard, and giving away a bed spring and mixed mattress with every bedroom suit sold, which is a saving of $7 on every bedroom suit to purchasers.

Fancy Matting—Good fancy matting per yard, only 8c.

Children's Carriages—Regular price $10, reduced to $7.

Refrigerators—Regular price of hardwood uprights $10, reduced to $7.

Parlor Suits—Reductions of $5, $10, $15 and $20 per suit, and we can simply say that nowhere in the city will you receive as much value for as little money or better accommodation than at our store.

Portland Ranges—The famous Portland Range seems to be the only range in demand, the way we are selling them.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, t and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

VICIOUS IF NOT SANE

Mrs. Halliday Displays a Bad Disposition.

Kicked the Shins and Spat in the Face of One of the Insanity Experts. Her Case To Be Given to the Jury This Afternoon—Summing Up Begun This Morning.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 21.—The summing up in the Halliday trial began this morning and the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

When the prisoner came into court at the afternoon session she seemed slightly flushed. As she was passing through the aisle on her way to her seat she attempted to catch hold of the dress of a lady in the audience.

During the noon recess Edward C. Mann, of the Flatbush Insane asylum, Brooklyn, undertook to examine Mrs. Halliday. She acted violently, kicked him in the stomach and applied an insulting epithet to him. When he attempted to examine her tongue she spat in his face. She used much obscene language.

Dr. Talcott, of the Middletown asylum, was recalled as a witness. He said he considered Mrs. Halliday insane. She had not intelligence enough to feign insanity. She had never been sane since she left the Middletown asylum.

Dr. H. E. Allison, superintendent of the Mattewan hospital, differs with Dr. Talcott on the point that the woman never regained her reason. He believes her to be insane now, however. Her age, as given when she entered the Mattewan hospital, was 35. The rest of the witness' testimony was that of an expert. This was the last witness for the defense.

Dr. Beaks was recalled by the prosecution and said when he saw the prisoner at Bloomingsburg, last September, he judged from her actions that she was feigning insanity. She had raved in a very insane manner, wanting to have potato bugs brushed from her person until the bloody carpet was brought in. She then stopped her ravings and seemed to be affected. When the revolver and cartridges were brought in she wilted completely and did not want the potato bugs brushed off for an hour.

When about to be brought to Monticello, and after she had been placed in a wagon for that purpose, a man was detailed to keep her from jumping out. This he did by placing his arm about her. The guard being a bachelor the crowd which had collected about the wagon began to jeer. Upon this Mrs. Halliday's face became wreathed in the most pleasant and natural smile Dr. Beaks had ever seen. He said he had examined about twenty-five insane persons within the past five years and did not think he could be mistaken with regard to the prisoner.

Dr. Beaks said a dry skin was one of the evidences of insanity. Most of the witnesses who had handled Mrs. Halliday swore that her skin was wet and clammy.

Dr. Wm. H. Woodruf, of Pine Bush, Orange county, who was present at Bloomingsburg in September, 1893, saw the defendant and examined her closely. He found her pulse 110; eyes normal and her general condition good. She was very stout; thought her actions feigned. He was family physician of the Hallidays and had seen all of Halliday's other wives, but had never attended Lizzie.

Dr. James A. Cauthers, of Monticello, testified to having visited Mrs. Halliday in her cell last September in company with a newspaper reporter. He had examined her and had formed the opinion that she was feigning insanity.

Plymouth's Position Critical.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 21.—The Fall River line officials are becoming quite alarmed over the condition of the Plymouth. It is now generally admitted that the attempt to haul her off was a foolish piece of business, and has done the steamer considerable injury. It is learned that the pumps have all they can do to keep the water down to a reasonable depth in the inner hull. A mud-scow has been put under the starboard quarter guards to prevent her from listing further, as it was begun to be feared that she might assume such a list as to roll over into deep water, which is very bold all around the rock. It is hoped she can be taken off after her freight is removed.

Does Himself Honor Abroad.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Gus Zimmermann, champion rifle shot of the New York Independent Schuetzen has just gained a national reputation by doing some remarkable shooting in the great International Schuetzen Shoot at Mayence, Germany. Mr. Zimmermann had already distinguished himself in the present tournament by carrying away the best prizes in the quick firing, field and stand target shooting. A private despatch just received announces that Zimmerman had carried off the honors in the champion target shoot, making a wonderful record. He scored 59 points out of a possible 60, 1,000 feet, ring target, breaking all previous records in the champion target.

Presumes They Will Invite Him.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Representative W. C. P. Breckinridge when asked whether he would keep his engagement to speak at the Tammany Hall celebration on the Fourth of July, replid that he had not received any specific invitation, but presumed he had been included in the same invitation which had been extended to a number of other democratic congressmen. However he could not tell, he said, what a day might bring forth.

HAULED THROUGH FIRE

Alabama Miners Rescued in Their Tram-Cars.

A Few Run Through the Smoke and Flames, While a Number Perish—Condition of Several of the Rescued Critical—The Fire the Work of Unknown Incendiaries.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 21.—Fire was discovered in the coal mines of the Mary Lee Coal & Railroad company at Lewisburg, ten miles from here, yesterday afternoon. The fire started 400 feet from the opening. One hundred men were at work in the mine at the time, fifty of them being beyond the fire, their only way of escape being through the flames and smoke.

Several dead bodies have been recovered and many of those taken out alive are prostrated from suffocation.

When it became known that the mine was on fire the fifty imprisoned men began making efforts to escape.

The greater part of them were loaded into the tram-cars, which were drawn through the flames and smoke by means of wire cable, as rapidly as possible. Others took their chances in making a dash through the smoke. Some got out alive, while others were less fortunate and fell victims to the smoke and fire.

Among the latter was Superintendent Whalen, who was prostrated and died just as he was brought out.

The work of rescue went on for several hours, and by dark every man who was alive was taken out of the mines.

Mothers, wives and children were wild with grief, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they were restrained from dashing into the flames in an effort to rescue their loved ones.

As rapidly as the suffocated miners were brought out they were taken in hand by physicians and efforts made to revive them. Four died from suffocation. The others who were prostrated will, it is thought, recover.

It is believed that all the men have been accounted for, though later investigation may show further fatalities.

The owners of the mine are positive that it was set on fire. This mine was recently started up with new labor, having been closed down previous to that on account of the strike. There is no clue to the incendiaries.

Ex-Letter Carrier Malone's Case.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Postmaster-General Bissell and First Assistant Jones gave a long hearing to ex-Letter Carrier Malone, of the Lancaster, Pa., postoffice. Commissioners Roosevelt and Proctor, besides Malone and his attorney, were present. The ex-letter carrier asserts that he was removed from his position on account of political reasons, while the authorities deny the allegation and urge general incompetency. Messrs. Roosevelt and Proctor were present to learn any additional facts that might have been elicited and to see that Malone was protected by the civil service law. No decision in regard to the application of the carrier for reinstatement was announced, and the case was taken under consideration.

Two Policemen Killed.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—A very unusual accident occurred last evening on the line of the Northern Central railway, by which two policemen lost their lives. Officers Michael Neary and James T. Dunn went down to the tracks of the railroad at Chase street to drive away a number of boys who were swimming in Jone's Falls. The boys ran up the tracks pursued by the officers. The policemen avoided a north-bound train, but failed to notice the approach of a south-bound passenger train. Before they realized their danger the rapidly moving train was upon them. Both were horribly mangled.

Minister Roza Going Home.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Portuguese minister, Senor Thomaz de Sonza Roza, who has represented his country in Washington since Dec. 20, 1889, has presented his letters of recall to President Cleveland, and he will sail for home from New York on Saturday, and early in August expects to become the representative of Portugal at Paris. He was exceedingly popular in Washington, being one of the few bachelors in the diplomatic corps, and his departure is deeply regretted.

New York Methods in Maine.

PORTLAND, Me., June 21.—The Express, the organ of Col. Fred Dow, republican leader, prints scathing charges of bribery and blackmail against republican officials of this county. It alleges that they are receiving bribes, ranging from $200 a month down, for protecting liquor dealers, claims to have evidence to prove its assertions and calls upon the coming county convention to take steps to secure a legislative investigation.

Two Men and Two Horses Killed.

DUNKIRK, N. Y. June 21.—Seymour Dye and George Stebbens were instantly killed at the crossing of the main road between here and Silver Creek last evening. When the train was within 60 feet of the crossing a spirited team of horses which they were driving made a break and came to a halt on the track. The train struck the vichicle and horses at the same time. The team was also killed.

Sensational Lumber Theft.

GUTHRIE, O. T., June 21.—Four leading members of the Osage Indians have been arrested for conspiring with a syndicate of white men to rob the tribe of millions of feet of fine timber off their reservation. Two-thirds of a million feet of walnut lumber en route to market has been seized and sensational developments will follow, as it is asserted that prominent government officials are implicated in the steal.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AN APPEAL TO ALL MEN

Pope Leo's Final Effort for Unity of Faith.

Forecast of an Alleged Encyclical Letter Intended To Be His Political Testament—Protestants Exhorted To Return to Catholocism That All May Have One Faith.

ROME, June 21.—A forecast of the pope's encyclical letter, which is intended to be his political testament, has been obtained. Whether or not it is authoritative cannot be ascertained. The forecast is as follows:

Following the example of Christ, who on the eve of His ascent to heaven prayed that his disciples might be united, the pope expresses his desire to close his life with an appeal to all men of every land and race to favor unity of faith. As regards the unbelieving nations, he declares that the church will continue with unabating ardor to propagate the faith among them. He prays that God may provide more missionaries devoted to the work of converting them. He reminds Christians that the religious unity which these missionaries with others are now trying to accomplish was once the common patrimony of the nations, even among their strivings and struggles for earthly things.

He expresses his sorrow for the schisms and animosities which have torn great civilized nations from the Roman church, and tells of his hope that Divine mercy and omnipotence will bend the wills of men and bring them back to the one true faith.

In addressing the oriental churches the pope recalls that the forefathers of their present members recognized the Roman pontiff. These churches, he says, are now better disposed toward Rome than formerly, and he invites them to perfect the union which Christ founded. In that union their rites and patriarchical privileges will be upheld without variation or exception. He rehearses the prayer of the Greek liturgy for ending schism and appeals especially to the Slavs the world over to return to that unity which Cyril and Methodius preached, promising them that prosperity and greatness will be their portion if they return to the Church of Rome.

In addressing the Protestants, he declares that there remains to them no certain rule of faith or authority; hence some go so far as to deny the divinity of Christ and the inspiration of the Scriptures, ending by falling into naturalism and materialism. He cites the cases of enlightened Protestants whom solicitude for their salvation has brought back to Catholicism, and he exhorts all others to return in order that all may have one faith, hope and charity based on the same gospel.

The last part of the letter is addressed especially to Catholics. In it he exhorts them to put off sloth, inasmuch as they are confronted by people who threaten the faith, and submit themselves wholly to the guardianship of the church, which is the only perfect society, with a mission to teach and to make laws in matters falling within its jurisdiction, without being subservient to anybody or exciting envy.

The church can pursue her aim, namely, directing men to accomplish their duties, imbued with the spirit of accord toward the civil powers with which she willingly concludes pacts.

The pope denounces the Free Masons as enemies of religious unity, condemning especially their so-called audacity in Rome, and he calls upon Italy and France to throw off the despotism of these sectarians in order that religious concord among the nations may exercise the evils of war. Such a change must be desired by all faithful believers, inasmuch as the present condition of Europe offers rather the appearance than the reality of peace and contains the elements of danger for education, agriculture, arts and commerce.

The pope thinks that in political questions the liberty of the people can be made to accord with the power of rulers, whatever the form of government may be, since the right to command and the duty of obedience proceed from God, to whom the rulers must make a strict accounting of their stewardship. He strongly appeals to rulers to foster religious union and strive to ensure that the end of the nineteenth century shall not resemble the stormy close of the eighteenth.

End of a Foolish Romance.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Judge Hagner, of the district equity court, has divorced Mary E. Edwards from Charles Edwards, alias Byron Noll, who were married at the district jail in 1887. The woman had fallen in love with Noll when she visited the jail with a friend and saw him, and after four months of visits to him at the jail she obtained the reluctant consent of her parents and was married to him at the office of the warden of the jail on the 17th of May, 1887. Soon after her marriage she was informed that her husband had served a term in the penitentiary. He was not released from jail until in January, 1888, and three weeks afterward he struck her in the face as she was passing along the public street. She led then for many years a terrible married life, the continued victim of abuse and assault. Three children were born, but one only survives.

Tynan's Book.

NEW YORK, June 21.—A special cable despatch from London says: The Freeman's Journal prints the charge that Tynan's book on the Irish invincibles, of which he claims to have been Number One, containing alleged revelations and claiming that Parnell was privy to the Phenix park murders, was paid for by Edward Caulfield Houston, who acted as an intermediary between Piggott and the London Times in the sale of the famous forged Parnell letters. The book has utterly failed of its purpose, and has not succeeded in exciting any sentiment against the Irish party. Even the conservative papers refuse to accept its allegations as authoritative.

WIMAN'S SENTENCE.

To Spend Five Years and Six Months in Sing Sing Prison

NEW YORK, June 21.—Erastus Wiman appeared before Justice Ingraham in the court room of oyer and terminer to receive his sentence for forgery. The ex-millionaire looked rather wan, and he was so poorly dressed as to excite comment among his old friends. He was accompanied by his two faithful sons, who sought to comfort him by cheering words, but it was patent to everyone that Wiman dreaded the issue and heartily wished himself back in his cell. Several of his Staten island friends shook hands with him. He said he had passed a pleasant night. Soon Gen. Tracy and Mr. Wellman entered and later Justice Ingraham. Deputy Sheriff Brown had Mr. Wiman in charge. When the judge took his seat, Gen. Tracy addressed the court on behalf of the prisoner but in so low a voice that it is doubtful if even Mr. Wiman, who bent forward to listen, heard what was being said. Gen. Tracy said his client had done everything he could do to repair the wrong he had wrought, and pleaded eloquently for the aged financier.

The justice, seated so low in his chair that his head alone was visible, said he must impose a sentence conformable with the evidence. Certain laws were made to protect society, and if they were violated the offender must be punished. Continuing, the justice said: "For a long time you used the money of your associate, Mr. Dun, and then resorted to forgery, not in one but in several cases. You violated a trust in addition to appropriating another's money. I cannot think that you thought at any time that you had a right to take this money. Your letters show that you knew you had not. But, on the other hand, the jury recommends mercy in imposing sentence. Your previous good character and great works entitle you to consideration, but I shall not feel justified in making the sentence less than five years and six months in state prison."

Wiman had been listening attentively and respectfully, but his face did not change either in color or expression at the announcement. Gen. Tracy had previously made a formal motion for a new trial, which had been denied. He now stepped forward and asked for permission to apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt. This was granted and will be applied for at once. Deputy Sheriff Brown was ordered not to take Wiman to Sing Sing until this matter was settled.

Wiman might have been interviewed after the sentence, but the deputy sheriff would not permit it. He led his charge off and down Centre street to the Tombs, followed by a crowd of idlers and hoodlums. During the scenes in court Mr. Wellman, jaunty and well groomed, sat on a table at General Tracy's right, and smiled sarcastically, as he could well afford to. Perhaps he was thinking of his coming marriage to Miss Emma Juch, the prima donna, for he paid small heed to the court room proceedings. It was Wellman's terrific arraignment of Wiman which practically convicted the ex-king of Staten island. The sentence with the commutation off will amount to 3 years, 11 months and 15 days.

Sugar Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The prospects are that there will be no further testimony heard before the sugar trust investigation committee, excepting that of the few senators whose absence from Washington prevented their answering the "drag net" questions. One by one, as these senators return to town they will probably be examined. Senators Gray and Lindsay, the democratic members of the investigation committee, have been busy arranging the case of Messrs. Havemeyer and Searles, which will be reported to the vice-president for certification to the district attorney, because of their refusal to answer questions.

Presidential Offices.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

William D. Biglar, assistant United States treasurer, at Philadelphia.

Sheppard D. Young, assistant appraiser of merchandise, at Philadelphia.

Postmasters — Connecticut, Thomas Buckley, Plantsville; New Jersey, Edmund W. Manolt, Toms River.

Henry Ward Beecher Said:—

ANOTHER FIGHT IS ON

Senate Reaches the Income Tax Feature.

Mr. Hill To Open the Attack on the Section To-day—The Phenomenal Progress Made with the Bill Yesterday Surprised Even the Leaders. Tilt Between Chandler and Allen.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—After two days of phenomenal success with the tariff bill, the senate began to-day the consideration of the income tax section. Senator Hill opening the fight in opposition to the tax. This section promises to consume more time than did even the sugar schedule, and after it is disposed of the democratic leaders will consider their labor with the tariff measure practically done.

Yesterday's progress with the bill surprised even the most sanguine of the leaders. Beginning at 10:30 a. m., on the 118th page of the bill, it had reached in five hours the 135th page. Then, at one jump, and with hardly an impediment or objection, 45 more pages were wiped out, and all the administrative sections of the bill were eliminated.

Another hour's work brought the senate up to the income tax sections of the bill and then a halt was called. The heat of the chamber and the fatigue to which the senators had already been subjected led to acquiescence to the proposition of Mr. Hoar that the consideration of the income tax features of the bill should be postponed until to-day.

There was only one episode in the day's proceedings that deserved any special mention, and that arose out of an attack made by Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) on the populist senator from Nebraska, Mr. Allen, whom he accused of "bargaining" with the democratic majority. He wanted to know, and he asked with bitter sarcasm, whether the transaction might be considered as closed, and, if not, when the senator from Nebraska would be "entirely foreclosed."

Mr. Allen, as might be expected, retorted in kind.

He desired to say, in as polite language as he could use, to the senator from New Hampshire, that his statement or insinuation that there was any bargain between himself and any senator in charge of the bill was entirely untrue; and he was inclined to think that the senator from New Hampshire knew it to be untrue at the time he made it. He (Mr. Allen) had made no bargain and proposed to make no bargain. He proposed to vote as he saw fit. If the bill, when finished, should be, in his judgment, a better measure than the present tariff law he would vote for it; if not, he would vote against it. In that respect he was a "free lance." It was none of the senator's business how he proposed to vote. He was not here to represent that senator's views.

Mr. Chandler insisted that it was his business to care about how the senator from Nebraska voted. It was entirely competent for him to comment on the senator's vote—just as his own vote might be commented upon by any senator. The senator from Nebraska had said that there was no understanding, but what had taken place on the floor during the morning hour could not be mistaken by the senator or by the country. That senator had come to the senate, not as a democrat and not as a republican, but he was making himself a democrat in substance. Every vote that he gave was for destroying an important industry of New England. He was doing it by his votes and his bargain with the other side of the chamber, and if the senator did not like to hear that, he might make the most of it.

Mr. Allen replied with much resentment of Mr. Chandler making himself so conspicuous in the debate on the tariff bill. But he carries that quality a little too far when he itsinuated that there was any bargain between members of the finance committee and himself, or any other representative of the populist party. He (Mr. Allen) knew of nothing to be gained by a man performing the role of a baboon in matters of this kind and putting himself in the attitude of accusing every other person who did not agree with him of some corrupt purpose or practice. It might be funny to the senator from New Hampshire. He might enjoy it. He might get into the newspapers, and they might say that he was a remarkably smart man. But, nevertheless, it was a low insinuation, an untruthful insinuation, and an insinuation which no man who was not guided by a wicked purpose would make. He believed that the senator, when he made it, knew that it was a falsehood.

House of Representatives.

Another day was devoted by the house to the consideration of the anti-option bill, after determining by unanimous consent to close the debate with adjournment today, the vote on the bill and pending amendments to be taken after the morning hour on Friday.

The speeches of the day were by Messrs. Walker (rep., Mass.), Harter (dem., O.) and Goldzier (dem., Ill.), in opposition to the bill, and Messrs. Talbert (dem., S. C.) and Richardson (dem., Mich.) in favor of it.

Elks Elect Officers.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—The thirty-first annual session of Benevolent and Protective order of Elks, now in convention in this city, chose the following officers. Grand exalted ruler, Wm G. Myers, of Philadelphia; Geo. A. Reynolds, Hartford, grand exalted leading knight; Lester W. Stevens, Chicago, grand exalted leading knight; Harry P. Chase, Norfolk, Va., grand esteemed lecturing knight; W. H. Wallace, Pittsburg, grand esquire; C. F. Newkirk, Philadelphia, grand tyler; M. J. Coney, Newark, grand inner guard.

Immigrants Returning Home.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—The North German Lloyd steamship Dresden has just left this port with a full cabin list and over a hundred immigrants, who believe that poverty is easier to bear in their native land than in America. Every outgoing steamer of late has taken crowds of these dissatisfied fortune seekers. Unless times improve it is expected that a tidal wave of starving foreigners will set in toward Europe.

More Gold for Export.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The treasury department is informed that $2,250,000 in gold has just been withdrawn from the New York sub-treasury for shipment to Europe. This gold, Treasurer Morgan is informed, will be replaced by New York banks, but until it is done, the treasury gold will stand at $64,703,047.

HEARTS WILL ACHE.

DAYS OF ANXIETY RETURN FOR PARENTS.

Will Baby Get Through the Summer in Safety?—Many Little Lives Depend on Proper Diet—Cholera Infantum is Most to be Dreaded—Lactated Food the Best Preventive Known.

Approaching summer casts its shadow on many a mother's heart.

Every summer safely passed is a golden milestone in baby's life.

But think of the countless little lives that in June, July and August are to swell the list of infant deaths under five years.

How many a mother would like to hide her precious baby in her bosom till the danger is passed. But she must know that only intelligent, thoughtful care can keep the baby well.

High temperature with improper feeding now brings dread cholera infantum, diarrhoea and convulsions.

With the use of proper food, and there is nothing so absolutely good as lactated food, these dangers may be avoided.

Reports from homes all over the country, and especially from the large institutions where the great number of infants gives ample data for accurate judgment, show that babies thrive best on lactated food.

The supreme importance of pure, nutritious nourishment, and the long study by many of the most prominent physicians in the country of infant disorders from mistakes in diet, led to the preparation of lactated food. Next to mother's milk, it is the most nourishing, strengthening, readily digested and most palatable food that can be given a baby.

It more closely resembles mother's milk than any other food known. Its basis is sugar of milk, which is the basis of mother's milk; with this is combined the nutritive elements of wheat, barley and oats in such proportion as best meets the requirements of the rapidly growing child.

Baby must eat well to keep up strength and resist disease.

When teething is added to the fretfulness due to hot weather many babies refuse all other nourishment except lactated food, which they take with a decided relish.

In the preparation of lactated food not only has absolute purity and freedom from possibility of contagion, as well as a remarkable nourishing power been secured, but also a pleasant taste that induces babies, especially when being weaned, to take food when nothing else will tempt them.

It is when the strength is not kept up and the child is allowed to grow nervous, thin and fretful that a slight increase in heat brings on the exhausting diarrhoea or fatal cholera infantum. No household where there are children should be a day without lactated food, especially in June and July.

With lactated food and a reasonable care in keeping the baby's dishes carefully scalded, parents may watch baby with delight as it grows every day stronger and healthier.

Summer after summer testifies to the power of lactated food to make plump, rosy cheeks and sturdy little legs and arms and bodies, and days full of noise and glee and nights of sound refreshing sleep.

The prettiest babies are the healthy, chubby, rosy ones. Lactated food gives babies solid flesh and bones and saves their lives when threatened with wasting diseases. It is to be had at any drug store, and is so inexpensive that no one need be without it.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A Reform Club meeting will be held in Reform Hall as usual this evening at 8.

—James Henderson, of the Water Supply station, suffers from a scalded hand.

—The first annual ball of the Shenandoah Base-Ball Club will be be given Wednesday, July 4, in Mt. Bethel Hall.

—Midsummer bargains are a feature now at Boehm's, where a large importation of fine goods has just been opened.

—The Scott Printing Machine Works will close down tonight, and remain closed till Monday, to put new tubes in the boilers.

—Warriors will be raised to chiefs in Miantonomoh Tribe tomorrow evening, and a number of the 12 candidates will present themselves for adoption.

—The report that Bert Littell burned his arm at the Connolly fire turns out to be a joke invented by his fun-loving friends. He has n't been burnt.

—Mr. Thomas, head of the Colored Y. M. C. A., is back from Conference, and says that the dances and similar frolics given in their hall are not sanctioned by the Colored Y. M. C. A.

—The beautiful pillars, organ front and pulpit of Cranford's new Presbyterian Church are from the mill of R. H. McCullogh of this city, and his fame is enhanced by their splendor.

—A. M. Griffin recovered his cow through a Daily Press ad. It had strayed upon the land of George C. Evans, and the columns of The Press guided Mr. Evans to its ownership.

—The Westfield Leader says: "Frank Reese in The Plainfield Press should not call the Advance Club 'perhaps our only successful literary club'. The Browning succeeded, but went to sleep."

—Every Plainfield woman can now afford to wear the most stylish millinery, Madam Knight having reduced the prices just one-half on all her elegant assortment of trimmed hats. Her number is 112 West Front street, and fair femininity is flocking there for bargains.

WASHBURN'S SHOW ALL RIGHT.

It Has a Clean Bill of Health, and Will Show in Plainfield.

Sam M. Dawson, special agent for Washburn's Circus, which shows in Plainfield tomorrow, came to town today and notified the authorities that there is no danger of smallpox. He shows a clean bill of health from Orange, Paterson, Hoboken and Jersey City.

The circus has been thoroughly inspected, as a result of the report that smallpox had attacked the employes, and to show how little fear there is of contagion it is only necessary to say that the performances have been largely attended and that Mr. Washburn's family of children are traveling with the show. The one man who had the disease had it in a light form and was not in contact with any of the others during the contagious period. Everyone of the employes has been vaccinated.

THE DEADLY CELLULOID.

A Comb in a Child's Hands Endangers Her Life.

Mildred, the eleven-year-old daughter of Charles M. Ulrich, had a narrow escape from being burned to death at 9:30 last evening.

She went to her room at her home, 123 East Fifth street, intending to light the gas. She struck a match and held it too near a celluloid comb which she had in her hand. The comb caught fire. The girl dropped it before the flames touched her clothes.

Mrs. Ulrich heard her scream and went upstairs and extinguished the flames which had spread to the carpet. A bicycle rider who was passing saw the light and rode down town and notified Policeman Cooney. An alarm was sent in from Box 13 and the department went to the house, where happily they found nothing to do.

MEEKER HAS BACKBONE.

Jersey Central Not to Be Granted Favors Till It Fills Promises.

Street Commissioner Meeker has been enormously busy since last Sunday's flooding storm, clearing away accumulations of mud and re-surfaceing torn macadam. He is striving to get everything in shape by Saturday, so he can join the century run to Wilmington. He finds that the ulverts at Fifth street and Madison avenue and Sixth and Madison avenue are entirely too small, and he has asked Councilman Fisk to have them trebled in size. The Jersey Central Railroad Company wrote a few days ago asking for municipal help in improvements, and Mr. Meeker replied that the time to ask for favors was after the company had fulfilled its promise to the city to sod its banks and finish its walls at the bridges.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good. Price 50c. Sold by J. D. Mallinson, 205 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J., opp. railroad station.

JUNE BAZAR IN NETHERWOOD.

$600 Cleared for the Church of Our Saviour.

Cold weather is generally considered a necessary adjunct of a fair held to help a church, but the women of the Church of Our Saviour proved last evening that a success can be made of a sale in June. It was not an extended affair, lasting only from 4 to 10 a single day, but the profits were $600, or $100 an hour.

The bazar was held in the residence of William Palmer Smith, Belvidere avenue, a house admirably adapted for the purpose. The large parlor was skirted by tables of wares. In the dining-room were small tables, adorned with roses, at which tea and wafers were served by the hostess. From a stair platform during the afternoon and evening, came the music of an orchestra of five.

The house was thronged from the beginning of the fair to the end. A limit of $5 had been fixed. No one was supposed to spend more than this amount. That the women had aroused much interest in their efforts was shown by the checks which were received from those who were unable to attend.

A profitable feature of the fair was the raffling. Miss Reinhart and Miss Talmage disposed of a mahogany tea table with an exquisitely embroidered cover and a tea set. It was won by Mrs. J. Howard Wright. Miss Bert and the Misses Waring sold chances on a tortoise shell fan with black ostrich feathers, Mrs. J. Parker Mason obtaining the lucky ticket. B. H. Smalley won a handsome driving whip. A. D. Shepard, Jr., announced the results of the raffles.

The sales in the various departments were managed as follows.

Candy and cake tables—Mrs. A. J. Beale.
Fancy table—Miss Lehman.
Country store—Mrs. Dyett.
Thread and needle table—Mrs. Loeser.
Orange tree—Miss Hasbrouck.
Japanese table—Mrs. Guion.
Apron table—Mrs. N. P. T. Finch.
Men's table—Miss Smalley and Miss Reinhart.
Doll table—Miss Trotty Smith, Miss Antoinette Hill and Miss Margaret Simpson.

Miss Elizabeth P. Smith presided in the dining-room. Others who were very energetic in making preparations for the fair and otherwise assisted were Miss Edsall, Miss Vaughn, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Curtis and Miss Hill.

THOMAS BOTHE IN ELIZABETH.

Says He Was Married to the Woman Who Claims to be Mrs. Hoffman.

Thomas Bothe, of Camden, whom Prosecutor of the Pleas F. C. Marsh and Chief of Police Tenney claim to be the husband of Mrs. Hoffman, who was arrested in Fanwood last Thursday, charged with keeping a disorderly house, was in Elizabeth Tuesday evening, and, in an interview with Chief Tenney, said that he and Annie were legally married six years ago in Camden, and that the record there will so prove it.

Mr. Bothe is a young man, apparently about twenty-eight years old, and of fine personal appearance. His hair and mustache—the latter very heavy—are almost a raven black.

If, as Annie claims, she was married to Henry Hoffman of Brooklyn five years ago, then she, as well as Hoffman, are guilty of bigamy, according to Bothe.

VICTIM OF TRACK-WALKING.

A Rahwegian Looking for Work Meets with Hard Luck in Plainfield.

Timothy Haley, age 25, of Rahway, came to Plainfield yesterday looking for work. Last night he was walking between the tracks at the Grant Avenue bridge, when the engine of a freight train passed him. He supposed he was all right, but suddenly he was knocked down, evidently by some projection from one of the cars. At 11:20 he was taken into Muhlenberg Hospital, where fracture of the clavicle and a scalp wound were dressed. He is doing well.

FRISBIE KNOCKED OUT.

He Doesn't Get $1,000, Nor 1 Cent, From Hackman Keely.

Hackman Patrick Keely won his case yesterday, in the suit of Dog Catcher Frisbie against him. The trouble was over Frisbie's seizing Keely's horse on a lot leased by him. They fought for possession of the animal, and Frisbie was cut. He sued for $1,000. Counselor Charles A. Reed successfully defended Keely yesterday.

Last night Hamilton Probasco, a witness of Frisbie, wanted Keely arrested "'cause he had made him out a liar". He did not succeed. Frisbie had eight witnesses, Keely three.

King—Booker.

Miss Mosella Booker was married to J. A. King by Rev. William A. Alexander at 9:45 last evening. The ceremony was performed at 62 Somerset street. The maid of honor was Miss Lizzie Coles and the best man Telos Johnson. About 35 colored people were present. Refreshments were served after the wedding and then dancing was enjoyed until 2 this morning. Mr. and Mrs. King went to New York on a wedding trip this morning.

The bridemaid wore white satin, and the bride white satin trimmed with cream silk lace. She carried a bunch of domesticated roses. The wedding supper was served by Mr. and Mrs. B. Gibson and Miss Harriet Morris.

The Limited Stops Here Now.

The Press enjoyed a social call yesterday from James E. Prindle, New York Passenger Agent for the Norfolk and Western Railroad. This favorite line has just issued a beautifully printed pamphlet of Summer excursions for health and pleasure by the Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route. The through train to New Orleans now stops at Plainfield regularly. If you want to make an inexpensive and delightful trip, by all-rail, or by part ocean voyage and the balance by rail, consult the literature Mr. Prindle will furnish you free on application. His address is 317 A, Broadway, New York.

HIS SALARY RAISED TO $5,000.

Voluntary and Enthusiastic Testimonial of Appreciation to Pastor Richards of Crescent Avenue.

At a meeting called especially for the purpose, the salary of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church was last night raised from $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

This was the unanimous, spontaneous action of the congregation. Glowing tributes were paid in speeches to the esteem in which Dr. Richards is held by his people, and the increase was voted as something that was due him as a partial reward for his labors in building up his church and its missions to such a flourishing magnitude.

Many churches are continually seeking to secure Dr. Richards for pastor, but he is wedded to his Plainfield people just as affectionately as they are wedded to him.

NO SEWERS THIS YEAR.

But Everything Will Be Made Ready to Construct Them in the Spring.

The Press is authoritatively informed that no sewers will be constructed in Plainfield this year. So much red tape has to be complied with, that it will be late in the Fall before bids can be awarded, and then it would be unwise to begin digging and leave the work incomplete during the Winter.

Everything will be prepared so that construction may be begun early in April.

GENEROUS HILLSIDE.

It Reserves Its Champion, to Give Its Guests a Chance.

Tennis players are talking of the failure to invite Simmonds to participate in the Hillside Tennis Club tournament now being arranged for. The date is likely to be July 4, and various good players from out of town will be invited. The prowess of Simmonds is known, and it is said that the club does not desire to enter him and shut out the outsiders from a chance to get the prizes.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Jessie Coddington of Somerset street is home from Brooklyn.

Great preparations are being made for the Hillside Tennis Club tea of Saturday.

Franklin S. Smith of Elizabeth and Harvard is a welcome visitor in Plainfield.

Mr. Holck of the High School has left Plainfield, and it is reported he may not return.

William Debele, who has been ill, is slowly improving, and will be out in a few days.

The mail carriers are thoughtfully provided with boutonnieres by Miss Florence, daughter of John Neighbor.

Congressman Dunn and family happily escaped injury in the destruction by fire of the Eckington Hotel, their Washington home.

The Driving Parade cost $3,000, and it was worth it. The decorations by Thorley on the prize-winner of Pliny Fisk's cost $250 alone.

The household of J. T. Closson and Mrs. M. E. Edgerton will spend the Summer at New Jersey's choicest shore resort, Elberon.

Miss Mamie and Master Charlie Chapman, of Toledo, niece and nephew of Mrs. L. Adams, are visiting her, and today they are sightseeing in New York, under her care.

Mr. and Mrs. William McMurtry and Mr. and Mrs. William McGinnis and baby Helen, of New Brunswick, have returned from a visit to George S. McGinnis of Somerset street.

The relatives and many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Garretson welcomed them home from their wedding trip. The happy couple will board with the groom's parents, at 426 West Front street.

A memorable part of the centennial celebration of Union College, Schenectady, will be the installation as President of Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, formerly pastor of the Trinity Reformed Church of Plainfield. A number of Dr. Raymond's Plainfield friends have been invited to attend.

Miss M. A. Carroll and Miss E. D. Lyon, two teachers connected with the Misses Scribner & Newton's School, left Plainfield today to enjoy an eight-days trip by canal boat Mabel Austin, to Albany and Syracuse. This recalls the mode of traveling of half a century ago, and is a quaint and delightful method of adding to vacation pleasures.

TELEGRAPH TICKS.

A cave of an organized gang of thieves was found early this morning on the Kearny, (N. J.) Meadows, and two of the gang were arrested.

Emil C. Knappe, assistant teller of the Chicopee National Bank of Springfield, Mass., was arrested this forenoon, charged with the embezzlement of $49,000 from that bank.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.
TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.
TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The century run of the Crescent Wheelmen to Wilmington, Saturday, has the misfortune to be set for the same date as the Newark century run to Asbury Park, and more Plainfielders will go on the latter than on the former. If nobody else goes to Wilmington, however, Captain J. A. Haynes will, and perhaps C. E. Teal, Tunis J. Carey and R. A. Meeker.

The firemen complain against the action of a number of young cyclers who went with them to Fifth street after the alarm last evening. They rode directly in front of the apparatus and in spite of warnings would not keep to the side of the street. Had one of them fell and been run over the firemen might have been unjustly placed in a bad position.

Bergen—Melick.

The daughter of William Melick of Lebanon was married by a beautiful June wedding yesterday, at her father's home, to Cornelius Bergen, a prominent young man of Somerville.

The bride's gown was of white corded silk, handsomely trimmed with beautiful lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridemaid was a cousin of the bride, Miss Etta Kryner, of East Second street. She wore pink silk, and carried pink roses. The best man was the groom's brother. The house was beautifully decorated with smilax, ferns and roses, and the presents were beautiful and costly.

After the supper the bride and groom left for a wedding trip of one week. They will live in Somerville.

SCOTCH PLAINS GRADUATES.

A Trio of Bright Young Scholars Whose Watchword Is Onward.

Three graduates left the Scotch Plains School last evening. The commencement exercises with which they ended their local education were held in the Baptist Church. An enthusiastic audience filled the building. The exercises opened with instrumental music by Mrs. J. H. Buckley of Plainfield and Mr. Orcutt of Newark who afterwards played between various numbers on the programme. On the platform were the three trustees, Dr. F. W. Westcott, A. D. Shepard and T. J. Nicholl, Principal L. A. Goodenough, County Superintendent Holmes of Elizabeth and Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks.

The first of the three essays read by the graduates was that of Richard Robinson. His subject was "Out of Reach". He started from the saying "Where there is a will there is a way". While this was not found to be literally true in practical life he thought that the extent of human possibility was much larger than it was usually supposed. He divided men into two classes, the active and the passive. What the active gained was apparently entirely out of reach of the passive. After describing the distinctions between the two classes the speaker referred to the career of Franklin and Lincoln and said that with "Onward" as our motto we could all be great in some way. If we were earnest and ambitious we would find nothing out of reach. Master Robinson's essay was well arranged, the ideas being brought out convincingly. That it was appreciated by the audience was shown by the loud applause which followed the reading.

The subject of Miss Edna M. Nicholl's essay was "Scotch Plains at the Different Seasons". It was a series of clever descriptions which made the more favorable impression because the audience knew so well the scenes referred to. Miss Nicholl told at first of the appearance of the Plains in 1684 when Scotch emigrants first settled there. She then passed on through the four seasons, touching upon the changes in climate, in appearance, in means of enjoyment which they brought to the village. The little incidents of life in the Plains upon which Miss Nicholl touched made her essay the more pleasing. In concluding she spoke of the grumbling remarks which the residents were accustomed to make about the weather and said "to get the most good out of things we cannot change is the problem of this life". The ushers filled her arms with flowers when she had finished the reading.

William G. Ilisley read an essay "Islands" and valedictory. He mentioned many islands memorable from achievements of their inhabitants or from the residence of noted personages upon them. At the close he alluded to the graduates' realization of the fact that school days had ended and that a new stage of the future was before them. If they had not received a good start in life it was not the fault of the principal nor of the teachers. Then in behalf of the class he gave their sincere thanks to the trustees, to the faculty and to the friends of the school. Appreciation of his words was shown by applause and gifts of flowers and books.

Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the board, presented the diplomas with a speech of kindly advice. Principal Goodenough then spoke to the class, mentioning the things natural and mythological of which their number, three, was the symbol. He thanked the people of the Plains for what they had done in making his six years with them so pleasant. He was sorry to leave the village but he expected to make teaching his life work and therefore he had not refused the offer from Jersey City, where he would have greater opportunities.

After Mr. Goodenough had made his farewell address Dr. Westcott presented second grade certificates to Samuel McCauley, Philip Jahn, Florence Nicholl, Sadie Bartlett, Josie Marsh, Etta Cook and Reiguette Marsh; and third grade certificates to Walter Force, Robert Jahn, Oswald Bartlett, Harry Bartlett, Isabel Hamlin, Madeline Robinson, Bertha Eiler, Ethel Kyte, Mary Westcott, Eleanor Walker and Jeanette Carter.

Rev. Dr. Parks made a short address on the relationship of the teacher and the scholar. MacCready Sykes was then introduced by Mr. Goodenough as an alumnus of the school who had won more honors in Princeton than had any other student in the last 20 years. Mr. Sykes alluded to his attendance at the Scotch Plains ten years ago and described his present feelings toward the institution where he had been taught the first rudiments of education.

David P. Hall followed with a humorous talk on the way in which he had been invited to speak. He then related a story of a hunting trip in the Adirondacks with MacCready Sykes and from it pointed out certain characteristics of the honored graduate of the Scotch Plains school.

The exercises closed with a short address by Superintendent Holmes. The graduates gave a reception in the assembly room of the school afterwards.

A Master of His Trade.

David T. Kenney yesterday attended the sixth annual convention of the Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters Association of the United States, of which he is a member. Many new appliances were exhibited at the Broadway Central Hotel, where the convention was held, and Mr. Kenney made himself thoroughly acquainted with them all, and is prepared to introduce all the latest improvements into practical use.

Escorted the Horses to the Shore.

An early start was made at 4 this morning by Patrick McAfee, coachman for J. T. Closson, who had the important duty of conducting Mr. Closson's horses and carriages to the seashore. Under the careful and experienced guidance of Mr. McAfee the journey was made in good time.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

GOOD THING, THAT DOG LAW!

Here's a Man as Is a Man, Not Ashamed to Assert Mankind's Rights Against Canine Cussedness.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A very large majority of the people, pedestrians, equestrians, sick, feeble, helpless women and children, are constantly subjected to restricted freedom, and annoyance of the howling, barking, homeless, ownerless, half-bred, half-starved, and vicious cur dogs—tolerated, no one knows why, as they are a positive determent, dangerous, except they have good homes, good care, and kind human treatment.

The new dog law aims to protect the people, dog-owners, and their dogs, making them responsible for unlicensed depredations and vicious attacks.

There are many who feed and harbor vicious dogs, knowing their miserable dispositions and the danger they expose their neighbors to; yet they claim to be good citizens and Christian people!

My experience teaches me that a majority of people who are injured by dogs, are attacked by animals of questionable breeding, ill-cared for and ill-fed brutes, made vicious by ill-treatment, that would convert a human into a worse state of being and disposition.

The Westfield Leader asks:

Is there a man in Westfield who is heartless enough, mean enough, hateful enough, to act as official dog-killer?

I have some near and dear neighbors who could fill the bill; else they could not have poisoned five young well-fed, well-bred, valuable dogs, owned and properly cared for by me, without complaint, justification or warrant.

This highly sensitive, sentimental and really good man, ought to be bit just once by a dog, not rabid.

Within the last six months I have witnessed, with others, two avoidable accidents, that might have resulted seriously to them or to us.

In one case a low-bred cur attacked a single horse unexpectedly at the junction of Broad street and the road to Fanwood, throwing a lady out of a light wagon; also at the junction of Rahway road and Grove street, a gentleman was treated to a similar surprise. These miserable curs are owned, or harbored, by people who certainly know the habits of their ugly curs, as well as their neighbors know.

Is it not time to free our highways from these unexpected and unnecessary attacks, by compulsion, if we must?

A dead dog is better than an ugly vicious brute. ALBERT A. DRAKE.

Footlight Favorites.

The second number of the "Gallery of Players", issued by The Illustrated American, East Sixteenth street, New York city, is an album of portraits of footlight favorites which no theatrical library can afford to be without. It contains twenty-two full-page portraits and over a hundred smaller ones, in character, of some of the best known actors and actresses, including Eleonora Duse, Julia Marlowe, Nelson Wheatcroft, N. C. Goodwin, Effie Shannon, Marie Tempest, and Stuart Robson. The accompanying critical matter is written by Charles Frederic Nirdinger. The price is only twenty-five cents.

Not Too Drunk, He Said.

An Italian workman on a Jones odorless excavator, who said he could n't tell his name but who finally said "Let it go at Joe Abes", resisted arrest for intoxication at the hands of Policeman Cooney in the North Avenue station last night. In Court this morning Judge Coddington asked him was he drunk last night. "Not too much"—he answered. He sent home for $3 rather than swelter 10 days in jail.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. WHAT'S DONE IN DUNELLEN.

Two Talented Graduates Who Will Row, Not Float, Through Life—Funeral of Mrs. Lucy A. Morgan—Notes and Gossip of the Thrifty Borough.

DUNELLEN, June 21.

J. Smith Garreteon of Plainfield visited Dunellen friends yesterday.

Mrs. Elsworth Baldwin of East High street spent yesterday with friends in Easton.

Paul Kratzel has a large patch of potatoes, which he says will yield him about 40 bushels this year.

H. F. Angle of Clinton made a bicycle trip yesterday to New York. He stopped in Dunellen a while to chat with friends.

George Musgrave, Wallace Vail and John Kitchen, all of Plainfield, attended the VanMiddlesworth sale yesterday, and purchased bargains.

After a settlement is made of the sale which was held yesterday, John VanMiddlesworth will make Taylor's Hotel his residence; the real-estate will be sold.

John Kenney of Plainfield, accompanied by two intimate friends, spent yesterday afternoon fishing in Green brook near Dunellen. Did they have luck? Ask 'em.

Edward Tingley, of Roycefield, a brother of John Tingley, drove from his home to Summit yesterday. When near Dunellen the front axle of his wagon broke, and he was delayed two hours.

Baker Reusch bought an old clock at the sale yesterday, which was brought over from Holland about 80 years ago by the late Mr. VanMiddlesworth's grandfather. It is a great relic, and will be a valuable timepiece when repaired and set going.

The Dunellen Bowling Club will meet the Middlesex Club on Mr. Scheiflin's green next Saturday afternoon. The Dunellen Club's new grounds in Jersey City will not be ready before next September. In the meantime they will use their present quarters.

The sale at the home of the late Henry VanMiddlesworth, yesterday, was very largely attended by people from Dunellen and surrounding places. The goods sold consisted of household furnishings, a number of wagons, and various other articles, the majority of which brought excellent prices. Auctioneer Hope of Somerville conducted the sale which commenced at 10 a. m., and by 6 last evening nearly everything was disposed of.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucy A. Morgan was held from her residence near New Market yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Mr. Martine, assisted by Rev. Mr. Peterson, conducted the services, which were very impressive. There was a very large gathering of friends and relatives. The pall-bearers were H. V. Dunham, A. Dunham, B. Brokaw and John Garretson. Interment was in Bound Brook.

The graduating exercises of the Class of '94 of the Dunellen Public Schools will be held this evening in the chapel of the Presbyterian Church. The room has been very tastefully prepared by the popular and scholarly superintendent, Mr. Whitney, and his efficient corps of teachers. Following is the programme:

PART I.

Prayer.....Rev. W. C. Kinsey
Hark; The Village Bells.....Chorus
Essay—Chambered Nautilus,
Miss Sophie Maltbie
Essay—Habit.....Walter Priestly Bodine
Come to the Fair.....Chorus
Presentation of Diplomas,
Rev. A. I. Martine

PART II.

Instrumental Music.....The Misses Maltbie
Address.....Rev. Frank Fletcher
The Singing of Birds.....Chorus
Awarding of Prizes.....Rev. A. I. Martine
Happy and Light.....Chorus
Benediction.....Rev. F. E. Peterson

The graduating class consists of two, Miss Sophie Maltbie, and Walter Priestly Bodine; and the motto is "Row, Not Float". Miss Mary L Phillips is musical director and Miss Jessie Maltbie the accompanist. The following are those who govern the schools:

Board of Trustees—H. C. Gaskill, President; Rev. A. I. Martine, District Clerk; and Frank Wynkoop.

Instructors—A. J. Whitney, Superintendent; Miss Mary L. Phillips, Mrs. Mary F. Coriell, Miss Imogene Smith, Miss Fanny Smith and Miss Carrie Fisher.

Y. M. C. A. WORK.

Rev. W. C. Kinsey of Dunellen has been secured as speaker at the young men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday at 4:15 p. m. The meeting will be just 45 minutes long.

By the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Kissam the committeemen of the Y. M. C. A. will be entertained at their home 1060 Central avenue Saturday afternoon and evening of this week. The afternoon from 3:30 will be devoted largely to athletic sports. Supper will be served at 6, after which there will be a conference about the work.

Information may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A. rooms in regard to the College Students Conference in Northfield, Mass., June 30 to July 10, and also concerning the Boys Camp in charge of S. F. Dudley of Orange, near Westport, on Lake Champlain. The following will also give information: W. D. Murray, F. H. Andrews and E. L. Walz, Jr., about the former; and A. Vincent Bockwell, Charles S. Cook and Phillip Suffern about the latter.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The anniversary of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. Church, will be observed Sunday night. Rev. R. H. Doherty, Ph. D., of New York, will deliver an address. The exercises will begin with a praise service at 7:45. All friends of the church are invited to be present, by H. F. Randolph, pastor.

The indications are that the illustrated leeture in Bethel Chapel tomorrow evening on "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress" will be well attended. The 500-lb apparatus and paintings have arrived. Dr. Richards will preside.

—The B. M. G's had great success with their dance last night, and will give another July 3.

TALENT FROM PLAINFIELD.

Union Village Enjoys the Work of Genuine Local Artists.

An entertainment and ice-cream festival was given in the M. E. Church in Union Village, last evening. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by those present. The talent was from Plainfield, and was of the highest order.

Excursion Novelty.

A feature of the excursion of the Hope Chapel Sunday-school to Ocean Grove, Saturday, July 14, is that in case you buy a ticket and are prevented from going you can get your money back.

Must Pay Costs Too.

The Connecticut Training School for Nurses today secured a judgment of $2 35 costs in Justice Newcorn's Court against Herman Simmonds. The defendant had paid the tuition fee demanded, but refused to pay the costs.

Ailments of Women.
It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure
Backache.
It has cured more cases of Leucorrhea than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That Bearing-down Feeling
causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water. It removes Irregularity,
Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also Dizziness, Faintness,
Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or Womb Troubles.
The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the eighteenth day of June instant an ordinance of which the following is a true copy to wit:

An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage.

Whereas, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in said city as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said city in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890; and

And whereas, On said 21st day of May, A. D., eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification; and

And whereas, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the common council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said common council; and

And whereas, it has appeared and does appear to the said common council and the said common council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said city as shown by the assessors books have petitioned said common council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said city in the manner provided by said act; and

And whereas, in the opinion of the said common council the public good requires that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said common council has so determined and doth hereby so determine: therefore,

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. COLUMBIA BICYCLES

CAN BE RELIED UPON.
When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.
The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.
There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.
With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.
Catalogue free at our agencies, or mailed for two 2-cent stamps.

The Overton Claim.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH WILLIAMS.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894

CHAPTER XII.

"I dare say you think I mean my mother. I know it has been said she was the prime cause of this feud. But she had nothing whatever to do with it, though I believe she declined the honor of becoming your grandmother," Major Overton said, sinking wearily back in his chair. After a minute he went on: "I was born in Carolina; was a stout lad of 8 when we came over the mountains, so I remember very well how Jincey, my mother's maid, moaned and wept on the way, and how the other negroes laughed and said tauntingly that she was crying for her sweetheart, who had been left behind, though my father tried hard to bring him. Bob's master was willing to part with him, but Bob himself, it seems, had another string to his bow. At any rate, he declined to leave Carolina for a new, unknown country, and six months later some one wrote my mother that he had married the yellow maid of his young master's wife. Jincey was just 18 then, a slim, supple, stealthy thing, quick as a flash in all her movements. When my mother told her the news that Bob was married, she got ashy and staggered against the wall, but said no word. The next Saturday night she was married to old Isaac Bell, the most famous conjurer in the country, a hideous, toothless old fellow, who looked all of 80. My mother tried in vain to change her purpose. Jincey swore that she loved him; had no use for young niggers. So she had her way, and old Ike became a nightly visitor, his master's plantation lying broadside to ours. Soon Jincey became so slow and careless about her duties that my mother said to her, 'If you cannot do better, I must put you to spinning.' 'Dat's whut I want,' she said sullenly, and from that day forward she spent her time in her cabin. She was a swift worker when she chose. Often her task was done by noon. Afterward she roamed woods and fields, staying away sometimes till after midnight. The other negroes stood in mortal terror of her; said she was a worse conjurer than her old husband, who, oddly enough, seemed years younger after the marriage.

"No doubt you think I am wandering, garrulous. Wait till I am through, then judge if it be so. Though my parents always treated Jincey with the utmost kindness, I am sure she hated them, with the wild, unreasoning hate of passionate ignorance. If, she reasoned, they had not brought her away from the old home, Bob would be her husband instead of that hated yellow girl's, though no doubt, had she married him, she would have been glad after a little to cast him aside. It was the thwarting of her passion that gave it force and constancy. God forgive me if I wrong her, but I believe my mother died at her hand of some subtle, sudden poison; my young brothers and sisters as well. I am sure, too, that her hand took away our deeds, of course by connivance of those outside, who made away with the records.

"So I have believed for years. Latterly I have found a clew, faint, but tangible enough to give hope of development. You see, I speak frankly to you, my enemy, for I pay you the compliment of feeling that it is safe to do so."

"Surely," said Allen. "Else why should I be here? It must be as you say. Is this woman still living?"

Major Overton nodded. The other went on.

"Yesterday the humor seized me to go through my grandfather's secretary. Did you know him, sir? He must have been near your age."

"He was six months younger," Major Overton said. "We played together in short frocks and got our first trousers at the same time, but he did not come out until after my father's death. Naturally, then, we met only in the courts."

"I remember him well, a slim, tall man, of whom I was very much afraid, but one who impressed me always as the soul of honor," Allen said reflectively.

Major Overton's mouth hardened.

"No doubt he was, as he read such things," he said, "but men of his stamp see all things through the medium of their own inclinations. He was hard, selfish, grasping, so much so that it seems impossible you can be his grandson."

"Was his father like him?" asked Allen.

The major shook his head.

"No. He was a weak, good natured, obstinate man, who needed always to have his mind made up for him, though once it was made up heaven nor earth could change it."

"Do you think he was deceived into claiming land to which he had no title?"

"No, but that he was cheated into paying for land that belonged to another man."

"Then, in your judgment, both sides were victims. Have you any idea how it came about?"

"Ideas! Plenty, but no proofs."

"Then perhaps this may be of value," Allen said, holding out a packet of yellow papers covered with faded script. "Here are some letters betwixt my great grandfather and his Tennessee lawyer, detailing the purchase of the land and giving the original locator's name."

"Let me see it. Quick, quick!" Major Overton almost shouted. Allen laid a finger upon one blurred line, saying:

"There it is—Bruce Stirling!"

"What!" Major Overton fell back, gasping.

"Bruce Stirling," Allen repeated. "Do you know him? Did you ever hear of him?"

"Bruce Stirling! I see it all now. Yes, I have heard of him. Nothing to his credit. Why, he was said to have been one of the Murell gang. He was known to be gambler, blackguard, spendthrift, wholly without principle. No wonder he entered the land in Mr. Fauntleroy's name. If this had appeared, the fraud would have been patent to everybody that knew him. Plainly he conspired to sell what he did not own, got the Fauntleroy money, then forged and stole to put them in possession of another man's property."

"But how?" asked Allen. "It seems to me the most foolhardy villain would not take such risks of instant and certain detection."

"You do not know him," Major Overton said. "He would have risked hell the next hour for money that he wanted to spend in this one. And old Isaac, Jincey's husband, had belonged to him. Yes, and I remember now it was said that every week of his life the negro tramped over to see his worthless ex-master. Apart from his knavish tendencies, Stirling hated my father, who, as a county magistrate, had once sent him to jail. This was his revenge, a bitter one indeed. Tell me, is there more than one reference to him in these letters?"

"Several, I think. It is, I know, mentioned that he has gone to Texas, so cannot testify. He is mentioned only in the deeds under the disguise of an agent and attorney. My great grandfather refers, too, to his 'disinterested services' as a reason for sparing him all annoyance in the matter. So I fancy Stirling had been at some pains to cover his track."

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

MADE HIS CASE WORSE.

Efforts of an Elmira Prisoner To Speak to the Investigators.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 22.—At 4 o'clock last evening the Elmira reformatory investigating board took a recess in order to witness a drill of the reformatory regiment of over 1,000 inmates. The drill took place in the court yard inside the inclosure. The The inmates made an attractive appearance in their blue, black and red suits according to the different grades. The manual-at-arms and military manœuvres were performed with a precision which would do credit to a crack militia regiment.

An incident which caused a slight sensation occurred when the regiment marched on to the parade ground.

One of the minor officers, an inmate named Barnett, left the ranks and walked across the grass toward the investigating committee.

He was halted by other officers, stripped of his sword and placed under arrest.

He had attempted to speak to the committee in order to make an appeal to them to interfere in his case. It seems that he passed through all the intermediate grades and is eligible to parole in July. Under the rules he claims that he is entitled to his liberty but that he has learned that the superintendent will not let him go before the July board on the ground that he has failed to substantiated charges which he made against another officer. His latest offense will probably lessen his chances of release.

Convention of Elks.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22.—At the closing session of the Grand Lodge of Benevolent Order of Elks a committee was appointed to prepare resolutions of sympathy for the people of Jamestown and the Jamestown Lodge Benevolent and Protective Order Elks, for the expense they were put to in preparing for the convention up there. The salary of the grand secretary was reduced to $1,800 per year out of which he must pay his assistants His entire time must be devoted to the work of the order. A committee of five was appointed to prepare a statement of the existing controversy between the sessions of Atlantic City and Jamestown. This statement is to be sent out to all lodges of the order.

Society Army Potomac Reunion.

CONCORD, N. H., June 22.—The 25th annual meeting of the society of the Army of the Potomac was held in Representatives' hall in the state house here and was called to order by the president, Maj.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles. Invitations were received from Fredericksburg, Va., and New London, Conn., to hold the next annual meeting of the society there. Tellers were appointed and a ballot taken. New London receiving a large majority of the votes was declared the choice of the society for the next annual meeting place. Gen. Alexander S. Webb was elected president.

Tried To Swallow a Railroad Ticket.

NEWARK, N. J., June 22.—Sarah Clarke, a widow and professional shoplifter hailing from New York, was caught here in Henry Newhoff's store with a large roll of cloth valued at $30 under her arm. The woman claimed a residence in Waverly. When searched in police headquarters she had a narrow escape from being choked to death in an attempt to swallow a return railroad ticket from Newark to New York. The matron caught her in the act and by prompt action succeeded in saving her life.

Bismarck's Changeable Health.

BERLIN, June 22.—Dr. Chrsander, Bismarck's physician at Friedrichsruhe, has written to a Thuringian committee who desired to send a deputation to pay their respects to the ex-chancellor, stating that the state of Prince Bismarck's health is so changeable that it is not possible for him to undertake to receive visitors.

Harrison-Crosher Nuptials.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 22.—George Washington Harrison, of New York, a cousin of ex-President Benjamin Harrison, was united in marriage to Miss Sadie Elizabeth Crosher, here. Rev. R. Johns, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

CROSS-GRAINED, sour, irritable, so that the whole world seems wrong. That's the way you feel when your liver is inactive. You need Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to stimulate it and correct it, and clear up your system for you. You won't mind the taking of them—they're so small and so natural in their effects. All that you notice with them is the good that they do.

In the permanent cure of Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Dizziness, Sick or Bilious Headaches, and every liver, stomach, or bowel disorder, they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or the money is returned.

Don't tinker at your Catarrh with unknown medicines. It's risky and dangerous. You may drive it to the lungs. Get the Remedy that has cured Catarrh for years and years—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The makers guarantee it to cure, or benefit, in the worst cases.

LUCK FOLLOWS TARAL.

His Victory With Ramapo Was His Third Great Achievement.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Taral, who rode Ramapo to victory yesterday afternoon in the greatest Suburban handicap in the history of the classic event, is one of the most popular jockeys on the turf, and this latest victory gave Taral, who is rightly called the "Lucky Dutchman," a record enjoyed by no other jockey, that of winning the three big handicaps of the year. He won the Brooklyn with Dr. Rice, a discarded stable companion of Ramapo, and the Metropolitan and Suburban handicaps with Ramapo.

From the time of the opening of the future book on the race Ramapo was the favorite. His record entitled him to rank as the best horse in the race and he proved himself thoroughly worthy of the confidence reposed in him. His best and most brilliant victory, before the present, was when he won the Metropolitan handicap. He has not been defeated this year.

Ramapo's time, 2:06 1-5, is 2-5 of a second faster than the race had been run in. Lowlander ran the race a year ago in 2:06 3-5. The best time prior to that was made by Salvator in 1890. He went the distance in 2:06 4-5.

The race was undoubtedly one of the finest ever run in the east. When the straight run for home was begun it was seen that the race would be between Ramapo, Banquet and Sport. The jockeys were riding like demons. It was rip and slash, steel and catgut coming into play every inch of the journey, and the game horses struggling until their flaming eyeballs seemed ready to burst. Shortly after passing the furlong pole, Ramapo and Banquet pocketed Sport, thus ending his chances of finishing in the lead. As it was he was scant a length behind Banquet, the second horse past the post.

The Books Ordered Sold.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Justice O'Brien has given a decision ordering the sale of the books found among the assets of the Worthington company, which Anthony Comstock alleges were immoral and the sale of which he sought to restrain, on the ground that they were obscene. Justice O'Brien does not concede that the works are obscene. He says that they are not fit for the young mind, but can accomplish no ills among men of mature years and broad understanding. The books in question are copies of the "Arabian Knights" (Payne edition), "Tom Jones," Ovid's "Art of Love," the "Decameron," "Alladin" and others.

"Unknown" Smith Locked Up.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—"Unknown" Smith, of Coxey commonweal fame and ex-organizer of populist clubs, is in trouble here, locked up in jail, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. While in a maudlin condition he invaded the campus of the Greensburg seminary, where a lawn fete was being held. Smith mounted a box and began speaking on the non-interest bearing bonds and good roads doctrine, making very insulting and vulgar remarks. For this he was ejected and placed under arrest.

Very Likely It is Handsome.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Chief Johnston of the bureau of engraving and printing, is now running through the press a new $1,000 silver certificate. The new note is printed from an original plate designed under the direction of Mr. Johnston. It is pronounced by experts the most perfect example of the printers and engravers art of any United States money. The vignette of William L. Marcy adorns the new silver certificate.

Lambertville a Dry Town.

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., June 22.—The saloons and hotels in this place have been notified that they must close their bars at once. The landlords have decided to offer no accommodation to the traveling public. This is a result of the election last spring when the license candidates were defeated by disappointed office seekers in the first ward.

Philadelphia Signs Lukens.

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Manager Irwin, of the Philadelphia Baseball club, has signed Pitcher Lukens who was early in the season released by the Pittsburg management.

Re-hearing Granted Hugh Dempsey.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 22.—The pardon board has granted a re-hearing in the case of Hugh F. Dempsey, the Homestead prisoner.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Colonna and the World.

PARIS, June 22.—It is stated that the libel suit brought against Joseph Pulitzer by Prince Galatro-Colonna will shortly be settled out of court, the World publishing a letter from the prince stating that he was not the Colonna who was expelled from the Circolo club in Rome for cheating at cards, and that the other calumnies published about him were lies circulated by enemies. The publication of this letter, it is understood, will be followed by an apology on the part of the editor of the offending paper. An article will also be published calling attention to the fact that retraction of the accusations against the prince had been made by subsequently printing proofs of the falsity of the statements contained in the original libel. The Princess Galatro-Colonna has brought an action for a judicial separation from her husband. The case will be tried at Naples, where the princess will appear in person.

Strong Men To Meet.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Eugene Sandow, the strong man, has closed his season in California and cancelled his engagements in the northwest in order to reach New York as soon as possible to arrange for competition with other strong men to take place in that city. Sandow claims to have deposited with the New York Herald $10,000 as a gift to any man in the world who will accomplish the feats of strength performed by him. The climate of California has agreed with Sandow. He is in fine condition and hard as steel. He leaves for New York Thursday.

Knights of Pythias Encampment.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Preparations are far advanced for the great encampment of Knights of Pythias in Washington in August next. All doubts as to its success from financial, numerical and pictorial standpoints seem to have vanished with the organization of the citizens' committee and the active work done by Gen. Carnahan during his few days' visit.

Civil Marriage Bill.

BUDAPEST, June 22.—The house of magnates has passed the civil marriage bill by a majority of three.

Probably as Bad as Gravesend.

NEWARK, N. J., June 22.—Alexander Stone and Wm. Reynolds, two democratic ward workers, have been found guilty of interfering with election officers at the last state election. This is only the first of a series of cases which will be brought before the court by the grand jury, which is now republican, and developments, probably as sensational as those at Gravesend, may follow.

Wants a Negro Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—In the senate Mr. Gordon (dem., Ga.) offered an amendment to the Atlanta exposition bill. The amendment is to add to the bill a provision for the appointment by the president of a colored man as one of the commissioners.

Carlisle at Fort Monroe.

FORT MONROE, Va., June 22.—Secretary Carlisle and party arrived here on the steamer Maple at 6 p. m., having had a very pleasant trip down the bay.

NEW DIVORCE DOCTRINE.

Important Decision by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

BOSTON, June 22.—The theory of the law that a husband and his wife are but one person and that the wife must sue in the domicile of her husband has been departed from by the full bench of the supreme court in a divorce case. This departure is defined by a majority opinion in the case of Mrs. Ella M. Burtis against Howard Burtis, her husband. Mrs. Burtis asked for a divorce on the ground of alleged adultery, and described her husband in her libel as of Brooklyn, N. Y., where he was living when the suit was begun. It appeared in the superior court, where the case was heard, that she and her husband last lived together in this state, that she went temporarily to live in California, and while she was there her husband went to reside in Brooklyn. On her return here she learned of the alleged misconduct on his part, which was committed while they were living together. Her libel was dismissed by the judge in the superior court for the want of jurisdiction of the parties, and now exceptions which she took to the supreme court are sustained. The court holds that the theory of law that a husband and wife are one person is not applicable to a case like the present where the wife, who remains in the place where they last lived together, after he has gone away, brings a suit for a divorce founded on his alleged misconduct while they were together. "It would be unjust to apply this theory," says the court, "against a woman who is seeking a divorce for a wrong inflicted on her by her husband. In order to obtain her rights under such a rule of law she might be obliged to follow her husband as often as he migrated, even to the ends of the earth."

New Korean Minister.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The president, by appointment, received the new Korean minister, Ye Sung Soo. Korea, although owning a handsome legation here, has not been represented, except by a charge d'affaires, for the past three years. This representative has, however, given such satisfaction to his government, notably during the recent revolution, when he secured the despatch of the Baltimore to Korean waters, that he has been accredited minister plenipotentiary. The other officers of the legation who are now recognized are Ye Cha Yun, counselor; Jarng Bong Whan, first secretary, and Mr. Pak, second secretary. The Korean legation was established under Mr. Cleveland's first administration, but China subsequently made some objections to Secretary Blaine, and the Korean minister had to return home, leaving the legation in charge of an attache. Under Mr. Cleveland's second administration the Korean mission is now fully recognized and established.

Coxey as a Candidate.

ASHTABULA, O., June 22.—J. S. Coxey, the leader of the commonweal and nominee for congress in the eighteenth Ohio district, addressed a populist convention of several thousand people in North park. Coxey came direct from his home at Massillon, where he arrived from Washington city, Monday. He appears to have suffered little from his twenty days confinement for walking on the grass at the capitol. He was in good voice and talked for two hours, principally on his plan for money reform and good roads. He advocated the eight-hour system, also asserting that no laboring man should receive less than $1.50 per day, and that the government should own railroads, telegraphs and mines. He says the government should provide work for every man, and every man who would not work should not be allowed to eat. At times he was quite humorous, and was frequently interrupted by applause.

All Governments Alike to Him.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Secretary Herbert has received a cablegram from Commander Thomas of the Bennington announcing that one of the refugees on board has complied with the requirements of the navy department and landed at La Libertad. The man who has thus given himself up to the tender mercies of the victorious revolutionists is a native of the United States named Jefferies, who served as an aide with the title of general to Ezeta in the recently terminated conflict in Salvador. It appears that he had received assurances from the new government that he would not be molested if he came ashore, and he requested permission from Commander Thomas to leave the ship. Jefferies is said to be a reckless fellow with a very large following of friends in Salvador and it would not be surprising to officials here if he became quite as prominent in the new government as he was in the old one.

Gold Reserve's Low Water Mark.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The treasury gold reserve now stands at $64,127,969, $1,500,000 less than the low water mark reached in the gold reserve before it was built up by the $50,000,000 bond issue.

Saturday's Gold Shipments.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The gold shipments by Saturday's steamers are likely to reach $3,000,000. The small amount of gold which arrived from France this week will be forwarded to Havana on Saturday.

ONE TRUE MEDICINE FOR LOST NERVOUS STRENGTH.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system and that is the Paine's celery compound so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Cut prices prevail at Rogers's tomorrow.

—A large assortment of fireworks is displayed at Harper's, 411 Park avenue.

—The Colored Y. M. C. A. anticipate a large train and boat load on their great Coney Island excursion next week Thursday.

—Edward Maynard, the local favorite, had charge of the corps of colored waiters who served refreshments so capably at the Public Schools reception.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. P. Northup of Crescent avenue has purchased a valuable road horse.

Miss Edna Hanshew of Brooklyn is the guest of Miss Morse of Franklin place.

Augustus VanDeventer and family of Washington avenue are at the Tremont House, Sea Girt.

Mrs. J. A. Bunting of Mercer avenue left yesterday for Avon by the Sea to spend the Summer.

Arthur Serrell of Plainfield avenue is entertaining his Lehigh University roommate, Mr. Reynolds.

Mrs. Alexander Gilbert and Mrs. Frank O. Herring have gone to Liberty, N. Y., to spend two weeks.

The engagement is announced of J. C. Bovey of Somerset street to Miss Anna D. Horstman of Brooklyn.

Miss Emma Fish of Franklin place is entertaining one of Philadelphia's belles, Miss Annie Crane.

Sidney Clinton Crane of the class of '97, Columbia College Law School, has just passed his examinations.

Miss Rachel H. Vail of Orange place will enjoy the breezes of Long Island Sound near Port Chester, the next two months.

Miss Alberta Madison returned to her home yesterday in Attica, N. Y., after a three weeks visit with Miss Bessie Baldwin of Rockview avenue.

No hope is entertained for the recovery of H. A. Thorne, Jr., son of H. A. Thorne of La Grande avenue. He is dying of consumption in the Adirondacks.

Messrs. Hand and McIntyre have disposed of their house on Kensington avenue to Fred W. Yates, who will take possession Sept. 1, and fit it for his bride.

A. L. Brainard, of the Swift Beef Company establishment, left Plainfield this afternoon for the Summer. He will be employed by the company in Long Branch.

The first concert of the season at the Hotel Netherwood will be given by the Stoelzer-Mozart Symphony Club tomorrow evening and will continue daily during the Summer.

Mrs. Catherine B. Menzel, mother of Mrs. Abner Bartlett of 339 Park avenue, died suddenly yesterday. She was 71 years old. The interment will be made privately in Hillside Cemetery.

Fletcher D. Hallock, brother of G. A. Hallock, the Plainfield men's outfitter, has been graduated from Lehigh University, receiving his diploma as an electrical engineer, and standing very high.

Miss Laura Wilkins of Rochester is visiting Miss Sadie Douglass of Sycamore avenue. She made many friends at the High School reception last night, and her two weeks in Plainfield will be busy with gaiety.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash fainted in Music Hall early last evening and had to be carried to her home on Prospect avenue. She was slightly improved this morning, but it is not expected that her recovery will be rapid.

Miss Martha Tracy, daughter of J. Evarts Tracy, has successfully passed her examinations for admission to Bryn Mayr College. She was prepared by the Plainfield Seminary for Young Ladies. Miss Tracy's success reflects greater credit on her scholarship and the teachers who have trained her from the fact that students are not admitted to Bryn Maur College on any other examinations than those of the institution and Harvard College.

Many of the '94 graduates have already decided on the future. Vassar's halls of learning will develop the Plainfield training of Miss Baxter and Miss Lovell. Pratt Institute will extend the education of Miss Bonny and Miss Miller. For Miss Bourgeois the State Normal School in Trenton has attractions, and Miss Mitchell will enter the Teachers College in New York. Miss Kellogg will impart her knowledge to public school juveniles, and Miss Palmer will as trained nurse be a benefactor of her sex. Masters Lane and Reynolds contemplate a post-graduate course. Goddard goes to Amherst, Riley to Cornell, and Probasco probably to Columbia. The rest of the boys will enter business.

DOUBLE GRADUATION.

15 STUDENTS AND THE SCHOOL TRUSTEES END THEIR TERMS TOGETHER.

North Plainfielders Crowd Warren Chapel to Witness the Closing Exercises—Song, Speech and Story Pass an Evening of Pleasure and Profit to Pupils and Parents Alike.

When the Commencement exercises ended in Warren Chapel last evening, fifteen members of the highest class had been honorably discharged from their school duties. They participated in the exercises, they received the bouquets and baskets of fragrant flowers with which their friends greeted their last appearance under the auspices of the school, they were handed diplomas, they were congratulated by a throng of people, they realized that their school days in North Plainfield were over.

These are the graduates:

Nellie Louise Arnold, Miriam Wilcox,
Alice Adele Barlow, George S. Bolsterle,
Etta M. Blatz, Raymond B. Carroll,
Gertrude F. Hazeltine, Charles M. Dolliver,
Harriet F. Lewis, Frank Keller,
Grace Etting Overton, Herbert Schutt,
Mamie G. Steiner, Allen F. Squier,
Fannie W. Western.

Above the platform in the chapel were draperies of purple and white, the class colors, with the year in evergreen in the centre. At the back of the platform were seats for the chorus of scholars, and on the right were seats for the graduates. The whole chapel was filled with people, eagerly interested in this, the greatest event in student life.

Miss Alice A. Barlow, one of the graduates, played on the piano the march which accompanied the entrance of the chorus. The graduating class then took their seats, Miss Carrie E. Randolph assuming Miss Barlow's place at the piano. Principal Charles E. Boss announced the numbers of the programme in their order.

Herbert Schutt rendered very sweetly the solo parts of the song "The Day Is Past and Over", the chorus singing very effectively. The first declamation was that of Charles Dolliver, "The Preservation of America". He ably took the part of an orator speaking at a critical point in a nation's career. Miss Gertrude Hazeltine followed with a recitation on "The Sea". It was a remarkably well rendered descriptive sketch, partly solemn, partly playful.

Frank Keller received much applause for the way in which he declaimed "The Little Western Man", a poetical account of an incident of the march of the Union soldiers to Richmond. The school then sang "On, On, Swiftly On". Raymond Carroll next spoke "A Free Press", giving proper stress and accent to convincing statements on press freedom in the abstract.

Miss Harriet Lewis recited "Spring Magic", describing the beauties of advancing Spring in quiet, poetic language. Miss Nellie Arnold delivered the recitation "Home, Sweet Home", telling a pathetic war story with excellent effect. "Little Peasant Maid" was then sung by the school.

Allen Squier improved an opportunity for introducing a forcible patriotic spirit into his selection, "The American Flag". Miss Miriam Wilcox told very tenderly a sweet, sad foreign tale, "The Lost Child". The chorus sang "Jack Frost".

The essay of the evening was read by its author, Miss Fannie Western. It was as follows:

THE TRUE KNIGHT.

At the mention of the word knight what visions appear of a time long past, of men and deeds, whose influence still lives and will live as long as civilization lasts. We are standing before a castle of the fourteenth century rising grim and gray, and we cannot but admire the magnificent structure.

Behold, the gateway opens and mounted on his fiery steed, a gallant knight comes forth. In his armor of shining steel, ornamented helmet, triangular shield and trusty lance, he presents a beautiful picture. The horse stamps his feet anxious to be off and the knight turning in his saddle bids his friends farewell and rides fearlessly away. His errand is well known, he has received a challenge and like every true knight has accepted it. Such was the knight as he went forth to win fame and fortune. We see in that figure our ideal of true manhood.

He had taken a solemn vow to speak only the truth, to help weak against the strong and to maintain the right against might. He was to be ever ready when duty called, yielding to death rather than to leave his post, serving with his whole heart both God and his king. If he violated these conditions, even if he escaped the law, he felt himself lowered and untrue to his vows. His influence was felt far and near and he taught well the lesson of reverence and chivalry toward woman. Literature is full of his deeds of valor and strength. Tennyson in his "Idylls of the King" describes fully his achievements during the time of King Arthur and his knights of the Round Table. He was not always what he appeared or professed to be and as frequently kind and courteous only to those of high rank. Be that as it may, the fact that he existed at a time when there was so little of gentleness and truth in the world, teaches us that men may have high ideals even though they fail to reach them. His strife to attain those ideals helped to advance the movements which resulted in our modern civilization.

The knight of today differs greatly from the one of centuries ago, both in character and dress. His armor is not of steel, but only the plain coat of a citizen or even the blouse of a laborer. His helmet is any hat of the time and may protect the head of a soldier or fireman. Nevertheless he may win fame as truly as did Sir Galiad for victory lies not in the armor but in the valor we display.

The modern knight spends not his time in righting wrong; but has his daily work to which he attends. As a Christian and gentleman he is bound to protect and care for the weak and helpless.

He needs no vows to remind him of duties. He is ready to help and defend those in trouble, thinking not of their station in life, but that they are his fellow beings. He cares not for display but seeks to make the world better, thus gaining the love and respect of all. He wins honor by fighting unseen battles with himself. He is at his best in his home, gentle and true. The gallant of the fourteenth century was trained in the duties and exercises of knighthood from an early age. The true hero of today does not wait until he can go forth fully equipped for the fray before beginning his work. He is kind and polite to his mother and instead of always teasing and tormenting his sisters grants them a favor now and then.

Some think that the old-time gallantry toward woman is declining, but real consideration and genuine politeness seem, in spite of what may be said, to be increasing. As the nineteenth century woman asserts herself and refuses to be treated as helpless, men take a new position. Now courtesy is based on thoughtfulness and not on admiration for beauty or respect for rank.

The true gentleman gives up his seat to a young and pretty lady entering a car as an act of gallantry but he also always rises when an elderly woman especially if she is poorly clad or one with a child appears. Thus we find gallantry and chivalry all about us. Let us then emulate this noble cause by word, act and in every way within our power.

A pathetic story of the streets, 'One of the Little Ones", was then given tenderly by Miss Mamie Steiner. The thrilling "Scene at the Great Natural Bridge" was recited by Herbert Schutt, who sustained his hearers' interest in the climax to the last moment. Another song appropriate to the evening, "Blow, Ye Balmy Breezes, Blow", was sung by the school.

Miss Etta Blatz gave a most admirable recital of "Little Golden Hair". It was a pathetic story of how a child found her father dead on a battlefield. The last selection recited was that of Miss Grace Overton. In "The Vanishing City" she impressively described a scene of dreamy grandeur. The chorus sang "On the Goodwins".

President S. St. John McCutchen of the Board of Education presented the diplomas. He said in part:

"Because of the uncomfortably warm weather tonight, I would not detain you longer were it not imperative for me to say a few words on behalf of the trustees, who are graduated tonight just as these scholars are.

"As is probably known to many of you, the State law has been changed with a view to strengthening the weaker schools by consolidating them all according to townships. But a borough like our own is affected in a different way. The present board of three trustees goes out of office July 1. During that month nine trustees will be elected as a new board. We desire to express our thanks and our gratitude to you all for the way in which our efforts towards improving the school have been regarded and aided by you."

To the graduates Mr. McCutchen said it gave him great pleasure to hand a diploma to each, particularly because he had learned that the class had been more attentive and studious and ambitious than the average. He spoke in congratulation, not in exhortation, but if he were to attempt to preach to the graduates he would simply urge them to keep in mind their class motto, "Strive to be Faithful". The scholars in graduation had not escaped from the trustees. They would be watched and their careers followed as by interested friends. The trustees hoped that the class would receive such success as might be best in their various lines of work. With further expressions of good wishes, President McCutchen closed the exercises.

The alumni reception takes place tonight.

DUNELLEN'S DUO.

SOPHIE MALTBIE AND WALTER BODINE ARE GRADUATED.

Their Motto Is "Row, Not Float", and They Start Out in Life with Most Cordial Encouragement from Their Friends.

The Commencement exercises of the Dunellen Public Schools last evening attracted a large audience to the Presbyterian chapel.

In the absence of Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Rev. F. E. Peterson of New Market opened with prayer. This was followed with a selection, "Hark, the Village Bells", by the scholars.

A most excellent and highly creditable essay was delivered by Miss Sophie Maltbie. This talented young woman deserves much praise for her masterly effort. Another admirable essay by Walter Priestly Bodine followed. This also showed high attainment, and both were heartily received. They are given in full below. The two graduates were overwhelmed with baskets of choice flowers and fruits.

Rev. A. I. Martine presented them with their graduating diplomas, in a few well-chosen words.

Part Second was ushered in with a charming duet by the Misses Maltbie and then Rev. Frank Fletcher gave one of his interesting talks. He compared the educational advantages of the past with the present, and told how hard it was several years back for a child to get an education. At times Mr. Fletcher became humorous, and his audience was convulsed with laughter. He paid a high compliment to Superintendent Whitney and the efficient corps of teachers.

"The Singing of Birds" was an enjoyable number by the chorus, after which Rev. A. I. Martine awarded the prizes which consisted of books. Those receiving them were:

Edward Bellis, Maggie Kelly, Archie Bellis, Mamie Snyder, E. Peters, T. Loughlin, W. Kennedy, H. Kirchner, J. Ohl, D. Kuldoshe, J. Dineen, W. Dealaman, G. Kratzel, J. Tingley, T. Kelley, W. Beekman, W. Hulick, Lizzie Hulick, Amy Sampson, Mabel Pierson, Katy Gallagher, W. Giles, Edison Brown, Chester Gaskill, Bessie Vail, Fred Stilliger, Elias Giles, Fred Whiton, R. Fisher, W. Bodine, Methenia Bodine, Frank Teuszeau, Edward Conklin, Sophie Maltbie, Walter Priestly Bodine, Katy Kratzel, Fred Vail.

An excellent selection, "Happy and Light", by the chorus, was followed with the benediction by Rev. F. E. Peterson.

Mrs. Mary L. Phillips as musical director, and Miss Jessie Maltbie as accompanist, are deserving of credit for the fine musical part of the programme.

The essays:

THE CHAMBERED NAUTILUS—BY MISS SOPHIE MALTBIE.

Far out on the waves of the limitless sea, tossed by restless tides drifted her and there by unknown winds and currents, from what port it knows not, to what harbor it cannot even conjecture there floats a little pearly shell.

But the creature is not unhappy. Sometimes the skies are blue above and the great ocean is calm. Then the tiny wing are spread in the sunshine, and the nautilus sails in sweet content.

But again the heavens are black with storms, and the seas are a wild uproar of tempests. Then the little sails are furled, and the "ship of pearl" sinks far down into the calm, green depths, where the fiercest storm can never reach. While the tempests rage above, it is safe down there among the coral reefs, and the seaweed where the sea monsters glide silently in the dim light. What a lesson the traditions may teach, it begins life in a shell of small size—it is only a tiny creature itself, but slowly it grows. We do not know how. The greatest scientists cannot explain that mysterious something called growth, which is a part of that other great mystery called life. And the shell becomes too small, it cramps the dweller with. Then slowly the animal secrets shining pearl, and extends, enlarges its habitation. When the new shell is completed, it passes through the life door and leaves the old room—forever. But it carries its past with it. Every year a coil is added, each time larger than the last, until the fair, perfect spiral is complete.

Surely, this is type of man's growth. Look back at the narrow beliefs and views of the far past. The men of those days did not realize how small their dwelling was. It was large enough for them. But every year added to the growth of knowledge until the old boundaries were too cramped; and sometimes by revolutions, sometimes by the slow toll of centuries, the world of thought moved into a dwelling of loftier walls and wider outlook. Timorous prophets predicted ruin to the dwelling, direful means were used to hinder its building—but steadily the world moved on until now we stand under a dome, ample and magnificent.

But we have not yet reached the limit. Many a new and greater room must be added before even human intellect has entire freedom or stands erect in its full stature.

"For we doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,
"And the thoughts of men are widened by the process of the suns".

Nearly every man can remember some period of enlargement—sometime when his mind moved into a larger chamber and no longer dwelt in the confined rooms of his early ignorance. And as the years go on he must move on into larger life or his whole nature will remained dwarfed and stunted.

As pupils of this school we, like the nautilus, have been building, one room after another and now, as we face the world, it is left entirely to ourselves whether we make the dwellings firm, strong and beautiful within.

We leave today one period behind us. It has been a time of growth we know. Slowly but surely we have been building a room of fair proportions and have been growing into larger, wider thought. May we not sing tonight with the Boston autocrat: "Build thee more stately mansions, oh, my soul!"

HABIT—BY WALTER BODINE.

Habit is a disposition or tendency of either body or mind created by the repetition of acts and states.

Habit and custom are nearly related but are not the same. Habit is the inward disposition; custom the outward act frequently repeated. Customs lead to habits and habits perpetuate customs. Old and useless customs are often kept up by the force of habit.

Man is born with a tendency to do more things than he has ready-made arrangements for in his nerve centres.

Most of the acts of other animals require no effort of the will. But in him the number of them is so enormous, that most of them must be the result of painful study. Hence he would be in a sorry plight if practice did not make perfect, nor habit reduce the expense of nervous and muscular energy and free us in a large measure from the necessity of expending upon routine drudgery the power needed for nobler purposes.

The young child devotes his whole attention to the process of walking; walking to the man is nearly automatic. The boy learns to write with much and painful effort; the man thinks and his fingers move of themselves.

Habitual acts need little attention and less effort for proper execution. Such acts can be performed with less time and strength and the work is better done than when we attend to what we are doing.

Think now, how many common acts take place without our giving a thought to their performance. A musician will play a piece which has become familiar by repetition while carrying on an animated conversation; old ladies will read or talk as they knit. The marksmen sees the bird, and, before he knows it he has aimed and shot. Who is there that has not wound up his watch on taking off his vest in the day time?

Few men can tell off-hand which sock, shoe, or trousers-leg they put on first. So of the question which way does my door swing? I cannot tell the answer, yet my hand never makes a mistake. No one can describe the order in which he brushes his hair and teeth, yet, it is likely that the order is a pretty fixed one in us all.

Habit a second nature? Habit is ten times nature the Duke of Wellington is said to have exclaimed. And the degree to which this is true no one can better appreciate than he who is a veteran soldier himself. There is a story of a practical joker who seeing a discharged soldier carrying home his dinner called out Attention, whereupon the man instantly brought his hands down and lost his mutton and potatoes in the gutter. The drill had been thorough and its effects embodied in the man's nervous system.

Surely man has well been called a bundle of habits and personal experience testifies to the truth of this adage.

Would it not, then, be well to give more heed to our conduct, remembering that we are spinning our own fates, good or evil, and never to be undone. Every smallest stroke of virtue or of vice leaves its never so little scar. Nothing we ever do is wiped out.

This has its good as well as its bad side. As we become permanent drunkards by so many separate drinks, so we become saints in the moral, and authorities and experts in the practical and scientific spheres, by so many separate acts and hours of work.

Truly the wise man of olden-time knew whereof he spoke when he said "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved fno avail.

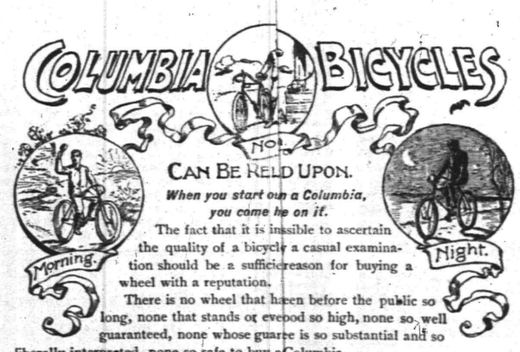
COLUMBIA BICYCLES



CAN BE RELIED UPON.

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever did so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Deafness, Catarrh and Diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs successfully treated.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

TWENTY-FOUR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS.

Music Hall Filled with People Who Enjoy the Music, Essays and Speeches—Presentation of Portrait in Affectionate Remembrance of George H. Babcock—Graduates Reception Ends a Happy Night.

On twenty-four winners of High School diplomas Plainfield people focused their interest last night, and the taxpayers' annual inspection of the result of their free educational system renewed their satisfaction and pride in the town's most glorious institution.

It was a beautiful, starlight night, and Music Hall was none too large to hold the gathering of the people. Early, the seats were filled, and the many who stood through the programme had no thought of physical discomfort in their absorption in this great annual event. The graduating entertainment is the people's night, and they never fail to testify their unabating interest and never-waning approval of the school work.

The body of the house was a sea of faces, set in white gowns and white shirt fronts, with just enough dark coats to afford relief. Countless fans kept the air in brisk vibration, and a gentle breeze from the mountains was wafted through the open windows. It was pleasantly cool on the stage, and the light-hearted graduates behind the canvas curtain had snatches of the waltz as the Seventh Regiment Orchestra played the opening overture of college airs. Then rose the curtain, and out from the wings they marched, amid a buzz of comment and a welcoming hand-clapping. They took seats in the form of a crescent, the white-gowned, attractive girls in front, the black-vestured manly boys behind them. At the right hand of the class sat President J. B. Probasco of the Board of Education, his fellow-members Edward L. Finch, Olin L. Jenkins, and Leander N. Lovell, Schools Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, Ira Winthrop Travell, instructor in higher classics and mathematics, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, and Rev. Dr. H. L. Wayland of Philadelphia.

President Probasco, presiding, made the introductions and announcements, in their respective order, first asking for the invocation by Dr. Yerkes.

Simple and expressive was the petition offered up. Thanksgiving was made for all the good that has come to the country, for the institution whose anniversary it was; and, blessing was asked on the schools and on the exercises.

A respectful pause, and strains of music pleased the senses, preliminary to the introduction of Frederick Worth Goddard. In clear and forcible expression this honor-student delivered the following:

SALUTATORY AND ORATION.

Members of the Board of Education:—In the name of the Class of 1894, I salute you. To your efforts and to those of your predecessors we owe in great part the superior advantages we here have enjoyed; and in welcoming you here tonight we wish at the same time to thank you most heartily for your constant and unselfish labors for the good of Plainfield's public schools.

Citizens of Plainfield, many of you alumni of the Plainfield High School:—It is with great pleasure that I extend to you, in behalf of my classmates, a cordial welcome to this hall and to these exercises tonight. We trust that you will find the evening an interesting one, and that, from what you see, you will be satisfied that your sons and daughters are enjoying educational advantages in the Plainfield public schools equal to any in this land of schools. We wish to thank you for your interest in the schools and in these exercises. Again, in the name of the Class of '94, Welcome all!

AERIAL NAVIGATION.—Man has long been accustomed to pride himself on the fact that he is the crowning glory of that great work of creation which has filled our earth with its multitudinous forms of life. And yet oftimes as he has stood gazing upon one or another of the humbler creatures of the creation he has been conscious of a certain inferiority in some respects. That unknown sea—for centuries man did not dare trust himself out of sight of land, yet to the fishes it was a familiar home. The aerial wastes, the far North, the frozen South, the many inaccessible regions intermediate—there the birds might go and see what was denied the sight of men. At such moments it would seem, man has often been aroused only the more to assert his lordship. The animals shall be reduced to subjection, even the elements shall exert themselves to do man's bidding; the locomotive shall distance the horse, and the telegraph the carrier pigeon.

We are not surprised, then, to read that in pre-historic times, the eyes of Daldalue enviously followed the birds in their flight, and that soon the great artisan had constructed pairs of wings for himself and his son, wings which proved a means of escape to the father, but death to the boy; for young Icarus is fabled to have soared too near the sun, and thus to have melted the wax fastenings of his wings.

Since that time, occasional and spasmodic attempts have been made to sail in the air, though until quite recent times, few experiments have been fortunate enough to escape the fate of Darius Green.

In about 1742 the Marquis de Bacqueville became fired with the idea that he was the man who was to solve the problem of aerial flight. Accordingly he made the announcement that on a certain day he would fly across the river Seine. A large crowd gathered to see him as with huge wings attached to his hands and feet he jumped from a high terrace just above the river. For a short distance he kept himself up quite well, but only with the most violent struggles. At last his strength gave out, and down he fell on to the deck of a wash woman's barge, breaking his leg. This experiment with many others shows that man is not able by muscular efforts to sustain himself in air.

Forty years after DeBacqueville's mishap the Montgolfier brothers constructed the first balloon. That year—1783—marks an era in the history of attempted aerial navigation. Soon the paper envelope and hot air inflation were replaced by silk and hydrogen, and aeronauts without number were piercing the clouds and soaring with the birds.

As France was the birthplace of the balloon, so, today, it leads the world, and in its celebrated military balloon, "La France", it possesses a balloon apparently of nearly the greatest efficiency with which such structures can be gifted. It is much to have constructed an air ship which can be propelled at a rate of 14 miles per hour, and can be steered this way or that, and yet do not the swift birds fly at 100 miles per hour, and even the lazy crow lounging across the meadows travel 25 or 30 miles per hour? The jelly-fish moves too sluggishly in its watery home; 'tis the speed of the trout or pickerel we would attain. And so for a decade inventors have wholly abandoned the principle of the bulky and fragile balloon, and have returned to the study of the bird as the more promising model.

DeVilleneuve, after experimenting with about 300 models, finally constructed a huge bird with flapping wings, which was propelled by a steam motor. He met with very slight success; in fact, none of the experiments with machines moved by flapping wings seem to have been very successful. It is pretty generally conceded now that the best means of propulsion for an air ship is the screw propellor. The best screw is the one which will produce the least current in the air, and which will spend the greatest part of its power on the craft.

The vital problem, however, in connection with the flying machine, is that of stable suspension in air. After spending much time in close study of the albatross, the gull, the hawk, Prof. Langley, of Johns Hopkins University, has concluded that the flight of such birds is accomplished almost wholly by the use of the wings as aeroplanes. For hours at a time, by skillfully taking advantage of different air currents, the gull will soar without once flapping the wings. Inventors have not been slow to take this hint, and the aeroplane is now a feature of the embryo flying machine.

LeBris's experiment in 1867 was amusing, as well as instructive to his successors. His bird-like machine, the body of which was in the shape of a canoe, was held down to a peasant's cart by a rope passing under the railing of the cart and fastened with a slip-know around LeBris's wrist so that by a very slight movement he could set the bird free. He himself, standing upright in the canoe with his hands on the levers controlling the wings, directed the peasant to drive his horse briskly along the road. Just at the proper time LeBris loosed the rope, but the bird did not rise; the rope had caught on a nail in the railing. Pretty soon the railing gave away, the bird rose, and, says LeBris, "I found myself perfectly balanced going up to a height of some 300 feet, and sailing about twice that distance over the road". But an accident had taken place. At the last moment the running rope had whipped round the body of the driver, and had carried him into the air. He involuntarily performed the part of the tail of the kite, his weight by an extraordinary chance just balancing the apparatus properly. When LeBris became aware of how matters stood he descended very gently, showing in every way that he had perfect control of his machine. But as soon as the driver had extricated himself and LeBris tried to reascend, he found he could not maintain his equilibrium. However, no harm was done beyond slightly damaging the machine. By this experiment we see that LeBris's chief trouble was with maintaining an equilibrium.

The German scientist, Lilienthal, has of recent years been devoting himself wholly to the question of securing stable equilibrium in air, apart from the use of any propelling force. Starting from an eminence with his wing-like aeroplanes he has succeeded in soaring hundreds of feet through the air, in swooping down and mounting again, hawk-like, and finally in alighting with perfect comfort and with safety to the machine. The cost of a soaring machine like Lilienthal's would not exceed twice the amount of a first-class bicycle.

But the foremost inventor of the day remains yet to be mentioned—Hiram S Maxim—an American, I am proud to say, though now performing his experiments in Kent, England. The greatest forward step in aerial navigation taken by Mr. Maxim is his invention of a light, but strong motor. Mr. Maxim says in a letter written about two years ago: "I have been experimenting with motors and have succeeded in making them so that they will develop one horse-power for every six pounds of weight. My experiments show that as much as 133 pounds can be sustained in the air by the expenditure of one horse-power in propelling force". Mr. Maxim's air ship weighs about 6,000 pounds, his engines are capable of developing about 300 horse-power, which, therefore, could if required, lift over 30,000 pounds more than the weight of the entire machine. After having fitted this machine with wheels, Mr. Maxim has made trials of its merits on his circular track. He has found that several times, it has lifted from the track, even when heavily weighted to keep it down. There is therefore no question about the ability of the machine to rise. It simply remains to provide against upsetting when once the ascent has been made.

Some people may ask what is the use of air ships? There are many uses which can be enlarged upon, almost without end. The most important advantage would be the stopping of all wars. With air ships able to carry explosives over the territories of the enemy and to drop them in their midst, war would become so destructive that arbitration would be substituted, not only as a matter of common sense, but also for self preservation. Secondly—The advantage gained in speed. It has been shown by Maxim, Langley and others that the speed of aeriation can be made to greatly exceed terrestrial locomotion. Then again it would be of great importance by rendering immense tracts of comparatively worthless territory at a distance of from 20 to 40 miles from cities, much more available.

The part of aerial navigation most interesting to us, however, is whether we shall have air ships, and if so how soon. We ought to feel perfectly sure on this point when we see how confident of success are the most noted scientists of the day. Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, of telephone fame, is reported to have recorded his belief, amounting almost to a conviction, that the flying machine would be an accomplished fact at the end of the century or at the end of ten years. Hiram S. Maxim says: "If I had nothing else to do, unlimited capital and unlimited space to experiment in, I should expect to be up in the air in 18 months, but even under the most unfavorable conditions aerial navigation should be practicable inside of ten years". J. H. Dow of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "The flying machine is a certainty of the future".

It is not necessary to continue quoting. It is sufficient, we see that the most eminent scientists of the day positively declare that within 10 years we shall be sailing in the air like birds. Just think of it—in a very short time we shall be taking the Jersey Central air-line, or some similar line, to New York, instead of the Jersey Central Railroad. What more do we want? With the earth ours, and the heavens that are above the earth, there remains nothing but to honeycomb the earth with tunnels and rapid transit railways.

The audience gave generous applause in approbation of Master Goddard's work, and the orchestra described in music Turner's scene "On the Levee", so effectively that repetition was insisted on. Dr. Wayland then gave his scholarly address on

"THE NEW EDUCATION."

Education, (he said) like every other science and art, is perpetually making progress. It would be a great reproach to our fathers if they had not enabled us to outstrip them.

The new education is rational, not traditional. It looks on everything as an open question, it is at war with educational conservatism. It looks toward the study of language as a means to the mastery and enjoyment of the literature. The new education is a protest against the old theory that a study in order to be valuable must be distasteful. It holds that the legitimate use of our faculties is always attended with pleasure. It protests against the theory that a disciplinary study can have no practical value. Rather it connects study with practical pursuits, and gets valuable culture and discipline out of the productive labor of daily life. It also dispels the superstition that high cultivation is inconsistent with robust health. It takes as its ideal, not Pascal, a lifelong sufferer, but Gladstone; it reckons the body as a useful instrument of the soul.

The new education holds that character is more than acquirement; and chiefly it promotes the character of an original investigator. The old education has discouraged original investigation. The new education will teach every pupil by studying the language to make the grammar for himself.

The new education lies largely outside of the schools. It uses the newspapers, the daily life, the farm, the field, as means of education. It is an education, not for man, nor for woman, but for human beings. It abjures the notion of a male and a female mind, of masculine and feminine virtues. The new education will be Christian, finding the great end of life in service, seeking to reproduce Christ in the life of the Nineteenth Century. Not that the new education will ever be finished. We shall never lose the inspiration of anticipation. Go on, then, Education of the Future, making men ever great and strong and free and good; happy we who have seen the dawning light; happier they who shall witness the splendor of High Noon.

ESSAY AND VALEDICTORY.

"A MERRY HEART DOETH GOOD LIKE A MEDICINE"—Throughout the ages, the aim of the human race has been happiness. The Greeks sought it in art and culture; the Romans in power; men of today in a multiplicity of ways. All desire it. And yet, worry, ill-health, discouragement, are only three of its fatal enemies.

Today has been called the age of nervousness. It should perhaps be more accurately designated as the age of worry and nervousness. Few men submit to being called nervous. They worry. Women only are nervous. However shown, mental distress does not add to the enjoyment of life, although it does seem as if some people could not get along without it. Is there a cure? Conscientious cheerfulness and the ability to enjoy little pleasures, is the only way to recognize great blessings.

From the countless advertisements for cures of this and that complaint, and from the number of doctors in this fair city of ours, even, one might naturally conclude that this is a most unhealthful age, a statement which few will maintain. Whether the disease be imaginary or not, Dr. Marshall Hall, a noted physician, was right in saying that "the best cordial of all is cheerfulness". It is evident that melancholy accompanies dyspepsia and is generally thought to be caused by it. I have seen the statement reversed, that dyspepsia is the result of melancholy. Physical suffering either sours or sweetens the temper. Some confirmed invalids are cross and exciting, while others are the brightest, most cheerful people in the world. I have been told that the writer of the best jokes which have appeared in "Life" during the last few years was a consumptive upon whom slowly approaching death had set his seal. The only earthly cordial for such is cheerfulness.

One of the greatest enemies to a merry heart is discouragement which at times becomes too strong. The child cannot learn his alphabet when perhaps some little companion two years younger knows it all from A to Z and can count 20 also. Oh, the inequalities of this world! Its unfairness is one of the greatest proofs that there is another. There are some birds that fly very high and it has been proved that a contrary wind aids their speed. Goldsmith is comforting "Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall".

There is no doubt of the pleasure, the influence, the profit and the necessity to its possessor as well as others of a joyous spirit. Some are born with it. They are naturally as merry as a rippling brook. You tease them and they laugh. To them, the little every day annoyances are not enough to try the patience of Job. Such a spirit is a greater gift than that of music, drawing or painting. For beautiful music draws us toward heaven, but a joyous companion brings heaven down to us. But to the majority of us, "Small evils, like invisible insects, inflict great pain". It is so hard to be merry or even reasonable (that is at home) when the head aches and the weather is hot, when the breakfast is late and the coffee cold. If the father can joke after a hard, unsuccessful day's work, if the mother can laugh when she has been up all night with a croupy child, the boy whistle and find something to do when the rain has prevented a Saturday ball game or a bicycle race; and the girl feel cheerful when she has failed in her examinations and every thing else gone wrong, he or she may have gained a greater victory than Alexander when he conquered Bucephalus.

For—

"Neither one day nor a noble deed,
Makes a life that is lovely and grand.
But the little things one constantly needs
To do and to bear and to understand."

Now, how may we who are naturally impatient, or easily discouraged gain this habitual cheerfulness so essential to happiness? By constant effort and exercise of the will. "Nothing great is lightly won". There are three great requisites, however, patience, employment, self-forgetfulness.

There was once a philosopher who had spent a part of each day for 27 years in studying the barometer, and its laws, recording his observations on paper prepared for that purpose. One day, a new servant, in the feminine zeal for putting things to rights, burned up the dirty paper as she called it. When the philosopher heard what had happened, after a few moments of internal struggle, he was able calmly to tell her what she had done. How was he enabled to control himself when we ordinary mortals would have lost temper if work had been destroyed which had taken but a week or perhaps a day? Just because he had had those 27 years of training in patience.

This is a work-a-day world. Let him who complains of labor try one week of enforced idleness with absolutely nothing to do. The bustle and hurry and work will go on around him and he will feel lonely and isolated outside of it all. The natural activity of children prevents them from being happy unless they have something to do, and the "child is father of the man".

"A Merry Heart Doeth Good Like a Medicine." A medicine for melancholy, worry, ill-health, discouragement, but some medicines are very expensive. This costs patience, contentment, employment, but it is a fact, a psychological fact, that a merry heart, merry in rainy weather, as well as sunny, is dependent on self-forgetfulness. Any man who continually studies, pleases and worships self, must soon grow tired of life, for he never moves from the one standpoint. Plato says that in seeking the happiness of others we find our own, but that must not be the reason for taking that road. Self must be out of the question, forgotten. When "green and yellow melancholy", worry, ill-health, discouragement, all the little provoking things make us feel for the moment almost tired of life, how may we be merry? By doing something, be it ever so small, for somebody.

CITIZENS OF PLAINFIELD:—The Class of '94 thank you for your presence and attention this evening. We also and heartily thank you for the education which you have given us. "Blessings brighten as they take their flight" and therefore especially tonight if we have not done so before, do we appreciate that education—an appreciation which time will increase.

GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION:—How many times from this platform have these words sounded, and yet this is the first time that they have been addressed to some of you. There have been changes in this Board during our High School course—changes during this year. One has left Plainfield. The term of another expired. And one who had served for 7 years, the last year as President, just before Christmas was called to a higher sphere. Their work remains, their memory survives. To them as well as to yourselves are we grateful for our education, an education which we hope will render us true patriots of America, loyal citizens of Plainfield, and useful, happy men and women. In past years the High School assembled each morning at 9, and, with a short intermission at noon, was in session until half-past three in the afternoon. But a year ago last Fall the rumor of one session spread among the pupils, and when this change really took place it seemed too good to be true. In behalf of the High School we thank you for it. By it we have enjoyed life more and have worked better. But, gentlemen, we chiefly and heartily thank you for the principal and teachers which you have given us, not only for their instruction but also for their friendship.

CLASSMATES: What shall I say to you? Many of us in the years gone by have entered this hall on Commencement night to watch others graduate. During the past year, at least, we all have been looking forward to the time when the important event shall come to us. And now only a few moments remain before we instead of being members of the Plainfield High School, shall be numbered among its alumni. As we look back upon our school days, how happy they seem, especially this last year. For we have come to know and like each other better and are not ready to part. How fascinating geometry now; how interesting chemistry and Latin. Some of you as you gaze upon the starry heavens will think of the tuseles and discouragements of astronomy, which you expected to be so much easier than Cicero. Oh, the discussions and debates of literature. Those are some of the lessons which we have studied and, (as we think of them now), enjoyed together. Shall we ever forget the fun? What of the societies? The poor old Philemathean; the Lyceum, with its public debates; its late rival, Delta Kappa Phi; the Linnean, with its walks and discoveries; the Athletic Association, (some of you have medals that you will always hold in remembrance); and the weekly drills which the girls, at first, were so anxious to form. Oh, if we could only have another Thanksgiving spread! But no, we must say farewell to it all, farewell to the familiar halls, to the familiar faces, to each other, and to our childhood. Of course a feeling of sadness comes over us, but the memory may never be taken from us. Although few of our lives shall henceforth cross, let us always be bound together by our class motto: "He conquers who endures". It is our duty to be cheerful, especially the duty of those who have so often exclaimed in pathetic tones, "Oh, I know that I shall not get through!" Well, you are through and now beware of imitating Charles Lamb's whist player. His constant complaint was that he had not enough trumps. At last, in exasperation, the other three players managed to give him the whole 13. "Well, Tom", said his partner, "have you enough trumps?" "Yes", was the reply, "but I have n't any other cards". Your school days are over. School days are high cards, but they are not trumps. If it is a fact that true happiness is gained by service to others, it will now be within our power to triple former pleasures, some as doctors, some as teachers—all by usefulness. "The blessed work of helping the world forward, happily does not wait to be done by perfect men". Whatever each work, whatever each life, "and we live in deeds not years", the humblest work, the most modest life, may be made noble by conscientious cheerfulness.

The infant wail of the orchestral burleseque "Sounds from Home" was particularly appreciated because there were babies in the audience which insisted on squalling and whose mothers had not the good grace to take them out. It was laughed over and encored, and then all sobered down for the

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.

President Probasco gave good counsel to the graduates, emphasizing the advantages of an education and of a nation which supplied a free and public education to every child. The class was a delight and a pride to the schools, and to the people, and he welcomed the students into citizenship. Having found them worthy, the schools, reserving the best till the last, now presented the diplomas, which he delivered to the following:

Katherine Crissey Baxter,	Nathan Lane, Jr.,
Julia Mabel Belknap,	Phebe Durfee Lovell,
Grace MacQueen Bonny,	Mary Howe Miller,
Marie Eloise Bourgeois,	Mabel Watson Mitchell,
Emma Virginia Fish,	Alice Louise Needham,
Cora Earl Gardner,	Grace Adele Palmer,
Frederick Worth Goddard,	Norman Hayes Probasco,
Helen Augusta Hasbrouck,	Walter Raynolds,
Elsie Rutherford Horne,	Champlain Lord Riley,
Carrie Marguerite Kellogg,	Henry Claflin Wells,
John William Kirkner,	Florence Clough Smith,
Edith Cowell Lane,	Albert Emil Woltman.

The presentation of diplomas was sealed by the people's approving demonstration, and though there was nothing else down on the programme but music everybody stayed because President Probasco had announced a surprise in store. This was the

PORTRAIT PRESENTATION

in memorial of George H. Babcock.

An easel bearing a veiled frame was borne from the left wing to the centre of the stage, and Superintendent Maxson stepped forward and spoke.

He told how sadly Mr. Babcock, formerly President of the Board of Education, had been missed from the Board meetings the past year, how the Board felt the loss of his counsels, in which they had learned to trust. Though eminent in the affairs of the world, Mr. Babcock's heart was devoted to the Plainfield public schools, and his time and ability were ever at their command. One year ago, when fatal disease had already fixed its hold upon him, he had hurried back a long distance to be with the schools he loved so much, on their Commencement Day. His heart was indeed wrapped up in the schools, and almost his last words were for their welfare.

It was eminently fitting that the memory of such a man should not be allowed to die out, and it was with great pleasure, that he presented, in the name of Mrs. Babcock, to the schools, in the custody of the Board this speaking likeness (unveiling the admirable portrait, as he spoke). It was to hang on the walls of the High School, not alone to perpetuate the memory of the man, but also as a token of the deep love he ever felt for the school.

President Probasco stated that it was with a feeling of respect as well as of high regard that he for the Board accepted the portrait. Mr. Babcock still lived in his example and influence; his life was a lesson of the possibilities that lie before us all.

When the applause had subsided, the orchestra played its closing selection, and the audience and graduates broke up into merry groups. Each graduate was the centre of admiring friends, and congratulations and good wishes were freely bestowed, besides other tokens in addition to the beautiful display of flowers and gifts that had been passed by the alert undergraduate monitors to the members of the class during the musical intermissions.

Graduation ended, students and alumni repaired to Assembly Hall of the Franklin School, where the classes of '92 and '93 gave a delightful reception. Under the transforming decorations of blue and gold, '94's colors, a scene of gaiety was in progress from 10:30 to 1:30. The crowd was as crushing in girth as it was merry in spirit. The floor was superb, the Seventh Regiment music from the daisy-encircled platform perfect, and dancing was a joy unconfined. Ice-cream and cake were served in the floor below.

HYMENEAL.

Burhans—Marsh.

Westfield people who witnessed the marriage last night of Miss Susie Marsh to Samuel Burhans declared that the bride was one of the handsomest that ever brought happiness to a worthy groom. Miss Marsh is eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. C. Marsh, and all the town and many from other places flocked to the Methodist Church to see the wedding.

The ceremony was at 8, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Wm. Ruth, assisted by Rev. Wesley Martin of Perth Amboy, formerly pastor of the Westfield M. E. Church, and Rev. Wm. Nelson of Haverstraw. The ushers were Lee Pearsall of Westfield, Fred and Oscar Hasey of New York, cousins of the groom, and G. Ritzenhouse of Flemington. They wore favors from the groom of gold love-knot scarf pins, as did also the best man, John Burhans, brother of the groom.

The bride's gown was of white bengaline silk, with pearl trimmings, en train, and she wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor was Miss Jenn'e Marsh, sister of the bride, dressed in pale green China silk, lace and pearl trimmings. The bridemaids, Miss Mildred Marsh, sister of the bride, and Miss Lilie Hasey of New York, cousin of the groom, wore cream cashmere and cream silk. Their ornaments were forget-me-not pearl pins, gift of the bride, and they each carried a bouquet of roses.

Following the marriage was a wedding reception at the home, Lawrence avenue and Walnut street, beautified by decorations of potted plants and cut flowers.

The gifts were unusually abundant and elaborate. The happy couple will spend 10 days in Washington, and on returning will reside in Westfield.

—Washburn's Circus was given a clean bill of health by the Plainfield sanitary guardians, and is showing in town.

—Saturday's special sale at Lederer's offers wonderful bargains in all sorts of goods for men, women and children. Scan the list, and go and buy.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Henry Guerrier of Fanwood Knocked Out by New York Toughs—Quick Work of a County Justice.

Last night the Social Four held a dance in the club-house in Fanwood.

Henry Guerrier had charge of the arrangements and up to two o'clock everything was quiet and everyone enjoying themselves.

Charles Mann, who had a lease of the club-house, supplied refreshments of a strictly temperate order.

At the hour stated four toughs of a party of six from New York who had been outside filling up, commenced to interfere with the dancers.

Henry Guerrier very politely informed them that such behavior would not be allowed, when without a word the four literally jumped on him; smashed his head with chairs, beat him on the head and body with pins from the alleys, and left him apparently lifeless. The thugs then disappeared. Judge Moore and Dr. Westcott were summoned and promptly acted. The doctor placed the victim in his carriage, conveyed him home and after heroic efforts succeeded in stopping the flow of blood. Guerrier's head was terribly cut and if erysipelas sets in the most serious results may be anticipated.

Judge Moore in the meantime had the wires at work and learning that four men had passed through Westfield going east, notified the Elizabeth police and went to that city on the 3:43 train, but failed to find the parties wanted. Upon his return to Fanwood he ascertained that the the scoundrels had stolen a horse and buggy from Charles Kendall of Murray Hill, and the last heard of them they were going across the State.

The Judge in some manner which he refuses to explain ascertained the correct names, addresses and employers' names of the men wanted before six o'clock, and is confident of their quick apprehension.

The attack on Guerrier was made so suddenly and the bloody work so quickly completed that the bystanders were dazed, and did not recover in time to assist him.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is in deed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

of people who visit the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., are many who are sent there, by those who have already, from personal experience, learned of the great achieved by the Surgeons of that famed institution. Little heroic, or cutting surgery is found necessary. For instance,

Triumph in Conservative Surgery

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are removed by Electrolysis and other conservative means and thereby, the perils of cutting operations avoided.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

RUPTURE, or Breach (Hernia) is radically cured without the knife and without pain. Trusses can be thrown away!

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and safely removed without cutting.

STRICTURES of Urinary Passage are also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases.

MORE POLICE BRIBERY

Now Philadelphia Orders an Investigation.

Thirty-Three Lieutenants To Be Placed on Trial That One Guilty Man May Be Discovered—Pittsburg Expects To Open Up an Exposure Similar to That of New York.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—The 33 police lieutenants in Philadelphia have been ordered by Director of Public Safety Beitler to appear before a police court of inquiry and stand trial upon a charge of taking money for police protection from the keeper of a disorderly house. Thirty-two of the lieutenants are innocent, but they all will be arraigned in order to ferret out the guilty officials. The hearing will be public.

Simon Muhr some time ago went to Director Beitler and informed him that a woman, the proprietor of a disorderly house, had called at his store to purchase a diamond to present to a police lieutenant. Muhr said he refused to sell her the stone under the circumstances, and had the lieutenant brought before him. He begged for mercy and the jeweler promised not to divulge his name.

The director tried to get Muhr to divulge the lieutenant's name and the name of the woman, but this he absolutely refused to do. He further said that he would not testify before the police board in the matter.

Mayor Stuart has ordered that Mr. Muhr be subpœnaed and compelled to answer the questions put to him and that the lieutenant found guilty be dismissed from the force and criminal proceedings instituted against him.

Pittsburg Police Exposure.

PITTSBURG, June 23.—A woman named Jessie Dorsey appeared before Alderman E. L. Braun, of Allegheny City, making informations charging misdemeanor against J. O. Brown, director of the department of public safety; Roger O'Mara, superintendent of police, and William McKelvey, inspector of police. The informations were drawn up by Attorneys Marron and Reardon, and are the outgrowth of Attorney Marron's recent attack upon the Pittsburg police department. The case threatens to open up an exposure in Pittsburg similar to that now in progress in New York city.

Paid for Obstructing Sidewalks.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Lexow investigating committee has adjourned until Tuesday. Several merchants testified to having paid blood money for the privilege of obstructing sidewalks.

Seventeenth National Saengerfest.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The torchlight parade of the National Saengerfest took place in a blaze of glory, the weather being delightful throughout the night. Private residences and private and public buildings along the line of march were profusely decorated, and the crowd which lined the streets on both curbs was the best natured and best dressed that has been seen in New York city in recent years. The city has been captured by a vast and enthusiastic army of German singers. All day long they came from all points of the compass, and when the parade started some 20,000 were in line, attired in all varieties of dress, from the costumes worn in the sturdy Alpine forests to those of the heralds and warriors in mythological times. Madison Square garden is beautifully decorated for the great concerts, and all is ready for to-day's performance. The 10,000 well trained vocalists are on the ground, and the Seventeenth National Saengerfest promises to be successful beyond all calculations.

Plot Against the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—The police have discovered mines under the tracks of the Orel & Witebsk railway, over which the czar will pass in going to attend the inaugural ceremonies of the church erected in commemoration of the railway disaster at Borki. His majesty would also take this route in going to the military manœuvres. A rigid investigation is being made.

Said He Conjured Her Child.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 23.—Jane Gates, a mulatto woman, emptied a revolver at Harry Hardy, who she said had conjured her child to death. Hardy was engaged trimming trees in front of the Gates woman's house. He was up a tree when she began firing at him. He scrambled to the ground and ran off. As he ran the woman shot him twice, but neither wound is serious. The Gates woman is demented.

Orators for Tammany's Fourth.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Representatives Bailey, of Texas; Williams, of Mississippi; Goldzier, of Illinois; Hayes, of Iowa; Senator Walsh, of Georgia, and Gov. Hogg, of Texas, have accepted invitations to speak at the Tammany Hall celebration on July 4. Others have been invited, but have not replied.

School Board Treasurer Goes Wrong.

READING, Pa., June 23.—Ex-treasurer of the Reading school board, James M. Lyan, is under arrest on the charge of embezzling $2,000. Mr. Lyon had been treasurer of the board for 13 years. Two months ago he was discovered short in his accounts.

Prendergast Jury Not Yet Filled.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The work of selecting a jury to decide as to Prendergast's sanity was resumed this morning with eight jurors in the box. It is believed the panel will be completed to-day.

Massachusett's People's Party.

BOSTON, June 23.—The people's party state central committee has decided that the state convention would be held in Boston July 18, when a full ticket will be put in the field and an active campaign be commenced.

ENGLISHMEN FAVOR IT

Senator Allison's Move for an Arbitration Treaty.

An Address in Favor of the Treaty Circulated in the Commons—Congratulations Cabled to Senators Allison and Sherman—Astor's Paper Does Not Approve of the Scheme.

LONDON, June 23.—The Chronicle, the Telegraph and the Pall Mall Gazette comment upon the resolution in congress by Senator Allison, that the United States arrange by treaty with Great Britain for the arbitration of all differences not adjustable by diplomatic means.

The Chronicle praises the resolution. "It gives positive shape to pious wishes on both sides of the Atlantic," says the writer, "and we sincerely hope that these wishes will be realized."

The Telegraph's leader has the same friendly tone.

William Waldorf Astor's Pall Mall Gazette says: "Senator Allison's resolution means that if the United States should claim part of Canada we must submit the question to some European power without redress, in case the matter should be decided against us. We must never forget that England is the most hated of all powers and has the most to lose by arbitration."

An address in favor of an arbitration treaty with the United States is circulating in the house of commons. Already 300 members have signed it. Sir John Lubbock, Sir George Baden-Powell, Philip James Stanhope and William R. Creamer, all members of the house, have cabled their congratulations to Senators Allison and Sherman.

NO USE FOR GRESHAM.

Illinois Populist Will Not Support Him for Senator.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—The story that Secretary Gresham's populist friends will seek to secure a senatorial nomination for him and that Chairman Taubeneck, of the third party national committee, is assisting in that direction, has received a blow by the contents of a letter received here from Mr. Taubeneck by a personal friend. He says:

"No, sir; I do not favor Judge Gresham's selection by any means. It is a remarkable fact that when the old party politician commits political suicide by deserting one old party and joining the other that they would like to cast him off on the people's party. This will not work. We have men in Illinois in the populist ranks who are bigger and broader and better able to defend our principles than the gentleman at the head of Cleveland's cabinet."

Secretary Gresham was in the city, but declined to discuss the question, merely saying that it was absurd.

Grand Ovation to Jerry Simpson.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—When Representative Jerry Simpson made his appearance on the floor of the house after his long absence on account of illness he was accorded a hearty ovation. Proceedings on the floor were interrupted by a generous outburst of applause, in which every member of all parties joined. He was soon surrounded by the members and for a few minutes held one of the most interesting impromptu receptions ever witnessed in the house. On his desk rested an exquisite boquet of flowers, the gift of his friend of many years, Secretary of Agriculture Morton.

Gov. Hogg and Party at New York.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Gov. James S. Hogg, of Texas, and a party of bankers, representative business men and capitalists, also from the Lone Star state, the contingent being worth nearly $60,000,000, are in the city. They came to New York principally to be present at the Saengerfest. The governor said: "I must absolutely refuse to talk on politics in any shape or manner, except to say that after the coming election in November I shall retire from politics and devote my attention to my law practice at Tyler."

Prof. Mendenhall Resigns.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Prof. Mendenhall, in charge of the coast and geodetic survey, has tendered his resignation to the president, and it is said by a gentleman who knows that the professor, in his letter to the president, puts his action on the ground that the secretary of the treasury has interfered with the working of the bureau, by the retirement of experts and the substitution of inefficient men, to such an extent that it is no longer possible to conduct the bureau on a scientific basis.

Pullman Cars May Be Boycotted.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Unless the Pullman company effects a settlement with its striking employes on or before 6 o'clock on Monday evening next a general boycott against its sleeping and dining cars will be declared at noon of the following day by the American Railway union. This was the decision reached by the national convention of the order in executive session here.

BUSINESS PICKING UP

Moderate Improvement in Various Lines.

Practical Ending of the Coke and Coal Strikes a Notably Favorable Feature—Jobbers Again Making Sales for Future Delivery—Large Reduction of Idle Workmen.

NEW YORK, June 23.—There are indications of a moderate improvement in business in various lines, and enough instances to render the fact of some significance. A notably favorable feature is the practical ending of the coke and coal strikes, together with those in related industries, which will put to work at once, or soon, more than 250,000 men. The number of employes in industrial lines still on strike is estimated at about 30,000. There are sales by jobbers in staple lines for future delivery where nothing save a hand-to-mouth business has been reported for weeks. At points tributary to Kansas City and St. Louis grain harvesting is under full headway; the condition of the wheat is excellent, and the demand for money to move the crop marked and the supply abundant. Western steel works recently started report a disposition by capitalists to push new enterprises.

The reverse of the picture contains nothing worse than has been previously reported, the more familiar features being delay and indifferent tariff legislation, resulting in stagnating business; continued hand-to-mouth dealings by jobbers in all portions of the country, approach of the semi-annual stock-taking period, and uneasiness in Florida and portions of Louisiana due to drouth.

Total bank clearings throughout the United States for the week ending June 21, as telegraphed Bradstreet's, aggregate $849,973,101, 1.8 per cent. more than in the week before, 18 per cent. less than in the corresponding week one year ago, and 23 per cent. smaller than in the third week of June, 1892.

The movement by New York banks to assist the treasury in maintaining its stock of gold seems to have directed attention to the state of the government reserves and tended to facilitate bearish pressure on prices. The gold shipments for the week amounted to $8,250,000, which, except $500,000 that came from Boston, was taken from the sub-treasury, though the main part of the amount will be returned by contributions from leading New York banks.

There are 195 failures throughout the United States this week, against 227 last week, 360 in the third week of June, 1893, (when the financial disturbance was beginning to make itself felt with some severity), and 159 in the like week of 1892.

Nothing indicating increased demand for staple goods or tendency to anticipate wants is reported from any New England city. Comparatively large shipments of shoes from Boston are due to heavy consignments south based on cut freight rates. Shoe factories at Philadelphia, on the other hand, are largely idle. Cotton and woolen mills are running as previously reported, the former accumulating stocks and the latter on orders. The settlement of the coal strike produces a more hopeful feeling at Pittsburg. Baltimore merchants report the south withholding orders more than previously. Eight western cities agree that a better feeling prevails in business circles and that the outlook for improved fall trade has increased. This is true at Cincinnatti and at Detroit, where good weather has stimulated sales in dry goods and other lines, and at Louisville, which reports a corresponding improvement and sales by jobbers for future delivery. St. Louis advises that seasonable goods are in better demand and that the end of the strike has resulted in a better feeling. At Cleveland business is only fair in leading lines, although receipts of coal are increasing. The volume of business in dry goods and kindred lines at Chicago is smaller than in the preceding week, and jobbers are preparing to take stock.

Valuable Dogs Sold at Auction.

BOSTON, June 23.—There was sold under the hammer by the deputy sheriff of Norfolk county the dogs and live stock of Theodore C. Faxon, of Braintree, the bookkeeper who confessed to Morton & Chesley, for whom he has been bookkeeper for a great many years, that he is an embezzler. Several of the dogs were of the finest stock, the whole breed being Scotch collies. The prices which were paid for them, however, would disgrace a mongrel. Some dogs with pedigrees that are registered in the American Kennel club sold for less than $25. "Mother Shipton," a sable and white dog which it is said cost Mr. Faxon $600, sold for $29. She has taken five or six prizes in England. In all, fifteen dogs were sold.

Drowned Far Away From Home.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—Geo. A. Rasado, an Eastman college student, from Honduras, Central America, aged 22, was drowned in the Hudson here last night while bathing. He was taken with cramps. His body has not been recovered. He had just graduated from the college and was to return to his home in August. He had not seen his parents for seven years.

Striking Silk Weavers Give in.

JERSEY CITY, June 23.—The striking silk weavers of Givernaud's silk mills at West Hoboken have formally declared the strike at an end. The money collected for them was divided, each striker receving 60 cents. The men will all go to work on Monday morning.

The Pope's Encyclical Letter Issued.

ROME, June 23.—The pope's encyclical letter, which is intended to be his political testament, has been issued. It is addressed to all princes and peoples, and is substantially the same as the advance report printed in these dispatches two days ago.

ALL TALK, NO PROGRESS

Senate Still Struggling with Income Tax.

No Vote Taken Since Thursday—Two Important Amendments Reported—General Deficiency Bill Taken Up by the House—Hatch Scores Harter—The Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Although this is the third day of the discussion of the income tax section of the tariff bill by the senate no progress has been made with the subject and the leaders are again uneasy at the delay. No vote has been taken on any of the amendments since Thursday, but there is no lack of eloquence for and against the provision. Its latest defenders were the two populist senators, Kyle, of South Dakota, and Allen, of Nebraska; one republican senator, Teller, of Colorado, and one democratic senator, Jarvis, of North Carolina. It was assailed by three republican senators, Sherman, of Ohio; Patton, of Michigan, and Platt, of Connecticut. The speeches of Senators Patton and Jarvis were the first made by them in the senate. Senator Hill, of New York, remains on the skirmish line, assailing with equal alertness and pertinacity the position of the populists and that of the democrats.

In one acrimonious tussel with the parliamentary manager of the bill, Mr. Harris, of Tennessee, uncomplimentary comparisons were made by both senators between the "plantation manners of Tennessee" and the manners of the "slums of New York."

Two very important amendments were reported from the finance committee. The first was to reduce the exemption from $4,000 to $3,000; and the other was to have deducted from the annual profits of banking, railroad and other corporations on which the tax is to be assessed the sums paid out for working expenses, the fixed charges (interest on bonded indebtednes) and losses for the year.

MATTERS IN THE HOUSE.

General Deficiency Bill Taken Up To-Day—Hatch Flays Harter.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The general deficiency bill for the year ending June 30, 1894, was taken up to-day by the house and will continue the order of business until completed.

Just before the final vote on the anti-option bill, Mr. Harter (dem., O.) came in for a lively excoriation by Mr. Hatch, the author of the bill. That gentleman, said Mr. Hatch, had walked up and down in front of his seat and contemptuously threw the bill into the waste basket, thinking that was an argument against it.

"No one has any sense but Mr. Harter," continued Mr. Hatch. "When he leaves the house, as I understand he has elected of his own volition to do, on the fourth of March next, there will be the biggest vacancy I have known in the 15 years of my experience in the house."

He spoke of Mr. Harter's invitation to him to come and sleep in his political bed and announced his refusal of the invitation, saying he would rather sleep with a rail fence.

"I would trudge in the heat all the way to Georgia," he said, "rather than to stretch one limb in the same political bed with the gentleman from Ohio."

The vote on the passage of the bill was as follows: Yeas—democrats, 90; republicans, 47; populists, 10. Total, 147. Nays—democrats, 61; republicans, 26. Total, 87.

The Hatch anti-option bill had been before congress in one shape or another, for five years, being first introduced in the 51st congress by Funston (rep., Kan.), and again in the 52nd and 53d congresses by Hatch (dem., Mo.), who succeeded Funston as chairman of the committee on agriculture.

The bill is directed particularly toward the suppression of short selling, and the principle is that no one shall be permitted to sell products named in the bill unless he has the ability to deliver at the expiration of the contract. In order to regulate short selling it was found necessary to impose a mere nominal tax upon all sales.

Rumors From Rome.

ROME, June 23.—The presence of several American ecclesiastics of high rank in this city is much commented upon. A report is afloat that efforts are being made to bring about the recall of Mgr. Satolli and the abolition of the papal delegation in Washington. Inquiries in vatican circles in regard to the report that Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul is to be made a cardinal elicited statements that absolutely nothing is known about the vatican of any such decision by the pope. The rumor is regarded as improbable, for no consistory will be held before 1895, and it is well known that the pope postpones his decisions until the last moment.

Brutal Evictions.

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 23.—The reports of brutality of United States troops and deputy marshals in evicting miners and their families from the Indian territory are corroborated in some instances by eye-witnesses to the evictions. There was a large number of these miners in this city still occupying the box cars in which they were shipped from the territory. They are mostly Germans and Bohemians and speak broken English, but in nearly every case they related the same story of rough treatment by the soldiers.

Lieut. Maney's Case.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The case of Lieut. Maney, U. S. A., court-martialed for killing Capt. Hedberg, at Fort Sheridan, has been reviewed by the war department and delivered to the president, who will act on the findings.

Charged With Bigamy.

HILLSDALE, N. J., June 23.—Dr. Frank H. Dudenhausen, a practising physician of this place, is under arrest charged with bigamy. A Brooklyn, N. Y., woman claims that she is his wife and preferred the charge of bigamy against him.

Entertained by Joe Jefferson.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., June 23.—Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. E. C. Benedict and Mrs. Frank Hastings, the president's sister, were entertained at an evening party by Joe Jefferson at "Crows Nest."

New York Banks to the Rescue.

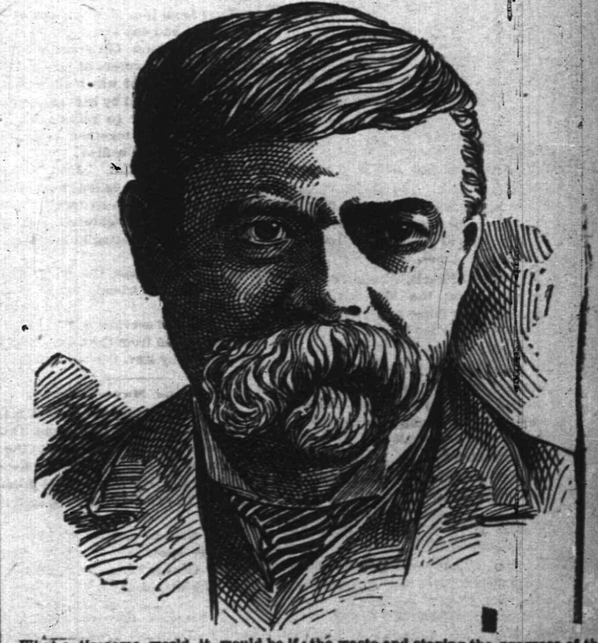
NEW YORK, June 23.—The banks have finally decided positively to reimburse the treasury for the gold exported this week. These exports amount to $7,750,000.

Local Weather Forecast.

Generally fair; continued high temperature; southerly winds.

HE WRITES HAPPY SONGS.

Charles F. Pidgin, Whose Popular Airs Are Everywhere Sung.



What a tiresome world it would be if there were no songs in it.

One of the most versatile song writers is Charles F. Pidgin of Cambridge, Mass., whose portrait is here given. Everybody knows his songs. Schoolboys whistle them and sober business men go about humming them.

When a writer of popular songs is tired and worn out he cannot do good work—nor can any one. All over the world physicians of every school prescribe Paine's celery compound when overwork and anxiety has brought down the tone of the nervous system. Prof. Edward Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, the eminent discoverer of Paine's celery compound, devoted the most fretful years of his remarkable career to the study of the blood and nerves.

Very soon after taking this remarkable remedy the circulation is favorably affected; there is a marked desire for food, the heart's action becomes tranquilized and strong and the nervous and digestive organs are harmonized and invigorated and sleeplessness disappears, thus stopping the waste and staying the progress of the disease.

As long as waste continues, disease continues and the first step in the recovery of many a person's health has been the first bottle of Paine's celery compound.

Mr. Pidgin says that he used Paine's celery compound as a nerve tonic and laxative. He was not sick, only "tired" from press of business. Its use put him in good condition again. "I recommend it, he says "to literary friends."

Weariness, lack of energy and despondency are more a matter of nerves and brain than of the muscles. Paine's celery compound makes new, richly vitalized blood go briskly through the nerves, brain and every important organ; there soon comes an end to tired, worn out feelings, loss of appetite and sleeplessness.

Thousands of men struggling under great responsibilities, anxious, overworked mothers and wives and shop girls who are forced to stand on their feet all day long build up their strength and nervous energy with Paine's celery compound. It rids the system of languor and lack of energy that follows a bloodless condition.

A young fellow jumped off a fre'ght train on which he was stealing a ride in Dunellen yesterday afternoon. He slipped and fell, scratching his face considerably. Dr. Brakeley dressed it and he went on his way contented.

Daniel Kneuter, of Greenbrook, left New York last Thursday morning on the 12:15 train, Jersey Central, reaching Dunellen about 1:30. He then had a walk of about a mile and a half to reach his home. When he had gone about a tle, a man accosted him, inquiring the time. Mr. Kneuter not having a watch ould not tell him. Just then another man made his appearance from some bushes. This frightened him very much, when he saw a revolver, and was asked to throw up his hands. He of course did so at the point of the weapon, while the other man went through his pockets. They relieved him of $7 60 all he had, and then skipped. No trace of them can be found, and neither one of them was known by Mr. Kneuter.

FIRE SIGNALS IN THE BOROUGH.

Enterprising North Plainfield Adopts the Plainfield System.

The Fire, Water and Lamps Committee of the Borough Council have placed orders for the new fire apparatus which the council decided to buy. The successful bid for the hose wagon was that of Rumsey & Co. of Seneca Falls, N. Y., $460. Other bids received were $500 and $520. The wagon will weigh nearly 1,800 pounds, and will be fitted for a team.

For the alarm apparatus the committee agreed to pay $2,400 to the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company of New York. Twelve boxes will be used, one being placed at each of the following corners:

Somerset and Pearl streets.
Somerset street and Manning avenue.
Somerset street and Summit avenue.
Somerset and Hudson streets.
Cedar and Harrison streets.
Rockview avenue and Rockview Terrace.
Willow and Giraud avenues.
Linden avenue and Grove street.
Washington avenue and Prospect street.
Mountain and Westervelt avenues.
Manning and Westervelt avenues.
Jackson and Watchung avenues.

The system will be in operation by the middle of July, possibly by the Fourth. The wire has already been shipped, and work on the line will begin Monday.

PYTHIAN ANNIVERSARY.

Perseverance Lodge Celebrates Its 22d Birthday.

The twenty-second anniversary of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, was held in their rooms last evening and was a delightful affair throughout. The members and a large number of their friends were present and gracefully accepted the generous hospitality bestowed.

John Ulrich in behalf of the Knights welcomed all, and in a short address reviewed the history of the lodge from its birth to the present time. He paid an eloquent tribute to Minerva Temple, Pythian Sisters, recently organized, and hoped they would have a useful career. His remarks were heartily applauded.

The Misses Benner then rendered several choice piano selections which were followed with an excellent recitation by Albert Ford, entitled "Blue and Gray". The playing of the ocarina by Mr. Gardner was a pleasing feature, and the vocal duet by Fred Wharton and T. J. Comerford came in for a share of applause.

Miss Ada Higgins as a pianist won much praise for her excellent playing.

The vocal singing by Mrs. Norrie was cordially received by all, and George Leigh delighted all with his recitations. William Tallamy's pleasing voice was heard at its best, and his solo was appreciated very much.

The recitation "I am Guilty", by Miss Haberle, won hearty approbation.

For the "Good of the Order" Cadwallader Jones responded in his usual happy manner, and his remarks put everyone in the best of humor.

In conclusion the sketch, "No 29; or, Here She Comes on Time", was given and was one of the most enjoyable numbers. The train was in charge of Eli Odam as conductor, while John Carney looked after the duties of a brakeman. Those who enjoyed the trip as passengers were: Miss Lizzie DeVere, E. H. Neal, Wm. Kline, Asa D. Pope, Levi Kline, and T. J. LaRue.

The excellent music for dancing was furnished by Messrs. Rogers & Guttman. Ice-cream, cake and lemonade were served in abundance, and thus closed a happy event in the annals of the Knights.

OBITUARY.

Edith Tunison.

In the death of Miss Edith Tunison of Elmwood place, which occurred last evening at 7, Plainfield loses a most estimable young woman. For several months past she had been a terrible sufferer from that dreaded disease, consumption, and day and night her mother, assisted by kind Christian friends, and Christian Endeavorers of the Trinity Reformed Church, of which she was a member, have watched by her bedside, doing all in their power to relieve the patient sufferer, but this together with the best medical skill was baffled. The end was quiet and peaceful. Just before she passed away she called to the doctor, saying, "The way is so dark"; then suddenly her face brightened and she exclaimed, "I am resting in Jesus", and the last had come.

Mrs. Tunison has the sympathy of a large circle of friends who mourn the loss.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon from the house, and will be conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck.

The Mayor Marries.

Mayor Needham performed a marriage ceremony for the first time Thursday evening, when he officiated at the wedding of Miss Clara Richter of Evona to Paul Purster, recently arrived from Germany. The two became engaged in Germany.

They went to the Mayor's house at 7:30 and were speedily united in a civil contract. George Bremmer and Jacob Grieb were the witnesses.

A Safeguard—Always on Duty.

BURIED UNDER ROCKS.

Walter Berghmiller's Serious Accident at the Scotch Plains Quarry.

Walter Berghmiller, of Scotch Plains, engineer at John Wahl's stone crusher, at that place, was seriously injured yesterday.

There was a blast at the quarry Thursday evening after he had gone home and he knew nothing of it. Yesterday he went to work and was obliged to climb up the rocks to the quarry. The stones were very loose, and he had not gone far before several fell out and he was hurled to the ground. The debris that followed completely buried him. His fellow-workmen assisted him, and he was taken home in a carriage. Dr. Westcott was called, and found it necessary to sew his head and face. He was also considerably bruised, though very fortunately no bones were broken.

Wright's Scheme Did Not Work.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 23.—A return was brought down in the commons giving some spicy correspondence which passed between the Grand Trunk railway company, the department of agriculture and Dr. J. B. Wright, of Detroit, who was formerly veterinary inspector for the department at Windsor. The correspondence places Dr. Wright in a very unfavorable attitude. He is alleged to have put in a claim for extra pay for night inspection, and endeavored to squeeze the Grand Trunk authorities, who were largely interested in securing prompt inspection of cattle in transit. The Grand Trunk persistently protested to the department of agriculture against what they termed Dr. Wright's blackmailing practices. Finally Dr. Wright put in a claim for $2,500 for past services, $200 per month for future services and an annual pass over the Grand Trunk and connections. He threatened that if this were not granted him he would issue a letter to the newspapers pointing out the danger to Canadian cattle by United States cattle being allowed to pass through Canada. The department told him he must either withdraw his letter and apologize or leave the service. Dr. Wright persisted in his claims and he was promptly dismissed.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill
can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,
No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

HYMENEAL.

Tracy—Streull.

Pretty and impressive was the wedding of Miss Caroline F. Streull to Evarts Tracy in the Crescent Avenue Church at high noon today.

The decorations were simple and beautiful. White daisies of the field had been arranged in a mass of green, ferns and palms. Bread and butter vines were twined on the dark woodwork back of the platform. The church was thronged with society people of Plainfield and from out of town.

F. H. Cheswright of New Haven, Conn., played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party entered. The bride was attired in a gown of white satin, trimmed with rare old Italian point lace which once belonged to the Borghese family. Her diamond brooch was a present from the groom. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bridemaids were Miss Mary E. Tracy, Miss Margaret L. Tracy, Miss Marion Dumont, Miss Elizabeth Ginna, Miss Brooks of New York, and Miss Sidney Wharton of Pittsburg. The maid of honor was Miss Catherine Yates. They wore white mulle gowns with pink ribbons, and white leghorn hats trimmed with daisies and pink ribbon. Their bouquets were of daisies. The pins presented by the bride were set with pearls.

The best man was Percy H. Stewart. The ushers were Louis Haslane of New York, Henry Sage of Albany, Wallace Simmons of St. Louis, Yale Kneeland of New York, Robert S Tracy and Alfred H. Streull, Jr. The groom's gifts were pearl pins.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards performed the ceremony. A. H. Streull, father of the bride, gave her away. While the responses were being made the organist played very softly Luther's hymn, "Ein Feste Burg". The party turned from the altar and passed out to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

A wedding breakfast served by Maresi and a reception followed at the home of the bride's father on Hillside avenue. The house was decorated with green foliage plants, daisies and sweet-pea blossoms. About 150 were present.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Beaman and Miss Beaman, Sherman Evatts, Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, Rev. Wm. L. T. Thatcher, Dr. D. Bryson Delavan, Dr. R. S. Tracy, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Sherman of Rye, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs Nathan Porter of Montclair, N. Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Upton Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dayton—Higgins.

Wednesday afternoon at 4, the marriage of Miss Cora A. Higgins of Flemington to Charles F. Dayton took place at the Vail homestead, New Market, where the bride and groom will reside in the future. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 125 relatives and intimate friends, by Rev. Joseph E. Sagebeer of Flemington, assisted by Rev. Frank Fletcher of the First-Day Baptist Church of New Market. The bride was most becomingly attired in cream-colored crepe cloth, trimmed with moire silk and white ribbons, and carried a bouquet of white roses. There was no best man nor bridemaid. After the twain had been made husband and wife all sat down to a most bountiful supply of delicacies which had been prepared in abundance.

Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Benward, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Drake and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Garretson, Meffords Runyon's family, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Dayton and family, Mrs. Jesse R. Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Boice, Firman Walker and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Walker, Runyon Walker, grandfather of the groom, age 87 years old who looked hale and hearty, Miss Theresa Walker, Edward Drake and wife, John Brokaw and Miss Jennie Blackford, of Piscataway; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Giddis, of Bound Brook; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Merrill and daughters, Miss Mary Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. George Wagner, Everitt Higgins and wife, Miss Swallow, Mr. and Mrs. Vandevere Higgins and family, of Flemington; Dr. and Mrs. W. Merrill, of South Branch; from Hightstown, J. A. Dilts and sons; from Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Ross and daughter, Miss Mattie Covert, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baynon, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Giles and family, Mrs. Louis Ross and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Morris, Rev. B. W. Hand and wife; from Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Bittle; from New Market, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Giles, Dr. W. J. Nelson, wife and family, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Dayton and family, and Miss Ida Fletcher.

The presents were numerous, costly, and useful, showing the esteem in which the couple are held by friends and relatives. All wish Mr. and Mrs. Dayton many happy years of married life, and may they be prosperous!

In the evening a serenade was given them, to which they responded and treated the boys in the best possible manner. They were applauded and cheered for their hospitality.

—Adjutant-General Tarsney of the Colorado militia was kidnaped, tarred and feathered, by several disguised men last night.

—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet in their rooms tomorrow evening at 7 to attend memorial service in the First Presbyterian Church.

—A portrait in the natural colors, and that never fades, is the French crystal photograph advertised in another column. Inspect them; they are beautiful.

—Lawyer George DeMeza sold to A. G. Vogeler this morning the meat market formerly owned by Frank Vanderhoff, and which was seized by Mr. DeMeza under chattel mortgage.

—Justus H. Rathbone Division, No. 27, Uniformed Rank, K. of P., will come from Brooklyn tomorrow to decorate the grave in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery of Thomas Olsen, late of that division. The visitors will be entertained here by Crescent Division.

—Those who are going away for a while during the Summer, and want some reading matter to take with them, will be glad to learn that the Summer extension privilege, so popular last year at the Free Public Library, will be continued again this year. For particulars inquire at the Library.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The members of both G. A. R. Posts have been requested to meet in their respective rooms tomorrow evening at 7 to march to the First Presbyterian Church, where the Major John C. Paul memorial service will be held.

The women of St. Joseph's Church are preparing for a strawberry festival to be held in Turn Verein Hall next Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

CYCLING COMMENT.

As Cyrus E. Moore was walking across Park avenue at the corner of Fourth street, last evening, a man riding a wheel at a high rate of speed struck and knocked him down. There was no damage.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "The Plainfield track has captured the hearts of the racing men, and the Crescents will doubtless have an immense list of entries for their Fourth of July meet. A prominent Class A man is the authority for saying that a majority of the amateurs prefer to ride on the Crescents track rather than on any other in this section of the country."

The Associated Cyclers arrived in this city shortly after 10 this morning on their century run to Asbury Park. All were in pretty fair condition. There were 500 who started from Newark, among them several women. When they reached here only 313 were in line. All were amply supplied with wholesome refreshments. The make-up of the different cyclers was peculiar and attracted considerable attention. A striking feature was a tandem with a canopy stretched over the top. They left here on time, 10:45. F. L. C. Martin started as pace maker. The other Plainfielders were Messrs. MacIntyre, Manning, Green and Pierson from Evona. Green was slightly injured, and one of his tires was broken, by a fall over another cycler, but he patched up and went on.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Arnold of the Seminary has gone home to Painted Post, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Berry Thorn are home in Craig place from their wedding trip.

T. S. Burr and family will spend the Summer at their present quarters, Pompton.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

Strike Situation at Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 23.—Many evictions of families of strikers are expected in this vicinity soon, to make room for the new workmen. The strikers have abandoned all their camps and offer practically no opposition to those who desire to return to work. The first of next week is looked upon as the time when the biggest breaks in the strikers' ranks will occur.

Von der Ahe Wants To Sell Out.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—Edward Von der Ahe, treasurer of the Sportsman's Park club, announces that the ground, players and franchise of the Brown-stocking Baseball club were for sale, and placed the selling price at $45,000. President Von der Ahe wishes to retire from baseball and authorized the announcement.

Blount Calls at the White House.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Ex-Minister and Commissioner to Hawaii James H. Blount called at the White House yesterday. He saw Private Secretary Thurber, but not the president, and stated afterwards that he was here on purely private business.

Ohio Cigarette Tax Law Valid.

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—The supreme court holds the Holcomb law, taxing the business of dealing in cigarettes, constitutional and valid, but decides that taxes under it can not be collected for 1893.

NORFOLK, Va., June 23.—Hon. John F. Dozendorff, ex-member of congress from Norfolk district, is dead, aged 60 years.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound
Is a positive cure for all those painful
Ailments of Women.
It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure
Backache.
It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That Bearing-down Feeling
causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water. It removes Irregularity,
Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also Dizziness, Faintness,
Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or Womb Troubles.
The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For Kidney Complaints
and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequaled.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills cure Constipation, Sick Headache, 25c.

All druggists sell the Vegetable Compound, or sent by mail, in form of pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. Correspondence freely answered.

W. & L. E. Road Restores Wages.

MASSILLON, O., June 23.—The wages of every employe of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway, from car wiper to president, have been raised 33 1-3 per cent. by order of General Manager Blair. The company had a cut of 33 1-3 per cent. on April 27, owing to the miners strike and a falling off of revenue of $70,000 per month.

Fatal Storm at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 23.—There was a terrible storm in this section last evening. Trees were snapped off and fences blown down. Many crops were ruined. Lucy Watts, the 9-year-old daughter of Gen. C. C. Watts, United States district attorney, was killed by lightning.

STILL CLING TO SALVADOR.

Hope of the Old Leaders To Regain the Upper Hand.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Dr. Domingo Jimenez, who held the position of minister of war and navy and interior in Salvador, during the administration of President Ezeta, arrived from Panama on the Pacific Mail steamship City of Para. Dr. Jimenez, properly speaking, is a fugitive from the wrath of the new Salvadorian government. He denies, however, that he is a fugitive, although he admits that he would have been shot had the revolutionists laid hands on him.

He and the two Ezetas—Carlos and Antonio—pooled their fortunes, he says, when the tide of battle turned against them, and fled post haste to La Libertad. From that point President Ezeta and Dr. Jimenez fled to the city of Panama, and the other got aboard the Bennington. But before this, they put the troops into the loyal command of Gen. Francisco Ruiz, who clung to them until he was routed by the victorious insurrectionists. President Ezeta determined to come to New York with Dr. Jimenez. He was deterred, however, by the inability of his wife to join him.

He confidently believes that the situation in Salvador is not as hopeless at it looks, and that time will see him and the Ezetas back in power. Dr. Jimenez was rather loth to speak of the causes that led to the revolution, but he eventually admitted that he held Guatemala to blame for a large share of the troubles.

ACCUSATIONS AND THREATS.

Distinguished People in Berlin Annoyed by Anonymous Letters.

BERLIN, June 23.—For some time past some of the exalted personages in Berlin have been receiving anonymous letters containing most infamous accusations and conveying dire threats. The emperor interested himself in detecting the author of these scandalous letters and as a result of his investigation has personally caused the arrest of his own chamberlain, Von Koltze, whom he charges with the offense. General Von Hahnke, chief of the emperor's military staff, made the arrest, driving to the chamberlain's residence in Drake street in a state carriage for that purpose. The prisoner was put into the carriage and driven to the military prison in Lindenstrasse. The arrest has created an enormous sensation. Von Kotze is one of the masters of ceremonies at state functions. Many of the leaders of Berlin society have for the past four years been persecuted with anonymous letters making all sorts of shameful accusations against their characters. All attemps to trace the origin of these letters have hitherto been fruitless. The exact time of the arrest is not yet known, but there is reason to suspect that Von Kotze returned to Berlin from Schreiberhan on Saturday to be present at the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new cathedral at Lustgarten on Sunday and was immediately taken into custody. The friends of the disgraced man maintain that he is insane.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 23.—Yale's varsity and freshmen crews had a brush on the Thames last evening, racing over 1 1-2 miles of the course. The varsity stroke was 32 to 36, while that of the freshmen was a little quicker. Olmstead, the Yale coxswain, has been increasing in weight and is being put through hard training to reduce his flesh. The Harvard crews were also on the course practicing starts in and near the cove above their quarters. When Harvard rowed up the river, Yale came down and later the crews had their time row. The Harvard eight are rowing well, but their practice does not strike the average observer as showing the skill and power of the Yale eight. The Columbia freshmen are not doing so well as either of the other eights.

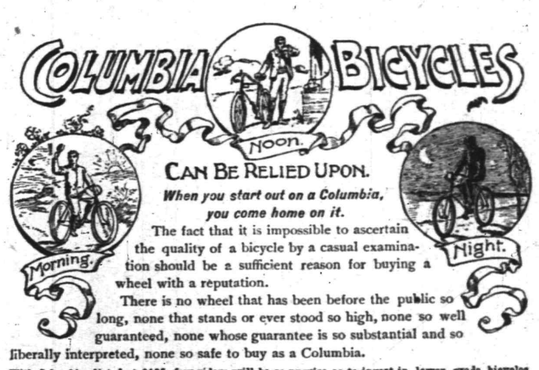
COLUMBIA BICYCLES



CAN BE RELIED UPON.

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

CARNOT ASSASSINATED

France's President Stabbed to the Heart by an Anarchist.

THE MURDERER CAUGHT

He Is an Italian, 21 Years of Age—The Deed Committed in Lyons Last Night Just After the President Had Left the Board of Trade Banquet and Entered His Carriage To Be Driven to a Theatre—The Assassin, with a Dagger Concealed in a Newspaper, Jumped on the Step and Plunged the Blade Into the President's Side—The Government Stops All Despatches of the Tragedy—The News in Washington.

PARIS, June 25.—Sadi Carnot, president of the republic, was stabbed mortally at 9:15 o'clock last evening in Lyons by Casrio Santo, an Italian anarchist, 21 years old.

President Carnot went to Lyons to visit the exhibition of arts, sciences and industries.

He left the chamber of commerce banquet, given in his honor, shortly after 9 o'clock and walked to his carriage, which was waiting in the Place de la Bourse. He had hardly taken his seat when Santo, a newspaper in his hand, pressed through the crowd and sprang upon the carriage step.

President Carnot started slightly. Santo snatched a dagger from the newspaper and plunged it into the president's side near the heart.

The president sank back unconscious.

He was at once taken to the perfecture and the most skillful surgeons in the city were summoned Meantime Santo was arrested.

The news spread swiftly to every part of the city. Infuriated crowds filled the streets.

Before 10 o'clock an Italian restaurant had been sacked and the police were obliged to strain every nerve to protect the Italian consulate.

President Carnot arrived in Lyons Saturday and intended to remain there over Tuesday. He was accompanied by General Borius, chief of his military household, most of his other household officials, Premier Dupuy, M. Burdeaux and other members of the cabinet. He was received enthusiastically at the station by the mayor and district officials, who, in 27 landaus drawn by horses draped with the tricolor, escorted him and his party to the Hotel de Ville.

Cheering crowds filled the street and gave the president such a welcome as he had seldom received. There was a luncheon at the Hotel de Ville and in the evening a dinner at the Prefecture. From the balcony of the Prefecture the president reviewed a large torchlight procession which was followed by fireworks and an illumination. Afterward the programme of the city officials for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday was submitted to him in detail and he expressed his satisfaction with the arrangements.

Yesterday the president and his party paid a state visit to the exhibition in the Parc de la Tete D'Or. Afterward the president held a reception at the Prefecture. He planned to go to the Grand theatre on the Place de la Comedie last evening after the banquet at the chamber of commerce. He was in a peculiarly happy mood during the banquet and was noticeably elated by the cordiality of his reception, not only by the crowd outside the building but also by the guests within.

He was cheered incessantly from the moment he left the chamber of commerce until he took the carriage for the theatre. The demonstrative enthusiasm of the crowd caused the confusion which gave Santo his opportunity, as he was able to push his way forward quite unnoticed until at the step of the carriage.

As Santo sprang from the carriage step and tried to escape, he was seized and surrounded. But for the prompt interference of the police he would have been torn and trampled to death on the spot. As soon as the police extricated him from the hands of his captors, they hurried him off to the station house.

At 9 o'clock all who had been invited to attend the gala performance in the president's honor, had gathered in the Grand theater. Every seat outside the boxes was filled. The audience awaited impatiently the arrival of the presidential party. Suddenly two men ran up to the main entrance and called out that the president had been killed.

The news spread swiftly to the rear seats of the theater and thence passed like the wind over the great audience. A few women cried in horror, but the great majority of those present refused to believe the intelligence.

It appeared as if all Lyons was at that moment assembled in Place de la Comedie and in the adjacent streets. The multitude was packed together like a wall.

Suddenly a landau, preceded by four mounted gendarmes, dashed out of the Rue de la Republique. In it were Adrien Dupuy, Deputy Chaudey and M. Rivaud, the prefect. The crowd mistaking the landau for the president's carriage, cried:

"Vive Carnot! Vive la republique!"

Chaudey on the right and Rivaud on the left called from the carriage in tones full of emotion: "Do not shout; an attempt has just been made upon the life of the president."

The words had immediate effect upon the crowd. On every side expressions of execration and vengeance filled the air.

The landau was driven to the Grand theatre. Arriving there MM. Rivaud and Chaudrey proceeded to the president's box. Seeing them enter, the audience rose from their seats in a body. M. Rivaud advanced to the front of the box and said in a voice broken with sobs:

"The president of the republic has been assassinated."

The announcement caused the greatest horror among the audience, and cries of "vengeance" were heard in all parts of the building.

M. Rivaud, continuing, said that in the Rue de la Republique a wretch, who had approached M. Carnot under the pretext of presenting a petition stabbed the president with a dagger. Here M. Rivaud was again interrupted with shouts of indignation and was heard with difficulty when he added:

"Do not make my task more painful. We have left M. Carnot in the hands of doctors. You will understand that under these circumstances, all hearts being filled with sorrow, the performance cannot take place."

The prefect then left the theatre.

When Santo was within a few feet of the carriage he waved a paper as if intending to present a petition and thus threw off their guard the persons nearest to the president. He was seized just as he was about to jump from the step and had but half withdrawn the dagger.

The president had repeated hemorrhages after he was removed to the Prefecture. He sank gradually but steadily until 12:45 o'clock this morning when he died. Mme. Carnot and her two sons left Paris at 11:57 o'clock last evening by special train for Lyons. All the ministers who did not go to Lyons with the president were in council at the Elysee at midnight. The senate and chamber will be convoked to-day.

Immediately after the president was stabbed the horses attached to his carriage were started at a gallop for the Prefecture. The president lay limp in the carriage. His eyes were closed and he was apparently lifeless. His clothes had been loosened, so that the red sash of the legion of honor was displayed. On his left side near the waist a wet red spot told the whole story of his wound. He was lifted with the greatest care from the carriage and was carried to his room on the first floor. There he was laid on the bed in which he had slept the night before, and Dr. Gailleton, the mayor of the city, examined the wound.

The young assassin's full name was given by him at the police station as Cesare Giovanni Santo. He has a very small moustache, and wore a light brown suit with a peaked cap of the same color. On his way to the station he held his head down and glanced continually right and left as if looking for some possible means of escape.

Upon being interrogated he professed to know too little of the language to say much more. His inability to speak much French is rather peculiar, as he has lived at Cette for the last six months and is believed to have been considerably longer in the country. He went from Cette to Lyons Saturday.

A workman's book found in Santo's pocket shows that he was born in Moulevesconti, province of Milan.

After Dr. Gailleton's examination of the president's wound it was decided that an operation was necessary. Dr. Ollier proceeded to probe the wound. The president thereupon regained consciousness and exclaimed in a clear voice: "How you are hurting me."

When the announcement of the president's death was made the city illuminations were immediately quenched and all festivity was stopped.

Sketch of President Carnot.

Marie Francois Sadi Carnot, president of the French republic, was born at Limoges, in August, 1837. He was a grandson of Carnot, "the organizer of victory" under the French convention, and was a civil engineer by profession. At the age of 20 he entered as a student the Ecole Polytechnique, and passed with distinction to a school for special instruction in the building of roads and bridges. During the siege of Paris in 1871 he was appointed prefect of the Seine Inferieure, and as commissary general gave valuable assistance in organizing the defenses of that department. In February, 1871, he took his seat in the national assembly as deputy of Cote d'Or, and subsequently for Beaune. In 1886 he took office in the Brisson cabinet as finance minister. On the resignation of M. Grevy, in December, 1887, M. Carnot was elected president of the republic.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT.

No Such a Blow Since the Assassination of President Garfield.

LONDON, June 25.—The Daily News, in a leader on the assassination of President Carnot, says: "The terrible news of the assassination of the president of the French republic will be received with a shock of horror all over the civilized world. No such blow has been struck by political hatred and fanaticism since the bullet of insane Guiteau mortally wounded President Garfield, or the pistol of Wilkes Booth killed President Lincoln. M. Carnot, like the presidents of the sister republic, was a man whom not only his countrymen but other nations regarded with the utmost confidence and respect. His removal at this time must be not only a great calamity for France, but a misfortune to Europe."

The Daily Chronicle says: "Lincoln died in a theatre at the hand of a lunatic enraged at the defeat of the confederacy which the president intended to let down so gently. President Garfield fell likewise under the bullet of one who was not mad save in a political sense, and died after two months of anguish. These are the only parallels that history affords to the fiendish atrocity of last night, for the assassination of the head of a free state has little in common with that of the assassination of a despot. It was understood that President Carnot did not intend to seek a reelection that might have been his for the asking. He was content, having done his duty blamelessly and impartially, to retire to private life carrying the good will of the nation, the confidence of statesmen and the approbation of his own conscience."

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

President Cleveland and the French Ambassador Greatly Shocked.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The first bulletins of the assination of the president of the French republic were received in Washington shortly before 6 o'clock p. m. (United States time) and ran through the community like an electric shock. The white house was called up and through Private Secretary Thurber the news was sent to President Cleveland. He was just starting for a drive, but stopped long enough to express his horror and detestation of the crime, and to intimate that through the proper channels expressions would be given to his sympathy with the great friendly republic thus deprived of its head.

From all the foreign embassies and legations eager inquiries were received for details. The time and manner of the crime seemed to intensify the general feeling of horror.

The French chamber of deputies adjourned when the news of the death of Garfield was received. If matters of such urgent importance were not now pressing upon congress, it is probable that like action would be taken by our own legislative body.

Mr. J. Patenotre, the French ambassador, first learned of the news of the assassination of President Carnot from a United Press reporter, as he drove up to his residence in this city from his country place at Clifton Heights.

"Impossible, impossible, it cannot be so," exclaimed the ambassador as he refused to believe the news that came to him with such alarming suddenness.

After reading the bulletin that had just been received, Mr. Patenotre was convinced that the news would be subsequently verified by official dispatches and he again cried "terrible, terrible; this is too bad, too bad."

When asked who would succeed to the presidency in the interregnum the ambassador said: "We have no vice-president as you have in the United States who would take the presidency without the formality of an election. President Carnot's successor will not be elected by popular vote; that will be done by the senate and chamber of deputies sitting jointly. They will be convened at once for that purpose and I imagine they will sit at Versailles, just out of Paris, where they can do their work away from the turmoil and excitement that will be found in Paris following upon this dastardly crime. At best but a very few days can intervene between now and the election of the successor to the presidency of the republic.

"But who will preside over the republic during that interregnum, brief though it may be?" was asked of M. Patenotre.

"That I cannot answer," said he "but I presume it will be the premier."

When asked if he could assign any possible reason for the crime, M. Patenotre said he could not unless it was revenge for the refusal of the president to pardon the anarchists who had been condemned for the crimes they had committed. Personally, he said, President Carnot was beloved by the people of France.

Secretary Gresham, who had just returned to the city, was at first inclined to discredit the report, owing to the fact that the first news came by the way of London. He said that no message of any kind had been received from Ambassador Eustis and the only information the state department had was that which came through the news dispatches. He expressed his deep regret at the death of President Carnot and said that some action would undoubtedly be taken by this government when it had been officially informed of the death of the president of the French republic.

Dispatches Stopped by Government.

LONDON, June 25.—The French government has stopped all telegraphic dispatches regarding the assassination of President Carnot. The latest intelligence is that the greatest excitement prevails throughout the entire republic. The streets of Paris are crowded with a pushing and surging throng of excited people and the lives of Italians are in danger in all quarters.

TRIPLE MURDERER.

A Colored Preacher Uses His Razor With Fearful Effect.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—The Rev. B. B. Smatzher, the colored preacher, arrested here for murder at Chattanooga, proves to be a triple murderer, and has maimed several other people for life. He was a roustabout on the Mississippi river, and became a preacher at Greenville, Miss., where, with his razon, he "carved" one of his parishioners to death. He escaped and next appeared at Chattanooga as pastor of a small colored church. There he became involved in a quarrel with Jack Rowland, and cut him to death.

He again escaped, and with several colored men started on a tramp to this city. On the way a quarrel over a game of cards ensued, in which the preacher killed one of the men, and with his pal fled. These two again quarreled, and the ever-ready razor played a dangerous part. The victim did not die this time, but after months of suffering recovered, and is now here.

Rioting at Adrian.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 25.—At half past 8 o'clock last night seventy-two private police arrived at the Adrian mine. The car had no sooner stopped than it was surrounded by at least 1,000 miners, women and children, who climbed all over the car yelling and hooting.

The policemen were unarmed.

The militia was sent for and Company "F" was ordered to the scene, about 500 yards distant, but were unable to disperse the mob.

Companies "I" and "B" were then ordered out and went to the scene on double quick time, and when the miners saw the reinforcements they immediately dispersed.

L. W. Robinson, the general superintendent here, was with the police. He was pulled out of the car by the men and beat by them, while the women spat in his face, but fortunately he escaped injury.

The deputies were armed with Winchesters, but the sheriff would not give the order to fire. The sheriff who had charge of the police received a severe blow above the left eye from the hands of one of the women and was otherwise badly used up. As soon as he was able to get out of the mob's hands he went to notify the militia.

Coxey's Race for Congress.

MASSILLON, O., June 25.—Gen. Coxey, of commonweal fame, as a congressional candidate must not be considered too seriously. While Coxey will doubtless poll a heavy vote, his defeat seems almost a certainty. There is a great deal of talk of democratic endorsement of Mr. Coxey's nomination, but the real party leaders would rather indorse candidate Taylor, republican as he is, than commit their party to the leader of the commonwealers.

Northern Pacific Resumes.

TACOMA, Wash., June 25.—Supt. Dickinson, of the Northern Pacific, announces that repairs to the flooded portions of the road have been completed. The line to Portland south of Globe, Ore., has been placed in operation, and the main line around Pend d' Oreill, in Idaho, will be soon. For the first time in several weeks the road began moving freight eastward from Spokane, sending it over the Coeur d' Alene branch.

1,000,000 Feet of Lumber Burned.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., June 25.—The Lackawanna Lumber company's mill at Mina, Pa., five miles from here, with about a million feet of hemlock lumber, has been destroyed by fire. The mill was insured and will probably be replaced by a smaller one. The company estimates the loss at $70,000. Nearly 100 men are thrown out of employment.

Peers May Practice Law.

LONDON, June 25.—The attorney-general having given an opinion that there is no objection to a peer practicing at the bar, Bernard Coleridge, who succeeded to the peerage on the death of his father, Lord Chief Justice Coloridge, has decided to continue his practice.

Many of the Dead Miners' Bodies Mangled Beyond Recognition—Crowds of Women Still Surround the Pit Awaiting News from Husbands and Brothers.

LONDON, June 25.—The further exploration of the Pont-y-Pridd mine, in which an explosion occured Saturday, has shown that the disaster was far beyond anything imagined.

The number of dead is 251.

The original report that only 200 men were in the mine at the time was due to a misunderstanding on the part of the manager who thought that a shift of miners had just come up.

Many of the dead bodies were mangled beyond recognition.

Crowds of women, who have not slept since the explosion, still surround the pit, awaiting news from husbands and brothers.

Exploration of the mine is slow and difficult, owing to the blocking of the galleries with wreckage and dead horses.

PORTLAND'S POLICE.

Gen. Neal Dow Says They Are More Corrupt Than New York's.

BOSTON, June 25.—Gen. Neal Dow, the sturdy prohibition champion of Maine, said in conversation:

"The police of Portland are more corrupt in comparison to the wealth and population of the city than the police of New York. The price for protecting the illegal grog-shops is reputed to be $40 per month, while sometimes as high as $100 is paid.

"The courts are contaminated by the way in which they handle the liquor cases. Some of the judges, after a conviction is secured in their court, have the case placed on file, not to be called up unless on a special order by the court. That ends the case practically.

"It was not always this way under prohibition, but during the past three or four months the matter has gotten worse and worse."

Five Persons Drowned.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 25.—Five persons, two men, two women and a child, Swedes, were drowned in the East river about 400 feet from the Atlantic Yacht club house at the foot of Fifty-sixth street. Another child, a girl about two years old, was rescued. They were in an 10-foot cat boat and were struck by a squall. The boat capsized and all were thrown into the water and drowned except the two-year-old child. The bodies of the victims have have not been recovered.

PROBABLY 25 DROWNED

An Excursion Tug Founders Off Sandy Hook.

Many of the Party Rescued by a Steamer and Tugs While Clinging to a Life Raft and Wreckage—Overcrowding the Probable Cause of the Accident.

NEW YORK, June 25.—As the steamship Algonquin, of the Clyde line, from Charleston, was off the Atlantic Highlands, and about four miles southeast of the Scotland lightship yesterday afternoon the scream of a whistle reached the ears of Capt. Samuel Platt, who was standing on the bridge. It was an alarm of distress. The captain observed about a mile away a big tug rolling and pitching on the waves close to the point of foundering.

He signalled the engine room, and soon the big steamer was heading for the tug. Orders were issued to lower and man the life-boat. The command was quickly executed. Boat No. 4 on the port side of the steamer was hurriedly swung from its davits and Officer Rich, accompanied by four seamen, scrambled into it. It was a dangerous task, but it was accomplished in safety.

When the work of lowering the boat was accomplished the people on the Algonquin looked over the water to where they had seen the tug. They then saw that she was crowded with people.

The little vessel careened over to the starboard, her smokestack almost touching the crest of a passing wave. Just at this time, however, another big white cap come rolling along and, striking the tug, sent her over the other way. Thus the waters played with her for a minute or more, and then she went to the bottom.

As she sank out of sight the top of the wheel house, together with a raft and a life boat, remained floating on the water.

To every particle of wreckage clung one or more of the drowning throng.

The life raft was the most sought for, and those who were so fortunate as to make it were saved.

When the Algonquin reached the scene of the accident and commenced the work of rescue, she was joined in her labor by three tugs—the Governor, the Wallace B. Flint and the R. J. Moran.

All of these vessels had been cruising in the vicinity when the tug that had passed beneath the waters first sent up her whistle of distress. They responded to the call, as did the steamer's crew. Together they commenced to take the people from the water and from the raft. Every one was cool and collected and in less than twenty minutes from the time the rescuers arrived those who had been on the foundered craft, excepting those, of course, who had gone to the bottom, had reached havens of safety.

The Moran confined its attention to those on the raft. These, together with the few that it picked up from the water, numbered thirty-four. The Algonquin's crew secured ten, while the Governor and the Flint also got a number on board their respective boats.

The lost tug's life boat was found floating aimlessly about by the Algonquin's crew. It was full of water and had evidently been overturned many times. In the bottom of it, however, tangled in the ropes, was found the body of a man. Whoever he was, he had probably prepared for the plunge into the sea. His coat was off and his shirt sleeves rolled up to his shoulders. He was evidently one of the fishing party, for in his pockets was found a quantity of lines and hooks.

From the survivors it was learned that the people who were aboard the tug were members of an excursion party which was gotten up under the direction of the Herring Fishing club, a social organization composed mostly of Germans. It was the tenth annual excursion of the club.

A strange feature of the disaster appears to be that but few of the people were acquainted with each other.

Tickets, it appears, were sold to persons who had probably never heard of the Herring Fishing club before. Tickets for the excursion had been, it is stated, on sale in various saloons for weeks.

The tug was homeward bound when she foundered. As she proceeded on her course toward the city the wind freshened to some extent and the waves rolled higher.

The Algonquin passed the tug and the latter followed in the wake of the big steamer. The waves became more boisterous and dashed up against the side of the tug, throwing spray over the excursionists who were on the deck. Then the trouble commenced.

The stories as to the real cause of the accident differ. Some say that the fishers, to avoid getting wet, moved around on the dry side of the vessel, that is the side where the waves did not strike with such force, and by so doing listed the tug so that the water ran into her to such an extent that it was impossible to navigate her. By others it is claimed that the tug was an old and rotten affair, that she was terribly overcrowded and consequently top heavy.

As near as can be ascertained 25 people or thereabouts were drowned. These figures are secured by estimates of the number of persons who were aboard and the number who were saved.

When the crew from the Algonquin had picked up about all they could carry in their metallic life boat, nine living and one dead, they put back to the vessel. It was far too rough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer so a line was swung to the life boat and she was towed to Quarantine. At the latter place they were conveyed to the Algonquin's deck.

MAY VOTE TO-MORROW

Nearing the End of the Senate Tariff Struggle.

Little Delay Looked for When the Measure Is Returned to the House—Final Adjournment of Congress by the 15th of August Confidently Expected.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—After the tariff bill has passed the senate, one day, and possibly two, will be required for a comparison of the changes made, after the bill has been printed and before it is sent to the house. When it is ready for delivery at the other end of the capitol it will be taken by the secretary of the senate who, being recognized by the speaker, will formally announce that the senate has passed the tariff bill with certain amendments and that it asks the house's concurrence. Under the rules, the bill will be immediately referred to the ways and means committee, where it originated. The speaker, if no objections were raised, might send it directly to a conference committee, but a single objection would prevent this course and objectors will certainly be found.

It is not believed that the committee will loose any time in a formal consideration of the bill. The changes as made by the senate have been so radical that in no way can an agreement be reached except by a conference, and as the disposition of both members and senators is to reach an adjournment as early as possible, the obvious duty of Chairman Wilson will be to get it in conference at the earliest practicable moment.

It is a mistake to believe that the ways and means committee is "disorganized" as has been recently stated. True, several of its democratic members have been absent for some time, but the majority have been in the city almost continuously since the bill passed the house and those gentlemen have followed the senate's action so closely that they are as familiar with the bill in its present shape as they were when it was first sent to the senate.

It is not believed that the ways and means committee will retain the bill more than two days. Chairman Wilson or some other member whom he may designate will then report it back to the house with a request that it be sent to a committee of conference to be further considered. The house then, sitting as a committee of the whole, will probably debate the principal changes made by the senate. Upon this point there are some difference of opinion between the democratic leaders, but the preponderance of opinion favors the belief that the house will pass its judgment upon the senate changes before sending the bill to conference.

The reason is obvious. A few days debate will afford the house an opportunity to explain its position regarding the senate amendments. Such a debate may show that the house favors certain of the charges while it may be radically and unalterably opposed to others. The house conferees will then meet their colleagues of the senate with a clear and distinct understanding of the temper of the house regarding the bill and this will assist them materially in taking their position. If there be a disposition upon the part of members of the house to debate the bill at excessive length before sending it to conference, the committee on rules can at any time bring in an order fixing the time for closing the debate.

One of the questions yet to be settled is as to the number of conferees on the part of each house. The usual number is five.

The adjournment of congress by the 15th of August, with the new tariff bill passed, is confidently expected by the best-informed on-lookers.

Party leaders on both sides of the chamber agree that this week will see the tariff bill out of the senate; as to the precise date there is a divergence of opinion. Messrs. Harris and Jones expect to see the final vote taken not later than to-morrow evening. Mr. Aldrich, on the republican side, says it may be taken then, but it will more likely be Thursday. Mr. Allison says the vote may be taken Thursday, but he hardly thinks it will be reached before Saturday.

It is believed that the income tax part of the bill will be concluded to-day and possibly the internal revenue paragraphs.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 25, 1894

Fanwood puts a premium on broad tires by road-tax rebatement. Broad tires are a good-roads preserver, and to reward their use is a just recognition of the teamsters' public benefaction.

To see the long list of Republican candidates for Governor of New Jersey one would think that Republican nomination meant popular election. Well it does n't, after last Winter's partisan legislation.

A plea for the opening of the windows in the Jersey Central terminal waiting room is started. The prayer is a deserving one. Open the windows, Mr. Baldwin, and let the breeze from the bay sweep through and revive the withering waiting passengers.

Foster M. Voorhees is reaping Republican reward. He sacrificed the judgeship for his party, and now he is being quietly shoved into the background by Hobart, Grubb, Rogers, Murphy, Toffey, Wanser, Stokes, Griggs, Bradley, and the other influential leaders scrambling for the office.

Editor Pearsall, who sets the standard of everything in Westfield except politics, pleasantly speaks of the editor of The Press as "bright an' breezy". As for brightness, how can one help reflecting the glory of Westfield's centennial sun; and as for breeziness, it's contagious when Pearsall's around. Besides, who has a right to be anything but bright and breezy, when life in Plainfield is so perennial with blessings, not the least of which is the proximity of mighty good neighbors!

All hail, the Hunterdon County farmer! His fields were far from the market, and with characteristic energy he built the Rockaway Valley Railroad to transport his harvests. Metropolitan burglars saw that the road was a good thing, and the other night they pried open the main office after the profits. But the weasel is n't in it with the Hunterdon granger; every mother's son of 'em was out for all night, nursing the peach crop, and they just cocked their weather eye on the burglars and gave them a shotgun round robin. The whole gang of thieves was looked up for the grand jury, and the farmers placidly went on cutting hay and railroad coupons.

By the permission of a careless mail-receiver, a Plainfield postman got into the foolish habit of putting valuable letters at the foot of a stairway freely accessible to the public. One day, in consequence, the careless mail-receiver did n't get a letter containing money. Thereupon the matter is reported to the organ of Captain Grant's enemies, and that journal has a fit because the Captain does n't arrest the unknown thief right away. "It would not have taken very much work or very much ability to discover the thief"—sagely remarks the Hawkshaw paper, and then subsides without accomplishing the glory of discovering the thief itself. This teaches us that some persons know other people's business just about as well as they know their own.

CAUSED BY A HEAVYWEIGHT.

Excitement at the Merry-Go-Round, and the Inevitable Faint Resulted.

While R. M. Shelley's merry-go-round was in operation Saturday evening a heavily-built man who was riding jumped from his horse upon one of the slats which are fastened between the pairs of horses. The slat broke and as the machine went on other slats were broken by it. A woman fainted, and there was much excitement, but Mr. Shelley stopped the engine before two revolutions had been made. He was not at all to blame for the accident.

Discussing Work and Play.

The annual outing of the committeemen of the Y. M. C. A. was enjoyed Saturday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kiseam, 1060 Central avenue. Games of quoits and base-ball enlivened the afternoon, and after supper a conference was held and the plans of the year were discussed. About 25 were present, including President Wm. D. Murray, Vice-president E. L. Bonny, Secretary J. H. Manning, Chairmen J. W. Gavett and George R. Cornwell and E. R. Taylor.

NO HUMAN BODY BURNT

COUNT VAN NESS THOUGHT HE SMELLED ONE IN THE RUINS.

He Experiences His Third Fire on the Allen Farm—Says He Was Asleep When the Alarm Was Given—No Live Stock in the Flames.

The third fire on the Allen farm owned by "Count" J. K. VanNess occurred last evening, when the second barn was destroyed with a quantity of hay and straw.

The fire was discovered at 7:30 and the alarm was sent in from Box 18 by one of the "Count's" workmen who had hurried to Felix Marx's house, 1106 East Front street, for a key. The department went out and found the whole building in flames. No hydrant being near, water was obtained from the brook, 800 feet away. There was no chance of saving anything, and only the burned shell remains. Of two houses, two barns and a wood-shed, which once stood on the place, the "Count" has left a house and a wood-shed. The building was insured for $1,500 and the contents for $500, and a total loss will be claimed. The payment of the insurance on the last fire was disputed, but the loss was finally accepted by the companies.

Word reached Chief Doane this morning that it was thought that a human body was burning in the smoldering rubbish, and with Assistant Chief Martin he went to the barn in Alert's hose wagon to investigate. The firemen examined the ruins carefully and decided that no one had been burned.

Lyman & Petrie, as agents for the Lancashire Company, had $500 of the insurance on the barn. The "Count" explained this morning that he had been entertaining friends during the day and was asleep when the fire was discovered by his hired man. He had very bravely removed the wagons and cows and was glad that the horses were in the pasture.

SOMETHING TO DROP.

Important Arrests to Be Made.

As a result of skilful detective work on the part of the Plainfield police, wholesale arrests for gambling are about to be made, and the list includes some well-known men.

Complaints have already been sworn to, and as soon as Judge Coddington returns to town the warrants will be served.

It'll be a surprise for the town.

Fanwood Birthday Party.

Master Berrian Anderson entertained his little friends in Fanwood, Saturday afternoon, it being the sixth anniversary of his birth.

Mrs. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. Frank Dale Warren, looked after the youngsters, and a most enjoyable afternoon was the result. Games and music on the lawn filled in the time until refreshments were announced when the little ones filed into the dining room and did justice to the bounteous repast.

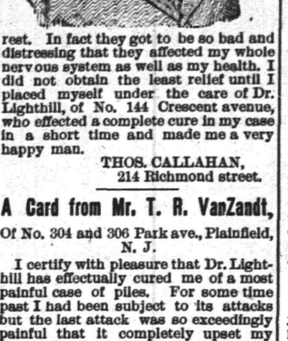
HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my



rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

Resigned To Avoid Impeachment.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 25.—The house of commons was treated to a surprise, when, during the discussion of the estimates, it was shown that Henry Corby, a distiller, who represents West Hastings, got $4,553 from the Dominion government for methylated spirits. It is a breach of the independence of parliament act for any member to take money from the government. When the house met Mr. Corby tendered his resignation. If he had not done so, he would likely be impeached. Mr. Corby is one of the conservative whips, and is very popular.

A Beautiful Mirage.

COLUMBUS, Ind., June 25.—One of the most beautiful scenes that were ever witnessed by the inhabitants of this part of the state lasted for thirty minutes during the night. It was a mirage of some distant city, believed to have been St. Louis. It appeared at an angle of about 45 degrees and a little north of west. The streets of the city could easily be seen, as could the church spires and a river.

Captured Insurgent Warships.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 25.—The government fleet entered the harbor convoying the late insurgent warship Republica. The Aquidaban is expected later in tow of the Nictheroy. The fleet was saluted by the French cruiser Duquesne, the only foreign warship present, and the salute was returned by the fleet. There is great rejoicing and much festivity throughout the city.

An Insane Catholic Priest.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., June 25.—It has just been discovered that Louis Cregul, a patient at the St. Lawrence State hospital for the insane, is a catholic priest from France. He has wealthy relatives there. A French abbe has written to the hospital authorities with regard to securing his dismissal from the hospital in order that he may be taken home.

Peary Relief Expedition.

HALIFAX, June 25.—The members of the Peary relief expedition, who arrived here on the steamer Portia, from New York, have proceeded for St. Johns, N. F. At that place they will embark on the sealer Falcon, which has been specially chartered for the expedition, and will at once sail north in search of Lieut. Peary and his party.

At the Lakes of Killarney.

LONDON, June 25.—Richard Croker has arrived at the lakes of Killarney and will remain several days, when he will return to the home of his family in Blackrock. Mr. Croker intimates that he will not return to New York until after the fall elections. He positively refuses to discuss politics.

Vigilant and Britannia.

LONDON, June 25.—The prince of Wales has arranged with George Gould for a private match between the Vigilant and the Britannia to be sailed on July 23 over the course of the Royal Yacht club, starting and finishing at Cowes.

Corrigan Nearer a Red Hat.

LONDON, June 25.—The correspondent of the Chronicle at Rome, in a despatch denying that Archbishop Ireland is to be made a cardinal, says it is more probable that Archbishop Corrigan would take precedence of Archbishop Ireland.

Population Increased.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 25. — Mrs. Green Steel of Stewart's Ferry, Rutherford county, this state, has given birth to four children, two boys and two girls, all fair sized and perfect. The mother and double twins are doing well.

Tramps Killed In a Wreck.

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 25.—A bad wreck occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern at Walnut Creek, in which three men were killed, two fatally injured and one so badly hurt that it is not thought he can recover. The men were all tramps stealing a ride. There were eleven altogether, but five of them had narrow escapes and two only saved their lives by jumping down a trestle fifty feet.

Anxious to Fight a Duel.

ROME, June 25.—Gen. Mocenni, minister of war, has resigned from the cabinet, but the king has refused to let him retire. Mocenni was insulted by Sig. Imbriani, the radical leader, during a debate in the chamber on June 15 and he wished to be relieved of his office so as to be free to challenge Imbriani.

Hail Storm at Amsterdam.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., June 25.—A heavy rain storm accompanied by hail visited this section yesterday afternoon. Fruit trees and vegetation show the effects of the hail stones. There was severe thunder and lightning.

The American Distanced.

PARIS, June 25.—The twenty-four hour bicycle race for the gold cup was won by Huret, who covered 736 kilometres, 946 metres. Ashinger, the American, was so far behind that he was not placed by the judges.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

BIG GUNS AFTER GAME.

COUNTY CELEBRITIES JUNKET ON THE ORATORICAL FARM.

Lots of Sport Over a Pigeon Shoot Between ex-Senator Marsh and ex-Freeholder Acken—Sweepstakes for All, and a Rapid Contest Whose Score Could n't Be Kept—Feasting, Frolic and Vocal Fireworks.

In a delightful, quiet spot on James E. Martine's extensive farm, the genial Farmer Orator entertained notable men of Union County Saturday afternoon. That he was a host of unequalled calibre goes without saying, for there is only one James Martine, and his wide circle of friends throughout the county know it.

Gathered under the verdure of the woods, which rustled before a cool, refreshing breeze, the guests declared that a veritable Garden of Eden had been discovered, and the animating influence of the surrounding beauty brought forth the admiration of all.

Seldom has such a body of political lights, principally the county's honored servants in official capacity, gathered together in Plainfield, and a vein of good humor flowed incessantly, as each threw off the restraint of a busy life.

The fields and the trees were not the only charm to loosen eloquence, for from the congenial bowl the health of the Farmer Orator was remembered. No efforts were spared by him to make the occasion one never to be forgotten, and as they heard his inspiring eloquence not one doubted the host's ability to serve his people, either in his own State or in the capital of the nation, with his broad and well-developed mind, so well grounded in the principles which are the bulwark of our government.

The event of the afternoon was the shooting contest between ex-Senator Fred C. Marsh of Elizabeth and ex-Freeholder Moses H. Acken of Rahway, at fifteen live birds each. A steady hand and a well trained eye are possessed by both, and the contest was very lively and exciting. Both showed that they had not forgotten how to handle the gun, and though several birds escaped a majority was brought down by the powder knights.

The popular young Senator from Elizabeth beat his time-honored friend by three birds, the score standing 10 to 7. A hearty cheer was given the winner, and for the Freeholder "Better luck next time".

Next came a sweepstake match, fifteen entering the contest. The shooting was spirited throughout. A purse was made up, and was afterwards divided. The result was as follows:

	SCORE.					TOTALS.
Allen	1	1	1	0	1	4
Daly	0	1	0	1	1	3
Folsom	0	1	1	1	1	4
Marsh	1	0	1	1	1	4
Acken	0	1	1	1	1	4
I. Hand	0	0	1	1	0	2
Crane	1	0	1	1	1	4
Clark	0	1	0	0	1	2
Crowell	0	0	0	0	1	1
Mead	1	1	0	1	0	3
J. Hand	0	0	0	0	0	0
Potter	1	0	1	1	1	4
Driscoll	0	0	0	0	1	1
A. V. Nolan	1	0	1	0	0	2
T. Drum	0	0	0	1	1	2

A joke which was enjoyed by all was played on Thomas Drum of Elizabeth. He had been unable to hit anything all the afternoon, and two or three wags got the trap boy to put a dead bird in the trap, and then offered to bet Drum two to one he would kill the next bird. When all was ready the string was pulled and he blazed away at the inanimate object. They all congratulated him on his fine shot.

In the first match Thomas Drum was judge, and J. J. Matthews scorer; and in the second, Alford Cook was judge and J. J. Matthews scorer, while John Benner looked after the traps.

A few birds were left, and a very amusing contest was arranged between ex-Sheriff Thompson and Silas Leonard. It was impossible to keep a score under the furious excitement, but somehow or other all the birds were killed.

The shooting was followed with a stump speech by Mr. Martine, which was listened to intently as he gave in his own happy way many excellent ideas that would help solve present governmental perplexities.

An abundance of good things was supplied for the inner man, and all joined in full enjoyment.

Those present were: Judge McCormick, County Clerk William Oliver, Councilman J. F. Ryan, Senator F. C. Marsh, ex-Sheriff Thompson, Alfred Carlton, City Comptroller; J. J. Manning, City Clerk; C. H. Smith, Editor of the Freie Presse; Mr. Potter, Assistant Comptroller; Mr. McGrath, Assistant City Treasurer; Thos. Smith, ex-Councilman; Ira Hand, Thos. Drum, ex-Councilman Peter Egnoff, J. J. Brennan, George Squires, John Driscoll of Elizabeth; Mayor Daly, ex-County Clerk J. L. Crowell, Alford Cook, Clerk of the Board of Freeholders; Messrs. Jardine, Dr. Clark, J. Matthews, Commissioner of School Census; Freeholder Halliday, Mr. Mead, Silas Leonard, Frank Crane, cartoonist of the New York World; M. H. Acken of Rahway; Mr. Folsom of Bergen Point; Mr. Allen of Bayonne; Col. Scott, W. M. Meyers, W. K. McClure, Andrew McArdel, Wallace Vail, Judge Wadsworth, John Rafferty, Joseph G. Miller, Frank Linke, James E. Martine, Lawyer George DeMeza and John Benner.

Warren Engine Renews Her Youth.

Warren Engine was rolled to Brook and Westervelt avenues Saturday afternoon to test the boiler, after having new copper tubes put in. She was found to be in good shape for duty. The work of putting in the new tubes was done by David Ross and James Stansfield. The boys are all glad to see the old machine on duty once more.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the City Clerk by Thursday evening.

TENNIS TEA.

Delightful Social Function at the Hillside Club-house.

The first regular Summer tennis tea took place Saturday afternoon at the Hillside Tennis Club. Mrs. James L. Anthony and Mrs. Charles Seward Foote received the guests, who came steadily from 4 until nearly 7. Many of the guests coming from the wedding breakfast at the Streulis' on Hillside avenue stopped at the club for an hour's chat under the shade of the large trees that make the club grounds so pleasant. The attendance was large considering the extreme heat of the afternoon.

The courts were occupied all the afternoon, and many found amusement in watching the skillful players who seemed to enjoy the game in spite of the intense heat.

Among those present were:

C. W. Opdyke, Miss Opdyke, Mrs. Ethel Opdyke, Miss Lawrence, Miss Lena Hart, Rev. S. P. Simpson, Edward Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., the Misses Wharton of Pittsburg, H. P. Wharton, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Stuart, Percy Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. John Doul Miller, Constantine Ralli, Mr. Sykes, Mrs. and Miss Baker, Mr. Sherwin, A. D. Shepard, Jr., Miss Ethel Bowers, Miss Helen White, Mrs. Beers, Miss Talmadge, Miss Margaret Yates, Miss Evans, Miss Walz, Fred Walz, Louis Walz, Miss Minnie Sprague, Fred Fish, Jr., G. Harry Squires, Albert Simmonds, Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Leal, Mrs. Carr, George Mellick, Miss Belle Tweedy, Maud Lord, the Misses Durand, the Misses Ellis and Russell Blake.

The next tea will be July 4, and there will be none after that until September.

PRAISE FOR THE WOMEN.

Rector Simpson Admires Their Management of the Bazar.

Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, in announcing yesterday the success of the bazar held last Wednesday, said in effect: "I would say right here, that in all the parishes which I have served I have never seen such an unanimity of feeling nor such a singleness of purpose. In matters of this kind, it often happens that petty jealousies are engendered, hard feelings fostered, and although the financial result may be satisfactory, the moral effect is deleterious. I am happy to state that in this instance these drawbacks were conspicuous by their absence, and that all private and individual wishes were subordinated to the one purpose of doing the very best for the benefit of the parish. I will read a notice handed me by the Trustees:

"The Trustees desire to thank the ladies of the Church of Our Saviour for their devoted efforts in replenishing the treasury. The net result, just about $700, is really remarkable in these hard times. Such a desire on the part of all to co-operate in the good work is rarely shown in any church.

"The Trustees feel that all the ladies, and all others interested, will join them in particularly thanking the host and hostess of the fair, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Palmer Smith. They summoned to their beautiful home so many influential and generous people, that a failure in conducting the enterprise became practically impossible."

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed Church will hold their monthly consecration meeting tonight at 8. Visitors are always welcome.

Miss Phœbe Mills sang very acceptably in the choir of Trinity Reformed Church yesterday morning and evening, during the absence of Miss Krymer, the regular soprano of the choir.

Miss Campbell, a teacher in Dr. Dorland's School for Mountain Whites, Hot Springs, North Carolina, will talk to the King's Messengers tomorrow evening at 8, in the Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. G. Hauser of Jersey City Heights preached morning and evening in the German Reformed Church yesterday. He was formally notified of his call to the church. He will come to Plainfield the first of next month.

The Young Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will hold its regular sewing meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2, in the lecture room. This being the last meeting of the season, a large attendance is desired.

The announced sermon of Rev. C. Schenck was postponed from last night for one week, and the service was devoted to praise to God for the refreshing relief from the heat. Rev. Arthur Crane, F. Koechli and Pastor Schenck, were the speakers.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Edwin F. Miller.

Mrs. Edwin F. Miller died yesterday afternoon at 3 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles M. Ulrich, 123 East Fifth street. She had been ill for a year with a complication of diseases and had been confined to her bed for about three weeks. Her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Miller's maiden name was Kate Thomas. She was 28 years old and had been married nearly two years. She has another married sister living in New York State. Mr. Miller is a traveling salesman now selling silk goods in the West. It is thought that he is in Cleveland, O., and the news was telegraphed there at once.

MEMORIAL TO J. C. PAUL

GRAND ARMY MEN AND CIVILIANS ATTEND THE SERVICES.

Pastor Herring Interprets the Message of the Major's Namesake Apostle, and Gives Warm Tribute to His Valor as a Soldier and Sterling Worth as a Citizen.

The valedictory of ancient Paul became the farewell message of modern Paul, through the medium of Rev. Charles E. Herring in the First Presbyterian Church last evening. The sermon was in memory of a departed Plainfield soldier, and this was the text:

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness.

Though wet with the pelting rain, civilians and Grand Army men gathered in the church in silent living testimony of their respect and esteem for the late Major John C. Paul, and bowed their heads reverently before the stacked muskets and furled American flags at the front of the pulpit. The music of the organ, and the songs of choir and people, were sad with tears for the vanished one, but higher than all rose a note of rejoicing in the blessed assurance that Christ was lover of his soul and he loved Christ.

A deep feeling for a soldier, professed Pastor Herring. A soldier was the embodiment of courage, patriotism, manhood. And this soldier of ours, Major J. C. Paul, had all of the attributes which inspire affection.

He was courageous, as was shown by his deeds of valor on the field. His courage was not evanescent, vanishing before obstacles; he had a mind of his own, was persistent, and though great generals were fearful of the outcome and said "Better not" he went through hardships into the enemy's camp and recovered the body of his beloved colonel.

Not only was he courageous during the war, but also afterwards. When his friend put his ear to his heart, heard its dreadful thumping, and said, "Alas, you are very ill!" he never flinched the fatality, but had the fortitude to smile—smile in the face of death.

He was honest. When financial misfortune came, and swept along with his own the property of others that had been entrusted to him, he had restored theirs at great additional personal sacrifice.

He was broad-hearted. On the records of his regiment he was among the leading three in liberality to the Gettysburg monument fund, and in abundant other channels his generosity was manifest.

He was magnetic. In railroad circles everybody felt drawn towards him. He was always doing favors for his fellows, and many men in prosperous circumstances today owed their rise in life to his help and preferment. He was not only a brave man, but a gentle one, continually going about doing good.

And so his was a helpful life—a pleasant memory, a worthy teaching. He had breathed a prayer "I want to be nearer to Christ"—and now he was with Christ, and that was better still.

On the last page of Walter Scott's diary was "During the night we slept reasonably, but in the morning"—

This was like life: a part of it we could understand, the rest meant—What?

"We slept reasonably"—that was life as we knew it; but in the morning—well, what of the morning? Was the final sleep the end of all? Was there nothing after this life? Then this life were vain indeed. Nay: We slept reasonably, and in the morning we awakened into the full consciousness of a new life, a life in Christ Jesus, beatific and eternal. Let us all as Christian soldiers strive to attain such glory!

The concluding prayer of the pastor was one of thanksgiving for the beauties and lessons of the life of Major John C. Paul.

PLAINFIELD BREEDING TELLS.

And Its Capital Worth Banking on to Have So Distinguished a Father.

To the circle of bright young men engaged in newspaper work in New York has recently been added a Plainfield High School boy, Albert Capron Phillips, who has joined the staff of The Sun. He is a son of Walter P. Phillips, general manager of the United Press, and was born in Providence in 1871. He attended school in Washington, D. C., and Plainfield, N. J., and entered Columbia College in 1890, from which he was recently graduated. On account of his high scholarship he was elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

Mr. Phillips was the winner of the James Gordon Bennett prize at the commencement last week.

The prize was awarded this year for the first time. It is given for the best essay on a subject in political science, which is chosen by the faculty. This year the subject was "The Monetary Policy of the United States Since 1870", with special reference to the question of a standard of value.

Mr. Phillips has already shown promise of a bright future, and will doubtless fulfill all the expectation of his friends.

Do Unto Others.

A festival and sale will be given by the Golden Rule Circle of King's Daughters in the store, corner Manning avenue and Somerset street, Friday afternoon and evening, July 6. Admission will be five cents.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. WATERLOO FOR THE NEVERSWEATS

East Orange Ball Tossers Rock Them to Sleep.

Saturday afternoon, at the Crescent Wheelmen's grounds, the hitherto invincible Neversweats of Plainfield met their Waterloo at the hands of the Rockers of East Orange.

The Neversweats were attired in immaculate duck "jeans", smiles, and long hair. Their fame being known the country round, many of the fair sex were present to urge them on to victory.

Erickson, nicknamed the "stone wall" on account of the difficulty experienced in getting the ball past him, played first base. "Kid" Lowe, with true Princetonian grace, covered second base. "Dickey" Dwight, with the title of captain affixed, played a brilliant game at shortstop. "Goat" West, whose true oriental politeness and beautiful figure were the envy of many, acquitted himself creditably at third base. In the outfield "Coxey" Sandford covered himself with glory and mud unadulterated.

A special corps was enlisted to extract him from the semi-liquid in left field at the end of each inning, and the radiant smile and profuse thanks that he bestowed upon his rescuers touched the assemblage so deeply that there was not a dry eye among them. "Mosey" Lowe in centre field had nothing to do but commune with himself, and from the expression on his manly countenance he did it to his entire satisfaction. "Deacon" Place with sanctimonious mein played a very dignified game in right field. In fact, he did not deign to notice the ball when it came in his territory, consequently he materially assisted the Rockers in their run-making.

The battery, consisting of "Tus" Burt and George Schoonmaker, is too well known to require any comment.

After the game, with the assistance of an expert accountant, the score was straightened out, and the Rockers were declared the victors by the score of 25 to 21.

Dwight injured his knee seriously in the seventh inning, and to his absence can be attributed the loss of the game.

LIFE OUT OF DEATH.

Epworth Leaguers Receive a Valuable Homily on the Harvest of the Lord.

Last evening was the first anniversary of the formation of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. Church. There was no regular celebration, but instead a helpful address was delivered by R. H. Doherty of Jersey City Heights. The services opened with singing by the choir and Scripture reading and prayer by the pastor.

Mr. Doherty spoke from the phrase in Isaiah, "The planting of the Lord". All people were seeds sown by God, who saw in each not the seed itself but the harvest. The seed must die before the plant can begin to grow. Tradition in explaining a portion of the twelfth chapter of John, says that Christ was sent for by a wisdom-loving king who offered him power and a palace in his court. To the Greeks who, it is said, brought this proposition, Christ said "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit". John xii: 24.

Had Christ accepted such an offer we would have known him only as one of the great men who have advanced new ideas in philosophy. He died, and because of his death Christianity is the power that it is. So our fruit-bearing life cannot begin until we have become dead to things worldly.

God has selected the soil in which we have been planted. He has given us the proper talents for us to use. The bad talent, harnessed, may make us powerful in Christian work. Peter had a bad temper, but his disposition was, after all, such that he was the only man able to preach a sermon that would convert 3,000 people. Thomas was a skeptic, but his doubting has given Christians a valuable proof of Christ's death. God has arranged everything according to His judgment. Like the chimeringer who hears not the notes he sounds, nor dreams what an influence they exert, we do not realize what our words and acts effect. God knows the results of His sowing. We will learn after we have passed through death.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, by from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

Dr. Franklin Miles, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

FRENCH CRYSTAL PORTRAITS.

AN ENTIRELY NEW PROCESS.

This is the only artistic photograph which can portray the living presence of yourself and friends, and it is something entirely new.

No oil or oil paints used in its construction. These pictures are executed with liquid chemical colors which are twenty times as powerful oil paints; they are then crystalized on single convex glass by a new process, which renders them exceedingly beautiful and as light as porcelain. They are absolutely imperishable and are warranted not to spot, blister or turn yellow with age.

This process will prevent old pictures from decay, and arrest their fading and growing dingy and yellow, as no air can possibly get to them.

75c., $1.50, $2, $3, $4 AND $6.

Each picture according to size.

The Overton Claim.

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894

"Most likely it was this way," said Major Overton. "This was a wild country then. Travelers to it took back to the seaboard states marvelous tales of it, its richness and beauty. Every man back there who had a few thousands to spare felt that he owed it to his children to buy plantations for them in the wilderness. To do it they intrusted their money often to total strangers. The journey here then was no joke—six hundred miles across the mountains and through canebrakes, with settlements 20 miles apart. Many who made it willingly took commissions from friends and neighbors, which they discharged even more scrupulously than they looked after their own affairs. But sometimes a passing traveler was asked to locate land. Oftener still the request was made of somebody living in Tennessee of whom the easterly folk had casually heard. In such fashion no doubt your great-grandfather heard of Stirling, or—stop—maybe through Ike and Jincey he heard of the Fauntleroys and put himself at their service. Yes, that must have been the way. The villain! It galls me to know he has been dead and at rest 30 years, while his victims remain to suffer and struggle."

"I forgive you everything except that you are Peyton Fauntleroy's son."

"Why not rest?" Allen asked slowly.

Major Overton said, with a deep sigh: "I cannot until, by God's help, I have found our surmises truth."

The young man rose to leave.

"Then you forgive my coming?" he asked.

Major Overton rose, too, and said, looking full in his face:

"I forgive you everything, sir, except that you are Peyton Fauntleroy's son."

CHAPTER XIII.

Hawkins left Ridgeley fury incarnate, a man whose one purpose was the abasement of his enemies. He would speak out, he told himself, if it cost him death twice over. Who was this young Allen Fauntleroy to be setting metes and bounds to his conduct? Truly, he had something to lose. His race had always held high heads, lorded it in their pride of place even more than the haughty Overtons. He had pocketed their affronts along with their coin. Now, if he must lose by them, they should find he had teeth and claws.

That is, his wrath was cooling a little, if he was perfectly sure there was no further chance of profit. Why would not that old man die? The girl must be as wax in hands that knew how to mold her, for all she had stood up so sturdily in face of her grandfather. She would hardly marry Allen even if she were free. Why not then—Hawkins threw his horse upon its haunches in the recoil from the idea. It was great! It was superb! The wonder was he had not thought of it before. If only he could bring it successfully to pass, thenceforth he could snap his fingers at niggard fortune's frown.

Presently the road ran past a country store. Hawkins halted, called for a cigar, and as the storekeeper fetched a light said, with studied indifference:

"Seems to me I recollect you at the Townley place. Who is it that's dead there? Him or his widder?"

"Tain't his widder, that's mighty certain. I seen her last week as lively as ever. But Jim Townley, he's dead. Been dead three years. She's wearin second mournin for him and has got a new set of teeth," the storekeeper returned, with a grin. To his mind it was evident that this "town feller" was "spellin round" with a view to finding out if the Widow Townley was inconsolable. Hawkins' next question confirmed his opinion, for that gentleman asked briskly:

"Has she got children? How many?"

"Nary chick ner child," returned the other, with a wink.

"H-m-m! Good place there fer er lazy man," Hawkins said. "Say, has she got any beaux?"

"That I cain't sw'ar to ner against. She's had a boarder fer er spell and is Hawkins halted and called for a cigar.

lookin fer some mo', they tell me. You might ride up and find out from her herself."

"B'l'eve I will! How far is it?"

"Pretty good piece. All of 10 mile, I reckon. It's way up on the aidge of that thar old furnace tract that's been in law so long nobody knows who owns it."

"Overton's claim, d'ye mean? Tell me, now, didn't young Overton, him that's dead, marry this Mrs. Townley's daughter?"

"No—sister. Miss Dares they was, and so different. Overton's wife pretty as er picture. The other—well, she's ugly enough to chaw wool with the burrs in it."

"Say, you want ter keep me from goin ter see her, but I'll risk it."

"Reckoned ye would. Ye ain't no flowerin vine yerself."

"You've told me a heap, but that's worth all the rest," Hawkins shouted over his shoulder as he rode away, though in truth he had known well everything that he had heard and had talked with the man but by way of bringing his new purpose to a keener edge.

He had talked to the storekeeper in his own way, fallen into his drawling idiom as though to the manner born. Not in such fashion would he greet Mrs. Townley. To say the truth, he was rather familiar with that lady, for her house had sheltered the syndicate's metallurgist whose report had opened so wide the purse strings of his employers.

Naturally Hawkins had seen a good deal of him and of his landlady, so much indeed that he wondered not a little how he had ever allowed himself to overlook her close relationship to Dare. It was close, notwithstanding Dare's mother was but a half sister. Mrs. Townley was, after her grandfather, the girl's nearest relative and certainly ought to rank as her most proper guardian.

Mrs. Townley in her own person proper was one of those women who just miss being beautiful, brilliant, fascinating, and go through life soured with the knowledge of the narrowness of their failure. She was tall, rather thin, with big, brilliant eyes that lacked only color to be magnificent, fine pale skin and well cut features. She held herself well, too uprightly indeed for grace. There was something wooden in her straight, unyielding figure. She had made an ambitious marriage, to find in six months her husband's fortune take wings. If thereafter life went rather ill with the couple, who could wonder? In fact, jars were inevitable. But they were decorously hidden till death made an end of them. Even then Mrs. Townley put on crape and bombazine as became a grieving widow, though from the minute breath left her husband's body her soul had been chanting, "Free, free!"

Hawkins found her alone, and the two talked long and low together. It was almost dusk when he came out upon the long front piazza and looked about him at the evidences of former grandeur and present decay. Mrs. Townley's glance followed his with a sort of acid quickness. Her lip curled faintly as she said, still in a hushed voice:

"I will do my best indeed. I can think of nothing I would not do to change all this. And I think we shall succeed. Fate even must be tired of making me its football."

"If we do, and I have no sort of doubt of it, your dark days are over for good and always," Hawkins said, pressing her hand in farewell. "Besides it's really your duty. You certainly owe so much to your sister's child."

"Oh, no doubt!" Mrs. Townley said, her lip curling still more, "though I fear, Mr. Hawkins, neither of us would see it that way if our virtue was to be its own sole reward."

* * * * * * *

Notwithstanding the sneer, Mrs. Townley had neither remorse nor compunction over her bargain. She was long past all that. Early next morning the rusty family carriage, whose shabbiness so galled her pride that for five years it had been left unused, took her to Ridgeley, where Major Overton received her with surprise as unfeigned as his courtesy. Dare met her with no show of affection, yet with a very lively interest. Visitors of any sort were in the nature of events at Ridgeley—visitors, that is, whom it fell to her lot to entertain. Most comers were men, whom she saw, if at all, only at table, and with whom she rarely exchanged more than the briefest salutation. In truth, the girl had grown up in mammy's severe charge an uncloistered nun, save indeed that she fed mind and heart with poems and romances in the garret library, which was her chief resource when wind and weather shut her away from outdoors.

Mrs. Townley did not beat about the bush. She said simply to Major Overton:

"I have come for Dare. She is a woman now and needs womanly counsel. Let me keep her for six months. There are many things I would like to teach my only sister's only child."

"She knows already those most essential—truth and courage and honor and what is due her name," the old man said proudly. "I can trust her, Melissa, fully, entirely. I wish I were as certain that I might trust you."

Mrs. Townley looked him full in the eyes and said in her evenest tone:

"Major, if I tried with all my might, I could never do Dare the wrong you did when you flung away fortune for the sake of pride."

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap imitations with vegetable names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.

It's easy to avoid disappointment and ensure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

AT THE ELYSEE PALACE

Carnot's Remains Now Lying in the Grand Salon.

A Catafalque for the Funeral Services Being Erected in the Court Yard—Messages of Sorrow from the Rulers of All Civilized Nations—Result of the Autopsy—Property of Italians Destroyed by Mobs—The Assassin's Brother Talks—The Succession Discussed in All Places.

PARIS, June 26.—President Carnot's body now lies in the grand salon in the Elysee palace, which has been transformed into a funeral chamber. It is hung in black drapery fringed with silver. The chandeliers are covered with crape and the candelabra at the corners of the catafalque have been wrapped in black cloth. A military guard will be on duty in the chamber until the funeral, which will take place on Friday.

The grand court of honor has been changed completely with crape hangings. On the black background are flags, trophies and silver shields, some marked "C" and others "P. F."

A catafalque for the funeral service is building in the court yard.

Sympathy from All Civilized Nations.

The rulers of all civilized countries have sent telegrams expressing their sorrow and sympathy to Mme. Carnot. Thousands have inscribed their names in the register books of the Elysee. Among them personal friends, diplomatists, academicians, society leaders, business men and many workingmen.

The concert halls are closed and the races have been postponed.

The Body Moved from Lyons.

President Carnot's body was moved at 6:30 o'clock last evening to the railway station in Lyons, and there was placed in a car heavily draped with black. At 7 o'clock the special train to which the car was attached started for Paris with Mme. Carnot, several officers of the late president's household and a few other officials.

The Fatal Wound.

Mme. Carnot eventually withdrew her objections to an autopsy. After the examination a statement to the following effect was issued:

"The liver was horribly wounded. The dagger pierced it through a depth of five inches. The aortic vein was severed and one rib was broken. The wound penetrated fully seven inches beneath the surface. The abdominal cavity contained over two quarts of blood. Externally the wound appeared only as a cut, about an inch long, under the breast. The dagmust have been under strong pressure, otherwise it could not have penetrated so far."

"Curses Be the Criminal."

The mayor of Lyons has issued a morning proclamation, in which he says:

"Curses be the criminal! Cursed be the wretches who, by their doctrines and writings, armed the assassin!"

Italians' Property Burned.

Last night in Lyons was varied by alternate periods of perfect quiet and intense excitement. Early in the evening a mob burned down an Italian grocery store in the Rue Cuvier and the Italian Musical hall in the Rue Mazenod. The mob was dispersed by the police after the harm had been done, and for nearly two hours there was no sign of a disturbance. Then a procession formed suddenly in the middle of the city and marched through the streets shouting:

"Hurrah for Carnot; we will avenge him! Hurrah for France!"

About 60 Arrests Made.

Hardly fifteen minutes after this procession was scattered another one formed. The men were driven from the line by the police and 30 men were arrested. A third procession, with the same cry as the first one, was dispersed at 11 o'clock, after 25 more arrests had been made. The total number of arrests during the evening was above 60.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock some 2,000 men and a few women began marching and shouting for vengeance. The police watched them closely and warned them not to be too demonstrative, but did not interfere with them.

An Anarchist Braggart.

The Lyons police learned this morning that Vielly, alias Marius Faure, a Lyons anarchist, was heard saying on Friday evening: "If President Carnot comes to Lyons, he will be hurt. Somebody will stick a knife in him while he is riding about town." The police believed that Vielly might be Cesario's accomplice, but M. Benoist, the examining magistrate, did not attach much importance to the evidence in question, thinking that Vielly was merely an anarchist braggart. The police in Montpelier, near Lyons, went to the house of the anarchist Laborie, who is believed to have harbored Cesario one night last week. He had fled.

Cesario's Brother Talks.

Cesario's brother was interviewed last evening in Milan. He said of the assassin:

"He was an excellent fellow before he joined the anarchists. I do not believe he planned the murder. His comrades undoubtedly made a tool of him."

Cesario's mother is overwhelmed with grief. He was her favorite son.

Discussing the Succession.

The republican group in the chamber of deputies, 120 in number, have decided to vote for M. Casimir-Perier for president. The members of the extreme left held a meeting, M. Goblet presiding, and selected M. Brisson as their candidate. The socialist group have decided to bar the way of any capitalistic or clerical candidate. The senate groups are undecided and are still holding meetings. M. Leon Say is mentioned as a candidate by some of his adherents.

In all places frequented by politicians the succession to the presidency is discussed constantly. Casimir-Perier's chances seem to improve steadily. This morning he is a more conspicuous favorite than ever.

The Kaiser's Messages.

KIEL, June 26.—The telegram sent by the emperor to the German ambassador at Paris, was as follows: "Express to the government of France my indignation at the murder of President Carnot, whom I esteemed so highly." The kaiser's telegram to Madame Carnot, which was sent personally, read: "The empress and I are profoundly afflicted by the horrible news. Be persuaded, madame, of our entire sympathy. Our sentiments at this moment are with you and your family. God give you strength to support you under the terrible blow. Your husband, who was worthy of his great name, is dead like a soldier on the battle field."

OUR NATION'S SYMPATHY.

Congress Takes Appropriate Action in Honor of the Dead President.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The assassination of the president of the French republic was the one overruling topic in the senate. It was referred to in the opening prayer of the chaplain, who implored that divine grace and mercy may rest upon "us and our afflicted sister country, so that we may, at last, come to that unity and brotherhood intended by Jesus Christ, the ruler of the world."

Mr. Morgan, (dem., Ala.), chairman of the committee on foreign relations, rose, and in a voice tremulous with emotion, said: "Mr. President, the duty devolves upon me, as chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the senate, to make the saddest announcement that can be made to the American people, in regard to any event outside of their own borders. It is the death, by assassination, of President Carnot of the republic of France. In view of that very oppressive and alarming event, at which the nations of the earth will feel a serious shock, I present for the consideration of the senate the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the senate of the United States unite with the American people in expressing to the people of France their sorrow and sympathy in the national bereavement they are suffering from the cruel blow of an assassin, which was aimed at the peace of France and fell upon the heart of President Carnot; and, as a mark of respect due to the memory of the wise, virtuous and patriotic president of the republic of France, the senate, will at the close of this proceeding, stand adjourned until to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

Resolved, That the president of the United States is requested to communicate this expression of national sorrow to the government of the republic of France and to Madame Carnot.

The resolutions were agreed to, and the vice-president in accordance therewith, declared the senate adjourned until Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Similar action was taken by the house of representatives, and an appropriate message was sent by the state department.

Action of Italian Deputies.

ROME, June 26.—The chamber of deputies was crowded when that body was called to order. Premier Crispi announced the death of President Carnot in a voice which gave evidence of strong emotion. During the announcement every member of the chamber arose to his feet and remained standing until the premier had ceased speaking. The president of the chamber then said: "Italy will join France in her mourning."

A proposal was unanimously approved that the chamber should approve an appropriate form of mourning throughout the session. The chamber, after charging the president to convey to the French government and parliament an expression of the sentiments of the Italian chamber, adjourned. After the adjournment of the chamber of deputies all of the ministers and a large majority of the deputies proceeded to the French embassy where they left cards. The flags on all the municipal buildings were lowered to half mast.

How the Pope Received the News.

LONDON, June 26.—The Standard's Rome correspondent says: "Cardinal Rampolla was aroused from bed by the first news of the assassination. He hesitated to disturb the pope, but later upon receiving confirmation of the report from the French embassy and the archbishop of Lyons he went to his holiness. It was 6 o'clock in the morning. The pope said: "It is bad news when you come at this hour, I also passed a bad night." After hearing the facts his holiness was quite overcome. His features were convulsed with emotion, and he exclaimed: "My God, what times!" The excitement at the Vatican was indescribable.

Sympathy from Massachusetts.

BOSTON, June 26.—Gov. Greenhalge has sent the following message to Paris:

"The commonwealth of Massachusetts, United States of America, sends its sympathy and sorrow to the citizens of France and to the family of the late president. A cowardly assassin has taken the life of M. Carnot, but his fame as a statesman and a patriot will live forever as a worthy chapter of your nation's history.

"FREDERICK T. GREENHALGE."

Action Taken by Parnellites.

DUBLIN, June 26.—John Redmond, at a Parnellite meeting here, moved that those present express their sympathy with Ireland's old friend, France, in her affliction and extend their condolence to Mme. Carnot. Timothy Harrington seconded the motion and it was carried unanimously.

NO CAUSE FOR FEAR

The President Reviews the Financial Situation.

Action of New York Banks in Recouping the Treasury for Gold Lost by Export Both Patriotic and Thoughtful and Helpful in Maintaining Popular Confidence.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The president in speaking of the financial situation said:

"The offer of certain of the New York banks to replace from their vaults gold drawn from the treasury for shipment abroad is certainly thoughtful and patriotic. It not only tends to maintain the treasury's gold reserve in good condition, but it adds to the stock of popular confidence, which is at all times important.

"The elements which make up our actual situation do not justify any apprehension, and the administration still adheres to its pledge and determination to protect our national credit at all hazards and to keep the quality of our money equal to the best, so far as the limits of executive power permit.

"Of course, croaking and the spread of disquieting tales is calculated to injure the strongest financial condition. I assume, however, that there is too much patriotism among our people and too much familiarity with our resources and capabilities to permit our reserved force and financial vigor to be discredited.

"When the last government bonds were issued to replenish our stock of gold, it was nearly as low as now. While outside of our gold we had no available money to pay ordinary expenses of government, only about $19,000,000, we have now, beside our gold and in money applicable to government expenses, more than $53,000,000.

"I understand it is charged in certain quarters that the payment of matured obligations is postponed to the amount of $50,000,000 or $75,000,000. This is not true. We are paying as we go in the usual way. Last year up to June 1 the balance against us arising from the export and import of merchandise, excluding gold and silver, was $64,552,046.

"The balance in our favor from the same period this year was $62,960,563, representing a change in our favor of $127,512,608.

"These conditions taken in connection with the willingness of our banks to help the treasury during any temporary and unusual drain of gold ought to satisfy the most conservative of our safety. That must not be forgotten as another favorable feature in the situation that we are no longer purchasing silver and issuing gold obligations in payment therefor."

To Pattern After English Universities

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 26.—A decided innovation is proposed in the future Yale commencements. For months the faculty have been discussing the desirability of abolishing formal commencement exercises, and have voted to recommend to the corporation that in coming years the exercises be on the style practiced by Oxford and other English universities. The corporation have accepted the proposition and will take final action at their meeting to-day. If the faculty's suggestion is carried out the present class will be the last to have a valedictorian and salutatorian, and the class of 1895 will graduate after the modified English fashion.

Ellis Jury Fails to Agree.

MASON, Mich., June 16.—The Ellis jury reported to Judge Person that they could not agree. The jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction. The case was continued to the September term. The trial of Attorney-General Ellis was for fraud and forgery, based on a finding of the grand jury that he changed the election returns of Gogebic county on the salary amendment to the state constitution, in 1891. The state relied upon W. H. S. Wood, who confessed that he changed the returns at Ellis' request, and that the scheme was consummated at Lansing, May 21, 1891. The defense set up an alibi.

Expected Soon at Buzzard's Bay.

BUZZARD'S BAY, June 26.—Everything points to an early visit of the president to his family at Gray Gables. Congress is expected to complete its work on the tariff bill Friday. William Sinclair has been summoned to Washington to look after his duties as steward at the white house, or to its being temporarily closed. Consequently, it is considered very conclusive that Mr. Cleveland will reach his Buzzard's Bay home Saturday night or Sunday morning. He will remain a week or two, as he anticipated some weeks ago.

Simsrott Disappears.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Considerable comment has been occasioned by the discovery that William A. Simsrott, late treasurer and secretary of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association and whose accounts have been declared short about $25,000 by an investigating committee of the association, has left the city. He was discharged from the Washingtonian Home last Tuesday as cured and went away the next day with his wife and child.

Whitney's New 21-Foot Yacht.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 26.—Dorothy, the 21-footer which the Herreshoffs have been building for ex-Secretary of the Navy Whitney, of New York, was launched at Bristol. Her hull is built of mahogany throughout, her color above the water line is of a dull red, with preparations of copper bronze below. She will carry a sail area of 600 square feet of canvas.

Hon. Benj. Douglas Critically Ill.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 26.—The Hon. Benjamin Douglas, of Middletown, is very low, and his recovery has been despaired of. Mr. Douglas is the head of the Douglas Pump company. He was formerly lieutenant-governor.

LAW FOR ANARCHISTS

A Bill Against the Reds Introduced in the House.

Penalty of Death for Any Person, Being an Anarchist, Who Attempts the Life of Any Government Official, or the Destruction of Property Endangering Life.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—One result of the assassination of President Carnot was the introduction by Mr. W. A. Stone, of Pennsylvania, of a bill in the house defining the term "anarchist," and providing penalties for crimes attempted by anarchists.

The bill provides that any persons appointed, designated or employed by any society or organization, existing in this country or in any foreign country, which provides in writing or by verbal agreement, understanding or countenance, for the taking of human life unlawfully, or for the unlawful destruction of a building, or buildings, or other property, where the loss of life is the probable result of such destruction of property, shall be deemed an anarchist.

Any person being an anarchist, as defined by the first section of this act, who shall attempt the life of any person holding office, elective or appointive, or employed under the constitution and laws of the United States, or who shall attempt the destruction of any building or buildings or other property where the loss of the life of any such United States official or employee would be the probable result of such a destruction of buildings or other property, shall upon trial and conviction of such offense in any circuit or district court of the United States of the district where such offense was attempted, be sentenced to death by hanging, which sentence shall be executed by the marshal of the district in accordance with the sentence of the judge before whom the case was tried.

Speaking of the bill, Mr. Stone said:

"This country is the natural hiding place and rendezvous of the anarchist. There are more of them in this country today perhaps, than in any other. Unless we can restrict their coming and impose a severe penalty for their cruel deeds here we may expect more frequent assassinations in the future.

"The bill introduced by me is hastily drawn. Its purpose is to call public attention to the absence in our laws of any penalty for an attempt to take the life of an official other than that imposed for aggravated assault with intent to kill. It will give congress an opportunity to perfect our laws in this regard. Of course, congress can only legislate to protect United States officials. Legislation for protection of others must be passed by the states. It may be thought hard by some that the death penalty should be visited upon an anarchist who attempts the life of an official of the United States. But I believe such persons are enemies to society and the country and should be exterminated, and the death penalty is not a sufficient punishment for their crime."

Sensational Murder and Suicide.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Mrs. Carrie Reed, the pretty 24-year-old brunette, who was shot and instantly killed by an unknown man who immediately turned the pistol upon himself with fatal results during the noon hour yesterday, was a typewriter for the lumber firm of Thamer & Co. Mrs. Reed was alone in the office when a strange man entered and was seen by a teamster to engage the young woman in an animated conversation. Suddenly he drew a revolver and fired three times at the woman, without effect. Mrs. Reed screamed and ran out of the office to a lumber shed, followed closely by the assassin, who, overtaking her, knocked her down and fired two more shots into the woman's breast, killing her instantly. The murderer then deliberately placed the pistol to his right temple, fired one shot and fell dead. The man's identity has not yet been established. The woman's father says he has no knowledge of his daughter's acquaintance with the dead man, and that he did not know him. Mrs. Reed's husband is somewhere in the west seeking employment.

Singerly the Favorite.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 26.—It now appears to be practically agreed that Wm. M. Singerly, proprietor of the Philadelphia Record will be the nominee of the democratic state convention for governor. It is believed he will not decline the honor if it should be tendered him. Numerous names are suggested for the other places on the ticket with W. H. Rose, of Johnstown, for lieutenant governor; Davis S. Magee, of Lancaster, for auditor general, and Gen. W. W. Greenland, of Clarion, for secretary of internal affairs, as probabilities. R. E. Wright, of Allentown, is mentioned as temporary chairman.

Money To Pay Ohio Troops.

COLUMBUS, O., June 26.—Gov. McKinley announces that sufficient proffers to advance money to pay the cost of the state troops in the field during the recent labor troubles have been made by national banks in Cleveland, Columbus and Findlay to cover the entire expenses, and the offers have been accepted. The banks accept the governor's official voucher, which does not bind the state, but they rely on the honor of the state to repay the money, with fair interest, when the next legislature meets, in 1896.

Nominated for Congress.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 26.—The democratic conference of the 19th Pennsylvania congressional district met at Mount Holly Springs and unanimously nominated P. H. Strubinger, of Adams county, for congress to succeed F. E. Beltzhoover.

WATERVILLE, Me., June 26.—The peoples party third district convention nominated George C. Sheldon, of Waterville, for congress.

Senator-elect Martin to Wed.

RICHMOND, Va., June 26.—It is reported here on excellent authority that United States Senator-elect Thomas S. Martin, and Miss Lucy Day, of Smithfield, Isle of Wight county, Virginia, are to be married. Miss Day is the daughter of ex-Congressman Day.

For the Outrage on Tarsney.

DENVER, Col., June 26.—Gov. Waite has issued a proclamation reciting briefly the facts relating to the tar and feathering of Adjutant-General Tarsney, and offers a reward of $1,000, for the arrest and conviction of the criminals.

WEIGH THE BABY OFTEN

A VERY SIMPLE AND EASY TEST OF GROWTH.

When the Increase is Slight Put Baby on Lactated Food—It Has Saved the Lives of Thousands of Babies—What It Is.

Weighing the baby every week is an old-fashioned method of determining its health but there is no simpler way.

A healthy baby increases in weight very steadily. Any decrease is a warning that the little one is not properly nourished; the mother's milk is insufficient or is not healthful; or if an "artificial" food is used it does not meet the baby's requirements; the infant should be put on lactated food at once.

Lactated food is as "natural" as hunger. In it the combination of the necessary elements of pure, healthy mother's milk is accomplished.

Using pure milk sugar as a basis there is combined with it the richest gluten flour of wheat and oats, which by long subjection to high steam heat under pressure, and while in constant motion, has been perfectly cooked and made ready to be easily acted upon by the important addition of the pure malt extract.

It is safe, simple, invaluable food for infants, and they like it and thrive upon it and grow healthy and strong.

Thousands of thankful testimonials from fond parents are sent every year to the manufacturers of this food. Here is one from Mrs. L. W. Hills of Riverside, Ill., the mother of the bouncing boy whose picture appears above:

"Lactated food saved my baby's life. At the age of five weeks I put him on artificial food. Not being successful with the first brand I discontinued that and tried condensed milk; that did not seem to contain nourishment enough, and at the age of five months he was so poor and sickly that I had no idea I would him. Reading of lactated food I gave it a trial. He began to improve within a few days and has continued to do so. We have not given him a drop of medicine since using lactated food. I consider it saved his life, and whenever my boy is praised for his bright healthy looks I never fail to tell his admirers that he is a lactated food baby."

WHAT TO DO WITH EZETA

A Question Perplexing the State Department.

Demands That He Be Allowed To Go Aboard a Merchant Steamer Flying the Stars and Stripes, Otherwise He Will Not Leave His Present Asylum, on the Bennington.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The state department is again in a quandary over the case of Gen. Antonio Ezeta, the late vice-president of Salvador, who is a refugee on board the United States gunboat Bennington at La Libertad. Gen. Ezeta, in requesting Capt. Thomas, of the Bennington, to allow him to leave the ship makes the demand that he be placed on board a Pacific Mail steamship. Capt. Thomas has wired the navy department of the request and asked for instructions, and Secretary Herbert placed the matter in the hands of Secretary Gresham.

While Mr. Gresham is perfectly willing to allow Ezeta to leave the Bennington, as was done in the case of twelve of Ezeta's fifteen companions, who had requested release, he does not know what to do in view of the demand of the late vice-president that he be placed on board the mail steamer, which flies the stars and stripes, and Capt. Thomas has accordingly been cabled to hold Ezeta until further orders.

Ezeta will not leave the Bennington without being placed on the steamer or being allowed to board it, and the question to be settled is whether action by the United States to this end would not be a violation of the rights of asylum and an affront to the Salvadorian government.

It is supposed that Ezeta wants to come to the United States.

Will Lecture in America.

LONDON, June 26.—T. D. Sullivan, anti Parnellite M. P., for West Donegal, has agreed to lecture in the United States and Canada next season.

Soldiers Running Pumps at Adrain.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 26.—Members of the national guard are running the pumps at Adrain to supply their camp with water. The citizens held an indignation meeting in consequence, claiming that the guard have no right to run the pumps, for while they are supplying water to the camp they are also pumping out water that accumulates in the mine. There is said to be a spring in the camp and a well not far distant.

The Alleged Dynamiter Indicted.

PATERSON, N. J., June 26.—The grand jury has indicted Charles A. Doebbler, the alleged dynamiter, upon charges of sending threatening letters to Jacob Weidmann and placing three pounds of dynamite at the house of William Strange, the silk manufacturer.

Serious Grievance of These Strikers.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 26.—About 30 back-boys in the Columbia mill are on a strike on account of being ordered to sweep out the mule alleys four times a day. The spinners in this mill will be forced to come out if the back-boys stay out.

Postoffice Safe Blown Open.

LEWISBURG, Pa., June 26.—Burglars entered the Mifflinburg postoffice about 3 a. m. and blew open the safe. They secured $200 in cash and some postage stamps. Four men were seen running out of town. The burglars have not been captured.

Juch-Wellman Wedding.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 26.—Miss Emma Juch and Francis L. Wellman, assistant district attorney of New York city, were married in St. Andrew's church here. The ceremony was most elaborate.

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

IF

The Daily Press were not a good thing, do you suppose so many merchants would advertise in it?

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 26, 1894

The successful man makes circumstances, the unsuccessful are governed by them.

The quickest, cheapest and most effectual block that can be used to check a declining business is advertising.

Jacob Schultels of Elizabeth, formerly a well-known Plainfielder, called at the Daily Press office today to set at rest the report that he was dead. Mr. Schultels is very much alive, and is the kind of a citizen that an appreciative community hopes may live forever.

The Press is happy to record, on the authority of Assignee E. R. Pope, that C. Schepflin & Co. have satisfactorily settled with their creditors and will continue business in their own name. This is good news for the business world, of which Mr. Schepflin is a highly honored member.

The Fourth-of-July special holiday number of the New York Ledger is a publication of unrivaled beauty and interest. The cover has a beautiful girl waving an American flag from a window as a decoration. The contents of the number make a strong appeal to patriotic Americans. The Ledger is now an illustrated paper of the first class, and with its various departments forms the best and cheapest illustrated family paper published in America.

Mr. Stanbury of Scotch Plains possesses full development of the artistic instinct, as is demonstrated every month by his publication of that superior periodical, Sun and Shade. Each issue contains superb photogravures of famous paintings, landscapes, portraits, or other bits of beauty. The latest issue opens with an admirable likeness of the immortal poet-author of "Reveries of a Bachelor", Donald G. Mitchell, and gives exquisite landscapes, marines, and faces. The pictures need no letter text; they speak for themselves. Sun and Shade is a favorite wherever known; its address is 137 West 23d street, New York.

$10,000 MAUSOLEUM.

To Be Built of Stone for the Warren Ackerman Estate.

W. H. Smith & Co., whose stoneyard is at Warren and Pearl streets, were yesterday granted the contract to construct a $10,000 mausoleum for the body of Warren Ackerman, to be built of the same stone as composes the outer walls of the First Baptist Church, from Washington Valley. The interior will be of onyx.

ARRESTS FOR GAMBLING

THE FIRST MADE TODAY, AND OTHERS TO FOLLOW.

Peter Schneiderwind Accused of Being the Keeper of the House—He Demands a Jury Trial—Perfidy of the Police in Securing Evidence—Who Will Be Next?

The talk of the town last night was the announcement, exclusively made in The Daily Press, that arrests for gambling were about to be made on complaints made by the police as a result of their own skilful detective work.

The first of the arrests for gambling exclusively predicted in The Press last evening, was made this morning, and others are to follow. On a complaint sworn out in the City Court by Policeman Cooney, Sergeant Kiely served a warrant on Brakeman Peter Schneiderwind.

Schneiderwind employed Attorney Winfield S. Angleman to defend him at his hearing before City Judge Coddington at 10 this morning. The judge read the complaint. It charged Schneiderwind with having kept a gambling den Saturday, June 23, at 214 Watchung avenue.

The accused pleaded not guilty, and asked to see the complaint. When he had examined it he thought he had discovered a flaw in the proceedings. He declared that the complaint was not the one that he had seen earlier in the day, and demanded explanation why the one read had been substituted.

Judge Coddington informed him that the complaint just read was not the warrant that had been served. Peter then remarked again that he was not guilty and started to make further assertions. He stopped short on second thought, however, and simply demanded a jury trial. The time was fixed at 2 next Monday afternoon.

The evidence in the case was secured by the police at considerable personal risk. They had to occupy such a position in spotting the men that had they been discovered by the gamblers they would probably have been shot for burglars.

OBITUARY.

Henry Anthon Thorne, Jr.

Despite the expectation that the end was near, the news of the death of Henry Anthon Thorne, Jr., yesterday, was a shock to his family and friends.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thorne of LaGrande avenue, he was well known and esteemed in Plainfield; and in the Adirondacks, where he had spent the past few years, he was beloved by guides and visitors alike. He was the youngest manager in the mountains, being in charge of the Mountain Lodge House. Consumption was his disease, and though the climate helped him it only prolonged and could not save his life.

A short time ago he failed so that he was removed to a farm-house in Mooer's Forks, Clinton County, where the higher altitude helped him. His mother and sister Miss Kate were sent for last week, and were with him at the last. His sorrowing father will go to Mooer's Forks tonight. The funeral will be in that place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, and the burial will be there. His devoted young wife is almost distracted with grief.

J. Ran. Dunn.

The death of J Ran Dunn, aged 29, only son of Letter-Carrier E. T. Dunn, occurred at his home on West Fourth street at 1 this morning. He had long been a sufferer from consumption, and had spent some time in North Carolina search of health. For the past year, however, he had been resting quietly at home.

Sunday morning at 2 he had a severe hemorrhage, and it was feared that the end was nigh. Everything was done for his comfort, and death came peacefully.

Before he died, he had a vision of his sister, and said Jennie was calling to him. This experience is a comforting memory for the family.

Decedent was a member of Trinity Reformed Church and a Christian Endeavorer. He was thoroughly a Christian. His society connection was with the J. O U. A. M.

The funeral will be from Trinity Church Thursday afternoon at 3:30, and interment will be in Hillside Cemetery, beside the departed sister of the decedent, Mrs. F. S. Dunn.

Funeral of Miss Tunison.

The funeral services of Miss Edith M. Tunison were held from her late residenbe 115 Elmwood place yesterday afternoon at 2:30. There was a very large attendance of friends and relatives.

Rev. Cornelius S henck, the decedent's pastor, conducted the services assisted by Rev. Herbert Munson, of Monroe Avenue Chapel.

Mr. Schenck spoke very highly of the young woman, telling of her Christian life and character, and of her faithfulness in attendance, when able, upon the services of the church. He also testified to her worth as a Christian Endeavorer and of her unceasing efforts in that work.

Rev. Mr. Munson made a most impressive prayer which touched each heart.

The floral offerings were numerous and very choice. They were: a wreath of white roses from her Sunday-school class; a beautiful bunch of pink and white pinks from a friend; another very pretty wreath of roses from two friends; and several bunches of cut flowers from friends.

Interment was made in Somerville beside the graves of her father and brothers, all of whom died in Plainfield, excepting one brother who was killed in a railroad accident.

A large beautiful pillow of carnations, smilax and roses, was given by the Trinity Christian Endeavor Society.

The pall-bearers were: J. H. Van-Winkle, Jr., Henry Seader, Fred Smith and Julius Williams all from the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church.

TALE OF A TICKER.

THIS WAS A CASE WHERE THE WATCH CAME BACK.

Missing Since Last Spring, and Recovered Through the Innocent Question "What Time Is It?"—Ask Randolph Now, What's o'Clock, and He Says "Mine Don't Go".

John F. Hoagland, the 18-year-old son of Augustus E. Hoagland of Steiner place, has recovered a stolen watch in a curious way.

He participated in a game of base-ball with a crowd of other boys of the borough last March. After the game when he put on the coat, which he had left some distance away with those of other players, he missed a silver hunting-case watch which had been given to him by his father. No trace of the watch was found until last Friday afternoon.

John was on Park avenue then when he thought he saw Wm. B. Randolph, a colored barber employed by Edwin B. Maynard, have the watch in his hand. After a while he asked Randolph what time it was. The colored man was obliging, and John identified his lost property. Randolph said the watch was his and refused to give it up.

Sergeant Kiely was called by John. He went to the barber's shop. Randolph said he had owned the watch some time. John then told the peculiarities by which he could tell his property: His initials were both on the case, and on the works, the hands were held down by a home-made brass washer, and a brass pin had been used in replacing a steel axle for one of the cogwheels.

The watch corresponded to the description and to the number named, except that the initials on the outside had been defaced and the letter "B" cut in their place. Randolph accordingly cheerfully surrendered it to its owner. He said he had obtained it in a trade with an unknown white man. He's glad the owner has his property, and sorry he's out a watch.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

FRENCH CRYSTAL PORTRAITS.

AN ENTIRELY NEW PROCESS.

This is the only artistic photograph which can portray the living presence of yourself and friends, and it is something entirely new.

No oil or oil paints used in its construction. These pictures are executed with liquid chemical colors which are twenty times as powerful as oil paints; they are then crystalized on single convex glass by a new process, which renders them exceedingly beautiful and as light as porcelain. They are absolutely imperishable and are warranted not to spot, blister or turn yellow with age.

This process will prevent old pictures from decay, and arrest their fading and growing dingy and yellow, as no air can possibly get to them.

Pictures of departed friends copied and enlarged. Terms reasonable. Prices:

75C., $1.50, $2, $3, $4 AND $6.

PLAINFIELD DISCIPLES.

POOR IN PURSE, BUT RICH IN FAITH AND WORKS.

All the World Watching Their Struggles Against Worldly Obstacles, and Admiring the Pluck with which They Strive to Surmount Adversity—Hampered by Debt, But Growing Steadily in Numbers—Light Ahead.

Rev. B. B. Tyler in the last number of The Christian Standard has this to say of one of Plainfield's churches:

It may not be known to the brotherhood, but it ought to be, that there is one live congregation of Disciples in the State of New Jersey. This body has its abiding place in the city of Plainfield, a beautiful suburb of New York containing about 15,000 inhabitants. Not more than about two years have passed since the incorporation of this Church of Christ under the laws of the State of New Jersey, but already the number of names is 130, of whom not less than 40 are heads of families. These dear brethren are served in the pastoral office by Brother B. W. Hand, who before his identification with the Disciples enjoyed good standing and full fellowship with the Baptist brethren. His reputation is without a cloud. His earnestness, devotion and zeal are worthy of commendation.

The courage of the Disciples in Plainfield is such as would, if known, excite the applause of their brethren in all parts of the United States. They believe in Jesus, and they love Him with a passionate devotion. While they are poor in this world's goods, they are rich in faith, and in love, and in good works.

A neat but plain house of worship has been erected which, before the commercial depression and financial disturbance through which we are passing was, with the ground, easily worth and would have brought under the hammer $5,000. There is a debt of $2,500 which in their poverty these good men and women are unable to liquidate. Recently they have been in danger of losing their property. Their pastor tells me that at the present time the outlook is more encouraging. The probabilities are that they will be able, at least for a time, to retain their church home, but if there is a band anywhere worthy of sympathy and immediate financial assistance, it is this company of the Lord's children. I cannot express in language extravagantly strong the Christian character, and moral and spiritual worth of these members of the household of the faith.

If these lines should arrest the attention of any person or persons who can in any way, in smaller or larger sums, by donation or loan, render assistance, you know my address, and I will be more than pleased to receive and receipt for anything that you may choose to send for the Disciples in Plainfield.

The brethren in New York and Brooklyn have about all that they can do to keep their heads above water in these troublous times, but they will do all that they can in rendering assistance in this case. Let there be, all around, an exhibition of real, hearty, old-fashioned Christian fellowship. "To do good and to communicate, forget not, for with such sacrifices God is well pleased."

The June issue of the New York Disciples Mentor says:

A meeting of the Board of Managers of the Disciples Union was held Monday evening, May 28, to consider the condition and needs of the congregation of Disciples in Plainfield, N. J., of which B. W. Hand is pastor.

The following facts were elicited: The church was incorporated about two years ago. The present number of communicants is 130. There are two well-attended prayer meetings each week in which the brethren freely participate. The Society of Christian Endeavor organized last January has more than 40 active members. The church property—chapel and ground—is valued at $5,000. There are debts aggregating $2,500. These debts are distributed as follows: To the estate of Mr Stewart, deceased, which is being settled up, $2,000; promissory notes, $310, and to B. W. Hand, $275.

If $700 can be raised for the Stewart estate by the first of July, the remaining $1,300 can be carried for an indefinite period of time. The brethren in Plainfield will care for the notes. Bro. Hand says that he can get along without the amount due him.

The question now is, what can we do to assist these disciples of our Lord? They are poor in purse, but rich in faith, courage and zeal. They deserve assistance. Will you give this matter attention? Think about it. Pray about it. Talk about it. Will you give something toward this $700? Can you loan the amount of money needed on good security? If not, do you know of any person who can do so? Will you try to find some one who can place $2,500 where it will bring a good rate of interest and be secure?

This church in Plainfield is the only incorporated body of Disciples in the State of New Jersey. It cannot be that we will stand by with idle hands and witness, with indifference, the heroic efforts of these good men and women. Their cause is more than simply worthy. It is the cause for which the Son of God died.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

Miss Lillie Staats spent Saturday with relatives in Plainfield.

William G. Holton Council, J. O. U. A. M., meets to elect officers this evening.

Dr. Brakeley makes the boys' eyes sparkle by his fine display of fireworks.

The Borough Commissioners will meet in regular session next Monday evening.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ida Fletcher and Robert Giddis, both of Dunellen.

Mrs. Caroline E. Johnson of Newark spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Conover.

The hardware store of Howard Giles does a thriving trade in screens to keep out the flies.

Mr. Slape, who has been very ill for some time past, is no better, and much anxiety is felt.

Miss Rosie Haynes will spend a few days with Miss Minnie Gulick of Park place, Plainfield.

Clarence Field and B. Williams of Bayonne had a pleasant time with friends in the borough, Sunday.

The Foresters held their regular meeting last evening, which was largely attended and very interesting.

Miss May Brown, who has been visiting her uncle, Eugene Runyon, has returned to her home in Philadelphia.

The Young Americas of Dunellen were beaten in a game of ball by the Bound Brooks, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 12 to 10.

Contractor John Apgar and his son Newton are in Sewaren erecting three new houses for the New Jersey Land Improvement Company.

A novel sight in the borough is the apple tree on the property belonging to James Craig. The tree is laden with blossoms and small apples.

Robert Yarnall of Philadelphia and Fred Wilkinson of Princeton rode to Dunellen Sunday on their wheels. They made a short visit among friends.

A meeting of the citizens of Dunellen will be held in Friendship Hall this week, to adopt measures whereby illegal liquor-selling may be stopped in West Dunellen.

A reception was given to the graduates and students of the Dunellen Schools Monday evening in Lincoln School Hall. The time was pleasantly spent in sociability and music.

The fresh stone just put on the roads in the borough was rolled down yesterday afternoon with a heavy roller, and is getting in excellent condition. There is a bad piece of road between Evona and Dunellen that should be attended to.

A funny story is told of a young man who does not live many miles from Dunellen. One evening recently he called on his best girl who lives in this vicinity. The evening was warm, and he seemed to suffer more than usual from the heat. He met a few friends on the way, and they looked curiously at him, at the same time enjoying a hearty laugh. The young man did not see the joke until some minutes later when he discovered that he had his father's suit of clothes on. The young women thought surely he must be in love and had lost several pounds in weight.

The election of officers in William G. Holton Council, J. O. U. A. M., last evening, resulted as follows:

Councilor—Ambrose B. Ryno.
Vice-Councilor—Henry Garretson.
Financial Secretary—Harry Gaskill.
Recording Secretary—Harvey Drake.
Warden—Fred Gaskill.
Conductor—Mahlon Dayton.
Outside Sentinel—C. E. Kelley.
Inside Sentinel—Frank Randolph.
Trustee—Z. P. Osmun.

The installation will take place next Monday evening.

One candidate was initiated last evening.

New Market.

Eva Nelson has a bicycle.

Mrs. Emma Shattle of Westfield was in town Sunday.

Raspberries are very plentiful in this neighborhood.

George W. Day and family spent Saturday evening in town.

Mr. Leonard and son have been spending a few days in New York city.

Will Manning and family of Plainfield spent Sunday at Ephraim Randolph's.

Rev. Frank Fletcher baptized a convert in the New Market Baptist Church Sunday.

Philip Mitz and father spent Sunday in Elizabeth with the latter's son-in-law, James Day.

The Fourth of July prizes will be on exhibition in Day's store, the middle of the week.

Lloyd Nelson has placed a lamp-post in front of his barnyard gate, a good public improvement.

Mrs. Josiah has been on the sick list for the past few days, and is now feeling somewhat better.

Frank Nelson and Stanley Day, Jr., purchased the fireworks Saturday for the 4th of July celebration.

Herman Dantz last evening celebrated the forty-fifth anniversary of his birthday. Friendship Cornet Band played.

Miss Josephine Calhoun and Miss Chamberlain, teachers in the Peddie Institute, Hightstown, are visiting Mrs. Calhoun.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad will next Monday have a change in time-table. Four more trains are to be added, a great convenience for commuters.

C. T. Rogers's house is now completed, and it is a credit to the painter, George Ryno of South Plainfield, who manipulated the brush so artistically.

About twenty young men from Dunellen were bathing in the lake Friday evening. They are not entirely noiseless, and it would be to their credit to use less profane language while women are boating.

Friendship Band, on account of the heat Saturday evening, was forced to play out of doors. Mr. Day gave them an invitation to play on his lawn, which was accepted, and a fine time was had. Lemonade and cigars were given them, and were highly appreciated. It is hoped that a clear Fourth there may be, and the music will be sweet, do you see.

The party held at John Powers's Thursday evening was an entire success. About thirty invited guests were present. During the evening some of the Plainfield boys came near having a tussle with the New Market boys; but the party passed off all right, and a few of the boys from this place landed in town after sunrise. They say they had to start John off on the milk route, and it was to their credit to help him get things ready.

THE BOW-WOW HUBBUB.

A TART DOG OWNER BARKS BACK TO WESTFIELD'S DRAKE.

Bicycles and Horses More Dangerous Than Canines, Says This Correspondent—And What's the Matter with Collaring the Favored Dogs of the Aristocracy?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Here's a man that is out for canine rights, against human cussedness, and is not ashamed of it, either; and moreover claims to be a good citizen, and—without laying myself open to a pharisaical charge—a Christian also. A. A. Drake has failed most miserably to sustain any argument in favor of his "latest robbery" by our city fathers. "Latest robbery" is a strong term, but unjust taxation, we have been taught, is robbery, at least so our revolutionary sires claimed in regard to a certain tax, and the same theory has also been aired—when it suited them—by both the greater and lesser powers of the present generation, and no one has declaimed against them.

For the sake of a few, ill-bred, ill-treated, vicious brutes, the owners of well-bred, well-treated, kindly brutes, have got to pay an enormous tax.

Now I am the owner of a dog—one of the latter kind; and I do not object to paying a reasonable tax; I think it just and fair that dogs should be registered; but surely this is also licensing them; or, vice versa, licensing is also registering. I cannot discern the difference. Then why should we have to submit to our dogs being doubly taxed, also lettered, labeled and muzzled, to get rid of the few cure with all their "Drakeful adjectives" that are harbored around town? Yet we have had a dog catcher for a year on our staff, and he was unable to discern them, or there were not any to be found.

It is not to be expected that Mr. Frisbee could go down to Fanwood and Kahway to catch the curs that are such eyesores to Mr. Drake. We, Mr. Drake, are only concerned with Plainfield; you seem to have forgotten that. In his earnest desire to protect the dog and dog owner, Mr. Drake, with his knowledge of the parties that kept vicious dogs, knowing them to be so, would have shown a little of that good citizenship and Christianity that he speaks of—not saying anything about humanity—if he had informed of those said parties and brought them to law. I have been in Plainfield a few years, and have yet to see the lame, blind, or helpless, placed hors de combat by a dog. I have seen them placed so by runaway pleasure horses, and bicycles, but never a suggestion have I heard that they should, by reason of it, be taxed as nuisances. The whole issue raised in favor of this taxation is absurd. The tax is unjust; all unprejudiced people allow it, and it should therefore be decreased.

Dogs are a source of protection and pleasure to many a householder, and to many of them this tax falls heavily. There is no personal property taxed so high; in fact, the tax is unprecedented. There is great talk of severely enforcing the shooting clause, of collarless dogs. Let us hope that the man, or men, deputized, will make his first sphere of operation around the richer portions of our city. They will find plenty of our unmuzzled and collarless dogs there. Our dog catcher was suspiciously lax, catching dogs around that neighborhood, and he could have made a rich harvest. I wonder, and lots of us wonder, why he did n't. Were they favored canines like the engine-house dog? W. E. G.

TO DISPOSE OF MUSIC HALL.

The Association to Be Dissolved by Agreement of the Stockholders.

The last meeting of the stockholders of Music Hall Association was held yesterday. More than two-thirds of the shares were voted either by owners present or by proxies. It was formally decided to dissolve the Association.

Another stockholders meeting will not be necessary. A certificate of dissolution will be procured from the Secretary of State, of New Jersey, and after it has been advertised for four weeks the association will cease to exist. The directors will dispose of the property.

Will Get Costs Too.

Vincent W. Baker obtained judgment for $2 35 costs in Justice Newcorn's Court yesterday against John V. Beekman. Baker sued on contract and received the principal out of court.

Spencer Divorce Case.

JERSEY CITY, June 26.—Mrs. Fanny J. Spencer applied to Vice-Chancellor Van Fleet for counsel fees in divorce suit brought by General Bird W. Spencer. She claimed that he owned a large amount of real estate. The answer denied this, because the property belongs to a corporation, in which General Spencer is merely a stockholder, and is also heavily mortgaged. General Spencer says he supports all the children and pays his wife $70 a month. The vice-chancellor allowed Mrs. Spencer $150 and said it might be increased if circumstances warranted. General Spencer's counsel was also given an order to make additional charges of adultery, opposing counsel being given thirty days in which to file an answer.

Verdict in the Delaney Inquest.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 26.—At the Delaney inquest Wm. J. and Charles R. Bartholomew, brothers of the accused, testified to the latter's movements after the shooting. The testimony was then closed and the jury after a short deliberation brought in a verdict that Delaney came to his death from a pistol shot fired by George A. Bartholomew with premeditated design. Mrs. Thorner and Mrs. Bartholomew, wife of the prisoner, were not competent to testify before the coroner, as they are accessories to the crime, but may testify at the trial.

Socialists Want Universal Suffrage.

VIENNA, June 26.—A meeting of socialists numbering 25,000 was held Sunday. The object was to declare in favor of universal suffrage. The speakers urged that the agitation be continued until the demand is conceded. It was the intention of the socialists to have a procession through the principal streets of the city, but this was prevented by the police. A slight conflict occurred and two socialists were arrested. The crowd attempted to rescue the prisoners, and the police were obliged to use their swords and revolvers to retain the two men.

APOSTROPHE.

Betsie Blossom! Tall and lithesome!
Maiden of the nut-brown hair!
Maiden of the pure, white forehead,
Eyes so tender—face so fair!
Blossom of a stem immortal!
Soul thou art, undying sweet,
That shall tread through countless aeons
On the paths where angels meet.

Betsie Blossom! Glee and gladness
Go thy gliding steps along!
From thy lips, so red, bewitching,
Falls the ripple of a song—
Fall the fine thoughts of the ages—
Fall those love-thoughts, said apart,
Which, betimes, when thou art absent
Whisper softly to my heart.

Do I love thee, Betsie Blossom?
Does the robin love her nest?
Does the blue sky love the cloudlet
Whose soft hand has touched his breast?
Does the zephyr love the tree-top?
Does the moonbeam love the mead?
Yes, I love thee, Betsie Blossom,
And my love is love indeed. R.

WEST END NOTES.

Walter Manning of Grant avenue is suffering with a crushed finger.

John Carney of Pond's will spend a few weeks with his parents in Worcester, Mass.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will hold their regular weekly meeting tonight in Hope Chapel.

A large number of boys were chased by the police Saturday afternoon, but no one was caught.

John Hyler of West Front street has received a dozen nice laying fowls from the country.

The Crescents were defeated in a game of ball in Somerville Saturday by the score of 25 to 5.

Sixteen loads of ice are being taken from the large ice-house on West Front street every day.

Mr. Houston of West Front street has erected a new barn alongside of the railroad opposite Pond's.

Mrs Gray has returned from her visit to Bayonne, where she was spending a week with her daughter.

A new sign has been placed at the corner of Grant avenue and Front street, which reads, "West End Park".

Mrs. Batchelor of Spooner avenue has gone to spend a few weeks with friends in Rhode Island and Massachuetts.

Mr. Ayers's brothers of Bound Brook have opened a candy store at the corner of Spooner avenue and Second street.

Mr. Bocap of West Front street has made a great change in the water course of Green brook opposite Grant avenue.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company have connected the water in Elmwood place and have extended the main up past the Bocap property.

William Nickles, of Potter's, while entering a grocery store on Second street, slipped and fell through a screen door, and severely cut his face.

John Simpson, of Stebbins place, while walking in the garden barefoot, stepped on a rake prong, which ran into his foot and caused a severe wound.

A statue clock is being given in Bound Brook to the highest bowler till July 30. The highest score was 150. and A. Muir beat the score by 25 pins, making it 175.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Philadelphia, met with an accident and returned home with his collar bone fractured.

The new car No. 6 was received yesterday at Potter's Press Works switch. It is painted the same as the Yellow Jacket. The motors are the latest style, the T. & H. Edison motor.

The report that J. Smalley, the butcher of South Second street, had run away from his wife is false, as she received a telegram from him stating that he would be home in a few days, and that he had special business out West.

—Several taps are being made in the water pipe on Elmwood place today.

"I OWE MY LIFE TO YOU."

A. Wilton, N. J., Girl's Experience With a Noted Massachusetts Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Life is never more precious than in the heyday of youth, when every dream is a promise, and every thought an inspiration.

It is natural that Miss Gertrude Sickler, a young lady who lives at Wilton, N. J., is grateful for the great boon of life.

She suffered terribly with suppressed and painful menstruations. The doctors could only prevent her from having fits each month by dosing her with morphine.

At last, when she was completely prostrated, her father got her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which at once gave her relief.

That did what the doctors could not do. It cured her. She has no trouble now, and no dread of the coming month. "I owe my life to you," she writes to Mrs. Pinkham. "Oh, if other suffering women could try your valuable medicine they would bless you as I do."

CAPE MAY.

Splendid New Railroad to America's Oldest Watering Place.

Historically, and in point of natural advantages and attractiveness, Cape May is the most important seaside resort in the United States. Its career as a sanitarium and pleasuring place dates back to the closing years of the last century, and, until a comparatively recent period, it was virtually without a rival—even Long Branch, in its palmiest days, conceding its superior prestige. For many decades prior to the Civil War it was regarded as the Summer capitol of the nation, and upon its broad beach were gathered each Summer the great political and social notabilities of the country, the intellect and the beauty of the North and the South In the more immediate past it has been comparatively unheard of, a fact due partially to the inherent conservatism which has always distinguished it, but more largely to the distraction of popular attention to newer and more vociferously "boomed" resorts along the coast

Now, however, it is believed that Cape May is about to resume its ancient prestige and reassert its proud eminence among seaside watering-places. This revivification of the grand old resort is anticipated as a direct result of the increased and improved railway facilities which will be supplied by the new South Jersey Railroad, just being completed, and we may expect to hear a great deal of Cape May during the Summer.

The South Jersey Railroad extends from Winslow Junction, on the Reading Railroad's Atlantic City line, to Cape May, with branches to Sea Isle City, Ocean City, Avalon, Wildwood and other resorts It has been in operation to Sea Isle City for nearly a year, and was opened to Cape May Saturday, June 23, the remaining points to be reached later in the year. The new line to Cape May is described as "straight as string and level as a table", substantially constructed, with a view to the highest speeds, and materially shorter than any other road to the Cape. The equipment is all new. Hard-coal locomotives of the speediest type, and cars of novel and remarkably elegant construction, will compose the flying express trains, and it is promised that a very considerable shortening of the time will be effected. The Philadelphia stations of the new road are the Reading Railroad ferries, at Chestnut Street and South Street wharves, and through tickets to Cape May by the South Jersey Railroad route will be sold at the principal stations of the Reading, Baltimore & Ohio, and New Jersey Central Railroads.

Recording Secretary—Joseph Sheppard.
The installation will take place July 10.

—A regular meeting of Minerva Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be held tomorrow evening.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

Famous Filemaker.

UNQUESTIONABLY the greatest high jumping horse in the world is Filemaker a big bay thoroughbred who stands 17 hands, 1 inch high. His official record is 7 feet, 4½ inches His rider in all his record breaking jumps is woman. Mme. Marantette. She is also his owner, and boasts of the possession of the highest jumping pony in the world, Jupiter. He is a fat little fellow that stands only 48 inches high, but jumps 5 feet, 7½ inches high. Evergreen, the handsomest horse in the world, and shows 12 distinct gaits, is also owned by the great horse woman. She is traveling this Summer with the Adam Forepaugh Shows and will be here with them when they exhibit, July 6.

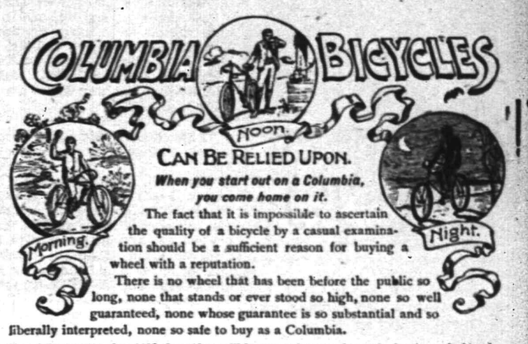
COLUMBIA BICYCLES



CAN BE RELIED UPON.
When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.
The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.
There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.
With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

LEDERER'S DRY GOODS HOUSE,

115 West Front Street.

What we have left in the sunshade and parasol line will go at cost and below. We are cutting prices on millinery goods; on anything you select we reduce the price 10 to 20 per cent. We are offering a splendid value in the way of a 50c summer corset and an elegant one for $1. There is a line of ladies' gauze vests at 25c; some perfect, some imperfect, otherwise would be 40c. The hosiery department at all times offers excellent values; all of our hosiery comes to us direct from the mill, thereby saving our customers the wholesaler's profit. Our 25c grade of black hose is the very best that can be obtained; hosiery as low as 5c per pair.

Men's and young men's straw hats, newest shapes, 15 to 25 per cent. less than the regular hat stores get; men's Hermsdorf black half hose 12½c; men's 50c outing shirts, the best that can be made for the price. We have better grades for more money. Outing shirts as low as 25c.

The Overton Claim.

CHAPTER XIV.

Black Mammy was wrathful over Dare's going away.

"'Pears ter me lik' marster done clean lose he min, hit do, now, I tell ye," she said to Suse. "All de darter he eber had went erway f'm here rosy as de flowers an come back dead. Ye'd think now, wouldn' ye, he'd 'member dat an not let dis yere po' chile go rushin off ter 'struction wid her aunt lik' po' Miss Margaret done. I ain't got not no consait er dat Miss Townley nohow. Look lik' ter me she's made outen poplar bark an yaller dirt, so stringy she is, an all off de same piece, skin an ha'r an eyes. 'Sides, f'm de looks er dat dar ca'idge an dem mules, dey mus' be po'ly bad off fer money dar at her house, Exeter, 'dough I 'members 'twas er fine place when young marster married 'is wife dar. She didn' live wid 'er sister, but de Townleys wanted ter make er splurge fer de weddin. Metty proud dee was ter git mixed up wid de Overtons; but, sho's you's black, Dare better had staid at Ridgeley. I'm 'stonished at marster. Dat 'oman 'on't do ter tie to."

Dare had no such misgivings. Indeed it was the eager delight in her eyes that had overborne at the last her grandfather's scruples, his distrust of this so long neglectful aunt. Then, too, Mrs. Townley's thrust had weight. Sure as Major Overton was of himself, it had roused deep down in his consciousness a question as to whether he, who was so nearly through the burden and battle of life, had the right by thus thrusting aside either surrender or compromise to make poverty the portion of his one grandchild. Truly the claim had wasted his substance, drained his purse as it had his life. He had parted with everything save a life interest in Ridgeley. If he should die tomorrow, Dare would be homeless, penniless, except for the few hundreds her mother had brought, and which remained to her child. Somehow the old man had thought but little heretofore of the girl's future. Indeed, wrapped in this legal coil, he had hardly noted her growing up or his own whitening hair.

It had come as a shock to him to find her a woman loved, asked in marriage of his enemy and showing that she knew what was due her race. He could not think of that day without a glow at the heart. She had shown his spirit no less than his blood, this unregarded, unwelcome child, and he began to love her, to think pitifully forward as to what must be her portion.

If she could marry, marry as became her station, not just yet, of course, but in two or three years. To do that she must know somewhat of the ways, the lives of other women of the big world outside that never came near her home. She might go with her aunt for a little space. Later he would take her to the capital, where it was likely he would need to spend a large part of the winter, and where a few faithful friends would make her welcome for his sake.

So, by the workings of most diverse causes, Dare was domiciled at Exeter, there to stay for the next three months. Though the outside was a picture of weather beaten desolation, the inside seemed to Dare's home bred eye fine enough for a palace, for the big square drawing room was hung with silk, and all the floors were laid with thick Persian carpets in dull delicious hues. Faded damask, silk lined, hung at the windows over carefully mended lace draperies, all and several mementos of the refurbishing wherewith Eton Townley had made ready for his bride.

Most of the rooms overran with heavy carved mahogany, but Dare's especial domain was free of its gloomy splendor. It was cool and white and dainty, with a bare, polished floor and a smother of fresh dimity over everything—in fact, so nearly the counterpart of her own room at Ridgeley that she felt at once at home.

She nodded pertly to her image in the odd little swinging mirror, saying, with head aside and uplifted finger:

"Miss Overton, you must mind your p's and q's. If you disgrace your Aunt Mel, you'll be sent home tomorrow, and you know you want to see a heap more of this place. You look well enough—that blue lawn is becoming. It would be quite more so if your face wasn't so much less white than the throat it shows. It's a pity you haven't got a ribbon and locket even, but be content with the roses for your hair and your breast and don't cry for gauds that are beyond you."

A tap at the door was followed by Mrs. Townley's entrance, with rather an anxious brow.

"I wondered whom you could be talking to. I heard you outside," she said, with a clearing countenance, going up to the smiling young figure that fronted her so full of eager pleasure.

"Oh, just to myself! I must talk sometimes, you see, and as I had nobody but mammy and Suse I got in a way of telling myself what I could not tell anybody else," Dare said, deftly encompassing a white rose with clustered geranium leaves and setting it to show against her white skin.

Mrs. Townley looked her critically over and asked:

"Dare, who taught you to dress?"

"The flowers, if I know how," Dare smiled. "Really, Aunt Mel, do I look nice? I tried not to make you ashamed of me."

"You have succeeded," Mrs. Townley said sententiously, "and I am glad, for we shall have a distinguished stranger to sup with us, maybe to stay several days."

"Indeed! Who is it, man or woman?" Dare asked, her hands above her head, settling in place a refractory curl.

Mrs. Townley half turned away as she answered:

"An English gentleman, one who will have a special interest for you, since he is the leader of the men who are trying so hard to buy what nobody seems to be able to sell—Overton's claim."

"Oh, how strange that I should see him! Aunt Mel, do you know, all those people, all the world outside, has seemed to me like a story book, a fairy story book at that. Now I can hardly make [illegible] believe [illegible] from

"You will find them rather more so. Let's go down now. I hear them riding up."

"Who are 'they'?" queried Dare.

"Mr. Cleve, the Englishman; Mr. Holtham, another Englishman, my boarder, of whom I spoke to you, and Mr. Hawkins. You ought to know him. He's the Fauntleroy attorney," Mrs. Townley said, leading the way down the wide oaken stairway.

Dare's cheeks grew hotly red.

"I have seen Mr. Hawkins," she murmured. "I hate him. I wish he was not here."

"He will not stay long, only till after supper. I will see to it that you are not annoyed by his presence," Mrs. Townley said soothingly. Dare stopped short on the lowermost stair, prisoner to an almost overpowering impulse to turn and flee, for in the door fronting her a man stood, devouring her girlish beauty with a gaze such as she had never till then encountered—a tall man, lithe and well made, with drooping lidded eyes, a beautiful, cruel mouth and the look of one unused to be gainsaid. At sight of her he had stopped short, even fallen back a pace from the threshold he was in the act of crossing. At his elbow a ruddy bronze personage was staring likewise, but with a round, innocent, blue eyed stare, wholly unlike the other's burning gaze. Between the two Hawkins peered furtively for a half second, then thrust himself forward, saying, with his best bow:

"The pleasure is mine. Mr. Cleve, this is my little niece, Dare Overton."

"Mrs. Townley, Holtham here is struck dumb or seems to be, so let me make known to you Mr. Cleve, whose money we hope to have for neighbor if it should turn out that we can't have him."

"Delighted, I'm sure," murmured Mr. Cleve, his eyes still upon Dare. Mrs. Townley put out a hand to him and said, with it still in his grasp:

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

ALL THE STRENGTH and virtue has sometimes "dried out," when you get pills in leaky wooden or pasteboard boxes. For that reason, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are sealed up in little glass vials, just the size and shape to carry about with you. Then, when you feel bilious or constipated, have a fit of indigestion after dinner, or feel a cold coming on, they're always ready for you.

They're the smallest, the pleasantest to take, and the most thoroughly natural remedy. With Sick or Bilious Headaches, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Dizziness, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach, and Bowels, they give you a lasting cure.

Headache; obstruction of nose; discharges falling into throat; eyes weak; ringing in ears; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility—these are some of the symptoms of Catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of the worst cases.—will cure you.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

CARNOT'S SUCCESSOR

To Be Selected at Versailles To-Day.

Indications that Casimir-Perier Will Be Elected—Disgraceful Row at a Meeting of Republican Deputies To Decide Upon a Candidate—Blows Exchanged and Inkstands Thrown About Freely—The Situation at Lyons Growing Worse—Many Houses of Italians Wrecked and Burned—Funeral of the Dead President To Take Place Sunday.

PARIS, June 27.—The public are being admitted to view the body of President Carnot to-day, and will be thereafter daily until the funeral takes place. The coffin, with the head slightly raised, has been placed in the middle of the room of the palace. A cushion covered with decorations lies at the feet of the corpse. The catafalque is square, sustained by four columns.

Immense crowds of people have visited the palace to-day to express their sympathies.

The cabinet ministers informed Mrs. Carnot of the arrangements which had been made for the funeral and also of the fact that the cabinet had designated next Sunday as the day for the burial. The services will begin in the cathedral of Notre Dame and conclude with the ceremony of depositing the body in the pantheon.

At Versailles an army of carpenters, upholsterers and others worked all last night getting the great assembly hall in readiness for occupancy to-day. The neglected committee rooms were fitted up, the old locks and hinges were cleaned and oiled and a general renovation effected throughout the building. Even the old cells were cleaned and put in order so that in the event of any of the members becoming refractory and the president of the national congress is obliged to place them under arrest there will be places in which to lock them up.

The police at St. Etienne have arrested three anarchists who are suspected of having had relations with Santo.

Disgraceful Scenes.

The meeting of the republican members of the senate and chamber of deputies last evening to select a candidate to be voted for at Versailles to-day for president was characterized throughout by an indescribable noise and continuous brawling. Deputies and senators shouted at the tops of their voices over one another's heads. Some demanded a vote without debate. Blows were exchanged by several members, and inkstands were thrown about freely.

Deputy Marc Sauzet, member for Ardeche, tried to stand upon the table and was pulled forcibly to the floor by M. Berteaux, member for Seine-et-Oise. Another member who tried to hide the ballot box was struck and thrown down. Finally some of the calmer members proposed a recess, and a motion to adjourn was carried.

A large number remained in the hall, and after a short period of quiet Senator de Verninac, who presided, asked whether the meeting desired to vote.

Conflict Provoked by Socialists.

The tumult was renewed immediately, and as it was impossible to restore order M. de Verninac declared the meeting closed and left the tribune. Free fighting ensued for fully a quarter of an hour. Eventually the hall was cleared. The conflict was provoked by the socialists and extreme radicals in order to prevent a decisive vote.

During the fight Deputy Humbert, socialist, seized the ballot-box in which vote was being taken, and, breaking it up, threw the pieces in the faces of his opponents. Under the circumstances a record of the vote was considered worthless.

Two hundred republicans met subsequently in the committee room, Deputy Deluno-Montaud presiding. Resolutions were adopted expressing the sorrow of the moderate members of the party that the plenary assemble had been prevented from accomplishing its purpose by such tumultuous scenes, and accusing the socialists of purposely obstructing the proceedings.

It was decided that the only resource was to go to Versailles without preparatory decisions as to the presidency, and that this course was likely to ensure the election of M. Casimir-Perier.

The socialist deputies had delegated MM. Jaures, Hugues, Jourde, Millerand, Grousset, Hovelacque and Pierre Richard to attend the plenary meeting and act in concert with advanced republican senators in the choice of a candidate who would not combat the socialists.

Later in the day three republican senatorial groups—the centre, the left republican and the unionist republican—met to chose a candidate for the presidency. A ballot was taken with this result:

Casimir-Perier, 144; Dupuy, 15; Brisson, 8; de Freycinet, 4; Arago, 2; Loubet, 2; Constans, 2; Cavaignac, 1.

No representatives of these groups attended the plenary meeting.

Deputy Sauzet, who was pulled off the table during the tumult, has challenged M. Berteaux to a duel. The seconds named by M. Sauzet have declined to act.

Casimir-Perier's Chances Improved.

The chances of M. Casimir-Perier are regarded as greatly helped by the dissensions in the ranks of the republican senators. It is expected that of the 880 votes cast on the first ballot to-day M. Casimir-Perier will receive 400. His supporters are confident that he will have at least 350 votes. Dupuy and Brisson together may possibly get 250.

If M. Casimir-Perier is not elected on the first ballot his chances will diminish thereafter, as the Dupuy faction are trying to induce Brisson's supporters to transfer their votes after the first ballot to a dark horse.

The election of an "unknown" is regarded, however, as improbable.

Santo Proud of His Work.

When the examining magistrate asked Santo whether he had a personal grievance against President Carnot, he replied:

"No, but he was a tyrant, and I killed him for that reason."

"How did you stab him?" asked the magistrate.

"I pushed aside the horse and cuirassier and advanced to the carriage. I had a dagger concealed in my sleeve. I only had to raise my hand. I aimed at the stomach and brought my arm down sharply, shouting 'long live anarchy.' The crowd rushed upon me and laid me prostrate. I was beaten mercilessly."

"Is the president dead?" asked Santo. As the magistrate made no reply the prisoner took it for granted that his victim was dead. He smiled, and raising his hand, imitated the act of the stabbing of the president with undisguised glee. The examination lasted four hours.

Italian Embassy Strongly Guarded.

The Cocarde's hoax to the effect that Ambassador Billot had been killed in Rome was the cause of numerous brawls on the boulevards last evening. The police reserves had to be called out to help preserve order. The Italian embassy and consulate is strongly guarded.

The radical and socialist republicans will hold a preliminary meeting in Versailles this morning to decide upon their course in the national assembly.

Situation at Lyons Growing Worse.

The situation in Lyons becomes worse every hour. Last evening a company of cavalry charged the rioters with sabres. A delegation from the chamber of commerce went to the prefecture and demanded that all necessary measures be taken to put a stop to the present troubles. The impotence of the officials causes general discontent. Many persons demand that a state of siege be proclaimed.

POLICE NEVER ON HAND.

Many Italian Shops in Lyons Gutted and Burned by Mobs.

LYONS, June 27.—Forty Italian shops in this city have been gutted and burned by the mobs. The police are either powerless to suppress the disorders or else are disinclined to do so. Anyway it is strange that they are never on hand or in force until the damage is done, though they have in every case had ample warning. Four rioters were killed by an explosion of petroleum in a store which they were sacking.

Italians Fleeing from France.

ROME, June 27.—Many Italian workingmen who were driven out of Marseilles, Lyons and Grenoble, are returning to Italy. They tell of outrageous brutalities committed by unreasoning French mobs. They declare that many Italians in French towns have been wounded and that some have died of their injuries, but that the authorities are concealing the facts. Dispatches on the subject are being actively exchanged between Rome and Paris. The French authorities express regret that outrages have occurred, and advise a closer co-operation of the French and Italian police against the anarchists.

Token of Sympathy Acknowledged.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The chamber of commerce of this city has received the following cablegram from Paris:

"The chamber of commerce of Paris addresses this brotherly thanks to the chamber of commerce of the state of New York for the precious sympathy tendered upon this occasion of the cruel bereavement that has afflicted our country.

"DELAUNAY VELLEAILLE, President."

Police Protection in Jersey.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 27.—The Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the tabernacle, has created something of a sensation by an announcement that one of the four gamblers, whose places he caused to be raided two weeks ago, told him that he had paid money to a police official for protection. Dr. Scudder visited police headquarters and gave Chief Murphy the name of his informant as well as other information in reference to disorderly houses in the vicinity of the tabernacle. Chief Murphy is making an investigation. The gambling house was raided through the efforts of Dr. Scudder were all located in Captain Fred Farrier's precinct, in the lower section of the city. Dr. Scudder intimated that Captain Farrier has knowledge of where the protection money went. Captain Farrier denies this, and declares there are no disorderly houses or gambling dens in his precinct. He says Dr. Scudder is a sensationalist.

Bicycle Defeats Mustangs.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 27.—A. S. Meixell, the bicyclist, of Lewiston, Pa., won a 26-mile race yesterday afternoon, defeating two mustangs ridden by John Flynn, of this city, on a bicycle track, 90 inches wide and in miserable condition. Meixell rode a strange wheel, but finished fresh. Flynn changed mounts about every mile, and at the end of the 18th mile one horse was so tired that President Edwards, of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, forbade its going further and the horse did not finish. Meixell crossed the tape in 1 hour, 2 minutes, 46 2-5 seconds.

Maine Democratic Convention.

LEWISTON, Me., June 27.—The democratic state convention here reaffirmed the Chicago platform and heartily endorsed the administration of President Cleveland. An amendment condemning the A. P. A. was adopted. Hon. Charles F. Johnson, of Waterville, was nominated governor by acclamation.

Umpire Connolly Dies in a Hospital.

BOSTON, June 27.—Daniel Connolly, of Waltham, well known in this vicinity as a baseball umpire, is dead at the city hospital. It has been learned that Connolly was intoxicated Monday evening and involved in a fight on Court street. Henry Kane, 23 years, old has been arrested for committing the assault on Connolly.

PULLMAN BOYCOTT ON

Another Struggle Between Capital and Labor.

Probably the Greatest Ever Inaugurated in the United States—Strikes Already Ordered on the Illinois Central and Every Road in the Country May Become Involved.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The boycott declared against the Pullman Palace Car company by the American Railway union is now in force. The order is supposed to include every railroad in the United States which handles Pullman cars and, as declared by the union officials, every road which insists upon running the sleepers will be subjected to a strike, if necessary.

As a result of the boycott, all of the switchmen in the freight yards of the Illinois Central are out on strike, and no freight of any character is being handled in their yards. It is expected that the men working in the upper yards handling the passenger trains will also go out.

The strike was sudden and so far is effective, taking the officials by surprise and leaving the work in the yards here in bad shape.

When the boycott order became effective it marked the beginning of what is expected to be the greatest struggle between capital and labor ever inaugurated in the United States. It is a battle in which an effort will be made to unite all railroad employes in the country in one common effort to secure better wages, and while the boycott is ostensibly declared as a demonstration of sympathy in behalf of the strikers in the Pullman shops, it is in reality a life and death struggle between the greatest and most powerful railroad labor organization and the entire railroad capital. Success in the Pullman boycott means the permanent success of the one organization through which it is sought to unite all employes of railroads.

It had been announced that no trains to which Pullman sleepers were attached would be permitted to go out of the Illinois Central depot after 12 o'clock yesterday, and, as a precautionary measure, the company had all of its passenger trains made up during the night. The coaches were chained together, padlocked and sealed with the company seal at the couplings, and in addition each train carried a guard of ten special officers employed by the railroad. Several trains were sent out under such precautions.

No other orders for strikes have been issued, but it is understood that all American Railway union men on the entire Illinois Central system will be called out today unless the officials consent to join in the Pullman boycott.

On the other roads no trouble was had in running the out trains. It is evidently the intention of the union officials to allow the Pullman cars to be carried out of Chicago, but to prevent their return.

At St. Paul all car cleaners, machinists and carpenters employed on Pullman cars in the Northern Pacific yards have deserted their places. The same occurred at the Como shops.

The Pullman boycott is in vigorous action at St. Louis but only the shop strikers are involved so far.

NEW YORK, June 27.—In regard to the boycott against the Pullman cars Gen. Horace Porter, first vice-president of the Pullman company, said: "We don't know much about the difficulty here. The seat of the troubles is in Chicago and the officials of the company there have principally to do with it. Nothing has been done here in the way of forestalling the threatened attack. I think the American Railway union has not many adherents and small influence in the Atlantic seaboard railroad terminals.

"About 3,000 of our cars are in use altogether, but how many go out of the Jersey City stations daily I cannot say. The retirement of these cars, obviously, will involve an immense amount of discomfort, annoyance and positive suffering, especially for invalids and children.

"It is the railroad companies that, after all, will have to bear the brunt of the attack. We lease our cars for a term of twenty-five years. During that period we have nothing to do but repair them. They are under contract, and, whether in use or not, must be paid for according to the terms of the lease.

"The only point on which we will be affected is in present leasing, of which there is little now, owing to dullness in business, and in repairing. Consequently a boycott of the cars will, in a large measure, fail to effect its purpose."

Testing a Great Searchlight.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., June 27.—The first official test with the government 200,000,000 candle power search light, erected for coast defense purposes, was made here. Messages were read by members of the ordnance board 20 miles distant and could be read 10 miles further away. The test was a complete success.

Letters to America.

LONDON, June 27.—In the house of commons Arnold Morsley, postmaster general, in reply to a request for information by J. Henniker Heaton, said that 12,500,000 letters were sent to the United States during 1893. If the rate of postage were reduced to a penny the annual loss of revenue would be £78,000 and greater if the reduction should have the effect to increase the number of letters.

Phelps' Successor Appointed.

TRENTON, N. J., 27.—Governor Werts appointed Vice Chancellor Robert S. Green as law judge of the court of errors and appeals, to fill the vacancy on that bench created by the death of William Walter Phelps. The vice chancellor can hold both positions at the same time, and no vacancy in the court of chancery is created by reason of this appointment.

Will of the Late William Walter Phelps.

Numerous Friends and Employes Remembered for Sums of Various Amounts—Yale University Gets $50,000—The Bulk of the Estate Remains in the Family.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 27.—The will of the late William Walter Phelps is very brief. It bears date of Sept. 11, 1885. He gives $1,000 to each of his friends, Dr. Wm. T. Lusk, Henry C. Eno, John H. Lindsly, Charles A. Miller and D. Stuart Dodge; $5,000 each to his namesakes, Walter Phelps Dodge and Walter Phelps Bliss; $10,000 to Charles Nordhoff; $5,000 to Thomas R. White, jr., and $25,000 to William E. Bond. He also gives annuities in various amounts aggregating $4,000 to employes and friends.

To his son John he gives the family vault and homestead at Simsbury, Conn. A trust of $500,000 is created for his son Sheffield, and one of $300,000 for his daughter Marian, the Countess von Rottenburg. The balance of the estate, subject to a life interest to his wife in the Teaneck grange, is left to his wife and children in equal shares.

The sum of $50,000 is to be added to a like sum left by Mr. Phelps' father to Yale university, and the whole to be used for the erection of a building on the campus.

The executors are John J. Phelps, William E. Bond and Thomas R. White, jr.

The will will not be filed for some time yet, owing to the fact that the witnesses are scattered. The estate, though the will does not show it, is valued at $7,000,000.

The family thought that owing to a curiosity that existed in the county and state as to the value of the estate and the details of the will it would serve the purpose to submit a brief for publication.

TO REMAIN OVER THE FOURTH.

The President Will Leave for Buzzards Bay Saturday Next.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Next Saturday was the day decided upon for the president to leave Washington to spend the week of the Fourth of July with his family at Gray Gables. This decision was announced when Mrs. Cleveland and the children departed for Buzzards Bay four weeks ago.

Public business was never in better shape for the president to get away from Washington than now. On account of the long and steady deliberation of the tariff in the senate little or no legislation has reached him for approval for sometime and there is small probability of congress giving him any puzzling questions to settle until the tariff is finally out of the way, which can hardly be accomplished inside of three weeks. After that time even short trips away from work will be impossible, as appropriation bills and other important measures will follow each other to the white house in rapid succession until final adjournment is reached.

It is understood that the president is aware that after next week he will hardly be able to see his family for five or six weeks, and unless something entirely unforeseen occurs he intends to make the best of the opportunity.

Tried To Murder Wife and Daughter.

VINELAND, N. J., June 27.—Joseph Whitsett quarrelled with his wife and daughter yesterday. Whitsett chased them out of the house with a blacksmith's file and razor. He threw his daughter on the ground and cut her throat in a horrible manner. The girl is fatally injured. Whitsett then turned to his wife and beat her terribly with a file. Seeing three men approaching he ran into the house, locked the doors and set fire to the building. The firemen got him out before the flames reached him, but he begged to be thrown back into the flames. He has been insane for several weeks. His daughter is a school teacher.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Twelve Pages of the Income Tax Unfinished.

Senator Hill Comes Dangerously Near Getting the Best of the Finance Committee on an Amendment To Exempt State Bonds—House Disposes of the General Deficiency Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The senate resumed consideration of the income tax feature of the tariff bill this morning with twelve pages of the feature still to be gone through with before that portion of the bill will be completed, eight sections having been disposed of yesterday. The votes exempting the salaries of the president of the United States and of the United States judges are to be reconsidered, unless Mr. McLaurin (dem., Miss.) should change his opinion on that point; but whether he will wait till the bill shall be reported to the senate or not remains to be decided.

Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) continues to be the central figure of opposition to the finance committee, and at one point he almost succeeded in getting the better of the committee. That was on a motion to exempt from the provisions of the income tax bonds issued by states. Four democratic senators, who had been hitherto faithful to their party, ranged themselves on the side of Mr. Hill. They were Senators Gray (Del.), Morgan and Pugh (Ala.) and Caffery (La.). But Mr. Morgan, who would have voted for Mr. Hill's amendment, was paired with Mr. Quay (Pa.), who as a republican would also have voted for it, and so two votes in its favor were lost. Besides that, Senator Irby (S. C.), who has usually been found voting with Mr. Hill, voted with his party, and the populist senators also voted with the democrats. In this way Mr. Hill failed to get his amendment adopted, but he came dangerously close to it, the vote being 27 to 30.

House of Representatives.

The house has finally disposed of the general deficiency appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1894. Most of the day was spent in consideration of the question of paying the judgments rendered by the court of claims in the matter of claims on account of Indian depredations. It was agreed, as the result of three hours discussion, to appropriate $100,000 toward the payment of the judgments which aggregate $514,000. The changes made in the bill added, net, something over $100,000 to the total of appropriations carried by it, making it in round numbers $5,000,000.

In the morning hour a senate bill was passed, on motion of Mr. McGann (dem., Ill.) making Labor Day (the first Monday in September) a legal holliday. Also a house bill, on motion of Mr. Pickler (rep., S. D.) providing that in all claims arising under the pension laws of the United States the oath of a private soldier or noncommissioned officer shall have the same force and effect as that of a commissioned officer.

Life in the Indian Territory.

NORTH ENID, O. T., June 27.—Three person were shot at Round Pond, Sunday, and instead of having a quieting effect the presence of United States marshals seems only to have increased the trouble there. The cattle guards and the rails on the outskirts of the town were so damaged by a crowd of citizens that trains were delayed for several hours. The south bound passenger train was attacked by the mob and a fusillade of more than a hundred shots was fired at it. A man named Fossett, of Kingfisher, who was standing on the platform received a few scalp wounds and had his hat shot off. A newsdealer named Johnson received a charge of buckshot in the leg, and a third passenger was struck in the throat by a bullet. The deputy marshals refrained from firing any shots back, else considerable loss of life would have resulted.

Charles Benny Dies of His Burns.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 27.—Charles Benny, the 13-year-old lad who was burned at the stake by his comrades on March 13 last, while playing "Indians," is dead at the Homeopathic hospital. Every attempt was made to save the little fellow's life, skin grafting being resorted to without avail, and he died of exhaustion after a long and brave struggle with death. Three of the boys who tied him to the stake and started the fire were arraigned in the Camden court, pleaded guilty to assault and were severely lectured and sent to the reform school. The boys will probably be rearrested, but it is a question in the minds of the lawyers whether they can be reindicted and retried for manslaughter.

Edison's Condition Is Better.

ORANGE, N. J., June 27.—The report that the condition of Thomas Alva Edison is worse is false. Mrs. Edison said to a United Press reporter that Mr. Edison was better and was resting comfortably. Dr. Joseph Fewsmith, the family physician, says that Mr. Edison's trouble is an attack of acute enteritis and was probably caused by a cold. The accident Mr. Edison met with on last Thursday, Dr. Fewsmith said, had nothing to do with the attack; it was only a coincidence. Mr. Edison is a sick man, but there is no cause at present for apprehension.

Something About Charles De Kay.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Charles De Kay, nominated to be consul general at Berlin, is an editorial writer on the New York Times. He has been for some years a warm friend of President Cleveland and his selection is eminently a personal one. He is not yet 40 years old, was educated in Germany, and is a fluent German scholar. He is a brother-in-law of Richard Watson Gilder.

Bicyclist Held for Manslaughter.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 27.—In the police court Timothy Conners has been held in $500 for trial in the superior court on the charge of manslaughter. Conners, while riding on his bicycle, ran down Mrs. Juliet Closson. She received injuries which caused her death.

To Improve New Jersey Waterways.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The senate committee on commerce has decided to increase the house appropriation for the Raritan and Passaic rivers in New Jersey, but declined to announce the increase allowed, as it has not been definitely determined.

Died at the Age of 101.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 27.—Mrs. Mary O'Brien is dead in this city aged 101 years. She was a native of Ireland.

The best creed for the workingman: Try to make a good job every time.

The advertiser that sticks to printers's ink in dull times will find trade sticking to him when the tide changes.

Don't shoot, yet awhile. Wait till the Fourth. The city ordinance prohibits fireworks explosions till that day, and Capt. Grant's men are around.

Merchants who don't advertise in their home paper, but buy a rubber stamp and use it on their stationery and wrapping paper, may save a few nickels a year by so doing, but what an impression of the town does it give out! Artistic printing's the thing, and in that The Press excels.

A prominent business man and regular advertiser was asked the other day what he thought the result would be should he give up advertising. His answer was: "Well, I should save considerable money the first year, but I should lose a bigger pile the next two years.—Muscatine, Iowa, Journal.

Since the authoritative statement exclusively made in The Daily Press that sewers would not be built till April, it has been decided to make an extra effort to conclude preliminaries so as to complete the main trunk line this Fall. That's good news. May the endeavor be energetic, and succeed!

The announcement exclusively made in The Press of the fire-alarm box locations in the borough, with statement of the cost, is followed by comment on the great difference in the prices of the city and borough systems. Investigation shows that the excess paid by Plainfield was for more boxes, of a better pattern, and for more wire, of a higher grade. Plainfield had more money to spend, and got a better job. But North Plainfield's on the right track.

Vice-Chancellor VanFleet announced in the Chancery Chamber yesterday that Vice-Chancellor Robert S. Green had been appointed on the bench of the Court of Errors and Appeals to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge William Walter Phelps. The position is an honorary one, and it does not necessitate Mr. Green's resignation as one of the four Vice-Chancellors of the State. The appointment is an added honor to the laurels already worn with such graceful dignity by New Jersey's ex-Governor.

The choicest work of the world's best living artists is available to every American home through the sumptuous publication issued by Harry C. Jones of 92 Fifth avenue, New York, The Quarterly Illustrator. The magazine is just out for July, August and September. There are 125 pages of elegant paper, each containing a wealth of beautiful pictures and reading matter which is as edifying as it is entertaining. One hundred and fifty well-known artists contribute the 362 illustrations of the number, and each is a gem. Every phase of the art field is faithfully covered. The Quarterly Illustrator is a wonder, and how Mr Jones can sell his magazine at 30 cents a copy is another wonder.

Just make a note right now that The Daily Press is nothing if not patriotic, and it's going to celebrate the Fourth like all good American boys, by taking a day off and burning lots of powder. The issue of July 3 will be red-hot with literary pyrotechnics. There'll be the screaming American eagle to begin with, with Liberty herself setting off the fire-works. G. T. Ferris will give some wholesome talk on the Revolution. I. D. Marshall talks of the good old days when firecrackers were a cent apiece. Edith Sessions Tupper gives one of her best Fourth of July stories. Theo. Holland comes right into our territory with a tale of what happened in Elizabethtown. H. B. Delaigne translates the "macaroni" part of Yankee Doodle. R. K. Munkittrick is merry over the boy who keeps everybody up all night with his banging. The great and only M. Quad spends a Fourth up in a balloon, and tells a thrilling tale. Verse and pictures abound, appropriate to the day.

All these features are original and copyrighted, and The Press alone will publish them.

No matter how many packs of firecrackers you have, you won't have a happy Fourth unless you secure the American Eagle issue of The Daily Press.

Clark W. Bryan in a recent article on "Coupon Journalism" wrote as follows:

"If this goes on at its present rate, the time is not far distant when a great many of our esteemed contemporaries will have abandoned all the old and legitimate features and purposes of a newspaper, and the question will not be which one of them can best record current events, but which of them can offer the most attraction to the curiosity hunter or seeker after some paltry prize.

"The gift enterprise feature in journalism is a confession that the newspaper employing this method to water its circulation cannot stand on its own merits. The logic of this is so obvious that the gift newspaper loses more on its permanent standing than it gains in temporary circulation by coupon-cutting.

"Advertisers ask what benefit can accrue to them from copies of newspapers purchased in bulk for the sake of the coupons and then sent to the junkman. Readers who are saluted every time they open a paper with announcement of alluring gifts of valuable articles, turn from them in weariness and disgust, and sigh for the time when the fakir and cheap jack were not the controlling power in journalism."

CASIMIR-PERIER

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

Chosen on First Ballot—Storm at the Joint Session Today—A Socialist Scene—Demand for the Suppression of the Presidency.

(Special to The Press)

PARIS, June 27—Casimir-Perier was elected President of France today. He received 451 votes.

Casimir-Perier was elected on the first ballot.

The National Congress, summoned to elect a President of the French Republic for a full term of seven years, was called to order in the Palace of Versailles by M. Challemel-Lacour at 1:10 p. m. today.

At least five minutes elapsed after the formal call to order before there was sufficient quiet to enable the presiding officer to be heard. When finally the assembly became orderly M. Challemel-Lacour announced the tragic death of M. Carnot and declared the Congress open for the purpose of electing his successor.

Scarcely had the President ceased speaking when M. Michelin, Socialist, sprang to his feet and shouted:

"I demand the suppression of the Presidency of the Republic."

A tumultuous scene ensued, the uproar being so great that the President could not make himself heard.

About 2 a small panic occurred in the lobbies owing to the escape of gas, which filled the corridors and made respiration difficult.

The fire brigade and a force of workingmen were immediately summoned. Smoking was forbidden, and the order was complied with without remonstrance. The leak was finally found, and the panic subsided.

MOSHER'S JUDGMENT SET ASIDE.

Craig A. Marsh Scores Another Victory in the Higher Court.

The case of Daniel McCarthy against the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, on certiorari from Justice Mosher's Court, came up yesterday in Trenton. Craig A. Marsh appeared for Mr. McCarthy, and succeeded in having set aside the judgment and all proceedings before Justice Mosher. This leaves Mr. McCarthy in full possession of the property from which the Land Improvement Company were trying to eject him, and the judgment obtained by the company will do them no good. Mr. McCarthy feels correspondingly jubilant.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the one positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

MRS. JARLEY IN TOWN.

SHE GIVES HER FAMOUS WAX-WORKS IN PLAINFIELD.

Mirthful Event in the Park Avenue Baptist Church — David Runyon Winds up the Works, and They Go Through Wonderful Evolutions.

Mrs. Jarley's waxworks were exhibited in the Sunday-school room of the Park Avenue Baptist Church last evening for the benefit of the church debt fund. The Christian Endeavor Society was in charge. Many were present.

Miss Whitfield, the leader of the primary department of the Sunday-school, made an excellent "Mrs. Jarley", her explanations being full of local allusions. Her son "Peter", David Runyon, was an expert in operating the figures. The stage hands who carried the models about were "Jim" and "James", D. C. Skaden and Mr. Rider.

William B. Remsen, Jr., was exhibited as "The Boy on the Burning Deck". He proceeded to "evolute" after Mrs. Jarley had drawn a complicated moral from his history. "Liquid notes" were "poured forth" by "The Vocalist", Mrs. W. S. Lowry, after careful and repeated windings by Peter.

Harry Day and Miss Mabel Smith appeared together as "Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spratt". After Mrs. Jarley had expatiated on the well ordered household represented, Peter wound them up and the spectators were shown the historical licking of the platter. "Jackie Horner", Harry Thompson, accomplished his feat in spite of Peter's pranks while Mrs. Jarley was in the midst of a long historical address.

Miss Florence Hawkins was "Cinderella", an unfortunate who had been left at home while the rest of the family attended choral concerts. Arthur Krom was "The Live Yankee" who whistled and whittled after he had been wound up. While a new set of figures was being arranged, Miss Lillian Richardson and Miss Emily Runyon played on the piano.

The next series began with "Blue Beard, a noble philanthropist, a loving husband and a tender friend", represented by A. W. Day. Miss Elma Runyon served as a model of "Mother Hubbard", a personage concerning whom Mrs. Jarley had peculiar ideas. A pathetic fable was narrated with the assistance of "The Skipping Girl", Miss Grace Remsen. William B. Remsen appeared in costly costume as "Uncle Tom". Miss Adella Runyon, "Mrs. Winslow", showed how children should be quieted. Miss Adelaide Runyon imitated the gestures of a high school graduate while discussing the amelioration of the condition of man at commencement, and then Miss Livezey and Miss Bertha Wheeler played a piano duet.

Miss Godown as "Liberty" waved a fiery torch after the manner prescribed by Mrs. Jarley.

"The Siamese Twins" were Willie Nash and Harry Day. Mrs. D. C. Skaden was the subject of Mrs. Jarley's remarks on "The Old-Fashioned Sewing Machine". J. M. Hawkins was a waxen "Rip Van-Winkle" with a knack of ending his years of sleep at the proper moment. Miss Alberta Livezey was a cute "Little Miss Muffett", making a brave attempt to kill an artificial spider with a spoon.

"Mr. Jarley, deceased", was represented in his favorite drinking act, by A. D. Van Sciver. Mrs. Jarley then displayed all of the figures in operation at once and proceeded to conduct the sale of ice-cream in the class-rooms.

SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

How the Savings of Plainfield People Have Accumulated Profit.

B. F. Cortell, efficient secretary of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association, can tell an interesting story about building loans in general, and about his in particular. So successful has the association been that the three series now in progress are to be succeeded by a fourth.

The first series is 123 months old. Each share has cost $123, and is now worth $179.12.

The second series is 82 months old, each share costing $82. The present value is $123.75.

Series 3 was started 45 months ago, and for each $45 share a holder can now get $62.33.

As a series closes when the shares get to be worth $200, Series 1 will end about next February. The fourth series will be begun in September.

—The location of the $10,000 mausoleum which The Daily Press yesterday exclusively reported was to be built by W. H. Smith & Co. for the Warren Ackerman estate, will be in Hillside Cemetery. It will be a splendid monument.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Fanwood.

Fanwood Council, No. 744, Royal Arcanum, celebrated Arcanum Day by giving a reception to their friends in Excelsior Hall, Scotch Plains, Monday evening, from 8 to 12.

The women had tastefully arranged rugs upon the floor, and had placed in different parts of the room fancy tables, upon which they arranged fancy lamps and growing plants.

After various selections by Lambert's Orchestra, the orator of Fanwood Council, Wm. E. Collins, stepped upon the platform, and in a few words, on behalf of the Council, cordially welcomed their guests, spoke of the day they were celebrating, and of the remarkable growth of the order, and announced the first number of the programme, which was a contralto solo by Mrs. W. S. Force. This selection was heartily received by the audience, and Mrs. Force was compelled to respond to an encore, as, later on, was the case with the other participants in the programme. The next number was a piano solo by Miss Edith Randolph, which was intently listened to by the guests.

After a selection by the orchestra, the chairman announced that Oliver B. Lightowler, who had kindly volunteered to render a baritone solo, was unavoidably detained at home. Mr. Collins also announced that Grand Regent S. J. Kallman had written that he regretted not being able to be present, owing to a pressure of official business, but had requested Brother Green, of Fireside Council, Chairman of the Committee on Laws of the Grand Council of this State, to represent him on this occasion.

Brother Green, on being introduced, made a short address full of poetry, statistics, and wit. Miss Lillie Nicholl favored the company with a soprano solo. Miss Nicholl sang very sweetly, and was well received. District Deputy Grand Regent W. B. Noble brought the programme to a close by a short talk on the work of the Council.

Refreshments consisting of ice-cream and cake were served, after which the floor was cleared, and dancing indulged in. At the closing hour the guests felt that the affair had been a pronounced success.

The citizens of Dunellen will hold their public meeting in the school hall tomorrow evening. It promises to be lively.

A number of city people have arrived at Mr. Hallett's house, New Market Heights, where they will remain for the Summer.

Friendship Council's tug-of-war-team are looking for a team to pull against July 4, at their celebration in New Market. Individual prizes will be offered.

Mrs. Churchill and Miss Churchill will spend the coming week with friends in New York State, and July 3 they will go to Ocean Grove to spend the Summer.

C. D. Taylor celebrated the anniversary of his birthday yesterday, and was surprised last evening when a large number of his friends gathered to make merry with him. Friendship Band was present, and played several choice selections, and Sam Frazee played for dancing. An excellent supper was served.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., has accepted the invitation to go to Dunellen Sunday evening, at which time Rev. Mr. Kinsey will preach them a sermon in the Methodist Church. Major Anderson Post, 109, G. A. R., declined the invitation. Captain Hand's stage will leave headquarters at 7 Sunday evening to convey all who wish to go.

The Dunellen Junior Base-Ball Club organized last evening as follows: Arthur Palmer, manager; Willis Gray, Captain; Thomas Holland, c.; W. Austin, p.; H. Staats, 1b.; B. Fletcher, 2b.; W. Gray, 3b.; F. Nelson, lf.; G. Hill, cf.; A. Giddis, rf., and Edward Herlick, ss. They will play all clubs with members under 18, and they promise to give good games, as the team, as a whole, is an excellent one.

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 4, at the home of the bride, Miss Maggie Swackhamer, when this most estimable young woman became the wife of Wilson Fredericks. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, before a large number of friends and relatives. The parlor was exquisitely decorated with choice flowers and presented a picture of beauty. At the close of the ceremony all joined in hearty congratulation. This was followed by the wedding supper, which was sumptuous. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of ash-of-rose serge. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Wherley, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg, Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oakley, New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. Kingsland, Mrs. Fredericks and Miss Fredericks, mother and sister of groom, Franklin; Mrs. Oakley, New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. John Swackhammer, Springtown; Jacob Henry, Chicago; Miss Fenner, Pluckamin; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, father and mother of the bride, Harry Sowackamer, brother of the bride, Miss Imogene Smith, Miss Fanny Smith, Miss S. Gray, Mrs. Annie Abbott, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Martine, Dunellen. Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks were given a shower of rice when they departed, and the old shoe played an important part. They left Bound Brook at 6 for Washington where they will remain for a short time. Upon their return they will spend the Summer along the Jersey coast. Mr. Fredericks is a valued employe of the United States Express Company, and is in the Superintendent's office, New York. A host of friends join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks a most prosperous and happy journey through life.

A SIGNIFICANT STORY.

And the Best of It Is, It's True!

It was down at the Westfield station the other night. The ambitious but misguided bootblack who struck the little town a week or so ago was in conversation with an intelligent laboring man.

"What is de name o' dis place, anyway?"—inquired the artist of the brush and polish.

"What place?"—returned the man in the blue flannel shirt.

"Why, dis town, dis city, or whatever it is; what do you call it?"

"D' ye mean to say you do n't know the name of this town!"—exclaimed the laborer.

"Dat 's what I mean—what is it?"—gullelessly pursued the boots.

"Well, I 'll be shot!"—incredulously exploded the workman.—"This is Westfield, W-e-s-t-f-i-e-l-d, Westfield!"

"Westfield, eh" — commented the shiner. "Well, I did n't know; I've only been here a week."

And the laboring man got up and walked away to get his breath. Either the town or the bootblack must be tremendously slow, and as this is an actual occurence it would look as if Westfield's reputation was in a tight place.

TALK ON MINING.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Learn Something of Practical Value.

J. C. Bates gave the Boys Department of the Y. M. C. A. a most interesting address on mining, in the association rooms last evening. He said that having been engaged in mining the past forty years he ought to know something of practical mining.

He told how some practical miners attempting to play a joke on some greenhorns from the East were very much surprised to find that they had led the greenhorns to a rich deposit. He told of the successive improvements in separating the metal from the surrounding soil and bed rock from the California pan to the present ore crushers. He said that no process had yet been invented but that some of the gold or other metal was lost, at least 25 per cent. usually. Gold, he said, was to be found in every State in the Union, but not in paying quantities.

At the close of the talk he exhibited some fine specimens. Leomonade and cake were served before the boys left for their homes.

Red Men at Work.

Three special committees of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men are at work. One is preparing a set of resolutions to be sent to the mother of the late Past Sachem B. J. Allaband. Another is arranging to have a portable stage and improved equipment ready by Fall. The third is raising by subscription among the Red Men of the State, a fund for the purchase of a regalia and a veterans jewel to be presented to Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens of Camden.

St. Mary's Commencement.

Madam Isa Lezem has again composed and arranged the dances and tableaux for St. Mary's School Commencement to be held in Music Hall Friday, June 28. Judging from the great success she achieved last year, it promises to be very fine, and to exceed anything of the kind ever seen in Plainfield.

The graduates of St. Mary's are Edna R. Phillips, valedictorian, Anna L. Roth and Kate C. Keenan.

For the Sick Babies.

Under the auspices of the Misses Florence and Carrie Duck and Nellie Martin of Jackson avenue a festival and sale for the benefit of the sick babies of New York will be held on the lawn of John M. Duck, 89 Jackson avenue, Monday afternoon, July 2, from 2 to 8. Admission is only 5 cents.

CAME BACK TO FACE IT.

WM. ADAMS AND GEORGE SHAY SURRENDER TO THE AUTHORITIES.

They Deny Assaulting and Robbing Widow Furey, and Will Stand Trial on the Charge.

William Adams and George Shay, of this city, who stand charged with having, about three weeks ago, in company with Thomas Shelly, beaten and robbed Mrs. Libby Furey, a widow living in Fanwood, and then resorting to flight, leaving their victim nearly dead upon the floor at her home, were yesterday taken to jail in Elizabeth and locked up.

Shelly was arrested the night on which the alleged outrage is said to have been perpetrated, but his two companions—Adams and Shay—succeeded in eluding the authorities and making their way west, going as far as Chicago.

A day or two ago Detective Keron received a letter from Shay, informing him that he and his companion were in Ohio and making their way east; that they proposed coming on and giving themselves up.

True to their word, shortly before 9 yesterday morning they entered Detective Keron's office, on Morris avenue, Elizabeth, and surrendered themselves and were conducted to jail and locked up.

The men acknowledge that they were present at Mrs. Furey's house on the day of the alleged assault, but claim that they were there by invitation of Mrs. Furey, who is also known as Mrs. Lambert. The accused deny having robbed her of her money or of having knocked her down and kicked her.

CLOSE EARLY!

What's the Use of Making Such Long Hours?

The grocery trade of Plainfield ought to stick to its time-honored custom of early closing. Grocery orders can very readily be filled during the day, without keeping open after 7.

The grocers have been closing at 7, except Saturdays, for about four years. Some of them now feel that they are losing trade by closing early, and are agitating the question of keeping open. They are now five grocers that keep open. The chief objection is to the last store that broke the early-closing agreement. Should all the grocers keep open it would deprive about 50 clerks of their evenings. All the stores that keep open are located near the business centre of the city, and those grocers most affected deserve great credit for closing.

Funeral of Thomas Roan.

The funeral of Thomas Roan, whose death occurred last Sunday evening, took place this morning in St. Mary's Church at 9. Father Smyth officiating. The respect in which the deceased was held was attested by the large number of people present in the church at the services, and in the long procession of carriages that accompanied the remains to St. Mary's Cemetery, where the interment was made. Mr. Roan was 78 years of age, and one of Plainfield's oldest residents, having come to Plainfield a comparatively young man.

The organist of the church had charge of the solemn music rendered at the services, the choir being augmented by the voice of John Connolly of Meriden, Conn., who sang the Ave Maria in an impressive manner.

The pall-bearers were six nephews of the deceased. Decedent was father-in-law of Policeman P. J. Flanagan of this city, and of Engineer John Moynihan of Dunellen.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Remarked by the Elizabeth Journal: "Willis and Barnett are to ride for the Elizabeth Wheelmen for the Saltonstall cup July 4. The Crescents tried to get these two flyers, but the racket did n't work."

Nate Titsworth borrowed L S Darling's Model 30 pound Columbia at the Crescent track yesterday afternoon. The frame broke at the crank axle, and the rider dropped to the ground. He was not injured, as he was not going very fast at the time.

The New York Mail and Express says: "The signs of the times point to one of three things: The failure of certain bicycle manufacturers, the formation of a bicycle trust, or cheaper wheels for the public. High prices are getting some hard knocks these days."

George Richter, the Somerset street tonsorial artist, in the oppressive heat of yesterday attempted the feat of mastering a bicycle on Brook avenue near the graveyard. A friend named Clark kindly loaned the bike, and another friend—name unknown—brought the lame, tired and weary barber home in a wheelbarrow.

Barnett is gaining plenty of fame, and is becoming well known by feature as well as by name. Spaulding, whose wheel he rode when he won the great Irvington-Milburn race on Decoration Day, has issued lithographs of the Westfield wheelman as he appears mounted on his favorite wheel. The likeness is excellent. W. H. Rogers is the local dispensator of the wheel.

Harold Beveridge of Ninth street collided with the roller while riding on the bicycle track shortly after 10 this morning. He wore a straw hat and was riding against the wind with his head down. The front wheel of his bicycle struck the pole and he narrowly escaped being thrown under the horses' feet. His leg was injured painfully, but not very severely. Dr. W. H. Murray attended him. The wheel was damaged but little.

G. H. Van Nest to Resume.

The Press is glad to learn that G. H. Van Nest, who was compelled recently to suspend business, has made a settlement with his creditors, through the guidance of Counselor J. H. Van Winkle, and on Saturday will be at his old place of business on Somerset street, ready to serve his friends and the public with groceries or meats as before.

Miss Campbell, of Hot Springs, North Carolina, was to have lectured last evening to the King's Messengers of the First Presbyterian Church last evening, but a telegram was received saying she could not come. Miss Campbell is a teacher in Dr. Dorland's School for Mountain Whites, Hot Springs, and expected to explain the work of the institution to the society. The Messengers will sew one hour each week during the Summer for the benefit of the school.

Drank Wine and Told of Murder.

NATICK, Mass., June 27.—The mysterious murder of Jacob Littig at Wellesley, June 1, 1893, was, it is reported, suddenly recalled at the Cape district, the German colony on the line between South Natick and Wellesley. It is stated that Mary, the wife of Fritz Butchman, an engineer in a shoe shop, over-indulged in wine. When Fritz upbraided her she became furious and a battle ensued, in which the woman had two ribs broken. In this condition she is said to have rushed into the streets, yelling at the top of her voice, "You have killed Littig, and now you want to kill me!" She was placed under a doctor's care and is reported as convalescing. It is expected that Butchman will be brought up for trial.

Yale-Harvard-Columbia Race.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27.—The Yale-Harvard-Columbia freshmen race will be rowed at 5:30 this afternoon on two miles of the 'varsity course, between the Thames River bridge and the naval station. Al Cowles, an old Yale oar, has been selected as referee. Little interest is manifested in the race, the greater event of Thursday overshadowing it. All crews are in fine condition. While the race may not be considered as important as the Yale-Harvard event, it is likely to be more exciting.

Dixon-Griffo Fight.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Friday night's battle between George Dixon, the feather-weight champion, and young "Griffo," who holds the same title in Australia, is attracting much attention among New Yorkers. The largest delegation that ever left this city to attend a glove contest will start for Boston on Friday morning. The contest will be 20 rounds at catch weights and there must be a decision rendered at that time. Johnny Eckhardt will officiate as referee.

The Pont-y-Pridd Horror Grows.

LONDON, June 27.—It is now believed that the number of miners who perished in the Albion coal mine, near Pont-y-Pridd, the other day will be found to exceed 310. It seems that there were more men in the mine than was at first supposed.

Wiman Still Confident.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Erastus Wiman said that he was confident that his counsel's arguments would prevail on Judge Barrett to make his stay permanent pending appeal, and that he would be released on bail.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 509 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

"DON'T TRY TO BE SWELL."

It's all very well
To try to be swell;
But what does it mean after all!—
A ladder it's like,
With rounds like a spike,
And if you can't climb you may crawl.

A man's at the top
Who has for a prop
The glory of deeds never done:
The papers all smile
And praise his good style;
Thus his good reputation is won.

If aught he can gain
By you in his train
You'll know it without being told;
But keep you your scheme,
You'll not be a team;
He'll crib all your glory quite bold.

You'll not find it tame
To play your own game;
The spikes will prick deeper the while.
Do n't sell your own soul
To be on his roll—
Just be a plain man without style.

CHAPTER XV.

As the hall clock struck 10 that night Hawkins, who stood hat and whip in hand, ready to make his adieu, said low to his hostess:

"Really it begins to look as though what began as a speculation may turn out a grand passion."

"Heaven send it to be mutual," Mrs. Townley said, with the faintest possible inclination of her head toward the room's farther side, where Royal Cleve still bent upon Dare that burning regard. "You had better take him away," she went on. "I am afraid he will frighten her. By the way, what did he say to your scheme before he saw her?"

"Took it first as an American joke," Hawkins said. "But I had got pretty well the length of his foot and knew how to convince him that there were millions in it for all of us."

Mrs. Townley darted at him a keen suspicious glance.

"You told me this man Cleve was very, very rich," she said. "If that is the case"— A look finished the sentence, so that Hawkins made haste to declare:

"He is rich, Mrs. Townley, rich enough to want very badly to be richer. You see, his father is a big iron master over there. There are just two sons, this boy and another, and their ambition is to become iron kings. That's why they are looking for investments here."

"This one is handsome and well bred, but looks dissipated. That I don't like," Mrs. Townley said conservatively.

Hawkins smiled a grim smile.

"No doubt he has gone the pace," he said, "but that only makes him the readier to settle down. Clearly he thinks so. The girl is charming, and he has got it worse about her than even"—

"Whom?" asked Mrs. Townley as he stopped short. Hawkins did not answer. He was lost in rage at the memory of Allen Fauntleroy, of delight in the thought of how well his wrong at that young man's hand was likely to be avenged. Hawkins knew, what was as yet a secret, that Allen, while apparently accepting Major Overton's refusal, had so arranged affairs that the old man's death would make Dare sole owner of the property in dispute. When she was Mrs. Royal Cleve, no doubt Fauntleroy would kick himself for his overscrupulosity. And that she should be one way or another—fairly, if possible. The way was plain and easy if Cleve's ardor did not frighten her. Mrs. Townley was right, though it would never do to leave him uninterruptedly in the girl's presence. Striding across the room, Hawkins said, with affectation of jocular terror:

He had hung at her side the evening through.

"Mr. Cleve, please don't shoot me for saying it—we really must be riding."

Cleve started a little, but said, with a light laugh:

"Oh, go away, Hawkins! You talk like a member of parliament. I have only had five minutes with Miss Overton, and you speak of leaving at half past 8."

"Half past 10, you mean, with 15 miles to ride," Hawkins said, showing his watch. The other frowned.

"You are an unmitigated nuisance, with your hours and distances." But he got up, looked lingeringly at Dare and made his adieu with what grace he might.

Dare rose, too, and went up to her aunt. The girl's cheeks were damask roses, her eyes starry in their dark dilation. She seemed to herself all one throbbing pulse of new sensation, not wholly pleasurable, but wildly strange. Royal Cleve was unlike aught she had ever seen or dreamed of. Her favorite heroes even were quite put out of court. His voice was music itself. He had a smile that glorified his face. Yet somehow the girl shrank a little from the memory of him, shivered at the thought of those too persistent eyes.

He had hung at her side the evening through, with eyes, ears, for naught else. She wondered vaguely if it were not because she was a new species, something wholly different from any he had hitherto known. In all the story books she knew grand gentlemen had a habit of amusing themselves with the country girls they chanced to meet and then riding away, leaving their victims to death or desolateness. Mr. Cleve should not do that; she was too wise in the ways of his kind. Besides she went no further even in her thought, though the quick red flushing over neck and brow proclaimed some mighty postulate unspoken.

Mrs. Townley saw the blush and misread it to suit her own desires. As she kissed her niece good night she said, lightly touching the smooth cheek:

"I think this face might charm even cruel fate. Do be careful of it, child. Ill fortune has lain in wait for us so long that it really behooves you to try to change the family luck."

Dare lifted her eyes and asked:

"Aunt Mel, am I really extraordinarily pretty?"

"Judge for yourself, my child," Mrs. Townley said, turning her to face the long pier glass, that surely had never reflected loveliness more winsome. For a minute both looked in silence at the fair image. Then Dare gave a low cry, the elder woman screamed aloud, for there, faintly, from the half lit depths behind her, a man's face showed, white and set, in the mirror over her shoulder.

Next minute it had vanished. Dare rubbed her eyes. Mrs. Townley said, sharp tremor in her tone:

"Did you see anybody? Whose face was it?"

Dare did not answer at once. When she did speak, it was to say:

"I thought I saw something, but no doubt we were both mistaken. We must have been. There is no one here but ourselves."

"Not a soul," said Mrs. Townley, shivering violently. "It must have been the flickering of the light."

Dare said nothing. Instead she walked away with tingling pulses. She had no fear of, no belief in, ghosts or visions. Her eye was too true and keen for optical illusions. She had seen a face, a race she knew well. It was Allen Fauntleroy who had looked at her from that close obscure.

* * * * *

A little later Hawkins reined up from their hand gallop to say to Royal Cleve:

"No need to ask if every prospect pleases. 'Pon my life, man, you came near to making a spectacle of yourself."

Cleve shook the other's hand impatiently from his sleeve, saying rather coldly:

"Stop that, Hawkins. I am immensely obliged to you for the initial suggestion, but please remember that while I am always ready and willing to hear you on business I prefer to escape discussion of my personal affairs."

Hawkins gave an angry whistle and said roughly:

"See here, Mr. Royal Cleve, it's quite too late for you to take that tone with me. Remember we have drawn and signed a few papers, papers that would be awkward reading for a young lady I could name. You went into this on business. Now you want to shift to sentiment. Very good, but you'd better keep a civil tongue. By turning my hand over I can put a lion in your path—another lover—beside whom you would have as much chance of winning this Overton girl as I have of going straight to heaven just as I stand. I meant no harm, no disrespect to you, to her. I am as anxious nearly as yourself that you shall marry her, but I won't get in the dust and take kicks and cuffs at your pleasure to bring it about. The sooner you understand that failure or success for you rests wholly in my hands the better it will be for both of us."

Royal Cleve swore a great oath under his breath. Aloud he said, half mockingly:

"Is it so, my good Hawkins? Now listen to me. I hope you are my faithful ally. Certainly I will do all that I can have said, but I reckon surely on one thing. This girl, Dare Overton, shall be my wife in spite of everything."

Through the bright moonlight Hawkins smiled sourly, saying, half to himself:

"I hope you are a true prophet. The day I know she is to be your wife that day makes her heiress of Overton's claim."

ALL THE YEAR ROUND, just as thoroughly and as certainly at one time as another, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood. You don't need it at any special season. But when any eruption appears, or you feel weariness and depression that's a sign of impure blood, then you need this medicine, and nothing else. The ordinary "Spring medicines" and blood-purifiers can't compare with it.

The "Discovery" promotes every bodily function, puts on sound, healthy flesh, and cleanses, repairs and invigorates your whole system. In the most stubborn Skin Diseases, in every form of Scrofula—even in Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—and in every blood-taint and disorder, it is the only guaranteed remedy.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

NOW CARE FOR THE AGED!

SUMMER WITH ITS DEBILITATING WEATHER IS HERE.

The Best of Thought and Care is Due to the Old People—For Them To Be Strong and Happy, Refreshing Sleep Is Necessary—Paine's Celery Compound Must Now Be Taken.

Young people in the flush of health are apt to forget that the aged need help more frequently than they, to ward off weakness and to check disease.

Because there are no symptoms of any specific disease they think nothing can be done; they forget that the weakness of old age are general weaknesses, a difficulty of the slow organs of indigestion and assimilation to properly feed the nerves and body.

The one great need, as hot, debilitating weather comes on, is for new, rich blood, free from the poisonous humors that invariably result from a stagnant condition.

The certainty with which Paine's celery compound quickly sends new blood to every part of the body is shown by a stronger pulse, fuller heart beats and a brightening of the spirits. Sleep becomes sound and refreshing and rheumatism, sciatics, neuralgia and other results of an underfed nervous system disappear.

LEWIS C. CROSSEN.

The world of worn out; nervous feeble men and women is indebted to Prof Edward E. Phelps, M. D. LL. D., of Dartmouth medical school for the discovery of this great nerve regulator and blood purifier—the best and final fruit of a long life devoted to the study of weakness of nerve tissues and its natural remedy.

Paine's celery compound gently stirs the workings of all the vital organs, feeds the nerves when waste in their tissues has exceeded the repair, and thus relieves nervous prostration, dyspepsia and disorders of the liver, kidneys and heart.

It builds up wasted bodies, frees weak nerves and nerve centres of irritability by supplying rich, abundant blood to build up the worn out tissues. When there is general debility, lassitude, a loss of appetite and a lack of interest in life that comes at this season; when one looks wretched and feels so all over, this great modern remedy goes straight to the sorce of the weakness and immediately gives strength and a vigor of mind and body such as must follow perfect nutrition of every organ and part of the body.

The lives of thousands of men and women past middle age who think it time to stop work might be prolonged to many years of usefulness if they would only use Paine's celery compound, the great modern blood and nerve restorative. It will give new life, ambition and cheerfulness, as it did to Lewis C. Crossen, of North Cohocton, N. Y., who writes: "Paine's celery compound has done me a great deal of good. I have been afflicted with insomnia, nervous chills, loss of stregth and poor digestion for some time, also loss of memory and all of these troubles are much better now. I have gained in weight since I commenced its use and am much better and stronger in every way. I shall recommend the compound to all others."

DID YOU EVER

hear tell of a purchaser wanting to buy an imitation? Why do men who try to sell such articles speak of the act as "working them off?" Simply because people want the best, and it takes work and likewise deception to sell them the worst. This unpleasant experience may befall the housekeeper who determines to the new vegetable shortening. The healthfulness, flavor, and economy of this wonderful cooking product has won for it the widest popularity, which in turn has attracted the attention of business parasites who are "working off" imitations and counterfeits. Forewarned is forearmed. Be sure you get the only genuine vegetable shortening—COTTOLENE.

HIS DUTIES BEGUN

President Casimir-Perier Meets the Ministers.

Receives Formal Notice of the Cabinet's Resignation, and Requests the Ministers To Retain Their Offices. Doubt About Dupuy Complying. Socialists Display Much Bitterness Over the Work of the National Congress at Versailles.

PARIS, June 28.—President Casimir-Perier presided at the cabinet meeting this morning and received from Premier Dupuy the formal notice of the cabinet's resignation.

The president has requested the ministers to retain their offices.

There is some doubt about Dupuy's retaining the premiership. Should he retire he might be elected president of the chamber and M. Burdeau might form the cabinet.

Reception of the President.

After the announcement of the result of the ballot at Versailles the troops were massed at the St. Lazare station to receive the new president and escort him from the train to the foreign office. When it was learned that he would return in a carriage they were marched out to Sevres to meet him.

The appearance of the city was the same as usual after the news of the election arrived, but for a slight crowding of the boulevards and the streets along the president's route—via Sevres, the Bois de Boulogne, the Arc de Triomphe and the Champs Elysees.

The people saluted M. Casimir-Perier with cheers and the waving of hats and handkerchiefs.

Mourning Temporarily Put Aside.

As the president approached the foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay the officers removed for the time the crape from their swords. The tricolor was hoisted over the building and a band played the "Marseillaise." The reception at the foreign office was very brief. After it the president returned to his apartments in the chamber of deputies.

Mme. Casimir-Perier Congratulated.

Mme. Casimir-Perier learned of her husband's success at about 4 o'clock, a few minutes before the counting of the ballots was completed. As soon as the result became generally known she received congratulatory calls from many friends, among them the Baron and Baroness Edmond de Rothschild. Her 14-year-old daughter, Germanie, was surrounded in the court yard by family friends as she started for a walk with her governess and received congratulations there for fully half an hour.

SOCIALISTS DESPERATE.

Demonstrations of Much Bitterness Displayed at Versailles.

The scenes at the national congress at Versailles were in many instances disgraceful, when the importance of the work in hand is considered—the election of a president of the French republic for a full term of seven years.

The socialist demonstration after the decisive vote revealed such bitterness and desperation as even the extreme Marxists had rarely displayed before. The moment the new president was proclaimed Joseph Michelin shouted:

"That is the vote of a shareholders' meeting. Shame upon you!"

Aime Lavy howled: "Down with such action! The figures show that the reactionary ring has triumphed!"

Michelin paced the aisle waving both arms and protested in ear-piercing tones against the "action of the so-called sovereign assembly, which refused to allow the consideration of a bill for the suppression of the presidency."

Avez, Dejeanne and Clovis Hugues behaved as if bereft of their senses. They gesticulated, ran from deputy to deputy and shouted their approval of Michelin's declarations. They became orderly only from sheer physical exhaustion. As the calls from the rostrum for closure grew louder, Avez rallied himself to this declaration:

"I desire to declare that you have triumphed here by means of a reactionary coalition, but the republic will triumph in the name of labor and the people."

Michelin mounted the rostrum to utter his final denunciation. "You are usurpers!" he cried. "You try to impose your will upon the people. You wish to be the masters, but the people are the real sovereign in France, and they will remind you of their power."

The altercations did not end with the proceedings of the assembly, for the officers hadhardly left their seats before M. Pelletan, editor of La Justice and radical deputy, fell foul of Armand Schraneck, chief secretary of the prefect of police. Schraneck assumed a threatening attitude, but he was held at bay by Pelletan's friends, and eventually, at their request, was ejected from the palace by three ushers.

The Corrected Ballot.

The corrected count of the ballot showed that Casimir-Perier received 451 votes; Brisson, 195; Dupuy, 97; Fevrier, 53; Arago, 26. Scattering votes were cast for Cavaignac, Loubet, Freycinet, Rochefort, Toussaint and Flourenes.

After Challemel-Lacour had read the form investing Casimir-Perier with the powers of the presidency, he made an emotional little speech, and then, turning to the new president, embraced him heartily. Casimir-Perier wept. He had not mastered his emotion when a delegation of journalists was admitted to congratulate him, but he managed to thank them warmly, adding:

"Gentlemen, I belong to you. Discuss me, but never forget France and the republic while doing so."

Intercollegiate Prohibitionists.

PORT RICHMOND, S. I., June 28.—The second annual convention of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association of the United States has opened a three-days' session at Prohibition park. Less than 50 delegates were present at the opening hour, but it is expected that several hundred will arrive from the various colleges. On Friday the annual oratorical contest for cash prizes will take place.

Mr. Edison Much Better.

ORANGE, N. J., June 28.—Mr. Edison was much better to-day. He was able to sit up. Mrs. Edison says all danger has passed and she now looks for his speedy recovery.

FIGHTING CHICAGO GAS.

Important Proceedings Against the Gigantic Trust.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Attorney-General Maloney filed in Judge Windes' court three documents which are of the utmost importance to the gas companies of Chicago and to the Fidelity Safe Deposit & Investment company of Philadelphia. The first was an amendment to the original information filed four or five weeks ago against four Chicago gas companies and the Philadelphia corporation, charging them with being in a trust and combination contrary to law. The second was an affidavit by Mr. Maloney setting forth that the Fidelity Safe Deposit & Investment company of Philadelphia is a foreign corporation and giving the usual notice of publication so as to bring it legally before the court. The third and most important was a decree against the seven gas companies of the city. The decree is a typewritten document of nine pages. It opens by charging that the gas companies are now illegally organized and requires them to disband. It provides for the election of officers by each company. Judge Windes took the documents and informed the counsel that he would look them over at his leisure and give his decision.

Parson Davies Talks.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Parson Davies returned to the city from his eastern trip. He dropped Choynski in Cincinnati, where he will remain for some time. The "Parson" is confident that Fitzsimmons and Choynski will come together again soon. "Before the fight at Boston," he said, "I thought Joe had an outside chance to win. Now I am satisfied that he had an even chance. It was his own fault that he did not win. I expect to receive an offer of a $10,000 purse from New Orleans. If it is made both Fitz and Joe will accept. I have not heard from Peter Jackson since he left for San Francisco. His money is still up. He is waiting for Corbett to return from Europe. When Jim gets back he will ask him what his intentions are. I do not think that Corbett is at all anxious to fight."

Police Protection in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 2 .—At a meeting of the police commissioners a sensation was caused by Commissioner Frank Kirshner, who said: "I have information that different members of the police department are receiving money as bribes for protection. I have been told of a case where one man is at present and has for some time been getting a specified sum monthly from a woman as a bribe for protection. I have been investigating this matter for some time personally, and have many facts. As soon as sufficient witnesses are got together who will swear to the facts, I propose to bring the whole matter to a focus. I have information to prove that there is a shameful business going on all over the city. I propose to get to the bottom of it."

Sensational Trial.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., June 28.—A sensational murder trial ended here at midnight in finding Frank Kyler guilty of voluntary manslaughter. William W. Butler and the defendant reside in Morrison's Cove and were courting the same girl. On the night of March 30, Butler peeped in the window of a room where Kyler and the girl were. Kyler shot him through the widow. The commonwealth sought to establish jealousy as the motive for the deed. The defendant claimed that he believed Butler was a burglar. The prominence of the parties caused great interest in the trial.

Raceland Dying.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The grand old gelding Raceland, affectionately named "Old Bones" by his admirers, is dying at the stables of his owner, M. F. Dwyer, at Gravesend. He has spinal meningitis, and cannot recover. Raceland has won during his racing career about 60 races, and more than $125,000 in stakes and purses.

Santo's Trial July 23.

FREAKS OF LIGHTNING

Its Queer Antics at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

Two Men Seeking Shelter Under the Steel Hull of the Raleigh Suddenly Fall Dead—Officers on the Deck Feel No Shock—The Vessel Magnetized—Compass Rendered Useless.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Reports have reached the navy department of a remarkable phenomenon which occurred at the Norfolk navy yard several days ago, in which two men were instantly killed and a number of others knocked senseless by an electrical discharge. Considerable mystery still exists about the occurrence, and it has not yet been possible to obtain full particulars.

It appears from the account received that the cruiser Raleigh was in the wooden dry-dock and a number of men were working on her hull when a thunder storm swept over the naval station.

The workmen sought shelter under the vessel, which rested on blocks in the centre of the dock.

Suddenly, without warning, two of the men fell dead and most of the others were knocked senseless by an electrical discharge. Officers of the vessel who were sitting about the deck did not feel the shock, but all the compasses and similar instruments were affected, and the vessel has been permanently magnetized in such a manner as to render the electric apparatus and compass useless without considerable repairs and adjustment.

The only explanation that is offered by naval officers for the escape of the officers of the vessel from the shock was that the Raleigh was insulated by being on the blocks, which were dry, while the men who were killed or injured were in the shallow water on the bottom of the dock.

POPULIST SENATORS CONFER.

They Decide To Oppose, It Is Said, Any Duty on Raw Sugar.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The populist senators had an important conference in the president's room at the capitol, the particulars of which have been surrounded by great secrecy. The conference was held to consider the position which should be taken regarding the sugar schedule when the tariff bill is reported to the senate and a vote is taken on the sugar amendment.

There was a free discussion of the subject, and it is said that, as a result of the conference, not only will the populists oppose any proposition looking to a duty on raw sugar or differential duty favoring the trust, but that their colleagues in the house will take similar action when the bill comes before that body.

It is not known that the populists in either branch of congress will vote against the tariff bill if the duty be retained upon sugar, but that they will oppose that feature of the bill as it now stands in the senate seems to be very clearly assured.

Illinois Democrats.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 28.—Franklin MacVeagh, of Chicago, a stalwart republican up to ten years ago and who has since been known as an independent than as a party adherent, will be the next United States senator from Illinois, should the legislature to be elected in November have a democratic majority. This is the decision of the democratic state convention. Next to the senatorship struggle interest centered chiefly on the platform and its reference to the national administration. Those who wanted an entire omission of any reference to the chief executive and a strong silver plank waived the latter demand on condition that the strong administration men consent to a general and not a specific reference to the chief executive. This was agreed to.

National Republican League.

DENVER, Col., June 20.—The last day's session of the National Republican League convention was marked by exciting contests of rules, place of meeting and officers, much time being taken in a personal canvass upon these questions. The withdrawal of Col. McAlpin's name was greatly regretted by the New York delegation, who had worked so successfully, but it was done upon his peremptory request telegraphed from New York. Hon. W. W. Tracey was re-elected president and A. B. Humphrey elected secretary. The selection of a treasurer was left to the executive committee. Cleveland, O., was selected as the next place of meeting, and the time of such meeting was left to the executive committee.

A Murderer Dies in Jail.

CHESTER, Pa., June 28.—Tom Rodgers, who was serving a term of 20 years in the county jail for the murder of his father and the attempted murder of his mother and sister, is dead. Since his incarceration in prison he has declined rapidly, his illness being aggravated by his vicious habits. Without any provocation, in January, 1893, young Rodgers shot his father, mother and sister. The father died soon after, but his mother and sister recovered after weeks of suffering.

Brown Gets Twenty Years.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., June 28.—Walter Brown, the murderer of Hiram Osborn, was last night sentenced to 20 years in Dannemora prison, the extreme penalty for the crime of which he was convicted. In passing sentence the judge said the evidence warranted a conviction of murder in the first degree.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The withdrawal of $500,000 gold from the New York subtreasury for export leaves the net treasury gold reserve stand at $66,500,000. This accounts for all the gold paid in by the new York banks and all the gold withdrawn for shipment up to the close of business last evening.

WAR ON IN EARNEST

Strikes Ordered on Almost Every Western Road.

Men Being Called Out Each Hour. Ten Thousand Employes of Roads Out of Chicago Now on Strike—K. of L. Joins Hands With the American Railway Union.

CHICAGO, June 28.—As a result so far of the boycott of the Pullman Palace Car company by the American Railway union, there are over 10,000 employes of the different roads out of Chicago now on strike, and men are being called out in this city and other points every hour.

The attempt to run Pullman cars has resulted in the tieing up of the yards of fifteen railroads centering here. Of these the Illinois Central, Wisconsin Central, Chicago Great Western, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northern Pacific and the lines interested in the Western Indiana system are tied up completely, the only trains run out being made up and manned by officer of the road. The switchmen of the Pan Handle and Northwestern roads have also struck.

A general strike has been ordered on the Northern Pacific system.

Strikes will be declared within the next day on the Fort Wayne, the Pan Handle and other Pennsylvania lines, the Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago & Alton, and Santa Fe. The latter road is now partially tied up along the line on orders issued by the union officials, but the men in Chicago will not be ordered out until late to-day.

At a conference between President Debs and Vice-President Howard, of the American Railway union, and Grand Master Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, the latter agreed to support the Pullman strikers in the boycott, and in accordance with the agreement, issued a manifesto addressed to all orders of the Knights of Labor in the United States, in which he said:

"It has been the policy of the Pullman Palace Car company to reduce the salaries of its employes until the starvation point has been reached and as a last resort the employes entered upon a strike to protect themselves and families against utter degradation.

"The railway corporations of the country, through their general managers, have formed a coalition with the Pullman company and have declared in a series of resolutions that they will assist said company in resisting the demands of their employes with all the means and influence at their command.

"In view of this fact, it behooves you, as members of the Knights of Labor, to render the striking members of the American Railway union such assistance as can consistently be given in their fight against plutocratic enslavement. The time has come for unity of action. The sons of toil must stand together, shoulder to shoulder, in the great conflict that is now waging. There must be no dissension or division. Unification is the one supreme demand.

"You are hereby urgently requested to not only prosecute with all possible power the boycott against the Pullman Palace Car company, but all railroad corporations aiding said Pullman company.

"This is a fight between united labor and monopolistic corporations, and labor must win, cost what it may."

The officers and members of the American Railway union are naturally jubilant over the support offered by the Knights of Labor, and insist that it will not be the only labor organization to join in the struggle. It is claimed that the firemen will eventually unite in the strike and boycott, as a body as well as individually, and strong pressure is being brought to bear on other railroad orders as well as the miners, who have expressed the heartiest sympathy with the strikers.

The sensational feature of the strike so far was the complete tieing up of the roads running out of the grand Central station, and which include the Wisconsin Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northern Pacific and Chicago Great Western. Each road has been left without a single employe in the yards, and although the Baltimore & Ohio succeeded in getting out its passenger trains, all the work was done by the officers of the company, who manned the switch engines and made up the trains.

The first victory gained by the strikers was at 6 o'clock last evening when the Chicago Great Western, after its through passenger train to St. Paul and Kansas City had been backed into the depot, decided to conform to the wishes of the employes and cut off the two Pullman sleepers which are usually run.

Telegrams announce the tieing up of the Santa Fe at nearly all western points. A representative of the union has gone to Bloomington to tie up the yards there.

Committees were sent to the offices of the Union Interlocking Switch & Signal company and the Johnson Switch company to protest against those concerns sending out their experts to operate the switches, crossing gates and towers of the Illinois Central. The representatives of both companies denied that they were furnishing operators, but the union officials insist that they are and threaten retaliation.

The union has promised protection to every employe who assists in the cause, whether he is a member of the union or not.

The Punxsutawney Strike.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 28. — The strike in this region, so far as it concerns the Bell, Lewis & Yates and the Rochester & Pittsburg Coal & Iron companies, is about ended, and unless something unexpected occurs the men employed by those companies will be at work by Monday next. The carload of new men that the Rochester & Pittsburg Coal & Iron company shipped here on Monday and who were captured by the strikers, were shipped to Buffalo at the company's expense.

Gravesenders Let Loose.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Another consignment of Gravesend election inspectors having completed their terms of imprisonment, were let out of the Kings county penitentiary. They were Conrad Steubenbord, jr., John Brownhill, John W. Murphy and Mortimer Morris. These men pleaded guilty before Supreme Court Justice Brown, who sentenced them to three months' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Murphy used to be John Y. McKane's secretary.

Sugar Trust Case.

BOSTON, June 28.—Friday next has been set for the hearing of the case of the attorney-general against the American Sugar Refining company.

HILL FIGHTING HARD

Fruitless Efforts Against an Income Tax.

All of His Amendments Ruthlessly Slaughtered by the Majority—Only Two More Pages of the Feature To Go Over and the Tariff Bill Is Practically Finished—Work in House.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator Hill, of New York, continues the same role which he has been performing in the senate ever since the income tax provisions of the tariff bill were taken up—assailing the section wherever there appeared to him to be a weak or vulnerable point, offering amendments which have all been ruthlessly slaughtered by the democratic majority. As there were only two pages of the income tax feature unfinished when the senate met this morning, the fight on this section—and the tariff bill, in fact—is nearly at an end.

Senator Hill has made a good strong fight against the income tax feature, but the odds were against him. At one time he endeavored to provoke Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.) into discussions, which Mr. Vest obstinately avoided. It was only when Senator Gray (dem., Del.) turned against the finance committee and ranged himself by the side of Mr. Hill in assaulting one of the sections of the bill, that requiring business corporations to keep books open to inspection of the internal revenue officers, that Mr. Vest was provoked into speech, and it proved to be one of his bitterest outpourings. He described Mr. Gray's speech as an extraordinary eruption of fervid eloquence, only to be accounted for by the near approach of the national anniversary, when the American eagle screamed its loudest. And he referred, sarcastically, to the alliance between Mr. Gray, Mr. Hill, Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Chandler.

House of Representatives.

In the morning hour the house passed the senate resolution calling on the secretary of war for information as to the cost of making a deep water harbor at Everett, Wash., and the joint resolution reported from the committee on appropriations extending for 30 days after June 30 the appropriations for the current fiscal year. A few other measures of minor importance were passed, and the bill providing for the admission of New Mexico to statehood was taken up.

Amendments offered to the section of the bill providing for common schools, providing for teaching the English language in all public schools, gave rise to much debate and were finally rejected. Final action on the bill was postponed until after the second morning hour to-day.

TAKEN TO DANNEMORA.

Mrs. Halliday Starts for the Prison Where She Is To Be Executed.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 28.—Mrs. Halliday left here for Dannemora this morning. She was in charge of Sheriff Beecher and Deputy Sheriff John Rice.

The sheriff expresses himself as delighted at the fact that he is soon to be rid of his troublesome charge.

Mrs. Halliday is under sentence to die in the electric chair during the week beginning August 13 next.

Bound, Gagged and Robbed.

PITTSBURG, June 28.—Mrs. Wightman, wife of Thomas Wightman, jr., general manager of Wightman's glass house, West End, was bound, gagged and robbed by two men at her home, on Main street. While alone with her babe about midnight, two men entered her room and stuffed a handkerchief saturated with chloroform in her mouth, bound her hands, ankles and knees with a rope, and then proceeded to ransack the house. Mrs. Wightman was speechless from fright. The robbers secured valuable booty, but were frightened away before completing their work. Mr. Wightman returned home later and liberated his wife, who is prostrated from shock. There is no clue to the identity of the robbers.

Embezzler Christopher Sentenced.

NEWARK, N. J., June 28.—Edward Christopher, the auditor of the Prudential Insurance company, who was arrested on a charge of stealing $10,000 from the company, after he had made a confession of his wrong-doings, was taken into court, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary. This is the quickest disposition of a case of this kind on record. The light sentence was imposed at the request of President Dryden of the insurance company. There was much sympathy expressed for his family, who suffer really more than he does. Living at a cost of $5,000 a year, while his income was only $2,500, caused Christopher's downfall.

Sentenced for Illegal Voting.

NEWARK, N. J., June 28.—John Fitzsimmons and Peter Riley, convicted of illegal voting at the last state election, were sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary, and James Marlatt, John Steeple, David C. Porter, George Fisher, Benjamin Birch and J. Oliver Tunison, found guilty of returning a false certificate of the number of votes cast, while acting election officers, were let off with a joint fine of $1 and cost of conviction in one case.

To-day's Races at New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 28.—Most of the spectators who were here yesterday to witness the triangular Yale-Harvard-Columbia freshmen race did not leave when the race was postponed until to-day but remained over last night to be on hand for both the 'varsity and freshmen events to-day. The waters are choppy this morning, but not so turbulent as they were last evening when it was found necessary to postpone the freshmen event.

Designs for World's Fair Medal.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The controversy over the World's Fair medal has been settled by the adoption by Secretary Carlisle of a composite medal, one half according to the design of Charles E. Barber, designer for the Philadelphia mint, and St. Gaudens original design depicting the landing of Columbus, for the obverse side.

Venezuela Stops Bull Fighting.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Mr. Bertieman, charge d'affaires ad interim at Caracas, Venezuela, has informed the department of state that by an order of the governor of the federal district, the killing of bulls in the hippodrome of that city is absolutely prohibited.

The selection of Asbury Park as the meeting place of the National Editorial Association was a delicate compliment to the well-known temperance and religious proclivities of the members. The delegates from Kansas are, however, expected to bring their own corkscrews.

Did you ever stop to count up what a city of churches this is? Here we are, Plainfield and North Plainfield combined, with a census of only 17,000, and yet look at the list of institutions regularly conducting Sabbath and week-day worship:

First Baptist Church.
Park Avenue Baptist Church.
Seventh-Day Baptist Church.
Mt. Olive Baptist Church.
Third Street Mission, Baptist.
Emmanuel Baptist Church.
First Presbyterian Church.
Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.
Warren Chapel, Presbyterian.
Hope Chapel, "
Bethel Chapel, "
First Methodist Episcopal Church.
Grace Methodist Episcopal Church.
Monroe Avenue M. E. Chapel.
Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.
Grace Protestant Episcopal Church.
Church of the Redeemer, Protestant Episcopal.
Church of the Holy Cross, Protestant Episcopal.
Church of Our Saviour, Protestant Episcopal.
Church of the Heavenly Rest, Protestant Episcopal.
Trinity Reformed Church.
German Reformed Church.
German Lutheran Church.
Congregational Church.
All Souls Church, Unitarian.
Friends Meeting, Hicksite.
Friends Meeting, Orthodox.
St. Mary's Church, Roman Catholic.
St. Joseph's Church, Roman Catholic.
Brethren (Plymouth so-called)—two meetings.
Disciples (First Church of Christ).
Women's Christian Temperance Union.
Women's Temperance Aid Society.
Young Men's Christian Association.
Colored Young Men's Christian Association.
Salvation Army.

All these are in the corporate limits, and another chapel is about to be built by the Presbyterians in the Bull-Frog City district. Besides, outpost meetings are regularly held by Plainfield people, on one side of town in the Mt. Pleasant school-house; on the other, in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Chapel, just over the border.

Each of these meeting places is thrifty and well attended, and most of the societies are mighty powerful, and growing all the time.

There's one jail in the town—a miserable little hovel that would be crowded with a dozen inmates, and that's still too big to accommodate the town's bad folks. There's another similar coop in the borough. These institutions are a necessity chiefly as a transient stopping-place for the wicked ones who drift in from abroad.

Thirty-seven big meeting-houses!
And two little jails!
Pretty good sort of a town, is Plainfield: is n't it, the rest of you folks in Jersey?

HYMENEAL.

Yates—Cornwell.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

DANIELSONVILLE, Conn., June 28—A beautiful wedding took place in the Westfield Congregational Church, Danielsonville, this afternoon at 4, when Frederick Washburn Yates, son of Hon. J. W. Yates of Plainfield, plighted vows with his bride, Miss Bertha Kedzie Cornwell, daughter of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cornwell.

A brilliant assemblage witnessed the ceremony. The bridal party entered the church to the wedding march from Lohengrin, and took their places before an altar banked with palms, ferns and daisies. Rev. Dr. Edward Anderson of Danielsonville performed the ceremony with dignity and impressiveness, and the responses were firm and clear.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of moire antique white, with garniture of point applique. She wore a tulle veil and carried lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Letty Learned of New Britain, Conn., Miss Katheryn Yates of Plainfield, and Miss Margaret Yates of Plainfield, bridemaids; and Miss Della Stanley Peck of New Haven, maid of honor. The bridemaids wore white organdie, with white moire sashes, and carried white shower bouquets of daisies. The maid of honor wore a white satin princess gown.

The best man was Percy H. Stewart of Plainfield, and the ushers were H. V. Borden of Plainfield, F. A. Cokefair of Plainfield, E. H. Everit of New Haven, F. S. Cornwell of New Haven, and G. P. Beebe of Norfolk, Conn.

The recessional from the church was Mendelssohn's wedding march. A charming reception followed at the house, which was a veritable floral bower with daisies, roses, ferns and palms.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates will reside in Plainfield, where the groom is fitting up a home on Kensington avenue. Plainfield society will warmly welcome such an attractive bride.

Poole—Bogert.

By Friends ceremony last evening Miss Hannah Etta Bogert, daughter of Mrs Rachel Bogert, was married to John W. Poole. The wedding took place at 7 at the home of the bride's mother, 522 East Second street. About 60 were present. The presents received were very handsome.

The best man was E. S. Weaver of West Second street and the bridemaid Miss Annie Spragle of Bartinsville, Pa. Aaron M. Powell read the certificate before it was signed by the guests. Refreshments were served during the social hour which followed.

The guests from out of town included Reuben Miller of Stroudsburg, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wright and Miss Mary Wright of New York City, Mrs. Hannah Underhill of Chappaqua, N. Y., Mrs. Martha Brinckerhoff and Mrs. Belden of Jamaica, L. I., and Mrs. Viola Wright and Mrs. Emma D. Poole of Bridgeton.

Mr. and Mrs. Poole went to New York city last night. They will visit in Bridgeton after a short trip to Philadelphia. A reception will be given at the home of Mr. Poole's mother in Bridgeton to-morrow evening. The couple will begin housekeeping at once at Mrs. Bogerts' home.

Cockburn—Holmes.

Miss Katie Agnes Holmes was married to Francis Beaufort Cockburn of Armiston Hall, Ontario, at 9 this morning. Justice Vincent W. Nash performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ann Holmes, 323 West Front street. Many friends were present.

The best man was the brother, and the bridemaid the sister of the bride. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cockburn left on the 10:04 train to spend ten days in Asbury Park.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. J. M. Bettman of Willow avenue is visiting friends in Albany.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel will hold a strawberry festival this evening.

A Fourth of July service will be held by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational Church next Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

In the East Third Street Mission at 8 tomorrow evening the Secretary of the Local Union of Christian Endeavor, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, will make an address on some phases of the work of the society. Miss Hawkins has had a practical experience in the work which will make her address very instructive to all who may attend.

The Summer conference of the Westfield Christian Endeavor Local Union was held Tuesday evening in the Cranford Presbyterian Church. The Union includes the societies of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Baptist churches of Westfield, the Presbyterian Church of Cranford, the Baptist and Presbyterian churches of Roselle, and the societies of Locust Grove, Willow Grove, Bethlehem, Aldene, and Branch Mills. President J. Warren Brown of Westfield presided. After fifteen-minute song service, led by Samuel MacQuoid of Roselle, Rev. C. H. Patton of Westfield read a selection from the Scriptures and Rev. H. R. Goodchild of Roselle offered prayer. The delegates were welcomed to the new church by the pastor, Rev. George F. Greene. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Dr. James A. Worden of Philadelphia. Dr. Worden spoke of the value and importance of Christian character. He said among other things: "Many of us young people wish that we had a million dollars or more, that we might devote it to God's cause, and accomplish some grand work for him. The stewardship of a million dollars is not given to many in this world; and I fear if it was given to some of us, we would find some excuse for holding on to the larger half. But there is something that each one of us can give that will be more acceptable in Heaven than a million of dollars—and that is, the gift of a Christ-like character." After the adddress, a short business session was held. The choir sang a selection, "The Lord is My Light", The Conference sang "All Hail the Power", and Dr. Worden pronounced the benediction. The delegates remained some time after the close of the Conference to inspect the new church and organ, and to enjoy a social time

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Methodist Episcopal Church excursion to Asbury Park takes place Tuesday, July 10

Rev. C. Schenck will preach a national sermon Sunday evening, appropriate to the Fourth and the times.

One of the most successful strawberry festivals of the year took place in Holy Cross Parish Building yesterday, afternoon and evening. There was a large attendance, and the rooms were prettily decorated.

The women of St. Joseph's Church began a festival in Saengerbund Hall very successfully last evening. A still larger attendance is expected at the close tonight. Dancing to E. M. O'Reilly's music is a feature of the festival. Those who attended to sale of lemonade from a prettily decorated well last evening were Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Shotwell, Mrs. McCullough and Mrs. Farley. The refreshment stand was managed by Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. Blatz, Mrs. David Kenney and Mrs. Andrew Kenney. At the flower stand were Miss Nellie McCann, Miss Mary Jacot and Miss Katie Cooley. An organ, a picture of Rev. Father Miller and other articles will be disposed of this evening.

CYCLING COMMENT.

W. H. Wells has been suspended for 10 days from the L. A. W. for foul riding on the Crescent track.

Reserved seats for the Crescent Fourth of July meet have been placed on sale.

Always on the Go.

The team which draws Engine No. 2 made a quick run on East Second street this morning. Will Robinson was driving them to a cart and had just left the new headquarters when one of the reins broke. The horses could not be controlled and ran until they were stopped by a farmer at Richmond street.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J, and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

SCHNEIDERWIND TALKS.

WONDERS HOW THE POLICE GOT ON TO HIS GAME.

Wonders Also What Became of His Pocketbook—Holds that a Friendly Game of Cards Is a Safety-valve Against Blowing Money in on Crime-Causing Rum.

Peter Schneiderwind, the brakeman arrested on a charge of keeping a gambling house at 214 Watchung avenue, last night told his story of the affair which led to his arrest. His description of the way in which he spent last Friday night was given in the following statement:

"I met three friends also employed on the railroad Saturday evening, and went with them from Rafferty's saloon to my house. Two were from Dunellen and while they were waiting for the 12:43 train a game of euchre was started. At 12:30 I was asked for the time. I looked at my watch and said it was 12. Accordingly they missed their train and I invited them to stay until morning, when I would go to the 4:13 train with them. I said I would stay up all night and be $15 or $20 ahead in the morning. There wasn't much money in the crowd, perhaps a dollar apiece. Five cents of each jackpot went into the kitty. It held $1.10 at one time. We made no disturbance. Our game was as quiet as one in the Country Club. I have lived in the house for five or six months and played euchre lots of times, but none of the neighbors ever complained to me about my annoying them.

"I first heard the officers about 3 Saturday morning. They made a noise by walking about among boxes and trying to attract me downstairs. I had everything fastened so that the policemen could not have seen into the room where we were playing. I left a pocketbook near a window and it disappeared. I'll not say who took it. I went out by the back way to Second street and returned to the room. If we had been doing anything wrong I could have gotten the whole of them out by that way. The police stayed around for about an hour and a-half and then we came out and passed them as they stood by the door of the barber's shop next to my house.

"If we had been doing anything wrong why did they not arrest us at once? It is probable that they concocted a story in the morning. One of the men played with me that night for the first time. Mac, Donahue and Klefe, the signal man, may be called upon at the trial.

"I may be convicted here, but I stand a good chance of getting clear before an Elizabeth jury. I will have some show down there with another lawyer for counsel. There is no gambling going on in Plainfield. It seems better to drop a couple of dollars in a night at cards than to blow it in on drink and be made liable to commit crime."

The police first noticed Schneiderwind and his two Dunellen companions Friday night on Front street at the head of Park avenue shortly before 11. Policemen Cooney and Frederickson rapped for Policeman Vanderweg to make him a third witness. The alleged gambling was detected nearly an hour after midnight. The men were seen, and portions of their interesting conversation were overheard. That the players discovered the presence of the police is doubted. Schneiderwind says he has several times concealed himself in the cherry tree in front of his house to watch if Cooney entered the yard, but never saw him do so.

Chief Grant says he will probably subpœna Schneiderwind's three friends as witnesses at the trial Monday to make sure that they will be there in case Peter does not call them. Schneiderwind may withdraw his plea of not guilty, plead guilty instead, and pay his fine without bringing his fellow employes into court. The city ordinance provides simply for the punishment of the keepers of gambling houses. Arrests of other parties for playing for money must be made under the State law.

Another Gambling Arrest.

Leander Brown, colored, of Fairchild's alley, was arrested this morning by Officer Kiely and taken before City Judge Coddington on a charge of keeping a gambling house by conducting a game of cards for money Monday forenoon.

He pleaded not guilty and was released on his own recognizance to appear for trial at 2 Monday afternoon. Leander admitted that he had played cards with three other colored men but said he had not gambled. He said that the money seen on the table by Policemen Kiely and Robinson, and which had disappeared before the officers could gain an entrance, was simply placed there for convenience when the growler was rushed.

Leander is an old offender. He has been in court several times as a gambler, but has never before been charged with running a den of his own.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen.

The new dog law goes into effect July 1.

Mrs. William Gulick is very ill at her home.

A family from New York moved into the Bradley house yesterday.

The Summer decorations at Taylor's Hotel are unusually fine this year.

Mrs. J. Bennett of Elizabeth spent yesterday with her aunt, Mrs. J. D. Bennett.

Fred Ward will appear with his handsome new wagon Saturday, for his Bound Brook route.

Louise Brakely, daughter of Dr. Brakely, is visiting her cousin, Miss Peck, in Plainfield.

Mrs. W. R. Codington of Plainfield spent a most pleasant time yesterday with the Misses Smith.

Firman Gise is doing the mason work on the new houses at Sewaren for the Land Improvement Company.

Friendship Council, J. O. U. A. M., of New Market, will also attend the Methodist Church Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Kinsey will preach a patriotic sermon.

The suit of the Law Publishing Journal against Harry B. Cook, came up before Justice Huff Tuesday. Defendant did not appear, and judgment was rendered by the justice in favor of the plaintiff, which will amount to $73 26 and costs.

Peter Pfinger, proprietor of the hotel in Cranford, drove to Dunellen a few days ago to visit some friends. He started to return home and in crossing the railroad near the station one of his horse's feet caught between a rail and the boards. The animal was thrown to the ground. He regained his feet, however, and there was no damage.

At the meeting of William G. Holton Council, J. O. U. A. M., held Tuesday evening, there was a very large attendance of members. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Councilor—J. F. G. Kinney.
Vice Councilor—Adam Herlick.
Recording Secretary—P. V. Huff.
Assistant Recording Secretary—J. S. Fisher.
Financial Secretary—D. C. Boice.
Treasurer—F. W. Vail.
Conductor—Lewis Snyder.
Warden—John Dunn.
Inside Sentinel—Harry Vail.
Outside Sentinel—Leonard Leech.
Trustee—Walter Vliet.

One new member was initiated, and the Council accepted an invitation to attend the patriotic service Sunday evening in the Methodist Church.

Among those who enjoyed the festivities at the birthday celebration of C. D. Taylor, Tuesday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, the Misses Hewson, Smith, Howard Woolston, Frank Sheppard, J. B. Young, W. Townley, Robert Eick, Frank Eick and Henry Whitemeier of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cladek, Miss Georgie Herniss, of Rahway, Mr. VanNest and Mr. Meeker, of Newark, Miss Rohl, of Woodbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Maier, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Taylor, George Taylor, C. Lowrie, A. Giddis, F. Ward, Louis Hilderbrant, J. Stein, F. Nelson and Mr. Wyckoff, of Dunellen. Mr. Taylor knew nothing whatever of the affair it being a complete surprise. He even addressed some of the invitation envelopes, without one thought of what was coming. The event was a most enjoyable one.

WEST END NOTES.

Several new houses are being erected in the West End.

The addition to Hope Chapel is rapidly nearing completion.

THE PARK CLUB DANCE.

Juniors Have a Delightful German Over the Brook.

One of the prettiest dances of the season was given last evening in the Park Club by the friends of Gerald and Henry Lowe, who sail for Europe Saturday to be gone until late in the Fall. There was general dancing until 10:30, when the german commenced, and continued until 2 a. m. The favors table was looked after by Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. J W. Reinhart and Mrs. L G. Timpson. The german was led by Miss Katharine Reinhart and Louis Waring. The following also danced: William Runyon and Miss Agnes Ely of New York, Harry West and Miss Lockwood of Philadelphia, Lawrence VanBuren and Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Henry Lowe and Miss Caroline Reinhart, Gerald Lowe and Miss May Waring, Clifford McGee and Miss Florence Waring, Sherwood West and Miss Caroline Bogart, Walter Place and Edith Taylor, Arthur West and Lotta Lowe, Clarence Peck and Maud Middledith, Harry McGee and Miss Florence Abbott, Clifford Cooley and Miss Bessie Evans, Raymond Lefferts and Miss May Evans.

THE EARLY-CLOSING QUESTION.

Chance for Customers to Help Along the Cause of the Clerks.

The early-closing movement ebbs and flows like the tide. Now it is up in all its strength, and then it fades away until not the faintest ripple is discernible. As to the merits of the matter, the advantage to dealers and their assistants to bring about a general understanding to have all stores to close at 7 in the evening, nothing need scarcely be said. The arguments have been presented so often that they have a decided chestnutty flavor. It will be taken for granted that the justice of giving shopkeepers and their clerks as much of a free evening as possible is everywhere admitted; the question still remains how to get it.

Interest is revived in this matter through the attempt of the grocers to stick to the early-closing fashion. It shows signs of failing through a want of unity. One dealer, too eager after trade, broke the compact and the whole combination is threatened with disruption. The concern of one concern proves to be an injury to all.

The right people after all to handle this question are the consumers themselves. If a goodly proportion of them stop making any purchases after 7 in the evening dealers will soon find it unprofitable to burn gas and keep help after that hour to wait upon a stray, straggling customer or two. The surest way to introduce any reform that has justice in its foundation is to make it pecuniarily hurtful to act contrary to it. Dollars always do the loudest talking.

NEW JERSEY CROPS.

(From Official State Bulletin)

Haying is at its height in the northern and central sections and about completed in the southern part of the State. The yield is much better than was expected; in the vicinity of Moorestown clover hay is more abundant than for years past.

Wheat harvest will begin this week in the southern and parts of the central section; some rye and wheat has been already cut.

Oats are heading and are much affected by rust and lice.

Corn still improving and growing finely.

Apples and peaches continue dropping, and pears also in some sections; blight has attacked quince and apple trees, especially the Smith's Cider Apple.

Cherries are not rotting or dropping to any extent and are plentiful and of good quality.

Strawberries about finished in all sections. Blackberries ripening and raspberries and whortleberries coming into market; all promise an abundance of fruit.

This Excursion a Fizzle.

A special train was to have taken the Colored Y. M. C. A. excursionists to Coney Island this morning, but the necessary number of passengers, 300, could not be promised. It had been arranged instead that 400 should go in a car attached to the 8:15 train.

Only about 50 appeared at the North Avenue station this morning, and the special car could not be secured. After waiting in vain for others to come, about 25 went as regular passengers on the 8:48. The others returned to their homes.

—Edward Conshee dropped a demijohn on the sidewalk in front of L. W. Kandolph's Pharmacy shortly after 11 this morning. Two gallons of port wine flowed into the gutter.

WHAT ARE THE "BLUES"?

Woman's Color is an Unfailing Thermometer.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

A woman's thermometer is her color. She is red with embarrassment or some deep emotion; she is white with fright; she is supposed to be green with envy; but when she is blue it means that she is sick.

It is not the fault of the woman if she has the blues and that "want-to-be-let-alone" feeling. It is the fault of her condition which makes happiness impossible.

No woman can be happy and lighthearted when painful female complaints crush out her life.

If she is melancholy, excitable, nervous, dizzy, or troubled with sleeplessness or fainting spells, they are symptoms of serious female weakness.

A leaf out of the experience of Mrs. Anna Miller, who lives at Duhring, Pa., shows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure that terrible weakness and bearing-down pain in the abdomen, the dizziness in the head, the feeling of irritability, and loss of appetite.

"I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound," she writes, "for all female complaints. It's my greatest friend."

COMMUTERS COLUMN.

Commuters between Roselle and Newark take comfort in knowing that the Pullman strike can't affect their branch of the service.

Much alarm was occasioned on one of the trains yesterday by the sudden discovery of symptoms of whooping-cough on the part of a well-known Plainfield commuter. A wild scramble was made for the platforms, and one young married man was making brave headway for the cowcatcher when it was found that the agitated gentleman had only swallowed a safety-pin, open.

Plainfield commuters to the metropolis talk in whispers on the trains—but haven't yet told their wives—of a beautiful and unusual apparition that has come forth in the New York streets. A half dozen or more girls of eighteen, and fair to see, have appeared on Wall street and New street and Broad street, each girl wearing roses in her hair, suits of blue serge, russet shoes, shirt bosoms and yachting caps. They are employed by a company, are duly licensed and, I hope, well paid. They look fresh and ornamental, and they sell bouquets at 5 cents a head. Women don't look well in Wall street as a rule, but flower selling is a vocation or avocation essentially feminine and should be kept so. A man selling flowers is regarded as incongruous as a rhinoceros would be on a flying trapeze. The young brokers, and the older ones, too, received the delegations of flower merchants with interest and even with enthusiasm. The girls, for their part, seemed to be lost in wonder, and the gallant Plainfield contingent was their special admiration.

Pythian Election.

The following officers were elected in Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., last evening:

An Entirely Unequaled Array of Attractions With the Adam 4-Paw Shows.

HY the equal of the Adam Forepaugh Shows, which comes to Plainfield, July 6, cannot exist in this country, is simply because it monopolizes the features without which no other shows can compete with them for quality, either in magnitude or merit or in public esteem. There is an abundance of evidence to support this statement, of which the most available is the tone of the notices given the shows by the newspapers wherever the shows have been seen this year. Never before has any tented exhibition is this country received such unqualified commendation from the press. It rarely falls below positive enthusiasm.

CHAPTER XVI.

Dare went to her room so filled with tense expectance as almost to stop the beating of her heart. She went straight to the toilet table and saw, with no sense of surprise, a handful of field flowers laid loosely upon it. At her touch they fell apart, letting her eye rest upon a scrap of paper, bearing in Jubilee's best flourish:

"mis5 dare, this Toe say, wil yo cum toe gait wil bee Thair twell Arfter Midnight."

Drawing her curtain, she looked outside. The "gait" was almost half a mile away. You came through it from the highway that ran past Exeter. The distance was as nothing to her quick feet. Even had she not been absolutely fearless, all abroad was now such silver shining as mimicked day. But ought she to heed a message so vague? Her aunt, she knew, would disapprove. Did not honor forbid her to do under her roof the thing which would be against her wishes?

But the case must be urgent, the need strong, to bring her thus a secret message. What had Jubilee to tell that the whole world might not hear? The boy was sharp, shrewd beyond his years, and Allen's sworn advocate and worshiper. In leaving Ridgeley her last word had been for him, bidding him bring her instant news if anything befell the household. Most likely that was what had brought him to this midnight conference. Still that face in the glass. Spite of her bravery, her firm nerves, she shivered, recalling eerie tales of apparitions forewarning death or peril.

She must go. Below stairs she heard the clang of closing doors. Running hastily down, she said to the servant:

"I'll fasten the west door. I want to sit on the small porch awhile and see the moonlight and the mists along the creek.

"As you please, Miss Dare. Better take de key outside wid yo'. De do' falls shet sometimes. You might fin yo'self locked out," Black Patsey said, adding after a minute: "You don't look lik' yo' mother. I 'member her. I hear 'em say, Aun' Jincey say yo' des de livin image of her mistes, yo' gran'pa's mother, dat died so long ago."

"I am like her portrait more than any one else," Dare said, impatient to be off, but not daring to show it. After a little she said, as though the thought had just come to her: "Shut the door, Patsey; then nothing can get in, no matter how moonstruck I may happen to be. With the key I can come in whenever I please."

"Young ladies mos' giner'lly want ter watch de moon when good lookin beaux des gone erway," Patsey chuckled, obediently closing the door. Dare dropped down upon the steps and for 10 minutes watched the faint ghostly mists writhe up from the babbling runnel and hover and waver in the full leafed tree tops.

As she stepped lightly to the grass a low growl fell on her ear. She saw in the moonlight a big, shaggy white cur standing full in her path, gently waving his tail and looking at her with the air of a stern but loving guardian. With eyes full on his she went straight up to him and laid a hand on his head, saying very low: "Nice fellow! Big dog! Come and walk with me!"

Half reluctantly he yielded to her impulse, stood aside and at last walked soberly behind. Keeping well in shadow, darting from tree to tree, from covert to covert, Dare gained the carriage way and ran so swiftly along it that, almost before she thought of it, the gate barred her way.

Not for long. As she stopped breathless and panting it swung open, and Jubilee's voice said:

"Oh, Miss Dare, if you please, progress outside. Those dog is too expicious here in the plain moonshine."

In silence Dare followed him to the shade of a big oak that stood a little to one side of the highway. As soon as they were well within it she said very low:

"What brought you here, Jubilee? Are you by yourself? Tell me quick. Is anything wrong at home?"

"My two feet tprought me here," Jubilee said, with a grin. "That is to say, I pedestrianed since 12 o'clock today."

"Why did you come? Is mammy sick, or grandfather, or anybody in trouble?" Dare asked hurriedly. "That was only three hours after I left. Surely nothing happened in that little time."

She went straight up to him and laid a hand on his head.

Jubilee looked down and began to speak very low, in his earnestness forgetting the dictionary and relapsing now and then into the dialect of his race.

"When yo' went away," he said, "I went an axed old marster ter lemme go see granny. Word had come that she wus sick, sick'er heap, an I thought I'd lik' ter see her once ergin 'fore she died, ef dat got ter happen right soon. Yo' know she lives 'tween here an Ridgeley. So when marster say he ain't got no bjections ter doin witthout me fer the rest of the week I put on my clean shirt an my Sunday clothes an come lippen erlong ter her house, jest beyant the Bollin Spring church meetin house. When I got dar, I saw er fine horse wid er man's saddle on hitched sorter behin the house, lik' whoever done rode it wus sorter 'feared somebody'd fin out he been dar. I say ter myself: 'Ef dat's de doctor man's critter, mus' be he's 'feared ter let folks know he 'tendin on de ole conjure woman. So I better stay outside tell he's done gon erway.' Den I crope ter de chimbley corner an peep through de little winder granny had cut 'tween de logs dar at de head er her bed. Miss Dare, who yo' reckon I see inside, lookin black as de dark night too? Shore as we stan's here it wus dat ar Mr. Hawkins whut come ter Ridgeley arter Mr. Allen Fauntleroy. De sight er 'im skeered me good, I tell yo'. I jump back from dat winder an scrooch down under hit, an dar I heard him say, I did, Miss Dare, it's God's truf I'm er tellin you: 'Well, aunty, I have brought what you asked for, a lock of my enemy's hair an one of his handkerchiefs. I spent $50 to get them, too, so yo' may guess what money there is in it for yo' if only the spell works right.

"I popped up an peeped through the winder ergin. Granny was layin in de bed, wid er eyes half shet, but soon as he laid dem t'ings in her hand she laugh out loud an say, sorter mawkin him: 'Ef yo' had told me the truth, yo' might have saved yo'r money. Ef my spells would work on Frank Overton, he would have died 50 years ago.'

"'How you know it's 'im?' de man say, settin down hard in de cheer, he wus so 'stonished. Granny shet 'er mouf wid er snap an say, "Never min, I know.' Den he try ter 'suade her hit warn't ole marster. She mus' work de spell anyway, but she tole him 'tain't no use. Ef she wus, hit would come back on her. At las' he got up an come out de do', an as he got on his critter I hear 'im say ter himself: 'That ole fool is more afraid of her master than she is of the devil. I'm t'inkin there is nothin for it now but to get some of these hill fellows to put a bullet in 'im.'

"When he had done rid erway, I sauntered up lik' I jes' done come, an warn't granny mad! Ax me whut I come dar dat time er week fer. She ain't sick. Nee'n ter think she gwine die yit erwhile, but she do look sick. An arter I give her de money I fotch she say I'm ain't such er bad boy, eat my dinner out de cupboard an run erlong home. I did eat, an all de time she wus axin me 'bout yo' an ole marster, an everything at Ridgeley, an Mr. Allen Fauntleroy. Seem lik' she know everthing, but she want special ter fin out whar he is."

"Do you know?" Dare asked, all a-tremble.

"I kin fin him easy," Jubilee returned, speaking the last word in a whisper to himself.

"You must find him at once," Dare said. "Find him and tell him my grandfather is in danger, and I look to him to save him from it."

"He will, Miss Dare. Don't yo' be uneasy. I'd 'a' gone to him first, but thought best to ask your commission," Jubilee said, pulling himself back into a polysyllabic frame of speech. "He just about owns that man Hawkins. Don't yo' fret. We'll take care of old marster."

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the eighteenth day of June instant an ordinance of which the following is a true copy to wit:

An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage.

Whereas, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in said city as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said city in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890:

And whereas, On said 21st day of May, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

And whereas, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the common council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said common council:

And whereas, it has appeared and does appear to the said common council and the said common council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said city as shown by the assessors books have petitioned said common council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said city in the manner provided by said act:

And whereas, in the opinion of the said common council the public good requires that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said common council has so determined and doth hereby so determine; therefore,

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That the common council doth hereby direct and order that a system of sewerage be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the act of the legislature aforesaid with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plan as the said Common Council may hereafter direct in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, land, and rights of way, described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

Woodland avenue from South avenue to Highland avenue.

Belvidere avenue from Ravine road to LaGrande avenue.

Ravine Road from Woodland avenue to Berkley avenue.

Franklin place from East Fifth street to Watchung avenue.

Hillside avenue from Prospect avenue to Putnam avenue.

Sec. 2. That the said Common Council doth hereby determine to acquire by purchase and to take and appropriate the lands and real estate necessary to be taken and appropriated for the construction of said system of sewerage, and to make compensation to the owner or owners thereof by payment of damages therefor in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act.

Was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by the said Common Council at a special meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, 109 Park avenue in said City of Plainfield, on Monday, the ninth day of July, 1894, at the hour of 8 o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing or otherwise as the Common Council may at that time direct; and public notice is hereby given of the intention of the said Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in said ordinance to be made and such persons or corporations as may object thereto are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office (109 Park avenue in the City of Plainfield, N. J.,) at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice or to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of said days, and said common council at such meeting to be held on the 9th day of July, 1894, as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.

By direction of the common council,

Dated Plainfield, N. J., June 20, A. D. 1894.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, t and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

CRAZED WITH REMORSE

Wealthy Mr. Jeroleman Becomes a Murderer.

Tormented with Cherry Thieves on His Place at Belleville, N. J., in His Rage He Strikes an Intruder a Fatal Blow Over the Head With a Bale Stick—Locked Up in Jail.

NEWARK, N. J., June 29.—Theodore Jeroleman, a wealthy lumber dealer of Belleville, murdered with a balestick Hugh Drain, of Sheridan avenue, Kearny, whom he caught stealing cherries on his farm yesterday afternoon. Jeroleman, who is almost crazed with remorse, gave himself up and was taken to the county jail in this city.

Ever since the opening of the season Jeroleman has been annoyed by cherry thieves. Yesterday afternoon he had a number of boys picking cherries, when Drain and his companions entered the grounds and began to take the cherries from the boys. They ran into the house and told Jeroleman, who became enraged, seized a heavy balestick and rushed out, determined to drive the men off his grounds.

They fled at his appearance and Drain, who was the last to move, was in the act of getting through a barbed wire fence when caught by Jeroleman. The latter raised the balestick intending to strike Drain on the back and at that instant the fence broke and Drain's head caught the full force of the blow intended for another part of his body.

He fell bleeding and unconscious.

Jeroleman, full of remorse for his rash act, hastily summoned Dr. Skinner, who lives in the immediate vicinity. The doctor saw Drain's condition was precarious and had him removed to St. Michael's hospital in this city at once.

His skull was fractured, and despite strenuous efforts of the doctors he died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

His wife and daughter arrived at the hospital half an hour after he had died and when told that he was gone their grief was most pitiful.

Jeroleman immediately after Drain was taken to the hospital surrendered himself to Justice Sanford and was released on his own recognizance to await the result of his victim's injuries. One hour later, learning the victim was dead, he returned, gave himself up and was taken to the county jail, where he will be held without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Much sympathy is expressed for Jeroleman who is one of the oldest and most respected citizens in the township, and his friends fear the shock of being held as a common murderer will kill the old man.

Greek Protestants Attacked.

LONDON, June 29.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople says that on May 13 members of the Greek Orthodox church attacked a house in Ordu, Asia Minor, where Greek Protestant were worshipping. The rioters bombarded the house with stones for seven hours. The Turkish police were present, but refused to interfere. Finally they escorted the Protestants to their homes and cancelled their permission to worship in the town, despite the rights guaranteed by firmans. Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador, and the American charge d'affaires vainly protested. The porte has prepared a memorandum on the subject for the powers.

Will Explore Labrador.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—Charles E. Hite, instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, who was taxidermist and naturalist of the Peary relief expedition to the Arctic regions in 1892, left Philadelphia yesterday for New York accompanied by three university students, who will assist him in an exploration of the interior of Labrador. The party, in addition to Mr. Hite, comprises Howard Bicknell, George M. Coates, the crack wheelman of the university, and G. H. Parkins, coxswain of the Pennsylvania eight-oared shell crew. They will sail to-morrow.

New York Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

C. R. Sleight, of New York, to be collector of customs for the district of Sag Harbor, N. Y.

G. F. Bayles, of New York, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Port Jefferson, N. Y.

Ten Killed by Western Storms.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—Southwestern Minnesota and eastern South Dakota suffered death and destruction Wednesday night by a series of wind storms already mentioned. Details of the damage done to life and property, which have been coming in slowly, show that ten persons were killed and twenty or thirty wounded.

RAILROADS ROBBED.

Criminal Combination of Detectives and Employes at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The preliminary examination of Special Agent Maxwell of the Grand Trunk road as accessory to the murder of George Newcomb, a special agent of the Chicago & Western Indiana road, brought out facts relating to the plundering of the railroad companies by employes and special agents employed to detect thieves; which have so far become public property that it is how known that the railroads affected have lost between $50,000 and $75,000 in merchandise, baggage intrusted to their care, tickets collected and resold, and claims made by passengers who were in a sense held up on their lines with the connivance of detectives, thieves and employes.

The story as developed shows a remarkable system of robbery covering a period of more than six months, and checked only by the killing of George Newcomb. His tragic death brought sharply to the attention of the superiors of the special agents of the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad and the Grand Trunk the details of the criminal combination working under their eyes, and, while this may not lead to the detention of the murderer of Newcomb, it has already started a complete reorganization of the special agent systems employed by both lines.

Working Up Violence.

GUTHRIE, O. T., June 29.—Large numbers of people in Enid and Pond Creek, on the Rock Island railroad, received copies of circulars purporting to be from officials of the Rock Island railroad and declaring it to be the intention of the company to destroy the towns of Enid and Pond Creek, never to stop trains there in spite of any laws or courts, and warning everybody to govern themselves accordingly. These circulars were in forged Rock Island envelopes, marked Topeka, and were undoubtedly sent out by enemies of the railroad company as a means of inciting the greatly wrought up residents of those towns to acts of violence against the railway company. As a result there was great excitement. Officials of the company telegraphed United States Marshal Nix for protection, who with a large posse of deputies left for Enid. Another posse was ordered up from El Reno and Kingfisher.

Mysterious Death.

QUARANTINE, S. I., June 29.—The body of a young man aged about 30 years was picked up off the upper boarding station by two young boys named Edward Walsh and John Hollande, employed in the marine news bureau. The body was dressed in brown trousers and vest, and a white shirt, white undershirt and linen drawers. On the feet were congress gaiters. There was a deep wound in the face on the left side of the jaw in front of the ear and dark contusions along the jaw as far as the chin, which was clean shaven. The hair was dark brown. The hands were clasped tightly across the breast and the eyes were staring wildly. There were no marks by which he could be identified. He was about 5 feet 3 inches tall and quite thin, though much swollen by the water.

Boy Prisoners Escape.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 29.—Four boy prisoners at the state industrial school escaped. The boys, who are all about 16 years of age with bad records, shammed sickness and were put in the hospital connected with the institution. The lads tied the sheets together and escaped by that means. Their names are William Stone, Albert Perkins, Samuel Merrill and a boy named Collins, better known as "Jesse James." The clothing of the missing boys was left behind, and they had on only their night shirts. A reward has been offered.

Central American Affairs.

GUATEMALA, June 29.—It is officially denied that arms have been landed from an unknown vessel near Livingston. Ex-President Barillas says that Central America is not ripe for union, but that this may be brought about in time, and that the president of San Salvador, Gen. Gutierrez, is honest and patriotic. Ezeta will never regain power there. Barillas declared strongly his friendship for President Barrios.

Wiman Serene.

NEW YORK, June 29.—"Everything is serene," said Erastus Wiman, as he walked to the door of the consultation room, in which he is confined in the Tombs prison. "I am in good health and spirits, and feel sure of vindication when my case is reached on appeal."

40,000 MEN NOW OUT

Unprecedented Spread of the Boycott Strike.

Nearly Every Railroad West of Chicago Now Involved—Entire Systems Tied Up and Powerless in Employes' Hands—A Great Struggle for Principle Rather Than Cause.

CHICAGO, June 29.—With the simple beginning of a few hundred discontented strikers at Pullman, Ill., who were attempting to force merely a local issue successfully, the Pullman strike and consequent boycott has assumed the proportions of the greatest battle between labor and capital that has ever been inaugurated in the United States. In three days time the Pullman trouble has spread to nearly all of the important railroads in the United States west of Chicago, with the result that the entire systems are tied up and powerless in the hands of employes who are striving for a principle rather than a cause.

Within three days over 20,000 men have either quit work or have announced their intention of so doing in Chicago, and added to this are the many thousands on the systems all through the west who have gone out on strike in obedience to requests from the officers of the American Railway union.

40,000 Men Now Out.

It is estimated to-day at the headquarters of the American Railway union that fully 40,000 men are now out on a strike on account of the refusal of the Pullman company to settle the differences with its employes in the shops. By to-night nearly double that number will have been ordered out and the strikers will include not only mem bers of the union, but Knights of Labor, brotherhood men and other organizations which can in any way affect the interests of the roads which have decided to stand by Pullman.

It is given out at headquarters that the different railroads out of Chicago handling Pullman cars will be sufficiently crippled to-day to warrant the removal of the base of operations of the officers of the American Railway union from Chicago to St. Louis.

St. Louis Now the Base of Operations.

Martin Elliott, a representative of the union, was sent to St. Louis last night to call out the men on all but two roads entering the St. Louis Union depot with Pullman palace cars in their trains. To-night, if necessary, President Debs and Vice-President Howard will go to St. Louis to take charge of the strike there.

It is confidently asserted that within two days all railroads out of St. Louis handling Pullman cars, excepting the Missouri Pacific, will be asked to cancel Pullman contracts or incur a strike.

Vice-President Hoard says that the union will not exempt a single road in the west or southwest, and, if necessary, all of the more important of the eastern roads will be tied up in order to force a settlement of the Pullman strike.

C. M. & St. P. Surrenders.

The feature of the union's work yesterday was the speedy settlement effected with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. In the morning a special committee was sent to the general manager of the Milwaukee with a request that the road refuse to haul Pullman sleepers. Through a misunderstanding a number of Milwaukee men struck before an answer was given, and this led to the report that the road was tied up. The company officials lost no time in informing the committee that no Pullmans would be hauled over the road, and within an hour the nine objectionable cars which are run on that line were side-tracked. President Debs immediately ordered the men back to work and the road suffered but little inconvenience.

The Government Takes a Hand.

The United States government has taken a hand in the strike so far as it concerns the Santa Fe system. United States District Attorney Millchrist has received a dispatch from Attorney General Olney instructing him to proceed against all individuals concerned in mail obstruction and to place warrants in the hands of United States marshals, who in turn were instructed to appoint all the deputy marshals necessary for the proper enforcement of the law, and to arrest all persons interfering with or interposing any obstacles to the goverment of trains carrying the mails of the United States.

Organized to Fight the Strike.

Rumor was set abroad that the meeting of general managers had determined that the strike must end and that Pullman must consent to arbitration with his striking employes. Asked by a United Press reporter if it were true, General Manager C. H. Chappel, of the Chicago & Alton railroad, said:

"There is not a word of truth in the statement. On the contrary we have organized to resist this strike to the bitter end. We have opened an employment office, and the work of securing men to take the places of those men who decline to switch or draw Pullman cars will be undertaken. More than that, we have already opened a branch office in every important city in the country and by Saturday night we shall have hundreds of men here to fill the places as fast as vacated."

The strikers have much the best of the situation to-day, nevertheless.

New Men Sent from Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, June 29.—Men to take the places of the Chicago strikers on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railway were shipped from Pittsburg last night. The members of the American Railway union succeeded in capturing more than half of the first group. Unless the railroad officials are disappointed, they will send out more men from here.

For Governor of Michigan.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 29.—S. O. Fisher, of West Bay City, was nominated for governor by the democrats.

A FORTUNE IN FLOWERS

Hundreds of Wreaths Sent to Elysee Palace.

A New Coffin Ordered for the Dead President's Remains—Disciplinary Punishments in Army and Navy Remitted in Observance of Perier's Election—Dupuy's Career Closed.

PARIS, June 29.—In observance of Casimir-Perier's election to the presidency, all disciplinary punishments in the army and navy have been remitted.

All the women passing the Elysee palace make the sign of the cross and the men remove their hats.

Mme. Carnot received this morning a few friends and the wives of the civil engineers' delegation, who were presented by Challemel-Lacour.

The oak coffin in which M. Carnot's body lies was found to have a large crack in one side. As the inner lining of lead could be seen through it, the police commissary ordered that a new and larger coffin be made at once.

The heat is intense. The sky is clear and the florists are showing wonders of their art. Carnot wreaths are exhibited at every shop.

More than 1,000,000 francs have been spent here already for flowers.

Four hundred wreaths have been received at the Elysee palace in the last 48 hours.

A society of Paris women has ordered a funeral wreath costing 5,000 francs.

Mlle. Chiris, who is betrothed to M. Carnot's son, will send to the palace a superb wreath eight yards in circumference, composed of Countess Chambord daisies veiled with white tulle over which black crape will be crossed.

The police are confident that some of Santo's accomplices are in Toulouse, but decline to give their reasons.

The Lyons municipal authorities have decided to omit the 14th of July fetes. The 50,000 francs which is customary to give to the poor after the fetes will be paid from the city treasury.

Among the candidates for the presidency of the chamber are Henry Brisson, ex-Premier Loubet, Auguste Burdeau and Felix Faure. M. Dupuy's career is regarded as closed.

Workingmen are preparing President Carnot's tomb in the Pantheon. It will be beside that of his famous ancestor, the organizer of victory.

Against These Amendments.

ALBANY, June 29.—Constitutional convention committee on governor and state officers has acted adversely on the following proposed amendments: Providing for a court of pardons; that persons convicted of bribery shall not be restored to citizenship; prohibiting the use of passes by public officers or jurors; providing that salaries of public officers shall not be changed during term of office; providing that railways shall give free transportation to state officers, members of the legislature and judges; prohibiting life tenure of office; giving the governor power to pardon only on recommendation of the court of appeals judges; Mr. Hawley's, creating a board or pardons.

Wheelmen Suspended.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Chairman Raymond, of the League of American Wheelmen, has suspended, among others, the following bicycle riders: C. Robbell, jr., of Worcester, Mass., having disregarded suspension placed on him for competing on June 9, is suspended from all track racing for six months from June 25. G. B. Williams, of Pittsburg, suspended for two years for racing at Dubois under the name of Robbins. E. E. Clapp, of Washington, D. C., suspended from track racing, pening investigation into a charge of unfair dealing in connection with a recent cycle race.

An Interesting Historical Relic.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—U. S. Treasurer Daniel N. Morgan has secured a relic of great historical interest, being the table upon which President Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation. The table has been in the possession of Louis Burgdorf, a clerk in the treasury department, who was a messenger in the executive mansion under Presidents Polk, Taylor, Filmore, Pierce, Buchanan and Lincoln. The table was given him by President Lincoln a week after he signed the famous proclamation.

Embezzling Stamp Clerk.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Stamp Clerk Adolphus E. Stephens, of postoffice station E, at No. 322 Seventh avenue, has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement and held in $2,500 bail by United States Commissioner Shields for examination. Stephens is a young man, about 23 years old. He is married and is very well connected in this city. It is charged that he took and appropriated to his own use $682.14 of the receipts for the sale of stamps.

Rear Admiral Temple Dead.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Rear Admiral William Greenville Temple, United States navy, (retired) aged 70 years, is dead of apoplexy at his apartments at the Portland. He served with distinction in the war with Mexico and during the late civil war distinguished himself in the attacks on Fort Fisher and also at the the capture of Richmond, Va.

A National Holliday.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Representative Cummings (dem., N. Y.) yesterday afternoon took to the white house the bill making Labor Day a national holliday, and President Cleveland immediately signed it. The pen and holder will be sent by Mr. Cummings to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Misappropriated $19,000.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Richard Worthington, of the firm of the Worthington Publishing company, is under arrest charged with having misappropriated about $19,000 of the funds of the firm to which he had no right. No return has as yet been made to the sheriff.

TARIFF'S HARD ROAD

Reciprocity the Latest Stumbling Block.

Leaders Do Not Now Expect That the Final Vote Can Be Reached Before Next Week—Senator Hill's Fight Ended and Lost—Matters of General Importance in the House.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Although there were only two sections of the tariff bill undisposed of when the senate met this morning this does not indicate that the democratic leaders' labors are at an end. The first of these sections is the one abrogating the reciprocity treaties, and as Mr. Hale (rep., Me.) has indicated his intention to strike it out, it is pretty certain that this question cannot be settled without a long and important discussion, so it is almost certain that the final vote on the tariff bill cannot be reached before one day next week. This will be disappointing to the leaders, as the most conservative hoped to have the vote taken this week.

Up to the announcement of Mr. Hale's intentions regarding the reciprocity clause the most satisfactory progress had been made with the bill. All the income tax sections which had remained over from Wednesday were gone through with, and then an omnibus motion to strike them all out was made by Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.). This was the most important vote, and the decision was against the motion by a majority of sixteen—24 to 40. Only two democratic senators (Hill of New York and Smith of New Jersey) voted for it; while three populists and six republicans voted against it. After that it might be said as to Mr. Hill, that "the subsequent proceedings interested him no more."

A very important amendment was offered by Mr. Aldrich (rep., R. I.) to the whiskey tax section, and, no opposition being made to it on the part of the finance committee, it was agreed to without a division. The effect of it is to make a tax of $1.10 a gallon apply on the passage of the act (instead of two months afterwards) to all distilled spirits then in bond or that may thereafter be produced in the United States. The sections as to playing cards and as to manufacturers of tobacco were agreed to without opposition.

House of Representatives.

The morning hour in the house was occupied with the consideration of bills reported from the committee on naval affairs, and the following were passed:

Creating the office of assistant chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts; to suspend the restrictions regarding age in the appointment of assistant paymasters in the navy in the case of the graduates of the Naval academy who where at sea on duty when the act of 1882 was passed discharging them from the service; fixing the pay of the 27 mates in the navy and providing for their retirement.

The bill providing for the admission of New Mexico as a state was considered under the special order and finally passed without a division.

The committee on buildings and grounds reported a substitute for the senate bill, directing the secretary of the treasury to purchase half a block of ground just south of the capitol grounds, at a cost of $300,000, for the hall of records. On a motion to fix the price for the property to be purchased at $175,000, offered by Mr. Bryan (dem., Neb.), Mr. Baker (rep. N. H.) made the point of no quorum, and a roll call disclosing but 175 members present, at 4:20 o'clock the house adjourned until to-day without action on the bill.

Troubles of Cotton Planters.

NEW ORLEANS, June 29.—A number of the leading cotton planters of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi have called a convention to meet in Vicksburg July 13 to devise ways and means of selling this season's crop of cotton seed. The planters complain that the oil mills have made a combine against them, and in consequence the price has ranged very low—$11 in New Orleans and only $7 in some of the interior towns, in spite of the fact that the crop has been very short. The price obtained in the country for seed does not pay the planter, it is said, as it impoverishes the soil.

Three Brothers in a Fight.

COLUMBUS, Ind., June 29.—In the Belvidere hotel here, a fearful fight occurred between Adolph, Alex and Joseph Bell, brothers. Alex had recently been released from a state prison in the south on a charge of burglary and safe blowing, and soon after meeting his brothers a quarrel ensued. Adolph cut Alex with a razor across the throat, endangering his life. For this Joseph knocked him senseless with a chair and officers took him in charge. The father of the brothers is now in a northern prison.

Wall Papers Dealers and the Trust.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—A movement is on foot here by a number of dealers who have been forced out of business to test the legality of the business being carried on by the National Wall Paper company, by which name the wall paper trust is known. It is understood that the matter will shortly be carried to the courts. The ground upon which the matter will be based is that the trust is violating the federal anti-trust law.

New York Police Investigation.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The last days of the senate police investigating committee are drawing to a close. When the committee meets again it is said that General Benjamin F. Tracy will be the leading counsel for the police department. The police officials, it is reported, are not pleased at the manner in which ex-District-Attorney De Lancey Nicoll has conducted their case up to the present, and are going to call on General Tracy.

Sullivan's Regiment.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 29.—Capt. W. H. Sullivan's Chicago detachment of Coxey's army, which has been on the road since May 2, reached Harrisburg from Marysville and pitched their camp on the river bank in front of Senator Cameron's town residence. Then Captain Sullivan started out to forage for food and sleeping accommodations. They will join the Coxey forces at Washington.

To Publish Revolutionary Archives.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Mr. Mills (dem., Tex.) in the senate proposed an amendment to the sundry civil bill appropriating $25,000 for the publication of the revolutionary archives now in the state department.

New Panama Canal Company.

PARIS, June 29.—A new company has been formed, with a capital of 60,000,000 francs, to continue to completion the work on the Panama canal.

Too hot to say much about moving—but just keep your eye on H. P. Baldwin and you'll see that freight-house move before long to make room for a little beauty of a passenger park.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette rightly speaks of the Plainfield West End baseball amateurs as "a nine pretending to be the Crescents". The true Crescents are abroad in the big cities, playing winning League ball. T. H. Keller had a good eye.

Pyrotechnics are always in order on our natal anniversary. Literary pyrotechnics promote patriotic enthusiasm. The people look to the newspapers nowadays for reading matter appropriate to all anniversaries, and newspapers that keep in touch with the people do not fail to supply it. The Press will have an American Eagle edition next Tuesday that will be a typographic joy.

The Dunellen Call modestly remarks:

We shall be two years old July 19, and will have something to say in honor of the event later.

The Press has something to say on this matter right now, and that is that the lively little Call is an elixir of life to a town like Dunellen, and the town and its paper ought to be ashamed of themselves if they do n't grow up to be mighty big and important features of Plainfield life before they're two years older. In Dunellen The Call has room to grow, and it's growing fast. Now let the borough hustle and see how far ahead of Editor Lowrie it can keep. Step lively; he's a hustler!

Because we set apart a whole day, each year in celebration of the glory of Independence, is no reason why we cannot admire individual independence the year round. And we do admire it. Take Early Closing, for example. We capitalize it because we feel it's a glorious thing. And to be great and glorious in it, Plainfield storekeepers have only to pattern after Peck. At 7 p. m. the year round, his store has closed, without regard to anyone else—and he's been doing that for 15 years. It pays Peck, and it's a big thing for his clerks. Let's all try the Peck plan! Give the clerks a rest! Goodness knows it's hot enough!

The women who agitate in favor of the sex's rights, especially the right to vote, have carried their point: they have first filled the ballot-boxes, and subsequently the public offices; such honors and immunities as attach to the post of mayor or policeman have been theirs. But the result has been misgovernment—or to men has seemed to be misgovernment; and so it has once more been shown that the franchise is conceded only to force, that it is one of the brutal privileges, for men have by brute force taken the reins of government into their own hands again: all of which is set forth with delightful humor, veiling a serious motive, in The Women's Conquest of New York, a book soon to be published by Harper & Brothers. The author's name is withheld. Why women should vote, The Daily Press will tell tomorrow.

Appropriate for Independence time is the topic of Woman Suffrage, a modern improvement favored by many Plainfield women. Woman Suffrage is a living issue in Plainfield. It is talked in the Current Events Club, among the Plainfield Lady Cyclers, before the Monday Afternoons and Sub Rosas, and at dinner tables. Woman rules in Plainfield by her native divinity, and she will be proud to know why she should be a voting factor in the commonwealth.

The Press will tell Why, tomorrow.

Woman Suffrage is being debated with an animation that gives peculiar zest to a problem in itself absorbingly interesting. The cause of Woman Suffrage has many distinguished champions, but none more able than the eloquent Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi, whose recent speech before the New York Constitutional Convention in Albany is a veritable masterpiece of logic. She reviews the whole question, answers all the arguments of her opponents, and sums up her case by demanding the ballot for woman as a natural right.

Assuredly Press readers will be interested in this brilliant speech, whether they agree with Dr. Jacobi or not. We give them a chance to read it in full tomorrow.

So full of the graduates' doings was the big Commencement issue of The Daily Press, and so interested in the young people were proud parents and fond friends, that although The Press reported the incident faithfully and gave it more prominence than did any other paper, the public perhaps did not sufficiently impress on its mind the importance of the portrait presentation which formed so pleasant a feature. And The Press cannot let another busy day go by without renewing attention to it, and saying just this much:

It's a glorious thing to have one's name perpetuated by mammoth mercantile building, and scientific library, and costly church. It's a glorious thing to see in a beautiful city like Plainfield shining landmarks which were wrought by the enterprise and beneficence of one man. But it is even yet more glorious to have one's portrait on public-school wall, one's face receiving the daily smiles of the tender-hearted American youth, one's memory beloved and kept evergreen among the growing generations.

And so The Press as a faithful Plainfielder which recognizes the worth of Mr. Babcock's achievements, welcomes his portrait to the Plainfield High School. During Mr. Babcock's life, during the time of bitterest mourning, and ever since, The Press has been steadfast in loyal tribute to Mr. Babcock's excellent record.

And right here let us record emphatically, once and forever, in refutation of the renewed malicious charges of detractors, that the files of The Press do not show, and cannot be made to show, a single breath of blemish on the honored name of George H. Babcock. For anyone to insist that abuse was ever given by The Press to Mr. Babcock, is a foul calumny on the paper whose success is responsible for the enmity of jealous rivals.

And for anyone to insist that any real or fancied personal attack disuaded George H. Babcock from any such lofty purpose as donating a High School mansion to the town, is a baser calumny yet on a man who was nothing if not persistent against opposition, and nothing if not dauntless in noble endeavor.

Let it not be misunderstood that The Press seeks to evade its opposition against School Board power to impose unlimited taxation. It glories in the victorious fight it made in such distinguished company. But that was a fight for principle, and was conducted on manly lines. It was an open difference between honorable men. There was not an iota of personal attack in the entire proceeding, except such as was made by an outside factor against The Daily Press.

The Press is accustomed to, and can silently endure, the lies which are said of it chiefly to draw it into despicable personalities; and it does not intend to descend to the level set for such controversies. But it makes American blood, and Plainfield blood, boil with righteous Fourth-of-July wrath, to witness the continual repetition of charges which if true would belittle and demean in the eyes of the community the character of the honored educational father who has gone to his rest.

In the name of manhood, in the name of decency, are not the ashes of the dead sacred against the mutterings of a morbid imagination!

WITH THE DOCTORS AT HOPATCONG

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The 128th annual meeting of the Medical Society of New Jersey took place Tuesday and Wednesday, June 26 and 27, at Hotel Breslin, Lake Hopatcong. Those present numbered about 200, but the counties were very unequally represented.

President John G. Ryerson's annual address was a treatise on chronic nephrits, and was applauded as a practical and valuable paper.

At the Tuesday night session a discussion arose concerning the surplus fund in the treasury (several thousand dollars), which became somewhat acrid and ended in a parliamentary tangle during which some members voted confusedly on both sides of the pending question, amid a babel of shouts and laughter. In the end the good sense of members reasserted itself, and a just decision was reached.

The election of officers for 1894-95 resulted in the choice of Dr. O. H. Sproul of Flemington for president, and the continuance in office of the former secretaries and treasurer.

Several excellent papers were read and discussed; ample recreation and amusement had been provided; and the meeting was altogether enjoyable and profitable.

The writer was present as the delegate of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, according to a practice of five years standing, and read a paper which was received with kind approval. A committee was appointed for the purpose of conferring with the Pharmaceutical Association as to matters affecting the common interests of the professions of medicine and pharmacy, to the end that the public may be better served by both.

After resolutions of thanks to all who had contributed to the enjoyment of the meeting, the society adjourned to meet in June, 1895, at Cape May.

It was noted with kindly regret that the medical men of Plainfield had sent no representative, and that so small a delegation should be present from Union County as a whole.

Lake Hopatcong grows more beautiful every year. It was difficult to decide which of the members were the more enthusiastic—those who were familiar with it, or those to whom its charms came as a surprise and revelation. It is, in truth, the fairest jewel of New Jersey.

H. P. REYNOLDS.

Good Game, and Recess Till the Fall.

The Dunellen Bowling Club held a meeting on Mr. Scheptlin's green yesterday, and a most enjoyable afternoon was the result. The rinks were:

C. K. Moore,	George Haynes,
C. Scheptlin,	D. S. Cockburn,
Andrew Love, (skips)	Thomas Stone.

After a game replete with remarkably pretty plays, Mr. Love's rink won by the score of 21 to Mr. Stone's 15.

A short game was then bowled, James Smyth replacing C. K. Moore, and resulted in a victory for Mr. Stone, the score being 7 to Mr. Love's 5.

A business meeting of the club was held and a resolution adopted that all meetings on the green be postponed until September.

James Moore, 2d, was the honored guest.

AT REST.

J. Randolph Dunn.

The funeral services of the late J. Randolph Dunn, held from Trinity Reformed Church yesterday afternoon at 3:30, were attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hart of the Reformed Church of Neshanic, formerly pastor of decedent.

As the mourners entered the church, organist Arthur Titsworth played a funeral march. The family and relatives were accompanied by thirty-eight members of Franklin Council, No. 41, J.O.U.A.M., of which Mr. Dunn was a member. The casket was covered with an American flag.

The hymn "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was rendered very sweetly by Miss Fanny Mattison, Miss Phœbe Mills and Mr. Moore, after which Rev. Cornelius Schenck read appropriate Scripture selections.

He then spoke of the life of Paul, of his fearlessness of death because his hope was in Christ. Continuing he said:

"We naturally shrink from death. We see eyes that see not, and ears that hear not. I want that you and I shall get that view of death that Paul had. The grave has been transformed; it is only the robing room for eternal life, for the home on high, the splendors of heaven. Death has also been transformed. It has been robbed of its sting. Death is merely one of the conditions of the larger, happier and more blessed life.

"Our brother that sleeps had the essential confidence in his Master, the essential hope, and the young men that walked and talked with him know it. He was always contented, happy, joyful.

"When the thought comes that he will not be with us again, we should remember that he is far better off. For five years he fought for life; the end came peacefully. He was a humble disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Rev. Mr Hart also spoke in part as follows: "How we should rejoice to think our children are in heaven. It is best to bow humbly to our Lord's will, for He doeth all things well. What a blessed thing it is to know that we have a comrade in heaven! Our brother has been taken away. What a stimulus his life and example should be to us to do better. Our highest aim should be to reach heaven."

Rev. J. W. Richardson offered a most affecting and impressive prayer, which was in unison with the feelings of all present. Another selection, "Abide With Me", was then effectively sung, and those present were given an opportunity of looking on the face of their departed friend.

The floral offerings were beautiful. A very large pillow consisting of white asters, marchineal roses, trimed with maiden-hair ferns and sweet-pea blossoms, with the inscription "Our Brother in V. L. and P", was given by the Council, and a wreath of white roses twined with maiden-hair ferns was a choice gift from a friend, as was also an exquisite bunch of pinks, and white pinks, with sweet-peas and ferns, from another friend. A very touching gift was a beautiful pillow given by the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church, with the letters "C. E." in the centre.

The pall-bearers, members from the Council, were: David J. Krymer, Augustus Wilson, Harvey R. Thorn, Theodore Kurzahls, William C. Force and F. Merton Lunger.

Interment was in Hillside Cemetery.

Manning—Hetfield.

Miss Aretta Hetfield, daughter of Levi Hetfield, was married Wednesday afternoon to Dr. Andrew Manning. The attendance was limited to a few relatives and friends because of Mr. Hetfield's illness. The house was handsomely decorated with flowers and ferns.

The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by George T. Rogers as the bride and groom entered the parlor, where Rev. Dr. Yerkes awaited them. The bride's nephew, Clarence Hetfield, and her niece, Miss Marguerite Serrell, walked before them. The bride wore a becoming traveling gown. Her bouquet was of roses and maiden hair fern. A reception and supper were given after the wedding at which many prominent people were present.

The wedding tour was a brief one, the bride not wishing to be long absent from her father during his illness.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my

rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

CYCLING COMMENT.

J. Wallace Beveridge of East Ninth street is recovering from the injuries he received on the Crescent track, but he will not be able to ride next Wednesday.

Eighteen wheels being owned by as many occupants of his building, Overseer of the Poor Vanderbeek has naturally turned his attention towards cycling. He made a successful experiment with a friend's wheel on East Second street this morning, and Partner Sattels is coaching him in great shape.

Hazell—Clark.

Thomas E. Hazell of Westervelt avenue was married in Summit last evening at 7:30 to Miss Ella Clark of Summit. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's brother-in-law, Charles F. Wood. About 100 relatives and very intimate friends were present. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, smilax, pinks and roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Owen of Elizabeth, Rev. Cornelius Schenck of Plainfield assisting. The bride wore white silk and carried a bouquet of white sweet-pea blossoms The ushers were Paul Day of Port Morris and Elmer E. Wood of Roseville. The maid of honor was Miss Bertha Clark, a sister of the bride. Mr. Wood gave the bride away. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Cadmus of Montclair.

A reception was given afterwards. The gifts were very handsome. Among them was a silver individual cream set, the gift of the official board of the Summit Methodist Church in which the bride is an earnest worker.

From Plainfield were present: Rev. and Mrs. Schenck, the Misses Mary and Hattie M. Brown, Mrs. O. C. Lane and the groom's children, Theodore, Annie and Mary Hazell. Mr. and Mrs. Hazell will come to Plainfield to live in September. Their wedding tour will be in the Catskills.

Suburban Rapid Transit.

William Collins has rejuvenated his stage line running from Fanwood to Scotch Plains. His new conveyance is a joy to the eye and its comfort unsurpassed. With a lively team of beautiful bays richly caparisoned the equal of the entire outfit is not to be found in the State. It is to be hoped that now he will surprise his patrons by appearing under a new hat.

Heavy Bail for Shay and Adams.

George Shay, who was committed to the County Jail by Judge Moore with William Adams, for atrociously assaulting Mrs. Furey of Terrill road, made application to Judge McCormick in Elizabeth this morning for bail. The Court fixed the amount at $2,500. Adams's bail was fixed by Judge Moore at $1,000.

DEVOTEES OF ART.

Local Wielders of the Brush Delight Admirers With an Exhibition.

Mrs. W. H. Griffin and her pupils in art opened a studio reception in Room 16 of the Stillman Building at 2 yesterday afternoon. Until 10 last evening throngs of interested friends of the members of the classes chatted and drank tea and admired the specimens of work exhibited.

The studio was beautifully decorated with choice flowers. Mrs. Colles F. Pond superintended the preparations. The walls were nearly covered with paintings, and tables at the sides and in the centre of the room held the display of decorated china. In the hall adjoining, tea was served by Mrs. Pond and Miss Arleen Crane. In the evening the electric lighting afforded a very satisfactory opportunity for inspecting the exhibits.

The accomplishments of the pupils reflected great credit on the teacher. The number taking lessons this season has been larger than ever before, the average being about 35. Mrs. Griffin's own work received careful examination, and its excellence was very favorably commented on. A beautiful piece of work, exhibited by Mrs. Griffin, was a fernery of china decorated with paintings of cupids. A set of glass pieces, a water bottle, a cheese dish, and claret glasses, ornamented in gold and colored enamels, showed fine work with the pen. An excellent, large crayon of Garret Q Packer displayed Mrs. Griffin's talents in portraiture.

The pupils exhibiting painted china were: Mrs. Samuel P. Dunn, Mrs. J. M. McNaughton, Mrs. Colles F. Pond, Miss Henrietta M. Bush, Miss Capitola Conover, Miss Arleen Crane, Mrs. Herbert F. Randolph, Mrs. Daniel E. Davis, Miss Emma Conover, Mrs. Richard H. Brokaw of Bound Brook, Mrs. Garret Q Packer, Mrs. Charles C. Cokefair, Miss May L. Anderson, Miss Lou A. Clawson Miss Mamie Brown and Miss Lillian Fritts.

In crayon work were represented Miss May Clawson, Miss Margaret Coriell, Miss Louise Wilbur, Miss Alice Rushmore, Miss Lou Packer, Miss Margaret Rand, Miss Lillie Moore, Miss Nellie M. Dunn, Miss Nettie Chandler, Miss Lela Betts and Miss Isabelle Patterson.

In oil painting Mrs. Garret Q Packer showed a canvas of fruit and a sketch of Wetumpka Falls, and Mrs. Samuel P. Dunn landscapes. Paintings in pastel were contributed by Miss Alice Rushmore, Miss Isabelle Patterson and Miss Nellie M. Dunn.

The reception is being continued this afternoon and evening. If you want to feast on beautiful handiwork, drop in, You 'll be cordially welcome.

COOL COMFORT IN WARREN.

Last of the Season's Strawberries Served to a Delighted Assemblage.

Success rewarded the efforts of the Warren Chapel Christian Endeavor Society to increase the Sunday-school fund by holding a strawberry and ice-cream festival last evening. The attendance was large, and a testimonial to the appreciation of the visitors is found in the size of the receipts.

The decorations which made the chapel the more attractive were unique. Along the middle of the ceiling was strung a long line of brightly colored Chinese lanterns. Opposite the entrance was the lemonade booth, where Miss Jennie Sheppard and Miss Emma Bosterle were in attendance. The table was draped with green cloth and green foliage. Above it rose a canopy thatched with straw.

The cake table was under the charge of Miss Maggie Coddington. Its white cloth covering was adorned with a delicate pattern in ferns. The candy booth was decorated and the sales were managed by Miss Lizzie W. Stafford and A. R. Johnson. The canopy, a square pyramid in shape, was draped with stripes of blue and yellow bunting.

In the centre of the platform was a mound of field flowers. Above the dividing of the rooms was marked by draperies of white and yellow. The rear room was given up to the table for the sale of ice-cream. John Herman was the cashier of this department. The managers were Miss Dolly Bosterle and Mrs. Samuel Taynor. Customers were served by the waitresses, Miss Louise Koller, Miss Kate Deike, Miss Hattie Squires, Miss Mirex and Miss Lizzie Sergeant.

The special committee of the society appointed to arrange the affair consisted of Miss Dolly Bosterle, Miss Lizzie W. Stafford and Miss Maggie Coddington. The decorators included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taynor, Henry Seader and Frank Faulks. Henry Seader sold tickets at the door, and George Wilson collected them.

THE SENEY ESTATE FOR SALE.

Valuable Property at Bernardsville, N. J., at Remarkably Small Prices.

A great deal of interest has been exhibited in the announcement recently made by Messrs. Maclay & Davies, real estate agents and brokers, 44 Pine street, New York, that the property of the late George I. Seney, at Bernardsville, N. J., is offered for sale in lots plots and parcels, subject to proper and suitable restrictions, at remarkably moderate figures.

Bernardsville has for years been quite an exclusive settlement, being sought principally by people well known in society, who favored it mainly on account of its invigorating and bracing air, its charming and romantic scenery, and its altitude of 900 feet above tide water, being the nearest point to New York combining these special advantages The land has generally been owned in large parcels, the Seney estate alone comprising nearly 1,500 acres, and this and the fact that the owners declined to sell at any price, although frequently pressed to do so, has prevented the enlargement of the population, consequent on the extraordinary merits of the location.

Among the prominent residents there now are Mr. Olcott, president of the Central Trust Company; Mr. Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance Company; Mr. Ballentine, the well-known brewer; George B. Post, architect; Thatcher M Adams, lawyer; Dr. Purdy; several of the Messrs. Stevens of Hoboken; Wm. Alexander, secretary of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and many others.

It is the general impression in real estate circles that the estate will be very rapidly absorbed by purchasers anxious to avail themselves of an opportunity heretofore entirely out of their reach, and that the present low figures asked for the property will not long be maintained.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Marion S. Ackerman of East Ninth street has a new team of bay Hambletonians.

L. N. Lovell of Crescent avenue has gone to his Summer residence in Massachusetts.

Miss S. L. Wood and the Misses Rocap leave for Belmar tomorrow, to stay till September.

Mr. and Mrs. Barkelew have returned from the West to visit James Dunn of East Fifth street.

S. P. Dunn and family leave tomorrow for Newfoundland, Passaic County, where they will spend the Summer.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has appointed Dr. Andrew Manning a medical examiner for this district.

Mrs. David Angerbauer of West Third street will leave Plainfield tomorrow morning to spend the Summer in Saratoga.

Mrs. E. B. Clark of Crescent avenue gave an informal tea for her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Lukens of Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Gertrude Andrews gave an informal dance at her home on Central avenue last evening in honor of her two cousins who are visiting her.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Dunham of "The Elms", East Front street, have leased the new house recently erected on East Fifth street by N. Messerschmidt, and will go to housekeeping next week.

Miss Mary B. Wells, daughter of H. B Wells of Washington avenue, gave a delightful tea yesterday afternoon. Miss Emma Haviland received the guests with her in the parlor. Miss Edith Gilbert presided over the ices in the dining room, assisted by Misses Dorothy Wells, Margaret McCutchen and Cora Haviland.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but, as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

Dunellen.

Miss Nettie Krietling of Plainfield was the guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Peters.

Miss Della Fritts and George Harris visited friends in Elizabeth yesterday.

Mrs. Abram Bennett of Grant avenue is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Tingley.

Miss Celia Staats was entertained by relatives in Plainfield yesterday.

Wm. Clawson of South Plainfield came to Dunellen yesterday to see his wife who has been ill at her mother's home, Mrs. John Tingley. Mrs. Clawson will probably be well enough to return home this week.

A familiar face in the borough yesterday was that of William Randolph of Randolphville.

The muscles of John Herbert's right arm extended to Eugene Leech's eyes yesterday in the station park, and left a bad impression.

E. S. Able and his sister Miss Able of Bloomsbury drove through Dunellen today on their way to New York.

Three members of the Dunellen Gun Club met on their grounds yesterday for a shoot at 16 live birds. A purse of $15 was made up. Eleven of the 16 were killed as follows: Carman, 6; Sisty, 3; McGovern, 2 There seem to be some differences existing in the club. The three members at the shoot claim they are the ones who support the club and out of a membership of twenty, they are the only ones who attend the shoots, and the others come around on holidays and then do n't participate. This, they say, is becoming very tiresome, and to remedy the trouble, they intend buying 1,000 targets and holding contests by themselves.

Miss Mattie Barrett of Rockview Farm is visiting relatives in Plainfield.

After this month outsiders who come here to sell goods will probably be obliged to pay a license fee. This is one of the subjects that will be discussed at the Borough meeting next Monday evening.

Mr. Peters and family went to the Mountainside Hospital at Montclair, a few few days ago, to see George Orimann, who was injured in a runaway accident recently. They found him to be getting along nicely and able to walk a little. His recovery is now assured.

TO RECORD GOOD DEEDS.

Memorial Volume Presented to Winfield Scott Post.

A memorial camp-fire in Winfield Scott Post's rooms last evening was well attended and the programme greatly appreciated. After prayer by the chaplain and singing by the quartette, Commander Reese spoke a few words of welcome.

The G. A. R memorial service followed and after a solo by Miss Opdyke Mayor Gilbert made an eloquent presentation speech, giving the post the memorial volume in behalf of a number of patriotic Plainfielders.

When the post has passed away the book, which will then contain the individual records of the members, will be a treasured memento in the public library. Commander Reese accepted it with remarks on the post's appreciation of the gift.

With more patriotic music and short address by Rev. J. W. Richardson, the camp-fire closed. Those in charge were William C. Smith, William Hand, John E. Stewart, James W. Fink and George W. Moore.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A 5 cent-admission lawn party will be held under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of Monroe Avenue M. E. Chapel, for the benefit of the chapel tomorrow afternoon at 4, on West Seventh street, between Monroe and Clinton avenues.

Dr. Lewis will preach tomorrow on "The relation between Christianity and Impending National Evils which arise from Lawlessness."

The topic of Rev. Charles E. Herring's sermon to the cyclers Sunday night will be "Get There".

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

The Overton Claim.

By Martha McCulloch-Williams.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894.

CHAPTER XVII.

"Law is full of surprises, but this is about the most surprising," Mr. Hildreth said, refolding the yellow letter that Major Overton had put into his hands. "Why, major," he went on, "it really seems that this young fellow is determined to beat you. You refuse his surrender, and he at once goes to work developing a new line of evidence that 30 years ago might have won your case for you."

"Why not now as well as then?" Major Overton asked.

"Because, let me see—yes, it is 30 years since Bruce Stirling died. If we had known while he lived that he had a hand in the matter, we could easily have got the truth, of course paying well for it. While we may be morally certain of his turpitude, I see no way in the world of proving it. No, major," shaking his head commiseratingly, "though this letter explains much that has always been dark it can in no way affect either side with the courts, and loath as I am to say it we are very nearly at the end of our rope. If within the next three months we do not find at least a trace of the missing papers—your deeds, the records, one or both—the other side must be confirmed in possession, as they would have been 10 years back had their case been vigorously pressed. While Allen Fauntleroy was a minor and out of the country it was easy enough to have the business set over from term to term. You know it waited 10 years the first time for a hearing in the higher court after hanging so long in the lower ones. Then, when it came back, I know my father fought for delay. He said he knew he had the side of right and justice and kept hoping time would show it. I think you know that I took up the case as whole heartedly as he had done and fought it the best I could, hoping, I confess, to wear the other side out, if I could do nothing more. You have shown me that that was useless; that you will not accept victory by default. Since the property has found a prospective purchaser, there is such activity among our enemies that the end must come soon. I wish I could persuade you to compromise, major. This letter ought to show you that your opponents are innocent parties to the fraud against you, and surely young Fauntleroy's action"——

"Don't speak of it," Major Overton said hoarsely. "Hildreth, you—you—don't know—everything. You can never understand just why I must do as I do or how I hate myself for—for finding it impossible longer to hate him."

Mr. Hildreth got up and walked twice or thrice about the office, stopping at last in front of his client to say:

"Major, keeping secrets from one's lawyer is nearly as suicidal as keeping them from one's doctor. But if you choose to do it I have no word to say. Listen to this, though, I beg: Your granddaughter has some claim on you. Are you willing she should be left without a roof, a protector? I know some things, more perhaps than you imagine. I guess others, and in face of all I say it is your duty as a gentleman, a man of honor, either to agree to a settlement that shall divide the property equally betwixt the Overtons and Fauntleroys or else to the marriage of Allen Fauntleroy to your grandchild."

Major Overton got up, white to the lips.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Hildreth," he said freezingly. "With an Overton material considerations do not weigh against honor. I thought I had sufficiently impressed that on your mind. Permit me to wish you a very good day."

"Poor old Spartan! He's three parts a monomaniac," Mr. Hildreth said compassionately as the door closed behind him. Vance looked up from his desk at the room's far end to say:

"No. He happens to live just 500 years too late. His is one of the souls made for crusades and jousts to the death for a liege's name or a lady's glove. His superb impracticality is quite out of place in this late nineteenth century. But, do you know, whenever he passes I take off my hat and stand bareheaded even to his shadow?"

"It's a contest in Quixotism betwixt him and young Fauntleroy. Why, talk of the devil. There he is now. Give you good day, young gentleman. What brings you with such a face of concern into the enemy's camp?" Mr. Hildreth said, rising and holding out a cordial hand. Vance made as if to go, but the newcomer stopped him, saying with an impatient gesture:

"With an Overton material considerations do not weigh against honor."

"Stay if you meant any part of what you have just said about that poor old man."

"We both would fight or lie for him," Mr. Hildreth said lightly. Then, seeing that Allen's eyes were still full of horror: "What is up, Mr. Fauntleroy? Has murder been done?"

"No. Only plotted, and I am come to you for help in thwarting the assassins," Allen said very low.

"Who are they?" asked Vance. Allen answered in a whisper.

For an hour the three men talked eagerly together, arguing, suggesting, planning. When the young fellow at last went away, Hildreth said, drawing a deep breath:

"Here's a pretty go! Planning riot, sedition and murder in the face of daylight. I always knew Hawkins wasn't the clear grit, but hang me if I thought he'd wade this fashion up to his neck in iniquity."

"He is really a monomaniac," Vance said, lighting a cigar. "He has been money crazy ever since he first sat at a desk in the other Allen Fauntleroy's office. What surprises me, though, is that those poor hill folk listen to him when he tells them that Major Overton is their enemy, the only thing that stands betwixt them and the work that means prosperity."

"You forget. Hawkins has truth on his side, a mighty good ally even for a rascal such as he," Mr. Hildreth said, taking a revolver out of his desk and running his fingers along the barrel.

Holding it muzzle down, he went on: "I wonder if—no, it can't be! Melissa Townley can't know all his scheme. Anyway we will manage to spoil his little game for him, but if we let the major get wind of it first"——

"There'd be the devil to pay and no pitch hot," Vance supplemented, with his hand on the knob.

Hildreth nodded an emphatic assent.

"Poor old major! We must save him, even in spite of himself."

A SURGEON'S KNIFE

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.
THEY ALL SAY THE SAME.
Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.
To those who do not already know the there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.
Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.
Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."
This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies as indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.
Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.
Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

when these conditions are caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of most of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially in women; and it can all be prevented. They who call the cure for constipation a cure-all, are only half-wrong after all.

Write to B. F. Allen Company, 365 Canal Street, New York, for a little book on CONSTIPATION (its causes consequences and correction); sent free. If you are not within reach of a druggist, the pills will be sent by mail, 25 cents a box.

Could Not Bluff This Yankee.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 30.—Captain James Hayes, of the schooner Pinta, just arrived from a fishing trip to the Newfoundland banks reports that while on the banks near Port au Port, N. F., about two weeks ago, the vessel was boarded by an officer of a French man-of-war who told the captain that the schooner had no right to fish where she was anchored and ordered her immediate departure. Capt. Hayes disputed the claim, telling the French officer that he proposed to stay where he was unless towed away by the man-of-war, and after some further argument the officer returned to the ship. The Pinta continued her fishing and no further attempt was made to molest her. The captain claims that the whole affair was a case of bluff.

New York Police Corruption Charges

NEW YORK, June 30.—The police commissioners have adopted a resolution directing the superintendent to investigate the charges made against members of the department before the senate investigating committee. Commissioner Murray voted against the resolution on the grounds that it would interfere with the work of the committee.

Falcon Arrives at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 30.—The steamer Falcon, which carries the Peary auxiliary expedition to Greenland, arrived from Sydney last night with a full cargo of coal. She will discharge 100 tons in order to make room for a year's supply of provisions and other material which she must carry.

Wheat Statistics.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The vice-president laid before the senate a communication from the secretary of agriculture in reply to a senate resolution calling upon that official for a statement of the visible and invisible supply of wheat likely to be in the United States on July 1, 1894, and the number of bushels likely to be raised in each of the states. The statement estimates the visible supply at about 55,000,000 bushels. In addition to this there will be approximately 8,000,000 bushels of available wheat stocks on the Pacific coast and an interminable quantity that goes by the name of invisible supply. An accompanying table gives the winter and spring wheat, by states, and the estimated probable product on the basis of the June condition, as compared with last year's harvest. The total acreage of winter wheat is fixed at 23,116,172; acreage of spring wheat, 10,108,592; and the total number of bushels raised 414,988,987.

Protection for Employes.

BOSTON, June 30.—A decision by the full bench of the supreme court was rendered which determines that a railroad company is liable for damages for its gross neglect which results in personal injuries to one of its employes, who at the time of the accident is riding upon a train out of working hours by virtue of a pass ticket issued by the railroad. The ruling is made so generous as to hold that under the circumstances of the case the employee, who was instantly killed, was at the time a passenger and the defendant owed him the duties due to such, despite the fact that the pass ticket stipulated that the person accepting it assumed all the risk of accidents and expressly agreed that the company should not be liable as a common carrier.

Killed at a Fire in Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 30.—Fire damaged the storehouse and stock of Franklin Woodruff & Co., on Furman street, last evening, to the extent of about $400,000. The building was stored with jute, hemp, salt, salt-codfish and isinglass. The south wall of the building fell on a number of men who were at work in the yards of the Union Ferry company. John C. Barrow, of 43 Joralemon street, this city, and James Prentice, of Giffords Station, Staten Island, were instantly killed. Several others will probably die from injuries received.

Brockway Safe for a Long Time Yet.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 30.—The Elmira reformatory investigating commission has adjourned the hearings to July 10. There will be a session covering four days that week, and then it was decided to take a recess until September. From the progress the investigation has made, and the number of witnesses yet to be examined, it is doubtful if the commission can complete its work in time to report to the governor before the expiration of his present term.

PROSPECTS FAVORABLE

Trade Outlook Foreshadowed by Bradstreet.

Better Feeling Among Merchants and an Increased Number of Instances Where Trade Has Been Stimulated—The Great Railroad Strike Threatens Disastrous Results

NEW YORK, June 30.—While there is no actual improvement in business throughout the country, there are more favorable prospects and better feeling among merchants, says Bradstreet in his review of the business situation of the week just closing, with an increased number of instances where trade has been stimulated. The ending of the great bituminous coal strike is promptly followed by a sympathetic strike of railway employes, which threatens disastrous effect on business by reason of interference with distribution and travel. Losses on perishable freight in transit are already reported. Other unfavorable features include a conference of Rhode Island cotton mill owners as to the advisability of shutting down, owing to accumulation of stocks; heavy arrivals of wool at eastern markets, where stocks are already large; delay in settling the coke strike, which prevents many industrial establishments from starting up; an extremely restricted volume of business among wholesale dealers in clothing at Baltimore, 43 per cent. of what it was in the first half of last year; delayed orders from country merchants in Georgia and South Carolina, where crop damage has been threatened, and a sharp restriction in the volume of general trade at Chicago, where the railway strike centres.

Favorable Features.

Important among the favorable features are the rains throughout the south Atlantic, gulf, south, central and northwestern states, where crop damage had been feared, with resulting gains to small grains, cotton, fruit and vegetables. New England woolen mills at work on dress goods and men's wear report a moderate revival in orders, and shoe shipments from eastern factories hold up well, while Boston banks report increased demand for loans and Providence jewelers fair orders for autumn delivery.

Demand has increased for paints, oils and glass at Pittsburg, and for iron at Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago, at the latter points the market being firmer.

The most favorable report comes from St. Louis, where the volume of business, after a marked increase within a week, is reported about normal. Kansas City jobbers announce receipt of fall orders in staple lines, and Milwaukee bankers report the demand for loans as increasing. Jobbers at the three larger Minnesota cities report an improved feeling among country merchants in that state and North Dakota reflected in orders recently received. There is an improved trade at Memphis, Jacksonville and Charleston.

Business Failures.

The total number of actual business failures in the United States in the past six months (failures in which assets are less than liabilities) is 6,338, which is more than in any preceding similar period, an increase of 4.6 per cent. compared with the first half of 1893, and 22 per cent. more than in six months of 1892. The present tendency in the number of failures to decrease is shown by the fact that while at the end of the first quarter of the current year the increase over the like period last year was 900 failures, the increase this year over last, at the end of a half year, is only 289 failures. Total liabilities of failing traders for the six months are $82,535,000, assets being 54 per cent. of that total. These aggregates are each less than one-half of what they were for six months of 1893, and smaller than in six months of 1891 as well. Pennsylvania and California show striking increases in numbers of failures, and Illinois and Kansas noteworthy decreases.

Carlisle's Scapling Knife.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Secretary Carlisle has requested the resignation of Edward O'Meagher Congdon, inspector of public buildings.

BIG STRIKE SPREADING

Fight Centered Against the Managers' Roads.

Efforts Being Made To Tie-up All Lines in the Association—It Is Now a Battle Royal with Both Sides Straining Every Nerve To Win—Blacklisted Men of '91 May Return.

CHICAGO, June 30.—President Debs and his associates of the American Railway union played a high card yesterday and made a radical move when they formally boycotted every road represented in the General Managers' association. Commissions were given to committees representing the employes of each road with orders to call out the men the instant sufficient support was obtained to warrant a strike.

General Managers' Association First.

As rapidly as possible the men will be ordered out on the roads named and it is the intention of the union officials to inaugurate strikes on the lines mentioned in preference to roads throughout the country which haul Pullman cars. According to the official announcement the Managers' association has been organized for the sole purpose of crushing the American Railway union, and waiving all other claims the union will proceed to do battle with the associated lines.

Wherever the boycott and strike is not now effective the organizers will work until sufficient men have been organized to tie up the roads.

A formal strike will not be declared on the Milwaukee until the situation on that road has been canvassed by the board of directors of the union at a meeting to-day. The Michigan Central and Grand Trunk are not affected as yet, but the union officials say they will be tied up unless they withdraw from the Managers' association.

The Wabash was left alone until it was reported that the company was handling trains of roads already boycotted. If the plan of the union officials is carried out, 22 roads out of Chicago will be tied up within the next two or three days.

Blacklist of '91 Removed.

The contest between the Chicago & Northwestern and the union is developing into a battle royal and each side is straining every nerve to win. The company has removed the blacklist placed upon the strikers of 1891, and, so far, have secured two of the old men, who are now at work in the passenger yards. One other crew is at work, but most of the switching is being done by the officials. When it was reported that the 1,500 shopmen at 40th street had consented to strike, the committees raised the roof with cheers.

First Actual Victory.

The Mobile & Ohio road has surrendered unconditionally. General Manager Seale telegraphed President Debs that his road had cut off all Pullman cars and requested a release of the line. Before it could be ascertained that the road was not a member of the Managers' association President Debs wired the president of the union in charge of the strike to call off the boycott immediately after receiving a written guarantee from the company that it would not run any Pullman cars until the present trouble was settled. This is the first actual victory and is used among the strikers to good effect.

New Men Captured by Strikers.

Matters are now complicated for the railroads. The union men have succeeded in inducing the majority of the imported substitutes on the Pan Handle to join the union and quit work. A committee from the imported men called at the headquarters to report that they had been brought here under strict orders, to disobey which meant the loss of their positions. The men were conductors, brakemen and switchmen from Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and other points, and when 93 of them were marched to the yards the union men captured a number with the result that a committee of five attended a meeting and promised to call out their companions, providing the union would guarantee them protection and provide them with transportation to their homes. Fifteen of the men have been sent back and it is claimed by the union men that the others will go back.

Engineers Will Assist.

Action similar to that taken by the conductors characterized the several meetings of the engineers. Some 200 of the engineers on the Illinois Central and other roads centering at Grand Crossing have agreed to stand by the men. All the men on the Illinois Central pledged themselves to obey a call to strike whenever issued. It is announced that the engineers will refuse to handle trains with Pullman cars or operated by substitutes. Included in a later meeting of Illinois Central employes were the suburban trainmen and it was announced at headquarters that a strike was immediately inaugurated.

A mob of 1,000 people, composed of strikers and their sympathizers, stopped the New York & Chicago limited on the Chicago & Erie road near the state line at Hammond, Ind., at 5:40 last evening and compelled the crew to sidetrack the two Pullman sleepers carried by the train.

The expected strike of the switchmen and switch engine crews employed by the Union Stock Yards & Transit company operating all the cars of live and other freight which enters the Union stock yards has begun.

Five hundred delegates, representing 11 lodges of the International Switchmen's Aid association, these lodges representing the employes of 22 lines of road centering in Chicago, met at the Great Northern hotel last night and a resolution that the members of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association recognize the strike begun by the American Railway union to the extent of calling out all the members of the Switchmen's union, was overwhelmingly adopted.

Telegrams have been received from over 200 points announcing to the executive board that the men have struck and tied up the yards.

Canada Takes Gold From Us.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A new source of demand for United States gold has developed in an order from Canada for $250,000 in gold. This was taken out of the New York sub-treasury yesterday and sent north. In addition to the Canadian order, $1,225,000 was engaged for shipment to Europe. With yesterday's engagements deducted the treasury net gold reserve stands at $64,898,815.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TALK NOT YET ENDED

Further Opportunity for Tariff Oratory.

Programme of the Work Now That the Bill Has Been Taken from Committee of the Whole—The Watson-Black Contest Case Unexpected Called and Disposed Of.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The tariff bill, after an incubation period of thirteen weeks in committee of the whole, was last evening taken out of committee and reported to the senate. The bill and amendments were ordered to be printed, and will come up for the action of the senate on Monday next at 10:30 a. m. Then all the important amendments that have been agreed to, and some that are yet to be offered, will have to be acted on, and will be also open to further debate.

When the bill was taken up yesterday the only section that remained to be acted on was the one abrogating the reciprocity commercial arrangements, and that section was, after a long debate, modified so as to read that "nothing herein contained shall be held to abrogate the reciprocity or commercial arrangements, except where such arrangements are inconsistent with the provisions of this act." It was agreed to without a division, and then a motion to lay the section on the table was rejected —yeas, 24; nays, 34.

An amendment which was offered by Mr. Peffer to impose a tax of $50 per head on immigrants drew out from several senators declarations in favor of laws to restrict immigration, and was then laid on the table—46 to 12.

An amendment by Mr. Gallinger, (rep., N. H.) that the act shall not be operative as to Canada until that country shall have entered into commercial arrangements that will result in a material reduction of duties on American products and manufactures was also rejected—yeas, 21; nays, 29.

An amendment by Mr. Allison (rep., Ia.) to reduce the whiskey bonded period from eight years to four years was rejected—yeas, 28; nays, 36. Then some paragraphs that had been reserved were disposed of, as well as a large number of new amendments reported from the finance committee (generally of minor importance) and the bill was finally, to the intense relief of senators on both sides reported to the senate.

The joint resolution extending the general appropriations for 30 days was passed, signed by the speaker and the vice-president and sent to the president of the United States.

An invitation to attened a religious service at St. Matthew's church in Washington, next Sunday, in memory of the murdered president of France, was received from the secretary of state and accepted, and the vice-president was instructed to make proper arrangements therefor.

The senate, at 6 p. m., adjourned until Monday.

House of Representatives.

Quite unexpectedly, a contested election case was precipitated upon the attention of the house and before the regular recess, until the evening session, was taken, Mr. Thomas Watson, of Georgia, the well known populist member of the 53d congress was declared not to have been elected to the 53d congress from the 10th district of that state, and Mr. J. C. C. Black was confirmed in his title to the seat.

The case was called up by Mr. Pence (pop., Col.), who stated that he did so for the purpose of asking unanimous consent that when the case was considered Mr. Watson might be heard for an hour in his own behalf. He then moved that the case be postponed until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

At first, the democrats were inclined to vote against consideration of the case at present, but acting under the advice of Speaker Crisp, they united with the republicans and voted to proceed with its consideration.

Failing in his effort to secure the desired postponement, Mr. Pence began filibustering, in which he was aided by the republicans generally and the populists, which had the effect of impelling the committee on rules to bring in an order for an immediate vote on the resolutions of the committee on elections.

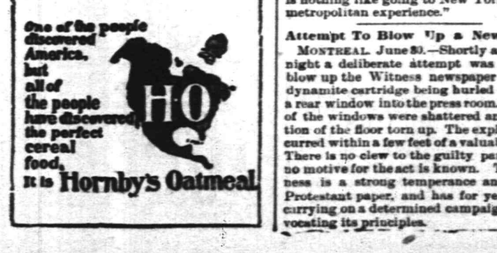
After all of the parliamentary expedients for delay permissible under the rules had been exhausted, the order was adopted and the resolutions of the committee agreed to as stated.

A senate bill was passed to relieve the sureties of Dennis Murphy, a paymaster in the army at the beginning of the war. The claim against Murphy was merely technical, but the passage of the bill was essential to the closing up of the estate of the father of Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, who was on Murphy's bond.

A joint resolution was also agreed to providing for the printing of 500,000 copies of the report of the secretary of agriculture for the year 1894. The usual Friday recess was taken till 8 o'clock, the night session being devoted to the consideration of private pension and relief bills.

Anarchist Cavagnac To Be Pardoned.

PARIS, June 30.—The municipal council have voted in favor of pardoning Cavagnac, the anarchist arrested in Albi.



ADVENTURES OF A STUDENT.

Robbed in Boston and Then Held as a Witness.

BOSTON, June 30.—George F. Bryant, a Columbia college student, arrived in this city from New London, where he had gone from New York to witness the boat race. He has an aunt living in Medford, just outside of Boston, and intended going to her house, but could not make a satisfactory arrangement with a herdic driver, having but $3.10 in his possession. He repaired to Boston common where later he was accosted by a young man, who, after some conversation, offered to give him a lodging. Bryant accepted, and as they were passing down Boylston street together three young fellows appeared, and the four attacked Bryant, knocking him down. They then took his gold watch and chain and diamond studded locket and his $3 and ran. Bryant called out for help, and an officer succeeded in capturing one of the thieves who gave his name as Patrick Leonard, and gave information that led to the arrest of another of the assailants named Thomas J. Moran. The police are now after the others. Leonard and Moran, who are 20 years old, were charged with highway robbery, and Bryant will be placed under bonds for his appearance when the case comes to trial, as the police believe that he would not return if allowed to go to New York.

HIGH EDUCATION.

Strange Effects of the System in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, June 30.—During the discussion in the board of education over the removal of Principal Sweeney, Judge Kenny, who presented the resolution of the high school students, told President Allen that the removal was a political job. President Allen replied that Judge Kenny's opinion was of no consequence, because he was a judge who sat upon the bench to protect ballot box stuffers. Judge Kenny retorted that President Allen was a liar. A recess had been ordered a few minutes before, and Director Cowles threatened to call the board to order and eject the judge. Mr. Kenney defied Mr. Cowles to attempt it, when friends of the parties interfered and prevented further disturbance. It is generally believed that Mr. Sweeney was removed because he is a democrat and that the charge that he smoked cigarettes, drank beer, and did not pay his debts was merely a subterfuge. Mr. Sweeney denies the first charges and says the debt was for school books for which he has not yet been paid. He has already paid $500 on the account and is paying the rest at $50 a month. The original amount was $2,000.

Desperate Alabama Miners.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 30.—Thousands of copies of an alleged proclamation, addressed to the governor of Alabama and signed "Alabama miners," are being scattered broadcast here. The circular makes demands at the hands of the governor that the shut down of the mines be declared off, and that the men be allowed to go back to work at old prices, and that the non-union element be sent away. The circular continuing says: "That the wholesale arrest of our men cease by your withdrawing your standing advertisement offering a reward of $400 for each arrest. This must be done, and by you; we are in no mood to be tampered with; we stipulate terms." The circular continues, saying that negotiations between the executive committee and the operators must be gone into not later than July 1. It ends: "If the above demands are not complied with we will enforce them, by force of arms if necessary, after date set. Any unfriendly move during the stipulated time will be resisted."

Anarchists in London.

LONDON, June 30. — Two anarchists harangued a crowd at Tower hill. They were not molested until they displayed a placard denouncing royality and calling attention to the fact that members of the royal family would be present at the opening of the Tower bridge. Even then the crowd made no sign for a few minutes, but the remarks of the speakers in connection with the placard were too suggestive of dynamite and the dagger to suit the tastes of their hearers. Suddenly a great shout arose from the crowd and a rush was made for the stand occupied by the speakers. The anarchistic orators bolted from the stand and each made a dash for a place of safety. One of them was successful in finding a place of refuge in a church and the other, hotly pursued, was protected by the police. The crowd made a great clamor to have the speakers delivered into their hands but were awed by the police and finally dispersed.

Metropolitan Experience.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—"Misfortunes never come singly," said Mr. Bartholdt in a philosophic mood, with a weary expression of countenance. "Few men pass through the experiences I had as a member of the immigration committee during our recent visit to New York, and live to boast of it. On Sunday afternoon I was one of a party of friends that went sailing on the bay. Up came the squall that resulted in the drowning of so many persons from Brooklyn and New York. It struck our boat and capsized it. Fortunately we were not far from shore. Every occupant of the boat was spilled out, but as the water was shallow we escaped with a drenching. That evening a cab in which some friends and myself were seated was run into by a Broadway cable car. The headlight of the car was smashed and the cab was badly damaged, but we escaped. I tell you there is nothing like going to New York to get a metropolitan experience."

Attempt To Blow Up a Newspaper.

MONTREAL, June 30.—Shortly after midnight a deliberate attempt was made to blow up the Witness newspaper office, a dynamite cartridge being hurled through a rear window into the press room. Several of the windows were shattered and a portion of the floor torn up. The explosion occurred within a few feet of a valuable press. There is no clew to the guilty parties and no motive for the act is known. The Witness is a strong temperance and ultra-Protestant paper, and has for years been carrying on a determined campaign in advocating its principles.

M. CARNOT'S FUNERAL

Arrangements for the Obsequies To-Morrow.

Mme. Carnot Receives a Kindly and Motherly Letter of Sympathy from Queen Victoria—Enormous Sums Spent in Floral Tokens—The President's Assassination Was Plotted.

PARIS, June 30.—The police of Marseilles have ascertained that the assassination of President Carnot was the culmination of a plot. The conspirators met last in Cette. They drew lots to determine who should kill the president, and the task fell to Santo.

The police say they have clues which will lead to the arrest of other guilty men. Several men who were arrested in Montpelier owing to the utterances of Lrborie's wife have been examined and discharged.

The funeral procession of President Carnot on Sunday will be led by a squad of guards under Gen. Saussier, the military governor of Paris. Troops riding in cars and bearing wreaths will be next, and then will come the republican guard, delegates and students of the Ecole Polytechnique, the hearse with a guard of honor, the dead president's private servants, the master of ceremonies, the Carnot family, President Casimir-Perier and the presidents of the senate and chamber, ambassadors, ministers, cardinals, marshals, diplomatic envoys, secretaries and attaches, senators, deputies, personal friends, conspicuous members of the Legion of Honor, members of the Institute of France, representatives of the law courts, the department of public instruction and the national financial institutions, clergymen of all creeds, prefects of the Seine, Paris municipal council, municipal councils from the provinces, deputations from the army, navy and colleges of France, representatives of the French and foreign press, notaries, auctioneers, brokers, and so on.

No group of interest has been overlooked by those making the arrangements, and the procession will be enormous beyond all precedents in the last generation.

Mme. Carnot has received this autograph letter from Queen Victoria:

"MADAME:—Although I have not the pleasure of knowing you personally, I cannot refrain from writing you and attempting to express the deep and sincere sympathy I feel for you in this terrible moment. I cannot find words to tell you how my widow's heart bleeds for you, and what dismay, what horror, I feel at the crime that has robbed you of your beloved husband and the whole of France of its most worthy and respected president. If universal sympathy can in any measure assuage your intense grief, be assured it is yours. Madame, may God give you the strength, courage and resignation so necessary to enable you to bear such misfortune. I am, Madame, yours very sincerely, VICTORIA."

Cardinal Vaughan will officiate at the choral memorial mass for M. Carnot on Sunday. The services will be held in the church of Notre Dame, Leicester square, and will be attended by the Prince of Wales, the Czarewitch, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the Duke of Connaught, the Earl of Rosebery, the Marquis Salisbury, and hundreds of other conspicuous men.

The provincial towns are emulating Paris in the sending of flowers to the Elysee palace. Enormous quantities of wreaths have been received from all parts of France. The total value of the flowers already at the palace is more than 2,000,000 francs. Fabulous sums are being paid for windows along the route of next Sunday's procession.

Memorial Services at Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It is understood that the president will remain in Washington over Sunday, and, accompanied by all the members of the cabinet will attend the services in memory of the late president of France at St. Matthew's Catholic church. At the request of the French minister the state department has sent invitations to all important government officials to take part in the services. The occasion will be made a notable official function.

Carnot Memorial Services.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Memorial services in honor of the late President Carnot, will be held in St. Patrick's Cathedral to-morrow. This is in accordance with a request of the French government. As the national funeral of President Carnot will be held in Paris at the Cathedral of Notre Dame on Sunday, it was the express wish of the government to have all similar ceremonies in foreign countries held on Sunday.

Jerolemon Charged with Murder.

NEWARK, N. J., June 30.—Theodore Jerolemon, the wealthy Belleville merchant who murdered Hugh Drain, an unemployed Kearney laborer for stealing cherries, has been formally charged with murder. His counsel will apply to Judge Depue for his client's release on bail, but this will hardly be allowed. A coroner's jury has been impanelled and will hold an inquest on Monday. The evidence of the men who accompanied Drain is very damaging to Jerolemon.

Candidates for Admission to Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 30.—About 1,200 young men are now undergoing examinations for admission to the two undergraduate departments of Yale. So far 406 candidates have applied for admission to the next freshman class in Yale college and 283 for the next freshman class in the Sheffield school. There are 385 candidates taking preliminary examinations in the academic and 163 in the scientific department. These numbers are much larger than ever before.

Offer of a $50,000,000 Bond Loan.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It has been ascertained that in the early part of the week two prominent New York financiers called on President Cleveland and offered to place a new $50,000,000 bond loan on the market, stating that all of it would be taken in New York and the east. The president said that no further bond issue was necessary at this time and no prospective necessity for this summer was now apparent or likely to become apparent.

Want the Old Liberty Bell.

PITTSBURG, June 30.—Mayor B. McKenna has addressed a letter to Mayor Edwin S. Stewart, of Philadelphia, enclosing a copy of the letter of the citizens executive committee of the G. A. R. encampment and a copy of the resolution passed by councils June 21, asking permission to bring the old liberty bell to Pittsburg during the national encampment.

HOW THE BABIES THRIVE.

Twins Brought Up on Lactated Food, Which Has Saved the Lives of Thousands of Infants Throughout the Country.

Sad-eyed mothers with frail, sickly babies that seem made for any world but this hard one, should cheer up.

There is a way of making puny little ones thrive and grow fat and strong and happy.

Lactated food is praised by thousands of mothers of robust children that were once weak and feeble and even despaired of. Lactated food makes weaning an easy task.

The twin babies of Mrs. T. H. Hickens of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., whose picture is are given above, were brought up entirely on lactated food, which has saved the lives of thousands of little ones whose mothers have been unable to nurse them at the breast.

The great dispensaries, nurseries and homes for children use lactated food. It saves babies' lives. Can be had at any druggist's. It is always pure, keeps perfectly and is not affected by age or temperature.

Sugar of milk is the basis of mother's milk, and it is the basis of lactated food. With it is combined pure barley malt, the finest wheat gluten and the nutritious elements of the oat. It is thoroughly cooked by high steam heat, and a predigested, nutritious food that fulfils all requirements of the growing child is the result; there is no secret about it. It is simply a food.

Thousands of happy infants have been brought up on it.

IN THE CONDEMNED ROOM.

Mrs. Halliday Now Locked in the Death Cell at Clinton Prison.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., June 30.—Mrs. Lizzie Halliday, the Sullivan county murderess, is the first woman ever confined in Clinton prison. Her trip yesterday to that institution, accompanied by Sheriff Beecher and his deputy, Rice, and Miss Osborne, a matron from the insane asylum at Matteawan, was uneventful, the prisoner merely muttering and crossing her hands. At the prison she was received as any ordinary prisoner, except that the new prison matrons, Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert and Mrs. John Breust, from the Ogdensburg state hospital, took charge of her, instead of male officers.

She did not answer the usual questions. The sheriff volunteered the information as to age, occupation, etc.

After Mrs. Halliday was bathed and her clothing changed she was taken to the condemned cell, where the matrons will watch her and care for her wants. A male guard will be within calling distance at all times.

The cell occupied by Mrs. Halliday is different from any other in the prison. It is in the centre of the condemned room and is constructed of iron bars from floor to ceiling, making it merely an open cage where she can be seen at all times.

Everyone who saw the prisoner, with the exception of the Sullivan county officers, pronounced her a mad woman.

Wiman's Case.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Application for a certificate of reasonable doubt in the case of Erastus Wiman, the convicted forger, was to have been made before Justice Bartlett, in supreme court chambers, but by consent of counsel on both sides, the application was postponed until July 9, next. Assistant District Attorney John D. Lindsay will appear for the prosecution. In the interim Wiman will remain in the Tombs.

Cumberland Miners Give In.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—Alfred Tucker & Co., of this city, agents of the American Coal company, the largest producers in the Cumberland coal mining region, received a telegram last evening announcing the complete submission of the striking miners in that district, who have agreed to return to work at 40 cents per gross ton, the price they were receiving at the time of going on strike. This, it is thought, will be the means of work being resumed at once in the Clearfield region, as the operators there cannot afford to pay more for mining than their competitors.

Charged With Forgery.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Edward J. Cashen of Auburn, N. Y., who is wanted there on a charge of forgery, was a prisoner in the Essex Market police court. The prisoner did not appear at all disconcerted by his arrest and did not evince the slightest interest in his surroundings. Even when he was turned over to Detective Birdsall of Auburn, who has the case in hand, he preserved the same air of nonchalance. It is stated that previous to the offense complained of Cashen bore a good reputation. He has a wife and family, who are highly respected.

Little Reverence of Royalty.

LONDON, June 30.—When the duke of York received his degree of LL. D. at Cambridge university Wednesday, his parents and a host of notabilities were present. This, however, did not awe the students, for they kept up a running fire of comments and cries, such as "Good, old Georgie," and also referred to his royal highness as "Grandpapa Wales."

Another Crank After Crispi.

ROME, June 30.—A man in the garb of a workingman was observed loitering outside of Signor Crispi's residence. When questioned as to this motive for following the premier and lingering in the vicinity of his house he declared that it was his purpose to "square accounts with him." The man was searched at the police station and a large knife was found upon him.

The Scotch Strike.

EDINBURGH, June 30.—Only 500 Scottish miners are at work. The strike is affecting the shipping and steel trades. The railroads are reducing the number of trains owing to the decrease in mineral traffic.

Up Goes Coal.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The coal sales agents have advanced the prices on all sizes of anthracite 15 cents per ton to the east and west for July delivery. The output for July was placed at 3,500,000 tons.

SCHOOL DAYS ENDED.

ST. MARY'S HIGHLY CREDITABLE ANNUAL SHOWING.

Three Talented Misses Complete the Course and Receive Their Diplomas—Charming Exhibition by the Students.

The pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School in Music Hall, last night, showed proof of good scholarship, and gave an excellent entertainment. They were rewarded with honors from the faculty and with applause from the audience. Their exhibition was a marvel of grace and skill, and the manner in which they carried out the programme gave evidence of their loyalty and love for their church and for their school. The audience was, as usual, a large one.

The orchestra played an overture, the audience became silent, and the school exercises began with a chorus, "These Moments of Pleasure". The young singers were arranged in the form of a central triangle with a single file on each side of the stage. A changing light was thrown upon them from the balcony. The singing was hearty and even.

One hundred little children sang in chorus "Katy Did, Katy Did n't". In the refrain the fifty boys sang "Katy Did", each with an emphatic nod, while the fifty girls sang "Katy Did n't" with an equally forcible and contradictory shaking of heads. The colored lights were used very effectively.

Delsarte exercises were gracefully performed by thirteen young women. All were in white, except one leader in pink. The easy movements and the precision of execution to the rhythm of the music, made a perfect picture as one color followed the other in the flood of light. The exercises ended and a scarf drill commenced. The poses assumed and rapid changes in position gained much applause.

Those who took part in the exercises and drill were the Misses L. McIntyre, Katie Cooley, Lena Weber, Lizzie Day, May Day, Agnes Kelley, Maggie Cashen, Loretta Quinn, Mary Smith, Katie Carty, and Lizzie Casey.

The chorus, standing as for the first number, rendered "At the Foot of Vesuvius", by Coccone.

Scene 1 of "The Fairies' Carnival" opened to sprightly music. Fifty-two "fairies" in gay attire, including a fourth of boys, frolicked and danced over the stage in fanciful figures. Each division falling back as it finished its special evolutions, another followed, in different dress and in different dance. Rewards were distributed and new tasks given out, and the fairies left the stage to meet again in a "year".

The fairies representing roses, bees, butterflies, were a charming part of the scene with their brightly colored costumes. The more prominent participants were:

Fairy Queen	Stella Illsley
Queen of Bees	Lizzie Day
Queen of Roses	Agnes Dady
Queen of Butterflies	Lydia Hughes
Fairy Widow	Susie Lynch
Fairy Fun	Katie Roach
Fairy Gold	Annie Daly
Fairy Beauty	Lizzie O'Keefe
Fairy Goodness	Lena Barrel

Speaking Fairies—Minnie Callahan, Nellie Gunning

The gypsy festival followed, a series of songs and dances by fifteen dark haired girls. The costumes were bright and fantastic, and the music was similar to that of the strolling tribes, tambourines being used by the dancers.

In the festival were seen the following:

Gypsy Queen	Lizzie Flanagan
Fortune Teller	Kittie Flanagan
Peddler	Lizzie Day

Gypsy Maidens:

Katie Carty,	Maria Carty,
Mamie Doll,	Lizzie Rafferty,
Josie Murphy,	Nettie Goff,
Nelly Begley,	Nellie Lawler,
Annie O'Keefe,	Maggie Shannon,
	Kate Leahy.

The boys next had their turn with a short, amusing drama, "The Photograph". Edward Flynn was the poor photographer, with an inactive uncle, "Harris", Joseph Connors. A retiring grocer, "Nutmeg," well satisfied with his make-up, was Daniel O'Keefe. Lawrence Doyle, "Courtney", and James Burke, "Leroy", were two friends of the photographer. Michael Owens appeared as a shoemaker, "Wax-all". John Butscher was a cook, "Griddle", who exhibited his sons, David Mack, Michael Keefe, William Keefe, Robert Scott, James Kyle and George Lindsay. Thomas Quinn was an exacting landlord. John Berry was "Rapinette", the discharged assistant who finally brought three visitors to his master, Sheriff Frank Connors and Constables Samuel Goff and Joseph Galbraith.

The fairies came upon the stage again to confer upon the relative values of beauty, gold and virtue. After dancing, they formed in a pretty position and sang a good-night song.

Rev. Father Murphy, in conferring the honors, said he was glad that the three graduates had completed their studies in the school to the satisfaction of the teachers. To each of them, Miss Edna R. Phillips, Miss Anna Roth and Miss Kate Keenan, were awarded a diploma and a gold medal. On account of the hard Winter, the money usually devoted to prizes had been used to relieve the necessitous, and therefore Father Murphy, since there were no prizes to award, gave honorable mention to the following pupils, as having attained the highest commendations:

Senior Class—Lizzie Casey, Kate Flynn.
First Preparatory—Mary Smith.
Second Preparatory—Mary Doll, Lizzie Flanagan, Lizzie Day.
Third Preparatory—Katie Keefe, Josephine Walsh, Lizzie Day.
Fourth Preparatory—Michael Owens.
First Junior Class—Lizzie T. Day.
Second Junior Class—Thomas B. O'Keefe, Mary Whalen, Cora Newman.

Miss Edna Phillips then delivered her valedictory, "The Light We Follow", a patriotic essay, treating especially of patriotism in school. She concluded with words of gratitude and farewell to the school authorities. The talented young speaker made a very favorable impression. She received several gifts of flowers.

Rev. J. J. Synnott, D. D., of Seton Hall, was introduced by Rev. Father Smyth. He made an address in which he defended the parochial school system against recent attacks. He said he saw no way in which the State could be damaged by an education which differed from others only in not neglecting that most important study, Christianity. He knew that the audience would leave the hall with higher ideas of the efficiency of St. Mary's School because of the exhibition they had seen. He urged the graduates to remember that during all their lives they would be on exhibition as scholars of St. Mary's.

"Evening Chimes", Gabriel, was then sung by a number of the girls. The exercises closed with the singing of "Columbia" by the school, while red, white and blue lights were flashed upon the stage.

The drills and fancy dancing which were prominent features of the entertainment, were the result of the careful training of Madame Isa Lezum. The pianists of the evening were Miss St. Leger, Miss Kate Quinn and Miss Ellen Kelly. The violinist was Miss Alice Quinn. Guttman furnished the orchestra.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Friendship Cornet Band of New Market will furnish the music at the festival to be given in the Church of the Heavenly Rest this evening.

The Congregational Sunday-school now meets at 11:45, and closes at 12:45, allowing the members time to get home for a 1 o'clock dinner.

Tomorrow evening Rev. C. R. Barnes will preach on "Our Flag, a Symbol of Christianity". A special choir of young people will lead the singing.

Members of the Women's Relief Corps, No. 10, will accompany Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to Dunellen tomorrow evening, where they attend service in the Methodist Church.

Sunday evening, July 8, the First Presbyterian Church choir will render "The Holy City", by Gaul, with the following soloists: Sopranos, Miss Florence Stevens, Miss Katherine Glenn; altos, Miss Blanche Jones, Miss Pansy Herring; tenor, Louis Bond; basso, Walter A. Hudson.

The service in the First Baptist Church Sunday evening will include special music by the choir and congregation, under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, and a sermon by the pastor, Dr. Yerkes, on National questions. The choir will sing Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer", the entire work, and several other anthems.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational Church will hold a special Fourth of July meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30.

Clifford Braider will represent the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist Church in the convention to be held in Cleveland this month. He will visit relatives in St. Paul before returning home.

Great Things Tonight.

In addition to the special sale in the big basement at Edsall's commercial palace tonight, there will be put on sale on the first floor a new lot of blazier duck suits at $2 29 regular $3.00 goods. A new lot of ladies white waists from 59 cents up to $2.00 just about one half their usual price. A splendid line of new, good calico wrappers at 69 cents. All silk windsor ties at 10 cents. Boys gauze knee pants at 24 cents and up. They will also begin the biggest muslin and sheeting sale aver attempted in this part of the State. Yard wide bleached muslin good, fair quality at 5 cents a yard. A good yard wide unbleached muslin at 4 cents. Good quality of 2½ yards wide bleached sheeting at 18 cents a yard.

Working for an Improvement.

J. A. Haynes, the obliging station agent of the Central Railroad, has been appealed to by Manager Mills of the United Express Company and is now interesting himself with the railroad company for the laying of a sidetrack from the Park Avenue bridge to the express company's office and platform. It would greatly facilitate the unloading of express goods.

Bad Fall from a Tree.

Willie Banks, son of W. T. Banks, of West Second street, had quite a severe fall Thursday. While climbing one of the trees in the backyard of home, his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, a distance of about 8 feet. His arm was fractured. Dr. Probasco attended him.

CONCERNING ADVERTISING.

How Money May Be Wisely Expended. Some Mistaken Ideas.

Every business should do a certain amount of advertising to make it a success. There is cheap advertising and expensive advertising. Placing an advertisement in a well circulated, widely read paper is the cheapest kind of advertising, because it brings in the best results. To advertise in every catch-penny device that is offered is the most expensive advertising. You may not have to pay much for the space used, but no one reads the advertisements, and the money is practically thrown away. It is a mistaken idea some people have that they must notice an immediate effect following the first insertion of an advertisement; that there should be an instant demand for the wares advertised, and that their stores should be crowded from the moment their announcement appears.

Time alone will not bring success to any business. While a man is waiting for customers to come to him they are dying, and he is growing old.

If you have a small business, you can make it much more profitable by advertising. It is not necessary that you should spend a small fortune in advertising the first year, but if you should begin advertising in a prudent way you would soon find your business so increasing that you could afford to devote more of your profits to advertising. It is by such small beginnings in advertising that great business houses have in a large measure achieved their success.—Allentown (Pa.) Chronicle.

THREE HORSES SHOCKED.

Trolley Pole on Somerset Street Turns a Pool into an Electric Bath.

An electric exhibition on Somerset street in front of J. K. Arnold's grocery at 7 this morning was thought at first to have some connection with the storm. A trolley wire pole became charged with electricity, and three horses were shocked when they stepped into a pool of water in the gutter. The current came from an imperfectly insulated wire.

J. K. Arnold's delivery horse was the first to receive a shock. He was still shivering when a farmer from over the mountain drove his horse into the water. Next a milkman came up. Both of these horses felt the current. The farmer's horse stopped farther down the street and did not recover for over an hour. Superintendent Adelman cut the wire and broke the extra circuit.

A Moral.

There was a man in a faraway town
Who thought him wondrous wise.
He swore by all the fabled gods
He'd never advertise.

His goods were advertised at last,
And thereby hangs a tale.
The ad was set in nonpareil
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

A SUFFRAGE MASTERPIECE.

Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi's Plea For the Ballot.

IT IS DEMANDED AS A RIGHT.

Why Should the Mothers of the State Remain Aliens?

The Famous Woman Physician Shows That Women Are Not a Dependent Class, That the Capacity to Bear Arms Is Not Among the Necessary Qualifications of Voters, and She Urges That the Military Functions Performed by Men Have Never Been More Than the Equivalent For the Function of Child Bearing Imposed by Nature Upon Women—No Good Reason Why Woman Should Not Have the Franchise.

GENTLEMEN—It is with a deep sense of the momentous importance of our errand that we present ourselves before you on this occasion. Never in the history of the world has a greater question been submitted to a deliberative body for discussion than that which we now pray you to consider. Other conventions in this and other lands have framed constitutions for a state; have laid down laws for a people; have enfranchised social classes; have even called entire nations into being. But we ask you to consider that part of the state about which constitutions have been silent—to enfranchise a class so immense that it constitutes the full half of all social classes; to call into political existence a vital half of the nation, which hitherto, though personally, socially and legally recognized, has been politically nonexistent.

Since 1846, when was framed the constitution under which this state has since lived, immense changes have been effected in the industrial, legal and educational status of women. The tremendous influence of unhammered liberty of thought in America has brought about not only an unrivaled degree of liberty for men, but a degree of personal liberty for women hitherto unparalleled. The tremendous activity of industrial expansion has drawn women into the vortex of industrial life, so that they have become important and recognized factors in the wealth of the state.

In 1840 only half a dozen forms of employment other than household labor were open to women. In 1884 they were found employed in 354 subdivisions of industries catalogued in the census. In 1892 it has been shown that there are few lines of remunerative employment not open to women. The United States census of 1880 showed 2,500,000 women engaged in gainful employments, and of these 360,000 were so engaged in the state of New York.

Women Not a Dependent Class.

We believe that a proper study of the facts of history shows that women have never been, as is sometimes asserted, a dependent class; that even when confined to household labors their work has been of a character and importance to as justly demand recognition by the state as that of work carried on in the wholesale factories. In the great department of agricultural employments, that constitutes an entire fourth of all the industries enumerated on the census, the wives of the farmers bear a full share of the work of the farm, even though their work is not catalogued among the gainful occupations. When, however, the women, from choice or necessity, cross the threshold of their homes and engage in distinctly nondomestic employments, no further illusion is possible as to their position. They have entered the ranks of industrial producers, have become independent contributors toward the wealth of the community and are so recognized in the census. From this moment their distinct recognition as individuals by the state, as units in its body politics, entitled to an equal place with all other units discharging the same or equivalent functions, becomes an imperative necessity, a demand to be formulated alike by expediency, by justice and by common sense. In a republican industrial community those to whom such equal recognition is refused fall out of the ranks of citizens or never enter them. Whatever may be the personal privileges of their lot, whatever the legal protection accorded to their earnings, the public status of such a class remains strictly that of aliens.

At the present moment this vast and constantly growing army of women industrials constitutes an alien class. The privation for this class of political right to defend its interests is masked but not compensated by its numerous inter-relations with those who have rights. The menace offered to the harmonious equilibrium of the state by the presence in it of this alien class is concealed by the peculiar physical weakness of its members, which renders them incapable of physical violence. But a menace may lie in a poison or a narcotic as well as in a blow. Where, as in a democratic society is the case, it is necessary for every one to be alert, vigilant, intensely awake, the apathy of aliens, the indifference of aliens, the inability of aliens to unite for the common good is as dangerous as a dead weight clogging the wheels of delicate machinery.

Taxation Without Representation.

It is not as industrials alone that women today occupy important relations to the wealth of the state. They are large holders of property, acquired either through their own exertions, through gift, through marital right or by inheritance. It is estimated that throughout the state women hold property in their own name to the amount of at least $500,000,000. In the little city of Rochester alone they pay taxes on $29,000,000; in the city of Brooklyn on $108,000,000, or 22 per cent of all the taxable property of the city.

On this immense property women pay taxes and yet remain unrepresented in the legislatures that apportion the taxation. The only reason that it has been deemed just to tax women without representation is that until recently women—that is, at least those holding the normal position of their sex in marriage—have not really possessed their own property; they have not been, in the eye of the law, persons. By a series of enactments extending from 1848 to 1862, the last effected during the civil war, a married woman became entitled to hold her property, instead of being held by it, to administer it, to bequeath it by will, contract for it, to sue and be sued in her own name—to assume, in fact, all the responsibilities toward herself, her inheritance, her earnings, and, finally, her children, which belonged to a woman who had no husband to represent her or to a man entitled in law and politics to represent himself.

It will be as logical for this convention to complete the legislation of 1848 by now equalizing the political rights of women as it was for the French revolution of 1848 to confer political rights upon the men who had become equal before the law in 1793. The industrial work of women, the possession of inherited wealth, the legal emancipation and enforced assumption of responsibility, would all have been inadequate without correlative improvement in the education of women. So rapid has been this improvement, so generally is now accepted the claim of women to the highest education, that it is often forgotten in how recent times women were refused access to even the lowest. Less than 100 years ago, in this state and in New England, girls were excluded from even the elementary public schools, or, when admitted, untaught even in arithmetic, or, when this began to be conceded, allowed to learn addition, but forbidden to proceed to the three other rules. Not until 1821 was a high school open for women, and that was at Troy, N. Y.

Activities of Educated Women.

This state has taken the lead not only in legislation for women, but in the education of women. In 1849 the first woman physician received her medical diploma at Geneva. In 1865 the first institution claiming to confer collegiate instruction was founded by Matthew Vassar at Poughkeepsie. Up to 1890 900 graduates had left this one institution. In 1872 women were admitted to the great Cornell state university at Ithaca. In 1875 a New York millionaire made his initial gift of $250,000 for the residence of women students at Cornell. In 1889 Barnard college received its official sanction and grant of affiliation from the trustees of Columbia college, one of the oldest universities in the United States, and in 1893 a class of girls thence received their academic diplomas together with the Columbia students.

The first hospital in the world to be conducted by women physicians—the New York infirmary—was founded by Elizabeth Blackwell in 1857, and its medical college secured a legal charter from the state in 1867. The great medical societies of the county and state of New York were almost the first to officially recognize women physicians. During the civil war the women of this state were among the foremost in the patriotic work of aiding, encouraging and practically caring for the soldiers of our armies. A New York woman and veteran philanthropist, Abby Hopper Gibbons, directed hospitals on the Potomac. The sanitary commission originated in a parlor conference called by a New York woman, Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, and during four years consumed the energies of hundreds of New York women headed by a New Yorker of historic name—Louisa Lee Schuyler.

In 1873 a group of New York ladies, led by Miss Schuyler, organized the State Charities Aid association and inaugurated reform in the administration of the hospitals, almshouses, prisons and insane asylums throughout the state. In 1876, in partial recognition of the value of this work, Governor Tilden appointed one of the members of the association—Josephine Shaw Lowell—as a member of the state board of charities, the first official appointment ever made to a woman in this state. In 1887 the mayor of the city of New York appointed two women to serve on the school board, and in 1892 a large number of women were sent as official delegates from New York to the woman's board of the World's fair.

In perfectly natural sequence to all these manifestations of professional and social activity on the part of women, and as a possibly unconscious recognition of the value of this activity for the welfare of the state, the legislature in 1888 threw open to women the profession of law.

The Necessity For the Franchise.

In the state of New York the necessity for the franchise as an indispensable preliminary to the exercise of public functions presumed to be suitable for women has been judicially affirmed in another connection. In 1878 the legislature passed a law rendering women eligible to serve as school commissioners. It was vetoed by Governor Robinson. The law was re-enacted in 1880, with the addition that women could not only be elected, but also vote to elect. This bill was promptly signed by Governor Cornell. Thousands of women registered throughout the state, but when they presented themselves at the polls their vote was refused, because the law granting them such measure of school suffrage had been pronounced unconstitutional.

The opinion of the supreme court, handed down in 1893, states that, although the office of school commissioner was created by the legislature subsequent to the adoption of the constitution, which defined the qualifications for the electorate, this same legislature had not the right to create a new class of electors in regard to the office, and that women could only be enabled to vote for school commissioner by means of a constitutional amendment.

This division has become the incident to precipitate the whole discussion of woman suffrage into the range of immediate practicableness.

It was impossible, in face of the immense evolution of the status of women, personal, industrial, legal, educational and social, not to suggest their practical participation in the one affair which so immediately concerns women—namely, the schooling of children. In New York city alone are over 3,000 female teachers. The contradiction which pronounces unfit to vote the women who have been solemnly ordained fit to teach is hardly more flagrant than that now embodied in the laws of the 12 states of the Union which declare that women may elect officers to the school board, but may not exercise any other right of suffrage. At the very moment that the women of this state have reached a degree of development; have demonstrated a social capacity absolutely unknown until the present half century—at the very moment when, coincidently, the enlargement of the franchise has brought into the electorate classes also hitherto unknown, that same moment is chosen in which to reduce women to a degree of political inferiority which is also absolutely unprecedented.

Gradual Extension of Manhood Suffrage.

Until, practically, today the inequalities of political rights have been along lines of social class distinction. The well born, the powerful, the educated, the rich, have ruled. The poor, the ignorant, the helpless, have submitted. But today, for the first time, classes have been indistinguishably fused. All previous lines of clearage have been consolidated into one great line of demarcation, which makes a political class out of a sex. For the first time all political right, privilege and power reposes undisguisedly on the one brutal fact of sex, unsupported, untempered, unalloyed by any attribute of education, any justification of intelligence, any glamour of wealth, any prestige of birth, any insignia of actual power. For the first time all women, no matter how well born, how well educated, how intelligent, how rich, how serviceable to the state, have been rendered the political inferiors of all men, no matter how base born, how poverty stricken, how ignorant, how vicious, how brutal. The pauper in the almshouse may vote; the lady who devotes herself to getting that almshouse made habitable may not. The tramp who begs cold victuals in the kitchen may vote; the heiress who feeds him and endows a university may not.

Communities are agitated and legislatures convulsed to devise means to secure the right of suffrage to the illiterate voter. And the writers, journalists, physicians, teachers, the wives and daughters and companions of the best educated men in the state, are left in silence, blotted out, swamped, obliterated behind this cloud of often besotted ignorance. Today the immigrants pouring in through the open gates of our seaport towns, the Indian when settled in severality, the negro hardly emancipated from the degradation of 200 years of slavery, may all share in the sovereignty of the state. The white woman, the American woman, the woman in whose veins runs the blood of those heroic colonists who founded our country, of those women who helped to sustain the courage of their husbands in the Revolution, the woman who may have given the flower of her youth and health in the service of our civil war, this woman is excluded. Today women constitute the only class of sane people excluded from the franchise, the only class deprived of political representation, except the tribal Indians and the Chinese.

A Monstrous Anomaly.

Sirs, we dare to assert that this is a monstrous anomaly, and, further, though commonly supposed to continue an immemorable tradition, it is really an immense innovation on all systems of hitherto existing order. It is an anomaly which of itself suffices to explain much of the dangerous vulgarization of political ideal which has lately been noticed among us, much of the fashionable contempt which is beginning to be expressed for popular sovereignty. It is possible for a sovereign to have defects, vices, and still retain respect. But the suspicion of a base birth or an illegitimate origin suffices to cover him with ignominy. Until now the exclusion of women from the sovereignty has been justified by the fear that their immense inferiority would infuse a contemptible weakness into the body politic. But today the one form of strength of which women are deprived is the very form which has ceased to be essential for the purpose. Necessary for pugilistic contests, which are forbidden by law, it is irrelevant to the qualifications of those who either administer or vote for a government founded on opinion. Conversely, uniform strength, which is so greatly needed in the counsels of the republic, "the reason firm, the temperate will, endurance, foresight, patience, skill," is adjudged by the highest authority to be the natural dower of thousands of women. Where, then, does the legitimacy of the sovereignty lie, with the thousands who have the power without the necessary qualifications, or with those other thousands who have the qualifications, but are forcibly excluded from the power?

If the right to rule has been removed from certain men on account of their inadequacy, it has been transferred to many and to such part of the human race as can, by strength of soul, make good its claim to such lofty right. Of such humanity we are a part. And while among those to whom at present is exclusively intrusted the power are thousands admitted on all sides to be unworthy of it there are among us thousands of women intrinsically fitted for those functions of citizenship which can only by an eclipse of political faith be despised.

Bearing Arms Not a Necessary Qualification.

Capacity to bear arms and fulfillment of military duty is not in the state of New York reckoned among the necessary qualifications of voters. Nor indeed has such capacity ever sufficed to confer a share in the sovereignty. The feudal knights of the middle ages exercised some sort of suffrage, but the men at arms who followed them to battle did not. There, as here, men over 45, the only sons of widows, teachers, clergymen, physicians, men affected with slight bodily infirmities, are exempt from military duty in the field, but are not therefore deprived of the right of suffrage at home. We do not live in the midst of an armed camp like France and Germany. We, like our English kindred, reserve our war forces for the day when they shall be really needed. During the interval we are an industrial community with a government of the people, for the people and by the people, a government professedly and actually founded on public opinion. Now that this stage in the evolution of modern societies has been reached it has become possible for women to demand their share also in the expression of the public opinion which is to rule. They could not claim this while it was necessary to defend opinion by arms, but this is no longer either necessary or expected. They could not even claim a place among the authorized factors of public opinion so long as, in the universal judgment of the world, women had no opinions and could have none worth having. But this is no longer believed. The moment, therefore, has at last arrived when, in an industrial society whose conflicts have become those of ideas, and whose arts the arts of peace, women may, with equal justice and decorum, come forward to claim a place among the other powers of the earth. Should war actually arise, the fact that the political action of women had been added to that of the noncombatant forces of society could surely do nothing to weaken the strength of the forces which were actually enlisted to fight.

We do not admit that exemption from military duty is a concession of courtesy for which women should be so grateful as to refrain from asking for anything else. The military functions performed by men, and so often perverted to most atrocious uses, have never been more than the equivalent for the function of child bearing imposed by nature upon women. It is not a fanciful or sentimental—it is an exact and just equivalent. The man who exposes his life in battle can do no more than his mother did in the hour she bore him. And the function of maternity persists and will persist to the end of time, while the calls to arms are becoming so faint and rare that twice since the Revolutionary war an entire generation of men has grown up without having heard them.

Why Should the Mothers of the State Remain Aliens?

If children are desired in households to make the happiness of their parents, none the less are they needed in the state, of which they are to become the citizens. Those therefore who bear and rear them do most certainly perform a social function and one of transcendent importance. All social events, all political action, converge ultimately upon these households and affect these children. How then can it be fitting that such political action, framed, as we know it to be, by the dictates of public opinion, should remain officially uninfluenced by the mothers of the state? How can it be just that those mothers themselves remain within the body politic as aliens—their will unrepresented their personalities nonexistent?

Today is certainly favorable to the treatment of women with kindness, consideration and even respect. The moment is, however, less propitious to the discussion of their rights, for all interest in the question of rights seems, for the moment, to have flagged. For the first time in 150 years there is a lull in the mighty series of conflicts which have been waging so successfully to secure human rights. The lull in the interest is chiefly due to the success of the struggle. So many rights have been conquered that it seems to many as if all had been gained. Worse, because some roseate hopes have been disappointed, we are sometimes told that nothing has been gained.

We are sometimes told that democracy is a failure; that universal suffrage is a curse; that the very conception of rights, conception the most powerful, the most majestic, the most awful which has ever dominated the world, is a mere abstraction, as useless as bodiless, a schoolboy sophism, a schoolgirl metaphor concocted to conceal a vacuum of thought. A little further, and we shall be told that our Revolutionary war was sordid; that the French revolution was the clamor of a drunken mob; that the revolution of 1848 was a mere paradox of metaphysicians, and the *emancipation of American slaves a gigan*tic mistake due to the blind recklessness of a victorious party!

When the thoughts of men have for the moment so generally declined to this dull level, it is well that they should have been suddenly uplifted again by the high errand of this convention. What is the right thing to be done? Whose rights may have been defrauded? How rights may in the future be better maintained? These are the very questions which are to absorb the energies and preoccupy the gravest of this deliberative body throughout the summer.

Suffrage Demanded as a Right.

Thus it is that, although we believe our demand to be fully in accord with public utility and to meet some of the most serious wants of the time, we should be false to our trust did we rest this claim primarily upon expediency. We hope to show that the concession of suffrage to women will be practically useful in innumerable directions, but we should unworthily belittle our case did we seek to introduce it on the ground that it could be made subservient to anything else. We demand the suffrage as a right, not in a metaphysical sense, but because we do fulfill all the essential conditions which the state has proclaimed necessary to qualify for the electorate. We demand it because today, and not a thousand years ago, because in the state of New York, and not in France or Germany or Austria, women are recognized by law and custom to be persons and to possess intelligence entirely equal to the average intelligence of those who already exercise the suffrage. We demand it on no new principle, but on the double principle which runs through all our institutions—namely, that all the intelligence in the state must be enlisted for its welfare, and that all the weakness in the community must be represented for its own defense.

There are women among us of intelligence, of wealth, of leisure, of high character, who only demand the opportunity to serve the state nobly, as they have already shown their ability to promote the welfare of the community in public affairs. And there are other women among us, hardworking, patient, industrious, who require the suffrage, and the opportunities of the suffrage, and the immense practical education of the suffrage, to enable them to better advance the interests of their own affairs. And there are poor and weak women among us, defenseless except so far as they may be touched by the occasional enthusiasm of philanthropy, who require the status of a definite representation—a medium through which they can make their wants known—which shall do for them as the suffrage alone has been able to do for other masses of the poor and weak—give them means to defend themselves, enable them to take the initial step in rising out of otherwise easily forgotten misery.

It is to these very poor and working women that objection is most often made when we demand equal suffrage, and when we embrace in our demand all classes of women—because the suffrage is now exercised by all classes of men. It is said that these women, adding an inherent weakness of sex to the weaknesses of ignorance and poverty, will be, even more than the men of their families, subject to corrupt influences, liable to be induced to sell their votes to the party or even to the private agents who will offer the highest price for them. It is even whispered that there is, in large cities, a class of women whose names dare not be mentioned out loud who would be solidly voted by the police, and that therefore all the honest and virtuous women of the state must remain disfranchised. Was ever such a covert insult offered to American womanhood?

We fully believe that the great reason why the lot of masses of toiling women is so miserable is because on the one hand women have never been accustomed to band together for self development and self protection, and on the other hand because women enjoying personal protection have not been accustomed to think of the affairs of masses of women and children as their especial concern. The assumption still holds in theory, though daily contradicted by facts, that all the concerns of women are adequately provided for by the solicitude of their family. Yet it is perfectly well known that society was obliged to enact laws to protect the women and children working in factories, not only against the greed of the employers of the enlightened classes, but against the brutal insistence of the husbands and fathers who tried to work them to death.

In theory, women are always protected at home. In fact, laws are constantly being required for their special protection. Why is it desirable to leave such legal or social protection to be secured, if at all, by tedious and roundabout methods, through petitions, through the efforts of other people, whose warmest enthusiasm can hardly ever equal the energy of those who speak for themselves? Why should not the women have the right to speak for themselves, and by their own mouths to make their own wants known?

Herein lies the true solution of the problem of the illiterate vote. The influence of the women who are now busily engaged in civilizing the hordes of unutilized people in our midst will be utilized not only to kindle the lagging interest of the men of their own class, but to so guide ignorant women voters that they could be made to counterbalance, when necessary, the votes of ignorant and interested men. Here is a broad channel for the missionary enthusiasm of women, now too often allowed to run to waste in the sands of foreign heathendom. Success in such direction is rendered possible by the secrecy of the ballot, which the persistent efforts of public spirited men have secured. Every effort to improve the purity of the ballot facilitates the participation of women in the suffrage. It is an omen of splendid augury that this very committee before which our amendment is brought is also charged with the grave duty of devising measures for the better protection of the ballot. We could ask no better introduction to the voters of this state for the cause of equal suffrage than such intimate, such inseparable association with the cause of purity of the suffrage.

The Opponents of the Movement.

In bringing this cause of equal suffrage before this convention we are supported by the approval of thousands of men and women. Confessedly, however, the demand does not receive unanimous support. Did it do so it would be irresistible, while we are aware that the success of our petition is trembling in the balance. But a unanimous demand would also be unprecedented to the point of the miraculous.

Not all who fail to support us are to be counted among our really obstinate opponents. There are many who applaud the participation of women in public affairs, but who maintain that they have done such good work without the ballot it is useless to confer this upon them. This view is too inconsistent to deserve commentary. More solid is the objection of those who distinctly dislike the participation of women in public affairs. There are thousands who still maintain the immemorable tradition that the world is destined to remain forever divided into two great classes—the men to go out in the world, the women to stay at home within the house. They confound the historic origin of conditions with the permanent law of conditions. They are so pleased with women in their differentiation from men that they dread any change which may seem to approximate them to men. To apply to the case of women the same ideas of rights, the same measure of liberties, the same rules for activities, which they accept for men, seems to such minds almost blasphemous and revolting alike to the most elementary instinct and to the most obvious common sense.

We certainly do claim, however, that women, however physically different, are mentally and morally not essentially different from men; that the differences in faculty which exist are in degree and quantity and not in kind; that it is the overwhelming preoccupation with physical, to the exclusion of mental, conditions which has led to such a solid system of beliefs about women as the last half century, through multiple practical experience, has shown, very simply, to be untrue. The distance today between the estimate of women in the minds of those who oppose and of those who favor their enfranchisement is infinitesimal compared with the distance which has been traversed on the subject by all men since 1846.

There are some undesirable peculiarities about women, due to special conditions of circumstance, training and environment, which would tend to disappear where changes in such environment were conducive to the greater development of strength. This indeed is the fundamental reason for desiring such changes, since no living creature or class of creatures can have a more fundamental desire than the just desire to grow—to become more effective in whatever is given them to do. There are other peculiarities about women which are, on the contrary, most desirable to conserve, and which nature cannot fail to conserve and even intensify, with every increase in development and opportunity. All such qualities originate in and center round the function of maternity, the special relations of women to their children, the special protection due to the mother from the father of their children, and which justifies a correlative degree of individual subordination. The laws of New York as they stand today or establish with great clearness these complex relations of women. They are accorded their individual rights and responsibilities as persons, and the right and responsibility to guard the persons and the inheritance of their children. They are given a right to maintenance to the extent to which their own industrial capacity is assured by the care of their children, and in view of this they are constrained to follow their husband's domicile so long as he acquits himself of his own responsibility.

We do believe that this special relation of women to children, in which the heart of the world has always felt there was something sacred, seems to impress upon women certain tendencies, to endow them with certain virtues which not only contribute to the charm their anxious friends fear might be destroyed, but which will render them of special value in public affairs. Their conservatism, their economy, their horror of waste, their interest in personal character, the very simplicity of their judgment, their preoccupation with direct and living issues, are all qualities generated by the special circumstances which have surrounded women and must continue to surround them. These cannot be broken down by the fact of sharing the suffrage, for they lie far deeper than any political condition. They exist in the very nature of things.

A single phrase, often but none too often repeated, sums up this aspect of the case. To the extent to which women resemble men they require the same liberties; to the extent to which they differ they require their own representation, and the state requires their special influence. Under the new regime of universal manhood suffrage the state has become like a mining camp on the frontier. We claim that it should be reconstituted as a household, where, if man is at the head for the protection and the defense, woman shall have her equal place as the mother, the daughter, the caretaker, the administrator, the conserver. We do not propose after all to change the existing sphere of women. Political status reflects and sanctions social change. It cannot create it. Political activities may become an occupation, but not political rights. How many women would engage in politics were they so empowered, how many would accept offices were they elected, it is impossible to foresee, and it is asbolutely useless to discuss. We are not here to seek privilege for a few, but equal opportunity for all. We are not here to demand the maximum responsibilities in the gift of the state, but only the minimum rights. If women engage today in a hundred pursuits outside their households, it is not the suffrage which is the cause of this, for they do not possess the suffrage. The same causes, industrial and intellectual, which have led to a social expansion which is almost a revolution, will continue to operate, but the suffrage, while it will not weaken, can hardly intensify their influence. Women will not be sent into a new place by possession of the ballot. Like men, they will vote in the places where they already stand—in the mart, the factory, the place of business, but also in the schoolroom, the library, the hospital and far more often than all, in the household. If in capacity, taste and opportunity women have in this half century approximated toward the capacities of men, it is not in order to be men that they now desire to vote. It is because they are, and are fully satisfied to be, women.

Half Hearted Friends.

Because they are women, and yielding, and ready to give way to others, the friends of this cause have been beset not only by its opponents, but many half hearted friends. "Your demand is just," these say, but it should not be made at this time. The times are too critical. There are too many things must be done first.

Is not this to say that political rights may be demanded only when political life shall have ceased to exist?

This request to delay, this specious appeal to the disinterestedness of women, is the same dangerous compliment proffered in 1867 by Horace Greeley on behalf of the negroes, and a few years ago by Mr. Gladstone to the women of England on behalf of home rule.

Whoever, intrenched in an accorded privilege, ever regarded the claims of those outside as other than unimportant, insignificant, visionary?

The time to press the demand for a right is that when some one has been found to voice the demand. Since 1848 there have not been lacking women—women like Mrs. Stanton and Lucy Stone—who passed from abolition conventions to the legislatures of their own states, there to urge the claims of equal suffrage. There have not been lacking women who have worked as persistently—and, in comparison with the opportunities afforded, as greatly—for the enfranchisement of their sex as O'Connell worked for the liberties of Ireland or Mazzini for those of Italy.

All the reforms in the legal position of women and much of their educational advancement have been due to the impulse given by the women who were working for the suffrage, and to them also is indirectly due much of the industrial emancipation.

A Preposterous Theory.

Still all women do not demand the suffrage. We are sometimes told that the thousands of women who do want the suffrage must wait until those who are now indifferent or even hostile can be converted from their position.

Gentlemen, we declare that theory is preposterous. The bugbear that women in voting would band together as a class should be sufficiently dissipated by the fact that even now, when a most distinctly class issue is presented, since it affects the disabilities of all women, women are not a unit in their opinion upon it. So great is the mental isolation engendered in a class politically nonexistent that many women profess even now never to have thought of the franchise. Others, educated in a lifetime of indifference to public affairs, remain absolutely indifferent. Others, accustomed to defer to masculine opinion, submit at the first breath of ridicule from masculine friends. Others, believing themselves independent thinkers, yet fall an easy prey to the first sophism spread for innocent and unwary feet. Others, sincerely alarmed at any innovation of existing order, content with their own lives and with things as they are, shrink from the suggestion of change and dread the unknown. Men have often resisted the demand for the enfranchisement of other men. It is no miracle, therefore, that women resist a similar demand for women.

In the Ultimate Interest of All Women.

We believe that the suffrage is in the ultimate interests of all women, as it has been of all men, but we do not expect all women, just now, to see this. If they did so even now, after 50 years' discussion, the benumbing mental effect of political nonexistence would be less demonstrated than it is.

The opposition to initiative is neither unprecedented nor inexplicable nor of any special significance. Such opposition of necessity disappears with the necessity for initiative and we have never doubted the natural conservatism of women. On the contrary, we have insisted upon it, and the marvel is that in the teeth of this immense conservative instinct and training so many thousands of women do now demand the apparent innovation of the ballot. But similarly the church, which 50 years ago was a unit in denouncing the public work of women, even for the slave, is now divided in its counsels. If, in this capital of the state, the church frowns on our claim, in the metropolis this claim has received the eloquent and outspoken support of the clergy of all denominations, and few have openly opposed us.

But suppose it is urged that the votes of some women, ignorant, weak and intrinsically indifferent unless influenced by hope of private gain, were brought up by the leaders of a party, who would thus secure an unfair advantage of the other party whose women declined to vote? The first remedy is simple and would be then near at hand—call out the vote of such other women. Indifference would be converted into enthusiasm so soon as a practical issue were to be met. And such issues, by our annual elections, are not raised oftener than once a year. The second remedy is already at hand, or rather the necessity for it is, and is the urgent question of the hour, and before this very convention, this very committee. Render corrupt voting impossible. Prevent, for the salvation of the republic, the purchase of the venal ballot. Though it be secretly whispered, it dare not be openly affirmed and recorded in the legislation of the state, that a demand for franchise was refused because corruption at the polls had become a recognized, a permanently tolerated institution.

Finally, gentlemen, we are aware that with you does not rest the final responsibility of this great question. It is indeed a question too momentous to be decided by a body of 200 men, however wise and learned and patriotic. You do not assume to so decide it. Your mandate is not intrusted to you for that purpose.

Qualifications for the franchise, for the dignity of full citizenship, for a right to a share in the sovereignty, can only be decided by the whole people, who are already sovereign. Bring this question, we entreat you, before them. Let it be discussed for the next five months, not only in your councils, but throughout the length and breadth of the state. To submit this question to the people does not irrevocably engage the responsibility of the convention. To refuse to submit it is to assume the responsibility of deciding the whole question without the vote of the people. In 1867 this question was buried by an adverse committee, but the people subsequently buried all the work of the entire convention at the polls.

Should in November a popular vote be taken—whether it prove favorable to our cause, as in Wyoming and Colorado, or adverse, as in Rhode Island and Dakota—and prove adverse to the amendment, we shall bow, as is inevitable, to the popular will; we shall withdraw and bide our time for another 20 years, when once more we or our survivors or our successors will present themselves before a new constitutional convention to prefer—and then successfully—our claim.

MAGIC IRON-TONE

For Nerve, Brain and Blood.

MAGIC IRON-TONE is an ideal summer drink. Served at fountains with soda it is incomparable. It must be remembered that the average summer drink is just so much syrup and water, having no medicinal properties, and which only serves to provoke instead of to assuage thirst. But MAGIC IRON-TONE not only quenches thirst, it gratifies the longing for "something that will go to the spot;" it sparkles and bubbles along the palate and the throat; it gratifies the parched stomach and immediately clears the films from the brain. It dispels the despondent, depressed feeling inseparable from weariness and overwork; it lightens the load the system seems to be carrying, causes the eye to flash, the mind to spring into activity, and the nerves and muscles to jump from a flaccid to an elastic condition.

MAGIC IRON-TONE EXTRACT FOR HOME USE.
25 CTS. A BOTTLE.
One bottle makes thirty-five Delicious Drinks when prepared as per directions, and served with Ice Water or Ice Cold Carbonic Water.
SUPERIOR AS A BEVERAGE TO ROOT BEER
And prepared with less trouble. Ask your Druggist for it.

MAGIC IRON-TONE is especially recommended for Brain-Fag or Mental Exhaustion, Nervousness, Physical Weakness, as in convalescence, or from Excesses, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Mal-assimilation, Night Sweats, Insomnia, Gravel, etc.

Nursing Mothers will find it a True Tonic, not beneficial to themselves alone, but also to their offspring. Bottles for home use, 25c.

THE OVERTON CLAIM.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHTED 1894 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER XVIII.

When Dare had been 10 days at Exeter, it seemed to her that years lay betwixt her and the old colorless life. The day but one after Jubilee's warning she had found a line, likewise ambushed in field flowers, upon her dressing table, which said:

"Keep a stout heart. There is no danger yet that the old tree will be cut down."

There was neither date nor signature, but none was needed to tell her whence it came. Intuitively she knew that her message had gone straight to Allen Fauntleroy, and this was his answer. Trusting in him, her heart was at rest. She could let herself be amused with what went on about her; could laugh in girlish mirth over Holtham's droll stories; listen unwearedly to all her aunt could tell her of dead and gone Dares, who once had ruffled it with the best; freeze Hawkins utterly upon the rare occasions when he ventured to address her—above everything, sun her vanity in the light of Royal Cleve's eyes.

Though all untaught, she was wise enough, woman enough, to know that she attracted him as perhaps no other had ever done. No day shone but brought him to Exeter. Often indeed midnight struck ere he took himself away. In spite of all, though, his wooing made scant headway. Often upon the homeward way Mr. Cleve swore roundly at himself as both fool and coward thus to falter and stand abashed before this girl, who had no arts of fence save those of nature's providing.

It was ridiculous, worse, he told himself, that he, who had made love half the world over, who had been courted and caressed by dark women and fair, for whom more than one beauty had dimmed her sweet eyes, should find himself thus taken aback by this slip of a girl, whose guard of delicate haughtiness he could neither pass over nor break down. A hundred times he had begun to tell his love outright; as many times his speech had been deftly turned aside or passed over as a jest.

This must not be, could not, should not endure. Aside from his own headlong passion, there was Hawkins in the background, inexorably urging him to "make hay while the sun shone" and hinting more than darkly the dangers of delay. He must speak out, speak at once, and under such conditions as to make refusal out of the question.

Hawkins easily supplied them. Upon his motion, Mrs. Townley agreed that all her household should go for a day's excursion into the heart of the disputed iron tract, where work had so long ceased that for the most part everything was picturesquely ruinous. It was a region of steep, thickly wooded hills, seamed through and through with hollows so dark and narrow that in them midday was as twilight. A labyrinth of paths and cartways ran hither and yon, many overgrown to the merest trace, others showing still scant signs of use by the hill folk, squatters whose cabins clung here and there to a hillside or sent blue thready smoke up from some darkling hollow.

Once all the region had been alive with noise of axes cutting timber for the charcoal pit, ring and rattle of chain, hoof, wheel, shouts from hill to hill, singing and laughter of oremen working at the breasts in full daylight. The old folk remembered it well. They had told the younger ones over and over of the good old times when work and money were plenty, when iron, king of metals, went out and came back silver and gold. What wonder if the remnant who clung still to the tract, getting a bare subsistence as best they might, sighed for the good times gone, the friends who went with them, or that their sons, trained in penury's hard school, were easily stirred to anger against the man who, they were told, stood needlessly betwixt them and the return of that golden age?

No such thought, such knowledge, came to Dare as she rode through the sylvan maze with the tall handsome stranger close at her bridle rein. All the party were on horseback, and as soon as they were well within the hills Hawkins and Cleve had fallen to disputing as to which was the better, more picturesque route to the old forge, the day's appointed rendezvous. Both had recently spent days there in exploration, and each contended stoutly for the way of his choice. Dare herself had settled the matter by saying, with a delicious smile:

"There is nothing for it but to divide and conquer both routes. Aunt Mel, we will go with Mr. Cleve. Mr. Hawkins can take Mr. Holtham and Patsey and the dinner, and we will see who gets there first and easiest."

"Just what I was about to propose," Cleve said, with a quick flash of the eye. Mrs. Townley demurred.

"I'm afraid to risk it," she said, shaking her head. "This is a fearful place to get lost in. You might wander for days on one hill of these coalings and never find your way out. I am sure Mr. Cleve thinks he knows the way perfectly, but I had rather trust Mr. Hawkins."

"Well, I had not," Dare said willfully. "Come, Patsey. We will follow him, Aunt Mel, if we hear you crying in the wilderness, we will come and find you."

"That we will," Cleve said triumphantly, touching his hat to the others and turning the horses' heads into a track running almost at right angles to that they had been following. A little way farther it climbed a sharp hill, which Patsey's mule utterly refused to breast, though he showed by turning completely around that he was willing enough to rejoin the other party.

Patsey looked at the couple in front of her rapidly vanishing over the hill's crest, saying to herself:

"Spec dem two be much better pleased 'dout me 'an wid me. Anyway I'm gwine back. Miss Dare des called me ter keep dat man f'm sayin she want him fer court her, when de good Lord knows hit 'pear lik' he des er dyin ter do hit, an I gwine gib 'im one chance of he don't nebber git no yuther one."

With that she trotted back, following leisurely the track of the other party, and so it came about that when, an hour later, Dare drew rein after climbing along a sharp hill she found herself in its high solitude alone with Royal Cleve.

Upon the very crest of it a little clearing made a sunshiny cup in the dark forest. On one hand the ground fell so sharply away that through the rift in the trees you could see miles and miles of woodland ridges lying all summer fair in the shimmering heat, with lappings and foldings of palest soft haze along the far-fading lines that ran down to the river's brink. A wild world it seemed, full of savage, untouched beauty. Dare studied it long and earnestly, then took away her eyes, with a shiver, saying:

"One might fancy all the giants of the fairy tales were dead and buried here under these long leafy graves."

Royal Cleve caught the hand that lay lightly upon her pommel, laid his lips upon it and said in a shaken voice:

"Dare, darling, is not a living lover worth as much in your eyes as a dead giant?"

"It depends," Dare said breathlessly, reining her horse away, a quick flush staining her neck and brow.

In a flash Cleve was beside her, but said, not attempting to touch her:

"It depends upon what, Miss Overton? Nothing impossible, I hope?"

"Upon who he was, whether I cared for him and the way he told his love," Dare said spiritedly. "I am sure I should not care what befell him if he took advantage of—of—circumstances to thrust unwelcome declarations upon me."

"Ah! Then they are unwelcome now! Will they always be so?" Cleve asked quietly, with a dark flush rising in his cheek.

Dare looked him full in the eyes and said slowly:

"I hardly know what you mean, or that you mean anything. Let us agree that you do not, Mr. Cleve. It is a pity that anything should come up to spoil the day's pleasure for either of us."

"But I do mean something, mean that I love—that I am mad about you, as I have been about no other woman alive. Ever since I saw you I have tried to tell you so. You slipped away from the subject—laughed at, flouted me until in very desperation I am forced to speak here, to take the 'advantage of circumstances' that you fling in my teeth. Dare, Dare, be pitiful, be kind, for your own sake even more than mine!" the young man entreated, sinking from anger to pleading.

A fine faint scorn touched Dare's lips as she answered:

"I have been taught, Mr. Cleve, that in matters of this sort a woman's will is always a gentleman's pleasure. Believe me, it is my will that the subject be never again mentioned between us. Oblige me now, please, by riding on. I am anxious to get back to my aunt, whom I acknowledge I should never have left as I did. No doubt you mistook me, thought that that licensed you to speak as—as you have done. I pray you to pardon me if I misled you and take me back at once."

"I will some day," Royal Cleve said, speaking through hard set teeth.

CHAPTER XIX.

Side by side, with set faces, with burning eyes, neither speaking a word, those two rode for hours through the heart of the wilderness, threading dark hollows where the fern either side of the single track brushed the saddle skirts with rank green fronds; skirting perilous hillsides, where a single misstep might send you instantly to rocky deeps below.

A cloud had risen and veiled the sun. Low mutterings of thunder came up from the south. The wind sank to fitful gasps sobbing through the tree tops. Not a bird sang. A curious resonant stillness lay over and possessed the world.

At length Dare stopped her horse short, saying:

"Surely, Mr. Cleve, you have missed the way! You said we could easily get to the old forge by 12 o'clock. It must be near 2 now, and I see no sign of it."

"Don't you? Look ahead there to the left," Cleve said, indicating with his whip an opening at one side of the road. Dare was inexpressibly relieved to see the looming outlines of a big weather stained building. Springing down before Cleve could swing himself from the saddle, she flung the reins loose upon her tired horse's neck and ran forward, calling eagerly:

"Aunt Mel, Aunt Mel, did you think we were lost? I am sure we have been, though Mr. Cleve would not say so."

The noise of hoofs made her turn suddenly to see Cleve lash both horses so sharply that at once they dashed away into the dim woods beyond.

"Why did you do that? What do you mean?" cried Dare, now thoroughly aroused. Cleve stood with folded arms, looking at her from under darkling brows.

"Oh, nothing!" he said quietly. "Come, let us look for our friends."

Dare darted before him into the open door, to find herself facing vacancy in a huge desolate room, where for more than 20 years the spiders had been spinning undisturbed their tapestry of ruin.

"Why, they have gone and left us! We must follow them at once," she said, standing up very tall and straight, her eyes full of contemptuous light. Royal Cleve came close and said in a repressed voice:

"That will not be easy, for they have not been here."

"Where are they? Take me to them at once!" Dare said, with a little stamp of her foot. Cleve smiled faintly, saying:

"As nearly as I can estimate it, they are about leaving the old forge, 15 miles as the crow flies from where we stand, and 50 at least if you count hills and windings of the road."

Dare's heart gave a wild leap, but her blood, neither the brave Overton strain nor the hot tide of the Dares, had no taint of cowardice. Unquailing, she looked at the man who held her so entirely in his power and said, low and hard:

"So it is as I feared. You purposely misled me. May I ask what you hope or expect to gain by it?"

"The thing I care most for in all the world—yourself," Cleve said, drawing a pace away and continuing: "I do not say 'fear not.' I see there is no need for it. Upon my life, Dare, I never loved you so well as now, when I see of what superb mettle you are. Any other woman so placed would be vixenish or hysterical. You only look at me with the eyes of an insulted goddess. I am sorry, more than sorry, that you forced me to this extremity. You might have escaped it had you given me the merest shred of hope"—

"Excuse me. I must be going. I cannot listen longer," Dare said, making as if to pass him where he stood.

At once he stepped into the door, spread his arm across its space and said, with an undertone of thick tremor:

"Go back, Dare. Don't force me to touch you. Even if I let you pass, you would but go to your death. This place is the farthest of the outlying works. In the broadest daylight you would starve before you could find your way out. With night and storm approaching, you would indeed have small chance. Be assured, when we do not return, they will seek for us and find us tomorrow."

"When, I suppose, you think I will marry you?" Dare said, with cheeks aglow.

"You must. Your family will demand it," Cleve said, looking at her with kindling eyes.

For a minute Dare faced him in silence, then came close to where he stood and said, looking up at him with fearless eyes:

"Mr. Cleve, I never thought you a ruffian. Please show me that I was not mistaken by letting me pass."

Cleve caught his breath and said hurriedly:

"I cannot. I dare not. Don't you see it is too late? It would be madness to venture together even. I could not find the way back on foot. We must wait for rescue. It will surely come. Meantime let me make you comfortable as may be. Come, sit on this bench. There must be food and wine somewhere."

"Ah! You prepared for all this. It is like a romance," Dare said, walking away to the window at the room's far end and peering through its small dusty panes. Heavy wooden shutters hung flapping outside, the freshness of their inner surfaces showing that it was but a little while since they had been flung wide.

The sash likewise showed signs of recent opening. No doubt the place had been made ready for her detention in case she dared to balk the conspiracy against her house, for conspiracy it must be. This man would surely never have dared to offer her so great, so terrible an affront had he not felt sure that his villainy would be glossed over until it could be effectual. Clearly Hawkins was in league with him. He would delude her aunt into letting him head the search and so manage that they should be found exactly as had been planned. Even had she felt fear, the flame of anger in her must have burned it away. In the strength of it she felt able and willing to defy the conspirators, the elements, the wrath of heaven itself.

The clang of the door made her turn to see Royal Cleve carefully barring it in place.

"It's coming on to rain and blow," he said. "This old barrack will be damp enough at best. I must see to it that it gives you all the shelter possible."

Without speaking, Dare unfastened the belt of her heavy riding skirt, dropped it upon the floor and stood revealed in a close frock of dark wool that came just to the instep. Still in silence she went up to the rough table, where some food had been spread, and though all unconscious of hunger forced herself to eat.

Cleve looked at her, half in compassion, wholly in worship, but came no nearer than the door, against which he still leaned. After a little he said:

"Dare, if you do not, cannot love me, I wish I had never seen you. I know what I am doing—how intolerably vile it all is. With you in the balance, the shame, the vileness has not a feather's weight. Tell me now truly, do you love any other man?"

Dare's only answer was a quick, scornful look. She went on eating, swallowing slowly and with such evident difficulty that Cleve came forward, saying:

"Will you drink a little wine?"

Dare shook her head.

"No," she said. "Conspirators stop at few things. I know you do not mean to harm me bodily, but drugs are potent, and I have no doubt you would like to keep me quiet until tomorrow."

In spite of himself Cleve's eyes fell.

"There is no harm in the wine," he protested. "I will drink with you if you doubt it."

"I will take your word for it," Dare said. "In return, as I really am very thirsty, will you not let me go outside for water? There must be a spring close at hand."

"I will show it to you if you will take my arm," Cleve said, unfastening the door and waiting for her beside it. "We must hurry," he went on. "The storm is almost upon us. We shall barely have time to go and come before it breaks."

Holding Dare's hand close to his side, he led the way to where a cold stream gushed from under mossy rocks at foot of a huge hill. The house they had just quitted stood at the head of a long valley, narrow, winding and crisscrossed with the stream that here had head. This had been the storehouse and superintendent's quarters. Lower down came the furnace itself, the stack of it fallen half way, the sheds and outbuildings utterly ruined.

Dare glimpsed it all faintly through gaps in the thick growth about her. Cleve took a silver drinking cup from his pocket, filled it from the spring's head and placed it in her hand, saying:

"Pardon me that I did not think of this sooner. I shall not soon forgive myself, though, for letting you go thirsty with water so close at hand."

Dare dropped on her knees beside the well head, flung off her hat and said coldly:

"Stand back a little, please. I want to bathe my face."

Cleve drew a little away, but kept his eyes full upon her, while with quick, impatient motions she dashed the water hither and yon. At last he said courteously:

"Pardon me, but really we must get to shelter. It has begun to rain."

Dare got slowly to her feet, took up her hat in one hand and walked toward him. Just at his side she dropped it, apparently by accident. A gusty wind caught it and sent it whirling along the path. Instinctively Cleve darted after it, caught it 20 yards away and turned to find himself alone. Dare had vanished as if by magic.

BURNING, itching, scaly, crusty Skin Diseases, such as defy the ordinary blood medicines, are cured completely by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Scrofula in all its various forms, the worst Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, great eating Ulcers, and every blood-taint and disorder, this is a direct remedy.

It thoroughly purifies and enriches your blood.

Alexander, N. C.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir —Your "Golden Medical Discovery" has proved a blessing to me. It was recommended to me by Rev. P. A. Kuykendall. I have been a sufferer with old sores on my legs for four years. I used three bottles of it, and my legs are sound and well and my health is better than it has been for some time. I had the best doctors of this country treat my case and they failed to effect a cure.

Yours respectfully,

There's nothing SO GOOD AS Cottolene

The new vegetable shortening. Wherever introduced, it drives lard from the kitchen, and indigestion from the household. It has been tried by every test, and has met every requirement. It is as much superior to lard as the electric light is to the tallow-dip. The only question now is, will you give your family the benefits which its use bestows?

There's nothing LIKE Cottolene

In composition, in healthfulness, in flavor, or in economy. Its success has called out a lot of imitations and counterfeits made for the sole purpose of selling in the place and on the merits of Cottolene. Avoid them all. They are made to sell and they are a sell. Get the genuine COTTOLENE.

Don't Hesitate, but Call and Be Convinced That Every Statement We Make Is True.

To those who do not already know that there is established in Newark, at 105 Halsey street, a physician who stands in the foremost rank of his profession, who is indorsed by the leading colleges of the country and who can prove by witnesses right here in Newark (not by one, but by hundreds) that he has succeeded in curing cases that have been utterly given up by other physicians, and good ones, too. To those who do not these facts we state that any person, rich or poor, old or young, is welcome here and receive examination and advice free of charge.

Thousands praise the day they came to us for treatment. There is no guess work, no experimenting, no painful operation. No matter how difficult the case, no matter how much of the physician's time it may consume, the diagnosis will not only be thorough, it will be absolutely free. There is no taint of quackery or deception; no claim or statement is made that is not borne out by facts and living witnesses.

Mrs. Abby A. Ray, late of 86 Grove street, East Orange, who now lives at 400 Ellmore street, Escanaba, Mich., writes, under date of January 12: "The medicine arrived this morning and I am so glad it came. I am almost out, and it has helped me so much and I am so much pleased with its wonderful effort on my broken down system that I would like to testify to your great success in my case. I am feeling as well now, in fact better, than I had ever hoped to again."

This is one of many letters that we receive daily. We have the originals at our office and if you wish you may see them. Another thing: We never publish or reveal a patient's name unless they so desire.

DR. STARKWEATHER.

There is not a penny to pay for the fullest medical advice. Dr. Starkweather is a graduate of the Berkshire Medical College, Massachusetts, and of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; endorsed also by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and Bellevue Medical College of New York. We invite all sufferers from whatever cause to call at our office, No. 105 Halsey street, Newark, where Dr. Starkweather is in attendance daily to give examination and advice entirely free of charge. It matters not what the disease, or how many years you have suffered, in spite of means adopted in your behalf, a visit to this office and the privileges of the same will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving your life. We prepare all our medicines and prescribe the remedies indicated. This plan enables the patient to receive directly from us such remedies as will produce the results promised.

Our office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays 4 to 6 p. m.

Those living at a distance can consult the Doctor by letter.

Send or call for our Book of Testimonials.

R LAW AND ORDER.

...NEN ORGANIZES AGAINS SABSECRATION.

...ding Men of the Borough Determined to Stamp Out Lawlessness—Illegal Liquor Sellers Beware.

In accordance with notices issu...d calling together the citizens of Dunel...n and New Market, who would be interested in movement tending to suppress ...e violation of the laws of the State, a...ut 30 citizens came together Thursday evening in Lincoln Hall, Dunellen. The meeting was called to order by Rev. A. I. Martine, who on motion was made chairman. H. Gaskel was chosen secretary. The object of the meeting was briefly stated by Mr. Martine. It was to consider whether the citizens of the borough were willing to allow the violations of the law on the part of men who took for granted that they could do as they pleased. Mr. Martine called attention to some of the disgraceful scenes that had been witnessed in the borough within the past few weeks, the legitimate outcome of such open violation of law.

Remarks were called for and Rev. Frank Fletcher, A. A. Lake and others gave their opinion in no undecided manner.

Among the suggestions of Mr. Fetcher was the forming of a law and order league. This plan was immediately accepted by the audience and a motion was made that such an organization be formed. After a lengthy discussion participated in by Pastors Fletcher, Kinsey, Martine, and Messrs. Lake, Gaskel, Pierce, and others, the question was called for. The chairman asked for a rising vote, and the motion was carried unanimously.

The question was then asked "How shall we organize?" It was answered by Mr. Martine, who submitted to the meeting for consideration a constitution and by-laws. These were read by the chairman and a motion was made to proceed the adoption of the constitution subjected. The motion was carried.

The constitution was then taken up and adopted seriatim, after which it was adopted as a whole, together with the by-laws.

A motion was then made that those who were willing to subscribe their names to the constitution adopted sh...ld give the same to the secretary. The motion was carried and the names of the following were received: Rev. A. I Martine, Rev. Frank Fletcher, Rev. W. C Kinsey, A. A. Lake, M. L. Rarick, Fowler Vail, Robert Pierce, Frank Humpston W. R. Roelfson, T. C. Bodine, Asa Merrall, Thomas Todd, J. C. Davis, James Touzeau, Charles Wyhusky, John P. Apgar, Jacob Fisher, W. W. Walters, John Kendy, H. C. Gaskell, Frank Wyncoop and George Apgar.

The meeting then proceeded on motion to the election of officers with the following result:

Chairman—A. A. Lake.
First Vice-president—Thomas Todd.
Second Vice-president—H. C. Gaskell.
Secretary—Frank Humpston.
Treasurer—Fowler Vail.

It was moved and carried that the chairman appoint a committee of three to make choice of counsel for the league and present his name at the next meeting for approval. Those appointed were Thomas Todd, Robert Pierce and John P. Apgar.

On motion the secretary was ordered to have 500 copies of the constitution printed and placed in the hands of the members for distribution.

The meeting then adjourned to meet in the same place Thursday evening, July 5, at 8.

PROFIT, $464.

Tableaux Phantasma Netted That for Muhlenberg.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—At the regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, June 29, which was the first session since the Tableaux Phantasma, the ladies voted their sincere thanks to every one who in any way so kindly assisted in the preparation and execution of this entertainment. Without their aid, we should not have been enabled to realize the net receipts of $463 93, which is greatly needed at the present time. Mrs. T. H. TOMLINSON, Recording Secretary.

Netherwood Postal Affairs.

For the second time within a month the question of free delivery is being urged by a resident of Netherwood, although positively refused not later than a month ago by the postal authorities in Washington. Some few want a delivery, but when on investigation it is found that the mail is delivered at Netherwood post office three times a day and if any of the residents living there desire to send a letter off they can do so with a certainty of its going, instead of having to wait for the morrow's mail, the majority are satisfied and want matters as they are. The convenience of the post office is one unquestioned by almost all in the neighborhood.

Borough Realty Changes.

The following transfers of real estate are recently recorded from North Plainfield:

Mercy Ann Thorn to August Deibel, $6,500.
August Denbel to Charles Bock, $6,000.
Andrew Lutkins to The Trustees of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church at Plainfield, $400.
Lewis M. Codington to Corra Ryan, $800.
Della Casey to Mary Wyckoff, $1.

June's Record.

This month will go on record as the hottest June in twenty years. It has been so hot that it has melted the frieze off many marble structures. It hasn't in the least, however, affected the everabiding fact that the most reliable place in town for good watch and clock work is at Collier's, 3 Park avenue.

—The Park Club will surpass itself in its Fourth of July display.

CYCLING COMMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—At a meeting of the Excelsior Cycle Club of 1786 Broadway, New York, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the Excelsior Cycle Club extend a vote of thanks to the cycling clubs and residents along the line of the Newark-Asbury Park Century run for their very welcome reception and hospitality shown to the members of our club, who will ever remember the kind and generous treatment by the residents of that portion of New Jersey.

Respectfully,
J. H. BRANTH, M. D.,
C. N. CAMP,
WM. WUNSCH,
Committee.

The storm early this morning damaged the Crescent track on the side opposite the grand-stand so that the men in training could not go all the way around. A force of men began repairs again at 7.

The current issue of The American Wheelman contains a picture of Secretary Teel of the Crescents with words of praise for the track and the management.

Overcome by the Storm.

Farmer Adams drove from the valley to Plainfield this morning. Near the mountain he saw a large bird on a fence. It was apparently exhausted and Mr. Adams chased and caught it.

He brought it to town and give it to H. L. DeMott to exhibit in front of his furniture store on Somerset street. From tip to tip of wings it measures 5 feet and 9 inches. According to the popular opinion it is a turkey buzzard.

One Day's Catch.

J. Hervey Doane and his esteemed friend Calvin Atwood tried fishing in Tier's Lake, Friday. They succeded in landing a very large eel with a net, but it took the two to do it. Being old-time fishermen they did not care to bring it home, so gave it to a deserving boy whom they met.

FANWOOD FIREBUGS.

ALLEGED CONFESSIONS FROM PLAINFIELD PRISONERS.

Adams, Shay and Shelly Turn State's Evidence Against Larry Wallace—Prosecutor Marsh Takes Their Statements.

William Adams, arrested for robbing and assaulting Mrs. Furey, a widow, in Fanwood, has turned State's evidence in another matter that he was mixed up in, and expects by doing this to have leniency shown him in the assault case.

Adams says that Lawrence Wallace, who is under sever...l indictments for burning buildings in Scotch Plains and Fanwood, is guilty of those crimes, and Adams is ready to go on the stand and testify to this effect. He was closeted yesterday with Prosecutor Marsh for an hour at the court-house, and was also confronted by Wallace and his lawyer and repeated before them his accusations against the alleged firebugs.

It is said the State will produce two other witnesses, Thomas Shelby and George Shay, of Fanwood, both of whom are alleged to be implicated with Adams in the assault on Mrs. Furey, and who are ready to give evidence against Wallace. They told Prosecutor Marsh substantially the same as did Adams.

The theory of the State was that the incendiary fires were the work of a gang operating in the village, and from the revelations made by the prisoners it looks as if the principal actors have at last been brought within the net of justice. The firebugs terrorized Fanwood for more than a year and destroyed about a dozen buildings.

AT REST.

H. A. Thorne, Jr.

The funeral services of Henry A. Thorne, Jr., were held in Mooer's Forks, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, and never had the little town witnessed such an affecting event. As a member of the Masonic fraternity, Mr. Thorne was well beloved, and he was buried with full Masonic honors. Representatives from Champlain, Saranac, Plattsburg, Chazie and Mooer's, numbering 150, were present. It scarcely seemed a grave that he was lowered into, for dear hands of those who loved him had lined the earth with evergreens and beautiful flowers, and the dust which filled the grave was mingled with the choicest roses. The floral offerings came from employer, employees and dear friends. A gerat anchor was from the mountain guides who loved and revered him, and who wept at his death. From the Lodge where he was manager was a beautiful wreath and from his employes a mass of cut flowers. The rooms were filled with flowers from relatives and dear friends, who testified by this bloom that his passing away was but a blossoming into a richer and sweeter life—a rest eternal.

WON BY C A. REED

Full Amount of Life Insurance Recovered.

The widow of John L. Spencer today received through Counselor Chas. A. Reed full payment of the $3,000 policy of the Citizens Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. On the death of her husband the company refused payment. Mr. Reed brought suit and won. The company appealed, and after another defeat carried the case to the Court of Appeals in Albany. Again Mr. Reed triumphed, and the company has now to pay all costs as well as the claim.

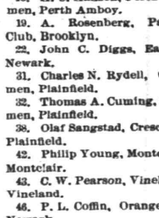
THE WORKING GIRL.

Miss Sallie Palmer Gives Some Suggestions to Girls About Backache, Faintness, and Dizziness.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Did you ever notice working girls on their way home from stores or factories?



Did you notice how many of them had pale cheeks, dull eyes, and heavy steps? and did you wonder why they were not ruddy and bright?

The story which is told by Miss Sallie Palmer, of Nicetown, Pa., gives the reason for this sad condition of many working girls.

Sometimes their back and sides will ache terribly. They are faint and dizzy with pain and weight in the lower part of their stomach. They watch the clock, and wish that the day would end, as they feel so ill and tired.

Standing all day, week in and week out, they have slowly drifted into woman's great enemy, displacement of the womb. That, or some other derangement of the organ, causes irregularity or suspension of the "monthly periods," bloating, flooding, or nervous prostration.

"Take warning in time," she says; "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the surest and safest remedy in the world for you."

THE NEED OF AN ACTIVE AGENT.

Pay a Salary to a Wide Awake Man to Look After the Town Interests.

"Everybody's business is nobody's business" is an old adage that applies very well to town booming. If every man is expected to look after the business of attracting the attention of outside capital to the town, he will be sure to depend upon his neighbor to do the work, with the result that o work will be done. Business methods are needed to build up a town the same as in other enterprises. Every board of trade should have a paid secretary whose business is to see that the town is well advertised, and that all inquiries concerning its advantages are answed promptly, courteously and intelligently.

Such a secretary may e secured for a moderate salary, especally if some bright young man is chosen who has other business that does not fully engage his time. In addition to conducting the ordinary business of the bord, the secretary will often hit upon very clever schemes for attracting attention to the town, and if he is particularly wide awake he will often, through the medium of the ever ready local press, start paragraphs about the town advantages that will be widely copied and meet the eyes of many who are looking for a place to locate. If there are certain industries the town is fitted for and is particularly anxious to acquire, the secetary may by investigating the subject learn where many of these industries is located and enter upon a campaign of missionary work by mail that will produce good results. For example, if the town is in the vicinity of large forests of valuable timber, a pamphlet describing the character of the timber, its cheapness and the ease with which it may be brought to the town by wagon or rail will often materially assist in securing planing mill, or a chair factory, or some other big manufactory that uses vast quantities of natural woods. With the board of trade's business in the hands of a paid employee, building up the place will be much more of a success than it will be if the board has no active head in its endeavor to secure the location of new industries.

A COMMON NUISANCE.

He Is In Evidence Everywhere, and He Is Known as the Croaker.

May the saints have pity on a town or city with a croaker in it! If it has two, three or half a dozen croakers living in it, it is to be commiserated that much more. The croaker comes in two arms—dead and alive. The croaker has moss on the north side of him, no matter whether the winter be mild or severe. The moss indicates nothing especially, except that he should be removed from the community at once. The croaker always views his own town from a pessimistic point of view. He has no word of praise for any one nor anything that tends to assist in the progress of the community. You tell a croaker that much is going to be done toward booming the town and exploiting its superior advantages, and he will say: "Well, you go ahead—advertise it, boom it. I'd like to see you do it," with a shrug of the shoulders. "You'll never boom this town."

The croaker is generally too lazy to labor under an impression. He may have made some money in his life, but he does not live—he simply exists. If he is in business and is asked to advertise, he says his goods do not need advertising, and besides he is located on a prominent corner, and everybody sees his goods as they pass. Yes, "as they pass," for they rarely go in. The croaker never gives his neighbor or fellow man credit for anything he accomplishes.

If you go to a local merchant and show him a plan or suggest to him an enterprise which if carried out will be of great benefit to all concerned and ask his co-operation, and he says: "Well, who is in this? Go and see the other business men, and if they go into it I may do so, too," look out for him. He may not be a croaker, but he has dangerous symptoms. He is vaccinated, and the probabilities are that it will take unless something is done for him. He needs a hypodermic injection of "enterprise" to cure him of the "follow your leader" habit. He is the first to expect benefits that accrue from the united efforts, energy and enterprise of others, but is the last to lend a hand. The croaker is a pusillanimous insignificant, inconsistent encumbrance.

Money Well Expended.

If you cannot spend $1,000 a week in advertising, spend $500. If you cannot spend so much, spend $100, and if your business will not allow more than $10 to be so invested, spend that. Do not say there is no use in advertising except in a large way. One might as well say that a 5 cent package of seeds from the florist will not grow as well as the same seed bought in bushel quantities. Have good seed and plant it in good soil. In other words, write a good advertisement and put it in a good paper.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Denied by Commissioner Farquhar.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 30.—World's Fair Executive Commissioner Farquhar denies the story telegraphed from London to the effect that W. Rowland Oliver, of London, had indicted the state of Pennsylvania and the managers of the World's fair for embezzling a portrait of William Penn, and that he holds the state of Pennsylvania as an accessory both before and after the act, as the "would-be beneficiary of the embezzlement."

BOSTON, June 30.—An immigration restriction league has been formed in this city. Several men of prominence are interested in the proposed work.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

CAN BE RELIED UPON.

When you start out on a Columbia, you come home on it.

The fact that it is impossible to ascertain the quality of a bicycle by a casual examination should be a sufficient reason for buying a wheel with a reputation.

There is no wheel that has been before the public so long, none that stands or ever stood so high, none so well guaranteed, none whose guarantee is so substantial and so liberally interpreted, none so safe to buy as a Columbia.

With Columbias listed at $125, few riders will be so unwise as to invest in lower grade bicycles.

USE THE EVER GLORIOUS.

A Big Fourth of July Celebration's Benefit as a Town Boomer.

A few hundred dollars judiciously expended by a small town or a few thousands by a small city, and the hearty co-operation of the citizens, fire department, military company and invited organizations will often result in a glorious celebration of the Fourth of July that will not only give a town an excellent advertisement, but will cause a large amount of money to come in from the surrounding country.

All the world loves a holiday, and a big celebration well advertised by the local and neighboring press will be the magnet that will invariably draw thousands of visitors and cause the loosening of thousands of purse strings.

The first thing for a town to remember when it purposes having a celebration is that nothing can succeed without thorough organization. The initial step is for several patriotic citizens to talk the subject over with merchants along the business streets. The next step is a well advertised mass meeting for the purpose of giving the project a thorough indorsement, discussing plans, electing officers and appointing committees.

The executive committee should consist of at least five bright, active, interested young men who are in hearty sympathy with the scheme and who are as full of "hustle" as a small cyclone and as full of snap as the biggest cannon cracker on the market. Such a committee will be able to do wonders with a subscription paper, and if its members once get their hands on a proper amount of the sinews of war they will be sure to arrange a programme that will wring the loudest kind of a scream from the American eagle.

There are many schemes that will draw a big crowd. A balloon ascension always proves a good card, and a patriotic Independence day speech never fails to draw a crowd when the orator enjoys a local reputation as an orator. Still another favorite and potent attraction is a big parade in which the police, military, fire department and visiting fire companies participate. Among the secondary attractions that could be easily secured are ball games, morning and afternoon, between the local nine and the nine of a rival town, or a bicycle race meet in which well known local riders and a few famous wheelmen from adjoining cities could be entered. The local wheelmen would gladly ride principally for the glory to be gained, and a liberal prize list would not fail to draw the attendance of the famous riders.

The expenditure of a few hundred dollars will provide fireworks enough to end the day in a blaze of glory.

IN THE INTEREST OF BEAUTY.

A Town Should Have Control of Planting and Pruning Trees.

Who is not interested in seeing our streets lined with rows of beautiful trees? What a boon their shade! Trees in a town often have a hard time of it. Poor soil and little or no attention do not conduce to strong and luxuriant growth. But in many towns and cities trees are made to flourish, showing that it is not an impossibility. It is hardly necessary to say that trees will not thrive unl[ess] treated with an intelligi[ent] regard of their requirem[ents]. property owners in front of his [and] retains full off limbs and as he sees fit, cannot improve. e entire control pruning of shade direction of some ledge of their re- long rows of verdure on thoroughfares.

ph Meehan, in a paper read Pennsylvania Horticultural some useful suggestions ng in towns. He says:

g or fall planting, it nce. Unless in locali- tural soil exists in its is better to dig out a of soil and fill in ith fr[esh] d earth. Rank manure should not be used at all, but that a year or more old, well decayed, may be mixed with the soil moderately, but good planters think it better that it be not in direct contact with the roots, so unmixed earth is first thrown in to cover the roots.

"It is well known good practice to do some pruning before planting. Just how much is determined by examining the roots. All trees lose more or less roots in digging. If but few are lost, but little pruning of the top is called for; if many are, a good deal of the top must come away. Nonattention to this is the cause of the loss of thousands of trees. Numerous branches make more mouths than the roots can supply, and the trees die. Do not be afraid of a good pruning of the top. There is another reason for pruning at planting. The trees may be unshapely, the branches too low or the top spindling. Pruning or cutting away of branches to remedy these defects aid the roots at the same time."

The Good Natured Newspaper Man.

A newspaper man, says an exchange, will sit up nights to write something kind about a fellow citizen to help him along, even when he may have no personal friendship for or interest in him, and will pay out good money to put his words into print after they have been written, yet the persons who are benefited seldom think of making a return, attributing the notice to their personal greatness. Ten chances to one they will send out of town for their next job of work, or will take it to an exclusive job shop under the impression of making a saving, or they will take it somewhere to offset a bad debt. But the newspaper man keeps right along looking pleasant and saying good things about everybody and spending more time to ascertain the particulars of what Mr. John Jones has done than would be required to write an article on the source of the Nile.

Model tenement houses have paid well in London. Sir Sydney Waterlow made the first experiment of the kind in 1860 when he built at his own expense four blocks in Work street, Finsbury. The buildings accommodated 80 families, or 400 persons, and such was their success that in three years, in conjunction with several friends, he started the Improved Industrial Dwellings company, of which he is chairman. That company has spent over £1,000,000 in the erection of dwellings on 45 estates in London. The dividend paid is 5 per cent, and the average rent of each room is 50 cents.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY.

Good Suggestions from a Well Informed Authority.

It pays to advertise. No sane person need be told that fact. The only remaining question is how to do it best. There is but a very slight division of opinion upon that subject so far as ordinary business enterprises go. The successful merchant or manufacturer depends upon the newspapers almost if not quite entirely, and he finds that money invested in that manner brings inevitably large returns. Naturally the heaviest of all advertisers are circus proprietors. One but needs to look at the advertising now being done by the Adam Forepaugh Shows. Just stop to consider for one moment that all that enormous amount of advertising, in the newspapers and upon the streets and the railroads, is done to get one day's business. No other business concern in America does so much advertising, and it follows as certain as does the setting of the sun in the West and the rising in the East, that no other concern does so much business—profits considered; still they recognize and acknowledge the fact that it is the newspapers that is the best of mediums. It can tell its readers just what they will see because they can learn from their newspaper exchanges just what the shows are in other cities before they come, and as the shows never under any circumstances divide or curtail their performances, the newspapers know and can tell their readers the plain truth. That is just what we like to have them do as the papers are all with us and say what is no more than the plain truth, that they really are the largest and best shows this or any other country has ever seen. It is some satisfaction to know that the biggest and best shows owe their magnitude, their success and their prosperity to printers' ink and they will still depend upon it to continue in the same work of well doing.

THE NEWSPAPER THE TRUE MEDIUM.

"It astonishes me to see people patronize all the catch-penny advertising schemes that come along"—said a well-known business man.—"Hotel blotters, pads, advertising frames and all sorts of quack allurements are held out to people by glib talkers who explain the great benefits to be derived from patronizing them. I would n't give a cent for any advertising of that kind and I never pay any attention to such things. The only legitimate and paying advertising medium for me is the newspaper. If you should lose your pocketbook containing a sum of money, would you expect to recover your property by advertising for it on a programme or blotting pad? No; you would go at once and place an advertisement in a newspaper that is read by the people. A rule that applies to a lost pocketbook advertisement applies with equal force to every other class of advertising. Get your wares, your propositions, your wants, before the reading people, and you are doing the best canvassing for customers that you possibly can. Money spent with these traveling advertising solicitors is simply money thrown away. That's all."

THE A. P. A. AND THE ROMAN CATHOLICS.

Frederic R. Coudert, the distinguished lawyer, writes in the July Forum on "The American Protective Association", characterizing it as an un-American, un-Christian, and unmanly venture, and expresses the opinion that the good sense of the American people will not long tolerate it. On the topic of the Catholics and the Public School he writes:

As to our common schools, true there is an honest difference of opinion among our citizens as to the proper way of conducting them. But as the majority of the people in every State is in favor of unsectarian public education, it is the height of absurdity to take that as the target for violence and oppression. When it is borne in mind that the Roman Catholics have spent millions and millions of money, for conscience' sake, in building schools that their children might not forget the faith of their fathers—a faith which if persevered in makes them honest, truthful, loyal citizens—does it not seem wicked as it is senseless to talk of menace on the part of Catholics against that system? Thus far, certainly, they have received but little aid from the State, and their magnanimous bearing, added to the great hardship which the system has entailed upon them, viz: payment for that education which many of them conscientiously refuse to receive, should entitle them to the warmest admiration and respect.

Some Queer Advertisements.

Today some of the most expensive advertising is to be found on the bulletin boards which are erected every place there is any probability of people seeing them. One firm who does this class of work considers $20,000 a small contract and will not paint a sign under $1,000.

It wasn't this kind of an artist, though, that was the author of a sign which swings in front of a store at Georgetown, Md.:

Born with a brain within a brain I can kure every kind of nisery in a short time with only the best erbs to be used.

Or that sign over a Chicago store which reads, "Pickles and New York Sunday papers," and which is only outclassed by one recently discovered in a Georgia village, which advertises, "Ax Handles, Ink, Pens and Cheese."

The efforts of a Berkshire farmer would also be a strange contrast to those usually seen on the bulletins:

Nottis—Know kows is alloud in these medders, eny man or women lettin thar kows run the rode wot gits into my medders aforesaid shall hav his tail cut of by me.

OBADIAH ROGERS.

The sign which sticks on the door of a Philadelphia store reading, "Ho Made Pies," and the barber shop in the same city which sails under the title of "G. Washington Smith, Tonsorial Abattoir," are in the same class.—Selected.

Our Beautiful Country.

The splendors of our inland scenery and the wonders of man's ingenuity are sources of American pride. Nowhere is a country more prolific of the beauties of nature or the marvels of the engineer's skill than in our glorious republic.

Taxes are but as a mite compared with the cost of the privileges which they insure to the average citizen were he to pay for them in any other way. The taxgatherer is a gentleman whose acquaintance should be cultivated.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement:

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a tooth pulled than to have an operation of the bowels.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering, and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,
